Title: COMMUNIST INFLUENCE IN RACIAL MATTERS

Character: INTERNAL SECURITY - C

DECLASSIFIED BY 60267NISEPTNF

Synopsis:

The CPUSA attempted to exert influence at the NCNP Convention in Chicago, Illinois, where Party strategy was directed by CP Public Relations Director ARNOLD JOHNSON. The convention was disrupted by a Black Caucus and the Party supported the demands of this group. In September, 1967, DANNY RUBIN, CPUSA Organization Secretary, in a report to the Party's Organization Commission said that it is indicated that Negro-white alliances must be on a new level of equality and he called for strengthening the Party among the Negro people. The Party, as of early October, 1967, was divided on the question of Black Power. CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT, Secretary of the Party's National Committee for Negro Affairs, delivered a major report on the Party's position on the Negro Question at a CP meeting in October, 1967, in which he examined what is new in racism, the current wave of Black nationalism, methods of struggle, and the Party's past and present role. Panel reports were given at the same meeting on matters such as Political Action in the Negro Community, Work in the White Community, Economic Problems of the Negro and Techniques and Tactics of Struggle. HENRY WINSTON, National Chairman of the Party, in November, 1967, issued a statement summarizing the conference at which LIGHTFOOT gave his report and called for a multi-billion dollar program to meet the needs of Black America. LIGHTFOOT's speech was issued in pamphlet form and the CPUSA has instructed all clubs to purchase this document so that all members can study and discuss it. The New York

SYNOPSIS CONT'D

CP is concentrating on a program to get Negro and Puerto Rican workers employed on a New York State construction project in the Harlem area of NYC. The Du Bois Clubs of America at its 3rd National Convention called for an all-out campaign against racism in every area and for support of the Black community when it is under attack. The PLP had been involved in the racial disturbances that occurred in the NYC area in 1967. There is a Black Liberation Commission in the PLP which is the PLP's arm in the Negro ghettos. CLIFTON DE BERRY, National Committee member of the SWP, has stated that the SWP will help to mobilize Black political power and Black control of Black people. He called for recruiting Black militants for the SWP. The SWP has formed a Black Fraction to get Negroes into the SWP and this group is to publish a magazine "BAMN" aimed at the Negro communities. The "Workers World" has published articles praising the uprisings that occurred in the ghettos and criticizing the actions of police and officials of government. Information concerning Communist influence in the NALC and CORE set out. STANLEY LEVISON continues to advise MARTIN LUTHER KING on matters of policy in the SCLC.

I. COMMUNIST STRATEGY

A. Plans, Strategy and Policy of the Communist Party, United States of America (CPUSA) on a National Level

1. Policy Concerning the Convention of the National Conference for New Politics (NCNP)

The NCNP met in convention at the Palmer House, Chicago, Illinois, during the Labor Day weekend of 1967. During the early part of the convention, the Negro delegates who called themselves "The Black Caucus" and who constituted about one-fifth of the persons present, presented a series of demands which would give them greater power in the affairs of the convention. A small portion of the Negro delegates who favored Black Nationalism, withdrew entirely from the convention and set up their own conference on the south side of Chicago. The majority of the Negro delegates who remained with the convention presented a series of demands which included 50 per cent Negro representation on all conference committees and asked for convention support for self determination for Black people, support of wars, "self liberation", condemnation of the "Zionist" in the Mid East, Negro control of Black communities and demands for government assistance for Negroes in the United States. The convention, after bitter discussion, accepted these demands.

On September 1, 2, and 3, 1967, during and after the convention activities of the day, CP members met and discussed the activities of the convention. It was agreed that the CP had been unable to exercise any degree of influence over the actions of the convention. It was decided that CP members should become active on various committees set up at the convention, which were to function locally throughout the United States until another conference of the NCNP was called in 1968.

During the evening of September 2, 1967, following the convention activities of that day, Negro CP members including RASHEED STOREY, DEBBIE BELL, CHARLENE ALEXANDER, EARL DURHAM and CARL BLOICE met in the Palmer House. It was felt that the CP would have to support the Black Caucus at the convention in its drive for equal representation for Negroes. It was also felt that they should try to persuade the Black Caucus to accept the idea of an integrated third political party. It was agreed that efforts should be made to prevent a Negro walk-out from the convention and to also speak up against an all-Negro convention. It was also decided that CP members should affiliate themselves with local Negro organizations in attendance at the convention.

October 5, 1967

Concerning the NCNP convention held at the Palmer House, Chicago, Illinois, from August 29, 1967 through September 4, 1967, "New Politics News", the official publication of the NCNP, published by the convention center for the NCNP, 1517 West Howard Street, Chicago, Illinois, issue number one, in an article entitled "Expect 2,000 Delegates and Observers," announced that the NCNP was sponsoring a "New Politics Convention on 1968 and Beyond" to be held at the Palmer House, State and Monroe Streets, Chicago, Illinois, during the period August 29 through September 4, 1967. This article indicated that this convention was called to consider the following:

1. Discuss and debate policy objectives, political strategy and perspectives.

2. Debate and determine responses to the 1968 elections.

3. Compare and evaluate experiences since the last election.

4. Evaluate the NCNP's effort at a national coalition.

5. Determine the structure, program and leadership for the NCNP for the coming period.

Also in reference to above, the "Chicago Tribune" a Chicago Daily newspaper, issue of August 31, 1967, carried an article entitled,"7 Reds Here to Observe Conference".

This article stated that seven National leaders of the CP had registered as observers for the NCNP convention being held in the Palmer House, Chicago.

This article noted that approximately 2000 delegates would be attending the convention and that copies of the registration filed by registered CP leaders were furnished to the Tribune the previous day.

It is noted that of the 2000 attending the convention, 1000 would be designated as delegates and 1000 as observers. The article also noted that Arnold Johnson of New York City, who is a Public Relations Director for the CP headed the seven member CP delegation. The article identified the other members of this delegation as follows:

THOMAS DENNIS of Detroit, Michigan;
MIKE ZAGRAELL of New York City;
GILBERT GREEN of New York City;
ROSCOE PROCTOR of Oakland, California;
CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT and JAMES WEST of Chicago, Illinois;

In addition, the article stated that CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT was Chairman of the CP of Illinois and Vice-Chairman of the National CP. The article stated that all seven of these CP leaders were from the National CP, 23 West 26th Street, New York City.

During the time the NCNP convention preliminary drafting session was being held on August 30, 1967, those individuals of the Negro race who had registered with the convention conducted a "Black Caucus".

This 'Black Caucus' held a separate session to prepare its own agenda and workshops for the purpose of projecting a program of the Black people into the NCNP convention. This caucus held its separate meeting because this group believed the NCNP had failed to consult Negroes during the formation and early planning stages of the NCNP.

During this so-called 'Black Caucus' session, those present were divided as to whether the caucus would eventually unite with the main NCNP convention.

Among those participating in this 'Black Caucus', were the following members of the CP:

CAROLYN BLACK
HERB WRIGHT

NY T-2 ✓

Relative to the Black Caucus, which is meeting separately from the NCNP proper, it is to be noted that representatives of the CP who are attending the convention as observers are attempting to sway the Black Caucus through such CP members as EARL DURHAM, CARL BLOICE and CAROLYN BLACK. The CP leaders who are directing this strategy are GIL GREEN and ARNOLD JOHNSON, and these individuals are operating out of room 1446 in the Palmer House.

Relative to the Black Caucus group, approximately 11:30 AM, August 31, 1967, a Caucus of CP members who were attending the NCNP convention held a meeting in the room of CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT, Room Number 904 at the Palmer House, Chicago. In addition to CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT, the following CP members were also present:

ISHMAEL FLORY
EARL DURHAM
HERB WRIGHT
TOMMY DENNIS
ARTHUR MCPHAUL
CARL BLOICE
CAROLYN BLACK

LIGHTFOOT began the discussion and mentioned that he blamed himself for not foreseeing the problem involving the Black Caucus and the NCNP convention. He mentioned that he had not foreseen the fact that the Black Caucus would operate independently from the convention proper.

After discussions it was the consensus of this CP Caucus group that the CP adopt a position of taking the Black Caucus group into the convention proper even though it was possible a split or walkout could take place. LIGHTFOOT instructed those CP members present to work toward this goal.

The Black delegates to the convention who are trying to bring about participation of the Black delegates in the convention are led by Chicago City Alderman A. A. RAYNER and JIM BLACK of the Negro American Labor Council, a Negro Civil Rights organization composed of union members. Also included in this group are those CP members at the convention.

During the NCNP convention session held on the last day, September 4, 1967, the NCNP moved into a discussion of its program and the implementation of this program by the NCNP Steering Committee.

During the course of the day's proceedings, the Black Caucus won most of its demands and the Black Caucus group had become consolidated into a strong and influential force.

The Black Caucus had after much discussion adopted the position of setting up a program involving two directions for new politics. One direction would explore a third party ticket, and the other direction recommended concentration on community organization.

Both of these proposals which the Black Caucus had submitted to the convention, had originally been furnished the Black Caucus by the CP. These proposals had been presented to the caucus by CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT and wereadopted by the Black Caucus.

Also during the convention proceedings on September 4, 1967, the Steering Committee of the NCNP was selected. It was the decision of the Black Caucus that this NCNP Steering Committee was to include 12 Negroes and this matter was discussed within the Black Caucus.

Relative to the influence of the CP in the NCNP, and its convention, it is correct to say that the CP had considerable influence in both the preparation, the direction and the conclusion of the NCNP convention. It is, however, also safe to state that the estimates and the projections of the CP were not fully realized. The main direction adopted by the CP relative to this convention was for the establishment of a third party ticket as a decisive force in bringing about the coalescence of a Negro-liberal-labor alliance. This obviously was not in the thinking of the majority of the delegates at the convention. As a matter of fact, the majority of the delegates sentiment did not agree with the third party ticket concept.

The general feeling of CP members who attended this convention was that the results of the convention were positive and the CP members were particularly struck by the influence that the Black Caucus exercised during the convention. CP members termed this influence as something new to American radical politics.

It is the generally accepted estimate of the CP members who attended that there was a lack of serious preparation for this convention by the CP and that this was based upon wrong estimates of the trends in the Negro community, however, the majority opinion was one of accomplishment and a sense of having established deeper roots in the general community.

September 5, 1967

On September 5, 1967, a CP of Illinois State Board meeting was held at a private residence in Chicago, Illinois. The purpose of this State Board meeting was to determine a preliminary estimate of the NCNP convention.

ARNOLD JOHNSON, CPUSA National Committee member and Public Relations Director for the CPUSA, made the opening remarks and indicated that the NCNP convention was a historical convention, highlighted by the role of the Black Caucus group.

JOHNSON noted that to understand the Black Caucus role, one would have to include as a background the Newark, New Jersey Black Power conference and the general Negro rebellion occurring in cities throughout the nation.

Others present for this Board meeting agreed that the convention had been a new experience for those CP members who attended.

They also were in general agreement that one of the highlights was the presentation to the convention by the Black Caucus of its 13 point demand.

The State Board members present made note of the fact that the CP members present during the convention when these 13 points were presented had worked hard to get the NCNP delegates to support this resolution.

It was stated that the Party's method of working during the convention was that a CP Steering Committee set up for the convention met every morning at 8:00 AM. It was pointed out that this committee consisted of five CP members. However, this group also met every evening after every session and would consist of a larger group which included other CP members present either as observers or as delegates from other organizations.

It was also explained during this meeting that the CP had a youth fraction at the convention and this fraction would also meet every evening after the day's sessions.

Those present also agreed that the debate conducted during the NCNP convention was most interesting from an ideological point of view.

2. Plans and Policy Made at National Meetings and Expressed by National Officers

The source made available a copy of a report by DANIEL RUBIN* to the National Organization Commission on September 24, 1967, on "Working Class Ideology and Party Building". In this report, RUBIN made the following observations:

It is time to re-examine what is central to Party building today. The Negro people have indicated to the power structure that ghetto rebellions will continue until changes are made in the living conditions of the Negro masses. There is a message coming from the Northern working-class ghettos which says that class solidarity and inter-class alliance of Black and white must be on a totally new level of equality. Masses of Negroes are looking for a radical way out. In the working class and trade union movement both Black and white are rebelling against having to bear the brunt of the Vietnam war. Among the peace forces there is questioning of the present system, a shift to the "Left" and a search for a way out.

Because of recent events, the objective need of the Party is much greater. The Party points the way to the bigger solutions both within capitalism and beyond. The possibilities for the Party to grow and strengthen are much greater today. However, there is a gap between what has been achieved in Party building and the needs and possibilities. The answer to closing this gap must be found and an examination of the Ford Motor Company strike and the Party's reaction to it as well as an examination of the rebellions in the ghettos might supply the answer.

From an examination of the Ford Motor Company strike and the rebellions in the ghettos, it is clear that the Party has problems of an ideological character, the heart of which is the class approach. Unless the Party fights for a sound working class approach to all the main issues, the Party has no reason to exist. The problem for the Party is how to achieve greater ideological clarity and unity in order to build the Party at a faster pace.

If the Party can become significantly involved in strikes such as motor company strikes and in activities in white working-class communities on Negro rights, it can become a means for mass struggles which would help the Party achieve a working-class outlook and orientation. Activity such as the above could be influential in bringing about clarity and unity on a working-class basis and encourage Party building.

It is recommended that a drive for 1000 new members be achieved between November 1, 1967, and the special convention of the Party, a period of about 6 months. This drive should emphasize winning shop workers, Negro and white, and strengthening the Party among the Negro people as a whole.

As of early October, 1967, the CPUSA was divided as to what its policy should be on several matters. One of these was on the estimate of the significance of the convention of the NCNP. The Secretariat of the Party has been attempting to resolve some of the Party's differences. The debate has concerned not only the Party's program but its tactics. On one side of this debate are those in opposition to the national leadership of the Party and this group is led by GIL GREEN and the group of young CP members who are sympathetic to his position. This situation in the Party is important because GIL GREEN has insisted that the Party program include a statement on armed struggle.

Another problem confronting the Party is the matter of the Negro Question. In this regard, JAMES JACKSON* has been in conflict with most of the Negroes in the Party leadership. The person who is regarded highly in the Negro leadership at the present time is CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT who in his draft of a report to the Party's National Negro Commission, in essence justified Negro Caucuses everywhere. LIGHTFOOT defended the opening of a radical fight for Black Power, in all organizations, especially trade unions.

JACKSON's position has been in opposition to that of LIGHTFOOT and JACKSON has stated that he did not join the CPUSA to defend Black Power or Black separatism and racism. However, JACKSON's position was attacked by other Negro Party leaders with the result that JACKSON has had to endorse LIGHTFOOT's report.

Even though, among the national leadership of the Party, there is considerable dissatisfaction over the question of tolerance of Black Caucuses, no one will speak out against this opinion.

October 13-18, 1967

During the period of October 10-12, 1967, a meeting of the National Executive Board (NEB), CPUSA, plus invited guests was held at the Abbey Victoria Hotel, New York City. The agenda of this meeting included a report from CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT on the Negro liberation movement.

LIGHTFOOT in his report mentioned that the items he would discuss would be covered in greater detail at the Party's Negro Commission meeting which was scheduled to be held following the completion of the NEB meeting. LIGHTFOOT stated that they should not allow themselves to become embroiled in a discussion on the subject of the Black Caucus at the NCNP convention in Chicago or whether or not this should constitute a model for future meetings of Negroes and whites. He said, however, that it should be recognized that there will be more Black Caucuses.

LIGHTFOOT noted that Negro nationalism can be progressive provided there is recognition of the equality of Negroes. He said that the CP's position on the question of nationalism should be that they draw a distinction between the different types of nationalism. He said they must distinguish between what is progressive and what is reactionary nationalism. He added that they must say that the Black Muslim Movement is reactionary despite their sympathy for its causes. On the other hand, according to LIGHTFOOT, any nationalism that fights Capitalism and Imperialism should be characterized as progressive. He said the Party must try to infuse a class consciousness into the Black nationalist movements.

LIGHTFOOT also commented that they should examine the Party to determine what house cleaning is necessary in order to win young militants to the Party.

October 13 - 18, 1967

The March, 1967 issue of "Political Affairs*" contained an article by ROSCOE PROCTOR "Notes on 'Black Power' Concept" which it said was presented not as a finished article but as a compilation of material and ideas on the term Black Power offered as a basis for discussion. PROCTOR comments that "In the next decade all indications are that Negro national consciousness (Black nationalism) will undergo an explosive growth within the United States. Negro migration to the cities, the cities' growing deterioration, the failure of society (including the trade unions) to fully integrate Negroes, the worsening economic conditions of Negroes, and their growing relations with colored people on a world scale will help to feed Black nationalist tendencies and growth"

PROCTOR points out that it is a matter of history that nationalism has always flourished in the ghettos of the cities and that it is here "that Negro history will be made in the foreseeable future". He stated that police brutality, the failure of state and federal governments to provide Negroes with protection in the exercise of their civil rights, and the government's "racist policies" in involving young Negroes militarily in "foreign aggression" have added to Black nationalism.

PROCTOR also discusses the effects of tokenism, and the breakup of the Democratic Party-Labor-Liberal Coalition on the growth of a "national consciousness and identity among the oppressed Negro people".

According to PROCTOR, the Black Power slogan is synonymous with Black consciousness and is a means of reaching and uniting Negro poor politically and psychologically. He notes that Black Power advocates are not in agreement with the concept of non-violence and advocate self-defense for Negroes. Black power advocates are calling for more than political activity. They want Negroes to be proud of their race and to build "a power base around the question of blackness" as well as "independent political, social, economic institutions that they can control and use as instruments of change". PROCTOR adds a weakness in the Black Power concept is the lack of a program which is a necessity for Black Power to be realized in practice. Black Power advocates do not appear to see clearly that there are social classes in the United States or the need to develop a class viewpoint and consciousness among the working class.

PROCTOR in commenting on the "responsibility of Left and progressive forces" comments that "The growth of Negro nationalism is a reflection of Negro political maturity and it poses many new questions of theoretical and practical concern for the Negro freedom movement and for the Marxist movement.

"This paper is intended to stimulate further discussion on theoretical aspects of the Negro question in the United States in the hope that such discussions will be finalized at a national conference in the field of Negro work held this year".

The CP, during one period, thought of the Negro question only in terms of a Negro nation and underplayed the class aspects of this question. According to PROCTOR, there is a need for a class approach to this question.

PROCTOR states that the term, Black Power, is the slogan of the "most politically advanced leaders" of the Negro people. "It is around this slogan that they seek to express both their political independence of monopoly capitalism and the organization of the Negro masses against their oppression."

PROCTOR writes that "Marxists-Leninists should help to put more flesh and bone on the Black Power slogan, to put more political and theoretical life into it, to give it a Marxist-Leninist interpretation". He adds, "They should help to develop programs around which Black Power can be realized in practice, which broaden and deepen its positive but too-general concepts, offering a guideline around which the Black masses can be mobilized in day-to-day struggles to improve their conditions of life".

The source made available a copy of the report given by CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT, identified as the Secretary of the National Committee for Negro Affairs, to the National Conference of the CPUSA, held in New York City October 14, 1967. In his report, LIGHTFOOT stated that it has always been true that the main requirement for social advances is the unity of Black and white in struggle at the grass roots level. In this report, he said he would examine what is new in racism, the nature of the present wave of Black nationalism, current methods of struggle, examine the Party's past position on the Negro Question, and determine what the Party's vanguard role should be.

He referred to the article by ROSCOE PROCTOR and the quote mentioned above on the expected growth of Black nationalism. LIGHTFOOT stated that PROCTOR, however, did not say whether Black nationalism will be a form of nationalism directed against imperialism or whether it will be of a divisive separatist nature. He said he concluded that PROCTOR anticipates the problems of worsening conditions will continue to increase over the next ten to fifteen years. LIGHTFOOT maintained that the development of Black nationalism is a reaction to the general political situation in the country-at-large. He said that in order not to err in their judgment on the Negro Question, it is necessary to have a clear picture of the general trends in the country. He described the country as being at a crossroads and said that the Communists aspire to be social and political scientists always seeking ways and means of channelizing events in a progressive direction.

LIGHTFOOT in his report made the following additional observations:

The present period is marked by great economic, political, and social turbulence. The Negro protest movement had been the principal protest movement but today the peace movement is prominent and the forces in it are challenging the war policies of the JOHNSON Administration. Automation and cybernation have led to strikes; 1967 saw outbreaks of violence in the cities of this country, and the crime rate has risen. Dissatisfaction is evident in every aspect of American life. This growing strife arises from a capitalist system that is decaying but, especially, it is a result of the current war policy. The government has been committed for 20 years to a program aimed at saving the colonial system and imperialism and especially to promote the domination of United States capitalism and imperialism. It has resulted in the present situation.

The growing strife between the forces who must join together to achieve success is the most challenging problem facing the people's movements and the most important problem before the conference. The main weakness in the struggle of pro-democratic masses is in the area of ideas, concepts, and ideology. Racism is still being used by the ruling class as the main ideological weapon to divide the working class. The ruling class initiated and fostered the current trends of disunity among the populace. An example of this planned friction occurred in 1964, when Governor GEORGE WALLACE of Alabama visited Northern communities in his presidential campaign, the main purpose of which was to appeal to prejudice among white workers. The strategy of organizing a "white backlash" appeared in the 1964 elections and was one part of the effort to use white supremacy, prejudice and fear to mobilize white workers and further disrupt Black-white unity. The second effort in 1964, was the refusal of the Democratic Convention to seat the delegation of the Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party (MFDP). The compromise forced on the MFDP was the basis for the division in the labor-liberal-Negro coalition that came in 1964.

An assessment of racist ideology in the United States today finds the so-called liberal community joined with the ultra-right for the purpose of defeating the efforts of the Black People's Movement to radically change their status. The main problem is that there is a lack of response and action among white people to counter this use of racist ideology by the ruling class. It is important to determine why racism can be so easily used. This ideology is fed by two aspects of life today, job insecurity arising out of the war economy and automation in industry and the second is the area of public housing. Greater unemployment adds to the problems of the Negroes in the ghettos. A survey of employment conditions in the Black ghettos shows that Black America is becoming more alienated from white America. Automation requires workers to improve their skills but some unions expecially the building trade unions are an obstacle to Negroes acquiring these skills.

Housing as a source of conflict between Black and white dates from World War II following which the Negro ghettos were enlarged and efforts of Negroes to move into white neighborhoods were repulsed. The result has been enlarged ghettos with Negroes becoming the majority of the population in a number of cities. Racism has thus resulted in greater friction between Black and white. A radical change in the living status of Negroes requires a radical shift from racist ideology by white workers. This is essential to the building of a powerful coalition of Black and white today.

Racism is a major contributor to the growth of Black nationalism. This nationalism arises in part from a feeling of rejection by the white community. Being forced to remain in the ghetto has made the Negro more bitter and distrustful of white people. Today Negroes no longer believe what white society led them to believe, that their ancestral background is inferior. Today with Africans playing major roles in the world, Negroes have a pride in their race and a desire for identity with their past. They have concluded that the exercise of freedom requires dealing from positions of strength. These moods are found in the background of the slogan of "Black Power".

Another factor which encourages Black nationalism is the rise of three major categories of people in the ghetto. They are the migrant workers from the South who are unskilled and become unemployed, Negro youth both students and unemployed, and the third group is Negro business which has become a Black bourgeoisie. These categories represent a large section of the total Black population in most large cities and provide the main source of Black nationalism.

The main target of Black nationalism today is the power of the state and also business elements in the ghetto. It is progressive and does not exclude Negro-white unity. The CPUSA must distinguish between what is progressive and what is reactionary in today's Black nationalism. The CPUSA supports generally the main thrust of this nationalism which is progressive and is in the direction of the struggle against capitalism and imperialism. The Party rejects reactionary versions of Black nationalism, seeks a progressive trend, but will also fight reactionary tendencies within the progressive trend.

The new stage of the freedom struggle is marked by a growing crisis in techniques and methods. Some leaders have abdicated the policy of non-violence and called for the Negro to resort to violence. The CPUSA has had considerable experience in dealing with the question of force and violence, having been persecuted since 1948. Throughout the Smith Act trials Communists never renounced force and violence per se. The Party holds that at certain moments of history, the necessity for armed force may be present. The Party has said it seeks a socialist change through peaceful means. However, if the ruling class should block the channels for democratic expression, if it should become impossible to solve problems by peaceful means, the Party would call for the overthrow of the government by all possible means including armed struggle.

The present acts of violence by Negroes in the ghettos is defensive in nature and the Negroes' right to defend themselves, even by force of arms, should be supported. Before armed guerrilla warfare in the cities is considered, it should be ascertained whether other means are incapable of meeting the problems. Even though Negro gains have been small, substantial changes have been made and, with increased struggle by all segments of the people, meaningful progress can be made in the economic and political fields.

The main problems in the ghettos revolve around income and power. In the political area, the problem is how to change the present political structure. Black people are expressing their independence of the major political parties and are undertaking actions which can push Negroes into the political section of the power structure. Negroes are running for mayor in three cities and the MFDP is on the threshold of electoral victories. The voter registration drive to register Negroes is beginning to show results. The use of the vote to change the present relationship of forces in the government is the main direction the struggle must take. The main weapons which Negroes can use are their ability to halt production and reduce profits of big corporations, their ability to upset the profits of firms which practice discrimination, and their political power. All the forms of power which people possess are required to build a coalition of Black and white.

An examination of the Party line on the Negro Question for the past 10 years shows it was correct but the Party did fail to understand and anticipate the current wave of nationalism. The Party underestimated the roles of color, race, and of oppression as forces of Negro nationalism. Another weakness in the Party's work is a growth of conservatism in the ranks. The Party lost the art of taking timely initiative and failed to find ways and means of offering constructive criticism to the labor field and in the civil rights movement.

In the coming period, the Party must identify itself with all advanced progressive forces but speak out whenever it has differences. The main question which the Party must concentrate on is how to establish lasting coalition of Black and White on different levels, especially in the working class. The Party, in the 1930's, pioneered Black and White unity at the grass roots level and must work for it again today using new approaches. To reach this goal, it is essential that white Americans must show their good faith toward Negroes by action in a common struggle: in interracial organizations in general and in the trade union movement in particular. The Party must be a force in abolishing all barriers to an equal say by Negro and White on all matters relating to the general welfare. Negroes alone must decide on problems in the ghetto. The entire Party operation from clubs to the National Committee must keep the problem as a part of every agenda.

The Party must make an aggressive drive to find solutions to the problem. The approach must be one of self-interest which some people cannot understand unless they are confronted with a crisis. If this must be, the Party should have no hesitation in creating a crisis. White skilled workers must be made to understand where their real interests lie and this can be done by making them conscious of the danger that the bosses may use differences between Black and White to destroy unions. The Party can reverse some of the trends towards disunity if drives are begun to organize the unorganized among the poorer workers, Black and White.

Regarding the Negro freedom movement, the chief task of the Party must be to introduce a class content into the present wave of Black nationalism. The main concentration of the Party must be work among Black workers but they must also work closely with other levels of the Negro people. There is strength in both the moderates and young Black militants and each group has its role to play. The currents represented by the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee and the Congress of Racial Equality, are the hard core of the movement. Unity among them on most questions is necessary. The combined efforts of all these forces are needed.

There will be times when the Party will have to take issue with certain actions but will not underestimate the positive qualities of both the Left and center forces. The growth of anti-capitalist feeling in the organizations involved is laying the basis for a radical shift to the Left by all of the forces involved. There is a possibility of building the Party again as an influential force. Together Black and white Communists are going to make significant contributions toward radical changes in American society.

On October 14, and 15, 1967, the CPUSA Negro Commission held a conference at the Hotel Victoria Abbey, 51st Street and 7th Avenue, New York City, which was called "A Conference on the New Stage in the Struggle for Negro Rights".

At the opening session on October 14, 1967, CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT gave a lengthy report on behalf of the National Board of the CPUSA, and LIGHTFOOT noted that part of his report was taken from an article by ROSCOE PROCTOR which had appeared in "Political Affairs".

At the afternoon session of the conference on October 14, 1967, GUS HALL* stated that the Negro problems are a result of tokenism. He said they must know the direction to take as well as the forms of this direction, and must determine the Party's alliances and class forces. Then the Party must help to define these forces. HALL continued that the Party's greatest task is to win large masses of Northern whites to fight in the struggle for Negro freedom. The Party must convince the peace forces that they can win if they help win Negro freedom.

On the night of October 14, 1967, the conference was divided into panels, one of which was a panel on "Techniques and Methods of Struggle" which was led by ROSCOE PROCTOR. PROCTOR noted that in Northern California, 500 Black people are talking about armed guerrilla warfare and terrorist action against Uncle Toms in the ghetto. He said that all of these ideas must be rejected but that they can support the idea of self-defense because it is defined in the Constitution. Violence stems from the fact that violence is the only thing which the power structure will recognize and it then causes them to sit down and discuss the issues.

At the session of October 15, 1967, a report was given by ALVA BUXENBAUM* on the panel held the night before on "Afro-American Women". She dealt mainly with the need for participation by Black women in the Party to help formulate the program and line of the Party. She said there is a tendency in the Party to downgrade Black women and not give them the same courtesy and equality as white women.

A report was also given by MIKE ZAGARELL on the panel on "Work in the White Community". He said the Party should publish a pamphlet on racism, taxes, and housing which should be distributed in the white communities. He said they should work to make the Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party a challenge at the Democratic Party convention in 1968 and should take the lead in organizing the unorganized which would help develop Black and white unity. He stated the Party should also organize a financial campaign to support the RAP BROWN case.

ROSCOE PROCTOR gave a report on the panel on "Techniques and Methods of Struggle". He said the Party must be active and have a program for the struggle which takes place in the Black community. The Party must advocate ownership in the Black community and must give leadership in organizing Black congresses in Negro areas to unite Black organizations around programs of action to win rights for Negroes.

A motion was approved by the confrerence to have the Party write a manifesto on the Negro Question to oppose the continuation of the Subversive Activities Control Board.

Following LIGHTFOOT's report at the National Negro Commission meeting on October 14, 1967, there was a discussion of this report. The discussion that followed agreed with LIGHTFOOT's report with no major controversy developing in any areas. All that was stated was identification with the report. The discussion lasted only until the evening and then the group broke up into panels that met at the Park Sheraton Hotel. There were six panels dealing with the following topics:

The Negro in the Arts, chaired by AL SIMON;

Political Action in the Negro Community, chaired by EARL DURHAM;

The African American woman question, chaired by ALVA BUXENBAUM;

Work in the White Community, chaired by GIL GREEN;

Techniques and Tactics of Struggle, chaired by ROSCOE PROCTOR;

Economic Problems of the Negro Community, chaired by CARL BLOICE.

EARL DURHAM opened the panel on Political Action in the Negro community indicating that there was no prepared report because the person responsible for the panel was not available. However, he felt the panel should discuss the general problems of political action.

The discussion was general and the only significant development was the participation of JIM JACKSON. JACKSON indicated, in essence, that he was opposed to developing a line where the main emphasis in the ghetto was for political action around New Politics. His emphasis was on independent campaigns or any campaigns that guaranteed the expansion of the maximum number of Negro candidates.

Additional questions were raised in the panel on the possibility of putting a presidential ticket from the Party as a write-in in 1968, but then it was also suggested that it be brought back to the conference, and the meeting adjourned.

The meeting reopened Sunday, October 15, 1967, back at the Hotel Victoria Abbey with continued discussion and then reports from the panels.

The first report from the panel was by AL SIMON on the Negro in the Arts. SIMON indicated that the panel itself did not materialize the preceding evening because no one attended, so he would give the report that he was going to give to the panel. He gave the report and the essence of the report was an examination of the position of Negro artists, writers and performers in the country. He discussed the content of their work as being mainly in the Black Power stream. He gave many examples of restrictions and discriminations but also emphasized how these artists were now working to improve the image of Black America. The only proposal projected was a national conference of African American artists to take place in the future.

The report from the panel on Economics was given by CARL BLOICE. BLOICE gave statistics on the worsening economic condition in the ghetto. He proposed a long range strategic program but first, the Party should reject the third world concept and second, reject the analysis that the Black ghettos are an internal colony. The immediate questions are:

1. Organization of the unorganized;

2. Fight JIM CROW in the building trades;

3. A shorter work week;

4. A crash program to combat hunger and poverty;

5. A new look at the Negro American Labor Council.

6. Attention to the youth;

7. A closer study of A. PHILLIP RANDOLPH's freedom budget.

Following the panel reports, the conference went into a discussion of those reports. All of the reports were adopted with very few amendments until ROSCOE PROCTOR proposed that the establishment of Black Party clubs be considered as a form in the Black communities. The debate was quite extensive and lasted almost an hour which ran the conference overtime. The essence of the debate was the concern that PROCTOR's proposal would formalize JIM CROW clubs. PROCTOR tried to explain he was only discussing it as a tactic. The resolution of the debate was the withdrawal of the motion and the adoption of the amendment that had been made by CARL BLOICE not to have Black clubs. The question was referred to a future Negro Commission meeting. The debate became sharp because as part of the discussion, PROCTOR indicated he felt that perhaps a Black caucus in the Party should also be sanctioned.

October 16 and 19, 1967

The source made available a copy of the report from the panel on "Techniques and Method of Struggle" presented on October 15, 1967, at the Conference on Strategy and Tactics in the New Stage of Struggle for Negro Liberation. The report noted that this panel discussed the Party's attitude on the question of organized armed uprisings in the ghetto, the problem of struggle for partial gains, and the question of the type of forms of struggle which can be used.

This report stated the following:

"On the question of the use of violence in the ghetto, we as Marxists have always affirmed that oppressed people have the right to forcibly overthrow an oppressive regime when the channels for democratic change are closed to them!"---"Therefore, there can be no question of the right of the Black people in the U.S. to use violence to achieve change. Our estimation of when violent means are called for is determined by time, place and circumstances and our position at any given moment strives to reflect the concrete situation and conditions which prevail at that moment".

The development of the emphasis being placed on armed struggle is related to other factors. There is the growing lack of confidence by Negroes in their ability to achieve change through the democratic process, a lack of confidence in white workers to overcome racism and join with Negroes in struggle, and a lack of an alternative program to violence radical enough to solve the ghettos' problems. The only purpose for armed insurrection is to seize political power otherwise it should not be undertaken. Actions which are not aimed at improving the conditions of the masses and which are not supported by the masses, invite reprisals on the Black community and should be rejected. In addition, terrorism within the Black community directed against so-called Uncle Toms and those who refuse to go along with the program is divisive and should also be rejected.

The question is to organize within the community and to isolate those not acting in the community's interest. While not advocating a policy of looting and violence, it is believed that the uprisings did do some good in dramatizing the problems of the ghetto. Once uprisings are put on an organized basis, they become something else and will be dealt with as such. Unless conditions are improved in the ghettos, Negroes will continue to react to existing conditions and to instances of police brutality. The Party should do everything it can to prevent the possibility of any onslaught on the Black community.

With regard to the use of violence, the legitimate area is the area of self-defense which the Party supports including armed self-defense if necessary. It also supports the demand that Negroes police their own community. However, it is believed that the majority of American people, including Negroes, are not yet convinced that the system should be changed much less by armed force. The Party, therefore, rejects today the organizing of armed uprisings in Black communities.

As to partial gains, reforms and revolution, is is believed that reforms are necessary steps in the struggle for revolutionary change but are not decisive in themselves. The struggle must not stop with the winning of partial gains or reforms but must go on to a higher level. Each victory should be followed with demands and a program aimed at improving the condition of the Negroes. Demands must be based on what the community needs and the Black community is in an economic crisis which only radical demands can begin to meet. The Party must fight for the principle that government has the responsibility to provide work at union wages for all who seek employment and insist that work opportunities must be tailored to meet human needs, to the skills and capacities of those seeking work.

Emphasis should be placed on reforms that will weaken monopoly capital such as public ownership of utilities, nationalization with a guarantee of public control, and community control over community institutions. The Party must fight for immediate reforms because mass organization takes place around local issues which offer realizable demands and the possibility of immediate victory. Struggles around immediate demands not only organize people but educate them. To relate partial demands with radical long-term demands, it is advisable to advocate a program composed of several points.

In order to change the direction the struggle should take, it is essential that the Party have a program and be a part of the struggle. A program for the Black community should be a dual one, one aimed at building Black control and one which relates to more radical demands to be fought for and begun by Black and white Americans. The character of the program must be radical.

"Our main contribution in the Black community today, after having injected program into the struggle, is to project a class analysis of the society in which we live and to expose the main enemy of the people, to develop a class consciousness among Black working people, to develop a struggle aimed at making the democratic machinery function more effectively for the people and to fight for political representation which will be responsive to the people". The report noted, "That in order to strengthen the influence of Marxist ideas in the movement, it is necessary to develop Left forms for education and action within the Black community." ----- "In the development of forms the intent is to bring ideological and organizational influence of our Party to bear upon the mass movement, to more effectively participate in struggles that are already in motion, to project issues and initiate struggle not presently being conducted and to recruit more advanced, active militants into our Party".

The panel reported that there is a need to call together the organizations in the Black community in some type of council to get them to agree upon a unified struggle on issues. Some of the ideas proposed were:

1. Commemorating holidays of Black heroes and forming Black caucuses when the need arises.

2. Promote cultural centers and bookstores in the ghetto.

3. Provide Marxist training schools for the training of Black cadre in the Party.

4. Develop more full-time Black organizers for the Party.

5. Assign full-time regional coordinators to help strengthen the work of the Party in the Black and minority communities.

6. Regional seminars of Black comrades.

7. Help build conferences of Black youth leading to a National Youth Congress.

8. A bulletin to be put out by the Party's Negro Commission to discuss ideological differences within the Negro people's movement.

The source furnished a copy of the report of the panel on "Work in the White Community" which met on the night of October 14, 1967, during the conference held by the CPUSA Negro Commission. This repot, approved by the conference, noted that there are serious dangers of racial conflict and further disintegration of relations between Black and white workers. It said there are areas of common concern between Negroes and whites and that progress in these areas requires mutual struggle and unified actions. It called for impressing on the trade union movement that its future is dependent upon a fight on behalf of the Negro people. It also called for making city dwellers aware that the future of the country's cities depends upon a reordering of national priorities and that the interests of white are one with Negroes in this struggle.

The report stated that, in order for the Party to fulfill its role in leading the struggle, it must undertake an intense and thorough ideological campaign in its own ranks. It recommended that the following actions be taken:

1. CP members should be equipped to act as initiators of struggle in places such as jobs, unions, social organizations and neighborhoods.

2. The Party must make full and effective use of all available literature and should produce a new pamphlet to deal with the issues facing the white community. This pamphlet should advance ways of building true honest Negro-white unity.

3. Serious attention should be given to building an organization like the Civil Rights Congress* which can be used to coordinate national programs and through which Black and white people can work together on an equal basis.

4. The CP should open a second front in the anti-war movement and show the white peace groups that Black-white unity must be based on making the struggle for Negro freedom as much a part of peace work as the peace issues are for the Negro freedom movement.

5. The challenge of the Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party should be made a central national issue of struggle.

6. The Party should use its trade union work to build Black-white unity. Every CP District should select a plant or industry in which to take the lead in organizing the unorganized.

7. Thebuilding trades should be a special area in which to fight to open union membership to all minority groups.

8. The Party should be in the forefront of the defense of such as RAP BROWN, the Fort Hood Three, the Revolutionary Action Movement* and others who have been subjected to "frame-up prosecutions".

9. The Party must make proper use of its press. "The Worker*" and "progressive nationality papers" must give the issues more coverage and they should serve as instruments of education and agitation. They must be indispensable tools for the Party's mass work.

10. Special attention must be given to Party work among nationality groups, especially youth in this field.

11. A campaign should be initiated in white community work around the theme "to save our cities" and such a program can serve as a means of developing Negro-white unity.

12. An important part of the struggle for Negro-white unity as well as the struggle against racism is a campaign to secure the defeat of Governor WALLACE in the 1968 elections.

13. A fight should be made in every school system and on every campus to guarantee full equality on every level, from open admission policies to positions of policy-making.

14. The CP policy of industrial concentration is important to the struggle in the white community. If a breakthrough can be made among white workers on the needs of Negro workers, then these unions and workers can become a powerful lever in the trade union movement.

This report should serve as a basis in every District for the Party to make the fight against racism a main part of its work in every field.

A CP meeting was held at Academy Hall, 853 Broadway, New York City, on the evening of October 25, 1967, to hear CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT speak on the question of Black Power. LIGHTFOOT's main point was that the idea of Black Power had caused a drifting away from the CP of both Negro and Jewish members. He said that Negroes should not think of Jewish people as Capitalists and as oppressors.

LIGHTFOOT also stated that advocates of Black Power should not have singled out Israel as the aggressor and the oppressor in the Israeli-Arab conflict. He said that instead, they should have pointed out that the International Zionist Movement was the real cause of the war.

LIGHTFOOT stated that some advocates of Black Power believe that changes in the status of Negroes can be forced and do not believe that the necessary changes can be achieved with the coming of Socialism arrived at through parliamentary means. LIGHTFOOT added that these ideas, even though incorrect, have caused some Negroes to drift away from the Party. He noted that the idea of forcing change will not occur because Negroes do not have guns and the white power structure will not allow them to obtain them.

On October 24, 1967, a meeting of the Jewish Commission, CP of Illinois, was held in Chicago, Illinois. This meeting consisted, in the main, of a report by JACK KLING* on the Party's analysis of the events at the convention of the NCNP in Chicago and a report by KLING of major items taken up at the last National Committee meeting of the CPUSA.

He stated that it was decided at the National Committee meeting to make the seating of the Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party (MFDP), at the forthcoming convention of the Democratic Party, a major point of concentration. He said that a campaign will be started involving the seating of the MFDP which will include a petition campaign as well as a demonstration.

According to KLING, the major contributors at the recently held National Committee meeting of the Party were GUS HALL and CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT. According to KLING, LIGHTFOOT identified the Black Nationalist Movement as "progressive", and said that the Party must identify with the following three sections of the Negro population:

1. The Party must ally itself with the militant movement signified by H. RAP BROWN.

2. The Party must ally itself with an attempt to move forward the moderate sector of the Negro population which is headed by the Reverend MARTIN LUTHER KING, Jr., head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

3. The Party must isolate the conservative elements of the Negro population, signified by the Reverend JAMES JACKSON, head of the Baptist Church.

The source made available a news release of the CPUSA dated November 6, 1967, which stated that HENRY WINSTON, "National Chairman of the Party" had summarized in a statement the discussion of a recent conference of the CP calling for a "mass Black liberation drive". It said this conference called by the Party's Negro Affairs Commission was attended by 80 leading Communists from all over the United States. The news release noted that WINSTON's statement dated November 6, 1967, shows the CP position on points being debated in many areas and with additional questions resulting from the Negro liberation struggle and revolt of Negroes in the cities. It said that WINSTON "calls for a massive program to 'make life bearable for the Black Americans,' and urges 'unity and militancy'".

The news release continued, "Winston calls for immediate steps to guarantee election of 'Negro mayors, United States Senators, Congressmen' and other public officials in 1968 while also demanding an urgent massive, multi-billion dollar crash program to meet all the needs of Black America. He relates this issue to the need for an end of the war in Vietnam."

November 11, 1967

"The Worker", an East coast Communist newspaper, November 12, 1967, pages 4 and 10, printed the full statement by HENRY WINSTON which was issued by the CPUSA. This statement contains in substance the following:

The CP has been fighting for Negro freedom under all conditions for more than 40 years and is continuing that fight today. The CP claims no special rights for its pioneering efforts except the right to continue the struggle, it will never stop. The Party admits it has much to learn from the new leaders of the Negro freedom movement but can offer the experiences it has gained in this fight to aid in the future struggles.

Negroes have now arrived at a crisis in their struggle because they are faced with the question of how they can "achieve full equality-NOW" and not in the future. Negroes are being provoked to violence by the actions of government such as Congress rushing through a seventy four billion dollar a year military budget, more riot training for police and the National Guard, more repressive laws, and more police brutality in the Negro communities. Negroes have been oppressed, enslaved, outraged and had their basic rights refused for years. Negro Americans "are faced with a struggle for survival. We need ask no one how to defend our inalienable rights to live as human beings". In addition, the right to self-defense "from violent attack by racists in or out of uniform by all means including armed defense if necessary, is inviolable . We support that right."

The increase of police brutality nationally against Negroes and the growth and influence of the John Birch Society and the Ku Klux Klan has resulted in a demand for the right of Negroes to "police their own communities. We fully support that right." In addition, the CP "has always affirmed the right of oppressed people to forcibly overthrow an oppressive regime whenever the channels for democratic change are closed to them." Negroes in the United States have the right "to use violence to free themselves from oppression and to win full freedom." However, the right to use violence should be determined by the circumstances and conditions that prevail at the time.

The factors that have brought about the emphasis on the need for armed struggle include:

1. The refusal of the ruling class and the JOHNSON Administration to permit anything but token changes especially in the ghettos.

2. The failure of white people to understand the seriousness of the crisis in the ghetto and to join with Negroes in their struggle for radical changes.

3. Failure by government to take decisive action against racists resulting in a recognition of the need for reliance on self-defense, including armed defense.

4. The actions of organizations such as the Ku Klux Klan and the White Citizens Council in inciting racial violence.

5. The failure to produce an alternative program. to violence radical enough to solve the problems of the ghettos.

6. The lack of class consciousness of an understanding of revolutionary tactics by the leaders of the Negro freedom movement.

The uprisings in the ghetto show that Black people are ready to fight for "full-freedom NOW." The problem is to make the best use of this new militancy and to prevent the power structure from misusing it. It is in the spirit of courage and clarity of purpose that the question of armed struggle must be judged. "Communists believe in the use of violence to achieve political objectives only when reaction has closed off the channels---" of "peaceful means." However, as the Party views the situation, the majority of American people, today, including Negroes, are not convinced that the system must be changed. Negroes cannot undertake armed uprisings without support and so the Party rejects the organizing of such uprisings in Negro communities. Terroristic actions not supported by the masses and aimed at improving conditions for them invite reprisals and should be rejected. Also terrorism directed at the "Uncle Toms" in the Negro community is divisive and should be rejected.

The 1967 ghetto uprisings achieved some results in that they focused the attention of the nation on the conditions of the ghettos and also "sharpened and deepened mass resistance to the unjust war in Vietnam and inspired to greater militancy the struggle to end it." In addition, Negroes gained representation in public office because of these uprisings.

The principal task now is to rally nationwide support for the Negro struggle especially white workers. The CPUSA, before the summer of 1967, called for united action by all Left forces and for all Communists to work to get Black and white Americans to unite and act immediately. Such united action must be undertaken now to avoid future "hot summers". "There is an urgent need for organized militant and united struggle in every Black community in the United States." The tactics should include any form of action that will advance the freedom struggle including "mass marches, demonstrations, massive militant civil disobedience, boycotts and strikes. It should include sit-ins, sit-downs and sit-outs and armed defense when necessary." Efforts should be made by Negroes to elect Negro public officials on all levels. The only test of the tactic to be used is whether it will advance or set back the struggle.

The forms of organization to be used are those which will unite the people of the Black community and coordinate their activities, city, state and nationally, to bring pressure on the power structure. Black communities should be united politically to strive for increased Negro representation. Unity of the Black community can result in Black Power. There also exists a basis for achieving greater levels of Black-white unity.

The answer to the conditions that exist in the cities of the country lies with the Federal Government. The country must change from giving priority to war and provide for peace-time conditions, which means ending the "unjust war in Vietnam". There is a growing awareness of the interrelation of the crises in the ghetto, the cities and the war in Vietnam, and a struggle must be conducted to resolve them.

The source made available a leaflet announcing the sale of a pamphlet "Black Power and Liberation: A Communist View" by CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT. This pamphlet contains LIGHTFOOT's speech to the meeting of the National Negro Commission on October 14, 1967. The leaflet states:

"The publication of this report by Comrade Lightfoot is an ideological-organizational event in the work of our Party to help bring our position to the people on one of the urgent questions of the day."

The sources made available a leaflet of the CPUSA which is identified as an Outline for Club Discussion of the pamphlet by CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT entitled "Black Power and Liberation: A Communist View". This leaflet contains the following instructions:

"The club leadership should arrange that the pamphlet be purchased by every member in advance of the scheduled discussion. Every member should study the pamphlet and come prepared to answer the questions, participate in the discussion, raise points that need clarification, etc. For a fruitful discussion, it is essential that the participants relate their own experience.

"From the very beginning of the discussion, attention should be focused on the basic and most important points which in their totality encompass the Communist view on Black Power and Liberation so that the whole of the program of the Party is understood. For this we suggest the reading of the following paragraph as an introduction to the opening session:

> "'Comrade Lightfoot speaks of the unprecedented problems this nation of ours faces today; the growth of fascist danger, the germs of disunity when unity is the most urgent question, the need for a radical change, etc., to understand the reason for the growing crisis. The pamphlet poses six basic questions. These are: 1) the character of the present period; 2) what is new in racism; 3) the nature of the present wave of Black nationalism; 4) the methods of struggle required for today; 5) an estimate of the Communist Party's position on the Negro question in the last nine years in the light of today's requirements and tasks; 6) what the vanguard role of the Party is in the circumstances of today.' On December 13, 1967, an enlarged Illinois CP State Committee meeting was held in Chicago, Illinois, at which the main topic of discussion was based on the Negro Question. CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT, Chairman of the National CP Negro Affairs Commission, gave the main report.

In his report, LIGHTFOOT spoke of winning equality for Black people in this country. He said that mere integration will not solve the problems of Negroes in America and, therefore, the CP must be the pace setters and not be afraid to confront the realities the CP faces in America. He also spoke of discriminatory practices within the labor movement in the United States as well as of practices which he described as being employed by the United States capitalistic system to keep the Negro "down" on the economic ladder. He said the CP must find ways to combat these practices.

Following a discussion of LIGHTFOOT's talk, the meeting resumed in panels, one of which was a Negro-Labor Alliance panel. In this panel, HERB WRIGHT called for:

1. Breaking discrimination in the craft unions, especially the building trades.

2. Organize the unorganized.

3. Build the Negro American Labor Council and Negro caucuses in the labor unions.

4. Combat racist ideology among workers.

LIGHTFOOT later commented that the Party must take the initiative and launch the program around the building trades as recommended. He said the New York District CP is working on a similar program, especially where federal funds are involved. He said they must cease being timid and that there are enough Communists in Chicago to begin the program.

In summarizing the panels, LIGHTFOOT called for action not just talk. He noted that the Party was forced out of the labor movement and other mass organizations, yet was able to move ahead and play a vanguard role. He expressed satisfaction with the meeting and said he expected the Chicago Communists to get a real struggle going against the building trade unions.

- On December 17, 1967, the CPUSA held a National Organization Committee Meeting at 23 West 26th Street, New York City, which is the headquarters of the CPUSA. At this meeting, CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT, head of the Party's Negro Affairs Committee, was asked by DANNY RUBIN to speak.

LIGHTFOOT stated that there was one thing he wanted to make clear and that was the fact that Negro nationalists, STOKELY CARMICHAEL and H. RAP BROWN had a great many Negro followers and, whether the Party agreed or disagreed with the views of such Negro nationalists, these persons had a great impact on the American Negro. LIGHTFOOT added that he did not know whether CARMICHAEL and BROWN were headed in the direction of a Left-wing group such as one representing the Chinese Communist viewpoint or were merely Black racists. He noted that, in any event, it was clear that they were not headed in the direction of the CPUSA. He added that he had raised this point because it appeared to him that the CPUSA had a growing tendency which was resulting in their isolation from the Negro masses.

LIGHTFOOT was also critical of the lack of Negro CP members in the Districts of the Party and, in conclusion, warned that the CPUSA, in order to advance, had to recruit among the Black masses or these forces would be lost to racist leaders such as STOKELY CARMICHAEL and H. RAP BROWN.

The National Committee of the CPUSA met in New York City during the period of January 14 - 16, 1968. At the opening session, GUS HALL spoke for several hours and, during his speech, said that the CPUSA is constantly involved in the struggle to involve the masses in work which would help the Negro, youth, and the working man. He called for the Party to help Negroes get seats in the National Conventions of both major parties. He also urged all CP members to evaluate candidates for office in their various districts and, wherever possible, to vote for the election of Negroes.

JAMES JACKSON, in his comments at the meeting, stated, in essence, that the plight of the Negro people and the struggle of the working class are tied together.

GEORGE MEYERS, the Labor Secretary of the CPUSA, also spoke at this meeting. In his remarks, he stated that the class struggle was a great force for change in America and directly influenced all other mass struggles such as the fight of the Negro people for equality, the struggle for peace, and the struggles for civil rights. He said that the Party believes in Negro-white working class unity. He also noted that the CPUSA would continue its day to day struggle and would lead the working class in the revolutionary transition to Socialism.

The sources made available a memorandum issued by the National Education Department, CPUSA, dealing with the question of Negro History Month, February, 1968. This memorandum sets forth tasks for 1968, on the occasion of the celebration of Negro History Month. These tasks are set forth as follows:

"Recent years have witnessed great advances in the struggle for national liberation, particularly in Africa. And in this country they have witnessed a tremendous upsurge of the struggle for Negro liberation. In the light of these developments the celebration of Negro History Month and its utilization as an instrument in the struggle takes on greater significance than ever before, especially in the fight to involve white Americans.

"February, 1968, should become the occasion to promote observance of Negro History Month by schools and churches, by trade unions and other organizations. It should become the occasion for the organization of lectures, displays, affairs and other activities in all communities. All Party organizations should give serious attention to the stimulation of the widest variety of public activities.

"Within the Party, discussions should be organized in club meetings and other gatherings on Negro history and on the Negro freedom struggle today. Special attention should be given to the following:

"1. Study and discussion of CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT's report to the National Party Conference of October 14-15: Black Power and Liberation. A question outline for such study and discussion accompanies this memorandum. These should include discussions devoted especially to the fight against racism as an alien ideology and on the development of struggle among white Americans.

"2. Study and discussion of the February issue of Political Affairs, a special 96-page issue devoted entirely to additional material from the Party Conference and to other articles on Negro history and Negro liberation.

"3. Plans for the widest distribution of both the LIGHTFOOT report and the February Political Affairs. Also, plans for the distribution of the newly-published Autobiography of W.E.B. Du Bois.*

"4. Public forums during February to be devoted to the subject of Black Power and Negro Liberation.

"5. Organization of city-wide or district-wide ideological conferences on Negro liberation.

"6. Exhibits on the role of the Communist Party in the Negro liberation struggle in progressive bookshops and other suitable locations."

ALVA BUXENBAUM, present at the meeting, discussed a report previously given by LYDIA WILLIAMS* on the Black Caucus held at the National Conference for New Politics, which was held in Chicago, Illinois, August 29, 1967, to September 4,1967. ALVA BUXENBAUM criticized LYDIA WILLIAMS for having no Marxist training or background. She said that LYDIA WILLIAMS advocated the formation of all-Black caucuses for Negro areas. BUXENBAUM disagreed with this since she felt that Negro and white people would not thereby achieve any degree of unity or cooperation.

RASHEED STOREY*, also present at the meeting, strongly disagreed with ALVA BUXENBAUM and stated that times are changing; that there must be Black caucuses in Negro areas because white people cannot tell the Negro people what to do. He added that, henceforth, white people can no longer work in Negro areas. STOREY told BUXENBAUM that she must work with the Black caucus to be established in her area and not to attempt to form a mixed Black and white unity group.

A meeting of the National Youth Commission of the CPUSA was held on November 12, 1967, at the home of MIKE ZAGARELL, Brooklyn, New York. The main discussion at this meeting concerned future activities originating from the Student Mobilization Committee (SMC), an outgrowth of the Spring Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam. ZAGARELL indicated that a national conference of the SMC would be held in Chicago over the Christmas 1967 holidays. He said that it was expected that a call would come from this conference for an international student strike against the war in Vietnam some time during the spring of 1968. He indicated that CP youth should be mobilized to the largest possible extent to attend this conference.

ZAGARELL also stressed the importance of bringing Negro youth into this conference. He further indicated that a Negro student in the South, who was a close friend of BETTINA APTHEKER*, was planning to call an all-Negro student conference in Atlanta, Georgia, around the first of December, 1967. He said this conference would involve students from Negro colleges across the South and that Communists should endeavor to send militant Negroes from other campuses to the meeting. He said that Negro Communists should attend this meeting with positions that they had discussed previously and should also try to get students, attending the Atlanta conference, to go to the Chicago meeting committed to the positions presented by the Young Negro Comrades.

She noted that the building trades unions have few if any Negroes and said that if Negroes are not employed on the project, no work would be done. She said the CP must make a project out of this matter and called for a committee to be established to work with CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT. On November 19, 1967, a meeting of the New York State CP Committee was held at the Manhattan Hotel, New York City. The agenda for this meeting consisted of a report by CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT and a proposal by MILDRED MC ADORY.

CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT's report dealt mainly with the new spirit prevailing in the Negro community. He warned of future revolts and said that the CP had to listen more and talk less. He mentioned that a weakness of the Party was in the labor areas and specified the failure of the Party to organize Black workers in the trade unions. He stressed unity between Black and white workers.

MILDRED MC ADORY, in her comments, stressed, in the main, the hiring of Negro and Puerto Rican construction workers to work on the construction of the new State office building planned for Harlem. She wanted the building trade unions to play an active role and requested that the NALC be revived. She also proposed that a representative from "The Worker" be assigned to the task force which is to plan a campaign to get Negro and Puerto Rican construction workers employed on the construction of the new office building.

GIL GREEN, in his comments, stressed that there should be an alliance between the Black masses and the white working class based on full equality. He said that without this there would be racial conflict. He also insisted that the Jewish community take a strong stand for full equality for Negroes.

4. Plans and Strategy of the W. E. B. Du Bois Clubs of America (DCA)*

The Third National Convention of the DCA was held on September 8-10, 1967, at Columbia University, New York City. At this convention JARVIS TYNER* gave the main political report which called for a new organizational drive by the DCA, stressing the importance of an attack on racism in America, support for the ghetto uprisings, support for H. RAP BROWN, a continued drive against the Vietnam war, protests on the campuses, a maximum emphasis on draft resistance, and the building of New Politics activity.

The convention broke into workshops which submitted resolutions. The workshop on Black Liberation and the Freedom Movement submitted a resolution calling for an all-out campaign against racism on the campuses as well as in the trade unions and the white communities. It said that the DCA supports all Black groups in the ghetto and would support Black communities "under extensive attack", meaning those who are rioting.

As a result of the convention, the national staff of the DCA will organize a Black Power ghetto organizing department.

The source made available the resolutions from the workshops held at the DCA convention at Columbia University, New York City. The proposals included in the Resolution on Black Liberation were as follows:

"1) That the Du Bois Clubs as a whole should continue to struggle against racism in every area of activity; trade unions, campus, and predominantly white communities.

"2) That the Du Bois Clubs should continue developing all-Black chapters in ghetto areas, and that the DBC develop fraternal associate relationships with all-Black local youth groups.

"3) That the entire Du Bois Clubs begin to launch a campaign against racist exclusionary policies of universities, unions, etc.

"4) That the entire Du Bois Clubs sponsor educationals on Black history, utilizing specifically Black scholars.

"5) That the entire Du Bois Clubs launch a struggle to get Black history taught in schools.

"6) That the entire Du Bois Clubs prepare to move in support of the Black community at times of intensified attack."

The source made available a statement on "The Ghetto Rebellions" by the DCA which was distributed at the DCA convention in New York City during the period September 8 - 10, 1967. This statement by the DCA included the following:

"For our part, the W.E.B. Du Bois Clubs of America, in this hour, considers it its duty to work for the safeguarding of the lives and futures of our brothers and sisters who are today's victims of police terror. We believe that the future of all young people and indeed the future of the nation is bound up with the defense of the ghetto community in this hour. For us there is no more immediate task. We further see the need for an all out educational campaign in white communities and among white youth designed to dispel the misconceptions prevalent there about the causes of the ghetto rebellions.

"The minimum program required to begin to solve this domestic crisis is:

"-allocations of billions of dollars to rebuild the ghettos; money should be controlled by the people of the community; the program should provide thousands upon thousands of jobs; especially for youth, and job training programs.
STOP THE WAR! BILLIONS FOR THE CITIES

"-cleansing of police forces of all racist and right wing influences; barring police from membership in the Birth Society, Ku Klux Klan, etc.

"-prosecution of all police known to have committed murder in the Black community.

" -release of all those arrested in the ghetto rebellions.

" -prosecution of all those who profiteer off the people of the ghetto; prosecution of price gougers, sellers of inferior goods, slumlords, etc.

" -defeat of so-called anti-riot acts.

" -a halt to all phony crime investigations (Mc Clellan Committee, etc.)

" -dropping of charges against H. RAP BROWN

" - an end to police occupation of the ghetto.

THE MOST IMMEDIATE DEMAND THAT REQUIRES ACTION IS THE CALL FOR AN END TO POLICE PROVOCATION AND BRUTALITY IN THE GHETTO COMMUNITIES.

We call upon all young people of all persuasions and backgrounds to oppose police solutions to what is a grave social problem.

The whole direction of our country, the land we are to inherit, is at stake."

B. OTHER COMMUNIST GROUPS

1. PROGRESSIVE LABOR PARTY* (PLP)

The May, 1967, issue of "Challenge" carried a headline captioned "Marchers: Hell No We Won't Go". The accompanying article claims that when the people of Harlem joined the march against the war on April 15, 1967, in New York City, they were attacked by the New York City Tactical Police Officers. The article claims that the Black people who were marching against the war were singled out and attacked by the policemen, who were using clubs and horses.

The source advised that during the July, 1964, riot in Harlem, a meeting was held in the PLP Lower East Side Club, 749 East 6th Street, New York City. This meeting was called to get teen-agers together on the lower east side to start trouble. These teen-agers were equipped with sticks and bats, and the idea was to start trouble on the lower east side to draw the police from Harlem.

The PLP uses any means possible to influence people towards its position. The PLP will use any legitimate strategy or create a temporary front organization to seize upon a situation of unrest to generate trouble.

The PLP and the Students for a Democratic Society* (SDS) planned to be at any trouble spot in New York City during the summer of 1967. The PLP planned to send as many people as possible to trouble spots and pass out the "Red Book", which contains quotations of MAO TSE TUNG. This is the same book that is being used by the Red Guard in China.

The PLP and SDS planned to distribute as many leaflets as possible to play the Black people against the white and the white people against the Black.

The source advised that in his opinion the PLP would intentionally start trouble in a ghetto area or any other area that would be a likely spot for racial trouble.

It is in line with a National Committee decision to attempt to answer an apparent ruling class strategy to provoke a race war this summer in order to get workers' minds and actions away from strike opposition to the war, and generally their increasing opposition to the enemy. It is one of a number of things we will be doing in the next few months. (Another paper will be distributed in the ghettos, meetings, rallies, etc.). This draft was written by MILT. Pertinent pictures and data will be included. Any comments or suggestions should be sent in by June 2, (Friday) to either MILT or myself at Room 617, 1 Union Square West, New York City."

The source advised that "Milt" referred to above is MILTON ROSEN*.

The draft of the flyer, referred to above, is captioned "War--Makers Strike -- Breakers Plot Race War This Summer", using subheading "Don't Be A Sucker".

The source advised that the PLP would hold a protest rally in front of the New York City Police Department headquarters, 240 Center Street, to protest police brutality, at 5:00 P.M., July 26, 1967.

This activity would be publically sponsored by a PLP Puerto Rican front group and the PLP would not be mentioned by name.

STRYKER also stated that in press accounts of the riots, the PLP itself was not mentioned but the Black Liberation group was mentioned.

STRYKER also stated that PLP Party members were involved in the riots in East Harlem, but he could not say to what extent at that time.

JOHN JACOBS, also from the Columbia PLP Club, acted as master of ceremonies.

GEORGE DUDLEY, the first speaker, claimed that the various agencies of the law were not acting in the interest of the people and called for armed struggle against the government.

TRUMAN NELSON glorified the violence associated with the labor strike in the early 1900s and favored Negroes fighting cops and the government.

WILLIE WRIGHT answered a question from the audience by stating that he would kill all whites.

ROGER TAUS commented on how students should support rioting Negroes.

The Black Liberation Commission of the PLP is a special group within the PLP consisting of Negro members only who are able to work in the Black communities. The Commission acts as the Party's arm in the Black ghettos and makes special reports on its progress.

In New York City the PLP Harlem Club, 336 Lenox Avenue, represents the Black Liberation Commission, which is headed by WILLIAM EPTON, Chairman of the PLP Harlem Club.

At a PLP Teachers Trade Union Club meeting held on August 28, 1967, WALTER LINDER announced that 40,000 leaflets had been distributed in the Black communities on the race riot situation, and 20,000 leaflets had been distributed to the whites on the same problems, namely listing of the ghetto grievances and attributing them to the ruling class white power structure.

The PLP had ordered the following booklets and pamphlets printed at the Sun Publishing Company, 59 West Broadway, New York City:

1. A Leaflet captioned "Black Defense Committee In Defense of the Sixteen", which calls for support of 16 Afro-Americans who were arrested and put in jail.

Fifty thousand copies of this leaflet were ordered by BILL EPTON.

The source stated that the PLP had also ordered 20,000 copies of a booklet captioned "Freedom Now" and 10,000 copies of a booklet captioned "Don't Be A Sucker".

2. A 24 page booklet captioned "Black Liberation--Now", which sets forth that it was issued by the Black Liberation Commission of the PLP, 336 Lenox Avenue, Harlem, New York.

This booklet claims that the United States Government, the main enemy of all the people, wants white workers to unite with the police to go into the Black communities and attack the Black people. The booklet also sets forth that the Black people will fight back to defend their communities from all racist attempts by the police, the National Guard, and whites. Further, the Blacks must organize apartment by apartment, house by house, neighborhood by neighborhood and finally nationwide to defend their communities from attack.

The source advised that BILL EPTON had ordered 20,000 copies of this booklet printed on two different occasions making a total of 40,000 copies.

3. A four page "PL" captioned "Students and the Ghetto Rebellions", which discusses what the students should do in regard to recent Detroit, Newark, and Harlem riots. It is set forth that the immediate cause of the "rebellion" in Newark was police brutality. The call was put to the students to "demonstrate their support for the Black liberation movement by picketing precinct stations and City Hall; distribute anti-racist literature to students and white workers and any other actions designed to control the working class attempt to divide and conquer."

The source advised that 10,000 copies of this "PL" were ordered by LEN RAGOZIN* from the PLP.

4. A leaflet captioned "Thousands Battle State Troopers", which draws a parallel between the situation in Newark and the situation during the Newport News, Virginia, shipbuilders' strike.

The source advised that a person by the name of LARRY (last name unknown) from the PLP had ordered 4,000 copies of this leaflet.

5. A two page copy of "Challenge", the PLP newspaper labeled "Newark Extra", which shows it was to be distributed "free". This"Newark Extra" carried headline "Cops Invade--Heroes Fight" in two-inch letters.

This issue called for the "oppressed people to unite in Harlem, Watts, and Newark to defend themselves and their communities against repressive police, state troopers, National Guard, and the system that these uniform thugs are protecting".

2. SOCIALIST WORKERS PARTY* (SWP)

CLIFTON DE BERRY, National Committee Member, delivered the report entitled "The Independent Black Political Action" at the 22nd National Convention of the SWP held October 26-29, 1967, in New York City. He reviewed the Party resolution on the question and stated that the future calls for Negroes to back away from their established political activities and form their own political organization. He related that it is time for a Black Party movement. DE BARRY stated that Black Power has many shortcomings, but embraces great political power and can reach the Black masses. He related that it is the SWP's desire to help in the mobilization of Black political power. DE BARRY related that it may be time for bullets and that the Party would be ready to fight on every front as a true Leninist Party. He asserted that the Afro-American vanguard will be a dominant force in the class struggle and an inspirational force for revolutionists everywhere. He stated that every effort would be made by Party members to develop Black control of Black people.

DE BARRY related that STOKELY CARMICHAEL, Black Power advocate, while speaking in Havana, Cuba, related that guerrilla warfare was the answer, however, according to DE BARRY, this is not true. DE BARRY stated that Marxists know the difference between guerrilla warfare and armed struggle. He stated that guerrilla warfare must come from the leader and there must be an organization and definition of goals if there is to be any hope of toppling the United States Government. DE BARRY cited the Cuban Revolution as an excellent example.

DE BARRY remarked that the American Revolution will take place in the most vulnerable cities which embrace a heavy concentration of Negroes. He stated that the racial uprisings thus far have not been necessarily anti-white, but anti-cop and anti-gouging and toward the fact that the Negro wants to control his own community.

DE BERRY concluded by stating that the Negro SWP members must build with emphasis on education and propaganda and pointed out that Black militants could be recruited for the Party.

He stated that the SWP must teach and lead the way to political action.

NY T-21
November 1, 1967.

CLIFTON DE BERRY emphasized that one of the main objectives of the SWP's 1968 presidential campaign would be to propagandize and popularize the idea of forming a Black political Party.

A panel discussion on Negro work was organized at the Convention. All Negro members of the Party and its youth group, together with one delegate representing each Party branch, were invited to attend this panel discussion.

November 1, 1967.

CLIFTON DE BERRY during his presentation at the Convention, admitted that the SWP had failed to recruit and hold Negroes. During his closing remarks, DE BERRY stated that the SWP must convince the Negro, of the SWP program, of the role of the working class, and, if this is accomplished, the Party will begin recruiting Negroes into its ranks.

Following DE BERRY's presentation, a Negro Fraction was formed at this Convention by several members of the Party, together with members of the Young Socialist Alliance* (YSA), the Party youth organization.

The purpose of this tactic was to bring Negroes with radical leanings into the SWP. This Fraction will publish a magazine to reach the Negro Community and will solicit articles from various Negroes in order to ascertain what these individuals are saying about the Black movement. This magazine will begin publication around January, 1968.

ROBERT DESVERNEY and DERRICK MORRISON, Negro Party members, will act as Editor and Business Manager, respectively of this publication.

3. WORKERS WORLD PARTY (WWP)* and YOUTH AGAINST WAR AND FASCISM (YAWF)*

The July 7, 1967, issue of "Workers World"* contains an article entitled "Youths Picket City Center to Support Black Struggle." The article states that YAWF in Buffalo, New York, picketed the Buffalo Jail in June, 1967, for release of Afro-Americans arrested during rioting in Buffalo. A YAWF leaflet read "It is not the Black People who are the looters; their very lives have been looted for centuries by a white, racist system in the United States."

The July 20, 1967, issue of "Workers World" contains an article entitled "Long Live the Newark Rebellion! Glorious Answer to Master Class." This article, in referring to Negro rioting in Newark, New Jersey, in July, 1967, states, "They did not die in vain. Those who were brutally murdered, mercilessly beaten, shot at, wounded and jailed will forever be remembered by the oppressed and exploited everywhere as symbols of glorious resistance to the unendurable oppression of a master class whose arrogance, cruelty and indifference to human life has few parallels in history. The cruel and inhuman vengence visited on the populace in the rebellious ghettoes by the terrorist apparatus of the bourgeoisie could not but leave a marked imprint on the consciousness of the Black People of Newark."

The August 3, 1967, issue of "Workers World" contains an article entitled "Black Revolution Sweeps On, Undaunted by the United States Government Terror." The article says "Inspired by the rebellion of Newark, the Black People of Detroit last week took up arms against their oppressors and carried out systematic guerrilla warfare to the best of their ability and to the extent of their limited military supplies. This was in the face of the crack troops and tanks of the United States Army as well as armed-to-the teeth police and national guard." The article continues stating that "Whether the revolutionary victory will come directly out of this warfare, or whether there is now a program commensurate to the boldness and daring of the Black fighters is not the point. The point is that a big revolution is gathering its forces together and testing itself in battle. The point is that millions have already come to the conclusion that they have nothing to lose but their chains and they have a world to win."

The October 20, 1967, issue of "Workers World" contains an article entitled "Youth Rally in Philadelphia Supports RAM Defendants." The article stated that a rally sponsored by YAWF was held in front of City Hall, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, on October 14, 1967, protesting the "plot" frame-up and jailing of seven Black militants, including members of the Revolutionary Action Movement (RAM)* in that city. The article attacked the white community, the police and city officials, who were accused of oppressing the Negro citizens of Philadelphia.

The November 30, 1967, issue of "Workers World" contains an article entitled "Washington to Step Up Infiltration of Afro-American Liberation Movement." The article stated that "more police-spy subversion, more frame-ups and more racist hysteria is what Washington planners have in mind for the Black liberation movement and its militant leaders." The article states that Washington "was so enthused over the Philadelphia 'experiment' in police frame-ups that the strategists of counter-revolution want to elevate Philadelphia Police Chief FRANK RIZZO's methods to nation-wide policy, with the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) taking over the role of the Birchite cadres."

B. Congress of Racial Equality (CORE)

1. Locality In Which Active

The address telephone directory for the City of New York, Borough of Manhattan, dated January 9, 1968 reflects that the National Office of CORE is located at 200 West 135th Street, New York, New York.

The "New York Post", a daily newspaper published in New York City, issue of June 19, 1967, page 16, reported that CORE's Associate Director, said that "National CORE has only an office staff which coordinates funds and communications between the 214 chapters throughout the country". Twenty-five of these chapters are in New York State and eight in New York City.

It is estimated that there are approximately 300 members of CORE, at the most, in New York City itself.

September 11, 1967

2. Stated Purposes

The "Oakland Tribune", a daily newspaper published in Oakland, California, issue of July 5, 1967, reported that winding up its National Convention in Oakland, CORE voted to amend Article II, Section II, of the present constitution. It had read "CORE is a national multi-racial organization". It was changed to read "CORE is a mass membership organization for implementing black power for black people". FLOYD MC KISSICK, National Director made it plain that he does not consider CORE a conventional civil rights organization. At a press conference following the convention's closing, MC KISSICK called CORE "an effective revolutionary movement, the common front for black people".

The "New York Times", issue of July 6, 1967, page 1, in an article reporting on the National Convention of CORE in Oakland, California, held June 30 through July 4, 1967, reported that FLOYD B. MC KISSICK, National Director of CORE, said that the convention had approved six programs for implementing Black Power. He said these programs were designed to develop political and economic power, build militant young leadership, develop consumer blocks, bring about better enforcement of Federal laws, improve the Negro's image of himself and give Negroes the right of self-determination.

The article also stated that CORE's move to become a front for unifying Negroes was evident throughout the convention.

3. Extent of Subversive Influence in National CORE

A source advised he had learned that BLYDEN JACKSON, during April, 1967, stated that he, JACKSON, had been "openly" in the Communist Party for the past five or six months and that while attending the last CORE Convention in Chicago, he attended a "top secret" meeting in a hotel and that during this meeting BETTY ROTONDI* had asked to be admitted to the meeting stating that she "knew all about the meeting" and that the Communist Party had paid her fare to Chicago for the Convention.

April 20, 1967

The July 12, 1967 issue of the "Metro-East Journal", an East St. Louis, Illinois Daily Newspaper, advised that TAYLOR JONES of East St. Louis, had been elected Chairman of the North-Central Region of CORE, at a recent national convention of CORE at Oakland, California. This post put JONES on CORE's national steering committee and on the organization's governing body, called National Action Committee.

TAYLOR JONES attended the Communist Party Youth Training School in New Jersey, from June 14 through 28, 1965, inclusive. At the end of his attendance he was recruited into the Communist Party. His first assignment was to attend a convention of CORE at Durham, North Carolina, with expenses paid by the Communist Party, United States of America (CP,USA).

September 22, 1965

A meeting of the North-Central Regional Action Council (RAC) was held in Davenport, Iowa, September 30 through October 1, 1967, at which a workshop was held on Black Nationalism There was no preparation or agenda for this workshop and the discussion followed no prepared outline.

Conversation at the workshop was militant in tone with all of those present feeling that additional so-called rebellions, as in Newark and Detroit, were unavoidable in urban areas in this country. There was some mixed feeling to the effect that such rebellion was beneficial to the Negro cause, in the sense that they served to unify Black people, gave them common cause, and that without such activities and violence on their part, the Negroes could not hope to escape from "Whitey's trap", that is, white domination.

Most of those at this workshop were in agreement that should the rebellion of Black people reach the stage where the present power structure is demoralized, as a result of a number of simultaneous flare-ups, some form of political control might be established over some sections of this country. In this event, some type of relationship should be attempted with some of the socialist, or Communist countries, since they were not really "bad people". In the socialist camp the Peking line was much more preferable to the Moscow faction, since the Peking oriented socialists were people of color.

October 4, 1967

The September 29, 1967 issue of the "Kingsman", a student newspaper, published at Brooklyn College, Brooklyn, New York, contains an article captioned "Summer Riots in America Subject of Du Bois Talks". This article states that "the riots that took place during the summer should really be termed rebellions as they are a decay of the capitalist system, stated RUTH PORTNEY, President of the W. E. B. Du Bois Club, at its meeting Wednesday."

The article also reflected that CALLIS BROWN, National Director of Community Relations for the Congress of Racial Equality, attended this meeting and said that funds which are presently being fed into the war in Vietnam could be better utilized if appropriated to improving conditions in the ghetto areas.

YOUNG SOCIALIST ALLIANCE

The May, 1960 issue of the "Young Socialist"(YS), page 1, column 3, disclosed that during April 15-17, 1960, a national organization entitled "The Young Socialist Alliance" (YSA) was established at Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. This issue stated that this organization was formed by the nationwide supporter clubs of the publication YS.

The above issue, page 6, set forth the Founding Declaration of the YSA. This declaration stated that the YSA recognizes the Socialist Workers Party (SWP) as the only existing political leadership on class struggle principles of revolutionary socialism.

On March 10, 1967, a source advised that the YSA was formed during 1957, by youth of various left socialist tendencies, particularly members and followers of the SWP. The source further advised that the YSA has recently become more open about admitting that it is the youth group of the SWP and that an SWP representative has publicly stated that the YSA is the SWP's youth group.

The headquarters of the YSA are located in Rooms 532-536, 41 Union Square West, New York City.

The SWP has been designated pursuant to Executive Order 10450.

RE: COMMUNIST PARTY, USA, NATIONAL ORGANIZATION COMMISSION MEETING, NEW YORK, NEW YORK, MARCH 17, 1968

A confidential source on March 18, 1968, advised that on March 17, 1968 the National Organization Commission of the Communist Party (CP), USA, held a meeting at 23 W. 26th Street, New York, New York. This address is the headquarters of the CP, USA.

Just prior to the meeting, HELEN WINTER, a CP national leader, remarked that the CP, USA would be holding a national industrial conference in Chicago, Illinois on April 6 and 7, 1968. HELEN WINTER indicated that each CP District was expected to send at least one representative.

Another national CP leader named JOSEPH BRANDT also made a comment prior to the meeting that the new Marxist publication, The Daily World, would not meet its publication date of May 1, 1968 as originally planned. BRANDT stated that the editorial staff of the new publication would be meeting at CP headquarters at the same time as the National Organization Commission and would discuss The Daily World and try to plan for an early publication date. BRANDT indicated that the new publication would probably not be on the streets before the middle of June, 1968.

The National Organization Commission commenced its meeting at about 1 P.M. on the first floor of CP headquarters with HENRY WINSTON, National Chairman, CP, USA, presiding over the meeting. CP members in attendance at the meeting included

RE: COMMUNIST PARTY, USA, NATIONAL ORGANIZATION COMMISSION MEETING, NEW YORK, NEW YORK, MARCH 17, 1968

HENRY WINSTON, HELEN WINTER, BETTY GANNETT, JAMES TORMEY, HYMAN LUMER, JACOB GREEN, SIDNEY TAYLOR, SANDY PATRINOS and MIKE STEIN.

At the outset, WINSTON commented that CP members ARNOLD JOHNSON, DANNY RUBIN, EDWARD TEIXIERA, IRVING POTASH and MIKE ZAGARELL were unable to attend the meeting.

At the direction of HENRY WINSTON, MIKE STEIN read a statement prepared by DANNY RUBIN which concerned the necessity of building the CP. The statement pointed out that the United States was in a state of crisis because of the Vietnam War, the racial situation and poverty areas throughout the country. STEIN indicated that this situation made it possible for the CP, USA to once again actively enter into working class areas throughout the United States.

WINSTON then spoke along the same lines. He said that the CP, USA should contact working people on strike, such as in the copper industry and keep in contact with those who are engaged in the struggle for Negro rights.

During the discussion that followed it was brought out that the conference to be held in Chicago, Illinois on April 6 and 7, 1968 would prepare the Party for the special convention which the CP, USA would hold in early July, 1968.

During the balance of the meeting which was concluded at about 4 P.M., WINSTON stated that the main objectives of the special convention would be the recruiting of more persons into the CP, USA, full promotion of the new Marxist publication, The Daily World and the formation, if possible, of a third political party.

After the meeting JOHN PITTMAN, one of the new co-editors of The Daily World who had been present at the editorial staff meeting of The Daily World, made the comment that the new Marxist publication would have great difficulty in preparing itself for publication even by the late Spring of 1968. PITTMAN complained that the persons responsible for preparing for publication were not cooperating and that he was not satisfied with those who had been selected to form the writing staff of the new publication.

SUBJECT: The Congressional Record

Page E618. Congressman Whitener, (D) North Carolina, placed in the Record an editorial entitled "If Evil Is Wrong, We're Right in Vietnam" written by Charles L. Deal, editor of the Newton (North Carolina) Observer-News-Enterprise. Mr. Whitener advised that Mr. Deal gives us the reason why every American should support his country in meeting the great challenge to freedom which communism has created in Southeast Asia and other areas of the world. Mr. Deal stated "A main source of concern today is how much doubt is being planted in this country by undercover communists. How much labor and racial strife has been communism-inspired." FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover is certain that communism is playing a role in civil unrest and certain persons who engaged in civil rights strife in the past are now well known as communists.

In the "Los Angeles Sentinel" of February 22, 1968, page 1A, was an article reporting that the "spectre of another Deadwyler case" hung over Los Angeles as the result of the fatal shooting of 18 year old Gregory Clark, 600 West 52nd Street, by the Los Angeles Police Department. Officers stated Clark was killed after he took away the service revolver of officer Sherwin Brown and shot him in the knee. One alleged witness stated this was not the case and Clark slipped as he was pulled from his car and fell, pulling one officer to the ground with him. The witness stated when Clark stood up the other officer shot him.

THE PEOPLE'S TRIBUNAL COMMITTEE
RACIAL MATTER

Reference is made to Los Angeles letterhead memorandum dated March 14, 1968, pertaining to the above captioned matter.

Sergeant J. Wambaugh, Newton Street Division, Los Angeles Police Department, advised on March 17, 1968, that at 3:30 p.m. that date, a mock trial of Los Angeles Police Officer Warren Carlson was held at South Park, 51st and Avalon Streets, Los Angeles, California. The trial was sponsored by the Los Angeles chapter of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee (SNCC). Wanted posters charging Carlson with murder were passed out to those in attendance and sound trucks in the immediate neighborhood advertised the trial.

Sergeant Wambough, supra, stated that about 250 Negro young adults, both male and female, were in attendance, including members of SNCC and the Black Panther Party. The Los Angeles Police Department set up a command post at 54th and Avalon Streets and held about 50 police officers in reserve at that point. Plainclothes police officers were in the crowd which was orderly.

A source, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised on March 17, 1968, of substantially the same information as furnished by Sergeant Wambaugh. However, in addition, he stated that there were some US members in attendance at this trial.

A second source, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised in January 1968 that US is a militant black nationalist organization which reflects the anti-white attitude of Ron Karenga.

Karenga has been publically identified as founder and chairman of US whose Articles of Incorporation were filed on September 14, 1966, with the Secretary of State, State of California.

This second source stated that Franklin Alexander was one of those who participated in the trial proceedings that found Carlson guilty.

A third source, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised on December 15, 1965, that Franklin Alexander was a member of the Medgar Evers Club, Southern California District of the Communist Party in 1965.

The second source also advised that the crowds at the trial was orderly and no incidents were observed. The meeting broke up at 6:00 p.m.

A confidential source, who has furnished reliable information in the past, on March 29, 1968, made available the following memorandum from WILLIAM L. PATTERSON, Chairman, and CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT, Secretary, Commission on Negro Affairs, Communist Party, USA:

ENCLOSURE

TO: MEMBERS OF THE COMMISSION ON NEGRO AFFAIRS AND DISTRICT ORGANIZERS

FROM: WILLIAM L. PATTERSON AND CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT
CHAIRMAN AND SECRETARY OF COMMISSION ON NEGRO AFFAIRS.

A revised draft of the Party Program is already in your hands. As already indicated the plan is to provide the broadest and deepest discussion possible.

There is no part of this program where a correct appraisal of things is of more imperative importance than the section on the Negro Question. Therefore, the draft before you should be considered as a working draft and there is need of probing in greater depth all the problems posed.

In order to facilitate such a discussion, the Commission on Negro Affairs has planned a program for the next few months that will add greater depth to a number of questions.

A number of leading comrades have been assigned to examine and report to the Commission on some of these questions. At the same time the work of such comrades will be helped if discussions take place in various Negro Commission district boards, etc., if individual comrades write articles for The Worker, P.A., etc., and finally if various comrades submit collective conclusions to the National center.

We, therefore, submit the areas of questions and problems that we consider requiring immediate attention.

First of all, in regard to the general nature of the document: We feel that it is a program and not a resolution. It must, therefore, have a lasting quality which is not cancelled out by this or that shift or zigzag in the nature of the struggle. This imposes the necessity for a document that is analytical in character and not merely descriptive or a response to a problem on a temporary basis. Its main thrust must propose solutions to problems on both an immediate and long range basis.

The following themes are presented:

1. Proposals which deal with the economic aspects of the Negro Question.

2. Problems in the area of political action.

3. Some ideological problems and social problems.

I. Under the heading of economic problems we wish to examine:

A. What is required to make substantial progress on the job front and to enhance income, role of trade unions, etc.

B. What is a program and solution for the problems of black people in the rural South?

C. A program for the middle strata of the black community.

D. A program for a fundamental rehabilitation of the ghetto.

II. In regard to political action:

A. A program that corresponds to the immediate situation as well as a long range solution. In regard to the latter - what structural changes are required to guarantee equality for a black minority in a majority white society. We need to probe into some possible slogans which will concretelytie up the black power slogan with areas where Negroes are a minority and must also wield power.

III. Ideological and social problems:

A. The means employed by industry and the banks, insurance companies and big real estate interests to assure the continuance of racism and the separation of the races. (use of governmental apparatus, etc.)

B. The housing problem and the enlargement of ghettos - its effect on education, health, etc., and its genocidal impact on black psychology.

C. A program to combat the above must present a critique as to whether private enterprise can affect such a change...if not, why not? Or, to what extent big business can be forced to make concessions, and how far.

D. A decision on the Negroes as an Internal Colony. We must show why it is important to have a correct estimate on this problem.

E. Finally, what is our position on integration?

We do not feel that these subjects exhaust the questions and problems before us. You are asked to enlarge the scope as you see fit. We believe that the subtitles do ennempass the main ones.

A New Politics Convention meeting was held on March 2, 1968, at the First Church of Albany, Albany, New York. Approximately 300 individuals were in attendance. The purpose of this meeting was to select candidates for the November, 1968, elections for the office of president and vice president. They were also to select a place for a national convention, rules for the convention and credentials necessary to attend the convention. They were also to discuss a program, a platform,and to establish general preparations for the proposed convention.

Of the 300 individuals in attendance, it was estimated that approximately 50 were Negro. Of the 50 Negroes in attendance, approximately 30 organized a black caucus as the Negro representation to that meeting. Among the members of the black caucus were:

FLO KENNEDY, an attorney from New York City; JANET WASHINGTON, of New York City; HORACE PERRYMAN, of Schenectady, New York; NATE SMITH, of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania; Mr. STOREY, of New York City; GIL BANKS, of Brooklyn, New York; and eight members of "The Brothers", a militant Negro organization from Albany, New York.

The purpose of the caucus was to establish at the planning conference the 50 - 50 representation on all committees. The caucus also decided that they would nominate DICK GREGORY for President, and Dr. SPOCK for Vice President.

(AL T-1 on March 6, 1968)

On March 3, 1968, an Upstate Communist Party Council was held at the Ten Eyck Hotel, Albany, New York. The purpose of the council was to discuss the New Politics meeting which had been held the day before, on March 2, 1968, in Albany, New York.

At the council, it was decided that the New York State Communist Party would do all it could to help the third party movement. There was a lengthy discussion regarding the Negro caucus which was a part of the third party conference, but no conclusions were really reached regarding what support the state party would give them. It was decided that the black caucus situation would be discussed at the club level with a person from the state committee attending each club meeting during the time of this planned black caucus discussion.

MIKE DWORKIN of the CDCP, voiced his opinion that he was quite upset at the way the CP handled the third party movement and the Negro caucus. DWORKIN advised that as far as the third party movement is concerned, he thinks the CP, by endorsing and backing it, may be backing a loser. He stated that he is not sure the people are ready for a third political party at this time.

COMMUNIST INFLUENCE IN RACIAL MATTERS
INTERNAL SECURITY - C

A confidential source, who has furnished reliable information in the past, on April 8, 1968, made available the following letter from HENRY WINSTON concerning a new book by CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT:

("The Worker, an east coast communist newspaper, issue of June 28, 1966, reported that HENRY WINSTON had been elected National Chairman of the Communist Party (CP), USA, at its 18th National Convention, held in New York City, June 22 - 26, 1966.

A second source, who has furnished reliable information in the past, stated on December 13, 1967, that CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT is Chairman of the National Negro Commission of the CP, USA.)

TO ALL DISTRICTS

FROM GHETTO REBELLION TO BLACK LIBERATION

A new book by Claude Lightfoot

Dear Comrades:

The purpose of this letter is to announce the forthcoming appearance of the book From Ghetto Rebellion to Black Liberation written by Claude Lightfoot.

This major work will be off the press by the end of May. This book is a major Marxist contribution on the present period and will be of invaluable help in the fight against racism in general and for the unity of black and white in the struggle against Negro oppression.

The book will appear at the beginning of summer and must become a major ideological weapon which is brought not only to the Party but to all activists in the Peace, Labor, Negro and Youth movements.

This book has been long awaited and the spontaneous reaction to it has been most heartwarming. An example is the fact that the New York State organization is undertaking to distribute some 1500 copies of the book and Illinois, 1000. The initial printing will be some 10,000.

To fulfill and overfulfill such a quota will necessitate the development of a massive ideological campaign to put it across.

We therefore wish to call to the attention of all leaderships this event which has such enormous importance for the struggle for the rights of the Negro people which is the pivot of the struggle for democracy and peace in the country.

I urge that you communicate with us and let us know the quantity of books that your district will undertake to sell. You will receive from New Outlook specific data relating to the size of the book, its price and the important question of discount. We wish to do a mass job on this.

May I hear from you as to your discussion and conclusions?

Fraternally yours,

HENRY WINSTON,
Chairman.

THE PEOPLE'S TRIBUNAL COMMITTEE

"Open City" an underground newspaper published in Los Angeles, in it's issue dated March 22 - 28, 1968, carried an article which was captioned "Cop Wanted For Murder". The article indicated that Warren Carlson was found guilty on March 17, 1968, in a trial that was conducted in South Park "deep in the heart of the ghetto." The jurors were 300 angry residents of the black ghetto, who rendered their guilty verdict with "angry curses."

The People's Tribunal was led by Franklin Alexander who acted as prosecuting attorney. Deacon Alexander served as defense attorney for Warren Carlson, who failed to appear. Seven black judges conducted the meeting: Margaret Wright, of the United Parents Council; Rene Harding, a member of Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee; Brother Banks of the Black Panther Party; Walter Bremond, chairman of the Los Angeles Black Congress; Edgar Edwards, "Heishinu" of the US organization; and Harold Hart-Nibbrig, manager of the Watts ACLU Police Malpractices Complaint Center.

The article indicated that none of the eye-witnesses to the shooting were present to testify and none of the members of the Clark family were present at the "trial".

A second source, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised that Franklin Alexander was a member of the Medger Evers Club of the Southern California District of the Communist Party as of November 1965. (U)

A third source, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised that Deacon Alexander was a subscriber to the "People's World" in 1968. (U)

The "People's World" is a West Coast communist newspaper which is published weekly in San Francisco.

The first source, previously mentioned, advised that Deacon Alexander was among those who attended the annual testimonial dinner of the Los Angeles Committee for the Defense of the Bill of Rights (see Appendix).

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

A fourth source, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised that Margaret Wright was one of the speakers at a meeting of the Militant Labor Forum which was held on March 8, 1968, at 1702 East 4th Street, Los Angeles, California. (U)

A fifth source, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised on January 12, 1966, that the Militant Labor Forum is another name used by the Los Angeles Local-Socialist Workers Party (see appendix) to conceal it's sponsorship of certain activities. (U)

It is to be noted that on March 6, 1968, Margaret Wright was sentenced in Los Angeles Municipal Court to pay a fine of $200 and given two years probation for her part in the disturbance at Manual Arts High School in Los Angeles in 1967.

The Black Congress is a coalition of militant and non-militant black nationalist organizations.

The Articles of Incorporation filed on September 14, 1966, with the Secretary of State, State of California, indicate US is a non-profit organization with office located at 8211 South Broadway, Los Angeles, California. The April 1967, issue of "Sepia", a monthly nationwide magazine aimed at the mass negro market, published in Fort Worth, Texas, quoted Ronald Mc Kinley Everett, also known as Ron Karenga as follows: US is a cultural organization with the purpose of giving to black people a frame of reference. Karenga has been publicly identified and founder and chairman of US.

A sixth source, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised in January 1968, that US is a militant black nationalist organization which reflects the anti-white attitude of Karenga, who has recently made inflammatory public statements advising Negroes not to support the war in Vietnam. He has also made bitter verbal attacks against the white man whenever presented with the opportunity. (U)

RE: COMMUNIST PARTY, USA,

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS, APRIL 6 AND 7, 1968

At the outset of the meeting there was a moment of silence in memory of Dr. MARTIN LUTHER KING. (X)(U)

About 10:35 A.M., GEORGE MEYERS, who is the Labor Secretary, CP, USA, introduced GUS HALL, CP, USA General Secretary. (X)(U)

HALL advised those present that HENRY WINSTON, CP, USA National Chairman had been unable to attend the conference because of the death of Dr. KING. HALL then added that a number of other persons who had expected to attend were not present because of the death of Dr. KING or for personal reasons. (X)(U)

HALL then praised Dr. KING because of his efforts on the part of the Negro who was seeking equal opportunities in the United States. HALL said that the plans of labor to stop work as a tribute to Dr. KING were an indication that his memory was held in high regard. (X)(U)

A discussion then followed in which most of those present expressed the opinion that white people should not only engage in activities against the war in Vietnam but should also more actively assist the Negro in his struggle for equal rights. (X)(U)

Most of those present stated that the CP, USA must always work for Negro and white unity in all activities whether it were civil rights or for peace. (X)(U)

After lunch, which took place between 12:30 P.M. and 1:30 P.M., GEORGE MEYERS stated that he would speak on industrial concentration and that afterwards he hoped to hear a report on the Negro question from TOM DENNIS and a report from DANNY RUBIN, the head of the CP, USA National Organization Commission on recruiting of new members into the CP, USA. RE: COMMUNIST PARTY, USA, ~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

MEYERS spoke at length on the need of the CP, USA to concentrate its effort in trade unions. He said that he had traveled all over the United States and there was considerable dissatisfaction particularly among the lower paid industrial workers. MEYERS said a great number of these were Negroes. MEYERS said that these industrial workers who were at the bottom of the ladder had to work on a basis of Negro and white unity or their employers would play the poor Negro against the poor white.

MEYERS then stated that Dr. KING, in his efforts to stop racism, had been in touch with many of the industrial workers and that his efforts should be carried on by the CP, USA.

MEYERS stated that the ruling classes in the United States wanted to carry on racism as a policy since it would keep the poor people divided.

MEYERS stated that a new Marxist publication called The Daily World would soon be published. He said that this publication would help to bring new members into the CP, USA and would open up contacts for the CP, USA in labor.

MEYERS then stated that it had been a long time since a conference of this type had been held and he felt that it was important.

At the end of MEYERS' talk, GUS HALL proposed that a committee of three which would consist of CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT, TOM DENNIS and DANNY RUBIN should draw up a program of action of the CP, USA in connection with contacts with trade unions.

At 5:30 P.M. GUS HALL stated that there would be an adjournment for supper but that he would like members of the CP, USA National Organization Commission to remain in the room so that he could talk with them privately.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

RE: COMMUNIST PARTY, USA,

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS, APRIL 6 AND 7, 1968

After the meeting was adjourned, 16 individuals remained in the room with GUS HALL. The following were identified: (U)

GUS HALL	RALPH NELSON
GEORGE MEYERS	MICKEY LIMA
CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT	CARL WINTER
BETTY SMITH	HERSCHEL WALKER
JACK KLING	DANNY RUBIN
ANTON KRCHMAREK	FRANCES GABOW
JACOB GREEN

HALL advised the group that he had just been talking with HENRY WINSTON by phone and had learned that the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC) had been debating whether to call for a general strike or a national memorial service for Dr. KING. HALL said that on the following Monday, April 8, 1968, the SCLC would meet in Atlanta, Georgia and that he felt that some of the CP national leaders should go to Atlanta. (U)

HALL stated that Mrs. KING and Dr. ABERNATHY would carry on Dr. KING's work in connection with demonstrations in Memphis, Tennessee on behalf of the sanitation workers who are on strike. HALL said that he felt that some of the national leaders of the CP, USA should go to Memphis. (U)

HALL said that originally there were plans for the CP, USA National Executive Board to meet April 9 and 10, 1968 but that this would be postponed because of the fact that some of the persons who would normally be in attendance would be either in Atlanta or in Memphis. (U)

A discussion then followed concerning an SCLC sponsored work stoppage or memorial. It was felt that the CP, USA should not try to influence the SCLC. It was also felt that a national memorial would have a greater effect on the country. (U)

RE: COMMUNIST PARTY, USA,
INDUSTRIAL CONFERENCE, WABASH YWCA,
WABASH AND 9TH AVENUES,
CHICAGO, ILLINOIS, APRIL 6 AND 7, 1968

After further discussion it was decided that GEORGE MEYERS, TOM DENNIS, HENRY WINSTON and CHARLENE ALEXANDER should go to Memphis and that CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT, MICKEY LIMA, ARNOLD JOHNSON and one other would go to Atlanta. (C) (U)

Just prior to the end of this short meeting, HALL said he hoped to have the National Executive Board meet on April 11 and 12, 1968. (C) (U)

After supper the meeting was resumed at about 6:40 P.M. There was discussion until about 7:45 P.M., at which time HALL asked for an adjournment until 9 A.M. the following day. (C) U

The source advised that the industrial conference was resumed at about 9 A.M. on April 7, 1968 at the Wabash YWCA. (C) U

After the election of FRANCES GABOW as Chairman, TOM DENNIS talked about Negro workers in the United Automobile Workers Union. He made the statement that the Negroes were employed in menial jobs and that there was considerable discrimination against them. (C) U

After DENNIS had talked about the Negro workers he announced that he had been selected to read a resolution concerning the death of Dr. KING which had been written in longhand by GEORGE MEYERS. (C) U

Just prior to the reading of the resolution, FRANCES GABOW announced that 10,000 copies of a special issue of The Worker had been passed out in Chicago. This issue concerned the life of Dr. KING and stressed the significance of his death. (C) U

The Worker is an East Coast Communist newspaper.

TOM DENNIS then read the resolution which in brief stressed that the CP, USA would be engaged in carrying on the work begun by Dr. KING. (A) u

There was discussion on the resolution with some criticism of the fact that it seemed to indicate that white people were not interested in civil rights. After this criticism, MEYERS indicated that he would modify the resolution to show that Dr. KING's work would be carried on in the spirit of Negro and white unity. (A) u

DANNY RUBIN then told the group that all CP districts should immediately set up an industrial club which would be devoted to increasing subscriptions to the new Marxist publication The Daily World and should have as a secondary objective the recruiting of new members into the CP, USA. RUBIN said that he hoped to have 2,000 new members in the CP, USA by April, 1969. (A) u

RUBIN then announced that when The Daily World made its initial appearance it would publish 50,000 copies. (A) u

FRANCES GABOW then said that she had ten persons who were scheduled to speak. GUS HALL stated that because of the curfew these ten speakers would have to be cancelled. (A) u

HALL then stated in the closing remarks that the purpose of the conference had been to discuss industrial concentration by the CP, USA and the building of a working class newspaper. He went on to say that a number of comrades were not sympathetic to either of these objectives and had deliberately stayed away from the conference. He described these persons as middle class who had no understanding of true communism. (A) u

HALL then stated that the type of meeting they had just attended was important and as long as he was General (A) u

HALL then talked of the national coming elections and said that even though President JOHNSON had decided not to run, the CP, USA could not depend on ROBERT KENNEDY or EUGENE MC CARTHY because they were both representatives of the ruling class. HALL said that the CP, USA must of necessity, set up a third party. (A) u

At 12:50 P.M. the conference was closed. (A) u

W.E.B. DU BOIS CLUBS OF AMERICA (DCA)

A source advised that on October 26-27, 1963, a conference of members of the Communist Party, USA (CPUSA), including national functionaries, met in Chicago, Illinois, for the purpose of setting in motion forces for the establishment of a new national Marxist-oriented youth organization which would hunt for the most peaceful transition to socialism. The delegates were told that it would be reasonable to assume that the young socialists attracted into this new organization would eventually pass into the CP itself.

A second source has advised that the founding convention for the new youth organization was held from June 19-21, 1964, at 150 Golden Gate Avenue, San Francisco, California, at which time the name W.E.B. Du Bois Clubs of America (DCA) was adopted. Approximately 500 delegates from throughout the United States attended this convention.

The second source advised in September, 1966, that MIKE ZAGARELL, CPUSA Youth Director, stated that in Negro communities the Party still supported the plan to build "left" socialist centers and to solidify the Party base through the DCA. This source also advised in September, 1966, that DANIEL RUBIN, CPUSA National Organizational Secretary, stated the Party believes the DCA should have a working class outlook and be a mass organization favorable to socialism, socialist countries and Marxism, and in April, 1967, GUS HALL, CPUSA, General Secretary, indicated that the DCA primary emphasis should be on developing mass resistance to the draft.

A third source advised in September, 1967, that JARVIS TYNER was elected chairman of the DCA on September 10, 1967, near the conclusion of the Third National Convention of the DCA held in New York, New York, from September 8-10, 1967.

A fourth source advised during August, 1967, that JARVIS TYNER is a member of the National Committee of the CPUSA.

A fifth confidential source advised on September 21, 1967, that the headquarters of the DCA is located at 34 West 17th Street, New York, New York.

SUBJECT: ASSASSINATION OF MARTIN LUTHER KING

Classified by 8973 DK/sch
Declassify on: OADR

Since the assassination of Martin Luther King, we have been closely following the activities of Stanley Levison and leaders of the Communist Party, USA (CPUSA), to determine what effect this event has had on the efforts of both Levison and the Party to continue to exploit racial problems in this country.

As you recall, Levison is a former clandestine member of the CPUSA who gravitated to the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC) and subsequently became King's principal advisor. Since the assassination of King, Levison has been summoned to Atlanta, Georgia, the headquarters of SCLC, for two important policy-making conferences, the most recent being 4/15/68. To date, our sources have been unable to furnish the results of this conference. However, from information received, it appears that Levison will continue to work within SCLC and channel his efforts toward fund raising. Levison's preference for replacement of King was Andrew Young, Executive Vice President of SCLC, rather than Ralph Abernathy, who has been made King's successor. Thus, it appears that Levison will continue to play a dominant role in the activities of SCLC as he has in the past. It should be noted that Harry Wachtel, another former advisor of King with a subversive background, was invited to attend the 4/15/68 meeting. It would appear that Levison, working with Wachtel, will continue to exert influence on SCLC.

With regard to the reaction of the CPUSA, it is noted that as soon as news of the assassination was announced, the CPUSA moved, as expected, to exploit the situation to its own advantage. A special issue of "The Worker," east coast communist newspaper, was prepared eulogizing King and attacking racism in the U. S. Copies were shipped to each Party district for mass distribution.

RE: ASSASSINATION OF MARTIN LUTHER KING

An emergency meeting was held in the national office of the Party on 4/5/68. Party leaders called for work stoppages in industry at any level just so long as there was some action. The Party attempted to tie the assassination in with shop conditions and the whole question of racism and the rights of the Negro people through seeking statements from trade unions and mass organizations which called for action on jobs, housing, and education for the Negro people and demanded racists be disarmed and their organizations disbanded. (S) NW

On 4/6-7/68, approximately 60 Party members, including top leadership, attended a National Industrial Conference in Chicago. Gus Hall, General Secretary, CPUSA, eulogized King and noted that the Party should be alert to all events, not just those similar to the death of King, and take advantage of these events to develop them to higher levels to bring advancement to the Party. (S) NW

The conference passed resolutions to extend sympathy to King's family and the Nation from the Party; to support the sanitation workers in Memphis; to have the Party conduct a drive to organize unorganized workers in the South; and to have the Party commence an all-out fight against racism, with each member giving special effort to end discrimination in his job and neighborhood. (S) NW

Information set forth above has been disseminated to the Department and the military intelligence agencies.

A. PLANS, STRATEGY, PARTY LINE AND THE LIKE AT NATIONAL MEETINGS, INCLUDING EXPRESSIONS BY NATIONAL AND OTHER FUNCTIONARIES.

On February 9, 1968, IH T-1 advised that CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT, Secretary of Negro Affairs, CPUSA, was the speaker at a meeting of the Philadelphia Social Science Forum Committee (PSSFC) held on Friday, February 16, 1968, at the Hotel Philadelphia, Broad and Wood Streets, Philadelphia, Pa.

A characterization of the PSSFC appears in the Appendix Section of this report.

This source further advised that this meeting of the PSSFC was held in the form of a debate between LIGHTFOOT and WALTER PALMER, a black power advocate and leader of the movement known as the Black People's Unity Movement, which is a one man black power organization used by PALMER to identify himself when speaking publicly. The topic of the debate was entitled "Two Views" and dealt with the Negro and the path he should take in present-day America.

PALMER began his topic by stating his movement called for self-determination, polarization of theory and philosophy, and nationhood. He is opposed to imperialism, exploitation, and racism. He claimed the white people should cleanse themselves of their prejudices before they begin to participate in the black liberation movement. He further stated the Communist Party (CP) does not possess the solution to the problem of the Negro. Also the CP has never dealt seriously with the Negro question.

CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT began his presentation by congratulating PALMER for having the courage to share the platform with a Communist. He stated, however, that he wanted PALMER to know that the Communists have also been victims of the white power structure. He claimed that self-determination is a phrase first used by the CP but the CP later learned the Negro wanted to be integrated and accepted in society and did not want self-determination. LIGHTFOOT further stated the CP has and will always work for the rights of all workers, both black and white.

PALMER in his summation stated that KARL MARX did not deal with racism and neither has the CP. LIGHTFOOT stated that interracial groups are needed, as well as completely black groups. He reiterated that the CP had fought and spoken for many Negroes in this country.

A question directed to LIGHTFOOT inquired as to the policy of the CP toward black power. LIGHTFOOT stated the CP supports the freedom of the black people. The CP has endorsed the policy that black people should and must defend themselves but it does not advocate the use of guns to provoke attack.

B. PLANS, STRATEGY, PARTY LINE AND THE LIKE MADE AT DISTRICT AND LOWER LEVEL MEETINGS, INCLUDING EXPRESSIONS BY LOCAL LEADERS AND RANK AND FILE MEMBERS

On February 23, 1968, PH T-2 advised that at a meeting of the Southwest Club of the Communist Party of Eastern Pennsylvania and Delaware (CPEPD), held on February 22, 1968, JEAN FRANTJIS, a member of the District Board, CPEPD, discussed the meeting of the PSSFC held on February 16, 1968. She claimed the members of the CPEPD did not attend this meeting as they should and LIGHTFOOT did not draw attendance as desired. She was very critical of LIGHTFOOT's talk, stating it was not organized. He used no notes and he did not help the CP in any manner whatsoever. She also criticized the fact that LIGHTFOOT did not give a history of how the CP assisted the black man for many years in attempting to achieve civil rights. In contrast to LIGHTFOOT, FRANTJIS claimed that PALMER was well prepared and well versed on his topic.

This source further stated that others at this meeting were critical of LIGHTFOOT and agreed with the comments made by FRANTJIS.

II. COMMUNIST TACTICS

A. APPEARANCE OF MARTIN LUTHER KING IN PHILADELPHIA FEBRUARY 9, 1968

On February 8, 1968, Lieutenant GEORGE FENCL advised that MARTIN LUTHER KING, President, Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC), planned to visit Philadelphia on February 9 and 10, 1968.

FENCL later advised that KING arrived in Philadelphia from New York City at 7:30 a.m. on February 9, 1968, to hold a meeting with Negro ministers at St. Thomas Church, 52nd and Parrish Streets, Philadelphia, Pa. KING had four other groups scheduled to meet for an hour and an hour and a half a piece until 4 p.m. when a free period was scheduled, and then additional meetings that evening from 8 p.m. until midnight. Since no more than 15 people showed up to take part in KING's activity at the church, he held a press conference at 11:45 a.m. His remarks to the assembled press dealt mainly with the Vietnam war, a national policy of the U.S. Government, and the incident involving the USS Pueblo.

KING left the church for lunch and shortly after 3 p.m. he reluctantly returned to the church to address the group with the stipulation that he spend no more than 15 minutes with them. Only approximately 20 people were present at this meeting.

KING left the church at approximately 4 p.m. and returned at 8:20 p.m. to appear before a group of individuals identified as Afro-American groups, militants, and educational people. There were approximately 30 people in attendance and this meeting lasted no more than 20 minutes.

KING's plans for meetings on Saturday morning, February 10, 1968, were cancelled as KING was suffering from laryngitis. KING left Philadelphia at 12:30 p.m., on February 10, 1968, en route to Atlanta, Georgia.

B. APPEARANCE OF DICK GREGORY IN PHILADELPHIA, FEBRUARY 27, 1968

On February 28, 1968, PH T-1 advised that on February 27, 1968, DICK GREGORY appeared in Philadelphia at the Antioch United Church, 11th and Huntingdon Street. About 300 people were present at this meeting which was sponsored by the Pennsylvania Peace and Freedom Party, which was sponsoring his candidacy for the office of President of the United States. According to this source, 16 individuals known as members of the CPEPD were in attendance at this meeting. He indicated that if he should become President, the first thing he would do would be to paint the white house black; secondly, he would bring back all the boys from Vietnam. GREGORY vowed to keep fighting for the completion of the revolution, and he appealed to the audience to help collect the necessary signatures to place him on the Pennsylvania ballot.

PHILADELPHIA SOCIAL SCIENCE FORUM COMMITTEE

A source advised on November 14 and 17, 1958 that a meeting of the District Education Commission, Communist Party of Eastern Pennsylvania and Delaware (CPEPD), was held November 13, 1958 at 3425 Powelton Avenue, Philadelphia. At this meeting, DANIEL RUBIN, the District Education Director, presented a proposal for a series of forums under the nominal sponsorship of the Philadelphia Social Science Forum Committee (PSSFC). The source stated that PSSFC was merely a paper organization and this series of forums was organized by the District Education Commission and had to be approved by the District Committee (CPEPD) before being put into effect.

This source stated on June 12, 1959, November 5, 1959, and October 21, 1960 that the PSSFC remained under the control of the District Education Commission, CPEPD.

A second source reported on October 9, 1961, that the District Executive Committee (DEC), CPEPD, met on October 2, 1961, and approved plans to hold and to support a new series of forums of PSSFC beginning November 10, 1961, and ending in May, 1962.

The second source on May 8, 1964, advised that the main purpose of the PSSFC is to bring to Philadelphia well known speakers who have a pro-Communist point of view. Included among the speakers each year are national leaders of the Communist Party, USA.

The second source added on May 15, 1967, that the PSSFC continued to meet during 1962 through 1967 and that it remains under the control of the CPEPD.

COMMUNIST INFILTRATION OF SOUTHERN CHRISTIAN LEADERSHIP CONFERENCE
INTERNAL SECURITY - C

COMMUNIST INFLUENCE IN RACIAL MATTERS
INTERNAL SECURITY - C

On April 22, 1968, a confidential source advised he understood that in connection with the assumption of Reverend Ralph D. Abernathy to the position of President, Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC) this organization has [redacted]. Corretta Scott King, widow of Reverend Martin Luther King, Jr., has been added to the staff of SCLC [redacted]. It is expected that Corretta Scott King will assist SCLC in a fund-raising capacity by filling speaking engagements and appearing in concerts from time to time. b7D

Harry Belafonte and Stanley Levison since the death of Reverend King have expressed considerable concern that one or more officers or employees of SCLC may endeavor to capitalize financially by publicizing their relationship with Reverend King. As a consequence, Belafonte and Levison are currently perfecting an arrangement which will require each SCLC officer to sign an agreement to the effect he will not write a book, make speeches, recordings, or otherwise endeavor to capitalize on his past association with Reverend King.

Subsequent to the shooting of Reverend King, Junius Griffin, former Director of Publicity, SCLC, has spent considerable time with the staff of SCLC collecting material to be used in an SCLC recording (details not known) to be prepared by Moton (phonetic), a recording business in Detroit, Michigan, with which Griffin is currently affiliated.

Mr. Lawrence stated "Communist organizations are believed to be in the background. It is to their interest to provoke as much discord as possible inside the United States. - - - - The U. S. Senate Internal Security subcommittee charged in 1966 that the Communist party had played a key role in the campus revolts throughout the country. J. Many members of Congress suspect that a Communist angle exists in the plots and planned disorders. - - - - The administration in power has the responsibility for maintenance of public order here. I. COMMUNIST STRATEGY

No information has been developed.

II. COMMUNIST TACTICS

The Communist Party (CP) of Utah in the early part of January, 1968, received from CP, USA, National Headquarters, New York City, New York, a copy of the text of a keynote speech delivered by JAMES FORMAN at the Western Regional Black Youth Conference held in Los Angeles, California, November 23, 1967.

(SU T-1, 1/10/68)

The CP of Utah on January 21, 1968, received from CP, USA, National Headquarters a "Memorandum On Negro History Month, February, 1968." This was issued by the National Education Department of CP, USA, and is five pages in length. Also received was "Outline For Club Discussion On 'Black Power and Liberation: A Communist Viewpoint'". This is a two-page Outline dated January 15, 1968.

(SU T-1, 1/21/68)

In the early part of February, 1968, the CP of Utah received a communication dated February 5, 1968, from the National Literature Commission of the CP, USA. This announced that a ninety-page special issue of "Political Affairs," entitled "The Battle For Black Liberation," would soon be off the press and encouraged its wide use.

(SU T-1, 2/12/68)

"Political Affairs" is self-described as the theoretical journal of the CP, USA.

About the middle of February, 1968, the CP of Utah received from CP, USA, National Headquarters a mimeographed communication dated February 14, 1968, entitled "Orangeburg, South Carolina," which pertains to alleged racist atrocities there. The CP of Utah at the same time received a mimeographed "Statement" on the "Orangeburg Massacre," issued over the names of HENRY WINSTON, National Chairman, and GUS HALL, General Secretary of the CP, USA.

ROBERT ARCHULETA was the Secretary-Treasurer of the CP of Utah until June, 1968. During the time he was Secretary-Treasurer, he handled the receipt of mail through the post office box used by the CP of Utah. Among items he received were the following [redacted] b6 b7C

A mimeographed letter dated June 19, 1967, from the National Organization Secretary of the CP, USA, to the effect the CP, USA, had decided to do a mass job around the "Open Letter to the President On Problems of the Hot Summer."

A copy of this pamphlet, which alleges mistreatment of Negroes at home and abroad.

(SU T-1, 3/6/68)

ROBERT ARCHULETA was formerly the Secretary-Treasurer of the CP of Utah until June, 1968. He is presently the Educational Director of the Salt Lake County Club of the CP of Utah.

(SU T-1, 3/27/68)

The CP of Utah on March 10, 1968, received a mimeographed one-page News Release, dated March 1, 1968, entitled "Statement of Communist Leaders on Report Of National Advisory Committee On Civil Disorders." This was issued by the Chairman and Secretary of the Negro Affairs Commission of the CP, USA. It commends the report of the President's National Advisory Committee on Civil Disorders and states this report has nothing in common with President JOHNSON's racist State of the Union Message.

(SU T-1, 3/13/68)

The CP of Utah on March 29, 1968, received from CP, USA, National Headquarters an undated memorandum from the Chairman and Secretary of the Commission On Negro Affairs, CP, USA. This emphasizes the importance of the section of the CP, USA, Draft Program dealing with the Negro question. It treats economic problems, political action problems, and ideological and social problems.

(SU T-1, 4/1/68)

The CP of Utah on April 7, 1968, received from CP, USA, National Headquarters the following items:

(1) An announcement over the name of HENRY WINSTON, Chairman, CP, USA, of the issuance of a forthcoming book entitled "From Ghetto Rebellion To Black Liberation." This book was written by CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT, Secretary of the Commission On Negro Affairs, CP, USA. The communication urges that a mass job be done on this book.

(2) A News Release of CP, USA, dated April 4, 1968, which states among other things that racism murdered MARTIN LUTHER KING, bringing about a sad and shameful day for Americans.

(3) An undated News Release of the CP, USA, entitled "Dr. King's Legacy." This is a three-page News Release over the names of HENRY WINSTON, National Chairman, and GUS HALL, General Secretary, CP, USA. It points out that KING was leading two struggles at the time of his death, one being the move to help the black sanitation strikers in Memphis, Tennessee, and the other being the organizing of a crusade against poverty with a March On Washington. The Release alleges that the Federal Government and the police of Memphis could have prevented the killing of Dr. KING.

(SU T-1, 4/10/68)

The items received by the CP of Utah from CP, USA, National Headquarters pertaining to Negro matters have in most instances been read only by a few key members of the CP of Utah. Very little has been done to implement the items received from CP, USA, National Headquarters by any specific action or other procedure among the Negroes.

(SU T-1, 4/24/68)

III. COMMUNIST PENETRATION AND INFLUENCE IN RACIAL AND OTHER ORGANIZATIONS

About the middle of January, 1968, ROBERT ARCHULETA agreed to serve on the Education Scholarship Committee of the Credit Union of the Salt Lake City, Utah, Branch of the National Association For The Advancement Of Colored People (NAACP) if it did not require too much work and time.

(SU T-2, 2/1/68)

The Salt Lake City Branch of the NAACP held its monthly membership meeting in Salt Lake City on February 5, 1968. The guest speaker was the Attorney General for the State of Utah, who discussed the Federal Housing Bill. Six of those present were members of the CP of Utah.

(SU T-2, 2/8/68)

The Salt Lake County Club of the CP of Utah held a meeting in Salt Lake City on March 5, 1968. ROBERT ARCHULETA distributed copies of the February, 1968, issue of "Political Affairs." This was a special issue entitled "Black Liberation." ARCHULETA made an assignment to one of those present to lead a discussion on the contents of this "Political Affairs" issue at the next meeting of the club.

(SU T-2, 3/7/68)

The Salt Lake County Club of the CP of Utah held a meeting on March 28, 1968, in Salt Lake City. One of the members led a discussion of an article from "Political Affairs" for February, 1968, entitled "Paths To Black Liberation." It was stated that the Negro could obtain full equality only under socialism.

(SU T-2, 4/1/68)

The Credit Union of the Salt Lake City Branch of the NAACP held a fund-raising banquet in Salt Lake City on March 29, 1968. Six of those present were members of the CP of Utah.

(SU T-1, 4/10/68
SU T-2, 4/3/68
SU T-3, 4/10/68)

There are currently about 350 paid-up members of the Salt Lake City Branch of the NAACP. Problems continue to exist for Negroes and other minorities with respect to open housing in Utah, but it is anticipated that the recent passage of the Federal Fair Housing Bill will greatly improve this situation. The weak situation of Negroes in Utah is still considered to be at least partly attributed to the attitude of the Mormon Church, because of the fact that the Mormon Church is the dominant religious group in Utah and denies its priesthood to Negroes. There is still no indication that any solution to this problem exists in the foreseeable future.

On April 7, 1968, the Salt Lake City Branch of the NAACP participated with Negro churches and other organizations, both Negro and Caucasian, in Salt Lake City in a Memorial March to honor Dr. MARTIN LUTHER KING, who had been killed on April 4, 1968. The NAACP has no plans to hold additional demonstrations on any issue within the near future.

Dr. PALMER S. ROSS, Pastor of Trinity African, Methodist, Episcopal Church, Salt Lake City, continues as the President of the NAACP, Salt Lake City. He is considered to be a moderate in his approach to racial problems and desires to work with Negroes, Caucasians and others in bringing about improvement in the status of Negroes. He is generally opposed to demonstrations in solving civil rights problems.

Dr. ROSS does not consider that the CP is a serious threat to the NAACP or racial matters in Utah but has on occasion made statements to the effect that association with persons considered to be communists should be avoided.

There are no suspected members of the CP who are considered to be in a position to materially influence the NAACP, Salt Lake City, in its policies. Included among the current members of the NAACP are the following:

ROBERT ARCHULETA, [redacted] membership expires April 18, 1969.

UDA HANSON, [redacted] membership expires February 15, 1969.

(SU T-2, 4/23/68)

UDA HANSON is a member of the CP of Utah at the present time.

B. Workers World Party (WWP)

A characterization of the WWP appears in the appendix attached hereto.

As reported in December, 1967, the WWP in Milwaukee was discussing the possibility of engaging in demonstrations aimed at the Allen-Bradley Company in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, for the purpose of bringing about a more liberal hiring policy towards Negroes on the part of that company. The Milwaukee Branch objected to the token hiring of Negroes on the part of the Allen-Bradley Company, and according to the informants, officers of the Milwaukee Branch were in the process of contacting civil rights leaders and clergymen for the purpose of obtaining their support in this project. As of April, 1968, MI T-1, T-2 and T-3 advised that the WWP has taken no further action in this regard.

II. COMMUNIST TACTICS

No information developed.

III. COMMUNIST PENETRATION AND INFLUENCE IN RACIAL AND OTHER ORGANIZATIONS

In April, 1968, MI T-1, T-2 and T-3 advised that during the past four months members of the Milwaukee Branch of the WWP have not participated in the open housing marches sponsored by the Milwaukee Youth Council of the NAACP and that their efforts are now directed to supporting various anti-war groups.

WORKERS WORLD PARTY

On April 17, 1959, a source advised that on February 12, 1959, a Socialist Workers Party (SWP) minority group under the leadership of National Committee member Sam Ballan split from the SWP.

The source stated that this minority group, referred to as the Marcyites, after many years of program and policy differences on varied issues concerning tactics and interpretation of political events, split from the SWP on the grounds that the Party was liquidating itself by departing from the Marxist precepts of Leon Trotsky and retreating from the fight for the world socialist revolution. The final issue which ultimately forced the split was the minority's opposition to the SWP regroupment policy which involved cooperation with the Communist Party (CP) periphery-individuals characterized by the minority as petty-bourgeois.

The minority program, according to source, advocated unconditional defense of the Soviet Union and has as its goal the building of a revolutionary party with a complete proletarian orientation for the purpose of overthrowing capitalism in the United States and throughout the world.

On May 12, 1960, the source advised that this minority group had chosen the name Workers World Party.

On May 1, 1967, a second source advised that the Workers World Party, which maintains headquarters at 46 West 21st Street, New York City, supports the People's Republic of China in its ideological dispute with the Soviet Union.

The SWP and the CP have been designated pursuant to Executive Order 10450.

The African-American Heritage Association (AAHA) and Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee (SNCC) mentioned in this report which have not been designated pursuant to Executive Order 10450 are characterized in the appendix section of this report.

I. COMMUNIST STRATEGY

A. Communist Party, USA (CPUSA)

1. Plans, Strategy, Party-line, and the Like Made at CP of Illinois Meetings, Including Expressions by CP of Illinois Leaders and Rank and File Members

a. General

The CP of Illinois' influence in the Chicago Freedom Movement can be summed up as follows:

The CP of Illinois claims that they have a program and policy relative to the Chicago Freedom Movement, however, in reality the CP of Illinois continues to exert little or no policy influence in the Chicago Freedom Movement. The civil rights organizations active in the Chicago area in which the CP of Illinois attempts to exert some influence are as follows:

Chicago Urban League (CUL)
Congress of Racial Equality (CORE)
Coordinating Council of Community Organizations (CCCO)
National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP)
Negro American Labor Council (NALC)
Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC)
Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee(SNCC)
West Side Organization (WSO)

Relative to the CUL and CORE, the CP of Illinois at the present time exercises no influence within these organizations.

Relative to the CCCO, HERBERT WRIGHT, a member of the State Committee, CP of Illinois, is an alternate delegate from the NALC to the CCCO but at the present time WRIGHT exerts very little, if any, influence in the CCCO. There has been very little CCCO activity at Chicago during the past several months.

The CP of Illinois still has LESTER DAVIS, CP of Illinois member, assigned to the Chicago Branch of the NAACP. EARL DURHAM, Chairman, Negro Commission, CP of Illinois, and HERBERT WRIGHT are also members of the NAACP but at the present time those individuals are doing little or nothing to implement CP policy relative to the NAACP.

Concerning the NALC, the CP of Illinois currently has the following individuals who form a collective from the CP of Illinois within the NALC.

HERBERT WRIGHT
NATE SHARPE, member of State Committee, CP of Illinois
RALPH TURNER, member of CP of Illinois
CORNELIUS COBBS, member of CP of Illinois
IRENE WRIGHT, member of CP of Illinois

The main objective of this collective is to involve the NALC in a program of organizing the unorganized Negro workers in the Chicago area and to obtain more jobs for Negroes in the building trades. The NALC's program at the present time can be considered to be quite ineffective.

Relative to the SCLC, WSO and SNCC, at the current time there are no CP of Illinois members active in these organizations and the CP of Illinois exercises no influence in these organizations.

(CG T-1, 4/18/68)
(CG T-2, 4/18/68)

b. Meetings of the State Board, CP of Illinois

A meeting of the State Board, CP of Illinois, was held on January 2, 1968.

NATE SHARPE gave a report from the Industrial Commission of the CP. He stated the Industrial Commission had a discussion on the problems of jobs for Negro workers, and the building trade unions are the main source of "Jim Crowism." The CP of Illinois should have a campaign to integrate the work force that is building the new federal office building in Chicago, they should attempt to break up the "Jim Crowism" in the building trade unions and also work harder so that they can obtain more jobs for Negro women.

The CP should influence the NALC to spearhead the campaign for jobs at the federal office building in Chicago and they must get all of the facts on employment in the building trade unions. They also may be able to get these facts from the Chicago Urban League and the CP should attempt to have the NALC get to work on these problems immediately. The NALC should also be requested to put pressure on the Human Relations Commission in Chicago and should also send letters to important national leaders in order that discrimination can be ended.

(CG T-2, 1/4/68)

A meeting of the State Board, CP of Illinois, was held on January 30, 1968.

HERBERT WRIGHT gave a report concerning the Negro-labor alliance and said that at the present time the major project is to put pressure on unions to employ more Negro skilled workers at the federal building in Chicago which is being constructed at the present time. The CP of Illinois plans to use the NALC as the vehicle to launch this program. Plans should also be made to contact the General Services Administration to see that the federal laws are enforced as far as fair hiring practices are concerned. At the present time the NALC is also making attempts to see why no Negro students are being enrolled at the Tool and Dye Institute in Chicago. WRIGHT concluded by stating that at the present time the main concern of the CP should be to fight to end discriminatory practices within the labor movement.

(CG T-1, 1/31/68)
(CG T-2, 1/31/68)
(CG T-3, 2/7/68)

c. Meeting of the State Committee, CP of Illinois

An enlarged meeting of the State Committee, CP of Illinois, was held on January 28, 1968.

HERBERT WRIGHT stated that at the 18th national CP convention held June, 1966, in New York City, the CP agreed to elect 20 Negro Congressmen. WRIGHT stated that now is the time to tie up the Negro people's aspiration with a peace and freedom ticket because the black people are conscious of their political strength, particularly after the election of Mayor RICHARD HATCHER of Gary, Indiana, and Mayor CARL STOKES of Cleveland, Ohio, both of whom are Negroes. WRIGHT stated that it is felt the CP should make a special appeal to the masses in the working class communities to participate in the electoral activities, pointing out to them the effects of the war, the increased taxation, and the fact that billions of dollars are being spent abroad but very little money is being spent at home for better housing, medical care and education.

(CG T-1, 1/29/68)

d. Meeting of Subcommittee of the Negro Commission, CP of Illinois

A meeting of the subcommittee of the Negro Commission, CP of Illinois, was held on February 17, 1968.

(SE)

ISHMAEL FLORY, a member of the State Committee, CP of Illinois, stated that the CP has lost their initiative in the struggle for Negro rights and at the present time there is no collective that is seriously functioning to deal with these problems. There is a lack of criticism and self-criticism and there is no serious ideological campaign by the CP which deals with the basic questions in the black community. The AAHA has been trying to put some ideological direction into the civil rights movement. However, there are many developments that occur in the black community and the CP has no knowledge of these events. He proposed that they establish an ad hoc committee on the south side of Chicago that would meet regularly to assess the developments in the black community. They should also realize that it is necessary that they circulate more ideological literature issued by the CP. The CP should also combat nationalism and take steps to create more unity between Negroes and whites.

EARL DURHAM indicated that he agreed with FLORY and added that in his opinion the CP must re-evaluate their position within the civil rights movement and hold further discussions on these matters. They should not hold discussions that only attempt to analyze current events that are occurring in the black community but should analyze the CP's position within the whole civil rights movement.

HERBERT WRIGHT stated that the present Chicago leadership in the NALC had not fulfilled their obligations on developing a program for more jobs for Negroes in the building trades and stated that the CP will have to carry on this program if it is to meet with any success.

(CG T-3, 2/27/68)

e. Meeting of the Trade Union Commission, CP of Illinois

A meeting of the Trade Union Commission, CP of Illinois, was held on December 28, 1967.

JIM WEST, Midwest CP Trade Union Coordinator, stated that he has conducted a survey regarding the hiring practices at the new federal building which is under construction in downtown Chicago. He stated his findings are that there are some Negroes being hired; however, they are laborers and are not being hired for the higher paying jobs. WEST suggested that something be done about this situation and recommended the NALC be contacted in order to have them take the lead in this project.

(CG T-3, 1/8/68)

f. Meeting of the South Central Freedom of the Press Committee (SCFPC), CP of Illinois

A meeting of the SCFPC was held on January 10, 1968.

VERSTA MILLER, Chairman of the SCFPC, stated that the 1968 goals for this CP club would be to work with the AAHA in order to accomplish the following:

1. To have community control of schools and see that the substitute teachers get equality and equal pay.

2. Join the Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party and work with them.

3. Be militant and resist police brutality.

4. Build a peace and civil rights movement in the black community.

(CG T-4, 1/25/68)

g. Joint Meeting of the Levine and Hammersmark Clubs, CP of Illinois

A joint meeting of the Levine and Hammersmark Clubs was held on February 28, 1968.

NATALIE MYERS stated that the Negro in the ghetto must be shown that the CP is with them all the way and that should be shown them not by joining their groups, clubs and movement but by definite action in the white community. The labor movement and the liberals are not doing anything at the present time to help the plight of the Negroes and tokenism is not what the Negro wants. The Negro wants economic freedom, to be able to stand on his own two feet and to be able to get a job and earn a living for his family. All CP members must fight for equal rights for the Negroes whenever they can.

(CG T-5, 2/29/68)

NATALIE MYERS is a member of the State Board, CP of Illinois.

II. COMMUNIST TACTICS

A. Meetings of Chicago Chapter of the NALC, Where CP Members in Attendance

A meeting of the Executive Board of the Chicago Chapter NALC was held on January 4, 1968. HERBERT WRIGHT and NATE SHARPE were in attendance at this meeting.

NATE SHARPE stated that discriminatory hiring practices are presently occurring at the few federal building in Chicago which is presently under construction and he proposed that the Chicago Chapter of the NALC take the responsibility to conduct a campaign to end this discrimination against Negroes.

It was stated that it was necessary to get the approval of the entire Executive Board of the NALC in order to undertake this program and this matter will be decided upon in the future.

A meeting of the Executive Board of the Chicago Chapter of the NALC was held on January 28, 1968.

The following CP members were in attendance at this meeting: HERB WRIGHT, NATE SHARPE and RALPH TURNER.

NATE SHARPE reported that a preliminary survey revealed that the Negro is being discriminated against at the construction site of the new federal building in Chicago. There are some Negroes employed on this project although they are only laborers and none of them hold any responsible positions. He recommended that the NALC look into this situation and if there is discrimination in the hiring of Negroes they should then institute a campaign to eliminate this discrimination.

A vote was taken by the Executive Board members of the Chicago Chapter of the NALC and it was agreed that they would check into the above situation.

A National NALC Executive Board meeting was held on February 10, 1968, at Cleveland, Ohio.

HERBERT WRIGHT stated that black people are being killed in Vietnam and billions are being spent in connection with this war and the only thing the JOHNSON Administration is doing in this country is designating millions of dollars in order to keep peace on the streets in the United States this summer. Billions of dollars are being spent eight thousand miles away while black people are being denied milk in American cities and the poverty program has been practically abolished. The NALC must take a position on this racist war and the complete waste of American resources in Vietnam.

There were reports from various NALC chapters concerning their activities and in general all chapters seemed to have the problem of building the NALC because of the black nationalist elements and the continued polarization of the Negro people who seem to withdraw and lose confidence in the American labor movement. It was stated that there are a number of black organizations being established throughout the countries which no longer have confidence in the so-called white liberals and therefore many Negroes seem reluctant to join organizations such as the NALC, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) and other such organizations. It was also stated that the NALC is having problems with the black power elements in all cities.

A membership meeting of the Chicago Chapter of the NALC was held on February 15, 1968.

The following CP members were in attendance at this meeting: RALPH TURNER, NATE SHARPE, HERBERT WRIGHT and IRENE WRIGHT.

HERBERT WRIGHT reported that the NALC Executive Board had recommended that a campaign be instituted in connection with the construction of the new federal building in Chicago regarding job discrimination against Negroes. A committee had been set up to look into this matter but so far this committee has done nothing.

(CG T-3, 2/19/68)

B. Distribution of CP Literature

ISHMAEL FLORY and AL MC PHERSON distributed a pamphlet on December 2, 1967, outside of the Blackstone Hotel, Chicago, where a conference was being held by a group for the purpose of launching the Presidential campaign of Senator EUGENE MC CARTHY. This leaflet is dated December 2, 1967, with the caption "An Open Letter to Concerned Democrats" and states it is from "The African-American Heritage Association, 416 West 63rd Street, Chicago, Illinois." This leaflet contained in part the following:

"Friends, our Association speaks, we are certain, for a substantial section of U.S. citizens that make up the Afro-American communities in the United States

"We wish to place before the Senator and the Conference two matters in which most Americans of African descent are interested, and, which are in the interest of every democratic and peace-loving American.

"1. We hope that Senator Eugene McCarthy expresses a positive position on the matter of the seating of the MISSISSIPPI FREEDOM DEMOCRATIC PARTY at the Democratic Party Convention in Chicago in 1968. And we request that your conference pass a resolution pledging support for the seating of the said MISSISSIPPI FREEDOM DEMOCRATIC PARTY at said Convention.

"2. We also ask your conference to pass a resolution in support of the nomination and election to the U.S. Congress of at least 50 Americans of African descent to that Congress, in line with the proportion of the population Afro-Americans are to the population.

"You know of course, long years of conspiracy against Americans of African descent by Dixicrats and substantial elements of the Northern Republicans and Democrats have prevented Afro-Americans from enjoying their rightfull and proportionate number of representatives in the U.S. House and Senate. And I am sure that you must be aware of the fact that the forces denying Afro-Americans their democratic rights have brought into power of the U.S. Government Dixicrats and reactionaries from the North who are playing the major role in the war policies of the Government of the United States.

"We are certain that Afro-Americans, the world, and U.S. Public opinion, seriously concerned about the war in Vietnam, will want to know the position of the convention on these two important issues - as Concerned Democrats and other Americans further develop the campaign to end the intervention in Vietnam and to bring American boys homes."

(CG T-6, 12/6/67)

AL MC PHERSON is a member of the CP of Illinois.

A meeting of the SCFPC was held on December 27, 1967, in Chicago.

During this meeting ISHMAEL FLORY stated that he and JAMES MOORE had distributed a CP leaflet at a meeting of a civil rights group held on the evening of December 26, 1967, at 79th and Wabash, Chicago. He stated this leaflet was the beginning of an effort to bring the "face of the Party" to the people and this leaflet had been prepared with the approval of the CP of Illinois.

JAMES MOORE was also present at this meeting and is a member of the SCFPC.

(CG T-2, 4/18/68)

E. Negro American Labor Council (NALC)

Concerning the NALC, the CP of Illinois currently has five individuals, all CP members, who form a collective from the CP of Illinois within the NALC. The main objective of this collective is to involve the NALC in a program of organizing the unorganized Negro workers in the Chicago area and to obtain more jobs for Negroes in the building trades. The NALC's program at the present time can be considered to be quite ineffective.

STUDENT NONVIOLENT COORDINATING COMMITTEE

Literature distributed by the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC), headquartered at 360-362 Nelson Street, S.W., Atlanta, Georgia, describes itself as not being a membership organization, but rather an agency attempting to stimulate and foster the growth of local protest movements. SNCC was born out of the sit-in movement which erupted across the South beginning on February 1, 1960. A conference at Raleigh, North Carolina, that Spring, brought together many of the demonstrating Southern students in a loose network of militant youth which was officially named SNCC in October, 1960.

A source has advised that in May, 1966, Stokely Carmichael was elected National Chairman by the Central Committee. In May, 1967 Carmichael was replaced as Chairman by H. Rap Brown, with Carmichael assuming the position of Recruiter and Organizer for the SNCC. In August, 1967, at the invitation of Fidel Castro, Carmichael participated in the Organization of Latin American Solidarity Conference which was held in Havana, Cuba. Subsequent thereto, Carmichael traveled to Hanoi and other sections of North Vietnam. He returned to the United States in December, 1967, at which time his passport was picked up because of travel to unauthorized countries.

A source advised that when Carmichael was elected Chairman of SNCC, the organization embarked on a program of eliminating Caucasians from its ranks. With the election of H Rap Brown as Chairman in 1967, it embarked on a worldwide struggle for human rights and to take a firm stand against violations of these rights by the American Government and to strengthen its programs of opposition to the draft and to the United States involvement in Vietnam.

Literature distributed in February, 1968, identifies SNCC as an organization in the revolutionary vanguard. It advocates that to be successful it is necessary to develop a revolutionary ideology and revolutionary program.

On August 13, 1967, while addressing a group in the Watts area of Los Angeles, California, H Rap Brown said "You better shape up America, or we'll burn you down." Later in February, 1968, in a publicized note Brown wrote, "America, if it takes my death to organize my people to revolt against you and to organize your jails to revolt against you and to organize your children, your God, your poor, your country, and to organize mankind to rejoice in your destruction and ruin, then here's my life."

I. COMMUNIST STRATEGY

A. Communist Party, USA (CPUSA)

1. Local Plans and Strategy

CV T-1 advised on December 19, 1967, a CP Cedar Central Club meeting was held in Cleveland, Ohio, on December 14, 1967, at which there was discussion concerning the need for club members to contact people in their block clubs and in other organizations, in an effort to get these people to participate in the April poverty demonstration which MARTIN LUTHER KING plans to hold in Washington, D. C. PHILIP BART said, in effect, "Of course, we are not going into this for the purpose of taking over or trying to run things. We will offer our services as individuals of the neighborhood in which we live. By working with different groups and letting them know we are anxious to help, we at the same time can further the Party cause. Even if it is discovered later that we are members of the Communist Party, there will be some who will not care for we have shown we are working for the same cause. In this way, we are getting more and more people who are willing to be identified with us."

PHILIP BART - On February 24, 1968, PHILIP BART appeared on a television program carried over Cleveland Channel 61, and during the course of this program, identified himself as Secretary of the Communist Party of Ohio.

CV T-1 advised on December 29, 1967, that on December 19, 1967, FRIEDA KATZ attended an open meeting of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) and, at the conclusion of this meeting, she renewed her membership in CORE. During this CORE meeting the chairman, FRANKLYN ANDERSON, asked FRIEDA KATZ to stand, stating he was pleased to see her present and hoped she would come again.

FRIEDA KATZ' membership in CORE entitles her to all of the privileges of CORE, except voting. At the conclusion of the meeting, FRIEDA KATZ gave ANDERSON some mimeographed notices of the Jeanette Rankin Brigade demonstration to be held in Washington, D. C., on January 15, 1968, this demonstration protesting United States participation in the war in Vietnam. ANDERSON commented that he was pleased to do anything he could to make this demonstration a success.

FRIEDA KATZ - CV T-7 advised on June 26, 1967, that FRIEDA KATZ attended the Ohio CP State Committee meeting held in Cleveland, Ohio, on June 25, 1967.

FRANKLYN ANDERSON - CV T-8 advised on August 21, 1967, that FRANKLYN ANDERSON has attended a number of weekly public forums sponsored by the Socialist Workers Party (SWP) in Cleveland during the past one or two years, but he is not a member or sympathizer of the SWP. He stated that most of the forums which ANDERSON attended deal with civil rights, poverty, etc. He advised that ANDERSON also occasionally attended SWP sponsored social affairs.

CV T-8 also advised that the local SWP does not consider ANDERSON to have any interest in the political philosophy of the SWP and has made no effort to recruit him into the SWP or to invite him to classes where SWP beliefs are taught.

The SWP has been cited by the Attorney General of the United States pursuant to Executive Order 10450.

CV T-1 advised on January 16, 1968, that PHILIP BART is anxious for CP members to be active in CORE, but also stresses very strongly that the Negroes should be the leaders of their own organizations.

On January 9, 1968, BART stressed these views again, but at the same time, stressed the importance of CP members becoming acquainted with the Negro youth in CORE in order to learn which youth can be talked to concerning political matters. BART would like to cultivate the friendship of two or three CORE youth, so that several CP members can talk to them about Communism.

CV T-1 advised on January 25, 1968, that on January 21, 1968, FRIEDA KATZ stated she would like to invite some of the CORE members to a meeting at which ROSE CHERNIN would speak on the new McCarran Act. KATZ feels that CORE should be interested in this new McCarran Act.

ROSE CHERNIN - CV T-2 advised on December 21, 1960, that ROSE CHERNIN is from the National Office of the American Committee for Protection of the Foreign Born.

The American Committee for Protection of the Foreign Born has been cited by the Attorney General of the United States pursuant to Executive Order 10450.

CV T-3 advised on January 29, 1968, that ROSE CHERNIN was in Cleveland on January 22, 1968, and spoke at the home of FREDA HARRIS. During the talk, CHERNIN advised of a "nation-wide movement" to assist draft resistors, defend civil rights cases, and so forth, and urged that such a group be formed in Cleveland. This committee will coordinate local defense work for all persons active in an effort to stifle the government war effort. CHERNIN suggested that those present initiate a petition for the defense of STOKELEY CARMICHAEL and RAP BROWN -- to publicly come out on their side so that the progressive militant Negro leadership will know that "we" are their brothers. FRIEDA KATZ was among the 10 or 12 present at this meeting.

FREDA HARRIS - CV T-7 advised on June 26, 1967, that FREDA HARRIS was present at an Ohio CP State Committee meeting held in Cleveland, Ohio, on June 25, 1967.

CV T-1 advised on January 31, 1968, that on January 28, 1968, FRIEDA KATZ discussed the new McCarran Act and said she thought it would be a good idea if a defense fund were established in Cleveland so that lawyers could be hired to defend persons arrested for demonstrating. She said that she would like to interest Cleveland CORE in this matter and that she has a petition on behalf of RAP BROWN which she would like to have taken to the CORE office in the hopes that the CORE members will obtain signatures for this petition.

CV T-1 advised on February 9, 1968, that PHILIP BART has commented on several occasions that FRIEDA KATZ is trying to push CORE too fast. BART said he does not want CORE to think the CP is trying to tell it how to run its organization.

CV T-1 advised on February 27, 1968, that an Ohio CP State Committee meeting was held in Cleveland on February 18, 1968, at which FRIEDA KATZ discussed election activities in Cleveland's 21st Congressional District, where most of the candidates are Negroes. She stated that "as for the white candidates who are running in the 21st District, the white people should put pressure on them to withdraw from the race in order to insure the election of a Negro congressman."

CV T-1 advised on March 5, 1968, that a CP Cedar Central Club meeting was held in Cleveland on March 1, 1968, at which ALONZO HOWARD was heard to say that it was hard for him to work in CORE, as BART had requested that he do, and HOWARD thought it may be because of his advanced age, for most of the Negro organizations are working principally with youth. HENRY CRAWFORD then commented, "Don't you think that CORE does not know of your association with the Communist Party, because they do. That is what makes it hard for you to work with CORE." CRAWFORD then remarked that CP members say they do not want to take over CORE and other organizations, but "you know and I know that is their aim, and these organizations know it too."

ALONZO HOWARD - CV T-1 advised on March 5, 1968, that ALONZO HOWARD is currently a member of the Communist Party in Cleveland.

HENRY CRAWFORD - CV T-1 advised on March 5, 1968, that HENRY CRAWFORD is a member of the Cedar Central Club in Cleveland and also a member of the Ohio CP State Committee.

B. Socialist Workers Party

1. Local CP Plans and Strategy

CV T-3 advised on December 29, 1967, that an SWP meeting was held in Cleveland on December 17, 1967, at which the objectives of the SWP in 1968 were announced. One of these objectives was for the SWP to establish closer relations with CORE.

CV T-4 advised on February 2, 1968, that an SWP sponsored forum was held in Cleveland on January 26, 1968, at which the topic of discussion was "What Politics for the Anti-War Movement? Peace Candidates? Senator MC CARTHY? Mass Actions?" Among those present was FRANKLYN ANDERSON. ERIC REINTHALER was one of the speakers, and during his talk, commented that the SWP supports the efforts of the Negroes and black militant groups.

ERIC REINTHALER - CV T-4 advised on February 2, 1968, that ERIC REINTHALER is a current member of the SWP in Cleveland and former organizer of the SWP in Cleveland.

CV T-5 advised on April 24, 1968, that the SWP is not participating in any of the Negro organizations in Cleveland, such as CORE; that a former member of the Cleveland SWP, JOHN CLOUD, had been asked to resign from the SWP because he did accept a position in CORE as one of its officers. Source also advised that ERIC REINTHALER resigned from CORE last year after having participated in CORE activities for several years. Source stated there is no indication that the Cleveland SWP plans to participate in any marches that had been planned by MARTIN LUTHER KING, Jr., such as the poverty march which had been scheduled to be held in Washington, D. C., in April, 1968.

Ohio

CV T-6 confirmed on April 23, 1968, that the SWP in Cleveland is not showing any interest in CORE or any of the other racial groups in this area. Neither has it shown any interest in the MARTIN LUTHER KING demonstration which was to have been held in April, 1968, in Washington, D. C.

II. COMMUNIST TACTICS

There have been no racial demonstrations in the territory covered by this office during the period of this report in which people with Communist Party background are known to have participated.

CV 100-27056

III. COMMUNIST PENETRATION AND INFLUENCE IN RACIAL AND OTHER GROUPS

CORE

CV T-3 advised on December 21, 1967, that FRANKLYN ANDERSON, Chairman of Cleveland CORE, was one of the speakers at an SWP sponsored forum held in Cleveland on December 8, 1967, at which the subject matter being discussed was "Black Power", and its international implications.

CV T-1 advised on February 9, 1968, that both FRIEDA KATZ and PHILIP BART have asked on a number of occasions that certain matters be discussed with CORE leaders, and just recently FRIEDA KATZ asked that a petition on behalf of RAP BROWN be discussed with CORE leaders in Cleveland. When these matters have been discussed with CORE leaders, they generally listen to the proposition or suggestion of KATZ or BART and then ignore it completely. Source expressed the opinion that Cleveland CORE leaders do not want to have any dealings with Communist Party members.

A. COMMUNIST PARTY, USA

No information available.

III. COMMUNIST PENETRATION AND INFLUENCE IN RACIAL AND OTHER ORGANIZATIONS

No information available.

PAT BLAU BLAWIS was elected to the Communist Party National Committee at the 18th convention of the Communist Party, USA held in New York City in June, 1966. On her return to New Mexico, PAT BLAU BLAWIS indicated she planned to create a functioning CP, USA organization in the state of New Mexico, however, to date she has not achieved this goal.

[redacted] on 3/26/68, advised there has not been a formal CP, USA organization functioning either on a club or state level in the state of New Mexico during the past one and one-half years. Informant recalled that PAT BLAU BLAWIS, in the fall of 1967, had indicated there would be a CP, USA membership drive in the state of New Mexico and that each Party member would be expected to recruit a member for the Party. On 3/26/68, [redacted] further stated that as far as he could tell PAT BLAU BLAWIS had done little, if anything, during the first part of 1968 toward the creation of a functioning CP, USA organization in the state. b7D

[redacted], on 3/26/68, [redacted] on 3/13/68, [redacted] on 4/18/68, and [redacted] on 4/18/68, individually advised on the indicated dates that in their opinions there are no serious racial problems in the state of New Mexico and that because of this the CP, USA has not found racial matters in this state to be a suitable issue for exploitation.

All available information to the Albuquerque Office has been reviewed and there was no indication of any Communist influence in racial matters noted during the period covered by this letter. Sources available to this office have furnished information reflecting that the state of New Mexico does not have racial problems as such and it appears to these sources that the action taken in connection with racial matters is on a legitimate basis.

COMMUNIST INFLUENCE
IN RACIAL MATTERS

A source, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised that a meeting of the National Communist Party (CP) Negro Commission was held in New York City on May 18-19, 1968, with approximately 25 individuals in attendance. ~~(C)~~ (U)

Source advised that this meeting was opened and chaired by Ishmael Flory, and following this Claude Lightfoot, Chairman of the National CP Negro Commission and member of the CPUSA National Committee, gave the following report: ~~(C)~~ (U)

Lightfoot stated that the expressed purpose of this meeting was to help prepare to rewrite the section in the Party draft program on the Negro Question. According to Lightfoot, the objective must be to present a program that is not dependent on the shifts and tactics of the black movement. Lightfoot then proceeded to discuss the past position of the Party in 1959, which stated that although the Party is changing its position in regard to the Negro people constituting a nation, it does not mean that there are not special characteristics to define this group. Lightfoot indicated the 1959 resolution did not adequately define what was new in the Negro Question and proposed the following ideas: The Negro Question in the United States has three characteristics: One - It is part of a class question; two - It is a national question; and three - it is a race question. Lightfoot added that in developing a program all three aspects must be kept in mind. ~~(C)~~ (U)

ENCLOSURE

Source stated that Lightfoot continued in his report by stating that during certain periods of time in the country one or the other of the aforementioned characteristics may become dominant; however, all are presently influencing the movement in the United States. Lightfoot stated there are many differences between the Negro people as a minority and the other minority groups in this country in that the Negro people are products of slavery in the United States and that the Negro people more than any other people have had their historical development blocked. The Negro people did not derive their national characteristics from another existing nation in that they were brought from many nations in Africa. The development of the black people in the United States had all the earmarks of a developing nation. Many strategic concepts are needed. Capitalism yields a class struggle. It divides the world into colonies and rulers. The resulting imperialism brought about the domination of all dark skinned people with the only exception being Japan. Lightfoot commented that Lenin in discussing self determination indicated that imperialism created its opposites, that is, a struggle for national liberation. It follows, Lightfoot stated, that this national liberation could be based on race as well as on economic and political independence. (C) (U)

If nations can demand independence, it is conceivable that racists can also demand independence. The character of the struggle for liberation in colonial countries has the form of full political,economic and social equality. So has the struggle in the United States. The rise of these demands has a large influence on the people to demand the right of self determination and this struggle calls for an elaboration of the structural changes in the United States in order to guarantee liberation. Self determination, Lightfoot stated, is not a new idea and it is not confined to any geographical area. Negroes in America do not constitute a nation in a scientific sense; however, in their struggle for political and economic freedom there arises a desire for nationhood. It does not only take the form that is expressed by the Black Muslim movement, but it takes many forms such as: one - no white quarterbacks for the freedom movement; two - emphasis on black power; three - the use of the term black and many others. (C) (U)

On the problems of structural changes, the focus should be on those that can be changed within the present system and those that will only come about in the advent of socialism. Negro-Americans are spearheading the struggle for democracy in the entire country and they have been an inspiration to other activities by other members of the population. The Party must have a positive approach to these struggles and should identify with the struggle for community control. However, there is the need for some new concepts in government. The confusion in America between states rights and self government has been used for reactionary purposes. The local control by black people in the name of self determination must be distinguished from the states rights movement. The black control of the ghetto is a democratic process. There should be some state and county governmental control changes if this community control can be meaningful. The problem of elected representatives representing the ghetto is that it is usually watered down by dominant reactionary elected officials. There is a necessity for struggle for more representation of the black people and in the past gerrymandering has been used against the black and the poor. There should be a move, Lightfoot stated, to redistrict the political areas to enhance black representation. All such structural changes can help alleviate some of the problems facing the ghetto but it will not resolve the problem of real independence. It is possible to achieve full political economic equality or independence within the framework of capitalism or within the framework of the existing three branches of government. Struggles have been made in some instances which will move one or the other section of the American government only to have it nullified by the other branch. (C) (U)

The government, according to Lightfoot, must be restructured in order to reflect the popular will of the people. The changes that took place in the Soviet Union for instance are that all the power resided in the legislature and that all the other political bodies were subordinate. Changes in American structure must be in the direction of guaranteeing the maximum participation of the blacks. In discussing socialism Lightfoot indicated that the blacks must find some way to get power to defend their interests. In a socialist reorganization of society power will be in the hands of the militant socialist leadership and if this does not occur then there can be a counter revolution. (C) (U)

In the United States black people will have to be in all sections of the decision-making apparatus far beyond their numbers. Lightfoot indicated that changes at the state level were much more difficult to determine since it is possible that concepts of autonomous regions may be part of this development. If the black population desires a separate organization under a socialist society, it could and should be carried out. Although the Party does not advocate a separate state, we cannot ignore it or have no definite opinion about it. (U)

According to source, Lightfoot closed his remarks by repeating that the expressed purpose of this meeting was to help prepare a more adequate section on the Party's program on the Negro Question and he welcomed all participants. (U)

Source advised that following Lightfoot's report, Victor Perlo spoke first and spoke about the concept of autonomous regions. He indicated the Party program should include other national minorities such as the Indians, Mexicans and Puerto Ricans. Perlo asked why should boundaries be set up between what is possible under capitalism and what is possible under socialism. (U)

Herbert Aptheker, CPUSA National Committee member, spoke next and indicated that the relationship of black and white in this country makes it impossible to develop any more advances without a struggle against racism. According to Aptheker, the underlying root of racism is capitalism. The United States began its imperialist policies by the oppression of the native black population and they institutionalized Jim Crow. Aptheker indicated there should be some caution and that we should not try to make too big a separation on the class and race concept. He added there should be a more clearer position on the three branches before the Party takes any final position. (U)

Art McFall agreed with Lightfoot's report and added very little to the discussion. (U)

Don Hamerquist, CPUSA National Committee member, stated we should look for demands coming from the movement that cannot be satisfied within the framework of capitalism. (U)

One of these, Hamerquist stated, is the use of police power in the ghetto. (C) (U)

Charlene Mitchell, CPUSA National Committee member, thought Lightfoot's report was provocative, did not see self determination beyond the concept of political control of the ghetto, and cautioned about rushing to change slogans or make slogans without a deeper analytical approach. (C) (U)

Jarvis Tyner, National Chairman of the W.E.B. DuBois Clubs of America (DCA), indicated that some people did not speak because it was useless unless they were opposed to the Lightfoot report and Tyner added that he is for the slogan of self determination. (C) (U)

A characterization of the DCA is attached hereto.

Franklin Alexander, former National Chairman of the DCA, criticized this meeting for not participating forcefully in the discussion and indicated that the Lightfoot report does not give leadership to mobilize the Party organization. Alexander also cautioned against being unconcerned with the increase in red baiting that is appearing. (C) (U)

Carolyn Black, a national DCA officer, indicated that at the Party school which is presently in session, there was some concern that the section dealing with the Negro Question would be useless. However, Black stated Charlene Mitchell led this discussion at the Party school and it turned out to be an excellent one. (C) (U)

Kendra Alexander commented that the Party needs more definite theoretical discussion if our practice is to take us anywhere. According to Alexander, the problem of nationhood and self determination by the ghetto is unresolved. (C) (U)

Earl Durham, CPUSA National Committee member, then spoke and stated that he felt the major problem was the question of racism and that this racism stems from the economic base of capitalism, that is, capitalist exploitation. The use of racism as a weapon to split the working class because of its historical roots in this country becomes a potent force in the process of organizing the workers fight-back campaign. (C) (U)

Source further advised that after Durham's speech the chairman closed the discussion on Lightfoot's report and Charlene Mitchell then proceeded to give her report which is as follows: (C) (U)

The Poor Peoples March has ushered in a new movement among the poor, Mitchell stated,,and the slogans of the movement are in general around jobs for everyone. Mitchell then quoted a great deal of statistics on the employment situation that exists in the civilian labor force and particularly as it regards black people. She dealt with figures around income, employment, jobs held, and things of that nature. Mitchell in conclusion indicated the struggle has to have revolutionary content, that the process of the struggle for immediate gain is the direction for the path to socialism. The trade unions must take some approach to the organization of the unorganized with particular emphasis on the building trades, the hospital workers and other sections of the working class. The elements of racism in the trade union movement must be rooted out. White workers must be included in the struggle and there must be the encouragement of black and brown caucuses within the trade union movement. (C) (U)

Mitchell continued in her report by stating that in addition to the demands of the workers we should also have demands for subsidizing students, and special schools for drop outs should be created so that they may develop skills and all this should be done with free tuition. The employment pay standards,minimum wage, and problems of this nature should also be included as part of the Party's struggle. (C) (U)

Following Mitchell's report, Eric Bert gave a report on the southern farm economy. Bert took most of his figures from a 1967 report from the Department of Agriculture. His figures indicated the decline of farm ownership and small farms in this country. His figures indicated that more than half of the Negro farmers have been forced off the land in the last ten years. There was a national sharecroppers report on starvation in the South and this report only scratched the surface of the real need of that community. (C) (U)

Bert continued in his report by stating that mechanization and other chemical techniques have reduced the need for farm workers. Mechanical cotton pickets have almost wiped out small cotton growing farms. The solution and program are hindered by racism, Bert stated, that stems primarily from the United States Department of Agriculture. The Party program on land reform is entirely too weak and unscientific and must be revised. Any program to be effective, Bert concluded, must have mass organizational push such as the Poor Peoples March in Washington. (C) (U)

Source stated that following Bert's report a general discussion ensued. During this discussion Tyner mentioned that the DCA was approaching the Poor Peoples March in a mass way. According to Tyner, the DCA is planning to go with a team to Washington, D.C., where they will build a shanty and participate with the people of that march. The DCA will try to concentrate on the youth and they will endeavor to get a discussion with certain leaders of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC) to try to influence them into developing a large scale program for youth which would include massive public works, free college tuition, etc. (C) (U)

Source advised that the National CPUSA Negro Commission meeting then adjourned and the delegates were invited to attend a party which was being held at the home of a CP member in New York City. (C) (U)

Source advised the second session of the National CPUSA Negro Commission was reconvened on May 19, 1968, and the first speaker was Victor Perlo. Perlo indicated there were some shortcomings in the proposal for the fight for jobs and added the emphasis of the Party's program should be toward the federal government being responsible for developing jobs for the unemployed. (C) (U)

The next speaker was Carl Bloice, Washington, D.C. correspondent for "The Worker," and he spoke about the coalition between Presidential candidate Richard Nixon and the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE). According to Bloice, this new coalition has given Nixon some traction in the ghetto. There is a large ideological task before the Party on these questions. (U) (C)

There must be an effort to influence the direction of the poor peoples campaign in regard to its program and the Party must project itself toward the organization of the most oppressed section of the working class. (C) (U)

"The Worker" is an East Coast communist newspaper.

Following Blaice's remarks Roscoe Proctor, CPUSA National Committee member, stated that the Party as an organization was not involved in the poor peoples campaign and he indicated that it is being attacked by the white radical left and the Party should not let this aspect go unnoticed. According to Proctor, organized labor is not fulfilling its role and he then gave his experiences in working for the poor peoples campaign in Oakland,California. Proctor described a mass rally that he helped organize which had as its content largely anti-capitalists. According to Proctor, there was a coalition between the Black Panthers and the SCLC around this mass rally. (C) (U)

Millie McAdore requested that the Party put more emphasis on the needs of the poor. (C) (U)

Gene Gordon spoke and he questioned the use of the word American in the program as confusion because there is a North America, South America and Central America. Gordon added that Mexican-Americans is also a misnomer. Gordon then raised the question of whether it was time for the Party to consider that the leadership should be black. (C) (U)

Following the above speakers, Henry Winston, CPUSA National Chairman, spoke and delivered a report on the concept of the third world. Winston stated that the third world concept represents a new relationship of forces and a new situation regarding imperialist powers and rising socialist powers. The conception recognizes only two major powers, that is,capitalism and socialism. The third world puts a separate category as those fighting for colonial liberation. The third world concept emerged only after the socialist forces made their advance. The liberation forces and the socialist forces were led to the concept of one world free from exploitation. (C) (U)

Winston then quoted from a speech that Stokely Carmichael had made previously in Cuba. Winston then continued and stated that when we speak of ideology we speak of the philosophy of Marxism-Leninism and the necessity to bring an end to imperialism. These ideas will become meaningless if the understanding is not clear as to the forces that are available to overthrow imperialism. The correct approach is internationalism. For example, Winston indicated, that Ghana because of the counter revolution now exists under neo-colonialism whereas in Guinea the developments are moving along more progressive lines where capitalism is not dominant. In Egypt the social relations are different. President Nasser has a strong anti-imperialist foreign policy but a poor domestic policy. In Indonesia the foreign policy is now in the hands of the American imperialists and they gave up their struggle for the right of the workers within the country. This wholesale slaughter of anti-imperialist forces was one of the shames of history. All of these countries are anti-imperialist but all do not have the same approach to their internal problems. Internationalism means keeping an eye on the main enemy and fighting that enemy but not ignoring the enemy within. (C) (U)

Many of the third world advocates fail to understand the ramifications of this question. They see the third world as a force that stands between two giants, the United States and the Soviet Union. Whatever the feeling they may exhibit there is a healthy trend that says we are not at the mercy of any power. This means that the role of the Party is clear. There is a necessity to develop a level of struggle that guarantees victory over reaction. Internationalism must first be seen as a struggle of the working class within countries and the unity of that class in the uniting of all these forces with the democratic forces of the world. Internationalism and colonial questions are not solely race questions. This is important because the struggle in the colonies is to put the resources in the hands of the nationalists and drive out foreign imperialists. This, Winston stated, the Party must support. (U) (C)

On the concept that American Negroes constitute a colony in America such as Carmichael sees it, it is incorrect and misleading. It denies the basic Marxist fact of the law of development of capitalism and has placed American imperialism in a special category. The Negro Question is part of America (U) (C) and is related to the development of that country. The general laws effecting capitalism do apply to the United States. In spite of the fact that American capital has exercised a favorable position in the world, when you speak of a colony, we usually mean a geographical area which is separate from the territory of the oppressor. It is not simply race and geography. Race must be seen in the context of exploitation of the riches and control of the nation by imperialism. The problems within colonies is who controls riches. Harlem, the south side of Chicago, Illinois, and the Watts area of Los Angeles, California, do not have any of the basic resources of the country. The relationship of the ghetto to the dominant power forces in America is a special problem that makes it difficult for the black communities to pull themselves up by the bootstraps. (C) (U)

Winston continued in his speech by stating that the essence of the struggle in America is for economic, political and social control. On self determination: this arose when the majority of blacks were still living on the land and were subject to agricultural boundaries. Therefore to speak of power for the black community at that time it had to include the acquisition of the land but that was years ago. (C) (U)

Winston then stated that we must now discuss this question under existing conditions. According to source, Winston's personal opinion is that the slogan does not apply to the south today. Winston stated he does not understand how self determination could apply to the black belt today. Winston added that he prefers the concept of black power. The American ghettos have certain features of a colony, but yet cannot be characterized as a colony. Any concept of a third world which sees the separation of the national liberation forces from their allies is a suicide path. The fight against racism is a key. There are many dangers. American imperialism has launched a counter offensive. We must unite on elements in the anti-imperialist camp. (C) (U)

Following Winston's speech Eric Bert was first to speak and he indicated there are some questions that need further study. For instance Bert stated one being how can civil rights be achieved under capitalism. We must make estimates as to how far the anti-monopoly coalition can progress. We must clear up some of the loose phrases in the Party program. (C) (U)

Ishmael Flory spoke on the problem of identity with the African people and the building of the Party. (C) (U)

Charlene Mitchell spoke about deepening the fight for clarity of the Party's position, particularly on the concept of the third world. (C) (U)

Carl Bloice spoke and indicated that he was not satisfied with the discussion of the third world and wanted more clarity on that question. (C) (U)

Bill Taylor, CPUSA National Committee member, spoke about the Poor Peoples March and the building of the Party. Taylor gave his experiences on the meetings of Negro members who are building the Party in Los Angeles and got together to discuss the Party's weaknesses on the Negro Question and how to build the Party in the ghetto. (C) (U)

Victor Perlo spoke about the super-exploitation of black labor. He was not satisfied with the concept of the ghetto and the colony and wanted more discussion on that. (C) (U)

Jarvis Tyner then spoke and gave his experiences with James Foreman, associated with the Student Non-violent Coordinating Committee (SNCC) in Stockholm, Sweden, on the concept of the third world. Tyner indicated that Foreman has not changed his position and is very much wedded to the third world idea. As far as the American ghetto as a colony, Tyner feels that it has all the basic features of the colony. (C) (U)

Kendra Alexander welcomed Winston's discussion and added that it was her opinion that we are a colony. She added that we would have seen a Negro nation if reconstruction had not been defeated. (C) (U)

Source advised that following the aforementioned comments Mitchell presented several motions before the National CPUSA Negro Commission,and following these motions it was agreed by those present that a committee be set up in order to rewrite the sections of the draft program dealing with the Negro Question. This committee was urged to quickly complete this assignment. (C) (U)

The meeting concluded at this point. (C) (U)

A characterization of SNCC is attached hereto.

BLACK UNITED YOUTH (BUY)
LITTLE ROCK, ARKANSAS

A confidential source furnished the following information on April 23, 1968:

Information had been developed that a group of Negro youths in Little Rock, Arkansas, had in the recent past held a meeting at the Union AME Church located at Wright Avenue and Pulaski Street, Little Rock, Arkansas, the name of which group had been referred to as Black Youth United or some variation. The exact nature of the group was unknown but the leaders were BOBBY BROWN, a Negro youth employed by the Office of Economic Opportunity at Little Rock; ROBERT BROADWATER, Negro newscaster for Little Rock radio station KOKY; and Reverend CECIL W. CONE, Pastor of Union AME Church, Little Rock. It appeared that the objective of this group was to seek equal rights and opportunities for the Negro race.

The "Arkansas Gazette", a Little Rock daily newspaper, carried an article in the May 12, 1968, edition captioned "Negro Group to Boycott Store Chain". Set forth hereinafter is a reproduction of this article:

ENCLOSURES

BLACK UNITED YOUTH

Negro Group To Boycott Store Chain

A new organization led by Little Rock Negro youths has been formed and says it will begin a boycott of Safeway Stores unless the chain meets certain demands.

The group is Black United Youth (BUY), and its president, Bob Brown, of 1624 West Twenty-second Street, said Saturday the boycott would be the first of many against Little Rock businesses in an effort to end discrimination in hiring. He said letters stating the group's demands had been sent to James A. Rowland, Safeway's district manager at Little Rock, and to Jerry Mauldin, the Safeway personnel director, and that negotiations had been set up with the company. Neither Rowland nor Mauldin could be reached for comment Saturday.

The demands include: Negro managers and assistant managers scattered throughout Safeway's Little Rock stores; Negro stock selectors in warehouses; Negro truck drivers; more Negro clerks and other personnel, and a more even distribution of them throughout the stores in Little Rock; a racial balance in meat and produce management, and "quality control in meat and produce departments."

Brown, who works for project SANE, a program of the war on poverty, said the last demand was included because food products, especially meat and produce, were of lower quality in stores in Negro neighborhoods.

In the letter to the Safeway executives, Brown said that "the thought of all-Negro stores in all-Negro neighborhoods is as repulsive as all-white stores in all-white neighborhoods."

BUY volunteers passed out leaflets describing the demands and the proposed boycott Friday afternoon and Saturday morning in front of Safeway stores at Seventeenth and Main Streets, Twenty-fourth and High Streets, Twelfth and Battery Streets and Twelfth and Lewis Streets.

Brown said BUY was formed in early May as "an action group dedicated to using any means possible to eliminate racism, tokenism and social injustice." He said he didn't know how many members it had. The group will have a public meeting at 2 p.m. today at Union AME Church at Wright Avenue and Pulaski Street to discuss the proposed boycott.

BLACK UNITED YOUTH

Chief of Police R. E. BRIANS, Little Rock Police Department, on May 15, 1968, furnished a leaflet which had been brought to his attention which apparently is being circulated by individuals representing the Black United Youth. This leaflet reads as follows:

ATTENTION

The Black United Youth is in the process of making demands on the Safeway Chain here in Little Rock. The demands are as follows:

The immediate employment of

1. Negro managers and assistant managers.
2. Negro stock selectors in Safeway warehouses.
3. Negro truck drivers.
4. Additional Negro clerks and other personnel.

Immediate action to assure:

5. Clerks more evenly distributed in stores throughout the District.
6. Balance of Negroes in meat market management and produce management.
7. Quality control in meat and produce markets.

If these demands are not met by the 15 of May, we are asking that the Negro Community act in a selective withdrawal campaign effective May 15, 1968.

Attend public meeting of the B.U.Y. Sunday, May 12, 1968, 2:00 p.m. at the Union A.M.E. Church, Wright Avenue & Pulaski.

BLACK UNITED YOUTH

BLACK UNITED YOUTH

A second confidential source advised on May 16, 1968, that the Little Rock Chapter of the Southern Student Organizing Committee (LR SSOC) was going to participate in the picketing of the Safeway Store at 24th and High Streets, Little Rock, Arkansas, being sponsored by the Black United Youth. JUDY JOHNSON, the Coordinator of the LR SSOC, is trying to get SSOC members to participate in the picketing.

A characterization of the Southern Student Organizing Committee is contained in the appendix hereto.

On May 17, 1968, Captain A. C. MC MURRAY, Little Rock, Arkansas, Police Department, advised that on May 16, 1968, three individuals picketed the Safeway Store at 24th and High Streets. At noon and during the evening of the same date a larger group picketed the same store. On the evening of May 16, 1968, the picketers handed out leaflets to potential Negro customers and urged them not to make purchases at that store.

SOUTHERN STUDENT ORGANIZING COMMITTEE (SSOC)

On November 1, 1966, a first source advised that the Southern Student Organizing Committee (SSOC) with headquarters at 1703 Portland Avenue, Nashville, Tennessee, was formed on the weekend of April 3-5, 1964, to stimulate activity of Southern student groups in areas of civil rights, peace, academic freedom, civil liberties, capital punishment and unemployment. Originally, it was to be a white counterpart of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC). It has agreed to work with similar interested groups such as SNCC and Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) and Southern Conference Educational Fund, Inc., (SCEF). SSOC is a fraternal affiliate of SDS.

Beginning in the fall of 1966, SSOC became a membership organization and embarked on a campaign to form local chapters on various college campuses throughout the South. SSOC publishes, October through May each year, a publication, "New South Student," which, according to the above source, has increasingly espoused and defended the pro-Communist and anti-United States position on domestic and foreign policy.

On September 27, 1966, a second source advised that Donald Boner of Nashville, Tennessee, while in attendance at a Communist Party, USA (CPUSA) Youth Conference, Camp Webatuck, New York, September 12, 13, and 14, 1966, gave a report regarding Nashville, saying that CP personnel were concentrating on organizing rent strikes, working with SSOC and SCEF and establishing a Socialist Study Group for students. He predicted future rioting, which, he said, the CP must take advantage of. He emphasized that more CP youth must be sent South.

On August 12, 1966, a third source advised that Donald Leslie Boner, white male, aged 22, of 3105 Louise Drive, Nashville, Tennessee, had been in the CP about four months.

On September 27, 1966, and again on June 2, 1967, the second source advised that during the summer of 1966, the CPUSA concentrated its youth cadre in organizing projects in several cities in an effort to recruit for and strengthen local CP youth organizations. Nashville, Tennessee, was included in this project. The youth placed in charge of the Nashville project was Donald Leslie Boner, with funds to be made available for three to five full-time organizers in Nashville. Jacqueline Saindon, also known as Jackie, of the CP in New York, New York, a Queens College student, came to Nashville in the summer of 1966 for this purpose. At the CPUSA Youth Conference held at Camp Webatuck, New York, September 12, 13, and 14, 1966, Boner reported that effective liaison had been made with SSOC; that contact had also been made with black militants on Nashville Negro college campuses; and that a beginning had been made toward organizing in the Nashville Negro community. He said he thought a riot was possible in the near future in the Negro community and the CP must take advantage of same. He emphasized that some main efforts were to work with SSOC and SCEF. Following the conference, attendees Brian Heggen and Patricia Louise Rabbitt, also known as Patti Rabbitt, traveled to Nashville to join Boner's organizing efforts there.

On February 28, 1967, a fourth source advised that Patti Rabbitt of Seattle, Washington, a member of the Northwest CP District, had gone to Nashville, Tennessee, to organize in connection with a CP assignment.

On June 8, 1967, source five advised that Patti Rabbitt, Brian Heggen, Donald Leslie Boner and wife Carol Stevens Boner are all active members of SSOC in Nashville and that Heggen is now editor of the official SSOC publication, "New South Student."

On July 7, 1967, source six advised that Donald Boner and wife Carol Boner attended a CPUSA Youth Conference at Camp Abelard, New York, July 1 through 4, 1967.

The masthead of the June 1967 issue of "Southern Patriot," official publication of SCEF, lists Carol Stevens Boner and Anne Braden as Editors and lists Carl Braden as Executive Director.

The "Nashville Banner," Nashville, Tennessee, newspaper issue of May 5, 1967, reported that SSOC was preparing for the May 17, 1967, appearance of Mike Zagarell, National Youth Director, CPUSA, at Vanderbilt University; that Bill Doss, Press Agent for SSOC, on May 12, 1967, brought to the "Banner" office publicity material which the CP had sent to SSOC.

SSOC (Continued)

The April 1967 issue, Volume IV, No. 4, of "New South Student," published each month, October through May, by SSOC, carried an article on page 22 entitled, "CIA American Labor," by Donald Boner, a review of a book entitled, "The CIA and American Labor," authored by George Morris, Labor Editor of "The Worker," East Coast Communist newspaper. Boner is described therein as an active member of the Nashville SSOC chapter.

Stanley Levison was very anxious that Corretta King not participate in this activity (reason not known). Corretta King's decision to participate was made after appreciable persuasion on the part of Bernard Lee, Special Aide to the President, SCLC. COMMUNIST INFILTRATION

On June 18 and 19, 1968, a confidential source, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised that while in Philadelphia on June 17, 1968, HENRY WINSTON, Chairman, Communist Party, USA (CPUSA), advised that the Poor People's Campaign in Washington would attract about a hundred-thousand people on June 19, 1968. Unions, churches, and peace organizations all over the country were sending buses. He also stated that sometime in the past some leaders from the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC) had come to the Communist Party and asked him to furnish cadre with organizational ability. As a result of this CHARLENE MITCHELL, JARVIS TYNER, and JAMES JACKSON, all members of the National Committee, CPUSA, were assigned to work with the SCLC. According to WINSTON, he was to have met with leaders of the SCLC from South Carolina on June 17, 1968, but because of his trip to Philadelphia, this meeting was postponed until Tuesday, June 18, 1968.

On June 19, 1968, a second confidential source, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised he learned that on June 11, 1968, JARVIS TYNER was in Philadelphia. TYNER had indicated that he had been in Washington to assist the SCLC and that before leaving Washington, he had turned over all his funds to them. TYNER specifically stopped over in Philadelphia for the purpose of obtaining funds to continue his trip home to New York.

APPENDIX

SOUTHERN STUDENT ORGANIZING COMMITTEE (SSOC) IN ARKANSAS

REGINALD EDWIN ALEXANDER JOHNSON, 801½ N. Highland, Fayetteville, Arkansas, advised a Special Agent of the FBI on February 5, 1968, that he is the state organizer for the Southern Student Organizing Committee (SSOC) with headquarters in Nashville, Tennessee. JOHNSON advised that the first meeting of the SSOC chapter being formed on the University of Arkansas campus, Fayetteville, was to be held February 5, 1968, at the Presbyterian Church Center.

The Arkansas Traveler, the official student newspaper of the University of Arkansas, carried an article on page 1 in the issue dated February 28, 1968, captioned "Student Senate Votes Recognition to SSOC Chapter." This article reported that the University of Arkansas Student Senate voted on the night of February 27, 1968, and granted recognition to the SSOC after hearing reports from the representative of the organization. The vote was 18 to 5. This article identifies JOE NEAL as the SSOC secretary and spokesman.

A first source furnished the following information on February 12, 1968:

JOSEPH CHARLES NEAL has told him that the SSOC chapter plans to attempt to get more Negro and white people registered to vote and they plan to do some draft counseling; however, NEAL did not elaborate as to what steps the SSOC planned to take in this direction.

NEAL also told him that any activities of the SSOC would not interfere with the orderly operation of the University and no type of militant action would be permitted.

A second source advised on May 7, 1968, that as of that date the SSOC chapter at the University of Arkansas, Fayetteville, had approximately thirty members who were holding weekly meetings at the Deep End Coffee Shop, Presbyterian Center. This chapter was an affiliate of the national SSOC organization with headquarters in Nashville, Tennessee. The officers of the chapter were KENNETH EARL BROWN, chairman; JOSEPH CHARLES NEAL, secretary; and JOHN BESSE, chapter representative to national meeting. All of these officers are students at the University of Arkansas. Source also advised that REGGIE JOHNSON, formerly state organizer for the SSOC, has been ordered to active duty by the U. S. Navy and reportedly has fled to Canada.

A third source furnished the following information on April 22, 1968:

An organizational meeting of the Little Rock chapter of the SSOC was held on April 21, 1968, at Little Rock, Arkansas. There were eight persons in attendance at this meeting. BRUCE DAVIS was elected Little Rock Coordinator and JUDY JOHNSON was elected as Little Rock University (LRU) Campus Coordinator. It was decided to call the chapter "LR SSOC" chapter. It was decided that the chapter would accept the four objectives of the national SSOC organization, they being campus reform, labor, the war, and the draft. It was decided the next meeting would be held at JUDY JOHNSON's house at 2121 West 14th, Little Rock, Arkansas. It was decided that, although the group would be oriented to the LRU campus, it would be open to all residents of Little Rock and it would not be necessary to be a student at LRU to join.

This third source advised on April 26, 1968, that BRUCE DAVIS had announced on April 25, 1968, that he was resigning as Coordinator of the Little Rock chapter of the SSOC and that JUDY JOHNSON would assume responsibilities as Little Rock Coordinator. DAVIS is still the contact and representative man for the Little Rock chapter of the SSOC.

BAYARD RUSTIN

In "The Saturday Evening Post," issue of July 11 - 18, 1964, page 76, BAYARD RUSTIN is the subject of a feature article captioned: "The Lone Wolf of Civil Rights." In it, RUSTIN is said to have come to New York in 1938, as an organizer for the Young Communist League (YCL), and as such, he had the job of recruiting students for the "Party." Furthermore, the article reports that during his first years in New York, RUSTIN gave most of his earnings to the "Party." He reportedly left the "Party" in 1941, the article states.

The YCL has been designated pursuant to Executive Order 10450.

The "Daily Worker," February 11, 1957, page 1, column 2, reported that BAYARD RUSTIN, Executive Secretary, War Resisters League, was an observer at the 16th National Convention of the Communist Party, United States of America, (CP, USA), held in New York City, on February 9 - 12, 1957.

The "Daily Worker" was an East Coast Communist publication until it ceased publication on January 13, 1958.

A confidential source advised on September 25, 1963, that during a meeting of the National Board, CP, USA, on that date, BENJAMIN J. DAVIS remarked that, "RUSTIN calls me constantly--openly."

A confidential source advised on February 19, 20, 1964, that BAYARD RUSTIN contacted BENJAMIN J. DAVIS on those dates and sought his advice as to how he could escape from a speaking engagement to which he was committed. On the latter contact, DAVIS told RUSTIN that he was working on his request and had contacted friends who had contacts with the group to which RUSTIN was to speak.

SOUTHERN STUDENT ORGANIZING COMMITTEE (SSOC)
INTERNAL SECURITY - SSOC

A confidential source furnished the following information on June 13, 1968:

The regular weekly meeting of the Little Rock Chapter of the Southern Student Organizing Committee (SSOC) was held on the night of June 12, 1968, at the residence of JUDY JOHNSON, 2121 West 14th Street, Little Rock, Arkansas. There were approximately fifteen persons in attendance at this meeting. It was decided at the meeting that those present would attend the regular weekly meeting of Black United Youth (BUY) on Sunday, June 16, 1968, and at the conclusion of this regular meeting they would go in mass to Spring Lake swimming facility as an integrated group to see if they would be admitted. If they are refused admittance, they will subsequently review the charter of Spring Lake in an attempt to determine if any legal redress can be had. It is further planned that arrangements will be made with the Negro leader of the band that plays on Sunday to leave the facility if they are denied admittance and stand with them outside the gate in sympathy. There are no plans for any militant type activity or picketing and this will merely be an attempt to determine if Spring Lake will admit Negroes.

This document contains neither recommendations nor conclusions of the FBI. It is the property of the FBI and is loaned to your agency; it and its contents are not to be distributed outside your agency.

RE: SOUTHERN STUDENT ORGANIZING

INTERNAL SECURITY - SSOC

It was also decided that the charter of the Cammack Village Swimming Pool would be examined to determine if this private swimming club can be required to admit Negroes.

A characterization of the SSOC in Arkansas and the SSOC is contained in the appendix hereto.

The above information was furnished on June 13, 1968, to U. S. Secret Service, Military Intelligence Group, and Pulaski County Sheriff FRANK MACKEY, Little Rock, Arkansas.

Cases LR 66-C-150 and LR 66-C-149 are civil suits filed in U. S. District Court in 1966. The first suit is styled "ROSALYN KYLES and DORIS DANIEL, Plaintiffs, vs. J. A. CULBERSON, individually and as owner, manager, and/or operator of Spring Lake, Inc. - Defendant." The second suit is styled "ROSALYN KYLES and DORIS DANIEL, Plaintiffs, vs. EUEL PAUL, JR., individually and as owner, manager, and/or operator of Lake Nixon Club - Defendant."

The complaint in the Spring Lake case was filed on July 19, 1966, as a suit in equity pursuant to Title 2 of the Civil Rights Act of 1964. The complaint alleges that the plaintiffs attempted to enter the facility on July 10, 1966, and were denied on the grounds that the facility was a private club and that they were not members and the membership was full. The complaint alleges that the real reason for nonadmittance was their race or color. The two suits mentioned above were consolidated for trial and tried by the court without a jury. On February 1, 1967, a decree was entered by U. S. District Judge J. SMITH HENLEY, Eastern District of Arkansas, Little Rock, dismissing both of the cases with prejudice at the cost of the plaintiffs. Judge HENLEY's Memorandum Opinion supporting the decree concluded that Spring Lake and Lake Nixon are not public accommodations under the meaning of the Civil Rights Act of 1964. Judge HENLEY's decision in the Lake Nixon case is still on appeal before the Eighth Circuit Court. No appeal has been taken on the HENLEY decision in the Spring Lake case.

Character: INTERNAL SECURITY-C

Synopsis: Negroes in the CP,USA leadership want the CP,USA Presidential candidate to be a Negro. The Party's National Negro Commission met in May, 1968, to help prepare the rewrite of the section of the Party program on the Negro Question. At this meeting, CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT SF called for a review of the 1959 Party resolution rejecting the slogan of self-determination for Negroes. HENRY WINSTON, SF at this meeting, said the Negro Question must be discussed under existing conditions and that he believes the slogan of self-determination does not apply to the South today. There was opposition to LIGHTFOOT's point of view. The CP,USA instructed all districts to give all-out support to the Poor People's March on Washington being sponsored by the Southern Christian Leadership Conference. At a meeting of the Party's SF National Executive Board in April, 1968, WILLIAM PATTERSON SF stressed the importance of achieving Negro-white unity and called for support by the Party of the Poor People's March. A "Statement on Party Building" issued in April, 1968, called for recruiting among Negroes. The Party has alerted all districts to watch for the publication of a book by CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT "From Ghetto Rebellion to Black Liberation" which it described as a "major Marxist contribution". SYNOPSIS: (CONT'D)

The February, 1968 issue of "Political Affairs" was a special issue devoted to "The Battle for Black Liberation". Comments from contributors to this issue set out: GIL GREEN of the NYD CP has called for new approaches to the Negro Question, and for control of their own communities by Negroes. RASHEED STOREY also wants Negroes to run their communities and called for formation of black caucuses where Negroes can discuss their own problems. The DCA called for a work stoppage following the assassination of MARTIN LUTHER KING. The DCA plans to hold a summer seminar for black youth. The PLP held a two day meeting in December, 1967, of militants in the black liberation struggle to launch a National Day for Black Unity in May, 1968. The "Workers World" has published articles criticizing the rulers in the United States of oppression against the Negroes. At an Executive Board meeting of the NALC, in February, 1968, it was stated that all chapters of the NALC are having trouble building membership due to black nationalist elements influence on the Negro people. GEORGE MEYERS sees great possibilities for the NALC and urged Chicago CP members to stay with the organization. The National Black Anti-War, Anti-Draft Union is a SNCC operated project operated out of the New York Office of SNCC. CP members in CORE Chapters in the New York area identified. STANLEY LEVISON is still advising the leadership of the SCLC on matters of strategy and policy.

I. COMMUNIST STRATEGY

A. Plans, Strategy and Policy of the Communist Party, United Sates of America (CP, USA) on a National Level

1. Strategy and Policy Issued by the CP National Office or Discussed at National Meetings

According to a leading CP official, the CP, USA is facing a major problem at the current time both locally and nationally. According to this official, Negroes in the Party, especially among the leadership, have joined together and organized as a caucus. At this point, with one exception, they all want the CP, USA candidate for the United States Presidency to be a Negro, rather than GUS HALL, the General Secretary of the CP, USA, as now planned.

Up until the present time, HENRY WINSTON, Chairman of the CP, USA, has remained neutral and the one exception is CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT, who wants a white man to run for President on the CP, USA ticket.

HALL has been making a tour of the United States and has been polling the CP, USA membership, white and Negro, asking for opinions on who should be the CP, USA candidate for President. CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT wants to change the new Party program on the Negro Question. He wants to revive the old Party slogan of self-determination.

May 10 - 16, 1968.

The National Negro Commission, CP, USA, met in New York City during the period May 18 and 19, 1968. At this meeting, CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT, Chairman of the National Negro Commission, gave a report in which he stated in part as follows:

The purpose of the meeting was to help prepare the rewrite of the section in the Party draft program on the Negro Question. With respect to the past position of the Party, in 1959, which stated that although the Party was changing its position in regard to the Negro people constituting a nation, it does not mean that there are no special characteristics to define this group. The 1959 resolution did not adequately define what was new in the Negro Question.

The Negro Question in the United States has three characteristics; one being that it is part of a class question; two, that it is a national question; and three, it is a race question. In developing a program, all three aspects must be considered. At the present time, all three characteristics are influencing the liberation movement in the United States.

If nations can demand independence, it is conceivable that racists can also demand it. The struggle for liberation in the United States has the form of full political, economic and social equality as does the character of the struggle for liberation in colonial countries. These demands have a large influence on the people to demand the right of self-determination. Negroes in the United States do not constitute a nation in a scientific sense but their struggle for political and economic freedom results in a desire for nationhood. This desire takes many forms such as no white direction for the freedom movement, emphasis on black power and the use of the term "black".

Concerning the problems of structural changes, the focus should be on those that can be changed within the present system and those that will come about in the advent of socialism. The Party must take a positive approach to the struggles of Negro-Americans for democracy in the United States and should identify with the struggle for community control. Local control by black people, in the name of self-determination, must be distinguished from the states rights movement. Black control of the ghetto is a democratic process and there should be a struggle for more representation of the black people by redistricting the political areas to enhance black representation.

It is possible to achieve full political economic equality or independence within the framework of capitalism. Changes in the American structure must be in the direction of guaranteeing the maximum participation of Negroes. If the black population desires a separate organization under a socialist society, it could and should be carried out. Although the Party does not advocate a separate state, it cannot ignore it or have no definite opinion about it.

At this same meeting, HERBERT APTHEKER, a member of the National Committee, CP, USA, stated that the relationship of black and white in this country makes it impossible to develop any more advances without a struggle against racism. He said that the underlying root of racism is capitalism.

CARL BLOICE, 51 the Washington D.C. correspondent for "The Worker", in his speech, stated that there must be an effort made to influence the direction of the Poor People's Campaign, being conducted by the Southern Christian Leadership Conference in Washington D.C., in regard to its program. He said that the Party must project itself toward the organization of the most oppressed section of the working class.

The next speaker, ROSCOE PROCTOR, 57 a member of the CP, USA, National Committee stated that the Party as an organization was not involved in the Poor People's Campaign. He indicated that this Campaign is being attacked by the white radical left and that the Party should not let this aspect go unnoticed.

HENRY WINSTON, the CP, USA National Chairman also spoke and delivered a report on the concept of the Third World. During his speech, he stated that on the concept that American Negroes constitute a colony in America, such as STOKELY CARMICHAEL sees it, it is incorrect and misleading. He said it denies the basic Marxist fact of the law of development of capitalism and has placed American imperialism in a special category. He said the Negro Question is part of America and is related to the development of this country.

WINSTON stated that the essence of the Negro struggle in America is for economic, political and social control. He said that self-determination arose when the majority of Negroes were still living on the land and were subject to agricultural boundaries. He stated, however, that the Negro Question must be discussed under existing conditions and that it is his personal opinion that the slogan of self-determination does not apply to the South today. He added that he prefers the concept of black power and that any concept of a Third World which sees the separation of national liberation forces from their allies is a suicidal path.

It was agreed at the meeting of the National Negro Commission that a committee be set up to rewrite the sections of the draft program dealing with the Negro Question.

May 23, 1968.

At the meeting of the National Negro Commission, CP, USA, held in the Sheraton-Atlantic Hotel, New York City, on May 18 and 19, 1968, WILLIAM PATTERSON told the meeting that the National Negro Commission had been gathered together at a crucial moment in American history. He said that there is an urgent need for the CP, USA to produce a program which would be of assistance to Negro-Americans seeking their rights.

CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT stated that the most recent action by Negro militants and a sampling of the opinion of various segments of the Negro population in the United States, had led him to believe that, once again, the Negroes were seeking to separate themselves from white America. He said that he thought the CP, USA should re-examine the position it took in the convention held prior to 1960.

In the discussion that followed, it appeared that there was a great deal of opposition to LIGHTFOOT's point of view. Most of those who spoke indicated that a return to the old policy was a violation of the CP, USA principle of Negro and white unity.

In the second session of the National Negro Commission meeting, HENRY WINSTON talked at length about minority groups making revolutionary moves throughout the world. He pointed out that Negroes are active in most of these movements and he talked specifically about various countries in Africa and Negro revolts in Cuba, Latin America and the United States. He said that these revolutionary movements would lead to closer contact with the major socialist countries such as the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics (USSR) and a freer exchange of socialist ideas.

May 20, 1968.

The sources made available a document addressed to all districts, National Committee members, Heads of all Negro Work Departments and Chairmen of all Commissions, which was issued by WILLIAM L. PATTERSON for the Negro Work Department of the CP, USA. This document called for all-out support of the Poor People's March on Washington being conducted by the Southern Christian Leadership Conference. It said that this march could become an instrument for "mobilizing and activizing millions against poverty".

In this document under the caption "Our Tasks", the following is stated:

"The Negro Work Department calls on all district leadership to recognize and through action acknowledge possibilities for deepening and sharpening the struggle against poverty. This can lead logically to the question of the organization of the South, of the unorganized and the unemployed. This step is not only vitally important in relation to a successful fight against poverty but in relation to every major issue before the nation.

"The logic of this step as a follow-up flows out of the association of the March with the strike of Memphis garbage workers and the unity of white-black workers in struggle.

"Correct steps in publicizing the March and its massive ramifications can help awaken the creative imagination of black and white alike.

"The people are in motion. The battle for their clarification, unification and direction is a challenge we can neither evade or avoid.

A meeting of the National Executive Board of the CP, USA and invited guests was held during the period April 11 - 13, 1968, at the Sheraton-Atlantic Hotel, New York City. At this meeting WILLIAM PATTERSON gave a report on the assessment of the assassination of MARTIN LUTHER KING JR., President of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference. He stated that, although it was true that the CP, USA had basic philosophical differences with KING, at this time there is no need to call these differences to the attention of mankind. He said that, rather, the approach should be to show the common views held by KING and the CP, USA. He also claimed that KING had reached a stage where he began to think like a socialist and about socialism.

PATTERSON also stated that the CP, USA program is clear on the subject of Negro-white unity. He said this program is based on the self-interest of both black and white and that the question of unity between them must be developed in every place where the masses assemble. He said unity must be stressed in the areas of jobs, housing, health, labor and ideology. He called for joint action and intensified action to achieve Negro-white unity.

PATTERSON also referred to the fear of the terror unleashed in Negro ghettos on several occasions and said that black communists must talk to black youth and point out to them the manner in which the course of looting and burning leads to tactics of the white power structure to divide and rule the Negro masses.

PATTERSON called for the Party to intensify its work to guarantee that the Poor People's March on Washington goes on. He said that this intensified work by the Party must be conducted in trade unions, in churches and on radio and on television. He stated that this march must succeed and noted that heavy pressure had been brought to bear on the head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference to call it off.

In conclusion, PATTERSON described the class character of racism and placed the responsibility for it on the ruling classes. He urged that the conclusions and recommendations of the President's Commission on Civil Disorders be implemented.

At this meeting HENRY WINSTON indicated his agreement with the report given by PATTERSON. He also stated that the Party must struggle to see that the Poor Peoples March on Washington is carried on. He agreed with PATTERSON that the main question at the present time is Negro - white unity. He added that the Party cannot lay claim to a scientific analysis of racism as it talks of racism in general without identifying it as the ideology of the ruling class. He urged the Party to define the meaning of the black liberation movement and emphasized that there is a new stage in the struggle for civil rights. He said it is now a fight for the central demands of the people and their economic needs. He urged the establishment of a committee to draft demands for the coming mass struggle.

GUS HALL delivered a report at this meeting on the electoral situation in which he stated that the country is now in a crisis which crisis is fed by two causes, one of them being that of the Jim Crow System. In commenting on the manner in which they could influence the electoral scene, he stated that the issues included the subject of civil rights, the election of more Negroes to Congress and the implementing of the conclusions of the report of the President's Commission on Civil Disorders.

At this meeting, motions were made and passed to approve of the publication of WILLIAM PATTERSON's report, with editing, and to approve the report of GUS HALL.

The source furnished a copy of a "Statement on Party Building" furnished by the National Organization Department, CP, USA, to all districts and National Committee members under date of April 8, 1968. This statement, which called for a recruiting goal of 2,000 new members by the time of the holding of the 19th National Convention of the Party, stated that the first area of concentration should be among workers in industries such as automobiles, steel and transportation. It set forth that secondly, emphasis must be placed on recruiting among Negro people. It claimed that this need arose not only from the central importance on the Negro freedom movement, but also from the special contribution of the Party and its Marxist - Leninist approach to the struggles of oppressed minorities, especially the Negro people. It said that, thirdly, emphasis must be placed on Party building among youth, particularly Negro youth.

The statement claimed that the struggles of Negroes have brought many of them to the stage where they seek the illumination which Marxism - Leninism offers, and where they can be won to the party.

The source made available a communication from HENRY WINSTON, National Chairman of the CP, USA dated April 3, 1968, and furnished to all districts which concerned a new book by CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT entitled "From Ghetto Rebellion to Black Liberation". This communication stated as follows:

"Dear Comrades:

"The purpose of this letter is to announce the forthcoming appearance of the book From Ghetto Rebellion to Black Liberation written by Claude Lightfoot.

"This major work will be off the press by the end of May. This book is a major Marxist contribution on the present period and will be of invaluable help in the fight against racism in general and for the unity of black and white in the struggle against Negro oppression.

"The book will appear at the beginning of summer and must become a major ideological weapon which is brought not only to the Party but to all activists in the Peace, Labor, Negro and Youth movements.

"This book has been long awaited and the spontaneous reaction to it has been most heartwarming. An example is the fact that the New York State organization is undertaking to distribute some 1500 copies of the book and Illinois, 1000. The initial printing will be some 10,000.

"To fulfill and overfulfill such a quota will necessitate the development of a massive ideological campaign to put it across.

"We therefore wish to call to the attention of all leaderships this event which has such enormous importance for the struggle for the rights of the Negro people which is the pivot of the struggle for democracy and peace in the country...."

Source made available a copy of a news release dated March 1, 1968 which contained a statement from CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT and WILLIAM PATTERSON on the "Report of National Advisory Committee on Civil Disorders". The statement by LIGHTFOOT and PATTERSON said that this report should be welcomed as the beginning of an understanding of the real causes "of the genocidal attacks upon the Negro people". It called for the committee's recommendations to be made the property of the rank and file of labor and the people. It also called for transferring the money spent on war to a program for the complete elimination of slum ghetto life.

"The Worker", March 5, 1968, contained an editorial "A Call to White Americans" which concerned itself with the report of the National Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders. The editorial notes that because of the reaction of the President and Congress to the report, only unified mass pressures by Negro and white Americans can make the recommendations of the commission a reality. It states that money is available to carry out these recommendations but that it is being squandered on the Vietnam war "an immoral and illegal aggression".

The editorial states further that, "It is clear from all this that the proposals of the national commission will not become reality, unless the people act. They will have to force President Johnson and Congress to carry out the mandate indicated by the report, by political action, by demonstrations, by marches to their Congressmen, to state capitals, to Washington". It adds that the basic responsibility rests with white Americans.

2. Plans and Strategy Revealed in Party Publications

"Political Affairs", February, 1968, is described as a special issue devoted to "The Battle for Black Liberation". Among the contributors to this special issue was GUS HALL who contributed an article "Strategy and Tactics in New Stage of Struggle". In this article he made the following comments:

The struggle for Negro has reached a new stage which can be described as a rebellion against Tokenism. The new level is becoming a demand for elimination of the system that created inequality in jobs, housing and other conditions. The new level of struggle requires the development of a corresponding set of tactics, alliances and political and ideological foundations. "The relevance of our Party to these struggles will be measured by our contribution to the solution of the problems on this new level".

Concerning present nationalistic trends, the Party must determine the direction it wants these trends to develop. The Party must be sensitive to the trends and know in what direction it wants to influence their movement. The Party must agree on the direction in order to determine its position on such questions as alliances i.e. alliances mainly with liberals, the middle class, or with the working class and working poor.

The key to victory, the main problem, the main challenge of the Party, is the task of winning greater numbers of white Americans to the struggle for Negro freedom, the task of eradicating the influence of racism among white Americans. "The winning of this struggle is key to Negro-white unity. We can achieve such unity only to the extent that we accomplish this task". However, the Party, despite its contributions, has too few "experts" on this phase of the struggle. The failure to be an expert on winning white Americans to the struggle against discrimination is a serious weakness. White Communists, especially, must be experts on this aspect. Another weakness is that the Party has very little literature on this subject.

The extent of influence of white chauvinism in the Party's ranks must be measured by the Party's effectiveness in the struggle against racism by white Americans. The idea that white Americans cannot be won to the struggle for Negro freedom must be rejected. The arguments that racism is "sinful" or anti-democratic are not sufficient to win broader sections of the American people to the battle against racism; more is needed. It is necessary to explain the class roots of ideology. In the United States racism has its roots in capitalism. "It is an instrument of exploitation, of class rule." An understanding of the roots of racism is necessary to the development of class-consciousness among workers.

The mutual and paralled self-interests of Negro and white constitute the key instrument of leverage in the fight against racism. "We can play our role as a Party or as individuals only if we become experts in its use." This leverage must be used in areas such as the struggle for democracy or the struggle for peace. The Party is not expert in showing that racism is used by anti-democratic forces. In the struggle for peace and the struggle against United States imperialism, the Party should become experts in convincing white peace workers that, in order to win the struggle against the war policy, they must join the struggle for Negro freedom.

The Party must become experts in exposing the class roots of racism. The most solid base in this struggle against racism is working-class consciousness. White workers will understand if they can be shown that racism is a weapon in the interests of the ruling class. The elimination of the inequality of the economic status for Negroes is a basic test for all struggles for freedom. All struggles must contribute to eliminating this gap. "We Communists must become experts in winning the support of white Americans to wipe out the economic inequality in all spheres of activity."

CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT also contributed an article to this special issue of "Political Affairs" entitled "Path to Black Liberation Under Capitalism". In this article he comments in part as follows:

A new feature of the Negro freedom movement is a growing recognition that capitalism is the source of black oppression. However, the Negro freedom movement cannot accept the viewpoint of some who claim that no substantial changes in the status of Negroes are possible under capitalism. The struggle of the Negro people today in the United States is a democratic struggle and it is possible to change their status short of socialism. There are some things which the Negro can achieve under capitalism but others will have to wait for a socialist solution.

What is needed in the immediate future is a program or programs that will unite the problems of all Americans with the special problems of Negroes. The problems of today require a challenge of the controls of big business over the direction of government. There must be a powerful coalition directed against monopoly capital. There must be programs to fight poverty. The Communist Party, several years ago, presented a program which involved the spending of over $150 billion in the next ten years. In order to overcome the problems of the ghetto, such as housing, employment, health and education, intervention of government at all levels is fundamental, especially massive federal intervention. However mass struggle can win changes in the ghetto even without aid.

The main problem of the ghetto is income. The Negro there is exploited and the central problem in this exploitation is wages. Therefore, there must be a fight to raise wages of Negro workers. However, unless there are changes within the labor movement making it a more effective instrument of struggle for the interests of the working class, no meaningful changes for the Negro will occur. To change the low wages paid Negroes there must be a struggle to organize the unorganized, black and white, and a struggle to upgrade Negro workers within the unions.

The labor movement is potentially the common peoples most powerful weapon and if it is not living up to its responsibilities it must be made to do so. Discrimination within the unions must also be combatted.

The most urgent problem is that of Negro youth because many of them are succumbing to despair and hopelessness creating great problems in the ghetto. What is needed is for the Federal government to set up a job-training and placement program for a half million Negro youth across the country.

The political arena is a key area of struggle but the problems of the American society including civil rights cannot be resolved by the masses in the context of the two-party system as it now exists. The democratic masses will have to eventually form a new people's party which will be capable of making basic reforms within the framework of the capitalist system. The Negro people are giving an example of an approach to the problem. The concept of black power means the right of the Negro people to share in the power structure of this country and the struggle for Negro representation both within and without the two-party system is an important step toward the formation of a new political party.

A rise in Negro representation, in Negroes sharing power, is in the national interest. The slogan of "Black Power" can have a positive effect in accelerating greater political independence by all segments of the populace, within and without the two-party system. The forming of the Black Panther Party in Lowndes County, Alabama and the Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party are important steps toward a realignment of political forces. There, two parties are playing an important role in moving the Negro masses into an independent position outside the Democratic and Republican parties. However the struggle must also be waged within the two major parties. A successful policy must have struggle within and without the major political parties.

The issues before the country require a radical solution, and toward this end, the need for a new people's party, a more radical party, will become obvious. A party such as this is a prerequisite to any basic change of foreign policy and a reconstruction of the country's economic and social life. It is also a condition for making radical changes in the position of Negroes in society. Any government based on a new people's party must be anti-monopoly in its policy and be prepared to curb the power of big business. Negroes can gain in political representation but will never be free and equal without a new system which restricts monopoly rule and does away with capitalism.

In the age of monopoly capital, the Negro will not be able to acquire enough capital to have a major voice in economic affairs. The only way Negroes can acquire a voice in economic policies is for the working class to take power and nationalize the major industries. Under socialism, where the government controls the whole economy, black power at the polls will influence the Negro's position in all aspects of life. In this context of political power black people can gain the power to protect their freedom and make black power a reality.

CARL BLOICE, in his article in the February, 1968 issue of "Political Affairs" entitled "The Status of Black Liberation" comments in part as follows:

Concerning the national aspect of the Negro Question, there is a strong trend in the black community today which has been characterized as "nationalist". Discrimination and segregation are not the only reasons for the national aspect of the struggle for black liberation. This national aspect "lies in the common history, common oppression and common destiny of black people". Black people realize that their situation requires that they move together as a group which granting of civil rights cannot guarantee.

The concept of equal rights and equal citizenship is a bourgeois concept. The winning of "bourgeois democratic norms" is important. The mistake made in the past was to regard the struggle for equal rights not only as an important part of the struggle for liberation but as the final resolution of the question. The granting of full citizenship is not an indication of the end of national oppression.

The confusion that exists today on the Negro liberation movement is a result of reducing the national aspects of the Negro Question to one of "rights" and "equal citizenship". Congress cannot make the question of equal citizenship much clearer by passing more laws. The question is "What then beyond 'equal rights' and 'equal citizenship'?"

The large movement of Negroes into an urban working-class status has only worsened their condition. The condition of life in the ghetto has led many black leaders to claim that the basic question before Negroes is that of survival. The most important task before the progressive forces is to prevent Negroes from being locked out of the nation's economy and to open the economic life of the country to them.

The question of power is inherent in the Negro struggle for survival and advancement. Negroes can wield strength only slightly from their ability to sell or withhold their labor power and have only limited strength as a political force. However, taken all together, Negro strength as farmers, buyers, workers, voters and businessmen, can be great.

Their concentration in urban centers adds to this. "'Black Power' is an attempt to marshal all their resources to meet a critical situation. It has also meant the psychological mobilization of black masses through the reassertion of the essential national aspect of the question". Black power adds to the struggle of the Negro people because it"sweeps aside the reformism of token advancement" and "demands that the nation deal with black people as a group. Black power is not "a separatist slogan" but wants "to share national weight and decision making".

The answer to keeping the liberation movement on the correct path is to see that its leadership is passed on to members of the working class. Today, the demands of Negroes are closer to class demands and their fulfillment will require some basic changes in the power structure.

The Party's role is that of the vanguard. This means the ability to advance programs and goals that unite the working class and all anti-monopoly forces. The Party must show the way to revolutionary struggle and to the advantages of socialism. There must be a meaningful Communist program of "Reconstruction proportions". There must be a new unity built; one built upon people of the same class in common struggle for common aims. "The key to laying the groundwork for future united struggle is work among the lowest strata of the working class...."

"The Worker", April 14, 1968, contained an editorial on the aftermath of MARTIN LUTHER KING's assassination. It noted that the power of which KING was an expression prevailed in death as in life and that this power is the power of black and white unity. It said that this unity must be strengthened to resist all attacks by racists and the enemies of the black people. The main enemy is identified as the ruling class or big business whose agents are in places such as the White House, Congress, and parts of the labor movement. It stated that this enemy can be defeated by black and white unity and that the labor movement must be the force to unite the nation for acheiving black freedom, ending poverty and acheiving peace.

It called for the money being spent in Vietnam to be used to provide jobs, homes, education and training for black people and poor whites. It said that all job discrimination by unions and employees must be done away with as well as discrimination in housing and social institutions of unions. It insisted that only firm unity of black and white will succeed in overcoming any resistance.

"The Worker", April 16, 1968, in its editorial, page 2, column 3, commented on the tributes and pledges paid to MARTIN LUTHER KING and his work, by labor unions and union leaders. It said that the time for such tributes and pledges had run out and that the main issue now is to look closely at what so many of the unions have pledged to do and then follow through on them.

It noted that KING hoped to develop a higher stage in the alliance of labor and the Negro people and that Memphis was to be an example of how an entire Negro community in a large Southern city could unite with the labor movement.

in support of low-paid Negro workers. It said KING had hoped by such examples to encourage labor to undertake again a sweeping organizing movement especially in the South.

It noted that what should be done is to see that the pledges made are fulfilled. The atmosphere in the country is more favorable than ever for progress to be made in the fight against poverty and racism. The editorial continued that every labor organization must place the issues on its agenda as a matter of urgency because only performance not promises will count.

3. Plans and Strategy Revealed at Lower Level Party Meetings

At a New York District CP Committee meeting held on April 20, 1968 at the Hotel Manhattan, New York City, GIL GREEN was one of the speakers. In his speech, he stressed the following points:

1. Party people should work among white people to explain Negro problems.

2. The Party must put out new approaches to the Negro problem.

3. The Party does not support a rebellion or guerrilla war in the ghettos.

4. The Negroes and other minorities must control their communities.

5. The race issue must be brought into the peace movement.

6. The Party must make headway with the Poor People's March.

At this same meeting, RASHEED STOREY was one of the speakers and covered the following points:

1. There are great contradications in the Negro ghettos and a revolutionary spirit exists there.

2. The concept of community control is important and the Party should push for this.

3. The policies of the RAP BROWNs have to be exposed. BROWN preaches anarchy which will not help Negroes. The Party has to expose this and Negroes should go to the polls and vote instead of burning.

4. Party publications must take on the STOKELY CARMICHAELs and the RAP BROWNs who have to be attacked and exposed.

NY T-8

At the New York District CP Committee meeting held on April 20, 1968 in the Hotel Manhattan, New York City, GIL GREEN delivered the first report. He talked about the Poor People's March on Washington D.C. and said that the Party intended to put a great deal of effort into it and that he, personally, expects a lot of results. He called for those present to have each peace candidate make statements about the Poor People's March and said that Party people must put an end to white chauvinism in the CP.

GREEN also stated that the Party must participate fully in the coming elections especially through the Peace and Freedom Party, which he said is committed to support black people in the United States. He also stated that the Party wants black people to rebuild the ghetto.

The next speaker was RASHEED STOREY who stated that the Negro people's movement must be supported by the Party as well as the poor people's movement. He said that this must be done by CP members through labor unions and through their community groups. STOREY wants Negroes to run their own communities which includes having only Negroes as policemen in those areas.

April 22, 1968.

On April 7, 1968, a black caucus organized by RASHEED STOREY from the New York State CP Headquarters was held in Buffalo, New York. It was mentioned that the CP was running black caucuses in different parts of the country in order for people to iron out their difficulties.

RASHEED STOREY, who gave the principal speech, stated that the purpose of the black caucus was for Negro people who must solve their own problems by getting together for discussions. He claimed that it did no good to work with or for white people in connection with problems peculiar to black people. He said that black caucuses should be set up in trade unions and throughout the community by and with black people. He stated that it would be up to black people to decide who will represent them and why.

STOREY further stated that there should be black caucuses set up for political campaigns and also to put pressure on the Board of Education to insist that Negro children are properly educated. STOREY indicated that rioting was not the correct way for the Negro to solve his problem and said that when black caucuses are held it should be pointed out that the enemy are the capitalists who control the money and the industry of the white power structure.

April 10, 1968.

A New York District CP Committee meeting was held at the Hotel Manhattan, New York City on February 17, 1968. RASHEED STOREY did not attend this meeting because he was conducting a communist black caucus in Brooklyn, New York, which most of the Negro members of the District Committee were attending.

The main report was given by GIL GREEN and in his speech he stated that the CP members should fight for the Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party and should take part in the demonstrations for the three Negroes who had been killed in Orangeburg, South Carolina. GREEN also stated that the comrades should participate in black caucuses and should be prepared for a "long hot summer" which he said would hit many cities in the United States.

GREEN also called for support of the black militants and urged the members of the District Committee to inform Negro comrades, and all Negroes who need work, to get jobs on public housing projects such as the New State Office Building being erected in New York City.

A meeting of the Upper West Side CP Youth Club was held on February 11, 1968 at 711 Amsterdam Avenue, New York City. MILDRED EDLEMAN visited this meeting to describe the current "Harlem Concentration Project" being undertaken by the New York District CP, and urged the club to support the project.

The "Harlem Project" is aimed at the proposed construction of a New State Office Building in Harlem and demands are being raised that residents of Harlem be employed at the project. EDLEMAN admitted that the main interest of the CP in the project was to rebuild its strength in Harlem. The first phase of the CP drive is the distribution of at least 35,000 leaflets in Harlem which is aimed at both Negro and Puerto Rican minorities. Following this distribution, a coalition will be organized of groups, including the CP, which hopes to maintain influence and control of its direction.

4. PLANS AND STRATEGY OF THE W.E.B. DU BOIS CLUBS

The New York Times issue of March 5, 1968, carried an article captioned "700 Pickets Chant 'Muhammad Ali Is Champion'". According to the article, 700 people demonstrated outside of the new Madison Square Garden in New York City in support of Ali, the deposed heavyweight boxing champion, while another heavyweight fight was in process in the Garden.

According to the article, the DCA, on March 4, 1968, held a news conference advising they would sponsor the rally. The article stated the pickets carried signs reading "Racism Must Go" and "Stop The War Against Black Americans".

A letter was received from DCA headquarters on the stationery of the DCA advising of the death of MARTIN LUTHER KING and steps to be taken to "rebuff racism" in America. The letter urged the following steps for "A Call To Action": "1. All schools must be closed Monday. 2. All shops and work places must be shut down Monday. 3. America must be closed up Monday to demonstrate an outraged counter-attack against racist oppression in America. 4. Dr. KING's Poor People's Campaign must be built into the most massive action against racism that America has ever seen. 5. People must be preparedto mobilize in Memphis, Tennessee to force a victory for Memphis' Sanitation workers."

A meeting of the National Executive Committee of the DCA was held in New York City, March 31, 1968. During this meeting it was stated that the DCA plans to have a summer seminar for black youth, at which time they would be taught Marxist fundamentals.

B. Other Communist Groups

1. Progressive Labor Party (PLP)

On September 24, 1967, a PLP Trade Union Club meeting was held at 4015 Melrose Avenue, Los Angeles, California.

At this meeting a report on "Black Liberation" was given which had been given by BILL EPTON to the PLP National Committee.

EPTON's report stated that the Negro rebellions during the summer could not last more than a few days each because there was basicly no real Marxist-Leninist leadership and a lack of political organization. While the PLP did actually support the rebellions in Detroit, Newark, New York and others, its role was too minor to really prolong the revolts. The PLP has to build a much bigger base among the black people in order to be able to play a better role in future rebellions.

In his report EPTON claimed that politics is primary, military tactics is secondary and without proper Marxist-Leninist political guidance, no revolt could be successful.

EPTON claimed that the PLP has criticized STOKELY CARMICHAEL and H. RAP BROWN because they dwell too much on military aspects of revolution and don't teach enough on politics. He stated the PLP needs to concentrate on developing left-center forces in the class struggle.

In EPTON's report he stated that the 13-18 year old group is the most vocal and seems to comprise the majority in the revolts, but actually the great majority of the combatants are in the 21-35 year old group.

EPTON claimed that the only really revolutionary black leader he has known was MALCOLM X, but STOKELY CARMICHAEL shows some promise of developing into a revolutionary black leader.

An article which appeared in the "Daily News", the St. Thomas Virgin Islands daily newspaper dated November 16, 1967, stated that a racist pamphlet had recently been circulated in St. Thomas. Contact with the "Daily News" Publisher, ARIEL MELCHIOR Sr. revealed that this pamphlet was obtained by one of his staff on the main street of St. Thomas from an unknown person. MELCHIOR had no description of this unknown person except that he was a male Negro.

This pamphlet that was distributed was entitled "The Plot Against Black America" which shows that it was published by the Harlem Branch of the PLP.

The pamphlet also said further that it was the first in a series of pamphlets to be published on the subject. Subsequent pamphlets will expose the role being played by so-called "respectible" black leaders in delivering the black masses into the hands of the enemy. Another volume will be a comprehensive study of the role being played by the American press in the plot against black Americans. The fourth volume will contain a close study of black rebellions and the lessons to be drawn from them.

Source furnished a special two page issue of "Challenge" captioned "United States Rulers Want Harlem Drugged", which shows that it was to be issued free. The source advised that BILL EPTON had ordered 5,000 copies of this special issue.

This special issue sets forth in part that "the sale and availability of drugs in the black community is always increased to head off the rising political consciousness and militancy of the Afro-American people. In the early and mid 50's with the emergence of the civil rights movement, the ruling class began to introduce marijuana, cocaine, and heroin into the black community. As the movement advanced more drugs were sent into the ghettos. This has reached a point today where the government with very little 'cover' is bringing dope directly to the black youth and even paying for it...

"So United States imperialism is ready and willing to drug any section of the population that is potentially rebellious...

"In order for the ruling class and its gangster apparatus to distribute the drugs and sell it to the poor unemployed ghetto dwellers and youngsters, they must provide the people with money to get started and free time to hustle. They accomplish this in three ways:

1. Welfare payments
2. Anti-poverty agencies
3. Lowering the price of drugs...

"We can't depend on the cops or the phony politicians because they take bribes to see that the drug traffic goes on with the minimum amount of static. If it is to be done, we must do it ourselves. Join in the fight."

A source advised that the Chicago Area Draft Resistors had held a meeting at the University of Chicago on November 29, 1967, and a greater part of the meeting was devoted to a discussion of an unnamed all Negro organization that was being formed from slum residents to protest the Vietnam War and slum conditions in the United States.

Source furnished a copy of a letter dated November, 1967, which had been sent out over the signature of BILL EPTON announcing a proposal for a two day conference, December 2-3, 1967, with representatives from key areas of the United States to draft a plan of activity to protest the war in Vietnam and slum conditions in the United States.

Enclosed with EPTON's letter was a five page draft plan for activity and a general outline of aims and purposes which was as follows:

"1. PURPOSE:

To unify, nationally, the various Anti-Draft Unions around the country and to give help in starting new ones in cities where they do not exist.

"To have a united effort on May 19th to launch organizing drives in the Black communities, among Black workers and among Black students against the racist and genocidal war being waged against the Vietnamese people. And to also organize against the slum conditions we are forced to live under (poor housing, unemployment, inferior schools, police brutality, etc.).

"The reason May 19th was chosen is because it is Malcolm X's birthday and it should symbolize our resistance to our oppression and our determination to fight back. It is also our feeling that this day can be accepted by the broadest sections of the Afro-American population.

"We should begin immediately organizing among Black people to oppose the war in Vietnam. The May 19th mobilization will be just a day for national united action, and the work is not to stop them but should be used to dramatize our opposition and tie it to the struggle for our own national liberation here in the United States. We should also come up with a meaningful program and set of demands that will be useful as we go into the 'long, hot summer'.

"On May 19th a demonstration should be held on as many Black campuses as possible with the view of marching into the Black communities and joining in with the people who live in the ghettos. These demonstrations and rallies should be flexible so that the local decisions will be based on the objective conditions. Black students who are on predominately white campuses should help in plants and factories.

"Rallies and demonstrations should be held in the Black communities. We should try to involve as many Black workers as possible. In all cases we should make the connections between the war waged against the Vietnamese people and the war being waged against us.

"Workers can be asked to participate either in the community or in some manner in their shop or factory.

"Each city, community or school is to organize their own activity and raise their own funds. For certain bulk printing, etc. we can discuss at the meeting. The activities, we suggest, should be around the following issues:

"IN THE COMMUNITIES:

"1. Where there are armed forces recruiting stations in the Black communities organize to 'drive them out', (pickets, demonstrations, leaflets, prevent Black youth from going in, etc).

"2. Organize buildings against slumlords and against the war. Apartment buildings and blocks should be organized to protect young men of draft age and do not allow them to be drafted. In one area when a young man received his draft notice his mother organized a group of mothers and went to the draft board with him and told the board that they weren't going to allow them to take him. That if they wanted him they had to take or jail all of them (the mothers). The draft board let this young man go and didn't bother him any more. This is the kind of a action that can be organized in every apartment building, block and community.

"3. These same forms of organization can be used against the slumlords, the racist educational system, to demand jobs and all these other issues that we are faced with as Black people.

"The major emphasis should be on getting as many people in the community involved as possible. This means that we must not be 'sectarian'. (This means that we will only talk to those people who agree with us and have 'naturals', etc.) We must remember that the overwhelming majority of the Black women wear wigs or straighten their hair. This does not mean that they are not militant or cannot become militant. We must make a conscious effort to reach everyone.

"We must also remember that the most famous picture that came out of Watts during their rebellion was the picture of a brother with a 'rag' around his 'gas' jib and these brothers were taking care of business!

"So, in our approach we should be directing our energies to the largest section of our communities, and we should try to involve housewives, workers, high school students, the unemployed, everyone that will support our position!

"IN THE BLACK COLLEGES:

"The major emphasis should be on making the campuses another center for Black liberation struggles around these major issues.

"1. Drive the R.O.T.C. off of the campuses.

"2. Make up new curriculums that would include the teaching of Afro-American and African history. Curriculum that would include courses on Vietnam and why racist southern states want to help Black youth get a degree to 'teach'other Black youth.

"3. More control over the curriculum and less emphasis on 'athletics' and training students to perpetrate the suppression of Afro-American people.

"4. Get involved in the struggles in the community around community issues and with Black workers.

"5. When one school is in struggle there should be sympathy demonstrations.

"AMONG BLACK WORKERS:

"Even though there is widespread unemployment among Afro-American people if we were to examine the factswe find that the majority of Black people work at a job for a living. Also, that over 1.5 million are in a trade union. This is a tremendous source of strength that we have that we have failed to reach or utilize in the past.

"For example, at the Newark Black Power Conference, at the Chicago New Politics Convention and at the October 21st Anti-War demonstration in Washington, D.C., the numbers of Black factory workers, laborors, etc. could be counted on one hand. Yet, every 'militant' knew just about everyone else at these meetings. Obviously, many of us have been talking to each other for the last few years and we have failed to reach the most important section among our people--the Black workers!

"In addition, Black workers also live in the ghettos and would surely be an asset to our struggle. This should be one of the main areas of our concentration:

"1. Pass out leaflets in front of plant gates calling for the organizing of caucuses in the shops against the war and to fight in the shops, factories and in the union around local issues that affect the workers.

"2. Wherever we know someone who works in a shop we should encourage them to organize unions where none exist. Where unions do exist and the leadership is corrupt, caucuses should be organized and rank-and-file committees set up around the local issues.

"3. Get anti-Vietnam war resolutions passed at local union meetings.

"4. In most shops and unions Black workers are discriminated against and have very few, if any, avenues open to them to solve their grievances. In these cases the Black workers should get together, organize themselves and fight as a unit against the bosses to solve their grievances.

"These are just some of the ideas that we have discussed here in New York. By all means the subject is not exhausted and there are many more ideas and plans that should be discussed and put into practice. We hope that this draft mobilization plan will be studied and discussed so that when we get together we will be able to make the maximum contribution.

"The meeting on Saturday, December 2nd will start at 11:00 a.m. at the headquarters of the Harlem Progressive Labor Party, 336 Lenox Avenue (127th Street), New York, New York 10027."

The January, 1968 issue of "Challenge" page one, columns two and three, carried an article captioned "Black Militants Plan Action, May 19, MALCOLM's Birthday".

This article read as follows:

"Militants active in the Black liberation struggle gathered in Harlem last month for a two-day conference and planning session to launch a National Day for Black Unity. May 18th and 19th of 1968 were chosen for action so that Black Unity Day would fall on the birthday (May 19) of Malcolm X, revolutionary nationalist leader.

"Those at the conference represented student organizations, community organizations and workers from, generally, three main areas of the country—Midwest, the East coast and a delegate from the west coast. This was a working meeting with the general plans adopted unanimously.

"THE TONE OF THE CONFERENCE was set by the keynote speech made by Bill Epton, Progressive Labor Party vice-chairman, who said in part:'...the most obvious conflict and contradiction is that which lines up U.S. imperialism and its government against the Afro-American people. This contradiction is of such a magnitude and of such importance that its resolution lies in the destruction of U.S. imperialism as a system! Not only can it not be resolved gradually, without disturbing capitalism, but it is so intense and profound that, in the final analysis, our fight will play a major role—if not the major role—in the destruction of the entire system of exploitation of man by man.

'Given this world-wide system of U.S. imperialism and the fight back being waged on many fronts—the key front being Vietnam—we have to ask ourselves: how do we fit into the struggle and where can we best make our mark? How can we best line up with our Vietnamese brothers, defending and supporting their brave fight against our enemy? How can we best aid the African liberation movements that have taken up arms against their local tyrants who front for U.S. imperialism? And how can we best support and display our solidarity with our brothers and sisters south of the Rio Grande who are waging valiant wars for their national liberation?...

"The primary internal contradiction in the U.S. is between capitalism and the overwhelming majority of the American people. And the leading force within that contradiction today is the conflict between capitalism and the Afro-American people! We are centered in the heart of the industrial complex of this country, and if this complex is ever threatened with a halt, U.S. imperialism will be seriously weakened.

'NOW, HOW DO WE, AS MILITANTS and revolutionaries, fit into this picture? First of all, we must agree that in order to bring this system down we must arouse and involve the MASSES of the people. We cannot make any serious assaults against this system and its institutions unless we have a mass movement among the Black people.

'A true revolution has never been and can never be an act by a small group of saviors. It must have the support of the vast majority of the people. That means we must go among the people and be a part of their everyday struggles and look for opportunities to raise their political consiousness while struggling. There must be no struggle too small or too large for us to undertake. We must not write off any segment of our people except out-and-out enemies and traitors because, I am convinced, with the proper leadership the overwhelming majority of the Black people can be won to a revolutionary position.

'THE BLACK PEOPLE ARE WORKERS, in spite of the high rate of unemployment among them. If we agree on this, then we have to work out tactics and strategy on how to work among our people, organize them and raise their political consciousness, and build our bases among them. Experience has shown that they will not be effectively organized in the community or from the outside. The work must be done from within! It must be done in the factories and shops and plants!'

"The two-day conference worked out general plans for a widespread work stoppage on Friday, May 18th, along with the closing of schools in the Black communities. In addition rallies and demonstrations will be held all over the country in the Black communities against the war in Vietnam and in support of Black liberation. Key in all organizing leading up to the National Day for Black Unity is the concentration of local issues for struggle after the 18th and 19th. This should not be a one-shot affair.

"The conference set up a steering committee to write and issue the National Call."

2. WORKERS WORLD PARTY (WWP) AND YOUTH AGAINST WAR AND FASCISM (YAWF)

The January 4, 1968 issue of "Workers World" contains an article entitled "War on Black America Escalated". The article states that "As it escalated the undeclared war in Vietnam, the United States ruling class was also escalating its undeclared war against the Black people of the U.S. Methods varied from city to city. In New Haven, Connecticut, it was arrests of Black militants and the charging of them with another police concocted 'bomb plot'. In Miami, Florida, it was a 'get tough' police policy with shotguns and police dogs directed against Black youth. In Chicago, it was a call for more cops to 'combat crime'. In Nashville, Tennessee, it was a grand jury advising 'citizens' (white) to form vigilante groups." The article concludes, "with clubs, shotguns, spray, police dogs and with 'bomb plots', the excalation of the undeclared war against Black American was on its way".

The February 2, 1968 issue of "Workers World" contains an article entitled "New? - Same Old Racist Knife Cut Black Mans Heart Out". The article states that Doctor Philip Blaiberg of South Africa, a white man, got a heart from donor Clive Haupt, a colored man. The article says "This is nothing new, Black people have been getting their hearts cut out for centuries, and they have been giving their hearts to the white ruling class for nearly as long. They have died by the thousands and millions while doing so. For them, however, as for most of the worlds oppressed billions, the main problem is not to get some body else's heart, but to stop producing for somebody else's pocket-book".

The March 1, 1968 issue of "Workers World" contains an article entitled "Govt. Launches Massive Attack on Black Liberation Leaders". The article refers to the arrest of 16 members of the Black Panther Party in Berkely, California in February, 1968, and the arrest in New York City of Herman Ferguson, a Negro school teacher accused of taking part in a plot to murder moderate Negro leaders. The article states that these people are guilty only of fighting for Black freedom while the murderers of Black people go uncaught and unhung.

The March 15, 1968 issue of "Workers World" contains an article entitled "Picket Prison to Protest Ram Frame-ups". The article states that on March 6, 1968, members of YAWF held a picket demonstration outside Queens House of Detention, Queens, New York City, where Afro-Americans have been held on charges of a conspiracy to kill moderate Negro leaders. According to the article, signs were carried by the pickets calling for the release of those arrested.

The April 11, 1968 issue of "Workers World" contains an article entitled "Govt. Uses Mourn-In as Ploy to Divert Mass Rebellion". The article says that in order to avoid the explosive effects of the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King, the U.S. Government embarked on a massive diversionary tactic of unprecedented proportions. "It can be said without exaggeration that the Administration mobilized virtually all its political, social and psychological resources to put across its maneuvers. On the surface, the ruling class strategy was calculated to convey a warm message of good will and deep sorrow at the murder of Reverend King, and a promise to do justice to the Black people, at long last. But through the message ran the all too familiar plea for 'peace, brotherly love, and nonviolence', code words that have invariably meant, in practice, abject submission to the will of the master class, especially during times of rebellion".

B. STUDENT NONVIOLENT COORDINATING COMMITTEE (SNCC)

In a report to the National Conference, Communist Party, United States of America, October 14, 15, 1967, by CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT, Secretary of the National Committee for Negro Affairs, CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT made the following remarks which have pertinence to the current Communist Party analysis of the Negro Question, and the Communist Party's relation to organizations in the Negro protest movement, such as SNCC:

LIGHTFOOT claimed that Black America was increasingly becoming alienated from White America; that the labor unions were the main source of friction between black and white workers. "Black nationalism today arises in part from a feeling of being rejected by the white community. Historically, there have always existed two Americas, one black and one white. At the close of World War II the main thrust of the Negro movement in northern areas was to break out of the ghetto. The main trend in the Negro community was for full integration into every institution of American life."

Many Negroes concluded, according to LIGHTFOOT, that integration in the abstract will not automatically solve the problem of being black; that most Negroes believe the exercise of freedom requires dealing with the other side from a position of strength, rather than depending on "good will" or "moral persuasion". "These moods are also in the background of the slogan 'black power' and the emphasis of control over ghetto life."

CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT noted in his report that "some of the younger radicals around the STUDENT NONVIOLENT COORDINATING COMMITTEE, like STOKELY CARMICHAEL and RAP BROWN, appeal for guerrilla warfare within the ghettos and cities in the United States. These young people take notice of the growing conspiracy on the part of the government, as well as ultra-Right organizations, to carry out a program of mass annihilation of black people. In this regard, their call to arms is still of a defensive nature.

"Can it be successfully argued that an armed struggle in present conditions in the United States would enjoy the active or passive support of anything like a majority of the American people? Clearly not. Under such circumstances, the resort to arms of an offensive nature could only lead to suicide."

LIGHTFOOT continued: "We see positive strength in both the moderates and the young black militants. Some among us downgrade the young militants and gravitate more toward the middle or moderate forces. There should be no such gravitational pulls. Each group has its role to play. Both of these currents, expressing themselves around the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, the STUDENT NONVIOLENT COORDINATING COMMITTEE, and the Congress of Racial Equality, represent the hard core of the protest movement. Unity among these groups on most questions is possible and necessary."

LIGHTFOOT stated that the growth of anti-capitalist sentiment is laying the foundation for a radical shift to the Left by all these forces. "In such circumstances I foresee the possibility of building our Party once again as an influential force."

"Together, black and white Communists are going to make significant contributions toward radical changes in our society. Eventually we will build a country of freedom for all--a socialist America."

The Student Mobilization Committee conducted a National Student Conference on the campus of the University of Chicago on the weekend of January 27-28, 1968. MUSLIM MOSQUE, INCORPORATED (MMI)

This confidential source advised on May 17, 1965, that the headquarters of the MMI are located in Suite 128, Hotel Theresa, 2090 Seventh Avenue, New York, New York, where they were established on March 16, 1964. These headquarters are shared with the Organization of Afro-American Unity, Incorporated (OAAU) which was also headed by MALCOLM X.

MALCOLM X was assassinated on February 21, 1965, while addressing an OAAU rally at the Audubon Ballroom, Broadway and 166th Street, New York City.

This same confidential source advised on September 8, 1965, that the activities of the MMI following the death of MALCOLM X were limited to the teaching of classes in the Islamic religion and a class in judo for self-protection. These classes were held regularly until the latter part of July, 1965, when they were discontinued. Since then, the MMI has held no meetings and there has been absolutely no activity by the MMI which appears to be completely "dead".

PROGRESSIVE LABOR PARTY

A source advised on April 20, 1965, that the Progressive Labor Party (PLP), formerly known as the Progressive Labor Movement (PLM), held its first national convention April 15, - 18, 1965, at New York, New York, to organize the PLM into a PLP. The PLP will have as its ultimate objective the establishment of a militant working class movement based on Marxism-Leninism.

The "New York Times" City Edition, Tuesday, April 20, 1965, page 27, reported that a new party of "revolutionary socialism" was formally founded on April 18, 1965, under the name of the PLP. The PLP was described as an outgrowth of the PLM. Its officers were identified as MILTON ROSEN, New York, President, and WILLIAM EPTON of New York, and MORT SCHEER of San Francisco, Vice Presidents. A 20-member National Committee was elected to direct the party until the next convention.

According to the article, "The Progressive Labor Movement was founded in 1962 by Mr. ROSEN and Mr. SCHEER after they were expelled from the Communist Party of the United States for assertedly following the Chinese Communist line".

The PLP publishes "Progressive Labor," a bi-monthly magazine, "Challenge", a monthly New York City newspaper, and "Spark", a West Coast newspaper.

The April, 1967, issue of "Challenge", page 14, states that, "This paper is dedicated to fight for a new way of life-where the working men and women own and control their homes, factories, the police, courts, and the entire government on every level".

A second source advised on September 26, 1966, that the PLP utilizes the address of General Post Office Box 808, Brooklyn 1, New York, but also utilizes an office in Room 617, 1 Union Square, West, New York City, where PLP publications are prepared.

REVOLUTIONARY ACTION MOVEMENT

On November 3, 1964, a source made available a document entitled, "The Revolutionary Action Movement Manifesto", the document having been obtained by the source from an individual known to be a member of the Revolutionary Action Movement (RAM).

This document stated, in part, that RAM was officially organized in the Winter of 1963 by Afro-Americans who support the revolutionary objectives of ROBERT F. WILLIAMS, then residing in Cuba, and his concept of organized violence to achieve the liberation of the Afro-American people in the United States. This Manifesto disclosed that RAM had oriented its program to one of education and political revolution and the organization of a "black" political party with revolutionary objectives, having recognized the need for a "black revolution" that could and would seize power. RAM philosophy is described in this document as one of revolutionary nationalism, that is, one involving the struggles of the non-white races of the world against exploitation and enslavement by the white capitalist and imperialist nations.

Regarding WILLIAMS, it should be noted that on August 28, 1961, a Federal warrant was issued at Charlotte, North Carolina, charging him with Unlawful Flight to Avoid Prosecution for the crime of kidnaping. Subsequent to the issuance of this warrant, WILLIAMS fled the United States to Cuba, where he published a monthly newsletter entitled, "The Crusader" from Havana. As of December, 1966, WILLIAMS was residing in Peking, China.

This source, in September, 1964, advised RAM is dedicated to the overthrow of the captialist system in the United States, by violence, if necessary, and to its replacement by a socialistic system oriented toward the Chinese Communist interpretation of Marxism-Leninism. RAM is entirely non-white in membership, clandestine in nature, and owes its primary allegiance to the "Bandung World", that is, the non-white races of the world rather than to any national entity, as such.

On November 16, 1964, a second source advised he learned recently from a RAM member that the organization began in Detroit, Michigan, largely under the impetus of DON FREEMAN, described as the "Father" of RAM and referred to as RAM's "Black Stalin". FREEMAN served as RAM Chairman, with MAXWELL STANFORD (now of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania) serving as RAM Field Chairman.

On May 12, 1967, a third source advised that the RAM still remains active; however, there is no formal headquarters, as such, for the RAM. The source advised that MAXWELL STANFORD of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, is considered the leader of RAM and if a RAM headquarters ever existed, it will most likely be where STANFORD resides.

"WORKERS WORLD"

On May 1, 1967, a confidential source advised that the "Workers World" is the official newspaper of the Workers World Party, published twice monthly, with editorial offices located at 46 West 21st Street, New York, New York.

A characterization of the Workers World Party is set out separately.

WORKERS WORLD PARTY

On April 17, 1959, a confidential source advised that on February 12, 1959, a Socialist Workers Party (SWP) minority group under the leadership of National Committee member SAM BALLAN, split from the SWP.

The source stated that this minority group, referred to as the Marcyites, after many years of program and policy differences on varied issues concerning tactics and interpretation of political events, split from the SWP on the grounds that the Party was liquidating itself by departing from the Marxist precepts of LEON TROTSKY and retreating from the fight for the world socialist revolution. The final issue which ultimately forced the split was the minority's opposition to the SWP regroupment policy which involved cooperation with the Communist Party (CP) periphery-individuals characterized by the minority as petty-bourgeois.

The minority program, according to the source, advocated unconditional defense of the Soviet Union and has as its goal the building of a revolutionary party with a complete proletarian orientation for the purpose of overthrowing capitalism in the United States and throughout the world.

On May 12, 1960, source advised that this minority group had chosen the name Workers World Party.

On May 1, 1967, a second confidential source advised that the Workers World Party, which maintains headquarters at 46 West 21st Street, New York, New York, supports the People's Republic of China in its ideological dispute with the Soviet Union.

The SWP and CP have been designated pursuant to Executive Order 10450.

YOUTH AGAINST WAR AND FASCISM

A confidential source advised on March 29, 1965, that the Youth Against War and Fascism (YAWF), formerly known as the Anti-Fascist Youth Committee, was established by the Workers World Party (WWP) in the Summer of 1962, to bring college and high school youth into the periphery of WWP activities and thereby gain recruits for the organization.

A second confidential source advised on October 23, 1964, that a flyer distributed by the YAWF describes that organization as a militant organization of young workers and worker-students for combating war and fascism.

The first source advised on May 1, 1967, that the YAWF maintains its headquarters at 58 West 25th Street, New York City, and publishes a magazine called "The Partisan".

A characterization of the WWP is set out separately.

CHARLENE MITCHELL was then chosen as Chairman for the morning session.

DANNY RUBIN, the CP, USA National Organization Chairman, then named 38 persons who he said would control the course of the Convention. The following names were mentioned:

HENRY WINSTON
GUS HALL (Chairman)

RE: COMMUNIST PARTY, USA, SPECIAL CONVENTION, HOTEL DIPLOMAT, NEW YORK, NEW YORK JULY 4 - 7, 1968

The persons named above and others mentioned by RUBIN were accepted by the Convention.

RUBIN then proposed some 24 to 27 individuals to represent the CP, USA Political Action Committee at the Convention to decide on the Party platform. The following persons were named by RUBIN:

ARNOLD JOHNSON (Chairman)	PAT TOOHEY
WILLIAM PATTERSON	CHARLENE MITCHELL
WILLIAM TAYLOR	ROSCOE PROCTOR
SI GERSON	SANDY PATRINOS
CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT	JACK KLING
HYMAN LUMER	DON HAMERQUIST
CARL BLOICE	MARJORIE WYNN
JACOB GREEN	GIL GREEN
IRVING POTASH	DEBBIE BELL
MILDRED MC ADOREY	HERSCHEL WALKER
MIKE CRENOWICH	JIM WEST
JAMES JACKSON	ISHMAEL FLORY.

The above named persons and others mentioned by RUBIN were accepted by the Convention.

GUS HALL, CP, USA General Secretary, then addressed the Convention. He indicated that at the present time there was a revolutionary turn of events which concerned the entire world. This, he indicated, was the result of pressure from persons who desired a share of the world's goods. He indicated that there was a reaction to automation which was not being used for the benefit of the poor people.

HALL said that during the 18th Convention of the CP, USA, some five years earlier, a first draft of the CP, USA program had been prepared by the Party and sold to the public. He indicated that recently a second draft, which was entitled The New Program of the CP, USA, had been prepared and would be reviewed by those at the present Convention.

HALL said that some members of the progressive forces felt that the "class struggle" had been replaced by a "social struggle." HALL said that some of the progressive forces would like to forget that there is a working class. HALL said that the Party program rested on the fact of a class struggle. The CP, USA, according to HALL, was still a working-class Party and its program was a working class program.

HALL then turned his attention to recent events in the United States which concerned Negro Americans. He said that the Black Liberation Movement was a reaction to a system of oppression within the United States. He said that the oppression was racial and was against a national group. He characterized Negro Americans as being for the most part, a working class group which was being exploited by American capitalism. HALL said that the CP, USA program had to incorporate within itself the need to fight for black liberation.

HALL then indicated that other minority groups within the United States, such as the Mexican Americans and the American Indians were being similarly exploited and the CP, USA had to help them in their struggle.

HALL then touched upon the need of the CP, USA to guide the United States in its fight against the "military-industrial complex" which was leading the United States into colonial adventures. HALL told the Convention that the CP, USA had to have a broad strategy but in the day-to-day struggle had to use commonsense in order to achieve immediate goals. He said that there was no revolution on record which had not sought the immediate goals before realizing success through the realization of its broad strategy.

HALL, in closing, said that he thought the second draft program, while not perfect, set forth the aims and aspirations of the CP, USA and also set forth workable goals. He indicated that the Convention should review it and make suggestions which would improve it. He hoped that there would be no attempt to change it in any major way.

HALL also mentioned that the CP, USA and other progressives had worked together to produce a new Marxist publication called The Daily World which had just issued its first printing. He felt that this publication would assist the CP, USA in achieving its goals.

DANNY RUBIN named six panel groups which he said would meet separately that evening to talk about various sections of the draft program of the CP, USA. The panel groups were to discuss matters dealing with certain sections of the draft program and submit suggestions which would improve the draft program. These six panels were called:

1. Draft Program
2. Labor and Working Class
3. Black Liberation
4. Mexican Americans
5. Party
6. Press.

After lunch the first day's session was resumed at about 2 P.M. with WILLIAM PATTERSON acting as Chairman for the afternoon session.

During the afternoon there was considerable discussion on the report of GUS HALL made during the morning. There was considerable opposition to the program, most of it emanating from the California districts, although isolated complaints were heard from members of other districts.

Some of the complaints from the California districts concerned the fact that the young people did not consider CP, USA as a revolutionary organization. Another complaint was that there was intolerance to new ideas and a lack of free discussion in schools run by the CP, USA. There was complaint that the CP, USA apparently did not recognize the fact that the bourgeoisie dominated the electoral processes. There was also complaint that the communist movement no longer needed an ideological center for its guidance. It was said that the CP, wherever located, should apply Marxism to the immediate needs of the country in which it was located. There was complaint that the New Left had been treated with suspicion and no real efforts were made to work with progressives in that movement. Some individuals said that the CP, USA did not deal strongly enough with monopoly capitalism and was not active enough in the civil rights movement.

GIL GREEN, during this discussion, called on the CP, USA to completely rewrite the draft program. He indicated that it was not strong enough in any of its goals.

The first session closed at about 5:30 P.M.

The Labor and Working Class Panel met about 7:30 P.M. at the Hotel Diplomat on July 4, 1968. There were about 45 persons present of whom the following were identified:

GEORGE MEYERS (Chairman)
ELSIE DICKERSON (Secretary)
ARCHIE BROWN
JAMES TORMEY
WILL PARRY
CARL BLOICE
ANGIE WILLIS
ADMIRAL DAWSON
HERSCHEL WALKER
ART SHIELDS
JOHN STANFORD
ISHMAEL FLORY
DON HAMERQUIST
JOSE RISTORUCCI
MIKEY LIMA.

GEORGE MEYERS, who is the CP, USA Labor Secretary, stated that it was the responsibility of the CP, USA, which is a working class Party, to permeate all sections of the country and to have ties not only with persons in trade unions but also people who are not organized. He said that organized strength was the major protection that workers had against the capitalist system. He said that the working class was the group through which the CP, USA would work in order to bring about a socialist America. He indicated that the southern United States, which was largely unorganized, should be the main target for the CP, USA organizational work. He pointed out that it was no accident that the southern United States was the most racist section of the country and the most anti-union.

There were some 10 to 15 persons in the group from the California districts who opposed MEYERS' views. They declared that the draft program of the CP, USA was not militant enough to bring about a revolutionary organizational set up in labor.

Discussion continued until recess at about 11 P.M.

The July 5, 1968 session of the Special Convention began about 9 A.M. with PAT TOOHEY as the Chairman of the morning session.

The morning session consisted of discussion on GUS HALL's report of the previous day and discussion on the draft program.

The Chairmen of the various panels made reports to the Convention and suggested amendments to the draft program which were minor in nature. All of the various panel reports were eventually accepted by the Convention.

The Chairman of the afternoon session was HELEN WINTER. The July 5, 1968 session was closed at about 10:30 P.M.

The July 6, 1968 meeting of the Special Convention began at about 9:15 A.M. The Chairman was a white male from Washington State.

CHARLENE MITCHELL made a report to the Convention on the struggle of the Negro people. She said that the Afro-Americans were oppressed in every field. She pointed out that the economic, political, social, and cultural life of the Negroes had never reached full potential. She called for the Negro Americans to attain self-identity.

CHARLENE said that since most of the Negro Americans were members of the working class they were exploited not only because of their race but as workers. She said the only salvation was through the CP, USA.

She called for the control of schools in black communities and said that the black community should control the police in their areas.

After discussion on this report, there was lunch between 12:30 P.M. and 1:30 P.M.

The Chairman for the afternoon session of July 6, 1968 was BEN DOBBS.

DANNY RUBIN made a report to the Convention on Party building. He called on the CP, USA to take advantage of the movement which was trying to save the United States from colonialism and nuclear war. He said that Marxist-Leninist science offered the solution for the United States.

RUBIN said that the new Marxist publication, The Daily World was assisting the CP, USA in making it clear to all Americans that socialism was the only solution to world peace. He said that the CP, USA had to organize this drive towards a socialist America and called for 2,000 new members to be recruited into the CP, USA by April of 1969. He called on emphasis in recruiting among the Negro people and other minority groups.

Discussion continued on RUBIN's report until about 6:30 P.M. at which time there was a recess.

RE: COMMUNIST PARTY, USA, SPECIAL CONVENTION, HOTEL DIPLOMAT, NEW YORK, NEW YORK JULY 4 - 7, 1968

Between 6:30 P.M. and 8:45 P.M. the Convention met in a social gathering.

The July 6, 1968 session was resumed at 8:45 P.M. with GEORGE MEYERS acting as Chairman.

HENRY WINSTON talked about the coming national elections. According to him, the central issue was the ending of the war in Vietnam. He called for the exposure of the military-industrial complex.

WINSTON stated that members of the CP, USA should actively work in both the Republican and Democratic parties, in independent political movements and vote for communist candidates wherever possible. WINSTON indicated that their main objective was to move the United States in the direction of peace and the liberation of oppressed minorities.

WINSTON said that he was hopeful that eventually a third party would appear in the United States but saw no signs of it in the immediate future.

The July 6, 1968 session closed at about 10:05 P.M.

The July 7, 1968 session of the Special Convention began at about 8:30 A.M. with TOM DENNIS acting as Chairman.

There was a review of electoral policy as set forth by HENRY WINSTON on the previous day and the submission of proposed changes in the draft program of the CP, USA.

After discussion, the various reports made during the Convention were accepted by the delegates.

It was then announced that the session would be adjourned for lunch from two to three P.M. and at 3 P.M. the Convention would be opened to the press and that there would television cameras placed in the rear of the room.

It was further announced that those who did not desire to appear at 3 P.M. because of the cameras need not return.

GUS HALL then announced that the Policy Committee had met the previous evening and had decided to run candidates for national office. HALL said that although he was nominated for President, he declined because he thought it would better to have younger people represent the CP, USA. HALL then stated that CHARLENE MITCHELL would be the candidate for President and MIKE ZAGARELL, the candidate for Vice President.

After lunch the afternoon session opened with TOM DENNIS acting as Chairman.

At the outset, CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT talked about The Daily World, the new Marxist publication.

LIGHTFOOT then called on JOHN PITTMAN, an Editor of The Daily World, who talked about his past as a reporter for The Worker and as a communist who had spent a great deal of his time in the USSR.

The Worker is an East Coast communist newspaper.

GUS HALL then announced that CHARLENE MITCHELL and MIKE ZAGARELL would be the CP, USA candidates for the President and Vice President of the United States.

Both CHARLENE MITCHELL and MIKE ZAGARELL then made public announcements accepting the candidacies.

HENRY WINSTON made the final address to the Convention which was finally recessed at about 3:50 P.M.

DEMONSTRATION PROTESTING UNITED STATES INTERVENTION IN VIETNAM
INFORMATION CONCERNING

A confidential source who has furnished reliable information in the past advised on July 1, 1968, that JOE NEAL, Southern Student Organizing Committee Traveler for Arkansas, is currently in Little Rock, Arkansas, and is making arrangements for a silent peace vigil to be held in Little Rock on Friday, July 5, 1968. The vigil will be held at the corner of Fifth and Main Streets in downtown Little Rock between 12 noon and 1 P. M. The demonstrators will pass out anti-Vietnam type literature. NEAL is sending letters to eighty persons in the Little Rock area request-they join in the demonstration and a minimum of ten persons are expected to join in the demonstration. NEAL has stated he has selected July 5, 1968, as the date for the demonstration since Governor WINTHROP ROCKEFELLER of Arkansas has set aside July 5, 1968, as a day of honor for the war dead.

Characterizations of the Southern Student Organizing Committee (SSOC) in Arkansas and the SSOC are contained in the appendix hereto.

On July 5, 1968, a Special Agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation observed a peaceful demonstration between 12 noon and 1 P. M. at the corner of Fifth and Main Streets in downtown Little Rock. Participants in this demonstration consisted of two Mimeographed leaflets captioned "Why Are We Here" were passed out to the general public. A copy of this leaflet is set forth hereafter.

The demonstrators were joined after about 45 minutes by three additional young men who passed out leaflets. The demonstration disbanded at 1 P. M.

A confidential source who has furnished reliable information in the past advised on July 5, 1968, that the participants in the demonstration were BARBARA WINK, LARRY BUSTER, JOE NEAL, BARBARA MOORE, JUDY JOHNSON and [redacted] The vigil was later joined by BILL VOGLER and two men who allegedly were in the U. S. Navy and stationed at Memphis, Tennessee. They sympathized with the vigil.

WHY ARE WE HERE

-We demonstrate our sorrow over the censeless deaths of 25,000 American boys in an immoral war.

-We demonstrate our sorrow over the criminal deaths of hundreds and thousands of Vietnamese at the hands of American military forces.

-We are appalled at an American involvement which is condemned by the United Nations and all major nations of the world.

-We are appalled that our government drafts a disproportionate number of black people to fight its war while it overlooks their retched condition in this country. Why should black people be drafted for freedom 10.000 miles away when they don't have it here?

SOUTHERN STUDENT ORGANIZING

INTERNAL SECURITY - SSOC

A first confidential source advised on June 3, 1968, that the University of Arkansas Chapter of the Southern Student Organizing Committee (SSOC), Fayetteville, Arkansas, has issued a news letter captioned "ARKANSAS SSOC SUMMER PROJECT." This news letter is self-explanatory and set forth hereinafter is a Xerox copy of the news letter.

ENCLOSURE

ARKANSAS SSOC SUMMER PROJECT

The struggle for peace and human rights has made outstanding progress this year at the University of Arkansas. The formation of SSOC, BAD, and the ad hoc committee on civil rights have all been steps in the right direction. But the beginning of a transformation on this campus will mean little unless communication is set up throughout the state, so that the lessons we have learned will come to fruition in other areas. With this in mind, SSOC will have a full-time state program this summer, attempting to spread the word about civil rights, poverty, and peace.

Three persons--Joe Neal, Barbara Wink, and John House--will be working from a house in Malvern, Arkansas, on the following projects:

1. Personal Contacts: Joe Neal will be a full time traveler for SSOC, making personal contacts all over the state with over 300 people who receive SSOC literature, Southern Regional Council Reports, mailings from SNCC, the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, and the NAACP. This program also entails making speeches at various church and civic groups by invitation, traveling to campuses, and distributing literature in conjunction with traveling and through regular mailings.

2. Land Research: Carl Oglesby, former SDS chairman, recently said that work in civil rights and poverty was "fighting the seventh war from now." Under present plans, Barbara Wink will be involved in research in county land records in an attempt to formally find out who owns the land. Current evidence indicates that poverty is largely the result of misuse of land by large landholders and exploitation of the politically powerless people who live on the land. We are reading agricultural reports, charts and other forms of information in an attempt to determine how exploitation occurs in farm programs. The "hard" evidence we gain can be put to use politically for the advantage of black people and poor whites.

3. State Newsletter: Arkansas has no state-wide communication on peace, civil rights or poverty work. By having a small staff and a full-time traveler, we can put together a mailing that will help to end much of the information isolation of liberals in the state. We can also swiftly communicate what is happening and what we are doing. We can reprint information from other organizations that are of common interests, such as BAD, Fayetteville Citizens Concerned about Vietnam, SNCC, SCLC, and NAACP.

4. State Notebook: By traveling throughout the state, the traveler will begin to know what the different liberal organizations are, who is in them, and what they are willing to do. If this information can be brought together, it will be invaluable to any type of action attempted by activist groups in the state. For example, if we had such listings now, we could probably expect much more support for the Martin Luther King Scholarship Fund. As it is now, no other resource except the already over-burdened University of Arkansas liberals will be explored.

What can you do?

This is a very ambitious project. There will not be any home-runs hit, but we can make progress. These programs are very basic ones, but necessary if our dreams are to become reality; Martin Luther King said, "I have a dream," and so do we. We will list some things here that must be done if we are to convert rhetoric into action:

Obviously, none of us will be able to hold regular summer jobs. We are committing what money we have now, but it will not be enough. Our house will be rent free, but utilities must be paid. And groceries will have to be bought. Our bulk mailing permit will cost $45.00 initially, plus costs for each mailing. There will be also costs for paper and ink. (Not only will we be printing our own literature, but we tentatively plan to do some printing for Mr. H. D. Akins, a Negro candidate for Congress in the First District.) The costs for a full-time traveler will be considerable, even though "movement" people live on very little. So we must have money from this area, so that we can expand in the state. This will be money spent for basic work, not for propaganda for SSOC or any other group. Our programs are broad based and always open for discussion. We need lots of money--and we need anything you can give, from $1 up.

Can you work for us in Malvern? We could certainly use you. If not, there are important things in each community of the state that can be done. We can tell you how you can work on land research where you live.

To cut down expenses, the traveler will need to have places to stay around the state while traveling (for one or two nights). Can you volunteer your couch for the cause? The traveler also needs places to speak, such as Lions Clubs, PTA groups, church groups, etc. Could you help in lining up such engagements in your community?

THE ARKANSAS SSOC SUMMER PROGRAM IS TO BEGIN LATE IN MAY. PLEASE CONTACT US NOW WITH YOUR MONEY, TIME AND IDEAS.

Agrarian Research and Reform

Several persons have expressed interest in our plans for land research this summer, and hopefully to continue beyond the summer. Here is a more detailed outline.

Widespread poverty is similar to chattel slavery in that the benefits of production go to a few people or industries. It appears to us at this point that great areas of Arkansas land, especially in the delta farmlands and southern forests, are held by a few groups under tenant farming and mortgages. By holding much land we suspect that they exert unfair political control; that they get special breaks from local, state and federal government agencies; that they exploit the land without returning anything to it but the sub-poverty standards of Negroes and poor whites.

The word "suspect" is important because we think that almost no work as basic as land-holding research has been done. If these vague allegations are to be turned into a political reality that will mean real gains for the exploited people, then we must find hard evidence that these patterns do exist and that existing government programs merely strengthen the system, rather than help to break it down.

With limited resources of people and money, our work will necessarilty be severely limited. But we can pick out several areas and explore them fully. We intend to methodically work over tax and mortgage records in the court houses. We will try to track down the true nature of the "front" organizations that are often used by big interests in the South. Basically we will attempt the following:

1. Discovering who actually holds mortgages and who owns the delta land;
2. Discovering who is getting the benefit from government welfare programs;
3. Finding out the different types of exploitation of poor whites and black people;
4. Getting specific information on social needs;
5. Formally charting the different forces (religious, Klan, government, etc) that work against the poor.

The root of poverty seems to be the inability to affect the political power structure. Control of the power structure will in turn help to break cyclical poverty and misery. This cannot be done until the exploiters are exposed and made--through the ballot and ax structure--to pay their way. This research will hopefully expose this.

A characterization of the SSOC in Arkansas and the SSOC is contained in the appendix hereto.

A second confidential source advised on June 4, 1968, that it was announced at the weekly meeting of the Little Rock Chapter of the SSOC (LR SSOC) by JUDY JOHNSON, Little Rock SSOC coordinator, that she had received a letter and news letter from JOHN HOUSE of the SSOC Chapter at the University of Arkansas, wherein HOUSE told her that BARBARA WINK, JOE NEAL and JOHN HOUSE from the University of Arkansas SSOC Chapter were moving into a residence at [redacted] for the Summer and were going to work in voter registration in Malvern. JUDY JOHNSON announced that this was going to be done as an SSOC activity and stated that HOUSE has asked for the assistance of the Little Rock Chapter. It was decided that anyone who could help would go to Malvern whenever they could and help in whatever way they could. LARRY BUSTER and BRUCE DAVIS commented that they were considering going to Malvern on the weekend of June 7-9, 1968, to look over the setup.

SUBJECT: COMMUNIST INFLUENCE IN RACIAL MATTERS
INTERNAL SECURITY - COMMUNIST

To review the book "Ghetto Rebellion to Black Liberation" by Claude M. Lightfoot, a member of the National Executive Board and Chairman of the National Negro Commission of the Communist Party, USA.

Lightfoot spends the first four chapters of his book discussing the recent racial riots which he calls Negro ghetto revolts in undocumented, oversimplified generalizations. He blames the "revolt" on the necessity for black people to have a substantial share of power over decisions affecting their own welfare; the terrible conditions in the ghetto; the problems in the rural areas of the South; and the "intensification of racism in the white community."

The remaining chapters of the book are a "hard sell" for a socialist form of government led, of course, by the Communist Party. He claims that capitalism is the cause of the exploitation of the American Negro as a worker, as part of a racial group, and as an oppressed national; and he says that only by eliminating capitalism can the Negro gain equality. Russia and Cuba are cited as examples of the great things that can be done under socialism and as proof that socialism is the only system in which a black man can find the means of protecting his equality. Lightfoot contends that labor, with the strike weapon, has the power to prevent black people from being slaughtered on our streets.

100-442429

In the chapter entitled "The Fascist Danger," Lightfoot claims that the FBI, in the name of security, has been given such powers that it is almost above control. He says the Bureau's police powers have been used not only against progressives but against many people who exercise decision-making power through the use of files, which he alleges the Bureau has on almost everyone in public life. He contends that by intimidation, the Bureau has been able to set the ground rules as to who may be members or officers in certain labor, civil rights and peace organizations.

The only other references to the Bureau are on page 84 where the Director is quoted on the cost of crime and on page 87 where Lightfoot claims the FBI goes beyond its stated function in the pursuit of communists yet does not purge "known vicious racists" from organized life in our country.

Lightfoot argues that aggressive armed struggle to change the system in the United States would be suicide "as of now," but he defends the violence in the ghettos as being defensive. He says that in the final analysis, Negro communities must be prepared to defend themselves by all means including armed resistance.

Generally, the book probably stands little chance of having any appreciable affect whatsoever on racial matters. Lightfoot is too bland for the extremists and too revolutionary for the moderates. As for the intelligent Negro, the same intellectual myopia which caused Lightfoot to join the Communist Party in the first place is very evident throughout the book and an intelligent person will immediately recognize it.

Synopsis: An informant advised on 5/21/68, that DON and TEX from Boston were present at the National CP Negro Commission meeting held in New York City on 5/18-19/68. Another informant advised TEX is probably EDWARD TEIXEIRA, member of the District Committee, CPUSA New England District and DON is probably DONALD HALFKENNY an associate of TEIXEIRA and believed by informant to be a CP member in Boston. This source believes neither TEIXEIRA or HALFKENNY exert any influence in Racial Matters in Greater Boston area.

DETAILS:

On May 21, 1968, BS T-1 advised that a National Communist Party Negro Commission meeting was held in New York City, New York on May 18-19, 1968. TEX and DON of Boston were present and DON from Boston chaired the meeting on May 19, 1968. The meeting was called to help prepare to rewrite the section in the Party draft program on the Negro question.

On July 11, 1968, BS T-2 advised that he believed that TEX of Boston was probably EDWARD TEIXEIRA, member of the District Committee of the Communist Party, U.S.A., New England District.

BS T-2 stated that he believed DON of Boston was probably DONALD HALFKENNY, an associate of TEIXEIRA and whom BS T-2 believes is a member of the CP in Boston. HALFKENNY has worked at the Frederick Douglass Bookstore (FDB) which is managed by EDDIE TEIXEIRA. A characterization of the FDB is found in the Appendix.

> On September 27, 1966, BS T-3 advised that DON HALFKENNY of Roxbury, Massachusetts was in attendance at a CP sponsored youth school at Camp Webatuck, Wingdale, New York on August 29, 1966.

BS T-2 stated that although DON HALFKENNY has been active in racial matters in Boston, Massachusetts, he does not appear to exert any influence in racial affairs. EDDIE TEIXEIRA has attended several meetings of the United Front but has only acted as an observer and has not tried to influence any of its decisions and does not exert any influence in racial activities.

BS T-2 stated that the United Front is made up of representatives of a number of Negro civil rights organizations in the Roxbury area of Boston. It was formed at the suggestion of STOKELY CARMICHAEL of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee (SNCC), for the purpose of concentrating Black Power into one organization.

A characterization of SNCC is found in the Appendix.

Sources familiar with various phases of racial activities in the Greater Boston area, contacted in July, 1968, know of no influence exerted by Communists in racial activities in the Greater Boston area.

FREDERICK DOUGLASS BOOKSTORE

A source advised in early June, 1966, that it had recently come to his attention that ANNE BURLAK THOMPSON, Treasurer, CPUSA, New England District, had indicated that the Communist Party (CP) needed some sort of a center in the area and that the CP leadership had recommended the establishment of a bookstore; that EDWARD TEIXEIRA, who had recently attended school for three months, would be available to run the bookstore as the CP was desirous of having a full-time employee for this purpose.

A second source advised on October 7, 1966, that at a meeting of the District Committee, CPUSA, New England District, held on October 2, 1966, it was reported that a bookstore had been leased for the CP at 49 Massachusetts Avenue, Boston, Massachusetts for $125. a month. At this meeting EDWARD TEIXEIRA, who was present, said he would need $1,000. to complete the store and to purchase books to be ready for the opening on October 12, 1966. At this meeting, EDWARD TEIXEIRA was voted an alditonal $1,000. for this purpose.

The Articles of Organization, dated July 30, 1966, filed with the Secretary of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts on August 4, 1966, reflect the filing of papers for a corporation to be known as Frederick Douglas Associates, Inc., with the following officers: President, EDWARD S. TEIXEIRA, 27 Wales Street, Dorchester, Massachusetts; Treasurer, BERNARD GALITZ, 19 Greenough Park, Lynn, Massachusetts; Clerks: EDWARD TEIXEIRA, BERNARD GALITZ, NOEL DAY, 43 Dale Street, Roxbury, Massachusetts. The purposes for which the corporation was formed were set forth as follows: "To carry on the business of a retail book store, including without limitation, the sale of books, statuettes, prints, frames and framing....."

FREDERICK DOUGLASS BOOKSTORE (Contd.)

A third source advised on January 9, 1967, that EDWARD TEIXEIRA was then a member of the National Committee, CPUSA.

A fourth source advised on October 9, 1962, that BERNARD GALITZ attended a conference of the New York District CP Youth Coordinating Committee, held in Room 903, at 575 Sixth Avenue, New York City, on October 7, 1962.

The "Boston Sunday Herald," in its issue of October 23, 1966, carried an article and photograph of EDWARD S. TEIXEIRA concerning the opening of the Frederick Douglass Bookstore, 49 Massachusetts Avenue, Boston, Massachusetts, on October 22, 1966, reporting, in part, that the opening was picketed by the American Veterans Committee in protest of the use of the name of the 19th Century Negro abolitionist for a store where Marxist books are being sold. The article reported that TEIXEIRA, an admitted member of the CP, had opened a bookstore at 49 Massachusetts Avenue, Boston, on October 22, 1966, and that the grand opening had been delayed by pickets.

On May 3, 1967, a fifth source advised that the Frederick Douglass Bookstore was still being operated at 49 Massachusetts Avenue, Boston, Massachusetts, by EDWARD TEIXEIRA.

meeting in San Antonio, Texas, JOHN STANFORD mentioned that the death of MARTIN LUTHER KING was a good example of racism in the United States. STANFORD stated that he was going to try to form a racism committee in the San Antonio Committee to Stop the War in Vietnam (SACSWIV) for discussion purposes.

STANFORD went on to state that he was very shocked at CP members in Austin, Texas as they did not defend Dr. KING when members of the Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) were running KING down.

Characterizations of SACSWIV and SDS are contained in the Appendix hereto.

JOHN STANFORD

SA T-1 (5/20/68)

On May 29, 1966, at the Texas CP Convention, JOHN STANFORD was elected chairman of the CP of Texas. On June 26, 1966, during the 18th National CP Convention, STANFORD was elected a member of the National Committee of the CPUSA. SA T-2 (5/2/68)

On May 1, 1968, JOHN STANFORD, supra, heard a report of a recent CP meeting held in Southern California having to do with the Mexican-American question. STANFORD was told that the CP in Southern California had withdrawn its support from one of the farm workers organizers because this organizer was " hung up" on the "religious kick". STANFORD remarked that the comrades in California were wrong and this was no reason for not supporting this organizer. STANFORD stated that the CP supported MARTIN LUTHER KING in KING's fight for equality for the Negro and

SA T-1 (5/24/68)

On May 23, 1968, JOHN STANFORD, supra, was invited to a political meeting which was being held to support a gubernatorial candidate for the office of Governor of the State of Texas. SAN ANTONIO COMMITTEE TO STOP
THE WAR IN VIETNAM (SACSWIV)
Post Office Box 2742
San Antonio, Texas

Two sources have advised that on January 26, 1967, an organizational meeting of a new group to be known as the San Antonio Committee to End the War in Vietnam was held in the Texas Room of the Gunter Hotel, San Antonio, Texas.

Plans for forming this group were initiated and coordinated by John Stanford of San Antonio, Texas. Stanford provided the majority of the names and addresses of persons, who were sent letters inviting them to attend this meeting. Stanford helped to compose the preamble and draw up the Constitution of the Committee. Stanford used the constitution of the Communist Party, USA (CPUSA) as a guide for the constitution of this committee.

On February 3, 1967, the name of the organization was changed to San Antonio Committee to Stop the War in Vietnam (SACSWIV).

A third source advised that the constitution was presented in roughdraft form at the first meeting on January 26, 1967, amended at that meeting and at the next meeting, and finally adopted at the February 23, 1967, meeting of the organization.

The preamble to the constitution reads as follows:

"Believing that peace is of vital importance to everyone, we have formed a group that will offer an opportunity to stydy and promote the achievement of a world without war. Peace is above political, economic, racial, or religious distinctions. We welcome into our organization the individual concerned with life instead of death, with health instead of injury, with building instead of destroying, with development instead of degradation, with humane instead of barbaric acts. The war in Vietnam makes imperative the immediate organization of a peace group in San Antonio. Peace must win,

SAN ANTONIO COMMITTEE TO STOP THE WAR IN VIETNAM

"or we will sacrifice ourselves, our children and grandchildren to a senseless military machine never before equalled. The insane waste of war and preparations for nuclear war will create the eventual destruction of all humanity if not stopped. PEACE MUST WIN!"

A fourth source advised that on May 29, 1966, at The Texas CP Convention held at San Antonio, Texas, JOHN STANFORD was elected Chairman of the CP of Texas. On June 26, 1966, during the 18th National CP Convention, Stanford was elected a member of the National Committee, CPUSA.

The third source has advised that while JOHN STANFORD was instrumental in initiating and helped to organize the San Antonio Committee to Stop the War in Vietnam, since he does not control or dominate the activities of this group. Since the organization has gained momentum, STANFORD is believed to exercise a certain amount of influence on some members of the organization, while some members have objected to his presence at their meetings and functions in the past.

IV. MISCELLANEOUS

SOUTHERN STUDENT ORGANIZING COMMITTEE (SSOC) INVOLVEMENT IN RACIAL MATTERS IN ARKANSAS

Blockade of University of Arkansas Student Newspaper Printing Plant, Fayetteville, Arkansas, May 14, 1968

The Northwest Arkansas Times, a Fayetteville, Arkansas, daily newspaper, reported on page 6 in the May 14, 1968, edition in article captioned "Negro Student Sit-In Stops UA Newspaper" that about twenty-five to thirty persons halted publication on May 14, 1968, of the student newspaper at the University of Arkansas by blocking the entrance to the printing plant on the University campus. The article states that a spokesman said the protestors were members of the Southern Student Organizing Committee and of Black Americans for Democracy. The article reported that the demonstrators handed out mimeographed sheets explaining that they were protesting the failure of the newspaper, The Traveler, to publish a letter from a Negro student. This sheet said The Traveler had printed a letter to the editor attacking Dr. MARTIN LUTHER KING, JR. on April 10 and that the student, JOHN ROWE, wrote a letter to the editor in response to the critical letter.

Seminar on Race Relations, Little Rock University, Little Rock, Arkansas, May 15, 1968

JUDY JOHNSON, the Coordinator of the Little Rock Chapter of the Southern Student Organizing Committee (LR SSOC) is closely acquainted with FRANCES DE GRASSE, the Chairman of the Little Rock University (LRU) Young Republicans. JOHNSON was desirous of having a seminar on race relations at LRU but was unable to hold this seminar under the auspices of SSOC since SSOC was not a recognized campus organization at LRU. JOHNSON discussed this with DE GRASSE and DE GRASSE agreed to have the LRU Young Republicans sponsor this seminar since the LRU Young Republicans wanted to appeal to the Negro voters.

JUDY JOHNSON is the one who actually made arrangements and contacted most of the potential panelists in connection with the seminar. JUDY JOHNSON is not connected in any way with the LRU Young Republicans.

The seminar on race relations was held from 7:30 PM until 10:15 PM at the Fine Arts Building on the LRU campus. There were approximately thirty persons in attendance, including JUDY JOHNSON, LR SSOC Coordinator, BRUCE DAVIS, LR SSOC Contact and Representative Man. Others in attendance who have been regularly attending LR SSOC meetings were KENNETH JONES, HAROLD TORRENCE and LARRY BUSTER.

Picketing of Safeway Stores, Little Rock, Arkansas, May 1968

The Little Rock Chapter of the SSOC (LR SSOC) plan to participate in the picketing of the Safeway Store at 24th and High Streets, Little Rock, Arkansas, being sponsored by the Black United Youth (BUY). JUDY JOHNSON, the Coordinator of the LR SSOC, is trying to get SSOC members to participate in the picketing.

(LR T-1, 5/16/68)

The only participation with BUY in the picketing of the Safeway Stores by LR SSOC members was on one day when BRUCE DAVIS, the LR SSOC Contact and Representative Man, and LARRY WAYNE BUSTER, SSOC member, picketed at the Safeway Store on High Street.

Arkansas SSOC Summer Project

Source made available a copy of a newsletter captioned "Arkansas SSOC Summer Project." This newsletter states that the SSOC in Arkansas will have a full-time state program this summer, attempting to spread the word about civil rights, poverty and peace. The letter states that three persons, JOE NEAL, BARBARA WINK and JOHN HOUSE, will be working from a house in Malvern, Arkansas, on the following projects:

1. Personal Contacts: JOE NEAL will be a full-time traveler for SSOC, making personal contacts all over the state with over 300 people who receive SSOC literature, Southern Regional Council Reports, mailings from SNCC, the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, and the NAACP. This program also entails making speeches at various church and civic groups by invitation, traveling to campuses, and distributing literature in conjunction with traveling and through regular mailings.

2. Land Research: CARL OGLESBY, former SDS chairman, recently said that work in civil rights and poverty was "fighting the seventh war from now." Under present plans, BARBARA WINK will be involved in research in county land records in an attempt to formally find out who owns the land. Current evidence indicates that poverty is largely the result of misuse of land by large landholders and exploitation of the politically powerless people who live on the land. We are reading agricultural reports, charts and other forms of information in an attempt to determine how exploitation occurs in farm programs. The "hard" evidence we gain can be put to use politically for the advantage of black people and poor whites.

3. State Newsletter: Arkansas has no state-wide communication on peace, civil rights or poverty work. By having a small staff and a full-time traveler, we can put together a mailing that will help to end much of the information isolation of liberals in the state. We can also swiftly communicate what is happening and what we are doing. We can reprint information from other organizations that are of common interests, such as BAD, Fayetteville Citizens Concerned about Vietnam, SNCC, SCLC, and NAACP.

4. State Notebook: By traveling throughout the state, the traveler will begin to know what the different liberal organizations are, who is in them, and what they are willing to do. If this information can be brought together, it will be invaluable to any type of action attempted by activist groups in the state. For example, if we had such listings now, we could probably expect much more support for the Martin Luther King Scholarship Fund. As it is now, no other resource except the already over-burdened University of Arkansas liberals will be explored.

Testing of Private Swimming Facilities, Little Rock, Arkansas

The regular weekly meeting of the LR SSOC Chapter was held on the night of June 12, 1968, at the residence of JUDY JOHNSON, [redacted]. There were approximately fifteen persons in attendance at this meeting. It was decided at the meeting that those present would attend the regular weekly meeting of Black United Youth (BUY) on Sunday, June 16, 1968, and at the conclusion of this regular meeting they would go en masse to Spring Lake swimming facility as an integrated group to see if they would be admitted. If they were refused admittance, they would subsequently review the charter of Spring Lake in an attempt to determine if any legal redress could be had. It was also decided that the charter of the Cammack Village Swimming Pool would be examined to determine if this private swimming pool can be required to admit Negroes. b6 b7C

The members of the Little Rock Chapter of the SSOC attended a wedding of a Negro student from Little Rock University on Sunday, June 16, 1968. In view of their attendance at this wedding, the plans to go to the Spring Lake swimming facility were cancelled.

LR 100-3564

The regular weekly meeting of the LR SSOC Chapter was held on June 26, 1968, at the home of JUDY JOHNSON, [redacted] JUDY JOHNSON, LR SSOC Coordinator, stated she had talked with JOHN WALKER, local Negro attorney, who told her he had been notified by the management of Spring Lake that they would like to integrate their pool by July 4. A "gathering" was then planned for July 4, 1968, starting at 9:00 o'clock in the morning, the purpose of this "gathering" being to test Spring Lake's real desire to open the pool to Negroes. It was also decided that either the boys would go first or the girls so that the public could get adjusted to the idea of Negroes being present before they saw mixed couples. b6 b7C

(LR T-1, 6/28/68)

On the morning of July 4, 1968, BRUCE DAVIS, LR SSOC Contact and Representative Man, and LARRY and JILL BUSTER, LR SSOC members, went to the Spring Lake facility at 9:00 AM to participate in the "gathering" that was to be held to test the facility. No other members of the LR SSOC and no Negroes attended the "gathering". All three participants left after about an hour.

APPENDIX

SOUTHERN STUDENT ORGANIZING COMMITTEE (SSOC)

On November 1, 1966, a first source advised that the Southern Student Organizing Committee (SSOC) with headquarters at 1703 Portland Avenue, Nashville, Tennessee, was formed on the weekend of April 3-5, 1964, to stimulate activity of Southern student groups in areas of civil rights, peace, academic freedom, civil liberties, capital punishment and unemployment. Originally, it was to be a white counterpart of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC). It has agreed to work with similar interested groups such as SNCC and Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) and Southern Conference Educational Fund, Inc., (SCEF). SSOC is a fraternal affiliate of the SDS.

Beginning in the fall of 1966, SSOC became a membership organization and embarked on a campaign to form local chapters on various college campuses throughout the South. SSOC publishes, October through May each year, a publication, "New South Student," which according to the above source has increasingly espoused and defended the pro-Communist and anti-United States position on domestic and foreign policy.

On August 12, 1966, a second source advised that Donald Leslie Boner of Nashville, Tennessee, had been in the Communist Party (CP) for about four months.

On September 27, 1966, a third source advised that Donald Boner, while in attendance at a CPUSA Youth Conference, Camp Webatuck, New York, September 12-14, 1966, gave a report regarding Nashville, saying that CP personnel were concentrating on organizing rent strikes, working with SSOC and SCEF, and establishing a Socialist Study Group for students.

On September 27, 1966, and again on June 2, 1967, the third source advised that during the summer of 1966 the CPUSA concentrated its youth cadre in organizing projects in several cities in an effort to recruit for and strengthen local CP youth organizations. Nashville, Tennessee, was included in this project. The youth placed in charge of the Nashville project was Donald Leslie Boner, with funds to be made available for three to five full-time organizers in Nashville. Jacqueline Saindon of the New York City CP also came to Nashville in the summer of 1966 for this purpose. At the CPUSA Youth Conference at Camp Webatuck, September, 1966, Boner reported that effective liaison had been made with SSOC. Following the conference, attendees Brian Heggen and Patricia Louise Rabbitt traveled to Nashville to join Boner's organizing efforts there.

On February 28, 1967, a fourth source advised that Patricia Louise Rabbitt of Seattle, Washington, a member of the Northwest CP District, had gone to Nashville, Tennessee, to organize in connection with a CP assignment.

On June 8, 1967, source five advised that Patricia Rabbitt, Brian Heggen, Donald Boner and his wife Carol Stevens Boner were all active members of SSOC in Nashville and that Heggen was as of that time Editor of the official SSOC publication, "New South Student."

The April, 1967, issue, Volume IV, No. 4, of "New South Student," carried a book review on page 22 by Donald Boner of a book entitled "CIA and American Labor," authored by George Morris, Labor Editor of "The Worker," East Coast Communist newspaper. Boner was described therein as an active member of the Nashville SSOC chapter.

On July 7, 1967, source three advised that the CPUSA conducted a training school for CP youths at Camp Abelard, New York, beginning June 17, 1967, and lasting for three weeks. During this school, CP youth conferences were held at the camp from July 1 through July 4, 1967, and during a youth conference a meeting was held relative to the activities of Party youths during a July, 1967, trip to the Soviet Union, which had been scheduled. It was announced that a trip to Leningrad for the DuBois Clubs of America and CP youths would begin July 17, 1967. A list of persons to be submitted to the Vietnamese and American Delegation for the Paris meeting with the Vietnamese youths was drawn up. The DuBois Clubs of America (DCA) had been designated as the organizer for this meeting in the United States and suggested a list of names for the American delegation. Among the names, as a representative for SSOC, was Tom Gardner.

SSOC "Worklist Mailing," Volume 1, No. 1, dated September 15, 1967, relative to staff announcements indicated that Tom Gardner, SSOC Chairman, would be back from his trip to Prague in a few days. The article explained that Gardner was selected as one of 25 representatives of the American Peace Movement to meet with representatives of the National Liberation Front (NLF) and the Democratic Republic of Vietnam (DRV).

SSOC "Worklist Mailing," No. 1, dated September 19, 1967, on page 1, indicated that Bruce Smith, who had recently returned from a month-long trip to Cuba, will join the SSOC staff.

SSOC "Worklist Mailing," dated February 14, 1968, indicated that Alan Levin, also known as Nik, SSOC Vice Chairman, was in Cuba for the month of February (1968).

By letter dated April 26, 1968, on SSOC letterhead mailed to the general SSOC membership over the signature of Mike Welch, Executive Secretary of SSOC, it was announced that as a step toward close relations with the Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) and better communications with the movement nationally, SSOC and SDS have worked out an exchange of the "New South Student" and the "New Left Notes," and that SDS and SSOC were exchanging contact lists of their respective memberships for this exchange.

Title: COMMUNIST INFLUENCE IN RACIAL MATTERS

Character: INTERNAL SECURITY - C

Synopsis:

Communist Party (CP) national leadership during current period expressed belief that Vietnam crisis and the murder of Dr. MARTIN LUTHER KING gave the Party an opportunity to make real gains in the racial field. CP candidate for President of the United States, CHARLENE MITCHELL, was in San Francisco in July, 1968, to offer assistance to the Black Panther Party (BPP) in the HUEY NEWTON murder trial in Oakland, California. No specific areas of aid proposed by the BPP leadership. Afro-American Commission, NCDCP, called for complete independence for Negro labor unions and for recognition of BPP as only organization paying attention to real Negro problems. It was urged that the CP support all BPP candidates running for political office. ROSCOE PROCTOR, Negro National Committeeman, CPUSA, advised Negro CP club members against acts of sabotage and fire bombing saying it was official CP policy to forbid such activity by Party members and any violations would result in expulsion from the Party. East Bay Ghetto Club CP has only seven or eight members of the Negro race. Influence of CP among Negro element not noted as extensive and East Bay Ghetto Club admittedly has magnified its role in reports to the CP District Office. Some white CP Club members not in agreement with the very militant Negro movement and other whites have been accused of "white chauvinism". Young Socialist Alliance (YSA) in its monthly magazine of June, 1968, urged members to defend the BPP free HUEY NEWTON and ELDRIDGE CLEAVER.

I. COMMUNIST STRATEGY

A. Communist Party, USA (CPUSA)

1. At a meeting of the Illinois District Communist Party held in Chicago, April 6 and 7, 1968, sponsored by the National Trade Union Commission, CPUSA GUS HALL, General Secretary of the CPUSA, eulogized Dr. MARTIN LUTHER KING and blamed racism for his murder. HALL called the Negro reaction to the slaying "completely justified". HALL assigned three Party leaders to draw up a resolution on KING's death.

In this connection ALBERT J. LIMA, San Francisco CP leader, mentioned that 75,000 white people had marched for peace in San Francisco earlier and he wondered if they could get the same 75,000 to march against racism on Aparil 27, 1968.

GEORGE MEYERS, Chairman of the National Trade Union Commission, CPUSA, stated that the financial crisis, the failure of the public to support the war in Vietnam and the assassination of KING offered the Party an opportunity to make real gains especially in the industrial concentrations. The Party line should be "peace" and "equality for Negroes".

SF T-1

Newscaster GARY PARK, Channel 2 Television, Oakland, California, on July 16, 1968, stated that CHARLENE MITCHELL, Negro CP candidate for President of the United States, was in the Bay Area on that date and had offered her support to the Black Panther Party (BPP) in their attempts to free HUEY NEWTON. No details of her offer were disclosed by PARK. HUEY NEWTON is the self-described Minister of Defense for the BPP and is presently in Alameda County Jail awaiting trial for murder of an Oakland police officer.

The "San Francisco Chronicle" issue of July 17, 1968, carried a news story that MITCHELL was in the Bay Area to offer aid of the CPUSA to the BPP in any way desired. MITCHELL said that she had spoken to ELDRIDGE CLEAVER, Minister of Information of the BPP about this matter but CLEAVER had no specific request to make for assistance. MITCHELL said that CLEAVER had accepted her offer as he would an offer from any other citizen.

The CPUSA according to ROSCOE PROCTOR, publicly-admitted member of the National Committee, had an official view on sabotage and fire bombing.

At a meeting of the East Bay Ghetto Club on April 18, 1968, PROCTOR stated that the CPUSA does not condone violence such as sabotage and fire bombing and did not want to be blamed for any such destructive activity by others. Any Party member indulging in such action would be immediately expeled. Furthermore, the Party would deny that anyone belonging to the Party would do such a thing, and if a Party member got himself involved the Party would deny that he had ever been a member and would refuse him any assistance in case of prosecution. PROCTOR, who is a Negro, stated that the white leadership of the CP was responsible for this attitude but said that since this was the Party line members had to adhere to it and those wishing to do otherwise would do so at their own risk.

2. PLANS FROM DISTRICT LEVEL

A report on the Negro question was presented to the Northern California District CP (NCDCP) Convention held at Berkeley, June 15, and 16, 1968. This report stated as follows:

North Calif. District Convention June, 1968

Party Program - Afro-American Commission

THE THREE-FOLD CHARACTER OF THE AFRO-AMERICAN QUESTION WITHIN THE U.S.: RACE, NATIONAL, AND CLASS

I. Race

"The people of different countries differ greatly from each other in the colour of the skin, hair and eyes, the type of hair, the shape of the eyelids, nose, lips, face and head, in the length of the body and its proportions. These features vary noticeably among people of one country, but a certain combination of them has a fairly stable hereditary character and serve as a basis for classifying those who possess them as belonging to a particular race."--The Races of Mankind, by M. Nesturkh

From the 17th century up until the Civil War, the black people brought to this country as slaves came mainly from tribal formations of the "Negroid" peoples of West Africa. Their distinctive racial characteristics have been used to develop many pseudo-scientific theories of black race inferiority in order to justify racism and our national oppression.

II. National Character

While possessing their own tribal languages, customs, morals, traditions, Africans had not yet developed nationhood. Modern nations appeared on the scene only with the development of capitalism.

The nationality of black people in the US derives from their transformation, during three centuries of slavery, from millions of individuals of numerous tribes inhabiting different territories of Africa and speaking different languages, into communities of people having a definite community of language (English) and territory (slave-exploiting areas of the US) and a certain community of economic life (agriculture, building trades, culinary and household arts) and psychological makeup, manifesting itself in a common culture. This formation of the Negro nationality in the US in conditions of slavery conformed to the universal pattern of evolution from the clan, tribe, and confederation of tribes in the period of pre-capitalist productive relations. However, in contrast to the development of other nationalities into nations under the aegis of capitalist productive relations, and notwithstanding the emancipation of the slaves in 1863 and the subsequent supplanting of slave and feudal productive relations by capitalist relations, this embryonic national development of US Negroes was suspended, "frozen," and remains so today.

Migration and urbanization have divorced Afro-Americans from the land; that is, from a common territory that would rivet the nationality together in a stable community and facilitate the development to nationhood. Afro-Americans today live throughout the country within compact majorities of other nationalities. Despite their dispersion, however, these 23 million US citizens are separated from the rest of the population, irrespective of class, occupational, religious or ethnic characteristics, by ghettos, segregation and discrimination. Thus, Afro-Americans remain a separate national group with a separate national character.

The question has been raised: "But if the black people in the US did not come from an already existing nation how can they be considered a nationality or a national minority? In answer to that question, we say that nationality or national character is a feature of nationhood which is formed and must form as a condition for development into nationhood. Living a common economic life and in the same conditions of life, people develop common traits of national character; the systematic intercourse between considerable numbers of people leads to the creation of a common culture which is national in form. A common psychological makeup is influenced by the material condition of life--it is a coagulation of impressions derived by people from their environment. Thus, black people have developed nationality and a national

A major aspect of the special and national character of the oppression of Afro-Americans in the US is cultural oppression, manifested in the common meaning of "culture" -- the culture of the classical Northern European ruling class -- slavery's history; enforced illiteracy; and forcible replacement of African languages, religions and institutions by English, Christianity and slavery; the suppression and distortion of African and Afro-American history in the schools; the setting up, in the mass media, of the white middle and upper classes as standards of beauty, life style, values and behavior, and in every other aspect of American life. The Afro-American "way of life" is in almost every aspect a culture of resistance and response to oppression. Cultural oppression acts, to the extent to which it is successful, to undermine the unity and sense of identity required in the Afro-American people's struggle to control their own destiny; hence the increasing emphasis on pride in black culture and national identity, the rejection of conforming to white middle class standards as the price for political, economic or social equality, is a major weapon against the special oppression of the Afro-American people.

The concept of national minority as used in the past few years implies that black people are an integral part of the North American nation and that they will proceed towards total integration uninterruptedly without first passing through some form of control of their own community or enjoying some of the special rights and compensatory measures which must be accorded an oppressed people. Before real equality can be achieved this concept must be re-examined.

III. Class Character of the Black People in the US

Though discriminated against and oppressed as a people, all of the economic classes which are common to the capitalist mode of production are to be found among Afro-Americans: black people are working farmers and agricultural workers, a small percentage of them belong to the urban middle class--professionals and small businessmen--and an even smaller percentage are black capitalists. But in their overwhelming majority--77 to 90%--black people in the US belong to the industrial working class.

The Afro-American People in the US an Oppressed People

Afro-American people in the US are oppressed as a people in every field of economic, political, social, and cultural life. This oppression is confirmed by the record of history, the statements of scientists and scholars, the statistics of both official governmental and private fact-finding agencies, and the culture of black people themselves, including numerous appeals for justice directed to authorities such as the United Nations.

As Afro-Americans, the black workers share the same aspirations to be free of oppression as all other Afro-Americans, and they therefore participate in the Afro-American liberation movement. As workers, they also share the same aspirations to end capitalist exploitation as the North American working class, and therefore participate in the working class movement.

Racism and Super Exploitation of Afro-Americans

The white chauvinist variety of racism arose during the slave trade, which was a method of primitive accumulation pursued by the rising bourgeoisie of Europe.

When the slave trade encountered opposition, the profiteers from this inhuman business devised arguments of the alleged inferiority and subhuman character of Africans, to justify the traffic.

Similarly, when slavery in the US came under attack from the abolitionists, the slave-owners and their sympathizers among the northern bourgeoisie developed an entire body of racist thought: history, biology, psychology, anthropology, religion, philosophy, science were bent to the service of racist propaganda. Those arguments were the forerunners of present-day white chauvinism. From the big monopolies and bankers to the landlords and small businessmen, all sections of the business community profit from racism and discrimination today.

The elaborate and complex apparatus of state forces, governmental institutions, administrative controls, laws, customs and organizations which oppress the Afro-American nationality have as their primary objective--the protection of the wealth and the further enrichment of those who own and control the country's productive resources. In particular, the disfranchisement of Afro-Americans through outright denial of voting rights or through fraud or gerrymandering, results in all levels of government being loaded with the most reactionary labor-hating officials, many of whom control major committees of congress and kill progressive legislation, retarding the country as a whole.

Racism justifies oppression of Afro-American, Spanish-speaking and Indian people, to win the support of the white workers for a policy of super-exploitation of colored workers. Although apparently directed only against colored people, racism and white chauvinism is essentially a weapon in the exploitation of the white workers. The wage differential, the working conditions and treatment accorded Afro-Americans are actually determinants of the norms for the white working class. The system of Afro-American oppression, chauvinism and racism breeds opportunism in the labor movement, divides its ranks along color lines and retards all workers' struggles against capitalist exploitation. It increases the rate of profit and reinforces the economic and political control of the owning class.

Therefore the questions of race and class cannot be separated when dealing with the solution to the problems of the Afro-American in the US: racism is a basic instrument of class oppression and the major barrier to progress for black and white; the struggle against racism is a central part of the class struggle and the basic question facing the entire country.
Because of the dominant working class composition of the Afro-American people and the fusion of their oppression with class exploitation within capitalist society, the basic economic solution in their struggle for freedom becomes the resolution of the basic economic contradiction of capitalism (ie. private ownership of the means of production and social productive relations).

Moreover, as Marx said, "an idea becomes a material force when it is gripped by the minds of the masses". So it is with racism in the minds of white Americans. Agitation and education alone is not sufficient to eradicate racism in the US. What is required is fundamental change in the material conditions of Afro-Americans and genuine economic, political and social equality. This will require both ending the oppression of black people and massive compensatory measures to eradicate the effects of 350 years of oppression. Due to the national character of the Afro-American question, their historical oppression as a people, their resulting hostility and suspicion toward white Americans (which is natural, inevitable and legitimate), the building of real, i.e. voluntary, working class unity requires that Afro-Americans be supported by the entire working class in their quest to determine their own destiny.

With the above as background, we believe that the political solution to the Afro-American question is to be found within the framework of the principle of national self-determination. While this principle applies both to nations and oppressed nationalities, due to the uniqueness of the historical development of the Afro-American people on the North American continent, none of the various existing forms applied throughout the world in resolving the national question fit the concrete circumstances of the Afro-American people in the US today.

Among the most obvious differences from conditions facing other liberation movements struggling for self-determination are that Afro-Americans:

are in their majority working class rather than peasants or farmers

suffer oppression and super-exploitation of labor power alone as opposed to super-exploitation of labor and expropriation of land and natural resources share a common economic life with the "oppressor nation" in a highly developed capitalist society, as opposed to a separate undeveloped--mainly feudal--colonial economy.

In order to meet the needs of the black working masses it follows from the above basic differences that the content of the national movement of Afro-Americans must be anti-monopoly and socialist-oriented, and led by the black working class, rather than bourgeois-democratic pro capitalist-oriented, and led by the black bourgeoisie. While bourgeois democracy opens up broader areas of democracy, mass participation and struggle, the needs of black masses require: social ownership of production and distribution, not private; cooperative effort, not individual; international working class solidarity, not national competition and antagonisms; full employment, not competition within a steadily shrinking job market.

In projecting the need for black power for black control of the black community we wish to stress the working class character of the overwhelming majority of black people, and the necessity that that control be exercised by the working class and poor sections of the black community first of all. The struggle for black community control over schools, police, welfare, urban renewal, etc. must be based on a program that understands the source of the oppression of the Afro-American people in its super-exploitation by capitalism. Black people are in misery because capitalism has made and continues to make huge profits off their sweat and at their expense. Tax money for highways subsidizing the auto monopolies, rather than providing cheap mass transportation; subsidies for profitable suburban housing that excludes the black masses instead of decent housing for the low income families; billions in tax money to the war, oil, agri-business and other monopolies, instead of the peoples money to end the decaying schools, horribly inadequate hospitals and public health facilities, scarce recreation -- all these hit the working class harder than any other section; but they hit the mass of Afro-American people hardest of all.

Add to this the effect of automation installed to supplant workers for higher profits which throws the burden of unemployment at catastrophic levels on the black community, especially black young people; the use of racism to prevent unionization keeping the standard of living of millions of white workers low and black workers lowest of all. All this plus the fact that two million black workers and their families are part of the trade union movement and therefore right at the heart of capitalist production, sharing the situation of all workers, yet suffering special discrimination in the plants and from the unions.

The national character of the Afro-American people, their special oppression and especially the new movement for black pride, black unity and black culture has put the black workers in the lead of struggles that are in the interest of the entire working class. The Poor People's March is a dramatic example of how the organizations of the Afro-American people can initiate and lead struggles that unite black, brown and white.

The capitalist class is moving to block the anti-capitalist, working class content to the struggle for black power. The Ford Foundation and other establishment outfits are pouring money into militant black groups. They are pressuring them to seek the support of big business and, in the name of black control, trying to turn the black community against the trade unions. The adoption by CORE of the slogan "Black Capitalism" shows how deep this danger is.

This attempt to buy off middle class militants fits in with the move to turn the ghetto into another source of tax supported profits, like the war industries. Proposals and programs for the federal government to provide tax incentives and subsidies to make projects like housing rehabilitation and small manufacturing that creates jobs profitable. Profit destroyed decent housing; now they want profits to restore decent housing.

These programs, justified in the name of improving conditions in the black community and giving lip service to black community control, are a major threat to black community control and to black power.

They put projects in the ghetto under the control of white capitalist corporations. They tie community leaders to these corporations, cutting them off from the people, putting them on the payroll of the exploiters of the community. Such programs cut the funds that really could be available to the community, by wasting in profits to the corporations that could go directly to cooperatives fully controlled by the community. These profits are an added tax burden on the working class--black, brown and white--that lines the pockets of the white power structure, without benefitting the black community.

Black capitalist control of business in the black community is better than white capitalist control; but it is not a program that meets the needs of the community or strengthens the power and organizations of the masses to fight against their exploitation and oppression. Private profits are not fully put to work for the community. Stores and small businesses are guided by the need to make profit, not operated to serve the needs of and under control of the community. The economic power of the community is in the hands of the tiny black middle class. But if the stores, rehabilitation programs, job creating, and manufacturing are organized on a cooperative, non-profit basis, all the funds are used in the interest of the community; decisions are made by the community; and the poor and working people, who are the overwhelming majority, strengthen their organized power to fight against the white capitalist power structure.

In every area of American life, for the Afro-American people to be able to fight effectively against special oppression, for full equality, there must be a fight for black community control of the institutions that affect the lives of black people.

On Education - All the institutions of mass education are dominated by white upper class people and culture. For black children to be taught for a life of dignity, pride in self and black culture, and trained to work in jobs with dignity for the future, the hold of white upper class standards, outlook and expectations must be broken. This means black community control over every aspect of the teaching of black children, including curriculum, teachers, textbooks, planning, building, etc. This also means full participation of the organized black community in the decisions controlling the larger educational system. Full awareness of black, Hispano, and Puerto Rican culture must become a part of the education of all Americans - to destroy the idea that culture is upper class European white culture.

Bourgeois domination of education also imposes its standards and priorities on the education of all working people. The fight for control of the education of black children by black people points the way for the fight by working people for control of education.

Political power - Forms must be fought for to give black communities politics power. Racist motivated electoral district boundries and schemes for preventing black majorities from winning and taking over city and county governments must be changed and defeated. New districts must be drawn to maximize black and brown representation. Reforms are also needed at the state and national levels.

In addition, decision making over many services affecting the community should be decentralized so that local black, brown and white working class communities can have control of their own police, schools, welfare, recreation, public health, etc. This should be seen, however, in the context that the ruling class that dominates the politics and economics of whole regions has got to be made to fork over vastly greater resources for

Police - Because they defend the property of the exploiters of the black and brown communities; because their white racist culture causes them to see black people as suspect, dangerous and criminal; because they are controlled by the white bourgeoisie outside of the black and brown community; the police play the role of a foreign occupying army in the black and brown community.

Police in the black community must not only be black, they must live in the community they patrol, and must be answerable to local, black community boards for their procedures and conduct. As long as the community does not have control of its own police, it must take steps to defend itself against the murderous invading army that threatens the safety of every Afro-American and especially the young, the militant, the local leaders of the fight for black liberation, the resistance to the occupation.

We advocate the organization in the black and brown community of effective defense against police, army, and white racist vigilante terror, including legal defense, medical aid, patrols over the police, and armed self-defense - organized and individual. This area especially requires a massive educational and organizational campaign in the white community on the nature of police violence and repression in the black community, on the domination of racist and fascist minded elements in the police forces, and on the threat to the rights of the whole working class and middle class dissenters of the bloated rightist terror armies that are America's urban police forces today.

These armies have been built up especially to occupy and suppress the black community, and the black community is leading here in the fight to check the police.

The above material was made available by SF T-3 on June 17 and June 24, 1968.

A meeting of the NCDCP Afro-American Commission was held at 411 Pierce Street, San Francisco, on June 7, 1968. This commission was formerly named the Negro Commission but the new name was ordered by the Natinal CP Office. ROSCOE PROCTOR at this meeting having had difficulty with a previous pre-convention draft, presented his re-written version. This draft called for the complete independence for the Negro. As noted in the formal report immediately above, source reported that PROCTOR was stressing the Negro's right to secede from labor unions and to establish his own since the present unions had not treated the Negro fairly. The draft also called for CP recognition of the BPP as the only such organization paying attention to real Negro problems. This support should include backing any and all BPP candidates for public office. The commission accepted the draft of PROCTOR who intended to proceed to present it at the District CP convention to be held on June 15, 1968.

At an earlier meeting of the NCDCP Negro Commission on May 5, 1968, held at 411 Pierce Street, San Francisco, members had been urged to have people join the poor people's march. There was some discontent presented by the rank and file members because the Party leadership had not decided if any Party members would go on the bus to offer a leadership role to the marchers.

5/8/68

At a meeting of the NCDCP, 81 Clementina Street, San Francisco, on April 20, 1968, San Francisco Party leader, ALEX THIBODEAUX, complained about the poor attendance and pointed out that the same situation seemed to arise whenever the agenda concerned the Negro people. THIBODEAUX pointed out that if the CP members were not interested in Negro matters, the Negro would not be interested in the CP program. It was mentioned at this meeting that CP Youth Clubs had donated $23 to the BOBBY HUTTON Fund. BOBBY HUTTON was a member of the BPP who was killed in a shootout with the Oakland Police Department in April, 1968.

A meeting of the Black Caucus of the NCDCP was held at St. Helena, California, on March 23 and 24, 1968, under the direction of ROSCOE PROCTOR. The points brought out at this meeting were as follows:

(1) Get as many trade union people as possible to join the MARTIN LUTHER KING March to Washington, D.C., April 22, 1968.

(2) Hold a protest rally against the so-called heavy weight championship fight in Oakland, California April 27, 1968, because CASSIUS CLAY while still regarded as champion by PROCTOR was not fighting in the contest.

(3) PROCTOR advocated a candidacy of JOHN GEORGE for Congress from the Oakland District. This decision was questioned by other black persons present since HUEY NEWTON of the BPP was also running for the same position. PROCTOR said that the Party position was to support JOHN GEORGE for political office and to support NEWTON's defense in court. (It is to be noted that the BPP wanted to free NEWTON without trial.)

(4) The CP should send representatives to meetings of the new Black United Front. (The Black United Front was an idea promulgated by STOKELY CARMICHAEL when he appeared at a public meeting in Oakland in February, 1968. CARMICHAEL urged that all Negro militant organizations unite for more effective action. CARMICHAEL is a black militant leader formerly chairman of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee, (SNCC).

A characterization of SNCC
is contained in the appendix.

(5) PROCTOR planned to set up a Negro commission to try to coordinate the efforts and activities of Negroes and Mexican Americans in the Bay Area.

PROCTOR suggested that the Center of the Alliance For Black Unity in Oakland be used in the campaign to urge support for JOHN GEORGE.

At a meeting of the NCDCP, April 20, 1968, at 81 Clementina Street, San Francisco, matters for "Black Liberation" while on the agenda were not taken up but were postponed until June, 1968. At the same time the Party agreed to make a financial donation to the BPP. The deadline for same being set as May 6. The amount to be contributed was not stated. ROSCOE PROCTOR at this meeting recommended that the Party prepare to attempt to bring about work stoppages when blacks were shot down in the streets.

5/2/68

The San Francisco County Committee CPUSA, held a meeting at 1027 Brussels Street in San Francisco, on May 13, 1968. At this time it was announced that the Party was considering reorganizing the twelve clubs in the county into nine new ones. One would be called the Bobby Hutton Club where black and white comrades would concentrate on problems of racism and the building of the CP in the black community.

At a meeting of the East Bay Ghetto Club held at 1627 Woolsey Street, Berkeley, on April 1, 1968, OZZO MARROW, a member, reported on his efforts at the Black United Front meetings. He said there were 600 Negroes active in various militant groups and MARROW felt that it would be possible to bring some of these into the Black Cultural Center that the East Bay Ghetto Club had been trying to organize. ROSCOE PROCTOR hoped to be able to organize these various elements which so far were scattered around the Bay Area and PROCTOR instructed MARROW to continue to try to gain the confidence of members of these organizations. PROCTOR urged all possible members to attend demonstrations against the proposed heavy-weight championship fight in Oakland on April 27, 1968.

PROCTOR commented that the black members' meeting at St. Helena on March 23, 1968, was not considered to have been much of a success since only ten out of a possible 35 to 40 people attended the meeting. PROCTOR complained that the Black Cultural Center in Oakland was not being used to its full advantage and also the rent was due again. PROCTOR said that he had told the CP District leaders that the East Bay Ghetto Club was already holding meetings with black militant groups and he could not go on lying much longer. Any meeting with the black groups by members of of the East Bay Ghetto Club would have to use the cultural center in the future.

SF T-6 on April 15, 1968, advised that the new headquarters for the East Bay Ghetto Club is to be known as the Alliance for Black Unity and the Black United Front was to be at 3092 Sacramento Street, Berkeley.

At a meeting of the East Bay Ghetto Club at the above address on April 18, 1968, ROSCOE PROCTOR reported that he had told ALBERT LIMA that he had invited the BPP to use the new cultural center and member OZZO MARROW claimed that in conferring with other militant groups he received their promise to become part of the Alliance for Black Unity.

4/23/68

At still another meeting of this club on April 29, 1968, ROSCOE PROCTOR led a discussion on how to implement the call of CARMICHAEL in February for unity among the blacks. As of the end of April, PROCTOR knew of no attempt at unity which had been successful and he thought it would be a feather in the cap of the East Bay Ghetto Club if they would be the ones to initiate a move to unify the efforts. PROCTOR proposed getting together all black trade unionists in the Bay Area and also to possibly support a general strike if nothing was done to answer the blacks' problems. PROCTOR suggested that such a strike would cripple "whitie" more than violence. PROCTOR also mentioned that black club members must protect themselves at all cost but the program should be only for self-defense and not for offense. Club members agreed it would be better to support the strike method suggested by PROCTOR rather than to think about guerilla war tactics. PROCTOR again voiced opposition to any schemes involving sabotage.

SF T-2 advised on May 23, 1968, that the East Bay Ghetto Club which was a Negro organization in the Communist Party had only six regular members for a considerable time but due to some new arrivals in the area, the club now had seven or eight members.

The NCDCP Youth Conference held at 81 Clementina Street, San Francisco, March 30, 1968, recommended that the Party should devote a workshop to racism. This workshop was held and as a result the group urged support to the "Free Huey Newton" movement and listed the dates of scheduled demonstrations in his behalf. The workshop also called for the support of the BPP's candidates such as ELDRIDGE CLEAVER.

4/1/68

The Sunset Club of the CP met on May 4, 1968, at 799 Clayton Street, San Francisco. Some of the members were reported to be not in agreement with the very militant Negro movement. The violence of some of these persons was not considered a practical solution to the probelm. The Party members present indicated they would accept black power, only as a political activity.

5/9/68

At a meeting of the Fillmore Club, CP, 41 Woodland Street, San Francisco, on June 19, 1968, member JUANITA WHEELER, was critical of two fellow members who were white, for displaying what she called "white chauvinism" toward Negroes. She said that these members had made critical remarks of Negro burglars and she also said that one of the club members had gone so far as to move out of an address in San Francisco when WHEELER and another Negro family moved in.

B. THE YOUNG SOCIALIST ALLIANCE (YSA)

The"Young Socialist" magainze issue of June, 1968, contained a feature article on HUEY P. NEWTON. This was in the form of an interview with NEWTON in jail by DERRICK MORRISON, National Committee member of the YSA. This interview attempted to publicize the usual points of the BPP in question and answer form. The same issue contained another article by Editor CAROL LIPMAN entitled, "Defend the Panthers-- Free Huey Newton--Free Eldridge Cleaver". LIPMAN called on the readers to organize support for the BPP in each area. This would be in the form of meetings where the real story of the attacks on the Black Panthers could be told and funds collected. Also in the form of enlisting the interests of prominent citizens or in demanding that the California Adult Authority release ELDRIDGE CLEAVER from jail. It was pointed out that information concerning CLEAVER could be secured from the International Committee to Release Eldridge Cleaver, P.O. Box 2967, Customs House, San Francisco, California.

CLEAVER was in jail in Vacaville, California, until his release by a local judge as a result of his having taken part in a shootout with the Oakland Police Department in April, 1968, at a time when he was on parole from another California offense.

A characterization of the YSA is contained in the appendix.

II. COMMUNIST PARTY TACTICS

There is no material to report under this category during the period.

III. COMMUNIST PARTY PENETRATION AND INFLUENCE IN RACIAL AND OTHER ORGANIZATIONS

There is no information as to Communist influence in the activities of racial organizations in this area at this time.

BLACK PANTHER PARTY, aka
Black Panther Party for Self Defense

A source advised that the Black Panther Party for Self Defense (BPPSD) was formed by HUEY PERCY NEWTON, Minister of Defense, and BOBBY GEORGE SEALE, Chairman, in December, 1966, as a militant black nationalist political organization to combat "police brutality," to unite militant black youth, and to determine the destiny of black communities. The political philosophy was taken from writings of Chairman MAO Tse-tung of Communist China and black militant writers.

In March, 1968, the name of the organization was changed to Black Panther Party (BPP).

The official BPP publication, "The Black Panther Party - Black Community News Service," states that the BPP advocates use of guns and guerrilla tactics in their violent revolutionary program to end oppression of black people.

On February 17, 1968, ELDRILGE CLEAVER, Minister of Information, announced merger of the BPP and Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC) and bestowed title of Minister of Justice, BPP, upon H. RAP BROWN, Chairman of SNCC.

SNCC is a militant Negro organization which preaches black supremacy.

NEWTON, aforementioned, is incarcerated in the Alameda County Jail, Oakland, California, awaiting trial on charge of murder of an Oakland police officer.

Headquarters of BPP and Huey P. Newton Defense Fund are located at 4421 Grove Street, Oakland, California.

A source advised on August 1, 1960, that the San Francisco Branch of the Socialist Workers Party (SWP) was formed approximately in the early part of 1938, and the Oakland Branch of the SWP was formed in the latter part of 1938.

A second source advised on October 26, 1959, that the name of the Oakland Branch of the SWP was changed to the Oakland-Berkeley Branch of the SWP.

A third source advised on May 1, 1967, that the San Francisco Branch and the Oakland-Berkeley Branch of the SWP follow the policies and directives of the National SWP with which they are affiliated.

The SWP has been designated by the Attorney General of the United States pursuant to Executive Order 10450.

YOUNG SOCIALIST ALLIANCE (known in the San Francisco Bay Area as the Bay Area Young Socialist Alliance, aka the Bay Area Committee of the Young Socialist Alliance, Bay Area Committee for the Young Socialist)

A source advised on May 16, 1960, that the Bay Area Young Socialist Alliance (BAYSA) was formed in February, 1958, as the Bay Area Committee for the Young Socialist (BACYS). At a later stage in its development prior to adoption of the name BAYSA, the organization was known as the Bay Area Committee of the Young Socialist Alliance (BACYSA).

The source advised that as a result of a national convention held April 15-17, 1960, at Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, the BAYSA became a branch of the national organization to be known as the Young Socialist Alliance (YSA) and will carry out in the Northern California area the policies of the YSA.

A second source advised May 1, 1967, that the BAYSA is currently active and is composed of two locals: The San Francisco YSA and the Berkeley YSA.

The first source advised on May 1, 1967, that the BAYSA, although ostensibly an independent organization, is in reality controlled by the San Francisco Branch, Socialist Workers Party (SWP) and the Oakland Branch, SWP.

The SWP has been designated by the Attorney General of the United States pursuant to Executive Order 10450.

Synopsis: THIS REPORT COVERS THE PERIOD 4/1 - 6/30/68. GEORGE MEYERS, National Labor Secretary at meeting of the Trade Union Club, CPEPD, in 4/68 stated the CP is attempting to organize workers in the South so the CP can infiltrate organized workers and increase CP influence among Negroes. ARNOLD JOHNSON, National Legislative Director, CPUSA, stated CHARLENE MITCHELL, a member of the National Committee, CPUSA, would be meeting with some representatives of the Poor People's March. HENRY WINSTON, National Chairman, CPUSA, stated he had cancelled a meeting with representatives of the SCLC to attend a meeting in Philadelphia on 6/17/68, and that CP members had been working with SCLC. At meeting of leaders of CPEPD in 4/68 it was decided a breakthrough must be made in the Negro community and the best place to start would be with SCLC in helping them with the Poor People's March. DEBBIE BELL, a member of the National Committee, CPUSA, and a member of the District Board, CPEPD, was sent to Atlanta, Ga., to attend the funeral of MARTIN LUTHER KING.

COMMUNIST PARTY, U.S.A.(CPUSA)

A. Plans at Strategy, Party Line, and the Like, at National Meetings Including Expressions by National and Other Functionaries

On April 22 and 23, 1968, PH T-1 advised that at an enlarged meeting of the Trade Union Club, Communist Party of Eastern Pennsylvania and Delaware (CPEPD), held on April 21, 1968, GEORGE MEYERS, National Labor Secretary, CPUSA, stated the CP was building the union movement to organize workers in the South so that the CP will then be able to infiltrate the organized workers and increase CP influence among Negroes. MEYERS also suggested that CP members join the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC).

On April 24, 1968, PH T-2, and on April 26, 1968, PH T-3 advised that GEORGE MEYERS was the featured speaker at a meeting of the Philadelphia Social Science Forum Committee (PSSFC), held on Friday, April 19, 1968, at the Hotel Philadelphia, Broad and Wood Streets, Philadelphia, Pa. The topic was entitled, "Racism, the Working Class, and the Left."

GEORGE MEYERS stated to the 50 people present that he had traveled throughout the country and it is obvious there are many rank and file movements being built which clearly reflect dissatisfaction with the labor leadership. Although a wide gap exists between the white people and the black people, unity could be built.

On June 20, 1968, PH T-3 advised that at a meeting of the District Board, CPEPD, held on June 6, 1968, DAVE BELL, a member of the District Board, stated there was not too much activity on the Poor People's March in Philadelphia; however, several other peace groups had decided to charter buses for the trip to Washington, D.C., on June 19, 1968, and urge the groups to mobilize support for it.

ARNOLD JOHNSON, National Legislative Director, CPUSA, stated CHARLENE MITCHELL, a member of the National Committee, CPUSA, who was then working in the National Office of the CP on Negro work, would be meeting with some of the people from the Poor People's Campaign. According to JOHNSON, MITCHELL was also meeting with some people in New Jersey who were active in the SCLC.

On June 19, 1968, PH T-3 learned that when HENRY WINSTON, National Chairman, CPUSA, was in Philadelphia during June 1968, he expressed concern over the question of leadership within the SCLC and he stated that he had cancelled a meeting with two people from SCLC in South Carolina so that he might attend a meeting in Philadelphia on June 17, 1968. He indicated, however, that he would meet with these people the following day.

WINSTON also stated that some leaders from the SCLC had approached the CP seeking help from individuals with organizational ability. As a result, CHARLENE MITCHELL, JARVIS TYNER, and JAMES JACKSON, all members of the National Committee, CPUSA, had been working with them.

E. Plans, Strategy, Party Line, and the Like Made at District and Lower Level Meetings Including Expressions By Local Leaders and Rank and File Members

On April 24, 1968, PH T-3 advised the meeting of the District Board, CPEPD, held on April 4, 1968, was very brief due to the death of MARTIN LUTHER KING. It was evident that everyone at this meeting was visibly upset over this tragedy.

On April 24, 1968, PH T-3 advised the Press Committee of the CPEPD held an affair on April 7, 1968, to raise funds. However, this affair was brief so that those in attendance could attend the Memorial Services for MARTIN LUTHER KING being held at Convention Hall, Philadelphia, that same evening.

On April 24, 1968, PH T-3 advised that at a meeting of some of the leaders of the CPEPD held on April 8, 1968, a discussion was held concerning the Negro People's Movement. It was felt that a breakthrough must be made in the Negro community and the best place to start was with the SCLC by helping them organize and mobilize the Poor People's Campaign.

After further discussion, it was decided that DEBBIE BELL, a member of the District Board, CPEPD, as well as a member of the National Committee, CPUSA, would be assigned to work with the SCLC and that she should attend the funeral for MARTIN LUTHER KING.

On May 24, 1968, PH T-3 advised that at a meeting of the Executive Committee, CPEPD, held May 8, 1968, DAVE BELL gave a report on the Poor People's March in Washington, D.C. According to BELL, as far as the CP is concerned, its main concentration was the initiation of food centers. He indicated the Party should attempt to have white people support and participate in the Poor People's March.

On May 20, 1968, PH T-3 advised DEBBIE BELL of Philadelphia attended the meeting of the National Negro Commission, CPUSA, held in New York City on May 19, 1968.

On June 26, 1968, PH T-3 advised that at the District Convention of the CPEPD held on June 22 and 23, 1968, DAVE BELL led the discussion on the Party Program. He stated the entire section dealing with the Negro question should be rewritten. He related the National Negro Commission, CPUSA, is of the same opinion. He was critical of the Program in that it did not raise the basic question of Negro needs, community control, education, etc.

A source advised on November 14 and 17, 1958, that a meeting of the District Education Commission, Communist Party of Eastern Pennsylvania and Delaware (CPEPD), was held November 13, 1958, at 3425 Powelton Avenue, Philadelphia. At this meeting, DANIEL RUBIN, the District Education Director, presented a proposal for a series of forums under the nominal sponsorship of the Philadelphia Social Science Forum Committee (PSSFC). The source stated that the PSSFC was merely a paper organization, and this series of forums was organized by the District Education Commission and had to be approved by the District Committee (CPEPD) before being put into effect.

This source stated on June 12, 1959; November 5, 1959; and October 21, 1960, that the PSSFC remained under the control of the District Education Commission, CPEPD.

A second source reported on October 9, 1961, that the District Executive Committee (DEC), CPEPD, met on October 2, 1961, and approved plans to hold and to support a new series of forums of the PSSFC beginning November 10, 1961, and ending in May, 1962.

The second source on May 8, 1964 advised that the main purpose of the PSSFC is to bring to Philadelphia well-known speakers who have a pro-Communist point of view. Included among the speakers each year are national leaders of the Communist Party, USA.

The second source added on May 6, 1968 that the PSSFC continued to meet during 1962 through 1968 and that it remains under the control of the CPEPD.

Re Baltimore letter to the Bureau dated 5/6/68.

The Baltimore Office has maintained contact with confidential informants familiar with certain phases of Communist Party (CP) activities and other communist activities within the Baltimore Division as well as with sources within the racial movement. These contacts failed to reflect any information indicating any significant communist influence in racial matters within the Baltimore Division.

The following confidential informants commented specifically concerning this matter:

[redacted] is in an excellent position to know all local CP policies in connection with racial and other matters. He advised the CP in the Baltimore area has been avoiding any significant contacts with civil rights leaders and groups. Information from racial sources indicate that the more militant civil rights organizations do not include white persons in their activities.

The Baltimore Office will continue to be alert for any communist influence in racial matters within the Baltimore Division and will report any information indicating significant communist influence in such matters.

I. COMMUNIST STRATEGY

A. Communist Party, USA (CPUSA)

1. Local Plans and Strategy

CV T-1 advised on May 17, 1968, that on May 1, 1968, PHILIP BART said that he would like one of the Communist Party (CP) Negro members in Cleveland to go with him in a house to house canvas of the Negro neighborhood, giving away copies of "The Worker" and talking to the people. BART thinks that this would be an effective way to demonstrate to those contacted that the black and white people are trying to work together.

"The Worker" is a East Coast Communist Newspaper.

PHILIP BART - A television program was held on Cleveland TV Channel 61, on February 24, 1968, on which PHILIP BART acknowledged that he was secretary of the Communist Party of Ohio, Cleveland correspondent for "The Worker" and that he earns his living as a paid officer of the Communist Party.

CV T-1 advised on April 16, 1968, that on April 6, 1968, 5,000 copies of a special issue of "The Worker" were sent to Cleveland. This was a four page issue pertaining to the death of MARTIN LUTHER KING. PHILIP BART asked ALONZO HOWARD and HENRY CRAWFORD to distribute 1,000 copies in the Negro neighborhood, and said that the balance of 4,000 copies would be distributed by white CP members.

ALONZO HOWARD and HENRY CRAWFORD - CV T-1 advised on April 16, 1968, that both ALONZO HOWARD and HENRY CRAWFORD are Negro members of the CP Cedar - Central Club in Cleveland, CRAWFORD being chairman of this club.

CV T-2 advised on May 28, 1968, that on May 27, 1968, ANTHONY KRCHMAREK stated that prior to his recently leaving on his trip to the USSR and to East Germany, he had gone to Lorain, Ohio, where he distributed 1,100 copies of the special edition of "The Worker," which pertained to the death of MARTIN LUTHER KING.

SI
ANTHONY KRCHMAREK - ANTHONY KRCHMAREK appeared on a television program carried over Cleveland Channel 61 on February 24, 1968, and on this program was identified as being chairman of the Communist Party of Ohio.

CV T-3 advised on May 14, 1968, that on that date RUTH LENCL stated that she and JEAN EDWARDS, the former JEAN ROBBINS, were on their way to Glenville High School to greet the participants in the Poor Peoples March, this Poor Peoples March coming from Detroit and being on its way to Washington, D. C.

SI
RUTH LENCL - CV T-9 advised on June 7, 1966, that an Ohio Communist Party State Convention was held in Cleveland, Ohio, on June 4-5, 1966; RUTH LENCL being present at the June 4 session.

JEAN EDWARDS - VIRGINIA and MELVIN HARDIN, who have furnished information to the United States Government, are self-admitted former members of the Communist Party, whose cooperation with the Government was publicly disclosed on June 5, 1962. VIRGINIA HARDIN advised on July 1, 1959 that JEAN ROBBINS attended a meeting of the entire membership of the Cedar - Glenville section of the Communist Party in Cleveland, held on June 29, 1959. MELVIN HARDIN advised on February 21, 1962, that the organizational secretary of the Communist Party was discussing class-conscious workers on February 6, 1962, at which time he commented that JEAN ROBBINS and her husband are "both good Party people."

CV T-1 advised on May 16, 1968, that the Midwest caravan of the Poor Peoples March arrived at the Church of the Covenant in Cleveland on the evening of May 14, 1968, at which church they were to meet their hosts, who would provide lodging for them that night. Among those present as hosts were FRIEDA KATZ, AUDREY CLINE, and CONNIE BART.

FRIEDA KATZ - CV T-2 advised on May 28, 1968, that FRIEDA KATZ is a member of the Ohio Communist Party State Committee and one of the leading Communist Party members in Cleveland.

AUDREY CLINE - CV T-2 advised on June 21, 1964, that a meeting was held in Cleveland, Ohio, on June 19, 1964, for the purpose of hearing a leading functionary of the CPUSA discuss the Chinese - Russian ideological dispute. AUDREY CLINE was present.

CONNIE BART - CV T-2 advised on June 26, 1967, that CONNIE BART, the wife of PHILIP BART, was present at the Ohio Communist Party State Committee meeting, held in Cleveland, Ohio, on June 25, 1967, and that she runs the Communist Party Book Store in Cleveland.

CV T-1 advised on May 20, 1968, that an Ohio Communist Party State Board Meeting was held at the PHILIP BART apartment on May 17, 1968, with GEORGE MEYERS being present. MEYERS is to be in Cleveland until May 24, 1968, at which time he plans on going to Youngstown, Ohio, to attend a convention of the "Negro American Labor Council." MEYERS feels that as many Communist Party members as possible should attend this NALC convention.

GEORGE MEYERS - CV T-6 advised on October 23, 1967, that GEORGE MEYERS is Trade Union Director of the CPUSA.

CV T-1 advised on June 4, 1968, that on May 27, 1968, PHILIP BART said that he had attended the NALC Convention, held in Youngstown, Ohio, on May 24-26, 1968, as an observer.

CV T-1 subsequently advised on June 13, 1968, that at a Cedar - Central Communist Party club meeting, held at BART's apartment on June 11, 1968, BART said that both he and GEORGE MEYERS had attended this NALC convention and that they were the only Communist Party members that he knew of who were present at this convention. BART stated that although they were known as Communist Party members, they were treated cordially.

CV T-1 advised on June 13, 1968, that at this same Cedar - Central Communist Party club meeting, held on June 11, 1968, BART had copies of a book, which he wants all Party members to read. This book is entitled, "Ghetto Rebellion to Black Liberation," and is written by CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT. BART said "I think we should see that the leaders of all the civil rights organizations are sent one of these books." He said he was going to mail a copy to Mayor CARL STOKES of Cleveland, and would mail several copies to one of the local Cleveland Negro newspapers. BART also suggested that FRANKLYN ANDERSON, leader of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) be advised that he can have five of these books at $1.00 each, whereas the regular price is $1.95 each. BART said that his wife, CONNIE BART, is selling this book at the Communist Party Bookstore.

CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT - CV T-7 advised on December 13, 1967, that CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT is chairman of the National Negro Commission of the CPUSA.

FRANKLYN ANDERSON - CV T-8 advised on August 21, 1967, that FRANKLYN ANDERSON has attended a number of weekly public forums sponsored by the Socialist Workers Party (SWP) in Cleveland during the past two years, but that he is not a member or sympathizer of the SWP. Source stated that most of the forums which ANDERSON attended dealt with civil rights, poverty, and so forth. Source stated that ANDERSON also occasionally attended SWP sponsored social affairs. CV T-8 advised that the local SWP does not consider ANDERSON to have any interest in the political philosophy of the SWP, and has made no effort to recruit him into the SWP or to invite him to classes where SWP beliefs are taught.

The SWP has been cited by the Attorney General of the United States pursuant to Executive Order 10450.

B. Socialist Workers Party

1. Local SWP Plans and Strategy

CV T-4 advised on May 27, 1968, that at the regular weekly meeting of the Socialist Workers Party (SWP) in Cleveland, held on May 19, 1968, JEAN TUSSEY gave a report on the class struggle, which report had previously been given by CLIFTON DE BERRY at an SWP plenum.

TUSSEY stated that there is a definite sign of black radicalization in the United States and proof of this is that there have been black uprisings in 125 cities over the death of MARTIN LUTHER KING as compared to few or no uprisings after the death of MALCOLM X. TUSSEY stated there is a need for organizing the SWP to defend the black communities and also to defend the theory of black control in black communities. TUSSEY stated that the party must keep a close watch on the growth of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference; that there is now more recruiting of high school age youth in the black community than ever before; that the party task of the SWP is to build an Afro-American campaign behind FRED HALSTEAD and PAUL BOUTELLE.

JEAN TUSSEY
CLIFTON DE BERRY
FRED HALSTEAD
PAUL BOUTELLE - CV T-4 advised on May 22, 1967, that JEAN TUSSEY is currently an SWP member in Cleveland and a member of the SWP National Committee; that CLIFTON DE BERRY is a member of the SWP from New York City; that FRED HALSTEAD and PAUL BOUTELLE are SWP members currently running as SWP candidates for President and Vice President of the United States.

CV T-5 confirmed on May 27, 1968, that at a Cleveland SWP meeting, held on May 19, 1968, JEAN TUSSEY reported that there is a need for the SWP to continue to defend the right of black power, especially for black control in black communities, and to support independant black parties, such as the Panther Party.

CV T-4 advised on May 7, 1968, that the regular weekly public forum, called the Militant Forum, sponsored by the SWP in Cleveland, was held on May 3, 1968, and at this forum, the discussion pertained to the coming national elections and to the SWP opposition to the War in Vietnam.

Among those present was MUHAMMAD AKBAR and AUDA ROMINE. ROMINE noted that AKBAR has been very sympathetic to the SWP and its ideas, has been working in the Negro neighborhoods, and was directly responsible for about 100 Negroes being at the head of the April 27, 1968, Anti-War March in Cleveland.

AUDA ROMINE - CV T-4 advised on May 7, 1968, that AUDA ROMINE is currently a member of the SWP in Cleveland.

MUHAMMAD AKBAR - CV T-5 advised on May 27, 1968, that on May 19, 1968, MUHAMMAD AKBAR was accepted as a member of the Cleveland Branch of the SWP. Ohio

On March 22, 1967, JACK STAFFORD, Principal at Glenville High School in Cleveland, advised that MUHAMMAD AKBAR, a Negro, had in the past been engaged in Black Nationalist Activities but had apparently switched away from this activity and returned to the practice of his Muslim religion. Ohio

There have been no racial demonstrations in the territory covered by this office during the period of this report in which people with Communist background are known to have participated.

III. COMMUNIST PENETRATION AND INFLUENCE IN RACIAL AND OTHER GROUPS

CORE

CV T-1 advised on April 26, 1968 that PHILIP BART stated he had recently been at a public affair, at which FRANKLYN ANDERSON, who is the head of CORE in Cleveland, was also present. According to BART, ANDERSON was shaking hands with those present, but walked right past BART without even speaking to him, although he had to see BART for he looked right at him.

ALONZO HOWARD was heard trying to explain this by saying that because Cleveland CORE has an $175,000.00 grant from the Ford Foundation, the CORE members must be very careful with whom they associate.

CV T-1 advised on June 10, 1968, that on June 4, 1968, FREDA HARRIS had some petitions addressed to the Attorney General of the United States and opposing the enforcement of the House Committee on UnAmerican Activities "Revived Internal Security Act." Each petition has room for three signers and HARRIS arranged for these petitions to be taken to a CORE meeting in the hope that CORE would obtain signatures and to then send the petitions to the Attorney General. The chairman of Cleveland CORE, FRANKLYN ANDERSON, refused to accept any of these petitions, stating that he was not interested in them.

FREDA HARRIS - CV T-2 advised on June 26, 1967, that FREDA HARRIS attended the Ohio Communist Party State Committee Meeting held at the Manger Hotel, Cleveland, on June 25, 1967.

COMMUNIST SUBVERSION OF LAW AND ORDER

The American people may be sleeping through the revolution which is taking place in the United States of America but they will surely wake up when it is all over. By then, unfortunately, it will be too late. Now is the time for them to realize what is going on and to stop it before it IS too late. What was originally planned by the Communists to be a "Workers' Revolution" had to be switched to a "Black Revolution" because the workers could not be made unhappy enough to revolt. Where they failed with the workers, the Communists have succeeded with the Negroes.

Not all American Negroes have fallen for the Communist line but only those who have got publicity in the kept press. A few agitators who spread lies are all it takes to start a riot among people in whom unhappiness has been carefully nurtured by radical propaganda. These agitators, both Negro and white, have in many cases been financed with federal funds, with no official attempt made to curb them in spite of their inflamatory activities. It would seem obvious, therefore, that this is what the Democratic Administration in Washington, D.C. wants – agitators who can start "spontaneous" riots when the word is passed to them.

While the present administration has been encouraging revolutionary activities on one hand, it has been curbing law enforcement officers on the other. Through the medium of Supreme Court decisions, the criminals and law-breakers have been favored and freed to prey upon society, while the local police have been hampered in every possible way. The campaign against the police, the last line of defense for law-abiding citizens, is also part of the Communist plan. The cry of "police brutality" originated with them and has now been taken up by addle-pated do-gooders.

As far back as 1941 Dorothy (Rosenblum Ray Connelly) Healy, an important (admitted) Communist (now Chairman of the Southern California District, Communist Party, U.S.A.) identified a picture of herself in which she held two placards, one carrying the slogan "Join the Communist Party", the other carrying the slogan "Stop Police Brutality." The SENATE DAILY JOURNAL of the California Legislature for April 9, 1943 contains the following from the Report of the Joint Fact-Finding Committee on Un-American Activities in California to California Legislature:

"Your committee called and examined many witnesses in reference to Communist activities in the agrarian districts of the State. This field is an important one in Communist strategy. It has not been overlooked in the past by Communist agitators and will not be neglected in the future, although large industrial centers are the chief and ever-present targets. The Simon J. Lubin Society and UCAPAWA are the Communist fronts in California agrarian penetration. The testimony of Dorothy Ray, now Mrs. Don Healy, is typical of the activities of Communist Party functionaries in this field. Miss Ray, by her own admission, has been very active in Communist Party agitation in the agricultural districts of California. She testified before the committee December 2, 1941, in San Francisco. (Volume V, pp. 1639-1641, 1795-1806, and Volume VI, pp. 1818-1864.).....

"She identified a picture of herself taken on the fire escape of the Communist Party headquarters in Oakland on Franklin Street in which she held two placards, one carrying the slogan 'Join the Communist Party' and the other 'Stop Police Brutality.'"

Not only orders from politically minded superiors but fear of accusations of "brutality" make it impossible for local police officers to cope properly with the riots disrupting American cities. Although the press has been ignoring them as much as possible in this summer of political conventions, riots are still going on across the nation. Even such supposedly non-violent types of "protest" as demonstrations give cause for concern as they need only a trained agitator to provoke violence. The Democratic National Convention in Chicago was protected from the assembled "demonstrators" and "protesters" by a high chain-link fence and barbed wire. Even ice-cubes were not allowed in drinks there. The convention according vention for TV. Evidently the architects of the Great Society are afraid of the monster they have created, they are not only afraid to allow the American people to have guns but are also afraid of ice-cubes in the drinks of supposed friends.

These craven cowards may be trying to deceive the American people with such propaganda devices as the Kerner Report but they themselves know what to be afraid of, and it is not "white racism." Congressman John Ashbrook discussed this misleading and deceitful report at length August 22, 1968 on the floor of Congress, stating "it would take a document the size of the Kerner report to outline what they chose to overlook.

"Take the Newark, N.J., riots, for example. During the period from July 12 to July 17, 1967, there were 23 homicides and three related deaths.....The Riot Commission report fails miserably in going into the background of subversive influence which fanned the flames and played a central part in this ignominious event.

"The House Committee on Un-American Activities delved deeply into this riot and found much evidence of subversive activities."

Other agencies which investigated the Newark riots were a 10-member Commission on Civil Disorder named by the Governor of New Jersey and an Essex County grand jury. It is interesting to note that one of the ten members selected by Governor Richard Hughes was Oliver Lofton, director of the Newark Legal Services Project which was involved in aiding and abetting the riots. The governor's commission indicted the "long-neglected problem of our cities," which includes segregation and corruption at City Hall. The grand jury found that things were very different from what the N.J. Commission and the Kerner Report would have us believe.

Among the inflamatory distortions of fact found by the grand jury was the case of James Rutledge, fatally shot while in the act of burglarizing a liquor store. The grand jury stated:

"It has come to the Jury's attention that many erroneous and deliberately false accounts of this incident have been published and transmitted to various government agencies and to the public." This event was used as the basis of an inflamatory leaflet which stated: "Get ready for the devil (translation: Police - Ed.). Don't Be Caught Defenseless! ! ! !"

"The boy shown brutally mutilated is James Rutledge, age 19, who was shot 39 times by the police, during the rebellion. He was shot in Jo-Rae's on Bergen Street, as he stood with his hands up!

"He was standing, hands up, expecting mercy from the Devil!"

"When you are defenseless is when the devil likes to kill you off!!! Remember this photograph...don't let it happen to you or your children, don't be caught defenseless."

Accompanying this message was a picture of a body in which a large breast wound had been torn open.

Tom Hayden, organizer of the radical Students for a Democratic Society, who stood his turn as a member of the honor guard at the bier of the late Sen. Kennedy, gave his version of the incident in his book, "Rebellion in Newark:"

"James Rutledge, nineteen, was inside a boarded-up tavern on Sunday afternoon. Troopers and police broke in, James gave himself up, and was shot point-blank by a trooper. Photographs show that James was hit by about thirty-nine bullets in the chest alone."

This is what the Essex County grand jury found: that there were four, possibly five, wounds; that the mutilation of the body had taken place in the course of the embalming and not as a result of police bullets. Capt. Charles Kinney of the Newark police force testified before the House Committee on Un-American Activities:

"Of course the mutilation was not by the police but by the people who took the picture. Detectives Julius Hechpel and William Millard of the Newark Police Department conducted an investigation and determined copies of this leaflet were distributed by Willie Williams, close associate of LeRoi Jones, who operates out of Jones' (Le Roi Jones was arrested and convicted for carrying a concealed weapon during the Newark riots) headquarters at 33 Sterling Street, Newark."

This is but one of many instances where lies have been used to discredit the police. It is all part of the plan and as one of today's popular quips goes: If we do not have police brutality we will have to invent it. Not only do the radicals try to stir up their "mobs" against the police who try to control them but they also put on campaigns to discredit them and the officials in charge. In a small area in New Jersey in a short period of time the following have been attacked with a view of "discrediting" and undermining public confidence in them:

New Brunswick Police Chief Ralph C. Petrone was suspended because of charges made by a disgruntled member of his force. A Superior Court judge, Thomas McGann, ordered the city to reinstate him, stating that the city's charge against him was "absolutely contrary to my sense of elementary justice" and it appeared to undermine "common fairness, natural justice, common morality, as well as common sense." The Middlesex County Grand Jury also rejected any charge of wrongdoing against Chief Petrone. The case had been based on an allegation that Petrone had lied 25 years ago when applying for police department membership. It would seem that the chief must have had a pretty good record for anyone to have to go back twenty-five years to find something with which to charge him.

The Newark (N.J.) STAR LEDGER of July 18, 1968 carried the headline "Jury opens probe of Paterson cops," stating:

"Seven witnesses outlined their allegations of police misconduct yesterday, before a Passaic County grand jury, investigating recent rioting in Paterson...

"Generally, the witnesses complained police broke windows, threw tear gas and struck persons without cause.....Reports of brutality spread prior to the outbreak of violence in the Puerto Rican area in this industrial city.

"Vandalism and firebombings raged for four nights.

"One of the jury witnesses was Jess Mallory, executive vice president of the city's chapter of the Southern Christian Leadership Council.....

"Other witnesses were William Kline and Gil Bensoh, leaders of civil rights organizations; the Revs. Louis Simonet and Maxwell Tow; Carnie Bragg, Jr., son of a Paterson public works commissioner, and Antonio Rivera, a restaurant owner."

Unlike the Essex County Grand Jury previously mentioned, the Passaic County grand jury was investigating those trying to cope with the riot rather than those who caused it. The Newark Police Director, Dominick A. Spina, whose version of the Newark riots differed from the Crime Commission's verdict, has also come in for his "discrediting" operation. Almost immediately after an attempt on his life failed, he was indicted by a grand jury on charges of "malfeasance." He was accused of failing to halt Newark gambling. (Perhaps he found better use for his men, such as preserving life and property.) It would seem to have been a star chamber session as Spina was not given the opportunity to appear and the assistant prosecutor, Michael Riccardelli, tried to keep the grand jury testimony out of his hands. Riccardelli directed the grand jury investigation and announced that Assistant Essex Prosecutor Robert A. Baime had been appointed to represent the state in the forthcoming trial. When questioned at a news conference about a statement that it had been unfair not to have allowed Spina to appear before the grand jury, Riccardelli said that the decision was made not to call Spina because of state and U.S. Supreme Court rulings that "raise serious questions about the power of a grand jury to summon for questioning a public official who is a potential defendant." Of course, Spina would not have had to be forcibly "summoned," but would have undoubtedly welcomed the opportunity to defend his actions, and clear up some questions in the jurors' minds. As it was, they were presented only one side of the case.

Other means are being used in different parts of the country to undermine the peoples' confidence in those upon whom they must depend for protection against the lawless elements unleashed by lack of law enforcement. In Milwaukee, Wis. the police chief was criticized in a "report." A letter from a Milwaukee attorney, William Bowman, to his congressman, Glenn R. Davis, states in part:

"Last Saturday Milwaukee's police chief was criticized by a Prof. Rossi in a federally financed report. Why are local officials so harassed? What law requires them to submit to the judgment and manipulation of interlopers?

"Why should federally financed projects hire 'scientists' who use their positions (and federal funds) to attack fine local officials?"

The answer to Mr. Bowman's question quite simply is that there is a campaign to destroy the effectiveness and the morale of the police, using leftist politicians, the kept press and an organized program of harassment. An example of the provocateur techniques being used appeared in the Newark (N.J.) EVENING NEWS of August 26, 1968. The article stated:

"Alfred Washington, the leader of the militant Afro-American Unity Movement here (Atlantic City), was free on bail today after he was charged with scuffling with the police chief in headquarters.

"Washington, 24, was charged with creating a disturbance and resisting arrest, and was released on $100 bail.

"He accused the police of beating him.

"Police Chief Mario Floriani said Washington came to the detective bureau yesterday inquiring whether a friend was there. The chief said he politely told Washington the man was not there and asked him to leave.

"But, Floriani said, Washington just laughed at him.

"Floriani said he placed Washington under arrest, and Washington lunged at him, began swinging and struck him in the neck....

"Washington said afterward he suffered cuts under the left eye and a sprained ankle charging that 13 policemen held and beat him."

Negro lawlessness is the end result of forty years of Communist activity among the Negroes. In a report on "The Communist Conspiracy," prepared by the House Committee on Un-American Activities, we read:

"The first Communist front organized specifically for Negroes was the American Negro Labor Congress. Set up in Chicago in November 1925.....In November 1930, the name was changed to League of Struggle for Negro Rights." Committee Exhibit No. 53 is an article from INPRECORR, August 27, 1925 which states: "The fundamental aim in calling the American Negro Labour Congress is to establish in the life of the American Negro working class an organization which may serve as a medium through which the American Communist Party may reach and influence the Negro working class, and at the same time may constitute something of a recruiting ground for the Party.....

"The National Committee calling the American Negro Labour Congress has a large Communist nucleus, and this National Committee, sending out organizers throughout the country, has succeeded in organizing a large number of local committees of action in many towns and cities for the purpose of popularizing and drawing in an increasing number of militant elements into the American Negro Labour Congress Movement.....Further, we feel it is of the uttermost importance that on this occasion efforts should be made to rally the Negro races of the world: Africa, America and the West Indies, for a struggle against world Imperialism."

The importance of the Negro to the Communist plans is indicated in another Communist document, the report made in Feb., 1960 to the second session of the Northern California District (C.P.U.S.A.) convention by Roscoe Proctor, who is a member of the national committee from Northern California and in charge of the Negro Commission work for No. Calif.:

"Now, we would like to present these main political concepts from the National Resolution itself. And, to prevent any misunderstanding we quote quite directly:

" '...the Negro people's struggle in the United States is a special feature of the American road to socialism (with) the requisite preparation of the forces for effecting fundamental social change...(requiring) the completion of the bourgeois-democratic norms of political, economic and social development for the South and the Negro people as a whole...' "

From the Foreign Languages Press in Peking comes a "Statement by Comrade Mao Tse-Tung, Chairman of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of China, in Support of the Afro-American Struggle Against Violent Repression," dated April 16, 1968. He states:

"The storm of Afro-American struggle taking place within the United States is a striking manifestation of the comprehensive political and economic crisis now gripping U.S. imperialism. It is dealing a telling blow to U.S. imperialism, which is beset with difficulties at home and abroad.....

"At present, the world revolution has entered a great new era. The struggle of the black people in the United States for emancipation is a component part of the general struggle of all the people of the world against U.S. imperialism, a component part of the contemporary world revolution.....People of the whole world, unite still more closely and launch a sustained and vigorous offensive against our common enemy, U.S. imperialism, and against its accomplices! It can be said with certainty that the complete collapse of colonialism, imperialism and all systems of exploitation, and the complete emancipation of all the oppressed peoples and nations of the world are not far off."

There is a struggle going on in the United States, the Communists quite openly aid and abet it, yet the anarchy is classified by the Attorney General of the U.S. as "eccentric behavior!" The Detroit Negro publication, "The Ghetto Speaks," can call quite openly for the assassination of a public figure, George Wallace: "Black brothers--kill him! Black sisters who work in his kitchen--poison his food.....There could be no more glorious and honorable end for any black person than to go after taking George Wallace and all of his kind with you," yet this publication is sold on the magazine racks of a church (St. Ambrose Church, Grosse Pointe Park, Mich.).

Something is very wrong and the present Administration knows it and condones it. They are not blind.....they are involved. They are not seeking the "public good" but a revolution by which they can perpetuate themselves in power. We cannot survive another four years of their rule.

Synopsis:

Some Negro members, CPUSA, dissatisfied with national leadership in holding control of black liberation section in white hands and in being more interested in foreign policy of Russia than the problems of the ghetto. During recent period, most of local interest of CP in the Negro field had to do with possible assistance to the Black Panther Party (BPP) in its efforts to free its leader HUEY P. NEWTON. Many white trade unionists believed NEWTON was guilty of shooting the Oakland Police Officer and hence the party could not expect much support from the trade unions for NEWTON. Party had poor results in attempting to aid the Poor People's Campaign. (U)

A description of the BPP will be found in the appendix section

During the period of this report, HUEY P. NEWTON was being tried on charges of murdering an Oakland, California, Police Officer.

On July 13, 1968, members of the Northern California District of the CP met to hear reports from the delegates to the CP National Convention. ROSCOE PROCTOR spoke concerning the Black Liberation Panel and claimed that the oppressed people in the CP, meaning the Indians, Mexican-Americans, and Negroes were dissatisfied with their treatment by the party. PROCTOR alleged that the basis for this dissatisfaction was the fact that the CP section was headed by whites and not Mexican-Americans. (U)

ROSCOE PROCTOR is a publicly admitted member of the National Committee, CPUSA.

RONNIE STEVENSON, a Negro member of the East Bay Ghetto Club, CPUSA, claimed that white chauvinism in the upper levels of the CP would cause the party to lose many black members. He was relating this in view of his opposition to the Russian invasion of Czechoslovakia. He claimed that the National CP leadership was more interested in foreign affairs of Russia than in the problems of the black ghetto. (U)

2. District Level

A meeting of the Northern California County Committee in San Francisco, on July 20, 1968, received requests for assistance in the "Free HUEY NEWTON" campaign. A handbill was passed out on "People's World" letterhead, written by reporter RONALD STEVENSON. STEVENSON reviewed the history of the NEWTON trial, claiming that the BPP, a black political party, the black communities in the Bay Area, and black people throughout the state and nation were (U)

all on trial in Oakland. STEVENSON asserted that the time had come to act. The article called on longshoremen and warehousemen, Quakers, white Christians, and students to stand shoulder to shoulder with the Black Panthers in Oakland. The "hippies" and the grape strikers should also join the protest and the poor of the Bay Area should be seen and heard. (C) (U) [SF T-2, 7/29/68] (C) (U)

The "People's World" (PW) is a West Coast communist weekly newspaper.

At the meeting of July 20, 1968, the County Committee, CPUSA, voted to support the HUEY NEWTON Defense Fund. The Committee was urged by participants in the meeting to have party members distribute literature and to attend "Free HUEY" demonstrations. It was voted that a representative of the County Committee would contact KATHLEEN CLEAVER, wife of Minister of Information of the BPP, ELDRIDGE CLEAVER, to see how they could help. (C) (U) [SF T-2, 7/22/68] (C) (U)

At the same meeting, it was noted that the youth of the party had attended the gathering and were organizing support for HUEY NEWTON. (C) [SF T-3, 8/2/68] (C) (U)

At another meeting of the County Committee on August 10, 1968, in San Francisco, the major point on the agenda was the "HUEY NEWTON Defense." It was decided to produce 20,000 pamphlets for distribution at factories and labor unions. The San Francisco County Committee stated that the Bay Area had the only CP group which was sponsoring a HUEY NEWTON Defense Committee. The party also planned to organize a white people's demonstration at the Alameda County Courthouse every Monday and Thursday until the end of the trial. (C) (U) [SF T-4, 9/3/68] (C) (U)

The East Bay Ghetto Club, CPUSA, at a meeting on July 10, 1968, announced a BPP rally on behalf of HUEY NEWTON, July 14, 1968, at Oakland's De Fremery Park. The party planned to have a table at the park where they would sell CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT's book, "Ghetto Rebellion to Black Liberation," and copies of the PW. (C) (U)

CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT is a publicly announced National Functionary of the CPUSA.

The meeting of the East Bay Ghetto Club, August 8, 1968, discussed the HUEY NEWTON affair. At this meeting it was proposed that the party attempt to rally the trade unionists of the Bay Area to the support of NEWTON. However it was brought out that some members had heard from various labor union people that many trade unionists opposed the idea that NEWTON was "not guilty." Therefore the only slogan that seemed possible for use among trade unionists was "Free HUEY." A pamphlet was distributed at this meeting under the caption, "Community Mobilization for HUEY NEWTON." All club members were invited to a meeting at CP Headquarters, 942 Market Street, San Francisco, to be held on August 10, 1968, to discuss the BPP and HUEY NEWTON, new members, and the question of more CP involvement in black community and police brutality problems. (C) (U)

[SF T-1, 8/9/68] (C) (U)

(C) (U) [SF T-1] furnished a copy of the pamphlet entitled, "Community Mobilization for HUEY NEWTON," address 2447 East 14th Street, Oakland. This was seen to be a call to the people of the East Bay, demanding that HUEY NEWTON be set free because he was a political prisoner. The Committee asserted that his imprisonment was an attempt by the Oakland officials to destroy the BPP and was an example of the use of police repression against the black community.

II. COMMUNIST TACTICS

The East Bay Ghetto Club of the CP had given the use of its club office, 3092 Sacramento, Berkeley, California, to the Poor People's March. Subsequently the leadership of the Poor People's March came to CP members ROSCOE PROCTOR and CASSANDRA WEAVER asking them to discontinue their sponsorship of the march because of some poor publicity from newspapers being given to their efforts. The Poor People's March leaders accused the CP of trying to infiltrate the movement and corrupt the minds of the participants. PROCTOR in turn claimed that when the party people had tried to participate in the Poor People's March they had been turned away. (U)

SF T-1, 7/12/68 (U)

At a meeting of the East Bay Ghetto Club in Berkeley on July 25, 1968, the club made plans to clean up the headquarters at 3092 Sacramento Street which had been loaned to the Poor People's March. The club wanted to start using it to hold Marxist and Negro historical classes. (U)

SF T-1, 7/29/68 (U)

At another meeting of the East Bay Ghetto Club on August 22, 1968, the effect of the Poor People's March organization using the clubhouse was again discussed. It was pointed out that that group had run up utility bills and had not paid them. (U)

Another item discussed during this meeting was the desirability of joining the East Bay boycott movement due to begin August 31, 1968, against department stores and supermarkets in the East Bay in an attempt to put pressure on city governments in Oakland and Berkeley to alleviate conditions in the Ghetto area. SUBJECT: The Congressional Record

Pages E7575-E7594. Congressman Ashbrook, (R) Ohio, spoke concerning riots and stated "good, law-abiding Americans everywhere are asking themselves whether or not the Government is going to permit a few radical militants to pull our Nation apart at the seams. It seems that we are treated to a weekly--almost daily--diet of vitriolic statements designed to foment trouble and the best indication of how far we have gone down the path to anarchy is the fact that political parties must run on a pledge of law and order. Who would have ever thought that the most basic element of a civilized self-government, respect for law and order, would ever become an issue? It is an issue, make no mistake about that. Thinking Americans, law-abiding Americans are sick and tired of political leaders who let rioters and looters run rampant, who shirk their duty in prosecuting anarchists who incite to violence." He criticized Governor Kerner and his Riot Commission report. He included excerpts from various statements made by Mr. Hoover, also excerpts from the Director's testimony before the House Appropriations Committee. Mr. Ashbrook went on to state "I believe there is more misinformation circulated regarding violence than in any other matter. Society is not sick. We still are basically a great people and a great nation. We still have choices to make and it is my hope that we choose correctly. Welfarism with Federal program piled upon Federal program is not the answer. Those who offer it will destroy, not build, our society. The danger signals are all there. They have been observed by many of us although we are obviously a minority. Take the very sound thinking of J. Edgar Hoover. He observed recently: 'Causes of riots can be counted by the score. A study of the overall problem indicates, however, that the widespread violence in our country to some degree is a direct outgrowth of the civil disobedience movement. - - -.' Why do not Americans listen? - - - - Quite frankly, we are living in a fool's paradise. For some reason, the average American has been lulled into believing that we can have militant people going throughout the country exhorting to violence, preparing for violence, but yet not have violence; that we can in times of crisis and expediency set aside our constitutional principles but still have our constitutional protections when we need them; that we can follow 'no-win' policies against the Communists and somehow come out with a 'draw'; that we can go three-fourths of the way to socialism or communism but not get there; - - - -."

VIRGIL WOOD

In the March 29, 1963, issue of the Lynchburg Daily Advance, a daily newspaper published at Lynchburg, Virginia, an article appeared reporting that one CARL BRADEN attended a meeting of the Hunton Branch of the Young Men's Christian Association in the company of VIRGIL A. WOOD. The article reported that WOOD was listed as a member of the Board of Directors of the "Communist - Front SCEF."

During the course of a Communist Party (CP) meeting held in Baltimore, Maryland, July 11, 1963, GEORGE MEYERS stated he had just received a letter requesting him to obtain a story for "The Worker," with regard to racial problems in Cambridge, Maryland. MEYERS felt he was too well known as a CP member and that he should not go to Cambridge as this might effect the Negro movement.

7/63

On July 13, 1963, GEORGE MEYERS and JACOB GREEN whom source described as the District Organizer for the Maryland - District of Columbia CP District and a CP National Committee member, traveled to Roanoke, Virginia, at which time MEYERS instructed GREEN to contact Rev. VIRGIL A. WOOD, Minister of the Diamond Hill Baptist Church. According to source, MEYERS felt that WOOD's activity in raising funds in the defense of a Negro boy who had been convicted of raping a white woman might make an interesting story for "The Worker."

"The Worker" is an East Coast Communist newspaper.

GREEN finally contacted REV. WOOD in Danville, Virginia, where WOOD was speaking. On the occasion of the contact, GREEN contributed $5.00 to WOOD on behalf of the cause relating to the convicted Negro boy.

Source further advised that on July 14, 1963, GREEN was again in contact with WOOD at which time WOOD gave him literature put out by SCEF.

ADELE KANTER

ADELE KANTER is in charge of administrative functions of the New York City Office of SCLC.

10/68

As of September 21, 1968, SCLC realized that other responsibilities of JULIAN BOND precluded him from serving as assistant to the president, SCLC. Accordingly consideration was being given to finding an individual to assume this position. SCLC was very anxious to have HUNTER PITTS O'DELL serve as assistant to the president, SCEC.

AT-T-3

HARRY BELAFONTE

As of October 28, 1958, according to JEAN SMITH, secretary at Communist Party Headquarters, New York, HARRY BELAFONTE had been a member of the Young Communist League (YCL) before coming into prominence as an entertainer.

AT-T-11
10/58

The YCL has been designated by the U. S. Attorney General pursuant to Executive Order 10450.

JAMES BEVEL

BEVEL, in early March, 1966, was observed to be present at the offices of the West Side W. E. B. DuBois Club in Chicago (DCC). Discussion took place at that time centering around reaction to a recent notification that the Attorney General of the United States intended to label the DuBois Clubs as a Communist front. BEVEL, in conversation, stated that he would have ignored this notification, and kept about the work in which he was engaged. He felt that if the DuBois Clubs have a real program of help for the people, then people would answer for the clubs despite any labels applied to them.

Most present agreed that the attack on the DuBois Clubs was a part of the plan by the "establishment" to undermine the civil rights movement. They felt that the recent hearings into the Klan activities in this country was only a beginning which would lead to a full attack on the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC), the real target. One of those present stated during the course of this discussion that he was not a Communist, and to this BEVEL was overheard to reply that every thinking American should be. He stated that Negroes have not begun to read yet, but when they do, they will all be socialists.

The Labor Youth League has been designated by the U. S. Attorney General pursuant to Executive Order 10450.

CARL AND ANNE BRADEN

Mrs. ALBERTA AHEARN, 2311 Payne Street, Louisville, Kentucky, a self-admitted former member of the CP, Louisville, Kentucky, in testifying on December 11 and 13, 1954, in Jefferson County, Kentucky Criminal Court, in a state sedition prosecution against CARL JAMES BRADEN, identified BRADEN and his wife, ANNE BRADEN, as having been known to her as members of the CP, Louisville, Kentucky, from January, 1951, to shortly prior to the time of her testimony.

The Courier-Journal, Louisville, Kentucky, a newspaper of general circulation, on February 3, 1959, reported that CARL BRADEN had been sentenced to one year in prison on a charge of contempt of Congress on February 2, 1959, in Atlanta, Georgia. The story noted that he had been convicted under this charge on January 21, 1959, and that the charge arose from his refusal to answer questions before the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

The Louisville Times, Louisville, Kentucky, a newspaper of general circulation, on February 27, 1961, reported that the United States Supreme Court had, on that date, affirmed the contempt of Congress conviction of BRADEN.

The Courier-Journal on May 2, 1961, reported that CARL BRADEN had surrendered to the United States Marshal at Atlanta, Georgia, on May 1, 1961, to begin serving a one-year prison sentence for contempt of Congress.

The Courier-Journal on February 2, 1962, reported that CARL BRADEN had been released from the Federal Prison Camp at Allenwood, Pennsylvania, on February 1, 1962. BRADEN indicated that he would return to his home, Louisville, Kentucky.

As of August 30, 1963, CARL BRADEN and his wife, ANNE BRADEN, continue to reside at 4403 Virginia Avenue and are still employed as Field Secretaries for the SCEF.

STONEY COOKS

COOKS was recently overheard in conversation during which he advised that he had traveled to Prague, Czechoslovakia, where he had attended a peace conference, not further described. While in Czechoslovakia he had met several "organizers of the Revolution" from Hanoi, North Viet Nam. COOKS had been quite impressed by these people and has subsequently appeared very knowledgeable concerning Viet Nam. It is not known whether COOKS actually visited Viet Nam during the course of his recent travel.

B. ORGANIZATIONS.

YOUNG SOCIALIST LEAGUE

The national headquarters of the Young Socialist League (YSL) is presently located at 114 West Fourteenth Street, New York City.

The March 1, 1954, issue of the "Young Socialist Challenge," published as page three of "Labor Action" contained an article concerning the creation of the YSL, which pointed out that at a unity convention occurring February 12-14, 1954, at Labor Action Hall, New York City, a merger occurred between the Young People's Socialist League (YPSL) and the Socialist Youth Leage (SYL). The new organization was named the YSL.

A source on June 15, 1954, made available the minutes of the YSL's National Action Committee meeting of April 13, 1954, which reflect that one S. SITEMAN, "Chairman of SP (Socialist Party) Youth Committee" had objected to a statement appearing in "Commerce" a New York University Journal, which indicated that the YPSL merged with the SYL to form the YSL. He explained that YPSL did not merge with anyone, that it continued to exist as the youth section of the SP. He explained that what did happen was a small group of the YPSL was dropped, expelled, or suspended from that organization and joined the SYL, which he characterized as the youth group of the "Trotskyite ISL" (Independent Socialist League). He explained that after these few former members of the YPSL joined the SYL, the SYL then proceeded to change its name for its own purposes.

On April 9, 1956, a second source advised as follows:

The YSL frequently worked in close sympathetic cooperation with the ISL towards similar objectives, although each major issue given mutual consideration is decided upon by these organizations individually. The YSL serves an an apprenticeship for the ISL, but ISL selection of members from YSL ranks is made on an individual and personal basis. In many instances YSL members are also members of the ISL. The YSL and ISL utilize the same printing house in New York City and the YSL publication is printed as an insert in the ISL publication "Labor Action." Frequently, lecturers before the YSL are ISL members.

I. CP STRATEGY

LA T-1 (8/1/68)

On July 21, 1968, the SCDCP held a general membership meeting at 7213 Beverly Boulevard, to give the CP members of the SCDCP a chance to hear reports concerning the recently held National Convention of the CP, USA. BILL TAYLOR stated that the resolution on "Black Liberation", had been the best ever presented on the issue. TAYLOR said that as far as the CP is concerned the Negro question has three equal parts, (1) integration, (2) self-determination, and (3) political equality. TAYLOR also said the CP must see that the Negro receives full opportunity for employment.

LA T-2 (10/4/68)

BILL TAYLOR in October, 1968, was the Negro Affairs Director of the SCDCP, and a member of the National Committee, CP, USA.

LA T-3 (7/30/68)

On July 29, 1968, a meeting of the Cyril Briggs Club, SCDCP, was held at 1808 Arapahoe Street. BILL TAYLOR was a guest speaker at the meeting and he urged that the CP club hold a discussion at least once each month on the question of the "Black Liberation Movement". TAYLOR said that in order to bring about the unity of the black, brown and white people, the whites must support all black movements, ideas and issues. TAYLOR said that nine out of ten times, blacks accused of a crime are being framed and should have the support of the whites. By giving this support, TAYLOR stated, the black and brown people will in time realize that their real enemy is the capitalist system, and then they will turn to the CP for direction.

LA T-1 (8/12/68)
LA T-2 (8/9/68)
LA T-4 (8/14/68)
LA T-5 (8/12/68)

On August 4, 1968, the Negro Commission of the SCDCP, held a meeting at 5731 South St. Andrews Place. During instant meeting it was pointed out that the CP must build black caucuses in trade unions in order to work on issues and to create more skill jobs for black people. Also that Negroes must be elected to leadership in the trade unions. It was suggested that the CP set up a "Negro Labor Council", in order to develop responsibility in the community on issues, strikes, picket lines and other such problems. It was also urged that an attempt be made to recruit more Negro members into the CP.

LA T-6 (8/16/68)

On August 11, 1968, the "People's World", (PW), held their annual picnic at 330 South Ford Boulevard. At instant picnic, BEN DOBBS was one of the main speakers and he urged all of those present to support the campaign of CHARLENE MITCHELL, candidate of the CP for President of the United States. DOBBS said that through this campaign, and the program offered by the CP, the need for immediate action on the issues confronting black and white Americans would be apparent. Further, that the basic solutions provided by socialism to these issues would stand out.

LA T-4 (10/7/68)

BEN DOBBS in October, 1968, was the Executive Secretary of the SCDCP.

LA T-4 (10/7/68)

CHARLENE MITCHELL in October, 1968, was a member of the National Committee, CP, USA.

The PW is a West Coast communist newspaper.

LA T-4 (8/23/68)

On August 19, 1968, a meeting of the Cyril Briggs Club, SCDCP, was held at 3048 Victoria Avenue. At instant meeting a discussion was held on the need to get white people to join with the black people in demanding the removal of white policemen from the Negro area of Los Angeles. It was pointed out that it is essential to get active protest action in the white community for support of the problems in the Negro area.

LA T-7 (9/11/68)

Informant furnished a copy of a three page mimeographed leaflet, titled, "The Police and The Black Community", a Communist Commentary, dated August 21, 1968. Informant advised that he had obtained instant leaflet at a membership meeting of the SCDCP, held on September 8, 1968, and that it was a copy of a talk given by NEMMY SPARKS, a member of the SCDCP, over radio station KPFK, in Los Angeles on August 21, 1968. Instant leaflet claims that the problems that face the police and the black community are not primarily police problems, but rather problems created by a breakdown of political leadership. Also it is pointed out many improvements would be obtained if only black police were used in the Negro areas, and if Negro officers were promoted to leadership positions in the police forces.

II. CP TACTICS

There is no material to report under this category during this period.

LA 100-66078

III. CP PENETRATION AND INFLUENCE IN RACIAL AND OTHER ORGANIZATIONS

LA T-2 (10/11/68)
LA T-8 (10/15/68)

Above informants advised that to the best of their knowledge, as of October, 1968, there was no infiltration of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People in the Los Angeles area by the CP.

There has been no additional information reported concerning SCDCP influence in the activities of racial organizations in the Los Angeles area during the recent past.

DETAILS:

I. COMMUNIST PARTY (CP) STRATEGY

SD T-1 advised on July 8, 1968, that a meeting of all black members of the Southern California District of the CP was held on May 11, 1968, in Los Angeles, California. At this meeting a resolution was presented and passed to hold meetings of this same group in San Diego twice a year.

II. CP TACTICS

There is nothing to report in this category.

III. CP PENETRATION AND INFLUENCE IN RACIAL AND OTHER ORGANIZATIONS

On August 21, 1968, SD T-2 advised that at a meeting of the San Diego CP Club held August 18, 1968, a discussion was held concerning the establishment of a close working relationship between the CP and the Black Panther Party (BPP). It was agreed that the San Diego CP would attempt to utilize the BPP and would, therefore, attempt to develop a close relationship with the BPP, inviting a Black Panther to observe at their club.

On September 18, 1968, SD T-3 advised that CHARLENE MITCHELL, CP candidate for president of the United States, spoke in San Diego, California, in a public speech sponsored by the "Freedom of the Press Committee," which is a front name which was used on this occasion by the San Diego CP Club. During her speech CHARLENE MITCHELL called for a "write in" vote for herself or for ELDRIDGE CLEAVER, Black Panther officer running for president on the Peace and Freedom Party ticket or DICK GREGORY, previously mentioned as a Peace and Freedom Party presidential condidate. She stated that a vote for either of these two individuals or for herself would be a protest vote against the three other parties. Source observed at this meeting that DEACON ALEXANDER, brother of CHARLENE MITCHELL, was carrying a briefcase with a Black Panther Party emblem on it.

I. COMMUNIST STRATEGY

A. Communist Party, USA (CPUSA)

1. Local Plans and Strategy

CV T-1 advised on June 20, 1968, that PHILIP BART would like to have arrangements made for the leaders of some of the Negro groups in Cleveland to meet with CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT. BART specifically mentioned such leaders as LEWIS ROBINSON and HARLLEL JONES.

CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT - CV T-6 advised on December 13, 1967, that LIGHTFOOT is chairman of the National Negro Affairs Commission of the CPUSA and a member of its national committee.

PHILIP BART - On a television program carried over Cleveland, Ohio television Channel 61, on February 24, 1968, PHILIP BART acknowledged that he was secretary of the Communist Party of Ohio, and that he earns his living as a paid official of the Communist Party.

LEWIS ROBINSON - In his application for a position with the United States Government, dated July 1, 1957, in answer to question "Are you now or have you ever been a member of the CPUSA or any Communist or facist organization?", stated, "I have attended several meetings of the Labor Youth League in Boston in 1950".

The Labor Youth League has been cited by the Attorney General of the United States pursuant to Executive Order 10450.

In April, 1964, LEWIS ROBINSON publicly announced through local news media that he intended to form a rifle club for the purpose of protecting civil rights demonstrators when the police fail to do so.

CV T-4 advised on November 22, 1965, that a Socialist Workers Party sponsored social was held in Cleveland on November 13, 1965, for the purpose of raising funds for the current national Socialist Workers Party fund drive. ROBINSON was present.

The SWP has been cited by the Attorney General, pursuant to Executive Order 10450.

HARLLEL JONES - CV T-5 advised on March 26, 1965, that HARLLEL JONES was one of the leaders of a Negro rifle club in Cleveland at that time and had indicated on a number of occasions that he was a member of the Revolutionary Action Movement (RAM).

Characterization of RAM is contained in the appendix hereto.

CV T-1 advised on August 12, 1968, that on August 6, 1968, ANTHONY KRCHMAREK said he would like to purchase a number of pamphlets by CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT and give them to some of the leaders of the Negro organizations in Cleveland. He particularly mentioned giving copies to LEWIS ROBINSON and HARLLEL JONES. The pamphlets are entitled "Ghetto Rebellion to Black Liberation".

ANTHONY KRCHMAREK - On a television program carried over Cleveland television Channel 61 on February 24, 1968, ANTHONY KRCHMAREK was introduced as being chairman of the Communist Party in Ohio, and during this program KRCHMAREK stated he had been a Communist Party member for 37 years.

CV T-2 advised on August 20, 1968, that an Ohio Communist Party (CP) State Meeting was held in Cleveland on August 18, 1968, at which ED CHAKA stated that one of the items to receive the attention of the CP in the coming months is to bring about a closer association between the CP and the Negro Liberation Movement, the black leaders and the Black Panther movement.

ED CHAKA - CV T-1 advised on August 27, 1968, that ED CHAKA was present at an Ohio CP State Board Meeting held in Cleveland, Ohio, on August 26, 1968.

B. Workers World Party

1. Local Plans and Strategy

CV T-8 advised on August 2, 1968, that on July 30, 1968, during a discussion with TED DOSTAL concerning recent racial disturbances in Cleveland, DOSTAL was very much in favor of the Negro cause and of the solution the colored people are using to find a place in society. However, DOSTAL made it clear that the place for white people during racial disturbances is away from the riot torn area.

TED DOSTAL - CV T-7 advised on September 4, 1966, that TED DOSTAL was at that time a member of the national committee of the Workers World Party.

A characterization of the Workers World Party appears in the appendix hereto.

II. COMMUNIST TACTICS

There have been no racial demonstrations in the territory covered by this office during the period of this report in which people with Communist background are known to have participated.

III. COMMUNIST PENETRATION AND INFLUENCE IN RACIAL AND OTHER GROUPS

Congress on Racial Equality (CORE)

CV T-1 advised on August 16, 1968, that on August 15, 1968, FRIEDA KATZ stated she had recently attended a meeting at Cory Methodist Church in Cleveland, which is a Negro church located in the Negro area. FRIEDA KATZ said that although this was a public meeting and advertised as such, ARTHUR EVANS politely made it clear to her that white people were not welcomed at these meetings.

FRIEDA KATZ - CV T-1 advised on August 27, 1968, that FRIEDA KATZ attended an Ohio CP State Board Meeting held in Cleveland on August 26, 1968.

ARTHUR EVANS - CV T-3 advised on November 2, 1966, that ARTHUR EVANS attends an occasional Socialist Workers Party forum or social event and has spoken on civil rights at some of these affairs; however, his interests are confined to the issue of civil rights and he has no political ties with the Socialist Workers Party or any similar groups.

CV T-3 advised on July 25, 1968, that ARTHUR EVANS is first vice chairman of the Congress on Racial Equality in Cleveland.

CV T-3 advised on July 25, 1968, that there are no known members of the Socialist Workers Party or of the CP who attend CORE functions.

CV T-1 advised on July 29, 1968, that MAX SCHOENFELD attends most of the Cleveland CORE meetings and is frequently asked by the CORE leaders for his opinion on matters under discussion. SCHOENFELD is white and was a former organizer of the Independent Socialist League, which merged with the Socialist Party - Social Democratic Federation in December, 1958. SCHOENFELD is allegedly accepted by CORE because MAX WOHL, one of the leaders of the Socialist Party - Social Democratic Federation donates $75.00 per month to Cleveland CORE.

A characterization of the Independent Socialist League is contained in the appendix hereto.

On April 17, 1959, a confidential source advised that on February 12, 1959, a Socialist Workers Party (SWP) minority group under the leadership of National Committee member Sam Ballan, split from the SWP.

The source stated that this minority group, referred to as the Marcyites, after many years of program and policy differences on varied issues concerning tactics and interpretation of political events, split from the SWP on the grounds that the Party was liquidating itself by departing from the Marxist precepts of Leon Trotsky and retreating from the fight for the world socialist revolution. The final issue which ultimately forced the split was the minority's opposition to the SWP regroupment policy which involved cooperation with the Communist Party (CP) periphery-individuals characterized by the minority as petty-bourgeois.

The minority program, according to the source, advocated unconditional defense of the Soviet Union and has as its goal the building of a revolutionary party with a complete proletarian orientation for the purpose of overthrowing capitalism in the United States and throughout the world.

On May 12, 1960, source advised that this minority group had chosen the name Workers World Party.

On May 1, 1968, a second confidential source advised that the Workers World Party, which maintains headquarters at 46 West 21st Street, New York, New York, supports the People's Republic of China in its ideological dispute with the Soviet Union.

The SWP and the CP have been designated pursuant to Executive Order 10450.

APPENDIX

On May 23, 1968, a third source advised that the RAM still remains active; however, there is no formal headquarters, as such, for RAM. The source advised that Maxwell Stanford of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, is considered the leader of RAM and if a RAM headquarters ever existed, it would most likely be where Stanford resides.

IV. MISCELLANEOUS

On Thursday night, October 3, 1968, the second meeting of the new school year of the SSOC was held at the University of Arkansas Student Union Building, Fayetteville, Arkansas. JOSEPH CHARLES NEAL was in charge of the meeting and he discussed a demonstration held by him and seven other members of SSOC just before the Tulsa-Arkansas football game protesting the fact that there were no Negroes on the Arkansas football team. NEAL indicated he felt the demonstration had been successful and mentioned that they had received a write-up on the demonstration in the Arkansas Gazette.

NEAL informed those present that a similar demonstration would take place before the University of Arkansas-Baylor University game to be played on Saturday, October 12, 1968, at Fayetteville, Arkansas. He advised that leaflets would be handed out on the student side of the stadium prior to the game and that more signs would be displayed regarding the lack of integration on the football team at the University of Arkansas. NEAL advised that a picnic was planned at 12:00 noon on October 12, 1968, near the stadium in order to get as many SSOC members as possible out for the demonstration. NEAL stated that the demonstration would be a peaceful type demonstration.

The following was observed by a Special Agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation at Fayetteville, Arkansas, on October 12, 1968:

Eighteen students, consisting of four Negro students and fourteen white students, just previous to the University of Arkansas-Baylor football game, Fayetteville, sat in the grass east of Razorback Stadium holding signs which read "COULD JIMMY BROWN PLAY HERE?," "BLACK RAZORBACKS," "RACISM KEEPS OUT BLACK ATHLETES," "WE CAN'T BACK ALL WHITE RAZORBACKS," etc.

JOSEPH CHARLES NEAL, leader of the SSOC Chapter, University of Arkansas, and ALAN OGDEN, state traveler for SSOC, were observed in this group.

When the game started, the group dispersed without incident.

APPENDIX

SOUTHERN STUDENT ORGANIZING COMMITTEE (SSOC)

On November 1, 1966, a first source advised that the Southern Student Organizing Committee (SSCC) was formed on the weekend of April 3-5, 1964, to stimulate activity of Southern student groups in areas of civil rights, peace, academic freedom, civil liberties, capital punishment, and unemployment. Originally, it was to be a white counterpart of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC). It has agreed to work with similar interested groups such as SNCC and Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) and Southern Conference Educational Fund, Inc. (SCEF). SSOC is a fraternal affiliate of the SDS.

Beginning in the fall of 1966, SSOC became a membership organization and embarked on a campaign to form local chapters on various college campuses throughout the South. SSOC publishes, October through May each year, a publication, "New South Student," which according to the above source has increasingly espoused and defended the pro-Communist and anti-United States position on domestic and foreign policy.

On July 2, 1968, a second source advised that SSOC continues to be headquartered at 1703 Portland Avenue, Nashville, Tennessee, and continues to defend and espouse the pro-Communist and anti-United States position with particular emphasis on attacking United States policy in Vietnam and emphasis on attacking the Selective Service System. Source two noted that SSOC Chairman Thomas N. Gardner in the summer of 1967 traveled to Prague, Czechoslovakia, where he met with representatives of the National Liberation Front (NLF) and the Democratic Republic of Vietnam (DRV), and that SSOC staff members Bruce Smith and Alan Levin traveled to Cuba in the summer of 1967 and February, 1968, respectively.

By letter dated April 26, 1968, on SSOC letterhead mailed to the general SSOC membership over the signature of Mike Welch, Executive Secretary of SSOC, it was announced that as a step toward close relations with the Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) and better communications with the movement nationally, SSOC and SDS have worked out an exchange of the "New South Student" and the "New Left Notes," and that SDS and SSOC were exchanging contact lists of their respective memberships for this exchange.

SOUTHERN STUDENT ORGANIZING

The May, 1968, issue of "New South Student" indicates that the SSOC mailing address is P. O. Box 6403, Nashville, Tennessee 37212, telephone number 615-291-3537, and the masthead describes the organization as "An association of young concerned Southerners dedicated to social change," as taken from the preamble of the SSOC constitution.

FORMERLY KNOWN AS
"NATIONAL GUARDIAN";
WEEKLY GUARDIAN ASSOCIATES, INCORPORATED

The "Guide to Subversive Organizations and Publications," revised and published as of December 1, 1961, prepared and released by the Committee on Un-American Activities, United States House of Representatives, Washington, D.C., contains the following concerning the "National Guardian":

"1. ... 'established by the American Labor Party in 1947 as a "progressive" weekly ... it has manifested itself from the beginning as a virtual official propaganda arm of Soviet Russia.'"

The February 3, 1968, issue of the "National Guardian" announced that as of the issue of February 10, 1968, the "National Guardian" would henceforth be known as the "Guardian."

The February 10, 1968, issue of the "Guardian" is self-described as an "independent radical newsweekly" and is published by Weekly Guardian Associates, Incorporated. The "Guardian" lists its address as 197 East 4th Street, New York, New York.

The February 12, 1968, issue of the "New York Times" carried an article entitled, "Radical Editors Say Their Job Is In 'Movement.' " This article stated that the first issue of the "Guardian" was dedicated by the paper's staff "To those heroic Liberation fighters who last week began a major offensive against American Imperialism in South Vietnam."

This article quoted one of the editors as saying that "Our job is to build a Radical movement. To quote the

"The 'Guardian' takes a strong left position, but it is not identified with any organized group because it believes that an American left ideology is still in the making. One of its purposes is to break away from the cliches of the left ideology of the past."

This article concluded by stating that the "Guardian" is considered the largest radical weekly in America.

SOUTHERN CONFERENCE EDUCATIONAL FUND, INC. (SCEF); "THE SOUTHERN PATRIOT" (SP)

An article in the December, 1967, issue of "The Southern Patriot" (SP) commemorating the twentyfifth anniversary of the publication with that issue recites the following:

> The Southern Conference for Human Welfare (SCHW) was organized in 1938; SP, started in 1942, as the publication of SCHW, was taken over by the Southern Conference Educational Fund, Inc., (SCEF), in the late 1940's when SCHW went out of existence. SCEF, originally the "educational wing" of SCHW, continued as an independent organization. For almost two decades, concern of SCHW and SCEF was with racial segregation and oppression of black people. In 1964, SCEF recognized that the legal back of segregation had been broken and economic and political gains were necessary if Southern life was to change. In the past few years, SCEF has also supported battles for academic freedom and the Southern movement for world peace.

The Southern Conference for Human Welfare (SCHW) was cited as a Communist front by the House Committee on Un-American Activities House Report 592, June 12, 1947. In the same house report, "The Southern Patriot" was cited as an "organ" of the SCHW.

The September, 1967, issue of SP refers to SCEF as a "community of Organizers and Writers", stating its work is centered in organizing the poor in Appalachia for political and economic power, helping white people in the Deep South find a common cause with black people, helping local groups organize action for peace and working for abolition of the "House Un-American Activities Committee".

The Masthead of SP in its April, 1968, issue states "The Southern Conference is dedicated to ending racism, poverty, and other injustices in the South; it opposes war as an instrument of national policy."

Listed in the Masthead are SCEF officers consisting of eight executive committee members, four executive staff members headed by Carl and Anne Braden, five office staff members and fourteen field staff members and two "Eastern Representatives".

> Mrs. Alberta Ahearn, 2311 Payne Street, Louisville, Kentucky, a self-admitted former member of the Communist Party (CP), Louisville, Kentucky, testified on December 11 and 13, 1954, in Jefferson County, Kentucky Criminal Court in a State sedition prosecution against Carl James Braden. She identified Carl James Braden and his wife, Anne McCarty Braden, as having been known to her as members of CP from January, 1951, to December, 1954.

A source advised on March 2, 1961, that Claude Lightfoot, a Communist Party functionary, stated at a meeting of the Communist Party in Baltimore, Maryland, on February 25, 1961, that the Communist Party has some indirect influence in SCEF.

A second source, familiar with some phases of Communist Party activity in the New Orleans area, advised on June 3, 1966 that during the time that the SCHW was in existence, members of the Communist Party were members of and worked actively in the SCHW; however, since the formation of the SCEF, Communist Party members have not been encouraged to work in the SCEF. The source stated that the SCEF is a progressive, liberal organization because it has gone along with the Communist Party on certain issues, particularly on the racial issue.

A third source advised on May 25, 1965, that George Meyers, a Communist Party functionary, expressed great admiration for Carl and Anne Braden and SCEF, which they head. He said SCEF is the best organization in the South as far as doing effective work is concerned and that they have a better idea of what they are doing, where they are heading, and they influence other organizations for the better.

The second source also advised on June 3, 1966, that many people who are officials and supporters of the SCEF, while liberal in their views, are by no means Communists.

[redacted] is in an excellent position to know all local CP policies in connection with racial and other matters. He advised the CP in the Baltimore area has been avoiding any significant contacts with civil rights leaders and groups. Information from racial sources indicate that the more militant black nationalist organizations do not include white persons in their activities.

The Baltimore Office will continue to be alert for any communist influence in racial matters within the Baltimore Division and will report [redacted] information indicating significant communist influence in such matters.

He said American enlisted men were very much against the war but that one of the most interesting things he found in Vietnam was the growing dissention between black and white soldiers. He said that he has been in several places where fights actually took place between black and white soldiers and that he anticipated in the near future an open revolt between black and white soldiers.

MO.

HALSTEAD also reviewed the New York City teachers' strikeand intimated that the strike boiled down to a conflict between black and white teachers. He also asserted that the Board of Education was racistin its behavior.

Synopsis: CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT's book, "Ghetto Rebellion To Black Liberation", was desrcibed by the NY State CP Committee as "the first full-length Marxist contribution to the literature of the current black revolution". LIGHTFOOT, in his book, discusses the reasons behind the ghetto revolts, and alleges that there is a crisis in our foreign policy and that a fascist danger exists in America where there is a sick economy and sick society. He names capitalism as the source of these troubles as well as of the oppression of Negroes and calls for elimination of the capitalist system. LIGHTFOOT also maintains that socialism is the path that the emerging nations of Africa must choose and that socialism will destroy racism and enhance the position of Negroes. LIGHTFOOT praises the Soviet Union for its promotion of equality and FIDEL CASTRO for his efforts in allegedly overcoming segregation and discrimination in Cuba. He asserts that black liberation is impossible without Communist participation and that the CP is the only force with the experience to carry on when moments of indecision arise in the Negro freedom struggle. division within the CP, USA, around basic differences relating to current CP policies one of which is the policy toward the Negro freedom movement. A special convention of the CP, USA, was held in July, 1968, to establish a clear policy on questions such as the Negro Question but it was not resolved. At the convention the existing policy of integration was attacked and no new position definitely determined. The platform upon which the CP, USA candidates for President and Vice President are running states that the candidates support the demand for black power or the right of black people to control their own community institutions. The "Daily World" has called for the ending of the Vietnam war and a shifting of the money spent in the war to anti-poverty and other social programs. The Party has called for world-wide protests over the conviction of HUEY NEWTON, Black Panther Party leader. Negroes were in attendance at a W.E.B. DuBois Club school for young militants held in New Hampshire in January, 1968. The Progressive Labor Party has called for united action by Negroes and Puerto Ricans to throw the NYC Tactical Police Force from their communities. It also attempted to exploit a firing of a Puerto Rican worker by a private company by building the situation into a racial and civil rights matter. The Socialist Workers Party is in favor of arming Negroes, of Negroes defending themselves, and of black control of black communities. This party intends to build its influence in the Negro liberation movement through use of the election campaign, contacts with black campus organizations, and Negro defense committee involvement. The youth group of the Young Socialist Alliance plans to continue its contact and activity within the National Black Anti-War Anti-Draft Union. CLIFTON DE BERRY, National Committee Member of the Socialist Workers Party, has stated that their propaganda should continue to link the two concepts of organized self-defense and the building of an independent black party.

SYNOPSIS: (Con't)

He also claims his Party has a role to play in building black leadership. "Workers World", the publication of the Workers World Party has published articles praising Negro militancy. Black Panther Party leaders have visited Cuba for indoctrination on the Cuban revolution and, orders given by Black Panther Party leaders gives the general impression that it is Peking-oriented. STANLEY LEVISION is still advising the SCLC leadership.

I. COMMUNIST STRATEGY

A. Plans, Strategy and Policy of the Communist Party, United States of America (CP, USA) on a National Level

1. Strategy and Policy Issued by the CP National Office or Discussed at National Meetings

The "Daily World", July 30, 1968, page 7, contained an advertisement stating that "The New York State Committee of the Communist Party Greets The Publication Of CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT's New Book 'Ghetto Rebellion to Black Liberation.'" It said "We urge our members and friends to read, to study, and distribute widely this important book; the first full length Marxist contribution to the literature of the current black revolution."

In the Foreword of his book, "Ghetto Rebellion to Black Liberation", CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT states that he offers what he considers to be a Marxist view of the path ahead for the black liberation movement which is in a new stage marked by the slogan "Black Power" and ghetto revolts.

The book is divided into four parts, "Behind the Ghetto Revolts", "We Can Overcome", "The Way Out", and "Socialism and Equality".

In Part I he notes that the Negro revolt rests on four main developments, the necessity for black people to have a substantial share of power over decisions affecting their welfare, conditions in the ghetto, problems in the rural areas of the South, and racism in the white community. He states that the economic problems of Negroes are at the core of the struggle that will be conducted and that it is hoped that a growing awareness of the importance of struggle on the economic and political fronts will result in Negro unity.

He continues in part as follows:

Black power has positive values which range from the psychological to the political. However, the main reason that this slogan has been accepted by most people is the recognition that black people must have a greater share of economic and political power.

Regarding civil rights, there are enough laws already passed to meet the problems. It is now a question of enforcement and, despite the court rulings and laws that have been passed, Negroes in many areas are still second-class citizens. Wherever progress has been made, it resulted from actions begun by Negroes and, therefore, the role to be played today is highlighted by the black power concept. However, this does not do away with the necessity for allies.

Today, Negroes are seeking a share of governmental power to help enforce the laws which have been passed. Negroes have been living in enforced segregation and exploited as workers, making them a class without money. Because money is a major source of power, Negroes are a people without power, and, therefore, the struggle to obtain black power and money are significant changes in the black liberation movement.

LIGHTFOOT goes on to discuss the exploitation of the Negro in the ghettos which he describes as "super-exploitation" of the Negro by capitalism resulting in lower standards of living and slum evils.

In commenting on "Racism and Black Nationalism", LIGHTFOOT makes the following observations:

The growth of racist ideology in the United States is another cause of the black revolt. The use of racist ideology by the ruling class is not new but it is important to recognize that there is not sufficient response against it by whites. Racism is easily spread and there must be a radical shift from this ideology by white workers if a coalition of black and white is to be built.

Racism has resulted in moods of black nationalism on the part of Negroes which is due, in part, to a feeling of being rejected by the white community. Many Negroes have concluded that integration does not solve the problem of being black and that the exercise of freedom requires positions of strength. This is a powerful force behind the black power concept. In addition, Negroes today are taking pride in their own race and are seeking greater identity with their past.

Another factor giving impetus to black nationalism is the growth of three categories of people in the ghetto, the unemployed Negro migrants from the South, Negro youth, students and unemployed, and a Negro capitalist class. This situation is the main social base for black nationalism.

The central thrust of this movement has been against the police apparatus, the ruling class and white business in the ghetto. However, the trend of black nationalism does not deny the necessity of black and white unity.

In the second part of his book, LIGHTFOOT alleges that a crisis exists in our foreign policy, that a fascist danger exists in America, that there is a sick economy and sick society in the United States, and he comments on the struggle to be conducted within capitalism and what program should be followed. In this section, he makes the following observations:

The Negro freedom struggle has become an important foreign policy issue and adds to the crisis which United States foreign policy is in. We have reached this crisis because United States monopoly capital, since World War II, has had a campaign to control the economies of all other countries. United States imperialism has become the center of reaction, racism, and war, but is being rejected by the peoples of the world.

The Vietnam war has become the center of debate on all aspects of foreign policy. In Vietnam, the issue is the right of a nation to self-determination. There is widesperad opposition to our policy in Vietnam which has created a situation requiring a correction of this country's foreign policy. There must be a change leading to world peace. This problem is related to the Negro freedom struggle and meeting the problems of the Negro struggle necessitates a change in this country's foreign policy.

There is also the growing danger of fascism because the drive of big corporations for world domination has been accompanied by pro-fascist reactions. The common ideological weapons of fascism are anti-communism and rascism. With the beginning of the cold war policy in 1946, measures were instituted to destroy the Communist Party in the United States. These measures began with the formation of the House Un-American Activities Committee and extended through the prosecutions under the Smith Act, Mc Carthyism, and the coalescence of ultra-Right and conservative forces around GOLDWATER in the 1964 election.

The American people still do not understand the source of the fascist danger in this country. The most dangerous aspect of the ultra-Right menace is the trend of government toward a garrison state. The industrial - military complex controls to a great extent the police and intelligence aspects of government. This is illustrated by the power of the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) and the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI).

In order to defeat fascism in this country and prevent a military - big business government, the people must put into office a government which will break up the power grouping that has arisen since World War II. This means an end to the cold war, the removal of forces representing monopoly corporations and a break-up of the power of the military over the affairs of the country.

The economy of the country, which is both exploitative and parasitic, is contributing to the social revolution and has created crisis-like conditions for a large segment of Americans. There are millions living in poverty. There is persistent unemployment with the Negro, the victim of a special system of exploitation.

The black ghettos are the main problem in the nation's cities. The conditions under which people live, the polution of water and air, the lack of doctors, housing and education problems, as well as a rising crime rate are symptoms of a sick society. The bankruptcy of capitalist ideology, along with job insecurity, poverty and racism are the causes of our sick society. Capitalism is the source of an imperialist foreign policy, fascist danger, a sick society and oppression of Negroes.

Only with the elimination of the capitalist system can Negroes gain equality but this does not mean that change cannot be achieved within the framework of capitalism. It is true that the struggle for socialism develops in democratic struggles in the capitalist system and the Negro struggle for equality is essentially a democratic struggle. Important changes have been made in the status of the Negro and can be made under the capitalist system.

It cannot be shown that an armed struggle by Negroes would have support and, therefore, the resort to arms would be suicidal.

The present outbreak of violence in the ghettos by Negroes is defensive in nature and the Negro's right to defend themselves by arms, if necessary, should be supported. But it is wrong to conclude that the channels for advances have been closed. There is a possibility for black people to secure more gains in the political arena. Political strikes must complement economic ones in forcing the power structure to make changes. Also, the help of the white community should be sought.

It is essential, in this period, to form a program, or a series of programs, that can bring together the problems of black Americans with those of white Americans. Progress requires building a powerful coalition against monopoly capital. In any program to combat poverty, it is essential that there be massive federal intervention at all levels of government. However, changes in the ghetto can be won by mass struggle without federal aid. This requires a struggle to raise wages and obtain jobs for Negroes.

The labor movement has the power to protect the interests of all workers and changes must take place to make it a more effective instrument of struggle. Its ability to bring about meaningful political change is unequaled. If labor is not living up to its responsibilities to the Negro people, pressure should be brought to make it do so. Discrimination within unions should be attacked, particularly within the building trades unions.

Black power should also be viewed as black workers acting as a force for better unions. Negro consumer power should also be used to defend his interests. There must be actions to force changes in hiring practices by companies inside and outside the ghetto.

The problem of Negro youth is the most important one. Negro youth was the prime mover in the eruptions in the black ghettos. What is needed is a federally operated job training and placement program.

The problems facing the deprived masses cannot be resolved under the two-party system as it now exists. The idea of black power means the right of Negroes to share in the power structure of the country and the black power slogan can have a positive effect in accelerating the rise of political independence. The Lowndes County, Alabama, Freedom Organization, known as the Black Panther Party, and the Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party are important steps in the realignment of political forces and in moving Negroes into an independent political position. In addition, there must be a fight within the two major parties. There should be developed a new people's party.

What is needed is a socialist reorganization because a socialist system is the only means of destroying exploitation of black and white. The fight for partial demands can make the masses aware of the need to change the present system. The struggle for socialism is a continuing one and this is the time to put forward the reasons for a socialist solution.

In Part III of his book, LIGHTFOOT discusses the path of socialism for Africa and the Afro-American. In this section he makes the following claims:

Revolutions in Africa pass through a democratic and then a socialist stage and the main points of contention concern the necessity of defeating neo-colonialist policies and the choice of a capitalist or non-capitalist path. American politicians and businessmen would like to impose on Africa an economic exploitation of politically independent countries just as they have in Latin America where United States imperialism has established a profitable empire. Imperialists have always attempted to retain control over the economic life of former colonies.

The idea of socialism is the central factor in almost all African countries. Most of the African national parties and governments have declared themselves in favor of a socialist path. Independent African states have only two choices, a capitalist direction or a non-capitalist one leading to socialism. It would be a mistake to chose the capitalist path. The clearest picture of the path toward a socialist Africa is to be found in Ghana when it was led by KWAME NKRUMAH.

The solution of the Negro question in the United States, as in Africa, must proceed in stages. The revolution in Africa has great meaning for Afro-Americans. Especially in Ghana was there evidence of black power; everything reflected a black-led society. However, it is difficult to have a strong black republic in a world dominated by imperialist powers. The African revolution has show that the destiny of the Negro is interwoven with what is happening in the world especially the struggle between capitalism and socialism. There cannot be isolation from the world-wide trend toward socialism. As indicated by Ghana, the future of all emerging nations and freedom struggles must be seen as part of a world on it way to socialism.

It is wrong to exclude a black and white coalition because of past experiences. The politics of liberation requires building black power and the ability to use that power to influence and mobilize all possible allies against the white ruling class. Monolithic white unity is a myth and the politics of black power must be used to end white supremacy. In the United States, securing change requires that Negroes have white allies along with the support it is receiving from the rest of the world. Economic independence can be promoted only within the framework of an expanding socialist world and the growth of socialism in Africa.

The Negro must have some control over the basic means of production and must use his vote more effectively. Dispossessed white workers and blacks must take control of the country and establish a system of public ownership if a voice in economic control is to be achieved.

Negroes are fearful that they may be betrayed under socialism. This is a result of racism which is a product of capitalism. With socialism, the causes of racism will be destroyed. However, once socialism is attained there must be a continuous fight waged against white supremacy. Under socialism, the Negro's role in positions of power and influence will be enhanced.

In Part IV of his book, LIGHTFOOT praises the Soviet Union for its aid to the peoples of Asia, Africa and Latin America and for its promotion of equality for its people, economically, educationally and culturally. He states that Soviet people have shown that racism is not inherent, that once the exploiting classes are removed from power and exploitation is abolished, all races can live in peace.

LIGHTFOOT also discusses the history of the Negro in Cuba and in so doing praises FIDEL CASTRO for his efforts in ending the unequal status of Afro-Cubans, overcoming segregation and discrimination, and promoting black and white unity. He states that the Cuban Revolution must be defended and that black Americans should not allow the Cuban example of interracial living to be erased. He claims that the Soviet Union and Cuba have provided the guarantees that black people, or other people of color, will not be betrayed in a socialist world.

In conclusion, LIGHTFOOT maintains that black liberation is impossible without Communist participation. He praises the record of the Communist Party in the fight for Negro freedom, the emergence of the Soviet Union as the main force against national oppression and decries the use of anti-communism as harmful to the Negro freedom struggle because it deprives this struggle of dedicated forces.

LIGHTFOOT notes that "To obtain full economic, political and social equality for Negro citizens requires not only Communist participation in freedom struggles but a strong, influential Communist Party as well." He claims that the Communist Party is the outstanding force working in the white community and is the only force with the experience to carry on when moments of indecision arise in the Negro freedom struggle.

The CP, USA met in special convention at the Hotel Diplomat, New York City, during the period July 4 - 7, 1968, which convention was preceeded by a two-day meeting of the Party's National Committee on July 1 - 2, 1968. Both of these meetings showed the existence of a deep ideological and policy division in national and state leadership. This division can be expected to become sharper.

The division occurs around basic differences which relate to current CP policies toward the "new left", student movements, Negro people's struggles, and electoral movements.

The most substantial and politically astute oppositional forces within the Party and its leadership are the remnents of an old "revisionist group" that existed a decade ago. These leaders have never been reconciled to the defeat they suffered in 1958. Since then, this group has gained converts including a considerable bloc of Negro leaders who accept the "black power" line of STOKELY CARMICHAEL and RAP BROWN and vigorously oppose the Negro line of the Party fathered by JAMES JACKSON.

JAMES JACKSON was angered by the action of the special convention of the Party which raised doubts as to the correctness of the present Party policy on Negro problems and the failure of the convention to act one way or another on whether the Party maintains that course or whether it falls back to the slogan of self-determination and acceptance of the policy line of the "irresponsible" elements in Negro life.

The special convention was convened to establish clear and firm CP policy and positions on certain questions including one to dispel all uncertainty about CP policy on the Negro question and to take a concrete and affirmative position against the CARMICHAEL - BROWN and militant concepts of black nationalism and black power based on any anti white-black unity. It was left generally unresolved.

The convention, instead of clearing the haziness around the Party's Negro policy, added to the confusion. The existing policy of integration was attacked but no new position definitely determined. The "Draft Resolution on Struggle for Black Liberation" which was discussed and generally approved, by the panel appointed to discuss it, and in the discussion on the Resolution before the convention, establishes a line at variance with the current Party line.

The policy content of the Resolution, which is not formally adopted, represents a complete victory for the forces and exponents of black nationalism and the extremist interpretation of black power. The Resolution calls for community control of all public and social institutions. It states that "The documented charges of genocide against the black community give merit to the organizing of residents in these communities to defend themselves."

The Resolution also states:

"Only with the advent of a society in which exploitation is not an integral part would black people have free rein and free opportunity to determine for themselves their relationship to United States society as a whole . . .

"We believe that if any degree of change is to be effected in the lives of black people - - even under the present system - - that black people must have a decisive vote in making changes on such terms and in such forms as to them seem proper . . ."

At the special convention of the CP, USA, held in New York City during the period July 4 - 7, 1968, GUS HALL, the CP,USA, General Secretary, gave the main address. During his talk, he directed his attention to recent events in the United States which concerned Negro Americans. He stated that the black liberation movement was a reaction to a system of oppression within this country. He noted that this oppression was racial and also against a national group. HALL characterized Negro Americans as being, for the most part, a working-class group which was being exploited by American capitalism. He further stated that the CP, USA program had to incorporate within itself the need to fight for black liberation.

At this special convention, six panels were formed including one which was to deal with the black liberation movement.

At the July 6, 1968, session of the convention, CHARLENE MITCHELL presented a report to the convention on the struggle of the Negro people. She maintained that the Afro-American is oppressed in every field and pointed out that the economic, political, social, and cultural life of the Negro has never reached full potential.

MITCHELL stated that since most of the Negro workers are members of the working class they are exploited not only because they are Negroes but are exploited as workers. She said the only salvation is through the CP, USA.

MITCHELL called for control of schools in black communities by blacks and said that the black community should also control the police in their area.

The CP, USA is divided by factionalism as a result of events which occurred at the special convention of the CP, USA held during July, 1968. The division within the Party pits the youth and the left faction against the old-time leadership of the Party. This division is compounded by the animosity of a number of the old-time leaders toward GUS HALL, whom they claimed compromised with the left faction at the special convention.

Of the two factions within the Party, one is the left faction which is an organized group made up of a group from New York and California which includes people such as GIL GREEN, JIM ALLEN, DOROTHY HEALEY and MICKEY LIMA, plus some of the militant Negroes. Also in this group are the militant youth in the Party. The other faction is comprised of the old-time leadership of the Party including such Negro leaders as HENRY WINSTON, JAMES JACKSON, CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT and WILLIAM PATTERSON

The split within the Party developed in part as a result of the National Executive Board, CP, USA meeting which proposed that GUS HALL be the CP, USA candidate for the Presidency of the United States. However, Negroes within the Party made it clear that they were not enthusiastic over the prospect of a white person being named the Party's candidate.

Several of the Negro leaders made the point that the nominee should be a Negro because this would be the best way for the Party to show that it is in ernest when it claims it is for equality for Negroes.

With respect to black youth and the black "New Left" groups, the CP, USA has been and is so desperate to recruit black youth that it has been willing to tolerate almost any activity aimed at reaching Negroes. However, most of the "New Left" black groups are for building an armed revolution and are aligned with Cuba and China. They are suspicious and often contemptuous of the predominantly white CP.

2. Plans/ Strategy Revealed in Party Publications

The "Daily World", issue of August 28, 1968, page 9, published the planks of the CP platform on which the Party's candidates for President and Vice President are running. Plank number four of this platform calls for freedom for the black people as well as for Mexican, Puerto Rican, and Indian people. It states that the fight for black liberation is the key to social progress in America. The article noted "We support the demand for black power; that is, the right of the black people to control their own community institutions and to have proportional power in all other institutions."

It notes that the control of the black communities is not enough to win full equality and that in order to achieve this, Negroes must have economic power such as the ownership and control of industries and banks. It adds that in order to achieve black power, there must be an alliance of black and white workers directed against the white corporate power. In this plank, the candidates further stated that the people of the ghetto should have the right to control schools, police, welfare bodies, and all other institutions in their communities. It further states that they support the right of Afro-Americans as well as other oppressed peoples to armed self-defense from racist violence.

The "Daily World" issue of July 31, 1968, page 5, commented on staff reports that had been issued by the National Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders. In this editorial, it is stated that a full-scale program is needed to meet the demands of the Negro people. It adds that President JOHNSON, acting in collusion with the leaders of both political parties, has refused to move for such a program, using the excuse of the Vietnam war, balancing the budget, and saving the dollar to prohibit the spending of money to solve the problems of the ghetto.

It calls for a united action by black and white to force the President and Congress to reverse their position and states that the first step must be the ending of the Vietnam war and a shift of the money spent in this effort to anti-poverty and other social programs. It also calls for the organized labor movement to lead the drive to defeat the Jim Crow system in the United States.

The "Daily World" issue of September 14, 1968, page 10, contains a statement on the conviction of the Black Panther Party leader HUEY NEWTON in California in the killing of a policeman. The article notes that HENRY WINSTON, National Chairman, and GUS HALL, General Secretary of the CP, USA had stated that NEWTON's only crime was his militancy and his call for black people to defend themselves from police violence.

The article states that the CP, USA called for organized protests of a world-wide nature "against the HUEY NEWTON frameup and conviction."

3. PLANS AND ACTIVITY OF THE W.E.B. DU BOIS CLUBS (DCA)

The DCA conducted a Black Liberation School in Conway, New Hampshire, on January 15, 1968. The purpose of the school was to invite young militants from across the United States to discuss the liberation movement, the working class in the United States, the roll of the DU Bois Clubs, capitalism and marxism, with the idea in mind that each person in the school would go back to their community or organizations and form a DuBois Club and work in conjunction with the National Office of the DuBois Clubs. Attending the school were about 18 Negroes and two Puerto Ricans. The school lasted eight days and the DCA furnished room and board for those in attendance.

The source furnished a leaflet captioned "Police Get Out" which is printed in both English and Spanish and reflects that it was issued by the PLP.

The leaflet calls for Puerto Ricans and blacks to unite and throw the New York City Tactical Police Force out of their community.

FELIPE DE JESUS, who is known as a member of the PLP but who is technically not a member of the PLP because he will not accept Party discipline, was fired from his job at the Figure Flattery Brassiere Company, 85 Tenth Avenue, New York City, as a result of a dispute between Local 32, International Ladies Garment Workers Union, and the Company.

A number of DE JESUS' co-workers in the Union supported him against the Company, refused to work, and were also fired.

In view of the situation at the Figure Flattery Company, the PLP decided to support DE JESUS because the PLP saw a chance to build the situation into a racial and civil rights project since a majority of the workers at the Company are Negroes and Puerto Ricans.

The PLP called a meeting for August 22, 1968, at Academy Hall, 873 Broadway, New York City, for PLP union members and contacts to organize a front committee to get support for DE JESUS and his supporters from other unions.

The source furnished a leaflet printed in both English and Spanish which was distributed in the vicinity of the Figure Flattery Company.

2. SOCIALIST WORKERS PARTY (SWP)

A report was presented at the May 15, 1968, membership meeting of the SWP-New York Local (NYL), concerning the Afro-American report made at the SWP National Committee Plenum. This report disclosed that the Party is "for arming blacks" and "for giving arms to the black". It was further related that the Party was in favor of the Negroes defending themselves and it was stated that "otherwise, you'll get smashed when you try to take power". It was stated that the plenum again put forth a concept of "black control of black communities" and projected a Party Blackcadre of 150 members

The report stated that a black leadership must be built in the black movement and that the means of the Party attaining this is to "recruit". It was stated that the SWP will have to build the black movement and that the activities of the Party toward this end would be:

1. Utilization of the election campaign

2. Contact with black campus organizations

3. Negro defense committee involvement.

It was stated at this time that the United States Government is afraid of the ghetto uprisings and the Government's policy at this time is one of granting some concessions and then embarking on some repressions. It was further stated that the SWP's prior move to form a black fraction was for the purpose of recruiting more Negroes as well as informing the National Office of the SWP on a continuing basis of the progress and activities in the Negro field of the various Party branches.

July 11, 1968

In the Internal Information Bulletin published by the SWP, New York, New York, dated June, 1968, there is a report, On Black Struggle by CLIFTON DE BERRY. In the article DE BERRY, National Committee Member of the SWP, states that our propaganda should continue to link the two concepts of organized self-defense and the building of an independent black party. The building of a black party cannot be separated from the need to defend that party, and it cannot be separated from the need for the party to help organize the black community to defend itself.

In referring to the development of leadership among the black community, DE BERRY states that the SWP has a central role to play in the building of a black leadership. We are finding out now that there are greater opportunities to extend the influence of our ideas and proposals then ever before. The contradiction between a highly radicalized black community along with a poorly organized and programmatically equipped black leadership was made blatantly obvious in the lack of purpose and perspectives in the rebellions which followed KING's assassination.

He continues, the only way we will be able to intervene effectively in the black movement is if we do so with an understanding of the difficulties involved, and if we understand the problems of building a movement rapidly from scratch.

In many areas the burden of our propaganda work and contact with Afro-American organizations will, of necessity, fall on white comrades, and it is important that these comrades display an attitude of full identification with the ongoing struggles. We are not sideline critics who simply make comments about existing black leaderships and we should never give this impression. They must see the building of a leadership as part of their responsibility as cadres of this revolutionary party.

One thing we can do to make our position more clear is to explain more concretely to black militants the nature of our movement as a combat organization whose task it is to build leadership for the American revolution.

In writing of the tasks ahead, DE BERRY states that the major task in the coming period is centered around the election campaign that is building Afro-Americans for Halstead and Boutelle.

The campaign gives us the greatest opportunity we have had in a long time to reach out to black groups and individuals. Already a number of black comrades have been recruited to the youth in the first six months of the campaign, and we have over 300 Afro-American endorsers.

Because of the radicalization among the black students, it is much easier for us to make contact with black groups through our campus fractions. A high percentage of the Afro-Americans for Halstead and Boutelle endorsers are students. In addition, we have found a very good reception to our speakers among black high school students, and we may find that the black high school students may well be our best arena for recruitment.

To carry out these tasks more effectively, that is the tasks of working on the campaign of defending black militants and of getting out our ideas, we must establish better contact with black organizations and with individual Afro-Americans.

Each local should consider carefully the idea of setting up at least a minimal fraction to carry out the various tasks set forth above.

Such fractions should meet regularly to plan the work that needs to be done and should make regular reports to the local executive branch meetings.

One person from the fraction should be appointed to correspond regularly with the black fractions in New York, about the work that is going on.

3. Workers World Party

The August 1, 1968 issue of "Workers World" contains an article entitled "Cleveland Community Control Sets Historic Precedent". The article states that leaders of the Afro-American community in Cleveland demanded and got what is perhaps the first genuine measure of Black control over a Black Community in this country since the days of Reconstruction. The article says that for almost twenty-four hours on July 24, 1968, white police and whites from the racist communities adjoining Cleveland's East Side, were barred from the area as Black leadership took responsibility for safety in the neighborhood.

"This brief experiment in community control, which originated from below and was the direct demand of Black people, was a foot in the door of self-determination. As such it frightened the ruling class and at the same time gave the bosses and the masses a glimpse of the inevitable future."

The September 13, 1968 issue of "Workers World" contains an editorial entitled "Fort Hood Forty Three". The article states that sixty Black soldiers demonstrated at Fort Hood, Texas, against being sent to the Chicago Democratic Convention as additional Cossacks for the War-mad ruling class to put down youthful anti-war demonstrators.

The article continues stating that "it was an act of supreme class solidarity, for which forty three soldiers immediately paid by being thrown into the stockade. It was also an example to millions more in the Armed Services -- an example to follow when asked to shoot down the oppressed masses, wheather in the USA or in Vietnam".

This article concludes, "These men, particularly the forty three now facing the wrath of the military brass, deserve the energetic support of all the oppressed and all the progressive anti-war movement in the United States. Their action, labeled by some as 'mutiny', is actually a glorious episode and should inspire every person to rush to their defense who is at all serious about fighting against the war and supporting Black Freedom".

No Cuban or Communist technicians are known to be in the United States helping the BPP. However, some BPP leaders have gone to Cuba for indoctrination on the Cuban revolution and those who go must be ranked "Captain" and above. Captain JOUDON FORD of the BPP recently went to Cuba and tells of the wonders of the Cuban revolution. FORD claims that when the revolution starts Cuba, Mexico and the Soviet Union will be allies of the BPP. However, he indicated a distrust for Russia.

The general impression given by orders from BPP leaders is that the BPP is Peking-oriented and only suspiciously tolerant of Soviet communism.

Afro-Americans Against The War in Vietnam (AAAWV) was formed as an "Anti-War" committee in January, 1966, at the initiative and under the control of the Socialist Workers Party (SWP). The "New York Times" city edition Tuesday, April 20, 1965, Page 27, reported that a new party of "revolutionary socialism" was formally founded on April 18, 1965, under the name of the PLP, which had been known as the Progressive Labor Movement.

According to the article, "The Progressive Labor Movement was founded in 1962, by MILTON ROSEN and MORTIMER SCHEER after they were expelled from the Communist Party of the United States for assertedly following the Chinese Communist line."

A source advised on June 3, 1968, that the PLP held its Second National Convention in New York City, May 31 to June 2, 1968, at which time the PLP reasserted its objective of the establishment of a militant working class movement based on Marxism-Leninism. This is to be accomplished through the Party's overall revolutionary strategy of raising the consciousness of the people and helping to provide ideological leadership in the working class struggle for state power.

The source also advised that at the Second National Convention, MILTON ROSEN was unanimously re-elected National Chairman of the PLP and LEVI LAUB, FRED JEROME, JARED ISRAEL, WILLIAM EPTON, JACOB ROSEN, JEFFREY GORDON and WALTER LINDER were elected as the National Committee to lead the PLP until the next convention.

The PLP publishes "Progressive Labor", a bimonthly magazine; "World Revolution", a quarterly periodical; and "Challenge-Desafio", a monthly newspaper.

The August, 1968, issue of "Challenge-Desafio" sets forth that "above all, this paper is dedicated to the fight for a new way of life-where the working men and women own and control their homes, factories, the police, courts, and the entire Government on every level".

W.E.B. DU BOIS CLUBS OF AMERICA (DCA)

A source advised that on October 26-27, 1963, a conference of members of the Communist Party, USA (CP, USA), including national functionaries, met in Chicago, Illinois, for the purpose of setting in motion forces for the establishment of a new national Marxist-oriented youth organization which would hunt forthe most peaceful transition to socialism. The delegates were told that it would be reasonable to assume that the young socialists attracted into this new organization would eventually pass into the CP itself.

A second source has advised that the founding convention for the new youth organization was held from June 19 - 21, 1964, at 150 Golden Gate Avenue, San Francisco, California, at which time, the name W.E.B. Du Bois Clubs of America (DCA) was adopted. Approximately 500 delegates from throughout the United States attended this convention.

The second source advised in September, 1966, that Mike Zagarell, CP, USA Youth Director, stated that in Negro communities the Party still supported the plan to build "left" socialist centers and to solidify the Party base through the DCA. This source also advised in September, 1966, that Daniel Rubin, CP, USA National Organizational Secretary, stated the Party believes the DCA should have a working class outlook and be a mass organization favorable to socialism, socialist countries and Marxism, and in April, 1967, Gus Hall, CP, USA, General Secretary, indicated that the DCA primary emphasis should be on developing mass resistance to the draft.

A third source advised in September, 1967,that Jarvis Tyner was elected Chairman of the DCA on September 10, 1967, near the conclusion of the Third National Convention of the DCA held in New York, New York, from September 8-10, 1967.

WORKERS WORLD PARTY

On April 17, 1959, a confidential source advised that on February 12, 1959, a Socialist Workers Party (SWP) minority group under the leadership of National Committee member SAM BALLAN, split from the SWP.

The source stated that this minority group, referred to as the Marcyites, after many years of program and policy differences on varied issues concerning tactics and interpretation of political events, split from the SWP on the grounds that the Party was liquidating itself by departing from the Marxist precepts of LEON TROTSKY and retreating from the fight for the world Socialist revolution. The final issue which ultimately forced the split was the minority's opposition to the SWP regroupment policy which involved cooperation with the Communist Party (CP) periphery-individuals characterized by the minority as petty-bourgeois.

The minority program, according to the source, advocated unconditional defense of the Soviet Union and has as its goal the building of a revolutionary party with a complete proletarian orientation for the purpose of overthrowing capitalism in the United States and throughout the world.

On May 12, 1960, source advised that this minority group had chosen the name Workers World Party.

On May 1, 1968, a second confidential source advised that the Workers World Party, which maintains headquarters at 46 West 21st Street, New York, New York, supports the People's Republic of China in its ideological dispute with the Soviet Union.

The SWP and CP have been designated pursuant to Executive Order 10450.

"YOUNG SOCIALIST"

The "Young Socialist" is a magazine published monthly, except during the summer, by the Young Socialist Alliance. The October, 1964, edition, the initial edition utilizing the magazine format, relates that this magazine succeeds the "Young Socialist" newspaper in an effort to provide "more facts on more general issues than a small newspaper can".

The "Young Socialist" newspaper was formerly described as the official organ of the Young Socialist Alliance (YSA).

The "Young Socialist" maintains office space at the headquarters of the YSA, Rooms 532-536, 41 Union Square West, New York City, and has a mailing address of Post Office Box 471, Cooper Station, New York, New York 10003.

YOUNG SOCIALIST ALLIANCE

The May, 1960 issue of the "Young Socialist" (YS), page 1, column 3, disclosed that during April 15-17, 1960, a national organization entitled "The Young Socialist Alliance" (YSA) was established at Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. This issue stated that this organization was formed by the nationwide supporter clubs of the publication YS.

The above issue, page 6, set forth the Founding Declaration of the YSA. This declaration stated that the YSA recognizes the Socialist Workers Party (SWP) as the only existing political leadership on class struggle principles of revolutionary socialism.

On March 10, 1967, a source advised that the YSA was formed during 1957, by youth of various left socialist tendencies, particularly members and followers of the SWP. The source further advised that the YSA has recently become more open about admitting that it is the youth group of the SWP and that an SWP representative has publicly stated that the YSA is the SWP's youth group.

The National Headquarters of the YSA are located in Rooms 532-536, 41 Union Square West, New York City.

On October 31, 1967, a second source advised that at the 22nd National Convention of the SWP held in New York City from October 26, 1967, to October 29, 1967, it was stated that the YSA remained as the main recruiting ground for new SWP members.

The SWP has been designated pursuant to Executive Order 10450.

A characterization of "Young Socialist" is set out separately.

BLACK LIBERATION COMMISSION MEETING, PHILADELPHIA, PA.,
FEBRUARY 4, 1969

On February 5 and February 10, 1969, a confidential source advised a meeting of the Black Liberation Commission, CPUSA, was held on February 4, 1969, at the residence of DAVID and DEBBIE BELL, [redacted] Pa. CHARLENE MITCHELL of New York and JAKE GREEN of Baltimore were present at this meeting. Also present were ELSIE DICKERSON, SONDRA "SANDY" PATRINOS, ELGIN CURRY, FRANK KINCES, DAVE BELL, DEBBIE BELL, and FRANK AYCOX.

On February 10, 1969, this same source advised CHARLENE MITCHELL, JAKE GREEN, ELSIE DICKERSON, and DEBBIE BELL are members of the National Committee, CPUSA. The others mentioned above are current members of the Communist Party of Eastern Pennsylvania and Delaware (CPEPD).

ELSIE DICKERSON, Chairman of the District Board, CPEPD, welcomed both MITCHELL and GREEN to Philadelphia.

DICKERSON stated that due to the lack of forces, there was no commission in Philadelphia. Many attempts have been made to organize such a commission but with little success.

DEBBIE BELL, a member of the National Black Liberation Commission, CPUSA, stated the district was preparing for its district convention and a draft for pre-convention discussion had been written. This report reflects the civil rights organizations in Philadelphia were no longer functioning. The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) was divided into four separate chapters and is not active. The Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) is doing nothing except holding an occasional informal class on "black history." The Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee (SNCC) was dissolved. The Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC) has not been successful in involving the black community. None of these organizations had any program for mass action. While the Communist Party in Philadelphia had some contact with the black community, the Party was not in a position of influence.

Concerning the lack of forces, BELL mentioned there were only about 12 black members.

White chauvinism continues to exist in the Party. White members had failed to carry out assignments in the white-working class. As a result the gap had widened between black and white members, and the task of building unity has become even more difficult. Racism also exists in organized labor.

The educational system in Philadelphia is unbalanced; black schools are overcrowded, ill-equipped, and operated in shifts. There are very few black principals.

On the political front, there has been some improvement in black representation, but there is still much to be done.

JAKE GREEN criticized CHARLENE MITCHELL for she was to have attended this meeting with a report dealing with ideological questions so they could discuss and expand this matter.

MITCHELL stated this was not the case. The Black Liberation Commission did not meet in January, and it was suggested that a letter be sent to all districts requesting meetings be held and then the results would be used as a basis of discussion at the next meeting of the commission scheduled to be held on February 24, 1969.

GREEN disputed this, and it was agreed this discussion should be further resolved at the next meeting of the commission. GREEN then asked MITCHELL what had happened to the Negro Commission and why was its name changed.

MITCHELL stated the name of the Negro Commission had been changed to the Black Liberation Commission because she made the proposal at a recent meeting of the National Committee. Again, GREEN objected, but there was no further discussion.

GREEN then gave a report during which he stated the Party in Baltimore was rather small but had been able to make some gains in the black community. He felt that to curb racism, an educational program in the white community was necessary.

CHARLENE MITCHELL stated commissions did not exist in some parts of the country. In other sections it was merely a paper commission and had done nothing. She stated a concrete program for black people should be undertaken. She proposed the Black Liberation Commission should begin to function in such a way that it will build, as well as give direct leadership, to all districts. Also, the commission should hold enlarged meetings open to all members in order to have the fullest discussion possible.

III. COMMUNIST PENETRATION IN RACIAL AND OTHER ORGANIZATIONS

During the period October 21 - 25, 1968, ME T-1 advised as follows: ~~[redacted]~~ (U)

~~GROUP~~ (U)
Excluded from automatic downgrading and declassification

This document contains neither recommendations nor conclusions of the FBI. It is the property of the FBI and is loaned to your agency; it and its contents are not to be distributed outside your agency.

During the period October 21 - 24, 1968, a series of meetings and informal gatherings were held by members of the Nashville Communist Party (CP) Club in Nashville, Tennessee. The following is an account of what took place during this time:

It was learned that on October 21, 1968, RANDA HOLLAND, Chairman of the Nashville CP Club, indicated that the CPUSA would hold a series of meetings in Nashville, Tennessee, from October 24 through October 28, 1968, and among the "important" out of town CP members who were to attend would be JARVIS TYNER, Chairman of the W.E.B. DuBois Clubs of America (DCA); FRANKLIN ALEXANDER, former DCA Chairman; and ALEXANDER's wife, CARMEN ALEXANDER; CARL BLOICE and DON HAMERQUIST.

HOLLAND indicated that JOHN STANFORD, CP Southern Organizer, was also to attend, if his schedule would allow.

HOLLAND indicated that several of the out of town Party members were "blacks" and the purpose of the meetings was two fold: 1) to allow the black Party members to make contacts with other blacks in Nashville for possible Party recruitment and 2) to have conferences with the Party members presently located in Nashville.

On October 22, 1968, it was learned that DON BONER, acknowledged Nashville CP Club leader, who actually bears the title of corresponding secretary, indicated that both he and RANDA HOLLAND had initially misconstrued the real purpose for the Nashville visit of several out of town CP members. These individuals were coming to Nashville in connection with a speaking engagement of CHARLENE MITCHELL, CP Presidential candidate, and there had been no provisions made for any recruiting activities or organizational meetings as such. BONER indicated that the Nashville Club should do all they could to facilitate the Nashville appearance of MITCHELL.

On the evening of October 22, 1968, a meeting was held at the apartment of RANDA HOLLAND, [redacted] The meeting had been called by DON BONER for the two fold purpose: SI

1) attempt to acquire support for the Presidential candidacy of DICK GREGORY and 2) to promote the Nashville speaking appearance of CHARLENE MITCHELL. The Nashville CP Club had previously decided that rather than becoming involved in an anti-WALLACE campaign they would have better results in becoming involved in a pro-GREGORY campaign. At the time BONER called the October 22, 1968, meeting, he apparently was unaware of the fact that BAXTON BRYANT, Executive Director, Tennessee Council on Human Relations, was Tennessee chairman of the GREGORY campaign and had been actively engaged in promoting the candidacy of GREGORY.

The persons in attendance at this meeting included DON BONER, RANDA HOLLAND, and RAY MARRERO, all Nashville CP Club members, and HENRY HUCLES, also known as HANK HUCLES, a Fisk University student and a leader in a Fisk organization known as the Students for a Black University. Also present were HOWARD (last name unknown), possibly BROWN, Negro male student at Fisk University; JAMES MICKEY BOOTH, Negro male, VISTA worker; SALLY KOPLIN, wife of Vanderbilt University professor; JAN PHILLIPS, member of the Board of Directors of the Southern Conference Educational Fund, Inc. (SCEF); and ANN JOHNSON of the Southern Student Organizing Committee (SSOC).

(Characterizations of SCEF and SSOC appear in the appendix section of this report.)

A discussion was held relative to the GREGORY campaign and BONER, thereafter, brought up the fact that JARVIS TYNER, Chairman of DCA, was scheduled to come to Nashville October 23, 1968. HUCLES indicated that he would be available to take TYNER around the Fisk University campus to meet people if he so desired. HUCLES indicated that his group, the Students for a Black University (SBU), was the group sponsoring the Fisk University appearance of CHARLENE MITCHELL; however, the group had not secured the university's permission for her to appear on the Fisk campus. HUCLES indicated that the SBU is putting up posters on the Fisk University campus announcing a regularly scheduled meeting on October 24, 1968, but was not making any mention publicly of the fact that MITCHELL was coming.

It was learned that on the evening of October 23, 1968, DON BONER, RANDA HOLLAND, and RAY and MARY MARRERO went to the Metropolian Airport at Nashville to meet American Airlines Flight #31, which was to arrive at 6:03 P.M. coming from Kennedy Airport, New York. They were under the impression that JARVIS TYNER would be arriving aboard this flight. They were joined by HANK HUCLES at the airport. JARVIS TYNER did not arrive as scheduled.

BONER thereafter called New York and determined that TYNER was ill, and he would not be able to come to Nashville as planned.

It was learned that CHARLENE MITCHELL was scheduled to arrive in Nashville, Tennessee, on October 24, 1968, aboard American Airlines Flight #232 at 2:49 P.M. MITCHELL was to be accompanied by Daily World reporter NORA NORTH; and CP National Committeemen DON HAMERQUIST and CAROLYN BLACK. RAY MARRERO and his wife MARY were sent to meet MITCHELL and her party; however, MITCHELL missed a connecting flight in Austin, Texas, and did not arrive at Nashville as scheduled. While at the airport the MARREROs and HOLLAND were joined by JIM RUMLEY, a CP member from North Carolina, who was also a member of SSOC and who was working in North Carolina. RUMLEY had flown from North Carolina to Nashville to attend a SSOC sponsored conference on poverty and labor, October 25 - 27, 1968. He arrived early to attend the MITCHELL speech.

CARL BLOICE, CP National Committeeman, was scheduled to arrive at Nashville at about 6:00 P.M., October 24, 1968, and arrangements were made for TOM GARDNER, Chairman of SSOC, to go out to the airport and pick up BLOICE.

MITCHELL, NORTH, HAMERQUIST, and BLACK finally did arrive at Nashville on October 24, 1968, aboard Braniff Airlines Flight #112 at 6:30 P.M. They were met by the MARREROs and JIM RUMLEY.

MITCHELL and her party thereafter departed the airport and were driven by RAY MARRERO to the apartment of RANDA HOLLAND [redacted] They stayed there only a few minutes when they received a telephone call from HANK HUCLES indicating that they should come to Fisk University inasmuch as the meeting was about to start. MITCHELL and her party thereafter went to Fisk University and proceeded to the new Livingston Hall, arriving there at 7:30 P.M.

In the meantime TOM GARDNER and ANN JOHNSON, both of SSOC, picked up CARL BLOICE at the airport and arrived at the new Livingston Hall shortly after MITCHELL and her party arrived. There were 54 black students in attendance at this meeting. A reporter for the Nashville Tennessean, ANN JOHNSON, and TOM GARDNER were not allowed to enter the meeting inasmuch as an attempt was made to exclude all whites from the meeting; however, the MARREROs, HAMERQUIST, NORTH, HOLLAND, and RUMLEY were all allowed to remain even though they were white.

The meeting was called to order by HANK HUCLES, who introduced MITCHELL and identified her as the CP Presidential candidate. MITCHELL in turn introduced CARL BLOICE as being her campaign manager.

MITCHELL was somewhat disorganized inasmuch as she had lost the first three pages of her speech, and she did considerable ad-libbing at the outset of the speech. MITCHELL's speech was not received very well by the black students in attendance and they asked several pointed questions which she had difficulty in handling. BLOICE frequently interceded when MITCHELL was experiencing difficulty.

After the speech there was a party at the apartment of DON and CAROL BONER[redacted] The party was attended by the BONERs, RANDA HOLLAND, JIM RUMLEY, RAY and MARY MARRERO, TOM GARDNER, CARL BLOICE, CHARLENE MITCHELL, DON HAMERQUIST, CAROLYN BLACK, and NORA NORTH. There was no serious discussion held at this party. This was more of a social affair. b6 b7C

Thereafter MITCHELL and her group, including CARL BLOICE, went to the SSOC house at 1703 Portland Avenue, where they spent the night.

MITCHELL and her group left Nashville on the morning of October 25, 1968, for Houston, Texas, via American Airlines while CARL BLOICE remained in Nashville to attend the SSOC conference on poverty and labor, October 25 - 27, 1968.

An article appeared in the October 29, 1968, edition of the Daily World, relative to MITCHELL's appearance captioned "Fisk Students Put Searching Queries to Mrs. Mitchell" bearing the by-line of NORA NORTH and datelined Nashville, Tennessee, October 28. The article in part indicated that the Presidential candidate for the CP, CHARLENE MITCHELL, spoke at Fisk University to about 60 members of SBU at a meeting from which non-members of the organization were barred. It was not clear whether this was due to the organization's own decision or policy set down by their dean.

The article indicated that among the questions asked by the students was the Party's views on Black Power in economic and political terms; how a political system could change the psychology of the people; the validity of running a candidate; and whether or not the Party was exploiting MITCHELL in view of her color.

The article indicated that some of the students were critical of the idea of black people getting involved with Communism and socialism on the basis of "Marx and Lenin being whities, so what can they have for black people?"

W. E. B. DU BOIS CLUBS OF AMERICA

A source advised that on October 26-27, 1963, a conference of members of the Communist Party, USA (CPUSA), including national functionaries, met in Chicago, Illinois, for the purpose of setting in motion forces for the establishment of a new national Marxist-oriented youth organization which would hunt for the most peaceful transition to socialism. The delegates were told that it would be reasonable to assume that the young socialists attracted into this new organization would eventually pass into the CP itself.

A second source has advised that the founding convention for the new youth organization was held from June 19-21, 1964, at 150 Golden Gate Avenue, San Francisco, California, at which time the name W.E.B. DuBois Clubs of America (DCA) was adopted. Approximately 500 delegates from throughout the United States attended this convention.

The second source advised in September, 1966, that Mike Zagarell, CPUSA Youth Director, stated that in Negro communities the Party still supported the plan to build "left" socialist centers and to solidify the Party base through the DCA. This source also advised in September, 1966, that Daniel Rubin, CPUSA National Organizational Secretary, stated the Party believes the DCA should have a working class outlook and be a mass organization favorable to socialism, socialist countries and Marxism, and in April, 1967, Gus Hall, CPUSA General Secretary, indicated that the DCA primary emphasis should be on developing mass resistance to the draft.

A third source advised in September, 1967, that Jarvis Tyner was elected Chairman of the DCA on September 10, 1967, near the conclusion of the Third National Convention of the DCA held in New York, New York, from September 8-10, 1967.

A fourth source advised on July 26, 1968, that Jarvis Tyner continues in his position as Chairman of the DCA.

This fourth source also advised on July 26, 1968, that Jarvis Tyner is a member of the National Committee of the CPUSA.

An article in the December, 1967, issue of "The Southern Patriot" (SP) commemorating the twentyfifth anniversary of the publication with that issue recites the following:

The Southern Conference for Human Welfare (SCHW) was organized in 1938; SP, started in 1942, as the publication of SCHW, was taken over by the Southern Conference Educational Fund, Inc., (SCEF), in the late 1940's when SCHW went out of existence. SCEF, originally the "educational wing" of SCHW, continued as an independent organization. For almost two decades, concern of SCHW and SCEF was with racial segregation and oppression of black people. In 1964, SCEF recognized that the legal back of segregation had been broken and economic and political gains were necessary if Southern life was to change. In the past few years, SCEF has also supported battles for academic freedom and the Southern movement for world peace.

> The Southern Conference for Human Welfare (SCHW) was cited as a Communist Front by the House Committee on Un-American Activities, House Report 592, June 12, 1947. In the same House Report, "The Southern Patriot" was cited as an "organ" of the SCHW.

The September, 1967, issue of SP refers to SCEF as a "community of Organizers and Writers," stating its work is centered in organizing the poor in Appalachia for political and economic power, helping white people in the Deep South find a common cause with black people, helping local groups organize action for peace and working for abolition of the "House Un-American Activities Committee".

The masthead of SP in its April, 1968, issue states "The Southern Conference is dedicated to ending racism, poverty, and other injustices in the South; it opposes war as an instrument of national policy."

Listed in the masthead are SCEF officers consisting of eight executive committee members, four executive staff members headed by Carl and Anne Braden, five office staff members and fourteen field staff members and two "Eastern Representatives."

"THE SOUTHERN PATRIOT," (SP)

Mrs. Alberta Ahearn, 2311 Payne Street, Louisville, Kentucky, a self-admitted former member of the Communist Party (CP), Louisville, Kentucky, testified on December 11 and 13, 1954, in Jefferson County, Kentucky, Criminal Court in a State sedition prosecution against Carl James Braden. She identified Carl James Braden and his wife, Anne McCarty Braden, as having been known to her as members of CP from January, 1951, to December, 1954.

A source advised on March 2, 1961, that Claude Lightfoot, a Communist Party functionary, stated at a meeting of the Communist Party in Baltimore, Maryland, on February 25, 1961, that the Communist Party has some indirect influence in SCEF.

A second source, familiar with some phases of Communist Party activity in the New Orleans area, advised on June 3, 1966, that during the time that the SCHW was in existence, members of the Communist Party were members of and worked actively in the SCHW; however, since the formation of the SCEF, Communist Party members have not been encouraged to work in the SCEF. The source stated that the SCEF is a progressive, liberal organization because it has gone along with the Communist Party on certain issues, particularly on the racial issue.

A third source advised on May 25, 1965, that George Meyers, a Communist Party functionary, expressed great admiration for Carl and Anne Braden and SCEF, which they head. He said SCEF is the best organization in the South as far as doing effective work is concerned and that they have a better idea of what they are doing, where they are heading, and they influence other organizations for the better.

The second source also advised on June 3, 1966, that many people who are officials and supporters of the SCEF, while liberal in their views, are by no means Communists.

SOUTHERN STUDENT ORGANIZING COMMITTEE (SSOC)

On November 1, 1966, a first source advised that the Southern Student Organizing Committee (SSOC) was formed on the weekend of April 3-5, 1964, to stimulate activity of Southern student groups in areas of civil rights, peace, academic freedom, civil liberties, capital punishment, and unemployment. Originally, it was to be a white counterpart of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC). It has agreed to work with similar interested groups such as SNCC and Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) and Southern Conference Educational Fund, Inc. (SCEF). SSOC is a fraternal affiliate of the SDS.

Beginning in the Fall of 1966, SSOC became a membership organization and embarked on a campaign to form local chapters on various college campuses throughout the South. SSOC publishes, October through May each year, a publication, "New South Student", which according to the above source has increasingly espoused and defended the pro-Communist and anti-United States position on domestic and foreign policy.

On July 2, 1968, a second source advised that SSOC continues to be headquartered at 1703 Portland Avenue, Nashville, Tennessee, and continues to defend and espouse the pro-Communist and anti-United States position with particular emphasis on attacking United States policy in Vietnam and emphasis on attacking the Selective Service System. Source two noted that SSOC Chairman Thomas N. Gardner in the Summer of 1967 traveled to Prague, Czechoslovakia, where he met with representatives of the National Liberation Front (NLF) and the Democratic Republic of Vietnam (DRV), and that SSOC staff members Bruce Smith and Alan Levin traveled to Cuba in the Summer of 1967 and February, 1968, respectively.

By letter dated April 26, 1968, on SSOC letterhead mailed to the general SSOC membership over the signature of Mike Welch, Executive Secretary of SSOC, it was announced that as a step toward close relations with the Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) and better communications with the movement nationally, SSOC and SDS have worked out an exchange of the "New South Student" and the "New Left Notes", and that SDS and SSOC were exchanging contact lists of their respective memberships for this exchange.

APPENDIX

SOUTHERN STUDENT ORGANIZING COMMITTEE (SSOC)

The May, 1968, issue of "New South Student" indicates that the SSOC mailing address is P. O. Box 6403, Nashville, Tennessee, 37212, Telephone Number 615-291-3537, and the masthead describes the organization as "An association of young concerned Southerners dedicated to social change," as taken from the preamble of the SSOC constitution.

Re: COMMUNIST PARTY (CP), USA; TRADE UNION COMMISSION MEETING
FEBRUARY 21, 1969
268 7th AVENUE, NEW YORK, NEW YORK

On February 24, 1969, a confidential source advised that on February 21, 1969, a Communist Party (CP), USA Trade Union Commission meeting was held at 268 7th Avenue, New York, New York.

The meeting got underway about 8:00 p.m. with the following CP national leaders in attendance:

GEORGE MEYERS
IRVING POTASH
JAMES WEST
RALPH NELSON
BURT NELSON
TOM DENNIS
PHIL BART
A. KRCHMAREK

Also present were a Negro male from 50 to 55 years of age and a white male about 26 years of age.

GEORGE MEYERS, who is the Labor Secretary of the CP, USA, opened the meeting. He explained that some national leaders he had invited were not able to attend the meeting. MEYERS then suggested that TOM DENNIS act as Chairman of the meeting. This was approved by those present.

MEYERS then stated that JIM WEST would report on the CP publication, "Labor Today", and that GEORGE MORRIS would arrive later and also make a report on Steel.

WEST then told the group that "Labor Today" is presently located in Chicago, Illinois and has been supported by CP Districts throughout the country during the past year. WEST stated that various CP Districts had sent lists of names of Trade Union workers, who might be interested in the publication and had also sent money to the publication.

WEST stated that there was an Executive Staff for the publication, but that the editor had been doing a lot of the work. He called for those present to go back to their various Districts and try to increase the circulation of the publication.

During WEST's talk, GEORGE MORRIS arrived. Following WEST's talk, MORRIS gave a rundown on the last elections in various steel unions. He pointed out that a major steel union, which is headed by a Mr. ABEL, had been the recipient of complaints from the membership with regard to equal opportunities, speed-up and working conditions in general. MORRIS said that ABEL, since he had taken over, had done little or nothing for the rank and file steel worker. MORRIS said that it was an opportunity for the CP, USA to engage in activity within the various steel unions and that such activities might lead to new CP members from that area.

During the discussions that followed, both reports were approved, and those present agreed to do their best to increase the circulation of "Labor Today" and to increase their activities among steel workers.

COMMUNIST INFILTRATION

Considerable time was devoted during the aforementioned retreat discussing an activity which might be appropriate for SCLC and other civil rights organizations to indulge in on April 4, 1969 in commemoration of the assassination of Reverend Martin Luther King, Jr., former President, SCLC.

Another matter discussed at appreciable length was additional activity on the part of SCLC's Voter Registration and Political Education Department under the direction of Hosea Williams.

SCLC contemplates in the very near future stepping up its Voter Registration and Political Education Program in the states of Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi, North Carolina and possibly Virginia. In each of these states, emphasis will be placed on registering all qualified Negro voters and at the same time educate these voters in order that they will be able to select and support political candidates whose election will be most beneficial to the Negro. When considered desirable, SCLC will furnish financial assistance to the campaign efforts of appropriate candidates.

Through these efforts, SCLC is confident that within a two year period, it will be able to control the Negro vote in each of these several states to the best advantage of the civil rights movement. At the same time, however, SCLC is apprehensive to a degree that its efforts will be met with some subtle opposition on the part of President Richard Nixon and his administration.

FREEDOMWAYS ASSOCIATES, INC.

The records of the New York State Secretary of State, Albany, New York, show that the Certificate of Incorporation of Freedomways Associates, Inc., was filed on March 2, 1961.

On May 24, 1961, a source advised that a report was given on "Freedomways" at a meeting of the National Board, Communist Party, United States of America (CP, USA), held on May 24, 1961. It was stated that the central purpose of "Freedomways" is to develop a theory and positive criticism of currents in the Negro Movement, as well as to raise the level of understanding and discussion taking place in Negro life today and to project a socialist and pro-Soviet orientation. (C) (U)

On May 25, 1961, a second source advised that "Freedomways" was set up for the CP, USA by JAMES JACKSON. (C) (U)

The second Quarter, 1968, issue of "Freedomways", self-described as "A Quarterly Review of the Negro Freedom Movement" published by Freedomways Associates, Incorporated, 799 Broadway, New York City, lists the following as its editorial staff:

JOHN HENRIK CLARKE	Associate Editor
ESTHER JACKSON	Managing Editor
J. H. O'DELL	Associate Managing Editor
JOHN L. DEVINE	Art Editor

"The Worker" an East Coast Communist newspaper, June 25, 1967, Page 10, contained an article on a memorial to MIKE GOLD held at Town Hall, New York City, the previous Friday night. It said that one of the speakers was JOHN HENRIK CLARKE of "Freedomways".

"The Worker", May 21, 1967, Page 3, contained an article on the death of MIKE GOLD on May 15, 1967, in San Francisco, California. It described him as having been an author and columnist for "The Worker" for 32 years. It noted that he joined the CP "shortly after it was founded and to which he adhered till the day he died".

A third source advised on February 16, 1968, that a committee from the 6th Assembly District Club, Kings County CP, visited BUNNY DEVINE, a member of that club, on February 14, 1968, to determine why she had not attended club meetings for more than one year. BUNNY DEVINE said she had talked with JAMES JACKSON about the possibility of organizing a new club in their area with members of their intellectual and cultural level and that he was in favor of it. She said she believed her husband, JOHN DEVINE, and ESTHER JACKSON would join such a club.

A fourth source advised on April 16, 1968, that JAMES JACKSON, husband of ESTHER JACKSON, is the Chairman of the International Affairs Department, CP, USA.

The fourth source advised on May 1, 1967, that, as of April, 1967, O'DELL was considered by the CP, USA, as being a member of its National Committee. (U)

(JN T-2; 11/25/68)

A statewide Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party meeting was held on the afternoon of Sunday, January 5, 1969, at the Masonic Temple on Lynch Street, in Jackson, Mississippi. About 300 to 350 persons were in attendance. Guest speakers included JULIAN BOND, Negro male, Georgia legislator, and Reverend CHANNING PHILLIPS, Negro male, of Washington, D. C., who was the first Negro ever to be nominated by the Democratic Party for the President of the United States.

New officers were selected at this meeting and they are as follows:

Chairman - CLIFTON WHITLEY, Negro male from West Point, Mississippi

Vice Chairman - FANNIE LOU HAMER, Negro female from Ruleville, Mississippi

Executive Secretary - AL RHODES, JR., Negro male from Jackson, Mississippi

Office Manager - JOE HARRIS, Negro male from Sunflower, Mississippi

(JN T-2; 1/7/69)

It would appear that the Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party is becoming more politically motivated and less concerned with civil rights.

ENCLOSURE

Dear Friend: February, 1969

Never in our country's history has the freedom struggles of black men, women and youth failed to deepen and enrich the content of democracy. This is true of the formative period of these United States. It is more true today.

The Underground Railroad and slave uprisings stimulated the activities of the Abolitionists and gave great impetus to revolutionary currents that lead to the Civil War and the military defeat of the slave oligarchy.

No social force in American life made greater efforts to give positive meaning to bourgeois preachments in human relations than have black Americans. They bear no responsibility for its failure, its exploitatory character or dehumanizing nature. If their efforts have been abortive the reason lies in the power of reaction to divide the country along color-lines.

The freedom movements of black Americans is worthy of closest study. They are today strong currents in the liberation struggles of all mankind, and should be seen in that light. Black men in the USA face humanity's most vicious foe. They face a monumental responsibility.

A fierce idological struggle is being waged for the minds of men, especially black men, in the USA.

Read, study, prepare yourselves for the impending battles. There are no books or pamphlets in this list that will not be of help to you.

The first session of the West Coast Conference of the Communist Party (CP) on Black Liberation was held on Friday night, February 14, 1969 at the headquarters of the "People's World" (PW), 81 Clementina Street, San Francisco. It began at 8:00 p.m. Mickey Lima, Chairman of the Northern California District (NCD) of the CP was chairman of this session. He explained that this was a regional meeting hosted by the NCDCP. Charlene Mitchell from the National Office of the CPUSA was present. She is the head of the CP's Black Liberation Movement and program and has full responsibility for it. William L. Patterson, also a national officer of the CP, USA, was present. The Friday night session was devoted to preparing the agenda for the session of the conference to be held on the following day. It was agreed that the conference would discuss only the Black Liberation program and that the discussion would be based on the following:

A. A paper on the Black Panther Party (BPP) which had been prepared by Roscoe Proctor and Ronald Stevenson, Sr.

B. The portion of the "Communist Party, USA Draft Main Political Resolution" dated January 1969 which deals with the black liberation program of the Party. This will be referred to hereinafter as the resolution.

C. The portion of the "New Program of the Communist Party, USA, Second Draft (Revised)" dated January 1969, relating to black liberation. This will subsequently be referred to as the program. Both the resolution and the program show that they were prepared by the CP, USA, 23 West 26th Street, New York, New York.

The BW is a West Coast communist newspaper published weekly in San Francisco, California.

The second session of the West Coast Conference on black liberation was held on Saturday, February 15, 1969. Mickey Lima was chairman of this session. The first item on the agenda was the reading of the Black Panther Party report written by Roscoe Proctor and Ronald Stevenson, Sr. It was read by them. They explained that the purpose of this report was to show that the CP was not keeping step with the black liberation movement and more especially the CP was not joining forces with Negro revolutionary organizations or with Negroes as individuals and, therefore, was not keeping abreast with the activities in the Negro community. Proctor stated the result was that the CP was not able to recruit in the black community. He said another purpose of this report was to show the weaknesses in the resolution and the program as these documents did not answer the call of this black community at this time.

Roscoe Proctor and Ronald Stevenson, Sr., also known as Ronnie Stevenson, are members of the NCDCP Committee.

COMMUNIST INFLUENCE IN RACIAL MATTERS
(CIRM)

Pertinent portions of the above report on the BPP read as follows:

> "The two-year-old Black Panther Party is the fastest growing organization in black America. It is also the most radical political party to take roots among the black masses since the American Civil War . . .
> "For the first time in the history of our country, black ghetto youth have found a revolutionary political party with which they can identify, and have begun to study Marxist-Leninist classics with the aim of bringing about a revolutionary change . . .
> "The BPP leadership believes that one of the chief hold-backs in organizing the black communities is police activities. Panthers regard the police as an occupying army that intimidates black people, disturbs meetings, blocks peaceful assembly, and historically has been an unwelcome and uncontrollable element in the black community. It is considered a form of imperialist occupation controlled by the white power structure. The BPP wants an end to it. . .
> "Without a doubt the BPP regards black people in the United States as oppressed colonial people within the boundaries of the white mother country, and itself as the revolutionary vanguard political party of the black colony. . .
> "Convinced that black people would never be liberated by supporting political parties that are controlled by their oppressors, the Black Panthers moved to form a coalition with the Peace and Freedom Party and to avoid ties with the two major parties. . .

"While the BPP leadership regard their Party as an armed body for carrying out political tasks of the revolution, it cautions against any notions within their ranks which confine the Party's activities to fighting alone. . .

"The BPP regard military affairs only as one means of accomplishing political tasks and goals. . .

"The budding willingness of ministers, doctors, teachers, and lawyers to relate to the Panthers' program is leading to a unity heretofore unknown in the ghetto. . .

"The BPP is a highly disciplined organization. Its leadership regards democratic centralism as the most desirable guiding organizational principle for its party.

"However, the leaders would probably admit that at the present time the Party structure is overly balanced in the direction of centralism and orders coming down from the top. . .

"With such rapid Party growth from the streets of the black ghettos as well as from among black middle-class oriented students turned radical, such centralized leadership is understandable. . .

"However, more recently within the Party (at least among the leadership) there seems to be emerging a much more clear recognition of the Party's need to relate to the working class as a criterion and pre-condition for realizing its national liberation goal. . .

"This new awareness reflected itself in the Party's new mandatory reading list for its membership which includes--among other classics--the Communist Manifesto by Karl Marx and What is to Be Done by V. I. Lenin. . .

"It should also be noted that while some among the BPP leadership are beginning to orient also in the direction of labor, such a transition will not be automatic with its membership at large. National consciousness and national liberation remains the broadest base for cohesion within the BPP and the broadest base of appeal to its followers. . .

"With the average Panther there is still too little confidence that the American trade union movement can be educated to properly relate to the evils of racism or that it can be won to play a leading role in the struggle for a revolutionary change in the American economic system. . .

"For these reasons the more active political alliances developed by the Panthers are limited to the so-called 'new left' . . .

COMMUNIST PARTY (CP), USA
NORTHERN CALIFORNIA DISTRICT (NCD)

COMMUNIST INFLUENCE IN RACIAL MATTERS
(CIRM)

> "To the extent that the germ of working class orientation within the BPP leadership continues to grow, the Party strategy for revolution will also change . . .
> "They will develop a greater appreciation for industrial productive capacity as a means of realizing their economic programs. . .
> "Rather than mere harassment of the man's economy, they will begin to see the possibility and the probability of bringing it to a halt and taking it over intact."

Following the reading of the BPP report, a young Negro man from Los Angeles, California told of the black caucus that the CP held in Los Angeles that had passed the resolution which had been approved by the Southern California District of the CP and was now being presented to this West Coast Conference for approval. The resolution was that the word "Negro" be dropped from use in all CP publications and writings, and that the word "blacks" would be substituted therefore. At the conference this resolution was approved. The same man went on to criticize the Resolution and Program of the CP as being weak and ineffectual.

Roscoe Proctor explained that when the report prepared by him and Stevenson on the BPP was received by the National Office of the CP, USA, it was rejected because it did not conform with the CP line. He stated they had been instructed to rewrite the report so that it would conform, but that they had refused to do so. A motion was made at the conference and carried to the effect that the report on the BPP as prepared by Proctor and Stevenson be printed in the magazine section of the "Daily World" even though the report does not conform to the CP line on black liberation. Charlene Mitchell spoke regarding the Program and the Resolution, and an article in "Political Affairs" written by Claude Lightfoot. She pointed up weaknesses in all three of these writings. She said the program was at least ten years behind the times and that the Party had been wrong in all of its positions regarding black liberation. She declared she believed that both the Program and the Resolution should be completely scrapped in regard to black liberation. Several other persons from the NCDCP spoke opposing the program and the resolution pointing out weaknesses. Including some of those that spoke were Al Thibodeaux, Al Richmond and Mickey Lima, all of whom are members of the NCDCP Committee.

William Patterson said that the Resolution and Program as it regards black liberation, was the very best thing to come out of the CP in the past ten years and that it showed a forward step by the Party. He said that the CP does fight for and does retain its vanguard role. He said that the national leadership has spent many hours in conversations with comrades and in deliberations, and that many committees throughout the country had submitted opinions on the subject. He declared that the consensus of the opinions of the committees and of the above conversations and deliberations were condensed into the above documents of the CP, USA.

Charlene Mitchell summarized the discussions, saying the CP could advance the black liberation movement, regain its vanguard role and save itself if it did the following:

(1) Call for action instead of just stating what had happened in the past.

(2) Take leadership in current situations such as those at San Francisco State College.

(3) Establish working relations with other revolutionary organizations like the Black Panther Party.

(4) Establish itself in black communities through cultural centers and similar projects.

This session of the meeting and the conference adjourned approximately 8:45 p.m. on February 15, 1969. Representatives of the CP from Los Angeles, California, Seattle, Washington and Portland, Oregon were at the above conference.

BLACK PANTHER PARTY, aka
Black Panther Party for

According to its official newspaper, the Black Panther Party (BPP) was started during December, 1966, in Oakland, California, to organize black people so they can take control of the life, politics, and the destiny of the black community. It was organized by Bobby George Seale, BPP Chairman, and Huey P. Newton, BPP Minister of Defense. Newton is presently serving a sentence of 2 to 15 years on a conviction of manslaughter in connection with the killing of an Oakland police officer.

The official newspaper, "The Black Panther," which further describes itself as the "Black Community News Service," states that the BPP advocates the use of guns and guerrilla tactics in its revolutionary program to end oppression of the black people. Residents of the black community are urged to arm themselves against the police who are consistently referred to in the publication as "pigs" who should be killed.

"The Black Panther" issue of September 7, 1968, contains an editorial by BPP Minister of Education, George Mason Murray, which ends with the following:

"Black men. Black people, colored persons of America, revolt everywhere! Arm yourselves. The only culture worth keeping is a revolutionary culture. Change. Freedom everywhere. Dynamite! Black Power. Use the gun. Kill the pigs everywhere."

Included in the introduction to an article appearing in the October 5, 1968, edition of "The Black Panther" is the statement, "...we will not dissent from American Government. We will overthrow it."

Issues of "The Black Panther" regularly contain quotations from the writings of Chairman MAO Tse-tung of the People's Republic of China and feature MAO's statement that "political power grows out of the barrel of a gun."

The national headquarters of the BPP is located at 3106 Shattuck Avenue, Berkeley, California. Branches have been established at various locations throughout the United States.

III. COMMUNIST PENETRATION AND INVLUENCE IN RACIAL ORGANIZATIONS

A meeting of the University of Illinois (U of I) Young Socialist Alliance (YSA)* and Young Socialists for Halstead-Boutelle (YSHB)* on November 3, 1968, considered the possibility of bringing a Black Panther Party (BPP)* representative from Chicago, Illinois, to the U of I campus, Champaign-Urbana, Illinois. Plans were to hold a "Revolutionary Work Shop" at the U of I, possibly on November 16, 1968, during which it was hoped that in conjunction with the BPP, consideration could be given to organizing YSA in various local high schools.

The January 11, 1969, issue of "The Daily Illini", U of I daily newspaper, on pages 1 and 2, reported as follows:

"Officials of the Black Panther Party (BPP) in Chicago, Illinois, including FRED HAMPTON, Deputy Chairman; BOBBY RUSH, Deputy Minister of Defense; and DIANE DUNN, Secretary of Labor, appeared at the University of Illinois on the evening of January 10, 1969. Their appearance on campus was sponsored by the Black Students Association and Students for a Democratic Society (SDS)*."

The request for space at the Natural History Building of the University of Illinois for the BPP meeting held on January 10, 1969, was signed by VICTOR BERKEY, who signed as President of the U of I Chapter of SDS.

(SI T-2, January 14, 1969)

The January 27, 1969, edition of the Decatur Herald, Decatur, Illinois, a daily publication, in an article entitled "SDS Chapter Forming Here", reported that the chapter is being formed at Stephen-Decatur High School and eventually chapters are to be formed at all local high schools.

* A characterization of this organization may be found in the Appendix of this report.

The article also revealed that "other support has been added by GEORGE GRAYNED, President of LABA."

The January 16, 1969, edition of the Decatur Review, a Decatur, Illinois, daily newspaper, revealed that GEORGE GRAYNED, former President of the Local Association for Black Action (LABA) was in the process of forming a Black Panther Party Chapter in Decatur, Illinois.

Among a group of non-YSA members at the 8th YSA Convention, November 28 - December 1, 1968, at Chicago, Illinois, was one EZELLU GAFFETTA, identified as a "Panther, BSA".

(SI T-1, February 6, 1969.)

On February 9, 1969, representatives of YSA and SDS at the U of I met to discuss a possible protest on February 10, 1969, concerning the arrests of several BPP members from Chicago, Illinois, during a visit to Champaign-Urbana, Illinois. On February 10, 1969, it was the consensus of YSA members that that organization would lend support to the BPP in their protest of the above mentioned arrests.

(SI T-1, February 10, 1969)

YOUNG SOCIALIST ALLIANCE

The May, 1960, issue of the "Young Socialist" (YS), Page 1, Column 3, disclosed that during April 15-17, 1960, a national organization entitled "The Young Socialist Alliance" (YSA) was established at Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. This issue stated that this organization was formed by the nationwide supporter clubs of the publication YS.

The above issue, page 6, set forth the Founding Declaration of the YSA. This declaration stated that the YSA recognizes the Socialist Workers Party (SWP) as the only existing political leadership on class struggle principles, and that the supporters of the YS have come into basic political solidarity with the SWP on the principles of revolutionary socialism.

On March 10, 1967, a source advised that the YSA was formed during 1957, by youth of various left socialist tendencies, particularly members and followers of the SWP. The source further advised that the YSA has recently become more open about admitting that it is the youth group of the SWP and that an SWP representative has publicly stated that the YSA is the SWP's youth group.

The National Headquarters of the YSA are located in Room 532-536, 41 Union Square West, New York City.

On October 31, 1967, a second source advised that at the 22nd National Convention of the SWP held in New York City from October 26, 1967, to October 29, 1967, it was stated that the YSA remained as the main recruiting ground for new SWP members.

The SWP has been designated pursuant to Executive Order 10450.

YOUNG SOCIALISTS FOR HALSTEAD-BOUTELLE (YSHB)

On December 6, 1967, SI T-2 advised that YSHB petitioned the University of Illinois for official recognition effective November 9, 1967, and its stated purpose is as follows:

"The purpose of YSHB will be to support the 1968 Presidential ticket of the Socialist Workers Party (SWP) as a positive alternative to the Democratic and Republican Parties."

According to SI T-2, the Constitution of YSHB states that members need not necessarily agree with all planks of the SWP platform, but must endorse the above purpose.

DATE OF REVIEW 3-6-89

On March 4, 1969, a source advised as follows: (U)

On February 24, 1969, the Commission on Black Liberation of the Communist Party, United States of America (CPUSA) met in a one-day session at New York, New York. There were approximately twenty-two CPUSA National Committee members present. (U)

The agenda for this meeting was to review the work of the Commission on Black Liberation and to make further proposals for pre-Convention discussion. (U)

WILLIAM PATTERSON was selected as Chairman for this meeting. (U)

The principal discussion concerned the attitude of the CPUSA toward the ten-point program of the Black Panther Party (BPP). (U)

CHARLENE MITCHELL took a leading role in denouncing the current CPUSA line on Black Liberation, and allied herself completely with outright black nationalism, as expressed by STOKELY CARMICHAEL and the BPP. She pointed out that her own brothers have been threatened with physical harm by white people, and she is not going to tell them not to use arms for their own defense. She said the black man has to be the judge of when he will resort to arms in this situation. (U)

When she was asked "What is the BPP program?", she answered, "One point is to drive the white pigs out of our community." (U)

JAMES JACKSON, who was fuming at this time, attempted to show that the current CP line is correct, and quoted LENIN on the use of a political line rather than arms and guerrilla action, as the only real basis for solving this problem. JACKSON also said that any acceptance of the BPP program will decimate the Negro people. (U)

At this time, CARL BLOICE, HERB APTHEKER and CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT were equally vociferous in denouncing the CP policy on Black Liberation and demanding support for the BPP. (U)

During the discussion, it was stated there are a total of forty-four functioning BPP organizations in the United States. TOM DENNIS stated that there is one now functioning in Detroit, and it is off to a good start. (U)

A series of motions were made and passed that the CPUSA accept the BPP program; that there be developed as close a relationship with the BPP as the BPP will allow, and not only to work closely with the BPP, but also to join the organization if this can be done. (U)

According to the source, this acknowledgement by the Commission on Black Liberation is a decided sharp shift by the CPUSA away from an emphasis on the standardized Marxist position on nationalism and use of arms to an acceptance of violence, as advocated by the BPP. (U)

WILLIAM PATTERSON is a National Committee member from New York

CARL BLOICE is a National Committee member from New York and a writer on the "Daily World," an East Coast communist newspaper.

CHARLENE MITCHELL was the CPUSA presidential candidate in 1968, is a National Committee member from southern California, and Field Secretary of the Commission on Black Liberation.

HERB APTHEKER is a National Committee member from New York.

JAMES JACKSON is a National Committee member from New York and Chairman of the Party's International Affairs Commission.

CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT is a National Committee member from Illinois and Chairman of the Party's National Negro Affairs.

TOM DENNIS is a National Committee member from Michigan.

The October, 1966, BPP platform and program, as set out in the March 3, 1969, issue of "The Black Panther," published weekly by the BPP, Box 2967, Custom House, San Francisco, California, contains the following statements on the use of violence under Point Six, as follows:

RE: COMMUNIST INFLUENCE IN RACIAL MATTERS

"We will protect ourselves from the force and violence of the racist police and the racist military by whatever means necessary." U

Point Seven of the program is as follows: U

"We want an immediate end to police brutality and murder of black people. We believe we can end police brutality in our black community by organizing black self-defense groups that are dedicated to defending our black community from racists, police oppression and brutality. The Second Amendment to the Constitution of the United States gives a right to bear arms. We, therefore, believe that all black people should arm themselves for self-defense." U

COMMUNIST INFLUENCE
IN RACIAL MATTERS

On March 19, 1969, a confidential source advised that on March 16, 1969, there was held a Conference on Black Liberation sponsored by the Black Liberation (Negro affairs) Commission, Communist Party (CP) of Illinois, at the YWCA, 1001 North Dearborn Street, Chicago, Illinois, with approximately 47 individuals in attendance. Included in attendance was Claude Lightfoot, Chairman of the Black Liberation Commission, CP, USA, and Charlene Mitchell, National Field Secretary, Black Liberation Commission, CP, USA, both of whom are affiliated with National CP, USA Headquarters in New York City.

Lou Disken, a member of the State Board, CP of Illinois, called the conference to order and introduced Earl Durham, Chairman of the Black Liberation Commission, CP of Illinois, as the main speaker.

Durham stated that his presentation will be based on discussions held at meetings of the Illinois CP State Board and Illinois CP Black Liberation Commission. He said that there are a lot of questions to be answered and obviously we will have to dig deeper to find the answers. For instance, there is the disappearance of the Coordinating Council and Community Organizations (CCCO), an organization formed in Chicago to coordinate civil rights activities, which at one time embraced 45 separate community organizations. Why has there been a vaccum since the dissolvement of CCO? We should also determine why the Chicago Transit Workers failed in their struggle and why broader support was never mobilized in their behalf.

Durham stated that political action has been the greatest area in which the Party has participated. The National Conference for New Politics Convention (NCNP), held in 1967 in Chicago, brought together all major political trends existing at that time. The black caucus which eventually was established at the NCNP convention tested our political line. The Party withstood the test quite well. Our line was not anti-white nor anti-New Party, but pro-equality was utilized in making the decision as to the direction in which the NCNP was going. In this connection Durham briefly spoke of the leading roles of which he, Claude Lightfoot, Charlene Mitchell and Ish Flory, the latter also a member of the Black Liberation Commission, CP, of Illinois, played in the black caucus in the NCNP Convention. Durham stated that the black youth must be considered an area of special concentration. College campuses and high schools all are active in boycotts and protests which leads us to believe that a revolutionary ferment is taking place among the black youth. The Black Panther Party (BPP) (a characterization of which is contained hereinafter), may be the answer if it can be advised and taught a Marxist-Leninist approach. One of the problems we have is that of the growing conservatism among the black people. The black consortium represents 30 black organizations. This group must be understood by our Party and these organizations must be dealt with, as some of us feel, do as the Italians do; that is, establish a mafia and take a piece of the action, but do not change the system. This, however, can never successfully be done as the main target is to change the system.

Durham then spoke of white racism pointing out that there is no such thing as white chauvinistic radicals in our Party. The white Party leadership has failed all across the Party to speak out against white racism. In spite of the fact that there have been many opportunities for comrades in their own communities to take a stand against racism.

Durham then gave a historical background of racism and as to why ithas been utilized as a weapon by the ruling class. He also spoke of the constant use of racism utilized to divide the black and white worker in order that both can better be exploited by monopoly capitalism.

At this point those in attendance were divided into three discussion groups and each group was instructed to discuss black liberation based on personal experiences and then report back.

In one of the groups Herb Wright, Secretary of the Black Liberation Commission, CP of Illinois, reported that he was instrumental in forming a black-white political party in Maywood, Illinois, and also told of the progress which the group had made toward winning the village official election on April 5, 1969. He pointed out that black and white unity has been established in Maywood

The three discussion groups again reconvened and reports were made by the various individuals so designated.

Lou Disken introduced Charlene Mitchell as Field Secretary of the Black Liberation Commission, CP, USA. In her remarks Mitchell stated that it is impossible for the working class to come to power in the United States without black and white unity. White racism is the most important factor to be dealt with. We must also learn the differences between reform and revolution as both must be made very clear. The demands by black students at various universities and colleges is more significant than one may suspect. The demands for black studies, history, etc., is the beginning of changing the structure of the universities and colleges. Once the demands are met, they then are more than reforms for actually they are then a revolutionary step in putting forth the black people as a new force in our country. This in turn could revolutionize the educational system in our country.

Mitchell stated that one of the main weaknesses in our CP Political Draft Resolution is that of dealing with women. If women compromise 37% of the work force and 51% of the population in our country, we must, by all means, involve women in all spheres of the Party's work and activity.

Mitchell then stated that of all the literature which the Party distributed, we do not have one small pamphlet dealing with white racism. If racism is important, and we say it is, the Party must make available a pamphlet on how to fight racism.

Claude Lightfoot summarized the conference by first praising Earl Durham for his report stating that it was timely and has added a great deal to our Pre-convention discussion on black liberation. Lightfoot stated that the capitalists in our country have spent billions of dollars to install distrust among the working class. You must have faith and confidence in us and your class. We have enough power in this conference room to shake up this "damn" town (Chicago).

This we could do if we decided not to pay the high rents or that we demand justice for the Black Transit Workers in Chicago. There also are enough of us in this room to start boycotts that would shake up the power-structure in this town.

Lightfoot further praised Durham by pointing out that within the last ten years Durham has written a history in Chicago. Durham has manuevered behind the scenes in all of the black organizations to raise their effectiveness and push the Party's program.

Lightfoot stated that all we need is confidence and we could do wonders. We can build the Party ! He stated that it is not enough just to speak to the masses, rather we must forget reforms and build a revolution.

RE: PUBLIC APPEARANCE OF COMMUNIST PARTY LEADERS;

On February 27, 1969, a source advised CHARLENE MITCHELL, from New York, New York, planned to come to Miami, Florida, on March 5 or 6, 1969, at the invitation of the Miami Communist Party (CP). (U)

CHARLENE MITCHELL was the Communist Party, United States of America (CPUSA) presidential candidate in 1968; is a National Committee member from southern California, and Field Secretary of the Commission on Black Liberation, according to a second source on March 4, 1969.

On March 5, 1969, the first source advised that MITCHELL arrived at Miami, Florida via National Airlines Flight #55 from New York at 12:35 PM, March 5, 1969. (U)

APPEARANCES ON RADIO AND TELEVISION

On March 6, 1969, BILL SMITH, Radio Station WKAT, Miami Beach, Florida, advised he personally interviewed CHARLENE MITCHELL on Television Channel 2, during the evening of March 5, 1969. This interview lasted approximately two hours, at which time MITCHELL expounded the CPUSA line on a variety of issues.

SMITH also advised that MITCHELL was scheduled for an interview on Radio Station WKAT at 12:00 noon, March 6, 1969. This interview took place.

APPEARANCE AT THE UNIVERSITY OF MIAMI, CORAL GABLES, FLORIDA

On March 12, 1969, the first source advised MITCHELL spoke at the Whitten Union on the University of Miami campus at 7:00 PM, March 6, 1969. She was sponsored by the Undergraduate Student Government of the University. There were approximately two hundred students present, including four black students.

The speech by MITCHELL, from beginning to end, was a denunciation of the American way of life and a glorification of the Soviet Union. It was a complete presentation of the policies of the CPUSA, which follow those of the Soviet Union. During her speech, she strongly defended STOKELY CARMICHAEL and hailed socialist Cuba. She stated the Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) on our campuses must be stronger, although she does not agree with everything they do.

There were only a few occasions when the audience politely clapped. In the main, the audience was very antagonistic. On numerous occasions, her answers to questions brought on laughter. Many of the questions asked by Cuban students were either not specifically answered, or were ignored. Several students stood up and denounced in strong terms the intervention in Czechoslovakia by the Soviet Union, the atrocities committed during the STALIN regime, and anti-Semitism in the Soviet Union. When MITCHELL did answer these questions, she followed the current line of the CPUSA.

She was so exhausted from the numerous embarrassing questions and hostile reception, that she appeared to end her speech abruptly.

On March 11, 1969, a third source advised that the general text of MITCHELL's speech at the University of Miami was pro-Soviet Union in nature, and was directed toward racism in the United States. She felt that the SDS was a very worthy group, as all it was attempting to do was bring true democracy to the United States, by defeating racism.

She was also very critical of the thinking of the present administration in its belief that to defeat inflation there must be an increase in the number of people on unemployment.

This was a very noisy meeting, and many embarrassing questions were asked of her by those in attendance, especially the Cubans. She became very perturbed toward the end of the question period, and ended up screaming into the microphone. Generally speaking, those in attendance appeared to be very unhappy with her presence on the campus.

The SDS is characterized in the Appendix of this memorandum.

On March 12, 1969, the first source advised the Miami CP was very perturbed over the reception which MITCHELL received at the University of Miami. Party memberssaid it was evident that the Cuban students were well organized and deliberately planned to embarrass her. The Party was very disappointed also that there were so few black students present, and if there were any Party sympathizers, they did (U) not show any courage by remaining silent. Following her speech, only a few students went over and personally thanked her. (U)

The Miami CP feels that the speech was worth the effort, even though the results were disappointing. They feel that at least the CPUSA had an open speaker on the campus, and the way is open for additional inroads of this kind. (U)

LUNCHEON AT BISCAYNE CAFETERIA

The first source advised that on Friday noon, March 7, 1969, there was a luncheon to hear MITCHELL at the Biscayne Cafeteria, 1917 Biscayne Boulevard, Miami.

There were approximately one hundred in attendance, mainly elderly women, and six black people.

The luncheon was chaired by ESTHER WILLIAMS.

On March 4, 1969, the second source advised WILLIAMS is a CP member and Financial Secretary of the Miami CP. (U)

The reception given MITCHELL at the luncheon was very good. Although some of the questions which were asked could have been embarrassing, such as charges of anti-Semitism in Poland and the Soviet Union, MITCHELL handled it well, and in general the audience was friendly. Actually, the majority of questions were asked by Miami CP people, and were not of an embarrassing nature. Their questions concentrated on the oppression of black people in the United States and the exploitation of women in our society. MITCHELL stated openly that she spoke for the CPUSA.

SPEECH AT CENTER FOR DIALOGUE

On March 12, 1969, the first source advised MITCHELL spoke at the Center for Dialogue, 2175 Northwest 26th Street, Miami, on Friday evening, March 7,1969. This Center is a forum for public discussions, and is connected with a local Lutheran church. (U)

There were approximately thirty-five persons at this meeting, mainly young people, and ten black people. She spoke openly as a representative of the CPUSA, and defended its policy in Czechoslovakia, Israel and Vietnam. Although several questions were of an 'anti-Soviet flavor," the audience was primarily sympathetic with her, and she received a warm reception. (U)

At the close of the meeting, AL FEATHERSTON dropped in, greeted MITCHELL, and spoke very briefly. (U)

A total of $23 was raised during the meeting for her expenses. (U)

ALFRED DWIGHT AMOS FEATHERSTON advised HENRY S. CARR of San Antonio, Texas, in April, 1964, that he had for a while worked getting supplies for FIDEL CASTRO while CASTRO was leading a guerrilla war against the Cuban Government, and that he continued to assist CASTRO until CASTRO took over control of Cuba. FEATHERSTON told CARR he is a great admirer of CASTRO.

RE: PUBLIC APPEARANCE OF COMMUNIST PARTY LEADERS;
CHARLENE MITCHELL
INTERNAL SECURITY - C

On September 9, 1964, FEATHERSTON informed a member of the San Antonio, Texas Police Department that he had resigned from a civil rights organization, as they believed in non-violence, and he believes in violence.

On January 30, 1969, a fourth source advised FEATHERSTON recently returned to Miami, and had been bragging he had been to Cuba by flying first to Spain. While in Cuba, he talked with FIDEL CASTRO. He had only praises for CASTRO, and continues to degrade the United States.

ATTITUDE OF MITCHELL TOWARD BLACK PANTHER PARTY (BPP)

The Black Panther Party (BPP) is characterized in the Appendix of this memorandum.

On March 10, 1969, a fifth source advised that during MITCHELL's stay in Miami Beach, Florida, she commented that her brother is a member of the BPP in northern California. She also said that the BPP is willing to work with white groups, but does not want to be told what to do. She said the BPP is the only black militant organization interested in international affairs, and this was shown by its participation in the Hemispheric Conference to End the Vietnam War, held during the Fall of 1968 at Montreal, Canada. (U)

DEPARTURE FROM MIAMI

On March 12, 1969, the first source advised MITCHELL departed Miami via air for New York on Sunday (U)

morning, March 9, 1969. While in Miami, she stayed in the Clevelander Hotel, 1020 Ocean Drive, Miami Beach, Florida. The Miami CP took care of all of her expenses during her visit here.

Referenced communication set out information regarding the connection of VINCENT G. HARDING (Bufile 100-448519), Chairman, Department of History, Spelman College, Atlanta, with the MARTIN LUTHER KING, JR., Memorial Center (MLKMC).

Referenced airtel proposed that after pertinent file review Atlanta would submit a recommendation regarding HARDING. It was originally contemplated that effort might be made to contact HARDING seeking his cooperation as to existence of possible outside influences on the MLKMC and on CORETTA SCOTT KING.

Prior information furnished by NY 3810-S* indicates STANLEY LEVISON has been very active on behalf of the MLKMC as well as frequently advising CORETTA SCOTT KING on a variety of matters.

On 1/13/69 NY 3810-S* (New York airtel and LHM 1/15/69, "COMINFIL OF SCLC, IS - C") advised LEVISON referred to a recent meeting in Atlanta concerned with the MLKMC. "LEVISON related that this speech by MARTIN LUTHER KING, SR., devastated Professor VINCENT HARDING, who is supposed to be in charge of the center; because he is a Black Nationalist and dislikes LEVISON."

with CORETTA SCOTT KING.

In view of the foregoing, and noting HARDING's college position, it is felt we may be premature in pursuing contact of him.

The practicality of contacting HARDING will be reconsidered in 90 days and the Bureau advised at that time.

On March 9, 1969, a confidential source advised Stanley Levison and Harry Wachtel discussed the content of a statement which Wachtel was preparing for use of Coretta Scott King, widow of Martin Luther King, Jr., in the event James Earl Ray, alleged assassin of Reverend King, pleaded guilty.

According to source, Levison and Wachtel agreed on the language of this statement which when completed, in part, read as follows:

"to the family of Martin Luther King there is a sense of emotional relief, for the moment. We have been spared the trial which would compel us to re-live the fearfully tragic event of his death. But we realize this is but a respite. This plea of guilty must not be allowed to close the case, to end the search for the many fingers which helped pull the trigger. We shall press the State of Tennessee and the Federal Government to continue until all who are responsible for this crime have been apprehended. Not until then can the conscience of the nation rest".

CORETTA SCOTT KING

The Atlanta Constitution, daily Atlanta newspaper, on the front page of its March 11, 1969 edition, published an article captioned "Widow Says It's Not Over". This article referred to the plea of guilty by James Earl Ray on March 10, 1969 in Memphis, Tennessee. It set forth comments of Coretta Scott King regarding Ray's plea which in part were as follows.

(Ray's plea)- -"cannot be allowed to close the case, to end the search for the many fingers which helped pull the trigger". For her family she said "there is a sense of emotional relief". "For the moment, we have been spared a trial which would compel us to relive the fearfully tragic events of his death". "But we realize this is but a respite". According to Coretta Scott King "all concerned people must press the State of Tennessee and the U. S. Government to continue until all who are responsible for this crime have been apprehended". "Not until then can the conscience of the nation rest".

Reurlet 4/4/69.

The Bureau does not concur with your suggestion that this case be closed. At present, the racial situation in the United States, together with recent statements and actions by the Communist Party (CP) should make it evident that this investigation now requires more rather than less attention. A recent resolution by the Black Liberation Commission of the CP expressed support for the violence-prone Black Panther Party. The whole question of black liberation and the Negro will undoubtedly be of major interest at the coming CP National Convention. Also, some CP leaders, including Claude Lightfoot, are speaking of a return to the old CP position of self-determination for the Negro.

Insure that your informants are aware of the importance of closely following and reporting the CP's influence in racial matters. Afford this matter continued attention since it is apparent that a number of subversive organizations, including the CP, are attempting to exploit the racial situation.

Further, referenced letter would indicate that you may be under the impression that this investigation pertains only to the influence of the CP in racial matters. The instructions in this investigation are explicit in that this investigation includes the influence of other groups such as the Socialist Workers Party, Progressive Labor Party, and similar organizations. You should insure that personnel handling this investigation are aware of the scope of the investigation.

Re report of SA LELAND G. RICHIE dated 1/31/69, at Chicago in captioned matter, and Bureau letters to Albany dated 2/27/69, and 3/6/69, captioned "Security Investigations of Individuals."

[redacted] who have furnished reliable information in the past, have advised that the Communist Party (CP) of Illinois continues to exert little or no policy influence in the Chicago Freedom Movement. The civil rights type organizations active in the Chicago area wherein the CP has attempted to exert some influence are as follows:

b7D

Chicago Urban League (CUL)

Congress of Racial Equality (CORE)

Co-Ordinating Council of Community Organizations (CCCO)

National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP)

The above sources further advised that with the exception of the following organizations the CP exercises no influence:

Relative to the CCCO, HERBERT WRIGHT, a member of the State Committee, CP of Illinois, is an alternate delegate from the NALC to the CCCO but at the present time WRIGHT exerts very little, if any, influence in the CCCO. There has been very little CCCO activity in Chicago during the past several months.

The CP of Illinois still has LESTER DAVIS, CP of Illinois member, assigned to the Chicago Branch, NAACP. EARL DURHAM, Chairman, Negro Commission, CP of Illinois, and HERBERT WRIGHT are also members of the NAACP but at the present time these individuals are doing little or nothing to implement CP policy relative to the NAACP. Concerning the NALC, the CP of Illinois has six individuals who form a collective from the CP within the [redacted]. The main objective of this collective is to involve the NALC in a program to end discrimination against Negroes and to obtain more jobs for Negroes in the building trades. The NALC's program at the present time can be considered to be quite ineffective, according to these sources.

In view of the above, along with the data set out in referenced Bureau letters, it is requested that the Bureau consider closing this case. If the Bureau concurs, Chicago will continue however to be alert for any pertinent information concerning efforts of the CP to infiltrate civil rights type organizations. If such occurs, the Bureau will be immediately advised of pertinent details.

On December 7, 1968, JACK O'DELL and STANLEY

LEVISON agreed to meet on December 9, 1968, in order to discuss O'DELL's pending employment with SCLC. On this occasion LEVISON explained he regarded ANDREW J. On this occasion LEVISON referred to himself as one of the primary trustees of this center and said he had participated in its major planning.

(AT-T-3, 1/69)

Time magazine issue of December 1, 1967, page 28, described MARTIN PERETZ as a Harvard lecturer in Government who had contributed substantially to "Ramparts" magazine, "as well as other New Left causes." It said he was the "latest dropout" from "Ramparts" in which he had been a major stockholder. The article named his wife as ANNE FARNSWORTH, "a Singer sewing machine heiress."

STANELY LEVISON on January 13, 1969, discussed with CORETTA SCOTT KING the contents of a statement she contemplated releasing to the news media regarding the MARTIN LUTHER KING, JR., Memorial Center, Atlanta.

The Atlanta Journal, a daily Atlanta newspaper, on Page 2A, of its Blue Streak Edition on January 15, 1969, published an article bylined HARMON PERRY and captioned "KING's Widow Tells of Plans for Center."

STANLEY LEVISON on January 14, 1969, informed CORETTA SCOTT KING that the PERETZs would donate $10,000 to the MARTIN LUTHER KING, JR., Memorial Center and instructed her to have the Director of the Center arrange details of payment.

At this time, LEVISON also told CORETTA SCOTT KING he was handling a meeting between JACK O'DELL and the person (not identified) working on the movie of the life of Rev. KING.

(AT T-3, 1/69)

On January 27, 1969, STANLEY LEVISON discussed a new SCLC mail appeal with JOSEPH E. LOWERY, Chairman SCLC Board of Directors. LEVISON emphasized to LOWERY that this mail appeal should contain a statement regarding the emergence of anti-Semitism particularly in the New York area. LOWERY agreed with LEVISON and said he would bring this matter to the attention of RALPH D. ABERNATHY.

(AT T-3, 1/69)

Source, on March 3, 1969, furnished a copy of the current SCLC mail appeal letter. This letter printed on SCLC letterhead stationery reflected the date only as February, 1969. It was addressed to "Dear SCLC Supporter" signed "RALPH D. ABERNATHY" and "ANDREW J. YOUNG".

(AT T-1, 3/69)

The third paragraph of the above letter read in part as follows:

"----In some urban cities anti-Semitism has been employed to pit Negroes against Jews. Anti-Semitism is intolerable and immoral. We will fight it, as we always have, as contemptable opportunism - - as harmful to black people as to Jews - because it fosters the poison

MC DONALD explained that CORETTA KING planned to contact President RICHARD NIXON in order to discuss the MARTIN LUTHER KING, JR., Memorial Center. MC DONALD expressed apprehension that CORETTA KING might obligate herself in contacting the President. LEVISON told MC DONALD he had previously instructed CORETTA KING about contacting the President. He said no harm would be done if she took the approach she was not asking a favor but rather that the Federal Government was obligated to the Negro and the memory of Rev. (AT T-5, 4/69)

BEVEL, in early March, 1966 was observed to be present at the offices of the West Side W.E.B. DuBois Club in Chicago (DCC). Discussion took place at this time centering around reaction to a recent notification that the Attorney General of the United States intended to label the DuBois Clubs as a Communist front. BEVEL, in conversation, stated that he would have ignored this notification, and kept about the work in which he was engaged. He felt that if the DuBois Clubs have a real program of help for the people, then people would answer for the clubs despite any labels applied to them.

Most present agreed that the attack on the DuBois Clubs was a part of the plan by the "establishment" to undermine the civil rights movement. They felt that the recent hearings into Klan activities in this country was only a beginning which would lead to a full attack on the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC), the real target. One of those present stated during the course of this discussion that he was not a Communist, and to this BEVEL was overheard to reply that every thinking American should be. He stated that Negroes have not begun to read yet, but when they do, they will all be socialists.

RANDOLPH T. BLACKWELL

On February 26, 1953, a confidential source advised RANDOLPH BLACKWELL had been a member of the Communist Party in the District of Columbia.

A confidential source advised that RANDOLPH BLACKWELL attended a Labor Youth League convention on August 13, 1950, at the Algonquin Club, 1400 Fayetteville Street, Durham, North Carolina.

The Labor Youth League has been designated by the U. S. Attorney General pursuant to Executive Order 10450.

STONEY COOKS

COOKS was recently overheard in conversation during which he advised that he had traveled to Prague, Czechoslovakia, where he had attended a peace conference, not further described. While in Czechoslovakia he had met several "organizers of the Revolution" from Hanoi, North Viet Nam. COOKS had been quite impressed by these people and has subsequently appeared very knowledgeable concerning Viet Nam. It is not known whether COOKS actually visited Viet Nam during the course of his recent travel.

JACK O'DELL

The Summer, 1968, issue of "Freedomways" lists J. H. O'Dell (Jack O'Dell) as its Associate Managing Editor.

B. ORGANIZATIONS

STUDENT NONVIOLENT COORDINATING COMMITTEE

The Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC), headquartered at 360 - 362 Nelson Street, S. W., Atlanta, Georgia, is a nonmembership organization, which was born out of the sit-in movement that erupted across the South beginning in 1960.

Today SNCC identifies itself as an organization in the revolutionary vanguard. It advocates that to be successful it is necessary to develop a revolutionary ideology and revolutionary program.

According to SNCC the year 1967 marked a historic milestone in the struggle for the liberation of black people in the United States and the year that revolutionaries throughout the world began to understand more fully the impact of the black movement. SNCC declared that "liberation will come only when there is final destruction of this mad octopus -- the capitalistic system of the United States with all its life-sucking tenacles of exploitation and racism that choke the people of Africa, Asia, and Latin America. The realities of black life, together with the recognition instilled in SNCC workers forced its members to further popularize the legitimacy of self-defense and rebellions when oppression became too great."

From May, 1966, until May, 1967, Stokely Carmichael was National Chairman of SNCC. As of July, 1968, Carmichael resided in Washington, D. C., where he was affiliated with SNCC and active as temporary chairman of a black coalition group. In May, 1967, Carmichael was replaced by Hubert Geroid Brown, commonly known as H. Rap Brown, who served until June, 1968.

In June, 1968, at the Staff and Central Committee meeting of SNCC held in Atlanta, Georgia, it was decided to restructure the organization by equalization of responsibility by creating ten deputy or vice chairmanships. The primary purpose for this change is to take law enforcement pressure off any single individual.

COMMUNIST INFLUENCE

INTERNAL SECURITY - C

On April 2, 1969, a confidential source advised he had learned that a meeting of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC) Executive Staff was scheduled to be held during the latter part of March 1969. In connection with this meeting, Bernard Lafayette, Program Director, SCLC, had specifically requested Jack O'Dell to attend this meeting.

Source has previously advised that Jack O'Dell who normally resides and works in New York City, serves as a Special Aide to the President, SCLC.

In response to Lafayette's request, O'Dell traveled to Atlanta in order to attend the Executive Staff Meeting. This meeting, however, was attended by only a few SCLC staff members and lasted only a few minutes. O'Dell indicated to several members of the staff he was rather upset with such a development in view of the fact he had taken the time to travel to Atlanta to participate in the meeting at Lafayette's request.

I. COMMUNIST STRATEGY

CP, USA

LA T-1 (12/10/68 - 1/28/69)

At a meeting of the Che Lumumba Club, of the Moranda Smith Section (MSS) SCDCP, held on November 25, 1968, at 2128 Third Avenue, it was agreed that two persons from the club should become involved or acquainted with the Black Panther Party (BPP) (see appendix) and be responsible for bringing to the club a discussion of the program and demands it advocates, so that the club can make a decision as to whether it can or should relate to it.

On December 5, 1968, at a meeting of the Che Lumumba Club, MSS, SCDCP, held at 2128 Third Avenue, it was the opinion of the club that new Black people who come into the CP should not be pulled away from the Black Community. In this same context, it was agreed that KENDRA ALEXANDER (SI) a member of the SCDCP, should contact the Black Students Union, a militant Black Students organization that has disrupted activities at a number of college campuses, and become actively involved in its activities and inform the club of same.

At a meeting of the Cyril Briggs Club, MSS, SCDCP, held on January 13, 1969, at 4431 Angeles Vista Boulevard, (SI) BEN DOBBS reported that a CP District Wide Conference will be held in support of community control of schools and a Black study program on the history of the Black people's contribution to the United States. DOBBS stated that the CP supports the demand that a Black study program be a part of the school's cirriculum in America.

LA T-2 (4/2/69)

As of April 1969, BEN DOBBS was the Executive Secretary of the SCDCP.

LA T-3 (1/28/69)

At a meeting of the Executive Board members of the SCDCP, held on January 23, 1969, at 3443 Tenth Avenue, one of the members stated that on every Monday night he is conducting a class among the Junta, a Mexican group of street gangs, on Marxism. This person asked for help in bringing these youths into the CP, as they will not come directly into a CP Club. At this time, another CP member agreed to help on Monday nights to develop further Marxism among the Mexican youths who are from the gangs which is called the Junta.

LA T-2 (2/20/69)
LA T-5 (2/13/69)

On February 9, 1969, a meeting of the Negro Commission, SCDCP, was held at 1220 East 64th Street. At this meeting demands were made that there be regular meetings of the Black Commission, CP, in order to close the gap among Black CP members, as there is no cohesion and unity among the Black People in the CP.

It was also pointed out that the CP position on Black liberation has been wrong for the last ten years and that the question of the CP policy and what it does for Negro liberation must be changed. It was felt that the entire CP must be involved in Black liberation and not just Black Commissions.

At this meeting, BILL (SI) TAYLOR stated that the goal of the party is to recruit more Negro people, especially the youth.

LA T-5 (4/3/69)

As of April 1969, BILL TAYLOR was the Negro Affairs Director, SCDCP, and a member of the National Commission, CP, USA.

LA T-1 (3/12/69)
LA T-2 (2/28/69)
LA T-6 (2/20/69)

On February 11, 1969, a meeting of the Mexican and Negro Commissions, SCDCP, was held at 4245 Woolwine Street.

At this meeting it was urged that these commissions form a coalition around their problems and work together on the question of political goals and on issues of the Black and Brown Community. It was also suggested that the two commissions should meet together periodically on a regular basis to work on joint projects in the two commissions, which was one thing that had been contemplated for a long time by the party.

The view was also expressed at this meeting that the CP seems to lag behind other movements, rather than lead them as it did in earlier days when it was a vanguard of the working class. It was agreed that the party would have to resume its vanguard role if it hopes to win the respect and support of the Black and Brown people. The Mexican people present claimed that the party did not give the Mexican question the amount of exposure it should have and that this is one of the struggles where the Negro Commission should be of help. It was then decided that a sub-committee of the two commissions should be set up to meet and work out ideas to present to each commission so that progress could be made on the two commssions working together in the near future. CHARLENE MITCHELL stated she would propose to the National CP Office that a National Commission be set up of all oppressed groups.

LA T-2 (4/2/69)

As of April 1969, CHARLENE MITCHELL was a member of the National Committee, CP, USA.

LA T-1 (3/12/69)

On February 12, 1969, a meeting of the Che Lumumba Club, MSS, SCDCP, was held at 1048 Oxford Street. The main purpose of this meeting was to decide whether or not the club should dissolve. One of the reasons that the club had been established was to enable the Black party members to be in a position to better relate to the Black Community, and more easily become involved in struggles confronting the Black Community; however, the club had failed to play the role for which it was set up and a few of the members became discouraged and thought it would be just as well to give it up. It was finally agreed that even as the club was not functioning as envisioned, there was potential and efforts should be made to see that it played an effective role in the community. The point was made that the club could serve as an organ of the party to stimulate and move the entire organization to become actively involved in the Black Liberation Movement.

LA T-8 (2/24/69)

At a district wide CP meeting on February 12, 1969, held at 1251 South St. Andrews Place, during a discussion of Black liberation, BILL TAYLOR called on the party for a program and policy of positive action to curb police harassment of the Black Community. At the end of the meeting a committee was formed to work on and prepare all documents and resolutions for presentation to the convention.

LA T-3 (2/25/69)
LA T-9 (2/19/69)

On February 18, 1969, a general meeting of members of the SCDCP was held at 3875 City Terrace Drive. The purpose of this meeting was to have a preconvention discussion to prepare documents and resolutions on the question of the party's work involving the Mexican-American people, locally and throughout the Southwest.

At this meeting, BEN DOBBS stated that a national type organization of the CP is needed to deal with the Mexican question . He also believed that the question of nationalism among the Mexicans should be treated by the party as a uniting of the people of a nationalistic group. DOBBS also called for Brown caucuses in the trade unions.

Other opinions expressed at this meeting were that more Mexicans should be recruited into the CP. The general feeling of those in attendance was that the Mexicans have almost been forgotten due to the Negro emphasis.

LA T-10 (3/3/69)

At a meeting of the Negro Commission, SCDCP, on February 27, 1969, held at 2128 Third Avenue, ROSE CHERNIN said that the party must have a new and better approach regarding the BPP and Black Students Union if it were to be in the vanguard. She stated that the leadership of the Black Students Union considered themselves a Marxist - Leninist group and that they had asked her not only to take care of their defense but also to teach them classes in Marxism.

LA T-7 (4/3/69)

As of April 1969, ROSE CHERNIN KUSNITZ (SI) was the Organizational Secretary, MSS, SCDCP, and Executive Director of the Los Angeles Committee for Defense of the Bill of Rights (see appendix).

LA T-2 (3/5/69)
LA T-11 (3/3/69)

On March 1, 1969, at a district committee meeting of the SCDCP held at 1251 South St. Andrews Place, it was stated that the Black working class is being neglected and that the CP is weak in the ghettos and are not related to ghetto problems. It was also stated that the party should pay more attention to the Black Panther Party and the Black Students Union.

LA T-12 (1/24/69)

Contained in a resolution distributed to all National Committee members and organizers by the New York District Youth Conference, CP, was the statement that the strategic goal of the youth organization is to build an anti-capitalism, anti-imperialistic movement led by the CP. Its emphasis should be on the organizing of the unorganized, the most oppressed workers, Black, Mexican - American, Puerto Rican, and poor White. It felt that its community work should have a view towards influencing Black organizations.

This document further pointed out that the development of the struggles for Black liberation have shown the need for a Marxist - Leninist organization. The reason being that only this type organization can develop the analysis which can give the political leadership necessary to make strategic ties between Black and White and between imperialism and racism.

II COMMUNIST TACTICS

There is no material to report on this category during this period.

III COMMUNIST PENITRATION AND INFLUENCE IN RACIAL AND OTHER ORGANIZATIONS

LA T-10 (12/30/68)

(S) On December 29, 1968, informant learned that FRANKLIN ALEXANDER, an identified member of the SCDCP, stated that he had been assigned by the party to work with the Black Students Union and that he was putting out literature at Southwestern Junior College. He also claimed that he was working with other Black Students Union groups and was one of the few bridges the party had to the youth.

LA T-5 (1/23/69)

At a meeting of the South Central Club, MSS, SCDCP, held at 1235 West 68th Street, it was stated that members of the CP are helping the Black Students Union at Southwestern Junior College.

LA T-13 (1/18/69)

On January 7, 1969, at a small meeting of members of the BPP, it was stated that the BPP is not a communist organization. However, to accomplish its goals, the BPP may eventually have to become closely affiliated with the CP. Source advised that this could be the reason that members of the Los Angeles BPP who are suspected of being communists are allowed to remain in the organization. In view of this,

STANLEY "DEACON" ALEXANDER, a member of the SCDCP, may be formally accepted back into the Los Angeles BPP at a large general meeting. ALEXANDER, although an admitted communist, is thought to be to capable an organizer by the BPP to allow him to be expelled.

LA T-14 (1/27/69)

At a meeting of the Workers and Peasants Club, SCDCP, held on January 19, 1969, at 1734 Armacost Avenue, it was related that STANLEY "DEACON" ALEXANDER had been reinstated in the BPP. (ST)

LA T-15 (2/20/69)

At a meeting of the Cyril Briggs Club, MSS, SCDCP, held on February 17, 1969, at 1108 Menlo Avenue, it was learned that the main discussion centered around the BPP and how the CP could recruit them.

LA T-16 (2/28/69)

On February 24, 1969, a meeting of the Cyril Briggs Club, MSS, SCDCP, was held at 3048 Victoria Avenue. At this meeting ROSE CHERNIN stated that members of the BPP were now studying the revolutionary political philosophy of MARX and LENIN. She stated that although they were willing to accept party directives as valid to help their cause, they still would not join the party itself, as they felt that the CP was still dominated primarily by White persons with too few Black persons in it. The party, however, now considers the BPP a strong ally.

APPENDIX

BLACK PANTHER PARTY
Also Known As
Black Panther Party for Self Defense

According to its official newspaper, the Black Panther Party (BPP) was started during December, 1966, in Oakland, California, to organize black people so they can take control of the life, politics, and the destiny of the black community. It was organized by BOBBY GEORGE SEALE, BPP Chairman, and HUEY P. NEWTON, BPP Minister of Defense. NEWTON is presently serving a sentence of 2 to 15 years on a conviction of manslaughter in connection with the killing of an Oakland police officer.

The official newspaper, "The Black Panther" which further describes itself as the "Black Community News Service", states that the BPP advocates the use of guns and guerrilla tactics in its revolutionary program to end oppression of the black people. Residents of the black community are urged to arm themselves against the police who are consistently referred to in the publication as "pigs" who should be killed.

"The Black Panther" issue of September 7, 1968, contains an editorial by BPP Minister of Education, GEORGE MASON MURRAY, which ends with the following:

"Black men. Black people, colored persons of America, revolt everywhere! Arm yourselves. The only culture worth keeping is a revolutionary culture. Change. Freedom everywhere. Dynamite! Black Power. Use the gun. Kill the pigs everywhere."

Included in the introduction to an article appearing in the October 5, 1968, edition of "The Black Panther" is the statement "...we will not dissent from American Government. We will overthrow it".

Issues of "The Black Panther" regularly contain quotations from the writings of Chairman MAO Tse-tung of the People's Republic of China and feature MAO's statement that "political power grows out of the barrel of a gun."

The national headquarters of the BPP is located at 3106 Shattuck Avenue, Berkeley, California. Branches have been established at various locations throughout the United States.

LOS ANGELES COMMITTEE FOR DEFENSE OF THE BILL OF RIGHTS, formerly known as Los Angeles Committee for Protection of Foreign Born (LACDBR)

A source advised in May, 1968, that the LACDBR has expanded its former scope of interest relating to the foreign born, and has become a militant general defense organization allegedly seeking to safeguard the rights of all individuals, including the Foreign Born, as well as those seeking to avoid military service in the Armed Forces of the United States.

The LACDBR is a non-membership organization which is represented by an Administrative Board of about 125 individuals from loosely organized area committees interested in the work of the LACDBR. These board members are invited by ROSE CHERNIN, Executive Director of the LACDBR, who is the guiding, dominant, and motivating force behind the LACDBR. Its headquarters are maintained at 326 West Third Street, Los Angeles, California.

Another source advised in May, 1968, that ROSE CHERNIN is currently Organizational Secretary of the Moranda Smith Section of the Southern California District Communist Party (SCDCP).

MICHAEL EISENSCHER, Executive Secretary, CP of Wisconsin, and JAMES SIESENNOP, CP member, talked with WALTER LEE CHESSER, Deputy Minister of Defense of the Black Panther Party (BPP). After their talk, EISENSCHER said he found that the BPP actually talked Marxist-Leninist Theory, but in talking of a Marxist-Leninist Theory, they talked of a white and black party. EISENSCHER said he feels that issue can be straightened out eventually since there can only be one party.

The BPP planned to distribute fundraising leaflets in Milwaukee to solicit funds and support. CHESSER asked MICHAEL EISENSCHER to handle the support of the whites for the BPP and also to arrange for backers on the campuses in behalf of BPP, along with his fundraising schemes.
(Source: MI T-2, March 7, 1969)

A press release dated March 4, 1969, was received from the CPW, which reads as follows:

"Re: Black Student Demands at the University of Wisconsin - Madison"

"The State Committee of the Wisconsin Communist Party released the following statement regarding the demands of black students at the University of Wisconsin in Madison, the student strike which ensued in support of these demands, the reaction of the University Administration and City and State Governments in the use of armed repression, and in response to allegations of a conspiracy presently being used as a front for initiating a legislative witch-hunt:

"In the recent controversy at the Madison campus of U.W., the University Administration, State and local Government officials, and reactionaries throughout Wisconsin have consistently and with calculation attempted to divert public attention so as to avoid dealing with just and proper demands of black students at U.W. and elsewhere in the state for an end to racist education. The demands of the black students are justified and should receive the support of every citizen concerned with the future of education in our state. These are the demands of a people who have been systematically excluded from the benefits of higher education and opportunities for a better life due to the continued racist policies practiced at all levels of society, including the University Administration, the Board of Regents, and Government officials. The demands are a response to the needs of black people as defined by them, needs and desires which can be defined only by them. Implementation of these demands would serve to strengthen the whole educational system, for black and white, by making that system responsive to the needs of all students, by beginning to eliminate the vestiges of centuries of racist oppression and distorted racist education. White students, faculty, and white working people generally in our state must see that what the black students demand in effect, they demand for all citizens--education which serves the needs of all students to prepare them as sensitive, thinking, responsible, and capable citizens, ready to contribute to the progressive development of our society.

"The response of the University Administration to these demands has been unmoving refusal to even calmly discuss them. This uncompromising response to peaceful demonstration by the students has created a crisis at the University. The Administration has said, in effect, that they consider demands placed by black people unworthy of discussion, They turned instead to the use of the National Guard and police which provoked desparation and frustration on the part of students generally. The burden of responsibility for violence lies with the Administration. The fact that police and troops were called only further betrays the underlying racist character of the educational system, for such action is unprecedented and University officials chose to use this force against black students foremost. The breadth of student reaction was shown in the march by over ten thousand students and their supporters which took place under the guns and blades of the National Guard.

"It should be noted that with the funds wasted in the use of the Guard, many of the demands of the black students could have been met.

"The violent response of the University officials and political leaders is a concerted effort on their part to smash the development of an effective black student leadership on the campus. In taking this action they chose to ignore the views of the Student Government, numerous other student organizations, and principle itself. The legitimacy and integrity of the University as an academic institution is called into question.

"The reaction of the Legislature to these events has been to reinforce the repressive measures of the University. Establishing an 'investigating' committee is but a thin disguise on the part of racist and reactionary forces in state government to accomplish their design for a full fledged witch-hunt in Wisconsin. These are the same forces who support anti-labor legislation, who would curtail civil liberties, who stand as the roadblock to peoples' progress. They would extend and surpass the now discredited deeds of Sen. Jos. McCarthy. They would purge from our universities every student and faculty member who dissents from prevailing policy. They would eliminate the most sensitive, intelligent, and idealistic youth of our state from higher education. Combined with a gutless and compromising University Administration, they have turned our educational system into a servant of big business, a slave to the military-industrial complex.

"Let no one be deceived. This witch-hunt will not stop with students. It will be used to coerce faculty who choose to depart from prescribed conservative precepts, it will close the door to minority youth, it will place additional roadblocks in the path of working class families in their efforts to provide higher education to their sons and daughters. This campaign must be brought to a halt by every citizen who loves democracy, who cherishes civil liberties.

"There can be no compromise with racism and reaction, regardless of expedient considerations. They are an infectious cancer which must be rooted from our society. The State Committee of the Wisconsin Communist Party calls upon all progressives, labor, fighters for civil liberties, those concerned with the future of education, to give a resounding rebuff to this reactionary campaigh, lest this become a model for similar purges across the nation."

IV. MISCELLANEOUS

HERBERT APTHEKER, who is director of the American Institute for Marxist Studies (AIMS), was scheduled to speak at Tougaloo College, Tougaloo, Mississippi, on February 5, 1969.

(JN T-1; January 30, 1969)

Tougaloo College is a private, predominately Negro college of 710 students located in a rural area about five miles north of Jackson, Mississippi. It has a bi-racial staff and has been a staging area for civil rights and militant Negro activities in Mississippi since the early 1960s.

APTHEKER, on the afternoon of February 5, 1969, arrived by air from New York at Jackson Municipal Airport, where he was met by JAMES A. BROWN, white male, instructor in the Social Science Department at Tougaloo College.

At 6:40 p.m. on February 5, 1969, APTHEKER went to the Tougaloo College Chapel to deliver his speech.

APTHEKER was introduced to the audience of about 275 persons by Doctor ERNEST BORINSKI, chairman of the Tougaloo College Social Science Department. The audience was about seventy percent Negro and all ages were represented, however, most of those present were college-age students and faculty members. Numerous newsmen and photographers were present.

APTHEKER spoke on the topic "The Life and Works of W. E. B. DuBois" and his speech was cordially received by the audience. In his speech, he deseribed DU BOIS as a great Negro scholar, socialist, and world traveler. He noted that DU BOIS traveled to Alabama and Mississippi in 1904 by horse and buggy and was appalled at the whites' ugliness toward Negroes. He noted that DU BOIS, in his later years, became an avid socialist and left the United States, renouncing his citizenship.

Following his speech, which lasted about one hour, APTHEKER held a question and answer session. A newsman from the Jackson Daily News, a local daily Jackson, Mississippi, newspaper, asked APTHEKER if he was a Communist. APTHEKER admitted that he was. This newsman continued to inquire regarding APTHEKER's Communist Party background and the true reasons for APTHEKER's travel to Mississippi. Due to this questioning, APTHEKER cut short his question and answer period as he said newsmen were trying to interview him, and he wanted the question and answer session to be for the general audience. This same newsman then asked APTHEKER who financed his trip to Tougaloo College. Doctor BORINSKI quickly stood up and terminated the proceedings.

Following APTHEKER's speech, a reception was held for APTHEKER with the faculty and student leaders at Warren Hall on campus. This reception ended at about 9:35 p.m. No incidents were observed during APTHEKER's appearance on the evening of February 5, 1969.

(JN T-2; February 5, 1969)

The Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) continue to be the only legitimate civil rights organizations presently functioning within the State of Mississippi.

FREEDOMWAYS ASSOCIATES, INC.

The records of the New York State Secretary of State, Albany, New York, show that the Certificate of Incorporation of Freedomways Associates, Inc., was filed on March 2, 1961.

On May 24, 1961, a source advised that a report was given on "Freedomways" at a meeting of the National Board, Communist Party, United States of America (CP, USA), held on May 24, 1961. It was stated that the central purpose of "Freedomways" is to develop a theory and positive criticism of currents in the Negro Movement, as well as to raise the level of understanding and discussion taking place in Negro life today and to project a socialist and pro-Soviet orientation. (4)

On May 25, 1961, a second source advised that "Freedomways" was set up for the CP, USA by JAMES JACKSON. (4)

The second Quarter, 1968, issue of "Freedomways", self-described as "A Quarterly Review of the Negro Freedom Movement" published by Freedomways Associates, Incorporated, 799 Broadway, New York City, lists the following as its editorial staff:

JOHN HENRIK CLARKE	Associate Editor
ESTHER JACKSON	Managing Editor
J. H. O'DELL	Associate Managing Editor
JOHN L. DEVINE	Art Editor

"The Worker" an East Coast Communist newspaper, June 25, 1967, Page 10, contained an article on a memorial to MIKE GOLD held at Town Hall, New York City, the previous Friday night. It said that one of the speakers was JOHN HENRIK CLARKE of "Freedomways".

"The Worker", May 21, 1967, Page 3, contained an article on the death of MIKE GOLD on May 15, 1967, in San Francisco, California. It described him as having been an author and columnist for "The Worker" for 32 years. It noted that he joined the CP "shortly after it was founded and to which he adhered till the day he died".

A third source advised on February 16, 1968, that a committee from the 6th Assembly District Club, Kings County CP, visited BUNNY DEVINE, a member of that club, on February 14, 1968, to determine why she had not attended club meetings for more than one year. BUNNY DEVINE said she had talked with JAMES JACKSON about the possibility of organizing a new club in their area with members of their intellectual and cultural level and that he was in favor of it. She said she believed her husband, JOHN DEVINE, and ESTHER JACKSON would join such a club.

A fourth source advised on April 16, 1968, that JAMES JACKSON, husband of ESTHER JACKSON, is the Chairman of the International Affairs Department, CP, USA.

The fourth source advised on May 1, 1967, that, as of April, 1967, O'DELL was considered by the CP, USA, as being a member of its National Committee. (U)

Title: COMMUNIST INFLUENCE IN RACIAL MATTERS

Character: INTERNAL SECURITY - MISCELLANEOUS

Synopsis: In February, 1969, members of Southern Student Organizing Committee (SSOC), Student Liberation Front (SLF) and Young Socialist Alliance (YSA) actively supported Afro-American Society, a Negro student organization, in its take-over of the Administration Building, Duke University, Durham, N. C., 2/13/69, and participated in riot on campus which followed take-over. SSOC and some members of YSA also actively support Black Student Movement (BSM), a Negro student group, during its demonstrations at the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, N. C., during February and March, 1969.

I. COMMUNIST STRATEGY

No information developed.

II. COMMUNIST TACTICS

Activities at Duke University, Durham, North Carolina, February, 1969

M. A. PLEDGER, Security Officer, Duke University, Durham, North Carolina, advised on February 13, 1969, that approximately 30 Negro students took over and occupied the first floor of the Allen Building on the Duke campus on the morning of February 13, 1969. They barricaded the doors and windows and were armed with chains, pipes, and clubs. They threatened to burn the building if a move was made to oust them and if their demands were not met. They were identified as members of the Afro-American Society, a black student group at Duke University. Their demands included black dormitories, black advisors, an increase in the black population at Duke, abolition of grades for blacks, reinstatement of blacks who have previously flunked out, et cetera.

As police moved in to remove them in the late afternoon, they voluntarily marched out, mingling with a large assembled crowd. The crowd became abusive and unruly and taunted the police. The police then used tear gas to break up the crowd.

CE T-1 advised on February 14, 1969, that among the key agitators and instigators of this turmoil on the Duke University campus on Thursday, February 13, 1969, were GEORGE VLASITS, MICHAEL SMEDBERG and PETER BRANDON, leaders of the SSOC, a characterization of which is contained in the appendix to this report. Not only were they observed to do their utmost to incite violent conflict between students and the police, but they frequently participated in violent destructive action themselves. PETER BRANDON repeatedly urged white Duke students to surround the Allen Building to prevent police from reaching black students. GEORGE VLASITS was observed to smear vaseline on his face before the conflict began and was also observed to squeeze lemon juice into his eyes to counteract the effect of tear gas. MIKE SMEDBERG, a close associate of VLASITS, was also observed to prepare himself with vaseline and lemon juice in the same fashion as VLASITS. In the conflict, SMEDBERG was observed to hurl objects at the police and to call the police names such as "pigs."

N.C
N.Y.

GEORGE MARTIN VLASITS was convicted in United States District Court on September 24, 1968, for violation of Title 50, Appendix, United States Code, Annotated, Section 462, in that he refused to submit to induction into the Armed Forces. He was sentenced to a term of five years in prison and his case is presently on appeal.

According to information furnished by CE T-2 in the fall of 1968, MICHAEL HENDERSON SMEDBERG, a staff member of SSOC and leader of the SSOC group in Durham, North Carolina, came to North Carolina from Berkeley, California, approximately two years ago as the North Carolina leader of "The Resistence" an anti-draft and anti-Vietnam movement.

CE T-3 advised on May 12, 1960, that he had heard that PETER BRANDON was being tutored by MANUEL POUSADA.

On June 1, 1960, CE T-4 advised that MANUEL POUSADA was a member of the New York State Committee of the Communist Party, United States of America (CP,USA) and section organizer for the Communist Party in Westchester County, New York, at that time.

During February, 1969, CE T-1 and CE T-2 advised that the SSOC, led by GEORGE VLASITS and MICHAEL SMEDBERG, as well as members of the SLF and YSA, supported the actions and demands of black students at Duke University during their take-over of the administration building at Duke University on February 13, 1969.

A characterization of the YSA is contained in the appendix of this report.

On February 10, 1969, T-1 advised that SLF, a new left organization at Duke University, Durham, North Carolina, was organized on December 7, 1968, with most of its more active members being people who were formerly active members in the SSOC chapter at Duke University. The SLF was born under the direction and guidance of SSOC.

Activities at the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, North Carolina, Spring of 1969

On February 7, 1969, ARTHUR BEAUMONT, Security Officer, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, North Carolina (UNC) advised that at noon on that date, approximately 200 white students and faculty members, along with approximately 25 Negro students, attended a meeting on the UNC campus to support demands of the Black Student Movement (BSM) previously made on the administration of the school. These demands included intensified recruitment of black students, greater financial assistance to black students, et cetera.

N. C.

The first speaker was PRESTON DOBBINS, President of BSM, who welcomed support of the other groups but stated that BSM would not change its demands to conform with the desires of any supporting group. The last speaker was GEORGE VLASITS, SSOC organizer, who indicated that some white radicals would support the black man only if the black man gave up his identity, but that in fact the Negro should be able to have his own identity and still obtain the support of the white radicals.

On March 4, 1969, VICTOR JOHNSON, Assistant Security Officer, UNC, advised that approximately 140 UNC cafeteria workers had been out on strike since February 24, 1969, which initiated the closing of some cafeterias at UNC. One cafeteria, Lenoir Hall, which was still operating, was being picketed by SSOC and to a lesser degree by BSM. According to JOHNSON, during the past two days white radical students of SSOC had been stalling the lines of this cafeteria. At the evening meal on March 4, 1969, SSOC members totally blocked the serving line so no one could be served. A few minutes later members of BSM appeared and assisted in the blocking of the cafeteria line and an altercation ensued. Some white students desiring to eat began shoving, and blows were exchanged between them and the SSOC members. One SSOC member was struck in the face, and another SSOC member received a six-inch head wound when struck by a sugar bowl. After some shouting and upsetting of tables, SSOC and BSM members left the cafeteria.

According to Chief of Police WILLIAM BLAKE, Chapel Hill, North Carolina, these disruptive tactics by members of BSM and SSOC in the UNC cafeteria continued intermittently for several days until the strike of the cafeteria workers was settled.

T-2 advised in February, 1969, that members of the Chapel Hill local of YSA actively supported the BSM during its activities at the University of North Carolina.

APPENDIX

SOUTHERN STUDENT ORGANIZING COMMITTEE (SSOC)

On November 1, 1966, a first source advised that the Southern Student Organizing Committee (SSOC) was formed on the weekend of April 3-5, 1964, to stimulate activity of Southern Student groups in areas of civil rights, peace, academic freedom, civil liberties, capital punishment, and unemployment. Originally, it was to be a white counterpart of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC). It has agreed to work with similar interested groups such as SNCC and Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) and Southern Conference Educational Fund, Inc. (SCEF). SSOC is a fraternal affiliate of the SDS.

Beginning in the Fall of 1966, SSOC became a membership organization and embarked on a campaign to form local chapters on various college campuses throughout the South. SSOC publishes, October through May each year, a publication, "New South Student," which according to the above source has increasingly espoused and defended the pro-Communist and anti-United States position on domestic and foreign policy.

On July 2, 1968, a second source advised that SSOC continues to be headquartered at 1703 Portland Avenue, Nashville, Tennessee, and continues to defend and espouse the pro-Communist and anti-United States position with particular emphasis on attacking United States policy in Vietnam and emphasis on attacking the Selective Service System. Source two noted that SSOC Chairman Thomas N. Gardner in the Summer of 1967 traveled to Prague, Czechoslovakia, where he met with representatives of the National Liberation Front (NLF) and the Democratic Republic of Vietnam (DRV), and that SSOC staff members Bruce Smith and Alan Levin traveled to Cuba in the Summer of 1967 and February, 1968, respectively.

By letter dated April 26, 1968, on SSOC letterhead mailed to the general SSOC membership over the signature of Mike Welch, Executive Secretary of SSOC, it was announced that as a step toward close relations with the Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) and better communications with the movement nationally, SSOC and SDS have worked out an exchange of the "New South Student" and the "New Left Notes," and that SDS and SSOC were exchanging contact lists of their respective memberships for this exchange.

The May, 1968, issue of "New South Student" indicates that the SSOC mailing address is P. O. Box 6403, Nashville, Tennessee, 37212, Telephone Number 615-291-3537, and the mast-head described the organization as "An association of young concerned Southerners dedicated to social change," as taken from the preamble of the SSOC constitution.

On April 30, 1969, confidential source one advised that on April 29, 1969, Coretta Scott King, widow of Martin Luther King, Jr., former President, Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC), spoke to striking hospital workers in Charleston, South Carolina. Source advised that Coretta Scott King was accompanied on April 29, 1969, from Atlanta, Georgia, to Charleston, South Carolina, by Stanley Levison.

Confidential source two advised on May 2, 1969, he had learned that Andrew J. Young, Executive Vice President, SCLC, recently discussed with Stanley Levison SCLC's efforts in Charleston, South Carolina, on behalf of the striking hospital workers. Levison recommended that Coretta Scott King return to Charleston approximately ten days following her April 29, 1969 visit. Levison said her reappearance should be solely for the purpose of indicating she continues to support the strikers. Levison also recommended that United States Congressman John Conyers from Detroit, Michigan,

DETAILS:

I. COMMUNIST STRATEGY

PG T-1 advised on April 8, 1969, that on April 4, 1969, the Communist Party of Western Pennsylvania (CPWP) held the first half of its District Convention in the Pittsburgh, Pa., area. Informant said that at this convention, BETH EDELMAN gave a lengthy general report in which she stated that the CP has to get involved in the Black rebellion to help give it direction. She spoke in favor of the CP and the Black Panther Party (BPP) joining forces or forming an alliance. She said the local CP has to develop black leadership.

On December 24, 1968, PG T-2 advised that BETH EDELMAN and her husband, ARTHUR EDELMAN, were the leading members of the CPWP and that BETH EDELMAN was serving as a CPWP organizer.

PG T-2 advised on December 24, 1968, that ARTHUR EDELMAN is a member of the CPWP District Committee.

A characterization of the Black Panther Party is contained in the Appendix hereto.

II. COMMUNIST TACTICS

PG T-1 advised on February 26, 1969, that a meeting of the W.E.B. DuBois Club of Pittsburgh was held on February 23, 1969, in the Pittsburgh area. At this meeting racial disturbances in Pittsburgh schools were discussed and EDWARD BORTZ said that the trouble in the schools was caused by "right wingers" stirring up white racists in the neighborhoods.

The informant further advised that at this meeting, EDWARD BORTZ and JAMES FERLO drew up a statement for release concerning this school issue in Pittsburgh. A copy of this "Statment Issued on School Crisis" is set out hereafter:

"W.E.B. DuBOIS CLUB

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Box 6454
PGH, PA. 15212

"STATEMENT ISSUED ON SCHOOL CRISIS

"The violent outbreaks at Oliver and Gladstone high schools are an indictment of the Pittsburgh Board of Education's failure to solve the social problems plaguing black and white students. Police repression and witchunt investigations only aggravate the existing crisis, not find solutions to the problems that led to the eruptions. The real issues that led to the current crisis are:

"INSTITUTIONALIZED RACISM

"The School Board has failed to implement a meaningful curriculum in Afro-American history for black and white students. The Board has failed to hire a sufficient number of black teachers and administrators. The Board has failed to raise the over-all quality of education, particularly in the ghetto schools. Quality integrated education is in the interest of all students, black and white.

"ORGANIZED RACISM

"Organized right-wing and racist elements have been actively spreading their venom in the white community. The hate-filled campaign of George Wallace, directed at white working people, exemplifies this effort to subvert their real interests. These groups must be exposed and prevented from inciting violence against black students.

"To meet the critical situation in our school system, we, the W.E.B. DuBois Club of Pittsburgh, propose these immediate actions: 1. The Pittsburgh School Board should resign. In it s place, a group of community and educational leaders, black and white, should be elected through special citizen's elections. 2. Police investigations should be stopped immediately. Instead, there should be student-teacher-community investigations

"and hearings on their common problems. The new School Board shall have the authority to act on the recommendations from these hearings. 3. All police and detectives must be withdrawn immediately from the schools. They only aggravate the problems and tensions. Student and community leaders shall be responsible for any necessary school security. 4. The birthdays of Martin Luther King and Malcolm X should be declared school holidays for all students."

A characterization of the W.E.B. DuBois Club of Pittsburgh and the W.E.B. DuBois Clubs of America are contained in the Appendix hereto.

On December 24, 1968, PG T-2 advised that EDWARD BORTZ is a member of the District Committee, CPWP.

On December 31, 1968, PG T-3 advised that as of that date, JAMES FERLO was a member of the CPWP.

On March 3, 1969, PG T-2 advised that on February 19, 1969, a CPWP Executive Committee meeting was held in the Pittsburgh area. At this meeting, there was discussion held concerning the racial troubles which have erupted at Pittsburgh schools. BETH EDELMAN said that she belongs to a community group and that she would ask this group to contact other organizations to put out statements concerning this issue. She said the statements would be against the position of the School Board, to ask the School Board to resign, would advocate community control of schools, and would demand that the identity of students causing the trouble in the schools be determined. EDELMAN also said that the W.E.B. DuBois Club of Pittsburgh is going to put out a leaflet on the school situation.

On April 15, 1969, PG T-1 advised that on April 10, 1969, a meeting of the CPWP Industrial Club was held in the Pittsburgh area. At this meeting, ARTHUR EDELMAN asked to be relieved as Chairman of that club so that he could devote more time to Project Understanding, a Catholic church project to fight against racism in which EDELMAN is active. EDELMAN also advised that he wanted to br relieved as Chairman in order to permit one of the black members of the Industrial Club to become Chairman, which would promote black leadership in the Communist Party.

APPENDIX

DuBois Clubs of America (DCA), San Francisco, California. The W.E.B. DuBois Club of Pittsburgh agreed to accept the "conditions of the membership as stated in the National Constitution, and as interpreted by the National Executive Committee. . ."

I. COMMUNIST STRATEGY

A. Communist Party (CP), USA

1. Plans, Strategy, Party Line, and the Like Made at National Meetings, Including Expressions by National and Other Functionaries

DE T-1 advised on April 15, 1969, that a Workers Conference was held at the Diplomat Hotel, 108 West 43rd Street, New York, New York, on April 12 and 13, 1969. The Workers Conference is a function of the CP, USA. Represented at this meeting was KENNETH JOHN WATSON, a black militant of Detroit.

DE T-2 advised on May 5, 1969, that KENNETH JOHN WATSON is a former member of the Detroit group of the Revolutionary Action Movement (RAM) and a former member of the Fox and Wolf Hunt Club, which gun club was controlled and dominated by RAM members. DE T-2 further advised that WATSON was editor of a black extremist newspaper entitled "The Inner-City Voice" (ICV), which paper was printed in Detroit from July, 1967, to June, 1968. DE T-2 stated that WATSON is presently editor of Wayne State University's (WSU) official school newspaper "The South End".

Characterizations of RAM and the ICV appear in the appendix attached hereto.

DE T-1 advised that WATSON, on April 12, 1969, made a lengthy speech at this conference concerning the history of the Negro in the United States, which indicated that down to the present day, the black man has been dominated by the white man and that the only way in which the black man could get his fair share was through militant action.

WATSON also became angered at the workers of the conference as he and other black militants felt that the Negroes were to play a secondary role at the conference. They threatened to disrupt the Workers Conference if it did not elevate them to a primary role.

DE T-1 also advised that at the conference a longshore worker named S. MELLO made a speech in which he felt that the CP, USA, should support such organizations as the Black Panther Party (BPP) and Dodge Revolutionary Union Movement (DRUM).

> A characterization of the BPP appears in the appendix attached hereto.
> DRUM is a labor movement which is part of the League of Revolutionary Black Workers (LRBW), which is a black militant labor union in Detroit, which is attempting to oust the United Auto Workers (UAW) and Teamsters Union as bargaining representative for black workers in Detroit. The LRBW is limited to blacks only and in the past has used threats of violence against both black and white supervisors at the automotive plants. The DRUM organization is at the Dodge Main Assembly Plant, Detroit, Michigan.

MELLO further stated, however, that he did not believe in the black separatist idea of DRUM and felt that it ought to include white workers as well as blacks. This point was disputed by KENNETH JOHN WATSON.

2. Plans, Strategy, Party Line, and the Like Made at District and Lower Level Meetings, Including Expressions by Local Leaders and Rank and File Members

On March 7, 1968, at a Michigan District Communist Party (MDCP) meeting, DE T-3 advised that THOMAS DENNIS stated that the lack of Negro recruitment within the CP is because of chauvinism in the MDCP and that the club must exert all efforts in obtaining Negro members. He also stated that the MDCP is out of communication with the Negro people. This meeting was held at Armenian Hall, Detroit.

On March 16, 1967, DE T-4 advised that DENNIS is the State Chairman of the MDCP.

On June 15, 1968, DE T-5 advised that ARTHUR MC PHAUL intended to run from his district for the State Legislature. DE T-5 advised that MC PHAUL was meeting clandestinely with leaders of the Black Nationalist Movement in Detroit, Michigan, to attempt to acquire support.

On February 26, 1969, DE T-6 advised that MC PHAUL is on the State Board of the MDCP.

On October 27, 1968, DE T-6 advised that on October 27, 1968, a closed and secret meeting of the Ford Club of the MDCP was held. At this meeting, CASS NOWAK gave a speech at which he stated that the LRBW organization at the Ford River Rouge Plant is closely connected with the black caucus of the MDCP. Source advised that the black caucus is a loosely formed affiliate of the MDCP The meeting was held at Armenian Hall.

On February 22, 1969, DE T-6 advised that CASS NOWAK was on the State Board of the MDCP.

NOWAK stated that the black caucus is working closely with the LRBW as well as with the editor of "The South End" newspaper, KENNETH JOHN WATSON. NOWAK also stated that the black caucus will attempt to lend assistance to and direct activities of the LRBW.

On November 6, 1968, DE T-6 advised that a closed and secret meeting of the Michigan State Board of the MDCP was held at which THOMAS DENNIS pointed out a recent police brutality case involving Negroes which occurred on November 1, 1968. This meeting was held at the Pick-Fort Shelby Hotel, November 6, 1968.

DENNIS stated that the CP must make every effort to "get every drop of mileage" out of protesting police brutality involving Negroes in order to recruit additional Negroes into the Party. This statement was supported by a speech by ARTHUR MC PHAUL.

On January 21, 1969, DE T-5 advised that on January 16, 1969, a meeting of the MDCP was held at the Armenian Hall, where a Mr. LOUIS SMITH made a speech regarding the LRBW. SMITH advised the members that he was employed at the Dodge Plant in Detroit, and he believed that DRUM and other affiliates of the LRBW were excellent fields from which to obtain CP recruits if an intensified recruiting campaign was waged.

On January 18, 1969, DE T-6 advised that GEORGE MEYERS from the national headquarters of the CP, USA, spoke at a MDCP Ford Club meeting, at which time he stated that the CP, USA, wants to establish more agitation in the ghetto and use the proposal to make MARTIN LUTHER KING, JR.'s birthday a national holiday. This meeting was held at Armenian Hall, Detroit.

MEYERS stated that this proposal would be transferred to the labor union movement as KING was killed right on the picket line in the demand for recognition of the worker. This would be made into a legal-paid holiday which would gain support from white workers. MEYERS stated that this would have tremendous appeal from the black workers and that the CP could benefit this tremendously.

On February 16, 1969, DE T-3 advised that at a MDCP Education Committee meeting held at Armenian Hall, Detroit, ARTHUR MC PHAUL had stated that he attended public meetings of the LRBW and also meetings of the Detroit Chapter of the BPP. MC PHAUL said that the rank and file of these organizations are merely seeking answers to pertinent questions facing the Negro worker and Negro people in general.

MC PHAUL also stated that the LRBW and the BPP are working for a Socialist revolution and follow the teachings of MAO TSE TUNG of China. He also stated that the book "Thoughts of Mao" is like a Bible to these people.

On April 14, 1969, DE T-3 advised that at a State Convention of the MDCP held on April 13, 1969, ART MC PHAUL stated that the CP will support the Negro people regardless of the goals set out by the Negroes. He stated that their task as Communists is to decide who the authentic leaders of the Negro people are and to follow them. This meeting was held at the Pick-Fort Shelby Hotel, Detroit.

3. Plans as Revealed in Party Publications

No information developed.

B. Other Communist Groups such as Socialist Workers Party (SWP), and Progressive Labor Party (PLP)

On May 24, 1968, DE T-7 advised that a meeting was held in Detroit with the purpose of forming a black caucus in the CP. The meeting, chaired by ARTHUR MC PHAUL, was aimed at organizing black workers in the Detroit area in industry into a strong and viable CP affiliate and to assist in the "peace and freedom struggle". Meeting held at Armenian Hall.

I. COMMUNIST STRATEGY

A. COMMUNIST PARTY OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA (CP,USA)

CHARLENE MITCHELL visited the Minneapolis-St. Paul, Minnesota area in early February, 1969, and attended a CP meeting to discuss with the members the necessity of making the party relevant to the issues and movements that are going on around it. She related that when she asked the Party members where the black faces were, they just looked silly. She said she told them that without any black members and without any contact with the black community, there is no Party movement.

MITCHELL described how she and BETTY SMITH, organizational secretary of the Minnesota-Dakotas District of the Communist Party (MDDCP), had met with a number of Negro militants to discuss the role of the CP in the Negro community. According to MITCHELL, the Negro militants were extremely critical of the CP and its record of accomplishment. MITCHELL said BETTY SMITH immediately began to defend the Party but was ineffective. MITCHELL said she finally told SMITH to shut up because the Party could not defend itself where it was falling short. MITCHELL said the black militants were right in their criticism.

MP T-1 on 2/11/69

CHARLENE MITCHELL is described in the July 14, 1968, issue of "The Worker," an East Coast communist newspaper which has suspended publication, as the candidate of the CP, USA for President of the United States and as Field Secretary of the Party's Commission on Black Liberation.

CHARLENE MITCHELL attended a CP meeting in St. Paul, Minnesota on February 6, 1969 and discussed the Party's need to recruit Negroes. She said the Party has to deal with racism and to initiate all kinds of struggles against racism. BETTY SMITH spoke after MITCHELL and asked the members how will the area fight racism, and jobs, housing and education for Negroes. There were no solutions reached.

I. COMMUNIST STRATEGY

A. Commmunist Party, USA (CP, USA)

1. Plans, Strategy, Party-line, and the Like Made at the CP of Illinois Meetings, Including Expressions by CP of Illinois Leaders and Rank and File Members

a. General

The CP of Illinois' influence in the Chicago Freedom Movement can be summed up as follows:

The CP of Illinois continues to exert little or no influence on policy matters of the Chicago Freedom Movement. Civil rights organizations active in the Chicago area in which the CP of Illinois endeavors to exert some influence are as follows:

The Chicago Urban League (CUL)
Congress of Racial Equality (CORF)
Coordinating Council of Community Organizations (CCCO)
National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP)
Negro American Labor Council (NALC)
Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC)
Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee (SNCC)
West Side Organization (WSO)

Concerning the CUL and CORE, the CP of Illinois at the present time exercises no influence within these organizations.

Concerning the CCCO, HERBERT WRIGHT, a member of the State Committee, CP of Illinois, is an alternate delegate from the NALC to the CCCO, but at the present time, WRIGHT exerts very little, if any, influence in the CCCO. There has been very little, if any, CCCO activity in Chicago during the past several months.

The CP of Illinois still maintains LESTER DAVIS, CP of Illinois member, assigned to the Chicago Branch, NAACP. EARL DURHAM, Chairman, Negro Commission, CP of Illinois and HERBERT WRIGHT are also members of the NAACP, but at the present time, these individuals are doing little or nothing to implement CP policy relative to the NAACP.

With respect to the NALC, the CP of Illinois currently has the following individuals who form a collective, from the CP of Illinois, within the NALC:

HERBERT WRIGHT;
NATE SHARPE, member of State Committee, CP of Illinois;
RALPH TURNER, member of CP of Illinois;
CORNELIUS COBBS, CP member;
IRENE WRIGHT, CP of Illinois member; and
CHARLES WILSON, CP of Illinois member

HERB WRIGHT is the Vice President and NATE SHARPE is a member of the Executive Board of Chicago Chapter, NALC.

The main objective of this collective is to involve the NALC in a program to end discrimination against Negroes and obtain more jobs for Negroes in the building trades. The NALC's program at the present time can be considered quite ineffective.

Concerning the SCLC, WSO and SNCC, at the current time there are no CP of Illinois members active in these organizations and the CP of Illinois exercises no influence in these organizations.

(CG T-1, 4/24/69,
CG T-2, 4/24/69)

A characterization of SNCC will appear later in this report.

b. CP National Committee Meeting

On January 4-6, 1969, a meeting of the National Committee, CP USA, was held in New York City. At this meeting HERB WRIGHT from Chicago pointed out that it was time for some self criticism in the CP especially in regard to the area of concentration of work among the working class. In the past the Party has depended on other vehicles and mass organizations in projects without initiating action on the Party's part. For example, WRIGHT stated in Chicago the Party failed to act in connection with the Chicago Transit union strike. It was learned too late after every so-called black leader had misdirected and ill advised the transit workers and had the CP on its own initiative projected a program at the right time, the struggle for the transit workers would have been successful.

(CG T-1, 1/7/69)

On February 22-23, 1969, a meeting of the National Committee, CP USA, was held in New York City. HENRY WINSTON at this meeting spoke concerning the black liberation movement stating that the CP has made important advances but the Party program in the ghettos is weak, not connected with mass movements and plays no independent role. In trying to find answers to why the Party has not progressed in the black liberation movement, the Party should go back to its leadership in the fight for integration. It seems clear now that the Party had a one-sided approach. The Party did not understand that the struggle for equality is still primary and since the Party did not recognize this the special problems in the ghettos were minimized. The struggle for equality continues as a main problem. The Party approach has been to develop the class concept of racism, therefore, the Party has not paid enough attention to the racial and national features of the liberation movement. WRIGHT went on to state that the three main elements in the black liberation movement today are its class, national and racial content. WRIGHT stated the challenge of Marxism-Leninism is to combine these into a special program.

(CG T-2, 2/25, 26, 27/69)

HENRY WINSTON as of April, 1969, was Chairman, CP, USA.

(CG T-2, 4/69)

c. CP State Board Meetings

On January 28, 1969, a meeting of the CP of Illinois State Board was held in Chicago. The main part of the meeting was a discussion on black liberation. EARL DURHAM delivered the report stating that the Party should examine how the black power slogan was reflected in the election struggles in Chicago. DURHAM stated there has been four elections since the last Party convention and there have been some significant gains made. As an example he mentioned the election of two black aldermen and one black state senator. DURHAM stated, however, there were some serious weaknesses. He stated the long range political direction for the Party remains unclear. The Party has not concluded discussions in the strategic goals in ghetto politics. DURHAM stated that the development of black caucuses in many major industries has been seen as a positive development in rank and file movements and many cases could be cited.

DURHAM also discussed coalitions between other civil rights organizations. He stated there has been an evaluation by the Party on the demise of the CCCO. He stated we should give serious attention as to why the CCCO failed. The question before the Party that seems important includes how it participates in these united movements and how it is able to fight for unity and progress.

On February 25, 1969, a meeting of the CP of Illinois State Board was held in Chicago. EARL DURHAM at this meeting spoke concerning the responsibility of the Black Liberation Commission of the CP. DURHAM added that whereas this commission started with full attendance at meetings, it has functioned poorly over the past year and has not given leadership to the Party on the questions of black liberation. He added that it is difficult to see how the main direction of the Party's work in black liberation can have any meaning unless the Party is prepared to work in a very systematic way to enlarge on the small cadre presently functioning.

CG T-3, 2/27/69)

On March 4, 1969, a meeting of the State Board, CP of Illinois was held in Chicago. At this meeting HERB WRIGHT spoke on the failures of the NALC. He also spoke on how he spends his time, adding that he felt he should spend more time on problems of his own town and other mass work.

(CG T-2, 3/5/69,

d. CP State Committee Meetings

On February 9, 1969, a meeting of the State Committee, CP of Illinois was held in Chicago. At this meeting, ISH FLORY spoke concerning Negro history week and how the CP must begin to deal with the ideology questions of Africa and its relationship to the fight against imperialism.

(CG T-2, 2/11/69)

ISH FLORY as of April, 1969, was a member of the State Committee, CP of Illinois.

(CG T-2, 4/69)

e. Illinois CP Negro Commission Meeting

On February 5, 1969, a meeting of the Illinois CP, Negro Commission was held in Chicago. EARL DURHAM stated that although the Negro Commission had not met recently, the Party, however, is faced with the task of presenting the Districts views on the black liberation movement in this area as well as the strategic aims of the Party in regard to the freedom of the black people.

(CG T-1, 2/6/69)

f. CP Lieber Club Meeting

At a meeting of the Lieber Club, CP of Illinois, which was held December 31, 1968, a discussion was held concerning such items as the need to organize the industrial workers and engage them in discussions regarding such matters as the Viet Nam war and the black ghetto rebellion. It was pointed out at this meeting that it was necessary to work with various black militants in order to give a "Marxist flavor" to their campaign and one could begin this work in his own community.

(CG T-4, 1/10/69)

g. CP South Side Section Meeting

At a CP South Side Section Community meeting held January 27, 1969, ISH FLORY called for a vigorous campaign by the CP on issues effecting the black communities particularly as they relate to the south side of Chicago. Such a program, according to ISH, must be geared to meet the needs of the black community. FLORY stated he believed community control of the schools by blacks is the central question around which the CP could rally. FLORY was critical of CP participation in the ghetto stating that he felt many communists have given only lip service to the problems of the ghetto.

(CG T-5, 2/26/69)

h. CP Teachers Club Meeting

At a combined meeting of the CP Teachers Clubs in the Chicago area held February 4, 1969, LESTER DAVIS reported on the current problems in the Chicago school system. DAVIS stated that the main problem in Chicago is the community control of schools and the upgrading of education in the ghettos. He stated that by community control of schools it would be possible to upgrade the educational standards in ghetto areas.

(CG T-6, 2/7/69)

II. COMMUNIST TACTICS

A. Black Liberation Conference March 16, 1967

On March 16, 1969, a conference on black liberation, sponsored by the Black Liberation (Negro affairs) Commission, CP of Illinois, was held at the YWCA, 1001 North Dearborn Street, Chicago, Illinois, with approximately 47 individuals in attendance. Included in attendance was CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT, Chairman of the Black Liberation Commission, CP USA, and CHARLENE MITCHELL, National Field Secretary, Black Liberation Commission, CP USA, both of whom are affiliated with National CP, USA Headquarters in New York City.

LOU DISKEN, a member of the State Board, CP of Illinois, called the conference to order and introduced EARL DURHAM, Chairman of the Black Liberation Commission, CP of Illinois, as the main speaker.

DURHAM stated that his presentation will be based on discussions held at meetings of the Illinois CP State Board and Illinois CP Black Liberation Commission. He said that there are a lot of questions to be answered and obviously we will have to dig deeper to find the answers. For instance, there is the disappearance of the Coordinating Council and Community Organizations (CCCO), an organization formed in Chicago to coordinate civil rights activities, which at one time embraced 45 separate community organizations. Why has there been a vacuum since the dissolvement of the CCCO? We should also determine why the Chicago Transit Workers failed in their struggle and why broader support was never mobilized in their behalf.

DURHAM stated that political action has been the greatest area in which the Party has participated. The National Conference for New Politics Convention (NCNP) held in 1967 in Chicago brought together all major political trends existing at that time. The black caucus which eventually was established at the NCNP convention tested our political line. The Party withstood the test quite well. Our line was not anti-white not anti-New Party, but pro-equality was utilized in making the decision as to the direction in which the NCNP was going. In this connection DURHAM briefly spoke of the leading roles of which he, CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT, CHARLENE MITCHELL, and ISH FLORY, the latter also a member of the Black Liberation Commission, CP of Illinois, played in the black caucus in the NCNP convention. DURHAM stated that the black youth must be considered an area of special concentration. College campuses and high schools all are active in boycotts and protests which leads us to believe that a revolutionary ferment is taking place among the black youth. The Black Panther Party (BPP) (a characterization of which is contained hereinafter), may be the answer if it can be advised and taught a Marxist-Leninist approach. One of the problems we have is that of the growing conservatism among black people. The black consortium represents 30 black organizations. This group must be understood by our Party and these organizations must be dealt with, as some of us feel, do as the Italians do; that is, establish a mafia and take a piece of the action, but do not change the system. This, however, can never be successfully done as the main target is to change the system.

DURHAM then spoke of white racism pointing out that there is no such thing as white chauvinistic radicals in our Party. The white Party leadership has failed all across the Party to speak out against white racism, in spite of the fact that there have been many opportunities for comrades in their own communities to take a stand against racism.

DURHAM then gave a historical background of racism and as to why it has been utilized as a weapon by the ruling class. He also spoke of the constant use of racism utilized to divide the black and white worker in order that both can be exploited by monopoly capitalism.

At this point those in attendance were divided into three discussion groups and each group was instructed to discuss black liberation based on personal experiences and then report back.

In one of the groups HERB WRIGHT, Secretary of the Black Liberation Commission, CP of Illinois, reported that he was instrumental in forming a black-white political party in Maywood, Illinois, and also told of the progress which the group had made toward winning the village official election on April 5, 1969. He pointed out that black and white unity has been established in Maywood.

The three discussion groups again reconvened and reports were made by the various individuals so designated.

LOU DISKEN introduced CHARLENE MITCHELL as Field Secretary of the Black Liberation Commission, CP, USA. In her remarks MITCHELL stated that it is impossible for the working class to come to power in the United States without black and white unity. White racism is the most important factor to be dealt with. We must also learn the difference between reform and revolution as both must be made very clear. The demands by black students at various univerisities and colleges is more significant than one may suspect. The demands for black studies, history, etc., is the beginning of changing the structure of the universities and colleges. Once the demands are met, they then are more than reforms for actually they are then a revolutionary step in putting forth the black people as a new force in our country. This in turn could revolutionize the educational system in our country.

MITCHELL stated that one of the main weaknesses in our CP Political Draft Resolution is that of dealing with women. If women compromise 37% of the work force and 51% of the population in our country, we must, by all means, involve women in all spheres of the Party's work and activity.

MITCHELL then stated that of all the literature which the Party distributed, we do not have one small pamphlet dealing with white racism. If racism is important, and we say it is, the Party must make available a pamphlet on how to fight racism.

CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT summarized the conference by first praising EARL DURHAM for his report stating that it was timely and has added a great deal to our pre-convention discussion on black liberation. LIGHTFOOT stated that the capitalists in our country, have spent billions of dollars to install distrust among the working class. You must have faith and confidence in us and your class. We have enough power in this conference room to shake up this "damn" town (Chicago). This we could do if we decided not to pay the high rents or that we demand justice for the Black Transit Workers in Chicago. There are also enough of us in this room to start boycotts that would shake up the power structure in this town.

LIGHTFOOT further praised DURHAM by pointing out that within the last ten years DURHAM has written a history in Chicago. DURHAM has manuevered behind the scenes in all of the black organizations to raise their effectiveness and push the Party's program.

LIGHTFOOT stated that all we need is confidence and we could do wonders. We can build the Party! He stated that it is not enough just to speak to the masses, rather we must forget reforms and build a revolution.

Title: COMMUNIST INFLUENCE IN RACIAL MATTERS

Character: INTERNAL SECURITY - C

Synopsis:

HYMAN LUMER, Communist Party, United States of America (CPUSA) Educational Secretary, CHARLENE MITCHELL, 1968 CPUSA Presidential candidate, and GUS HALL, CPUSA General Secretary, visited Miami area during period January - March, 1969, and urged Miami CP to become more ideologically involved with local black people and make special efforts to recruit black youth. Miami CP has done nothing in an organizational manner to carry out these instructions because of security reasons and internal dissension.

DETAILS:

I. COMMUNIST STRATEGY

On January 26, 1969, HYMAN LUMER from New York, New York, spoke at a meeting of the Communist Party (CP) of Miami held at Miami Beach, Florida.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~ (U)
Group 1
Excluded from automatic downgrading and declassification

This document contains neither recommendations nor conclusions of the FBI. It is the property of the FBI and is loaned to your agency; it and its contents are not to be distributed outside your agency.

A portion of his speech concerned the economic struggle developing in the United States. He said that as a result of the November, 1968 national elections, a basis has been created for an independent political party. This new party would include forces from the working class, the Negro people, left forces, students, and those dissatisfied with the Democratic Party.

LUMER said the Communist Party, United States of America (CPUSA) must be in the forefront in the black caucus struggle, particularly as regards the auto, steel and shipping industries.

He said it must be stressed during their conversations with potential black members that there is no racism in a socialist society.

MM T-1
February 13, 1969

HYMAN LUMER is Educational Secretary of the CPUSA and a member of its National Committee, according to MM T-2 on June 30, 1967.

During the period March 5-9, 1969, CHARLENE MITCHELL of the CPUSA National Office, New York City, spoke at a series of public and private meetings in the Miami area.

Although there was advance publicity on the University of Miami campus about her speaking there on the evening of March 6, 1969, only about four or five black students showed up out of approximately two hundred students present.

The audience appeared to be primarily antagonistic, especially the Cuban students, and only a few individuals stopped and thanked her as she was leaving the area.

March 11, 1969

The Miami CP was very disturbed over the reception MITCHELL received at the University of Miami and especially disappointed that there were so few black people present. The Party feels, however, that the speech was worth the effort since the CPUSA had an open speaker on the campus and the way is open for additional inroads of this kind.

MM T-1
March 11, 1969

CHARLENE MITCHELL was the CPUSA Presidential candidate in 1968; is a National Committee member and Field Secretary of the CPUSA Commission on Black Liberation, according to MM T-4 on March 4, 1969.

MITCHELL also spoke at the Center for Dialogue, 2175 Northwest 26th Street, Miami, during the evening of March 7, 1969. The Center is used as a forum for public discussions on any issue and is connected with a local Lutheran Church.

There were approximately ten black people present of an audience of approximately 35 people.

MITCHELL spoke openly as a CPUSA leader and explained its policies and programs. The topic of her speech dealt with how there will always be racism and poverty under a capitalist economic system.

Following her speech, there was a question and answer period during which she received a warm reception for her remarks.

March 12, 1969

During the evening of March 20, 1969, GUS HALL of New York City spoke at a meeting of the Miami CP held on Miami Beach, Florida. A portion of his speech dealt with the necessity to make special efforts to see that the CPUSA is more representative of the working class and that more youths, and especially black youths, are recruited. HALL said that the CPUSA is weak because there are not enough young people in the Party.

MM T-1
April 8, 1969

"The September 14, 1968 issue of the "Daily World" identified GUS HALL as General Secretary of the CPUSA.

The "Daily World" is an East Coast communist newspaper.

Despite the fact that there were three very high-ranking functionaries of the CPUSA in the Miami area, including a black woman who ran for President on the CPUSA ticket in 1968, during the past several months, each urging that the Miami CP become more identified with and ideologically involved with black people and black recruitment, the Miami CP has done nothing in an organizational manner to carry out these instructions.

The membership of the Miami CP is so security conscious concerning any new recruitment and so involved in internal dissension that there is very little likelihood of anything being done in this regard in the foreseeable future.

RE: COMMUNIST INFLUENCE IN RACIAL MATTERS
INTERNAL SECURITY - C

On April 23, 1969, a source who has a thorough knowledge of Marxism-Leninism and the aims and policies of the leadership of the Communist Party, United States of America (CP,USA) advised as follows:

On March 27, 1969, the CP,USA, Commission on Black Liberation, after a series of meetings on the key questions facing the struggle for black liberation, submitted four Resolutions for pre-Convention discussion by the CP,USA members. These Resolutions will be submitted at the CP,USA 19th National Convention to be held April 30 - May 3, 1969, at the Towers Hotel, 25 Clark Street, Brooklyn, New York.

In Resolution #1 there is again raised for acceptance the long discarded "principle of self-determination" which is extended even to the point of "separation" and the use of the necessary revolutionary power to make whatever changes are deemed necessary by black people.

Resolution #2 stated that Communists view the unity of black and white people as critical for victory in any of the democratic struggles underway and "such unity is also seen as a mandatory pre-requisite for the overthrowing of capitalism and the building of a Socialist society".

Resolution #3 states that the special demands necessary to meet the needs of black people "must be put forward in a revolutionary way as opposed to a reformist way, going beyond the norms of bourgeois legality, going beyond speeches in Congress and verbal protests, and toward drawing the masses of people into decisive action...."

This Resolution stated that "We (Communists) emphatically reject the ideology and action programs of 'black capitalism', cultural nationalism or any other notion that seeks to restrict black people to struggle within the present economic framework or within the bounds of what is considered bourgeois democracy".

This is further emphasized in the Resolution when it outrightly rejects the "stage theory" on the path to Socialism, which is a rejection of the Marxist evolutionary struggle in favor of a revolutionary one. It also discards the historic Marxist struggle for "immediate demands" which may be attained "within the framework of bourgeois legality", that is, utilizing the present democratic and legal system in the United States to advance Socialism.

This entire "theory" is an adoption of the policies of MAO Tse-tung. It represents a "skipping over" and a disregard for all the social, political and economic stages of advancement towards Socialism within the present democratic system. This is comparable to the "great leap forward" of Red China several years ago which brought that country almost to the brink of industrial and agricultural disaster and from which MAO was forced to retreat.

Resolution #4 is expressive of the strong adventuristic and black nationalist pressures presently so aggressive within the CP,USA.

This Resolution specifically advocates "armed self-defense as an increasingly important part of the black community's ability to continue and develop its struggles for complete liberation".

RE: COMMUNIST INFLUENCE IN

The Resolution explains that "such armed defense is different from the use of arms for insurrectionary and guerrilla warfare purposes. While the objective conditions at this time do not favor such use of arms for open insurgency and would only open the door to the bloody slaughter of black people, we (Communists) do not foreclose the need for such offensive struggles when objective struggles demand it".

It is readily apparent that this type of armed defense can only take the form of individual terrorist use of weapons by any black person who decides it is necessary in the particular situation.

These Resolutions leave GUS HALL and the CP,USA leadership little room for maneuvering, accommodation or equivocation. Any acceptance by the CP,USA of these Resolutions would mean the discarding of the basic aims and policies of Marxism-Leninism.

It is doubtful if these Resolutions in their present form will be adopted at the 19th National Convention of the CP,USA. In any event, this issue will place the GUS HALL leadership and the black nationalist elements within the CP,USA squarely in opposite corners.

The September 14, 1968, issue of the "Daily World" identified GUS HALL as General Secretary of the CP,USA.

The "Daily World" is an East Coast Communist newspaper.

RE: RADICAL STUDENTS' CONFERENCE
SPONSORED BY THE SOUTHERN
STUDENT ORGANIZING COMMITTEE,
LITTLE ROCK, ARKANSAS,
MAY 2-4, 1969

A confidential source furnished the following information on May 5, 1969:

The Radical Students' Conference sponsored by the Arkansas SSOC was held in Little Rock, Arkansas, from May 2 to May 4, 1969. The first session was held at the Union AME Church located at Wright and Pulaski Avenue in Little Rock, Arkansas. This session was attended by about 35 persons, including representatives from the SSOC and the SDS and representatives from the following Arkansas colleges:

Southern State College (SSC), Magnolia, Arkansas.
Arkansas State University (ASU), Jonesboro, Arkansas.
Little Rock University (LRU), Little Rock, Arkansas.
University of Arkansas (U of A), Fayetteville, Arkansas.
State College of Arkansas (SCA), Conway, Arkansas.
Arkansas Polytechnic College, Russellville, Arkansas.

The first session was opened at 8:00 PM by JOSEPH CHARLES NEAL, the Arkansas traveler for the SSOC, with a short speech detailing how radical students and militant Negroes have played an important role in helping to bring about the revolution. NEAL then gave a brief introduction to a film called "The Columbia Revolt". This film was immediately followed by the showing of the film "On Strike" which was a 40-minute film on the turmoil produced by the students at San Francisco State College.

After the showing of these two films, JOE NEAL then commented that although the students in both films had occupied administration buildings, this was the result of a long period of indoctrination. He then asked what issues the participants felt that Arkansas radicals should work with. Several of the students from SCA at Conway, Arkansas, stated that they were using the dress regulations as a convenient means of organizing students. KAYE BRADLEY, an SDS organizer from Michigan, stated that the Arkansas students should not try to occupy any administration buildings until they have found an issue which the majority of the student body will support. BRADLEY stated that at both San Francisco State and Columbia University the SDS members had waited until they had about 50 hard-core members lecturing students to explain to the students "the repressive atmosphere on campus". BOB SPECK from Fayetteville, Arkansas, asked the SCA students why they did not use racism as an organizing tool. Their response was that racism was too hot an issue to use because about 85 per cent of the student body was happy that the administration restricted the number of Negroes allowed on campus.

BURL ROTENBURY, a lawyer representing the Students United for Racial Equality (SURE), a student group at SSC, stated that the situation on SSC's campus was quite similar to SCA. ROTENBURY further stated that he was confident that SURE would win their court case with the SSC administration but that it would take about 18 months and even this would change this situation very little, so that they would have to continue to go to court every time SURE did anything.

At this point CHARLES JOHNSON, a Negro, who was apparently representing the Black United Youth of Little Rock, began speaking on racism and how this issue tied in with the military-industrial complex in America. JOHNSON stated he realized that the white radicals were trying to get official recognition on campus by building support by using unimportant issues like dress requirements but he stated "by the time you are ready to do something about racism, it will be too late." CHARLES JOHNSON completely dominated the remainder of the session and the meeting broke up at about 1:00 AM.

RE: RADICAL STUDENTS' CONFERENCE
SPONSORED BY THE SOUTHERN
STUDENT ORGANIZING COMMITTEE,
LITTLE ROCK, ARKANSAS,
MAY 2-4, 1969

The second session of the conference was held at the United Auto Workers Meeting Hall at 1403 Rebsamen Park Road, beginning at 9:00 AM on May 3, 1969. The session was opened with the showing of the "Black Panther" film and after the film there was a general discussion on racism. The principal speakers in this discussion were JOE NEAL, BARTEE HAILE who is with the University of Houston SDS Chapter, BOB SPECK and KAYE BRADLEY. All of these speakers agreed that white racism was the most dynamic issue in Arkansas.

At about 11:30 AM the discussion turned to labor organizing and BOB SPECK seemed to sum up the group's sentiments when he stated that the unions were as much a part of the establishment as the police or the military.

After lunch the meeting resumed with a short speech by H. L. MITCHELL from Mississippi who talked on farm labor organizing and radicalism in Arkansas in the 1930's. With the conclusion of his speech he showed a short film entitled "The March of Labor."

The regional labor organizers for the UAW then gave a talk telling how the labor unions were trying to help raise the low wages in Arkansas. He was immediately attacked by BOB SPECK who stated that the wildcat strikers in Crystal Hill, Michigan, had been double crossed by their union.

At about 3:30 PM NEAL showed the films "The Chicago Convention Challenge", "The Accusation" and "Vietnam, Land of Fire." The session adjourned at 6:30 PM.

RE: RADICAL STUDENTS' CONFERENCE

STUDENT ORGANIZING COMMITTEE,
LITTLE ROCK, ARKANSAS
MAY 2-4, 1969

After the session BARTEE HAILE of the Houston SDS asked several of the participants to meet with him and KAYE BRADLEY privately. HAILE stated that the SDS in Houston was planning a summer project among the poor in Houston and was desirous of having people from at least five states come to Houston to spend the summer and assist in this project. JOYCE GOREE, who is on the Arkansas SSOC staff, indicated that she was thinking seriously of going to Houston and participating in this project.

On Sunday, May 4, 1969, about 18 persons showed up for a picnic held at Boyle Park in Little Rock. The picnic lasted until about 4:00 PM, was strictly social, and no student activity or other matters of business were discussed.

Source furnished the identity of 29 of the approximately 35 participants at this conference as follows:

JOSEPH CHARLES NEAL, Arkansas SSOC traveler, Fayetteville, Arkansas

Dean IMON E. BRUCE, Southern State College, Magnolia, Arkansas, furnished the following information on April 5, 1969:

Two students from SSC were in attendance at the Radical Students' Conference held at Little Rock, Arkansas, from May 2 through May 4, 1969. These two students were identified to him as (FNU) POWELL and (FNU) LANCASTER. He heard these students became "fed up" with the activities that went on at the meeting. It has also been reported to him that PAUL WHEELER and KAYE BRADLEY, SDS organizers who were at the meeting, are supposed to come to the SSC campus "to discreetly visit the dormitories in an effort to gather interest and organize a chapter of the SDS."

Students Meet Representatives Of SDS, SSOC, Turn Press Out

By GEORGE BOOSEY
Of the Gazette Staff

High school and college students met Friday and Saturday at Little Rock with representatives of the Southern Student Organizing Committee, the Students for a Democratic Society and Black United Youth for a "Radical Students' Conference."

The conference was sponsored by SSOC, a radical student organization based at Nashville (its Arkansas headquarters is at Fayetteville) and was attended by Little Rock high school students and college students from the University of Arkansas, State College of Arkansas, Arkansas State University, Little Rock University and Philander Smith College. Some graduate school students and student-age supporters who don't attend college also attended.

The conference opened Friday night at Union AME Church with a registration, a plenary session, a film on the Columbia University student strike and a discussion on the radical studen movement in Arkansas and the black liberation movement. The opening-day session ended at 1 a.m. Saturday.

Saturday's session opened at 9 a.m. at the United Auto Workers Hall and included films and discussons on various aspects of the radical movement in America. The press was expelled from Saturday's session at about 1 p.m. by a vote of those at the meeting.

The students were to conclude the conference with a picnic this afternoon at Boyle Park.

Mitchell to Speak On Movement History

H. L. Mitchell, one of the organizers of the Southern Tenant Farmer's Union in the 1930s, was scheduled to speak Saturday afternoon on the history of radical and revolutionary movements. Mitchell said Saturday morning that all successful revolutionary movements in the world had been rural movements, not the industrial movements that Karl Marx had envisioned when he wrote the Communist Manifesto and Das Kapital.

Mitchell said when he talked to the students Saturday afternoon that he would call for the liberation of the South, the nation and the world. His presentation was to include a 1936 "March of Time" film on the organization of the Southern tenant farmers during the 1930s. The film was previewed Saturday morning.

The press was expelled from the conference during a discussion on the radical student movement in the South and how it could relate to the black militant movement. The discussion followed a film on the Black Panthers.

'Press Is Not Just the Public'

The youths discussed whether it was right to exclude the press from a public meeting, but one person commented, "The press is not just the public," and the majority of those attending agreed with him. The students felt that the publicity might hurt some of the radical movements in the state's colleges and universities.

About 30 persons attended the opening session and Joe Neal, SSOC organizer at Fayetteville, said more students would have attended if they had not stayed at Fayetteville to hear Allen Ginsberg, the hippie avant garde poet.

The students registered and discussed their reasons for coming to the conference. Most of them said they were there to learn what the radical movement was doing in Arkansas.

A film on the Columbia University student strike, produced and distributed by Newsreel, a film-making organization at New York, was shown. It explained that the strike grew out of Columbia's attempt to build a gymnasium in the Negro area of Morningside Heights near Columbia.

Miss Kay Bradley, who has been associated with SDS in Michigan and who is now traveling for the radical movement in the South, said there was "a danger of getting too hung up on things like taking over buildings." She said it would be better to look at the over-all function of the college and the university and find out what the alternative functions would be.

Dress Regulations At ASU Discussed

The main topics for discussion were dress regulations and the Carl Reng Student Center at ASU. A student from ASU said the center was privately owned and that the students were told that any changes they brought about at the University would not necessarily apply to the Center.

Joe Neal criticized Robert E. Lee Wilson and his plantation operation at Wilson and criticized ASU for naming one of the buildings at ASU for Wilson.

Burl C. Rotenberry, the Little Rock lawyer who is defending student demonstrators at Southern State College, spoke briefly on student rights. He said he believed that the Students United for Rights and Equality at Southern State would win their cases, but he said issues may be tied up in the courts for some time.

The discussion on the student radical movement evolved into a discussion on civil rights and black liberation that was dominated by Charles "so-called Johnson."

Johnson said he knew his name wasn't Johnson and that the only reason he had it was because one of his ancestors was a slave to a man named Johnson.

Johnson called the Arkansas Gazette "right-wing" for publishing a picture of Edward L. Whitfield with his rifle on the front page April 21, but not publishing pictures of white Reserve Officer Training Corps students marching on campuses with rifles. Whitfield, of Little Rock, is the leader of the Afro-American Society that led the armed takeover of Cornell University recently.

The discussion later turned to the differences between SSOC and the SDS. Neal criticized the SDS for not caring enough about the white Southern worker and an SDS representative criticized SSOC's symbol, a white and Negro hand clasped over the Confederate battle flag.

APPENDIX

SOUTHERN STUDENT ORGANIZING COMMITTEE (SSOC)

On November 1, 1966, a first source advised that the Southern Student Organizing Committee (SSOC) was formed on the weekend of April 3-5, 1964, to stimulate activity of Southern student groups in areas of civil rights, peace, academic freedom, civil liberties, capital punishment, and unemployment. Originally, it was to be a white counterpart of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC). It has agreed to work with similar interested groups such as SNCC and Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) and Southern Conference Educational Fund, Inc. (SCEF). SSOC is a fraternal affiliate of the SDS.

Beginning in the fall of 1966, SSOC became a membership organization and embarked on a campaign to form local chapters on various college campuses throughout the South. SSOC publishes, October through May each year, a publication, "New South Student," which according to the above source has increasingly espoused and defended the pro-Communist and anti-United States position on domestic and foreign policy.

On July 2, 1968, a second source advised that SSOC continues to be headquartered at 1703 Portland Avenue, Nashville, Tennessee, and continues to defend and espouse the pro-Communist and anti-United States position with particular emphasis on attacking United States policy in Vietnam and emphasis on attacking the Selective Service System. Source two noted that SSOC Chairman Thomas N. Gardner in the summer of 1967 traveled to Prague, Czechoslovakia, where he met with representatives of the National Liberation Front (NLF) and the Democratic Republic of Vietnam (DRV), and that SSOC staff members Bruce Smith and Alan Levin traveled to Cuba in the summer of 1967 and February, 1968, respectively.

By letter dated April 26, 1968, on SSOC letterhead mailed to the general SSOC membership over the signature of Mike Welch, Executive Secretary of SSOC, it was announced that as a step toward close relations with the Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) and better communications with the movement nationally, SSOC and SDS have worked out an exchange of the "New South Student" and the "New Left Notes," and that SDS and SSOC were exchanging contact lists of their respective memberships for this exchange.

Title: COMMUNIST INFLUENCE IN RACIAL MATTERS

Character: INTERNAL SECURITY - C

Synopsis: At the Missouri District CP State Convention held in SLMO, 4/13/69, HERSHEL J. WALKER, District Chairman and a member of the National Committee CP-USA, stressed that a new look must be taken by the organization to its approach to mass work because the organization was failing to take advantage of its opportunities in this field insofar as recruitment of new members was concerned. Missouri District CP also participated in a rally held in commemoration of MARTIN LUTHER KING, 4/4/69, andhas closely followed developments in a rent strike in St. Louis public housing projects. Communist penetration in St. Louis CORE and NAACP described.

DETAILS: AT ST. LOUIS, MISSOURI

I. COMMUNIST STRATEGY

A. Communist Party (CP)

A Missouri District CP Annual State Convention was held in St. Louis, Missouri, on April 13, 1969. One ARNOLD JOHNSON, a member of the National Committee CP-USA was in attendance at this convention. HERSHEL J. WALKER, Missouri District CP chairman and also a member of the National Committee CP-USA, was the initial speaker and in his report said that he was confident that the local leadership was honest and dedicated but lacked the drive needed to become the vanguard of the working class. He said that the CP locally would have to take a new look at the approach toward mass work. He said that now was the time to make recruitment gains and that the organization was failing to take advantage of its opportunities in mass work insofar as recruitment was concerned.

In a discussion that followed ELLIOTT WAXMAN, Missouri District CP press director, took exception to WALKER's remarks and said that local members were becoming so wrapped up in mass work that they forget they are members of the CP. Another prominent member said that CP members often put off CP work to do mass work and as a result the party suffers. It was also suggested that the party should renew its effort to obtain a center where the people could gather.

ARNOLD JOHNSON then took the floor and said that he felt that the local CP membership lacked confidence in itself. He contended that asking two or three individuals to gather in someone's home to discuss Socialism would be more productive than having a center insofar as building the CP was concerned. JOHNSON said the people would come into a home where they may not wish to meet in a public place. He said that it was his opinion that all the talk concerning a center or bookstore was not realistic and that it should be the task of each member to bring someone new to the next CP function and thereby double the party membership.

(SL T-1, April 15, 1969)

II. COMMUNIST TACTICS

A. Communist Party (CP)

At a meeting of the Missouri District CP State Committee held in St. Louis, Missouri, on March 5, 1969, there was a discussion concerning a contemplated rally to be held in commemoration of DOCTOR MARTIN LUTHER KING on April 4, 1969, in St. Louis. It was indicated that seventeen peace, Civil Rights, and church organizations had consented to participate in such a rally. It was stated that details for the rally had not been formulated but it was generally agreed that the CP should participate in every way possible.

(SL T-1, March 18, 1969)

At a regular meeting of the Industrial Area of the CP held at St. Louis on March 22, 1969, further details regarding the rally in commemoration of DOCTOR MARTIN LUTHER KING were discussed. It was indicated that it was initially planned that this meeting would be held between 12:00 noon and 1:30 PM, April 4, 1969, at the Old Post Office, Eighth and Olive Streets, St. Louis. It was subsequently decided, however, that the memorial service would take place on the steps of the St. Louis City Hall on the same date between 3:00 PM and 5:30 PM. The meeting would be preceded by a march and it was generally agreed that the demonstration would be peaceful.

(SL T-1, March 27, 1969)

At a meeting of the Community Area of the CP held in St. Louis in March, 1969, the rally in commemoration of the death of DOCTOR MARTIN LUTHER KING was also discussed. At this meeting ELLIOTT WAXMAN stated that he was anxious for many of the CP members to participate in this rally because it would be an excellent opportunity to distribute copies of the "Daily World", east coast Communist newspaper.

(SL T-2, March 10, 1969)

In April 1969, members of the Missouri District CP in general and HERSHEL J. WALKER, its chairman in particular, expressed considerable interest in a rent strike taking place at several public housing projects. WALKER indicated that he was concerned over the split in leadership in the strike and believed that there were serious differences between the leaders of the Pruitt-Igoe--Carr Square Housing Projects and those leaders on the south side at the Peabody-Darst Projects. WALKER believed that the threat to evict the rent strikers from the projects could develop into a highly explosive situation even into possibly a riot which St. Louis has been fortunate to avoid thus far. For this reason according to WALKER, the CP should stay on top of the situation and try to make sure that the rent strikers were victorious because a riot or eviction was no victory.

SL: 100-19352

III. COMMUNIST PENETRATION AND INFLUENCE IN RACIAL AND OTHER ORGANIZATIONS

A. St. Louis Committee of Racial Equality (CORE)

One member of the Industrial Area of the CP in St. Louis has been assigned to attend meetings and cover the activities of the St. Louis Chapter of CORE. This individual has been appointed co-chairman of the Housing Committee of the organization and one of his tasks is to keep CORE abreast of the latest developments in the public housing rent strike. The CP, however, exercises no influence, domination or control of the organization.

(SL T-1, April 23, 1969)

B. National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP)

Two members of the Community Area of the CP in St. Louis have been assigned to attend meeting of the NAACP. These individuals have on occasions attended meetings and functions of the organization but hold no offices and have exercised no influence in the organization.

COMMUNIST INFLUENCE IN RACIAL MATTERS

FRED (AHMED) EVANS is a black nationalist who has been on trial in Cleveland, Ohio for many weeks in connection with the ambush and killing of several Cleveland policemen in July, 1968. He was found guilty of murder in the first degree on May 12, 1969, in a trial which received much publicity, and was sentenced to die in the electric chair on September 22, 1969.

A source, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised that on Friday evening, May 9, 1969, the Ohio Communist Party (CP) held an Ohio CP Board meeting primarily to discuss the recent CPUSA 19th National Convention. During the meeting the question was raised about the Ohio CP coming out with a statement on behalf of FRED EVANS, whose trial was expected to be concluded on the next day. The Board agreed that a statement should be prepared by ANTHONY KRCHMAREK, Chairman of the Ohio CP, to be released to the local papers over the weekend. This article was not printed in local papers. (U)

Following the news release on May 12th, of EVANS' death sentence, the Ohio CP telephonically furnished the "Cleveland Press", local daily newspaper, with a statement, which article has not yet been published in the local paper. (U)

The CP position, according to source, is that racism was involved in this trial; that there was no evidence of first degree murder and at best only a conspiracy charge was proven; that for this reason the CP must make a determined effort to involve the American Civil Liberties Union in this case on EVANS' behalf; and that the CP must involve as many whites as possible in this case, because the Negroes will automatically become involved. (U)

Source advised that leading local CP members are already calling other members in an effort to implement the party decision. (U)

Reference Cleveland communication dated May 20, 1969, captioned as above.

A source, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised on May 22, 1969, that he has learned the following in the past several days concerning efforts of PHILIP BART, Secretary of the Ohio Communist Party (CP), and FREIDA KATZ, a member of the Ohio CP State Board, to become active in the FRED (AHMED) EVANS case: (U)

PHILIP BART, through another CP member, arranged to meet on May 21, 1969, with Dr. DONALD JACOBS, who is head of the Council of Churches in Cleveland, and at the time of the introduction, BART advised Dr. JACOBS that he was Secretary of the Communist Party in Ohio. BART explained that he was interested in finding out what the white people could do to assist FRED EVANS. Dr. JACOBS explained that a committee is being formed to assist EVANS, and advised of others already on this committee. Dr. JACOBS pointed out that because of his connection with the Council of Churches he does not want it publicly known that he is connected with this committee that is being formed to assist EVANS. BART suggested that Dr. JACOBS could just appear to be a concerned citizen. In this discussion with Dr. JACOBS, BART made it clear that he was not speaking on behalf of the CP or the white people as a whole. (U)

Later the same date, FRIEDA KATZ met with a small group she heads, which group is primarily concerned with abolition of the former House Committee on UnAmerican Activities. This meeting concerned only the FRED EVANS case, and KATZ pointed out that it is up to the white people to speak out in EVANS' defense, through letters to the newspapers, donations of money, and getting white organizations to form special committees for the defense of EVANS. KATZ said the conviction of EVANS was unjust and "I don't give a good God damn if Evans killed a dozen policemen. It was never proven that he killed anybody. He was convicted on a conspiracy charge." (U)

Also, during this meeting, there was discussion of giving support to students who have been arrested in demonstrations, and one of those present made the comment that the Negroes want a revolution. FRIEDA KATZ answered, "So do some of the students. While we do not think this is the time, if the students or blacks start one, we will sure as hell support them." (U)

Source stated that when FRIEDA KATZ learned that PHILIP BART had identified himself to Dr. JACOBS as being Secretary of the Communist Party of Ohio, she said she hoped BART did not give Dr. JACOBS the impression that he was speaking for the Communist Party. (U)

Reference Cleveland communication dated May 20, 1969, captioned as above.

A source, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised on May 22, 1969, that he has learned the following in the past several days concerning efforts of PHILIP BART, Secretary of the Ohio Communist Party (CP), and FREIDA KATZ, a member of the Ohio CP State Board, to become active in the FRED (AHMED) EVANS case:

PHILIP BART, through another CP member, arranged to meet on May 21, 1969, with Dr. DONALD JACOBS, who is head of the Council of Churches in Cleveland, and at the time of the introduction, BART advised Dr. JACOBS that he was Secretary of the Communist Party in Ohio. BART explained that he was interested in finding out what the white people could do to assist FRED EVANS. Dr. JACOBS explained that a committee is being formed to assist EVANS, and advised of others already on this committee. Dr. JACOBS pointed out that because of his connection with the Council of Churches he does not want it publicly known that he is connected with this committee that is being formed to assist EVANS. BART suggested that Dr. JACOBS could just appear to be a concerned citizen. In this discussion with Dr. JACOBS, BART made it clear that he was not speaking on behalf of the CP or the white people as a whole.

COMMUNIST INFLUENCE IN RACIAL MATTERS

FRED (AHMED) EVANS is a Cleveland black nationalist found guilty in the murder of several Cleveland policemen and sentenced to die in the electric chair on September 22, 1969.

A source, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised on May 19, 1969, that PHILIP BART, Secretary of the Ohio Communist Party (CP), has been in touch with the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) in Cleveland to solicit its help in the EVANS' case, and was advised that the ACLU would contact EVANS' attorney, as the ACLU always intercedes on behalf of anyone sentenced to the electric chair. (U)

PHILIP BART then contacted EVANS' attorney, STANLEY TOLLIVER, to offer his help in the EVANS' case, and to advise TOLLIVER that he can expect help from the ACLU. TOLLIVER knows BART to be a leader in the local CP, and stated that there was much work to be done and that 'lots of money' would be needed. BART noted that the CP did not have much money but would help in any way it could. (U)

TOLLIVER said black nationalists, plus a number of prominent people, black and white, are setting up a committee to work on this case, and one of those on this committee is Reverend DONALD JACOBS. (U)

Source also reported that FRIEDA KATZ, a member of the Ohio CP State Board has called a meeting of a small group in which she is active to see how this group can help. She wants to meet with Reverend JACOBS on this EVANS' case. (U)

Communists warn of renewed use of Smith Act

SAN FRANCISCO—The Communist party of Northern California, out of its own bitter experience with repression from the United States government, has issued a warning that the government is dusting off the Smith Act, the law the government used to send Communist party members to prison for years during the fifties.

The occasion for the statement was the revelation a Federal Grand Jury, meeting here April 30, to investigate the Black Panther party, was asking questions involving violations of the Smith Act.

In its statement, the Communist party said, in part:

"The nightmare is here again. In 1951 dozens of Communist party members in the U.S. were indicted for violating the Smith Act, during the infamous 'McCarthy Period.' With the support of labor, and many others the Supreme Court handed down a decision affirming the right of advocacy by anyone and thereby overturning a number of Smith Act convictions.

"Labor in the early 50s recognized the danger to the unions and spoke out. The CIO's 13th Convention deplored the Smith Act's use against Communist leaders and said 'it was a grave blow to America's precious heritage'.

"The ILWU International Executive Board of October 29-30, 1951 said: 'We have long warned that this Act contains within it the seeds of fascism. We have seen reactionary forces in Germany, Italy and Japan destroy unionism under the smokescreen of fighting communism'.

"In the 1951 trials against the Communists the Government introduced a parade of spies and stool pigeons who would sell out their mother for money out of fear. They lied and said just what was required of them. So now too the newspaper report that 'friendly witnesses' (meaning rats) and expelled agents are appearing before the Grand Jury to testify against the Panthers.

"Don't let it happen again. The Panthers or any one else have a right to advocate — to put out what they stand for and to organize to accomplish that purpose. Every union member, every right thinking person should demand that the Government stop persecuting the Panthers.

"Ask your union or any organization of which you are a member to protest!"

To All D.O.'s
To All Black Liberation Commission Leaders

Dear Comrades:

The Plainfield case is moving.

Minneapolis and Texas have sent material support; other districts have sent letters to Plainfield's Mayor, the Governor and to the Defense Committee.

The Plainfield people (black) are organizing a mass rally for June. The primary objective is the unification of the black community around the defense and to present the favorable potentialities for black-white unity in Plainfield for a struggle that will release the victims and set the stage for punishment of those who victim=ized them.

The Plainfield Committee supports the rally. It is preparing to reproduce the Donner fact brochure with added material.

You will need it. The weakness of the early material was its failure to link the fight for the freedom of the Plainfield victims with others being victim ized in "law and order" drive of the fascist-minded who calculate on establishment of a police state, creating a white back-lash and neutralizing millions of whites.

It is necessary to correct this weakness in all material you produce.

It is also vitally necessary to recognize that while the Plainfield political prisoners must be freed, we are on the threshold of a titanic ideological and political struggle to defend constitutional rights and liberties. For this, a national defense body is needed. You will be apprised immediately of all steps taken in this direction.

Let us know how the material you have taken is being received.

Formulate your own action program.

Intensify activities.

For Supporting Committee:

W. L. Patterson
James Tormey
Jarvis Tynner

(A second source, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised on June 27, 1967, that WILLIAM L. PATTERSON is Honorary Chairman of the New York CP District and a member of the District Board and Committee.)

(The same source advised that JAMES TORMEY is a member of the New York State CP District Board.)

(A third source, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised during February, 1969, that JARVIS TYNER is a member of the National Committee of the CP, USA.)

The first source also made available on May 26, 1969, a letter dated May 16, 1969, signed "WINNIE" and mailed from the National Office of the CP, USA, which letter is as follows:

May 16, 1969

Dear Comrades:

I write this letter after consultation with the publisher and distributors regarding Ben Davis' Communist Councilman from Harlem. I was surprised to learn that your district has not ordered any copies of this valuable work.

From the standpoint of present day problems, and as a reply to the question of Communist relevancy, this book is a most important document in present day struggles. It can help to acquaint large masses in motion with the position of our Party in the struggle for black liberation. It will help to raise the level of thinking -- that is conciousness -- within the mass movement and contribute to increasing the membership of the Party among the masses -- black and white.

It is difficult to explain this situation. Perhaps the main reason for this is the manner in which prominence has been given to the promotion of the book. Maybe preparations for district and national conventions were of such a nature as to cause a delay in placing the order, and/or in our estimation of this book as a weapon in the fight against racism and for black liberation. We are mutually concerned, whatever the reason, with a correction of this error.

This is a common concern for both of us. Merely to call this question to your attention is not sufficient. I am certain that you will discuss the matter with the comrades and help put over this great work.

Warmest regards,

Winnie

COMMUNIST INFLUENCE IN RACIAL MATTERS

The current directory pertaining to Spelman College, Atlanta, Georgia, reflects Dr. Vincent G. Harding to be Chairman of the Department of History.

The Atlanta Journal, daily Atlanta newspaper, on Page 2A of its Blue Streak Edition on January 15, 1969, with reference to the MLKMC, published an article bylined Harmon Perry and captioned "King's Widow Tells Of Plans for Center". This article stated the MLKMC is being developed in two parts, one of which includes the Martin Luther King, Jr., Library under the direction of Dr. Vincent Harding.

Confidential source two advised on January 13, 1969, he had learned that Stanley Levison was one of the principal trustees of the MLKMC and had participated in major planning therefore.

TO: All Districts and all National Committee Members

Dear Comrades:

Attached you will find minutes of the interim Commission on Black Liberation. We urge that you read them, and make any comments you wish. We hope that you will write your comments to the Commission.

One of the main proposals made was to request of the districts that they immediately set up District Commissions on Black Liberation and advise us re proposals for the district as well as for national and advise us as to leadership, so that we can correspond directly with the leadership.

We are trying to make the Commission a more efficient, more reflective and more in keeping with the needs of the Party and the liberation movement. With your help we will be able to effectuate a working Commission.

Comradely,

Charlene Mitchell
Acting Secretary
Comm. on Black Liberation

An interim "Commission" meeting was called and attended by the following: Patterson, Jarvis, Grace B. Ted, Earl, Claude and Charlene. A TU comrade from NYC was not in attendance.

The two point agenda was:

Organization of Commission and proposals for membership -- Claude

Proposals on application of resolutions adopted at 19th Convention - Charlene

Following is synposis of reports and discussion.

CLAUDE: This Commission above all others will have to play a more public role. Within the context of an internationalist party, the Commission should be a black liberation force, which is predominantly black and gives leadership to the whole Party and to the black liberation movement. The Commission should relate to the building of the Party especially as it coincides with our policy of industrial concentration, specifically in the industrial hub -- the Midwest.

We can seriously increase our public image much more than at anytime in the last period. We should issue materials, e.g. Patterson's speech in Chicago on Paul Robeson's birthday. We should use the news media more effectively. Chicago, Philadelphia and other cities have black nespapers with large circulations and Communists can get interviews and press releases into them.

Suggestions have been made that we get out a paper, a 4-page tabloid, professionally done. A commentary on news, actions, politics, C.P. position on questions facing the black liberation movement.

Must emphasize the stepping up of Party propaganda; should set up a committee for this purpose; propose that Patterson, Grace and Ted B. be responsible.

EDUCATION - Propose that a division of labor for the responsibility (Administratively) for classes, cadre training. Claude, Charlene.

There is a trend toward the study of Marxism, a desire to know what C.P. is thinking. Should be able to teach Marxism from standpoint of the black experience. Should make available outlines and bibliographies.

INDUSTRIAL CONCENTRATION - Roscoe should work in coordination with the trade union and the Black Liberation Commissions, with concentration in Midwest. Also suggest B.T. from NYC.

POLITICAL ACTION - Claude and Earl responsible overall, with sharp focus on political developments in the South.

The Commission membership should be relatively small, in the main a resident commission, which should meet monthly, periodically holding meetings in the districts to enable the focusing upon specific area problems and work. Teams of 2 or 3 should make extensive trips into the districts. Suggest that two non-New York residents be on Commission, Earl (Chicago) Art (Detroit).

YOUTH - Jerry and Jose S. Responsible, Jose - B.S.U.

Interim Commission to ask New York to organize a Commission and to appoint [illegible] from New York to be on National Commission.

ELECTION:

The comrades in attendance felt the need for more emphasis on how to relate to Chicano, Puerto Rican, Indian Commissions. After much discussion, including proposal for an overall oppressed minorities commission, it was felt that further thinking and consultation was needed before making concrete proposals.

PATTERSON: There is not another commission that is as aware of the role of the Party in bringing the necessity for liberation of black people into all the struggles.

The Commission should not only meet with other commissions, but must see that resolutions from the 19th Convention on black liberation are dealt with in all commissions and that members of this commission be present to lead these discussions.

The interrelation of the struggles of all oppressed minorities but must see the key of black liberation. There should be independent commissions and regular meetings between the Commission on Black liberation and other such commissions.

If our Party is to play a historical role in the development of the struggle for liberation of blacks, the Commission must play greater role in the education, classes and cadre training programs. Part of giving leadership to comrades in mass organizations. Should work out a curriculum.

TED B: Should understand that we have limited forces and must pay particular attention to: politics, industrial concentration and propaganda (which goes beyond agitation to the question of the system itself).

Must again write letters to the press. Possibly letters from Commission or members of commission will get printed.

Training of a Marxist cadre of extreme importance. Should have [illegible] classes for black comrades, trained as Marxists to work in black liberation [illegible].

There should be a direct link between Southern Commission and comrades in the field and the Black Liberation Commission.

Should look into the area of a cultural committee.

Should have a Puerto Rican comrade on the Commission.

JARVIS: Organized contact with our press and other newspapers will allow us to stay on top of ideological problems.

We should immediately establish a mimeographed tabloid or four page bulletin such as Party Affairs.

There is now being prepared a document on black liberation for the new [illegible] organization.

There is real need for an oppressed minorities Commission. May be difficult now but should try to get a conference within next six months. Need for such a conference obvious, witness growth of Chicano movement and influence. Problems of black and Chicano unity.

Must have more of an internationalist approach, particularly as related to Africa.

EARL D. This Commission to a great extent will determine the direction of the Party. This is correct if we view centrality of black liberation correctly. By virtue of work the Commission can set tone for every other field of work. The Commission is a working body and can't be all things to all people, must implement Convention decisions, specifically in 3 main areas: Politics, Youth and Labor. These should be implemented with programs and aims, with action proposals. These 3 areas determine what is happening in the country.

We have relinquished for too long the area of culture. Dialectics are based on the concrete experiences of ghetto life.

Kinds of problems related to labor, e.g. teachers' strike in Chicago. Need to redefine our understanding of problems as related to black people. Straight economist or class approach will not work. Need to be in print particularly around the clarifying of relationship and need for relationship of black to white workers.

We must demand and help form ideological committees in every commission to help deal with problems of black liberation.

Need to plan a budget for Commission.

GRACE: The recruiting of Negroes left almost entirely to our black [illegible]. White comrades should have some relationship to blacks as a conscious

...how ... combining ... and pro... and ... ...ail because of lack of forces.

Claude agreed with most of discussion and felt need for immediate ... around getting a "paper" out. To get Pat and Grace to pull a committee toge... to start work.

The proposal was made that Pat, Claude and Charlene follow this ... up by ... paring motions to present to National Committee and to try and pu... ... ...ittee ... and Coalition members.

A. The problems presented by the uniqueness of the American scene, the oppressed living side by side with the oppressor, differences and similarities to colonial peoples in Africa, Asia and Latin America.

B. Can the problems of black people be solved under capitalism for example the theories of black capitalism. More on question of democratic demands.

C. Discussion of slogans of self determination as related to the demands of separatism, must show our differences - these two not synonymous. Need to see where we disagree with organizations that call for separate states and failure to understand nature of capitalist society.

D. Can the black liberation movement, or must it ... for all other strata of population to be on the ... ... of struggle before black liberation forces ... demands on capitalism. What is necessary to ... the democratic struggles to the needs of black people. Can the black liberation move-ment win without allies. The need to define ... extended

E. Need to further spell out what we see as black capitalism; whether an ideology to feed illusions into the movement or merely a quest for the small black entrepreneur to own his own business. Do we see dangers in both, which is greater.

[illegible] need to redefine "cultural nationalism," need to understand [illegible] in seeing culturalism as an end unto itself, and the building of black knowledge and identity as being necessary and progressive. E.G. what is problem of black studies programs, what are they, should we not take part in the discussion of what they mean or should mean?

Resolution on black/white unity seems to be clearest of all. Can probably go into pamphlet without too much embellishment.

F. Self defense. Need to have special attention to problems of general defense of the rights and needs of black people. These problems was not sufficiently dealt with at the Convention, but self-defense is only part of the struggle. The massive political organizing campaign with two prongs, widest struggle against racism and the greatest participation in the defense, legal, political and active of the black liberation movement.

G. Motions on the South cannot work without concrete work on guaranteeing personnel. How do we mobilize Party around significance of work in the South. Commission must take part in responsibility, must help to find black comrades willing to do this important work.

There was general agreement on Charlene's presentation of the work that should be done, and the proposal to implement the direction of the remarks, especially the issuance of a pamphlet be undertaken immediately.

Reference Cleveland communication dated May 23, 1969.

FRED (AHMED) EVANS is a Cleveland Black Nationalist found guilty in the murder on July 23, 1968, of several Cleveland policemen and sentenced to die in the electric chair on September 22, 1969. Four other Black Nationalists have been indicted for these same murders, and their cases are pending. A committee, known as "The July 23rd Committee" has been formed by militant blacks to come to the defense of EVANS.

A source, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised on June 5, 1969, that PHILIP BART, who is Secretary of the Ohio Communist Party, considers the persons in charge of "The July 23rd Committee" as being disrupters, who are seeking glory for themselves, and who will only succeed in driving both Negroes and whites away from the defense of EVANS. (U)

BART advised on June 3, 1969, that he had written to WILLIAM PATTERSON in New York City concerning this EVANS case, and PATTERSON suggested that BART form his own committee for the defense of EVANS, and that the families of EVANS and the other defendants be contacted for their help in forming this committee. According to BART, PATTERSON also stated that he would contact some lawyers in Cleveland, connected with the National Lawyers Guild (NLG), to assist in the EVANS case, but that first BART must get either the defendants, or their attorneys, or their families to request this assistance from the NLG. PATTERSON suggested that BART act quickly. (U)

Source stated on June 5, 1969, that BART already has made arrangements for the contact of the defendants' families, and has also arranged for the recontact of Reverend DONALD JACOBS to see if JACOBS is still interested in working with "The July 23rd Committee", or whether JACOBS might now desire to associate himself with this new committee which is to be formed. JACOBS is head of the Council of Churches in Cleveland. (U)

III. COMMUNIST PENETRATION AND INFLUENCE IN RACIAL AND OTHER ORGANIZATIONS

The Capital District Communist Party (CDCP) held a meeting on March 13, 1969, in Schenectady, New York. At this meeting BERTHA KRIEGLER, CDCP member, gave a report to the meeting regarding the school board race that was taking place in Schenectady, New York. KRIEGLER stated that a local resident of Schenectady, MAUDE BRANIC, was going to run in the election and that BRANIC had stated that the "establishment" would try to stop her by picking another black candidate. NK

JOE KRIEGLER, CDCP member and husband of BERTHA KRIEGLER, stated that he considered FORREST BEVINS, a local Negro in the Schenectady area, to be interested but that he and BERTHA felt that BEVINS did not have enough public popularity to do much good in the election. NK

At the conclusion of the meeting, BERTHA KRIEGLER stated that she wanted the local CP to contribute money to BRANIC's campaign. MIKE DWORKIN, CDCP member, advised the group would think about contributing money to the campaign but no definite action was taken.

A confidential source advised in April, 1964, that STANLEY LEVISON was a secret member of the Communist Party (CP), USA, in July, 1963. In late 1963, and early 1964, he criticized the CP for not being sufficiently militant in the civil rights struggle. LEVISON was described by certain CP leaders as being to the "left" of the CP in his position in civil rights. LEVISON's differences with the CP, however, are merely tactical and he continues his ideological adherence to Communisum. (U)

On June 11, 1969, a confidential source advised he understood that Ralph D. Abernathy, President, Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC), had recently requested Jack O'Dell, Special Aide to the President, SCLC, to arrange with the magazine Freedomways to publish in the near future (date not known) a special issue of this magazine. This issue will be concerned with the Mexican-American Indian and endeavor to emphasize the economic and social plight of these people.

In making his request of O'Dell, Abernathy explained he did not feel there has been in the past sufficient publicity establishing the extremes of poverty endured by those people.

It was sources understanding that as of June 11, 1969, O'Dell had successfully made the arrangements requested by Abernathy.

FREEDOMWAYS ASSOCIATES, INC.

The records of the New York State Secretary of State, Albany, New York, show that the Certificate of Incorporation of Freedomways Associates, Inc., was filed on March 2, 1961.

On May 24, 1961, a source advised that a report was given on "Freedomways" at a meeting of the National Board, Communist Party, United States of America (CP, USA), held on May 24, 1961. It was stated that the central purpose of "Freedomways" is to develop a theory and positive criticism of currents in the Negro Movement, as well as to raise the level of understanding and discussion taking place in Negro life today and to project a socialist and pro-Soviet orientation.

On May 25, 1961, a second source advised that "Freedomways" was set up for the CP, USA by JAMES JACKSON.

The second Quarter, 1968, issue of "Freedomways", self-described as "A Quarterly Review of the Negro Freedom Movement" published by Freedomways Associates, Incorporated, 799 Broadway, New York City, lists the following as its editorial staff:

JOHN HENRIK CLARKE	Associate Editor
ESTHER JACKSON	Managing Editor
J. H. O'DELL	Associate Managing Editor
JOHN L. DEVINE	Art Editor

"The Worker" an East Coast Communist newspaper, June 25, 1967, Page 10, contained an article on a memorial to MIKE GOLD held at Town Hall, New York City, the previous Friday night. It said that one of the speakers was JOHN HENRIK CLARKE of "Freedomways".

"The Worker", May 21, 1967, Page 3, contained an article on the death of MIKE GOLD on May 15, 1967, in San Francisco, California. It described him as having been an author and columnist for "The Worker" for 32 years. It noted that he joined the CP "shortly after it was founded and to which he adhered till the day he died".

A third source advised on February 16, 1968, that a committee from the 6th Assembly District Club, Kings County CP, visited BUNNY DEVINE, a member of that club, on February 14, 1968, to determine why she had not attended club meetings for more than one year. BUNNY DEVINE said she had talked with JAMES JACKSON about the possibility of organizing a new club in their area with members of their intellectual and cultural level and that he was in favor of it. She said she believed her husband, JOHN DEVINE, and ESTHER JACKSON would join such a club.

A fourth source advised on April 16, 1968, that JAMES JACKSON, husband of ESTHER JACKSON, is the Chairman of the International Affairs Department, CP, USA.

The fourth source advised on May 1, 1967, that, as of April, 1967, O'DELL was considered by the CP, USA, as being a member of its National Committee.

"The growing desperation of the ruling circles is leading to a mounting reactionary offensive which is assuming dangerous proportions. The military defeat in Vietnam and the accompanied social crisis at home is forcing the ruling circles to seek new forms and methods of curbing the mounting peoples movement in this country.

"The main form for doing this at present is to use the police powers of the government at all levels to conduct a general offensive of police, national guard, state and county police in physical and frame-up attacks against the peoples movement. This is now coupled with hearings of the McCarthy type and newspaper, radio and television propaganda...

"The offensive is at present directed against the student rebellion and the black militant movement. The organization presently receiving the sharpest and most brutal blows is the Black Panther Party...

"The brutal attack against the Black Panther Party in its open terreristic methods is a parallel to the offensive against the Vietnam people where more bombs have already been dropped on its 30 million people than in all of World War II...

"The Black Panther Party has called a conference for a United Front against the reactionary offensive presently underway. The District Committee has endorsed and has voted to help build the participation of as many individuals and organizations as we can influence to participate...

"The attack on the Panthers leads to another consideration to be placed before this convention. The general offensive against the people's movement has resulted in some 1500 cases presently being before the courts as a result of the struggles at San Francisco State and at U.C. In San Francisco State where over 700 cases are now before the courts we have found that there has been a breakdown of the defense committee and the lawyers' committee to provide legal defense.

"It is estimated that appeal bonds will cost the movement over $100,000 just for bond premiums. There is no center to decide whether or not to appeal, what cases to appeal, etc. But mainly, for our consideration, there is not a committee to organize a mass campaign to expose what is going on around these cases. The courts are being deliberately used to smash and bankrupt the movement. It is reported to us that appeal bail is being set as high as $2,000 for misdemeanors.

"In the Mission District of San Francisco, 7 Latinos have been charged with murder. The police terror in the Mission District has been aimed at suppressing the conditions faced by the Chicanos who now have a large community in that area...

The policeman who was allegedly killed by the Mission 7 is presented as a fine, sensitive and beloved person who could do no wrong... We do not pretend to know who killed the policeman. But some things we do know. It is only necessary for 7 Latinos to be together in the Mission District to be fair game for any cop on or off of his beat...

"The 19th Convention of our Party called for the formation of a Marxist-Leninist Youth organization based around 7 principles, to have fraternal relations with the Party. Planning committees are now preparing papers on Strategy, Black Liberation, the Working Class, Students, and Imperialism.

"It is expected that a founding convention will take place this year. The specific proposals from our Youth Panel as steps to be taken are as follows:

"To build one group to encompass the Bay Area. This would break down into various groups based on activities such as trade unionists, community, student, black or brown liberation, etc. The organization should be a working class organization and its efforts aimed first at young Black, Brown and white trade unionists. Student work should be concentrated on campuses with high percentage of working class background students.

"The function of the organization should be educational, social and political action in that order at first. The function of the group would be to bring Marxist-Leninist ideas to young people through education. The organization would be a non-Party organization, but Party members would try to win the non-Party members to an understanding of Party policy in a non-factional manner...

"The memo on District perspectives issued by the DC calls for developing working class methods of work, with discipline and the carrying out of policies and tasks. It means to develop the same approach to leadership as to Party policies. Decisions of the Party on policies and leadership must be accepted, and correct channels used to make changes, adjustments in both policies and leadership.

"This would mean that all forms of negative carping and criticisms would be eliminated. Such methods only weaken and discourage the Party."

A proposal to support the Black Panther Party (BPP) and the BPP Conference in July to provide a united front against fascism was passed. At the convention, registration forms were distributed, which stated they were for a National Revolutionary Conference for a United Front Against Fascism in Oakland, California, on July 18, 19, 20 and 21. The forms stated they were to be returned to the BPP headquarters in Berkeley, California.

"Out of these attacks must evolve the type of defense movement which will develop into a people's movement that will wage an offensive movement on all fronts against the ruling class

"Within this general framework, we must wage a struggle for the defense of the Seven.

"The campaign to defend 'Los Siete de la Raza' must be waged in such a way that it keeps the seven brothers from getting a lynching. At the same time that we build a massive movement, we must work to build a deeper sense of national and working class consciousness.

DETAILS:

AT SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS

I. COMMUNIST STRATEGY

SA T-1 (4/20/69)

On April 20, 1969, the State Convention of the Communist Party (CP) of Texas was held at San Antonio, Texas. At this meeting, JOHN STANFORD, JOHN INMAN, MELA SAGER, HATTIE INMAN and MARIANN VIZARD, among others, were elected to be members of the Texas State CP Committee.

At the convention, JOHN INMAN lead a discussion on Black Liberation.

INMAN went into a history of the Negro people and how the Negro people were brought to the United States in chains as slaves and as slaves they were exploited. The Negroes are still being exploited and the phrase of "Burn Baby Burn" is a manifestation of the Negroes' exploitation because the capitalist system is exploiting the Negroes. According to INMAN, the CP must work for the Negroes. The CP, according to INMAN, has not heard all of the positions on various problems taken by the Negroes.

INMAN went on to state that the daily press is poisoning the minds of the people against the Negroes under the guise of law and order.

At this same convention, MELA SAGER lead a discussion on the Women's Question. She stated that the women are discriminated against, they are the lowest paid persons in the United States, and Negro women are even lower than white women. Because of the economic conditions, many of the women must go to work and leave their children at home, according to SAGER. That is why, SAGER stated, many poor minority children die in burned homes because they are left there by their mothers.

JOHN STANFORD

SA T-2 (6/18/69)

On 6/17/69, during a meeting of the CP of Texas State Committee, JOHN STANFORD, who is a member of the National Committee, CPUSA, and Southern Organizer, CPUSA, was elected Organizational Secretary, CP of Texas. As Organizational Secretary, STANFORD is also a member of the Executive Committee of the CP of Texas.

JOHN INMAN

SA T-1 (6/18/69)

On 6/17/69, during a meeting of the CP of Texas State Committee, JOHN INMAN, who is a member of the CP of Texas State Committee, was elected Chairman of the CP of Texas. INMAN, as Chairman of the CP of Texas, is also a member of the Executive Committee of the CP of Texas.

SA T-2 (6/19-20/69)

On June 20, 1969, JOHN STANFORD, supra, advised that MARIANN VIZARD, supra, told him (STANFORD) that LARRY JACKSON had been thrown into jail in Austin, Texas, and she was trying to do everything to get him out. According to STANFORD, VIZARD, who was in San Antonio returned to Austin, Texas, and took CARLOS RICHARDSON with her.

LARRY JACKSON

The January 14, 1968, issue of The Daily Texan, a University of Texas, Austin, Texas, daily newspaper, identified LARRY JACKSON as an organizer for the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee (SNCC).

CARLOS RICHARDSON

On January 22, 1969, CARLOS RICHARDSON was interviewed by FBI Agents and stated he is a SNCC organizer and took some training in that field in Austin, Texas.

STUDENT NON-VIOLENT COORDINATING COMMITTEE (SNCC)

A characterization of SNCC is contained in the appendix attached hereto.

SA T-2 (6/24/69)

On June 24, 1969, during a meeting of the Executive Committee of the CP of Texas in San Antonio, attended by JOHN STANFORD and JOHN INMAN, JOHN STANFORD related that he had received a telephone call from an organizer for the Meat Cutters' Union. This organizer had been somewhat concerned regarding a meat cutters' strike that the possibility existed that Negroes would be used as strike breakers. According to STANFORD, this organizer wanted STANFORD to use his influence to contact various persons to see if the Negroes would not let themselves be utilized for this purpose. STANFORD instructed CP members to discuss this matter at a social of the Black Muslims (Nation of Islam [NOI]) which was to be held on the evening of June 24, 1969. In addition, JOHN INMAN was instructed to try to contact CARLOS RICHARDSON, supra, to see what influence INMAN could have over RICHARDSON to help prevent the blacks from being used as strike breakers.

A characterization of the NOI and Muhammad's Mosque of Islam (MMI) is contained in the appendix attached hereto.

II. COMMUNIST TACTICS

No information developed.

III. COMMUNIST PENETRATION AND INFLUENCE IN RACIAL AND OTHER ORGANIZATIONS

SA T-1 (6/25/69)

On June 24, 1969, some CP members attended a social affair of the NOI held in San Antonio, Texas.

The CP members tried to talk to the Negroes present individually into letting JOHN STANFORD, supra, talk to them about "All Points of View," STANFORD's bookselling business. The Negroes refused since they were not interested in talking to "whitie."

"ALL POINTS OF VIEW"

SA T-2 (6/18/69)

JOHN STANFORD has continued since April, 1961, to use the name and address of "All Points of View," P.O. Box 321, San Antonio, Texas, for the bookselling business which STANFORD conducts from his residence in San Antonio. STANFORD mainly sells books and literature favorable toward the Communist point of view.

IV. MISCELLANEOUS

SA T-2 (5/21/69)

On May 17, 1969, it was learned that LARRY JACKSON, supra, was staying at the El Tropicano Hotel in San Antonio, Texas, with some of "his friends," as the invited guests of the 184st General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church of the United States of America.

Newspaper accounts indicated that the assembly had invited some militant blacks as well as Mexican Americans to address the assembly regarding injustices to both black and brown minorities.

It was reported that on May 17, 1969, JACKSON was observed at the El Tropicano Hotel in possession of two rifles after JACKSON was seen talking to an individual by the name of JOHN.

SA T-1 (5/21/69)

On May 17, 1969, HATTIE INMAN, supra, contacted JOHN STANFORD, supra, and complained that LARRY JACKSON, supra, had left two rifles at her residence and she did not want the rifles around the house. It was reported that both STANFORD and INMAN expressed concern about JACKSON's possession of the rifles and both indicated that JACKSON was somewhat irresponsible.

STANFORD, in order to relieve HATTIE INMAN of her concern, reportedly picked up the rifles at the INMAN home and delivered them to JACKSON at the El Tropicano Hotel. One of the rifles was described as an old Springfield Army surplus rifle and the other was a "civilian" type rifle reported to have a value of about $100.

STANFORD reportedly conveyed to JACKSON STANFORD's concern that JACKSON had these rifles and JACKSON is reported to have stated the rifles were not loaded. JACKSON gave no indication why he had the rifles.

It was also reported that JACKSON had apparently been drinking.

JACKSON stated that the "Presbyterian people" that had invited him to the assembly were so concerned about him and his friends being at this assembly that "they will fly us to New York if we want to go."

The significance of this last statement by JACKSON was not known.

~~APPENDIX~~ (U)

NATION OF ISLAM

A source advised on May 3, 1968, that the Nation of Islam (NOI) is an all-Negro organization originating in Detroit, Michigan, in the early 1930's. Elijah Muhammad is the leader of the NOI and self-styled "Messenger of Allah" in that he claims Allah (God) selected him to lead the so-called Negro out of slavery in the wilderness of North America by establishing an independent black nation within the United States. Headquarters of the NOI is located at Muhammad's Temple (or Mosque) Number 2, 5335 South Greenwood Avenue, Chicago, Illinois.

Muhammad teaches there is no such thing as a Negro; that the so-called Negroes are slaves of the white race, referred to as "devils," in the United States; and that the white race because of its exploitation of the so-called Negro will be destroyed by Allah in an approaching "War of Armageddon," a war between God and the devil.

Officials and members of the NOI, including Muhammad, have refused to comply with provisions of the Selective Service Act, stating that they respect laws of the United States as long as they do not conflice with the laws of the NOI, but do not believe the government should force them to participate in wars from which they have nothing to gain.

In the late 1950's, Muhammad, acting on legal advice, tempered NOI teachings against the white man and the government to avoid possible prosecution; however, basic tenets remain the same. He de-emphasized religious teachings in the NOI and emphasized economic benefits derived by so-called Negroes who join the NOI. Muhammad believed this would create more interest in his programs and, of course, new followers.

MUHAMMAD'S MOSQUE OF ISLAM
SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS

On June 29, 1965, a source advised that on June 28, 1965, Dane Ward, Acting Minister of the Nation of Islam (NOI) group in San Antonio, Texas, advised that this group is affiliated with, contributes to, and receives instructions from, the NOI Organizational Headquarters, Chicago, Illinois.

This source further advised that on June 28, 1965, Richard A. McDonald, former minister of the NOI in San Antonio, presently at odds with the current San Antonio NOI leaders, advised that he was trained to be a minister of the NOI at their university in Chicago, Illinois, and was sent to San Antonio, Texas, to establish a branch of the NOI, which he did.

On February 16, 1968, a second source advised that Muhammad's Mosque of Islam (MMI), San Antonio, Texas, is presently headed by Minister Joshua Edward Wilson, who is receiving instructions from both NOI Headquarters in Chicago and NOI Temple at Houston, Texas. This source advised that the organization now officially refers to itself as Muhammad's Mosque of Islam and has prepared a sign which reads Muhammad's Mosque of Islam.

RACIAL MATTERS

A confidential source advised on July 2, 1969 that Andrew J. Young, Executive Vice President, Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC), recently informed Ralph D. Abernathy, President, SCLC, that Stanley Levison in the very near future would have a new SCLC mail appeal letter ready. According to Young, Levison was very optimistic that SCLC would realize appreciable financial contributions from this appeal. Levison's optimism is based on progress made to date and what he feels is further progress to be accomplished shortly by SCLC on behalf of Negro hospital workers in Charleston, South Carolina. (C) U

Source has previously advised the SCLC mail appeal is a program of soliciting via mail financial contributions to SCLC which is handled by the New York City Office of SCLC under the general supervision of Stanley Levison. (C) U

STANLEY LEVISON

A confidential source advised in April, 1964, that STANLEY LEVISON was a secret member of the Communist Party (CP), USA, in July, 1963. In late 1963, and early 1964, he criticized the CP for not being sufficiently militant in the civil rights struggle. LEVISON was described by certain CP leaders as being to the "left" of the CP in his position in civil rights. LEVISON's differences with the CP, however, are merely tactical and he continues his ideological adherence to Communism. (U)

Synopsis: At the District Convention of the New England District of the CPUSA held in Boston, Massachusetts on April 12-13, 1969, it was charged the CP is not operating with the Black Liberation groups; that racism is a reality; that blacks are now ready for the liberation breakthrough, and the CP has not contributed anything to the blacks.

~~- P* -~~

On April 25, 1969, BS T-1 advised that the New England District of the CPUSA held its convention at Boston, Massachusetts on April 12 and 13, 1969.

EDWARD S. TEIXEIRA, District Organizer for the New England District, spoke on the Black Liberation issue. He charged the Communist Party (CP) was not operating with the Black Liberation groups and more blacks must be recruited into the Party. He charged that Boston contractors keep the blacks out of trade unions.

☆ U.S. GOVERNMENT PRINTING OFFICE: 1967—O—273-878

POLLY ~~HALFKENNY~~ said that racism is a reality. She called for more interest to be shown in the class struggle at the schools and universities and said there must be more support for the hiring of black construction workers.

ANNE BURLAK TIMPSON said blacks and whites must unify to achieve socialism and that communities must develop better organizations to bring about black liberation.

DON HALFKENNY said a resolution on black liberation is a necessity for the Party to guarantee the freedom of the blacks and to guarantee self-determination in local communities. He called for blacks and whites to unite to fight capitalism and declared black capitalism must be condemned and rejected in the black communities. He asked for more black representation to help the black struggle for equal opportunities in all trades.

QUENTIN BASSETT commented that although the blacks are now ready for the black liberation breakthrough, the Party has not contributed anything to the blacks. She called on the Party to insist that in court trials, black defendants must have black juries.

Sources familiar with various phases of racial activity in the Boston Division, contacted in July, 1949, advised they knew of no communist influence among racial groups in the Boston Division.

FREEDOMWAYS ASSOCIATES, INC.

The records of the New York State Secretary of State, Albany, New York, show that the Certificate of Incorporation of Freedomways Associates, Inc., was filed on March 2, 1961.

On May 24, 1961, a source advised that a report was given on "Freedomways" at a meeting of the National Board, Communist Party, United States of America (CP, USA), held on May 24, 1961. It was stated that the central purpose of "Freedomways" is to develop a theory and positive criticism of currents in the Negro Movement, as well as to raise the level of understanding and discussion taking place in Negro life today and to project a socialist and pro-Soviet orientation.

On May 25, 1961, a second source advised that "Freedomways" was set up for the CP, USA by JAMES JACKSON.

The second Quarter, 1968, issue of "Freedomways", self-described as "A Quarterly Review of the Negro Freedom Movement" published by Freedomways Associates, Incorporated, 799 Broadway, New York City, lists the following as its editorial staff:

JOHN HENRIK CLARKE	Associate Editor
ESTHER JACKSON	Managing Editor
J. H. O'DELL	Associate Managing Editor
JOHN L. DEVINE	Art Editor

"The Worker" an East Coast Communist newspaper, June 25, 1967, Page 10, contained an article on a memorial to MIKE GOLD held at Town Hall, New York City, the previous Friday night. It said that one of the speakers was JOHN HENRIK CLARKE of "Freedomways".

"The Worker", May 21, 1967, Page 3, contained an article on the death of MIKE GOLD on May 15, 1967, in San Francisco, California. It described him as having been an author and columnist for "The Worker" for 32 years. It noted that he joined the CP "shortly after it was founded and to which he adhered till the day he died".

A third source advised on February 16, 1968, that a committee from the 6th Assembly District Club, Kings County CP, visited BUNNY DEVINE, a member of that club, on February 14, 1968, to determine why she had not attended club meetings for

A. COMMUNIST PARTY OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA (CP, USA)

On April 9, 1969 the Executive Committee of the District Board of the Minnesota-Dakotas District Communist Party (MDDCP) met in St. Paul, Minnesota, to prepare the agenda for the Communist Party (CP) District Convention to be held on April 13, 1969 in Hastings, Minnesota. One of the items was a workshop on black liberation.

At the convention, ROSE BRUNS, a member of the CP District Committee, gave a report on black liberation which generally called for the CP to speak out on white racism.

MP T-1 on April 10 and
April 15, 1969

At a meeting of the St. Paul CP Club held April 8, 1969, BETTY SMITH, Organizational Secretary of the MDDCP, stated that racism is worse now than it ever was and the CP must concentrate on this problem. She said that because the blacks have been barred from trade unions in some places they plan to form black caucuses and will, in effect, tell the unions "either take us in or we'll form one of our own and compete with you for membership."

MP T-2 on
April 15, 1969

At a CP meeting held May 6, 1969 BETTY SMITH said the district expected to receive 5,000 leaflets concerning racial tension in New Jersey which may be distributed in Minneapolis against the mayoralty candidacy of CHARLES STENVIG, who was running on a law-and-order platform against DAN COHEN, endorsed by the major political parties. SMITH said she did not like COHEN either, but apparently considered him the lesser of two evils.

B. OTHER COMMUNIST GROUPS

On May 21, 1969 at a meeting of the Twin Cities Branch of the Socialist Workers Party (TCB-SWP) NANCY STREBE, an active SWP member, announced that three members of the Black Panther Party, (BPP), Des Moines, Iowa, would appear at a SWP meeting in Minneapolis on May 24, 1969.

May 21, 1969

It was learned in May 1969 that three BPP members were being brought to Minneapolis by the SWP for speaking engagements for three days. The three, from Des Moines, Iowa, would be staying with SWP member NANCY STREBE in her apartment in Minneapolis.

MP T-4 on
May 22, 1969

At approximately noon on May 23, 1969 a rally was held in front of Northrup Auditorium at the University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, featuring three members of the BPP. The principle speaker was CHARLES SMITH, Deputy Defense Minister, BPP, Des Moines, Iowa. He spoke to an estimated attendance of 150 - 200 and discussed the "Des Moines 14." He described them as 14 blacks who had been arrested by the "pigs" (Des Moines Police Department) and called for support, both financial and otherwise, for the defense of these individuals. He accused the police of having played a role in the recent bombing of the BPP headquarters in Des Moines, charged them with brutality and with invasion of the premises after the bombing.

He discussed the BPP's program and called for general support of this program against the "pigs", who not only exist in uniform but out of uniform in the Army, in the Pentagon, and even in the White House. He called the BPP the vanguard of oppressed people. The "Minnesota Daily", student publication of the University of Minnesota, in its edition of May 22, 1969, indicated that SMITH's appearance and rally was sponsored by the SWP.

On May 23, 1969 the "Minnesota Daily" published an article entitled, "Panther attacks 'pig power structure' ". The article indicates CHARLES SMITH, Deputy Defense Minister, Des Moines, Iowa, was appearing in Minneapolis under the sponsorship of the SWP. He related two incidents in Des Moines, Iowa, in which he severely criticized police actions in arresting Negroes.

On May 23, 1969, the "St. Paul Pioneer Press", a daily newspaper of general circulation, carried an article captioned, "Black Panthers Urge Activity Here." This article contained the comments of E. CHARLES SMITH, Deputy Minister of Defense, BPP, Des Moines, Iowa, from a speaking engagement at Macalester College, St. Paul, Minnesota. During this engagement, SMITH outlined an extensive program of Black Panther objectives and urged greater activities in the Twin Cities area.

On July 14, 1969, a meeting of the Northern California District (NCD) Committee of the Communist Party (CP) was held at 81 Clementina Street, San Francisco, California. (U)

Gus Hall, General Secretary of the CP, USA, was the main speaker. He declared that the National Office of the CP, USA, had carefully reviewed its needs and had concluded that it was necessary to have Roscoe Proctor on the National Secretariat because of his qualifications and ability. Hall stated that Proctor would work with the National Negro Commission and would be used in the labor field particularly in the industrial belt in Ohio, Indiana, and on up to Detroit. He said Proctor would also get all over the country. He said it was expected this would not be a temporary job, but would be permanent, involving Proctor moving his family and home. (U)

Proctor was asked how he felt about the assignment and he replied that he was in favor of it except for the effect on his family. He said his wife was willing to try it for a year provided the move East could be accomplished in (U)

Several persons present expressed reservations about this move because Proctor has been the principal contact between the CP and the Black Panther Party (BPP) and that without Proctor being in the area, the CP would lose much of its contact with the BPP, at a time when the CP had decided to move into closer relationship with the BPP. (U)

A motion was then carried that Proctor be kept in Northern California until after an October conference of the Party as this would give an opportunity to evaluate the results of the National Conference for a United Front Against Fascism, sponsored by the BPP from July 18 - 21, 1969 in Oakland, California, and if things progressed well, Proctor would be released. of Southern Student Organizing Committee (SSOC) in Charlotte, North Carolina, with headquarters at 3017 Central Avenue, Charlotte, North Carolina. The leaders of this group were three girls, ELIZABETH SOUTHWORTH KITSON, GAIL LUNSFORD, and SANDRA MAGRUDER, who lived at this address. T-1 subsequently learned in June, 1969, that this group had become a chapter of Students for a Democratic Society (SDS), with headquarters at 521 Lander Street, Charlotte, North Carolina.

Characterizations of SSOC and SDS are contained in the appendix to this report.

T-1 furnished information in June, 1969, reflecting that ELIZABETH S. KITSON, a leader of the SDS group in Charlotte, was in contact in March, 1969, with DANNY RUBIN, National Organization Secretary, Communist Party, USA, regarding her attendance at the 19th National Convention of the Communist Party, USA.

On May 16, 1969, CE T-2 advised that on April 17, 1969, ELIZABETH S. KITSON, [redacted] had sent $7 to JOHN STANFORD, San Antonio, Texas, and she indicated that this money was "for dues prior to NY." b6 b7C

CE T-3 advised on April 24, 1969, that JOHN STANFORD is Southern Organizer, Communist Party, USA, and a member of the National Committee, Communist Party, USA.

On June 22, 1969, CE T-4 advised that the Organization of Afro-American Unity, Incorporated (OAAU), Charlotte, North Carolina, which is attempting to affiliate with the Black Panther Party, held a public rally in Freedom Park in Charlotte on Sunday afternoon, June 22, 1969. According to T-4, members of SDS in Charlotte also participated in and spoke at this rally. One of the speakers was ELIZABETH (WORTH) KITSON, who was introduced as a member of the SDS. She demanded the immediate withdrawal of all United States troops from Vietnam, demanded the abolishment of the Selective Service System, and stated that the SDS would solicit the support of their black brothers in furthering the workers revolution against the capitalists. She said that both blacks and whites should support the rank and file workers in the coming workers revolution against capitalistic employers.

According to T-4, GAIL LUNSFORD was introduced also as a member of SDS. She spoke on equal rights for women.

According to T-4, the rally began with 18 Negroes dressed in Black Panther regalia, marching to the speaker's stand in a column of two. As they marched, they counted cadence and shouted "Power to the People," and gave the Black Power salute.

Characterizations of OAAU and BPP are contained in the appendix to this report.

On July 9, 1969, T-4 advised that members of SDS in Charlotte, North Carolina, and members of a group attempting to affiliate with the BPP are planning to conduct a demonstration in Charlotte, North Carolina, on July 11, 1969, protesting the appearance in Charlotte, North Carolina, of Vice President SPIRO T. AGNEW. They plan to gather in front of the Post Office in Charlotte and begin with a reading of a list of names of Vietnam war dead after which they will march to the White House Inn where the Vice President will stay for their demonstration.

T-1 advised on July 11, 1969, that approximately 25 to 30 demonstrators, including nine Negroes wearing all black including black berets, marched in front of the Post Office building approximately 6:00 P. M. on July 11, 1969. They then marched to the White House Inn where they picketed for approximately one hour. They were carrying signs critical of the Vice President and also signs demanding an end to the war in Vietnam. Upon leaving the White House Inn, altercation occurred between some demonstrators and three members of the United States Army. The disturbance was broken up by officers of the Charlotte Police Department with no arrests being made and the demonstrators dispersed.

APPENDIX

ORGANIZATION OF AFRO-AMERICAN UNITY, INC. (OAAU)

On June, 28, 1964, Malcolm X Little, founder and leader of the Muslim Mosque, Inc. (MMI), publicly announced the formation of a new, all-Negro, militant civil rights action group to be known as the Organization of Afro-American Unity (OAAU), with himself as Chairman. This announcement was made at a public rally held by the MMI in the Audubon Ballroom, Broadway and 166th Streets, New York City.

A printed and published statement of basic OAAU aims read by Malcolm X at this meeting indicates that it shall include "all" people of African descent in the Western Hemisphere, as well as "our" brothers and sisters on the African continent. It is patterned after the "letter and spirit" of the Organization of African Unity established (by African heads of States) at Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, in May, 1963.

A recording of the remarks of Malcolm X at this meeting indicates that the aim of the OAAU is to eliminate differences between Negroes so they can work together for "Human Rights," while the initial objective is to "inter-nationalize" the American civil rights movement by taking it to the United Nations. Little condemned the nonviolent civil rights movement and claims that Negroes should be taught to protect themselves, when and if necessary. The OAAU will sponsor a program for Negroes in education, politics, culture, economics and social reform.

Malcolm X was assassinated on February 21, 1965, while addressing an OAAU rally at the Audubon Ballroom, New York City.

On April 13, 1965, a source advised that on March 26, 1965, the OAAU filed a Certificate of Incorporation with the Department of State, State of New York, Albany, New York, and henceforth the organization's true name would be Organization of Afro-American Unity, Incorporated.

On February 28, 1966, a second source advised that the president and head of the OAAU is Ella Collins, a half-sister of the late Malcolm X who resides in the Harlem Section of New York City.

On May 8, 1967, the first source advised that the headquarters of the OAAU is located at 224 West 139th Street, New York, New York, which is the residence of Ella Collins.

many occasions indicated that she planned to create a CP, USA organization in New Mexico, but according to the informants of this office, she has not achieved her goal. BLAWIS has indicated she is the only person who is in contact with all of the other members of the CP, USA in the State of New Mexico, and has stated she has intermittent contact with each of these individuals. These informants characterized PAT BLAWIS as one who thinks big but just does not follow through. PAT BLAU BLAWIS and her husband, JACK BLAWIS, who is employed by the State of New Mexico, were scheduled to leave the U. S. on or about 8/3/69 for a visit to the USSR. Informants of the Albuquerque Office have stated that it could be that PAT BLAWIS does not desire publicity in connection with her CP, USA affiliations because of the employment of her husband by the State of New Mexico. They have offered this as a possibility because of PAT BLAWIS' failure to organize and to create a functioning CP, USA organization in this state.

[redacted] and [redacted] individually advised during June, 1969, that in their opinions there are no serious racial problems in the State of New Mexico and because of this, representatives of the CP, USA, have not found racial matters in this state to be good issues for exploitation. b7D

The Albuquerque Office has reviewed all information available and there is no indication noted of any Communist influence in racial matters during the period for which this letter covers. All sources of the Albuquerque Office have been contacted during the period covered by this letter and these sources have furnished no information reflecting the evidence of any racial problems in this state. These sources state that it is their opinions that action taken in connection with racial matters in the State of New Mexico is on a legislative basis.

All of the sources of the Albuquerque Office have been alerted again to immediately report any and all information coming to their attention concerning possible Communist influence in racial matters to this office.

The investigation by Albuquerque concerning this matter for the past three months has been completely negative and therefore, no report is being submitted. In view of the negative character of Albuquerque's investigation, no local dissemination is being made.

T-1 furnished additional information as follows:

The second speaker on April 19, 1969, was PAUL BOUTELLE, who was introduced by RUSSELL BLOCK of Bloomington,

*Characterization appears in Appendix.

Indiana, YSA. Boutelle is a candidate for mayor of New York City on the Socialist Workers Party (SWP)* ticket, and he made the following points:

1. He criticized what he described as "secularistic nationalism evolving out of the rationalism of the black power movements" citing Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee (SNCC), and Black Panther Party (BPP) as examples. He will not support nor condemn the BPP.

2. He wants nothing to do with the white man, and wants no help from him.

3. Current black leaders like JAMES FARMER and ROY WILKINS have "sold out to the white man."

4. Black people have no regard for their history and select as models people on the contemporary scene.

They should look farther back into their history. In this regard, BOUTELLE claimed that KARL MARX and LEON TROTSKY could trace their ancestry back to the Iberian Peninsula and Moorish ancestors who were black men.

5. The black man can avow socialism as it has no particular identification with color or race.

According to T-1, GEORGE KONTANIS, co-organizer of YSA at the University of Illinois and Chairman of the conference on April 19, 1969, in connection with the presentation by BOUTELLE, suggested a statement of solidarity with HUEY P. NEWTON of the California BPP.

ILLINOIS

Springfield confidential informant T-2, who has furnished reliable information in the past, also attended the speech of PAUL BOUTELLE, who made the following points:

1. Black nationalism has always existed in the West but with varying intensity. It is a "work phenomenon".

2. Developing black nationalism is necessary in the United States as living under white power has "brainwashed" blacks.

*Characterizations of SWP, SNCC and BPP appear in the appendix.

3. "Freedom is a world-wide struggle" and "this is truly an age of revolution we are living in."

4. Black nationalism is bigger than any individual, organization or political party, and is international in scope. BOUTELLE said that he did not need authority from MARX or LENIN to approve the need for a change for blacks. Referring to TROTSKY, BOUTELLE said, "He is not my god".

5. Too many blacks are not involved in the everyday problems of blacks and the implication is that black power advocates are only seeking power for themselves. The leadership and orientation of black power organizations will eventually change as they recognize the necessity of organizing around the needs of blacks. He referred to black power advocates who hinder the movement as "parasites" and "pimps".

6. Most black people are not revolutionaries and most of them have never heard of the SWP. At the same time they are becoming dis-satisfied with the political, economic and educational system under which they live. There are few blacks who "advocate socialism and revolution like myself. I am a black nationalist, atheist, revolutionary."

7. In order for blacks to control their own community, it is necessary that each one become a "black revolutionary" and support a black political party. This does not exclude the SWP as it is not organized for white or black but is based on "class ideas". However, black nationalism will develop no matter what the SWP does.

8. The Black Panther Party (BPP) is now groping for the best means to get a change for blacks. The BPP in Detroit, Michigan, is the most politically developed as "they know what Marxism is all about and know how to defend themselves." However, the development of the BPP does not necessarily have to happen.

9. Oppressed people will use any means necessary to free themselves. The U. S. Army is the biggest supplier of guns and blacks will get them if and when they need them. The SWP is revolutionary because it advocates a total change in society though maybe not at this particular time. It has studied many different revolutions and can provide blacks with the viewpoints of Trotsky and Lenin. People interested in change should study "the accumulated knowledge of revolution."

10. An individual cannot want freedom and be a pacifist, and it is impossible to be a pacifist in the anti-war movement. Protest should be reserved for people who are "social revolutionaries" and "any means necessary to overthrow capitalism is justified." Reform movements can lead people to a "revolutionary conscientiousness" as it lets them see what is happening in the world.

B. Springfield confidential informant T-3, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised on April 30, 1969, that GEORGE GRAHAM, a member of the Students for a Democratic Society (SDS)* at Southern Illinois University and BILL MOFFETT, a member of the Young Socialist League (YSL)* and the Southern Illinois Peace Committee, have banded white radicals and black students at Southern Illinois University together and have planned the following for May 1, 1969, at Carbondale, Illinois:

A rally during the noon hour at the Southern Illinois University campus with the purpose of showing support for black people in Cairo, Illinois. After the rally a march is contemplated to a Federal or State building in Carbondale where demands will be made for Federal, integrated troops to be sent to Cairo to replace Illinois National Guard troops. According to T-3, if the demands are not met the group will take over a Federal or State building in Carbondale, or either go to Cairo with arms.

On May 1, 1969, T-3 advised that the only activity on the part of Southern Illinois University students on May 1, 1969, consisted of a small rally near the Student Union Building which consisted of a "speak-out" followed by efforts to collect donations for people in Cairo. Approximately 40 students were in attendance at this rally. T-3 further advised that members of SDS, along with black students, had agreed to cease the demonstration in view of the fact that approximately 4,000 to 5,000 Negro fraternity members would be in Carbondale, Illinois from May 2, 1969, through May 3, 1969, attending a social function known as "Kappa Karnival".

*Characterization of SDS appears in appendix. Also YSL.

STUDENTS FOR A DEMOCRATIC SOCIETY

A source has advised that the Students for a Democratic Society (SDS), as it is known today, came into being at a founding convention held at Port Huron, Michigan, in June, 1962. From an initial ideological posture of "participatory democracy," the current line of the national leadership reveals an adherence to Marxism-Leninism. Michael Klonsky, National Secretary, in March, 1969, called for the building of a revolutionary Marxist-Leninist movement. The program of SDS has moved from involvement in civil rights struggles to an anti-Vietnam war position and finally to its present advocacy of an anti-imperialist line, linking up the oppressed peoples of Asia, Africa and Latin America with the black liberation movement in the United States. China, Vietnam and Cuba are regarded as countries which are leading the world-wide struggles against United States imperialism. On the other hand, SDS regards the Soviet Union as an imperialist power and does not support the policies of that country.

SDS maintains a National Office in Room 206, 1608 West Madison Street, Chicago, Illinois. Its official paper "New Left Notes" reflects the line of the national leadership and program adopted at meetings of the National Council and National Interim Committee (NIC). Three national officers and a NIC of eleven members are elected each year during a June National Convention.

SDS Regional Offices and university and college chapters elect delegates to National Council meetings wherein program and ideology are debated, but each Region and chapter is autonomous in nature and is free to carry out independent policy and programs reflective of local conditions.

YOUNG SOCIALIST LEAGUE

The March 1, 1954, issue of the "Young Socialist Challenge", published as page three of "Labor Action", an official publication of the Independent Socialist League (ISL), contained an article concerning the creation of the Young Socialist League (YSL), which pointed out that at a unity conference occurring February 12-14, 1954, at Labor Action Hall, New York, New York, a merger occurred between the Young Peoples Socialist League (YPSL) and the Socialist Youth League (SYL). The new organization was named the YSL.

A source on 6/15/54, made available the minutes of the YSL's National Action Committee meeting of 4/13/54, which reflected that one S. Siteman, "Chairman of SP (Socialist Party) Youth Committee," had objected to a statement appearing in "Commerce", a New York University Journal, which indicated that the YPSL merged with the SYL to form the YSL. He explained that the YPSL did not merge with anyone, that it continued to exist as the youth section of the Socialist Party. He explained that a small group of the YPSL was dropped, expelled, or suspended from that organization and joined the SYL, which he characterized as the youth group of the "Trotskyite ISL." He explained that after these few former members of the YPSL joined the SYL, the SYL then proceeded to change its name for its own purposes.

On April 9, 1956, another source advised as follows:

The YSL has frequently worked in close sympathetic cooperation with the ISL toward similar objectives, although each major issue given mutual consideration is decided upon by these organizations individually. The YSL serves as an apprenticeship for the ISL, but ISL selection of members from YSL ranks is made on an individual and personal basis. In many instances YSL members are also members of the ISL. The YSL and the ISL utilize the same printing house in New York City and the YSL publication is printed as an insert in "Labor Action." Frequently, lecturers before the YSL are ISL members.

APPENDIX

SI 100-10317

The September 22, 1958, issue of "Young Socialist Challenge", which appeared as page five of "Labor Action" contained an undated statement from the National Action Committee of the YSL which indicated that the YSL had been dissolved. The statement appeared under the caption "Join the Young Peoples Socialist League."

The YPSL is publicly known as the youth affiliate of the Socialist Party - Social Democratic Federation.

I. COMMUNIST STRATEGY

The Miami Communist Party (CP) membership has received copies of Volume 3, Number 13, issue dated June 30, 1969, of "Party Affairs," identified on the masthead as "A publication of the Communist Party, U.S.A., 23 West 26th Street, New York, N.Y. 10010."

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

This document contains neither recommendations nor conclusions of the FBI. It is the property of the FBI and is loaned to your agency; it and its contents are not to be distributed outside your agency.

This issue contains reports given by the Panel on Black Liberation of the Communist Party, United States of America (CPUSA), at the 19th National Convention held April 30 - May 3, 1969, at the Towers Hotel, 25 Clark Street, Brooklyn, New York.

MM T-1
July 9, 1969

The following Resolution of the Black Liberation Panel concerning "Work in the South" was adopted at the 19th National Convention. It is set out on pages 8 and 9 of the aforementioned issue on "Party Affairs," as follows:

"1. Our Party should concentrate on rebuilding the Party and the Party structure in the South.

"2. This Convention should go on record to secure a minimum of ten comrades, black and white, to move to the South.

"3. A budget should be worked out and funds made available to guarantee the rebuilding of our Party in the South.

"4. We should guarantee a full time Southern coordinator.

"5. A Southern Commission should be set up, made up in its majority of comrades living and working in the South.

"6. Prior to sending comrades into the South, the Party should undertake a special school to train cadre both in Marxist-Leninism and in the unique character of the South and the necessity for our white comrades in particular to be on guard against any and all manifestations of white chauvinism. The school should be mandatory for all cadre moving to the South, and special means should be found to guarantee that as many comrades already living in the South as possible can attend.

"7. We strongly urge the Daily World to set up a Southern bureau, assigning more than one comrade, giving priority to the black comrades for the task, and that the Party help secure the personnel.

"8. As part of our industrial concentration, we should begin the struggle for unions based in the North to initiate programs of organizing the unorganized in the South and we encourage comrades moving to the South to get jobs in industry and give impetus and leadership to organizing drives.

"9. The incoming national leadership should be instructed by this Convention to increase the sending of leading comrades to the South for speaking engagements, for initial contacts with workers, students and other forces, and to help with suggestions for special approaches and actions.

"10. While areas of concentration are not spelled out here, we do propose that the number of states chosen be limited to 3 and a maximum of 4. We should take into account those states where the greatest activity or potential activity around working-class and trade union struggle is or will be taking place, where there are people's movements and organizations and where students, black and white, are engaging in struggle. The area should be defined by the proposed Southern Commission.

"11. A special commission should be drawn together for the purpose of issuing a Communist Party program on agrarian reforms in the South.

"12. We call upon the incoming leadership to find the cadre and to set up the school and Southern Commission within six months after the closing of the Convention."

MM 100-15058

"Daily World" is an East Coast communist newspaper.

The Miami CP has received no further instructions from the CPUSA National Office on implementing this Resolution on Party Work in the South, nor has the National Office indicated where the special school to train cadre both in Marxism-Leninism and the unique character of the South and the Southern Bureau of the "Daily World" will be established.

The "Daily World" describes the PJDC as an organization consisting of concerned black and white supporters who are asking the release of MADDEN and MERRIT and the setting aside of the indictment of BOBBY LEE WILLIAMS.

The "Daily World" is an east coast communist newspaper.

A letter was sent out of the National Office of the CPUSA addressed to "All District Organizers", dated April 9, 1969, asking that the PJDC be given widespread support including financial contributions.

On June 13, 1969, the NJCP State Board held a meeting in Newark, New Jersey, and JIM TORMEY who was present stated that in connection with the $1,000 loan, he expected each CP club to pay $100 in order to aid him in repaying the loan. He said the $1,000 was given to the "Plainfield Three" Committee to assist in its work. TORMEY urged each member present to write a letter to the Governor of New Jersey on behalf of the "Plainfield Three" soliciting the support of his office, with a copy to be sent to the "Plainfield Three" Committee which will demonstrate the support being given them.

TORMEY said the "Plainfield Three" issue must be made a national and international issue and that it should be used as a catalyst. TORMEY urged that donations be sent the committee.

According to a letter dated May 22, 1969, from the National Office of the CPUSA, to all District Organizers, activities on behalf of the "Plainfield Committee" should be intensified and each district should formulate an action program. Examples of such action are letters to the Mayor of Plainfield, the Governor of New Jersey, and to the Defense Committee itself.

The letter was sent over the names of W. L. PATTERSON, JAMES TORMEY, and JARVIS TYNER.

Dear Comrades:

The enclosed material is self explanatory. A few further words on the Plainfield, New Jersey frame-ups.

The cases of Gail Madden and Geo. Merritt, Jr., who are serving life sentences are on appeal. The briefs in this case will soon be filed.

The case against Bobby Lee Williams will very soon go to trial, possibily in September.

In the meantime the Plainfield Joint Defense Committee continues its courageous work in an environment of violence directed against the black [illegible]. The city administration has sought to intimidate members of the Committee; many of those who were acquitted in the original trial of the 12 are now serving prison terms of several years each on spurious charges; two young black men have died as a result of police brutality. One, Isaac Bennett, Jr., was picked up at his home last December while very ill on a charge of non-support -- his worried parents pleaded for his safety to no avail -- he died three days later in prison due to neglect. Another, Henry Bostic fell off a porch while engaging in fisticuffs -- while he lay on the ground seriously hurt, neighbors called for an ambulance -- a police car came instead. The neighbors pleaded that the cops not touch him since he was hurt, only to have the cops drag Bostic over the ground. He died a few days later. Such is the continuing terror of Plainfield.

It takes courage to fight back in Plainfield. The problem of getting a defense committee together was the great problem of instilling hope in theminds and hearts of black and white alike. To win this fight will bring Geo. Merritt's freedom; will bring Gail Madden back to her two infant children -- and will save Bobby Lee Williams. It will do something more: it will give the victors a sense of power -- to strike back at racism and other forms of oppression.

As the Committee's brochure directs, a massive counter-offensive is necessary.

We call upon our comrades, everywhere, singlely and collectively, to support this struggle with every resource we can command!

Comradely,

Jim Tormey

Jim Tormey B.L.

M E M O R A N D U M

At a recent meeting of the National Secretariat a report was made on the significance and status of the infamous Plainfield Frame-up cases and proposals adopted supporting the struggle for the freedom of its victims. In brief form the following was agreed:

1. Plainfield frame-ups are characteristic of hundreds of others in our country--the very fact that Plainfield is typical is precisely why it is important. One exceptional feature, however, is that there is a strong defense committee on the scene, composed of black and white which has become a national center in the fight back. This committee can facilitate the battle against racism everywhere and is willing to do so on specific grounds wherever it can muster support for its cause.

2. The arrests are against average black people indiscriminately chosen by a racist police department. They are not "movement" people. They cannot be made to carry the stigma of force and violence so falsely fostered by the ruling class against the militant unity can be achieved within the black community between black and white in the struggle for the freedom of the Plainfield victims.

3. In the main the leaders of the Plainfield struggle welcome support from all quarters and generally recognize that the holding of average black people as hostages in jail for life is directed against the whole of the black people; that the arrests and frame-ups against militants is an attempt to decapitate the freedom movement. This is why the Plainfield Joint Defense Committee sent a letter to the recent United Front Conference Against Fascism held in San Francisco, asking for support.

4. This is why the magnificent fight back in Plainfield can help to achieve unity in action against racism of all forces; it can help to overcome in this instance some of the differences between the militants in the black community and the bulk of its population; more important, it has the potential of a broad black and white unity cutting thru most stratas of the population of our country. The fact that the Plainfield Committee welcomes the formation of committees throughout the United States can facilitate this.

5. We think these concepts of the Plainfield Committee are supportable--more, that it is our bounden duty to do so. Some have questioned why Plainfield when we have so many cases in our own area. To this we say that we feel that the Plainfield concept of uniting militants and democratic forces generally, is unfortunately, still an uncommon one. That it provides an unusual leadership in this kind of a fight; but most of all, there should be no contradiction in supporting Plainfield while associating struggles against local frame-ups and other nationally known frame-ups. This would help to join forces together to the benefit of all. As an example of this approach see attached resolution which was presented at the recent United Front Conference Against Racism held in San Francisco. It was favorably received; its main contents accepted and will soon be published in a somewhat revised form. If indeed such an approach is acceptable to militants, it could foreshadow a much needed bridge between many elements of the new left and the broader democratic forces of our country. We should encourage even this spark of recognition for such a unity is life saving.

We propose:

1. That werever local defense committees exist they be urged to support the Plainfield struggles; order its material and propagate its cause in all ways.

2. Where there are no [illegible] defense committees, that a Plainfield Defense Committee be set up; or where there are local frame-ups that joint defense committees be set up; Plainfield materials should be sent for immediately as an aid to doing this.

3. Money is needed to carry on the fight--remember that the Committee in Plainfield has become a national center--it intends to put out millions of pieces of literature. This plus court costs is a heavy burden which should be shared by all who will. Special approaches to those who can contribute large sums of money should be made; but even more important, dollar bills from average people. Some unions in New Jersey are financially supporting the effort. Other type organizations can be gotten to do likewise, etc., etc.

4. Even prior to the above activities, and as an aid to achieving them, send orders for brochures and petitions and other materials. Requests should be made directly to the Committee. It would be helpful if a donation would be enclosed with such orders to defray costs, etc.

5. Letters and telegrams demanding the freedom of the Plainfield victims should flood Gov. Hughes of New Jersey as directed in the Plainfield Committee's brochure, etc. Copies of these should be sent to the Committee; this will encourage it to carry on the fight--this is urgently necessary. Any and all forms of solidarity expressions to the Plainfield Committee by organizations and individuals will be a morale builder.

R E S O L U T I O N

For a Joint National Campaign to Free Huey Newton and the Plainfield Frame-up Victims - Gail Madden, George Merritt, Jr., and Bobby Lee Williams.

WHEREAS, the Plainfield, New Jersey, frame-up of twelve black young people has resulted in the railroading of Gail Madden, mother of two, and George Merritt, Jr., a Marine Corps veteran, to jail for life for their alleged participation in the fatal assault on the racist cop John V. Gleason by an outraged community on July 16,1969, and

WHEREAS, this assault was provoked by Gleason's wanton shooting of Bobby Lee Williams, maiming him for life. And while the critically wounded Williams had been removed to the hospital before the assault on the cop took place, he was arrested eighteen months after the incident, charged with criminal assault with intent to kill, and facing a possible twenty-six-year imprisonment because he could not be bought for purposes of becoming a government stool against the twelve, and

WHEREAS, Plainfield, New Jersey, has become a city of terror against its black population, witnessing daily occurrences of police harassment and provocations, so that today most of those acquitted in the trial of the twelve are now serving prison terms on other phoney charges, and two young black brothers--Isaac Bennett, Jr., and Henry Bostic--died in jail soon after they were picked up as a result of their brutal handling by the police, and

WHEREAS, there is now taking place a deliberate national conspiracy to decimate militant black leaders, such as the Black Panthers and other militants who dare to lead the resistance of the oppressed of this nation against this sick, racist society and out from under all forms of oppression, and

WHEREAS, the objective of the genocidal attack upon the black people is to smash the freedom struggle, to intimidate the black people by holding as hostages non-movement people--such as Gail Madden George Merritt, Jr., and Bobby Lee Williams--as a warning to all black people to submit or they will face a similar fate, and

WHEREAS, the object of jailing Huey Newton, the arrest of Bobby Seale and scores of other black and white militant leaders is intended to decapitate the leadership of the freedom struggle in order to force the oppressed to submit to their oppression, and

WHEREAS, the existence of hundreds of similar frame-ups from one end of the country to the other has made it hard to mobilize our maximum power and has scattered our fire in the fight-back, therefore be it

RESOLVED that by concentrating the main fire around these two cases that they be related to other local cases, thereby giving strength to the local struggles as well, and be it further

RESOLVED that local committees be set up in all areas to unite both black and white to a joint nation-wide counter-offensive against the growing police-state repressions.

COMMUNIST INFLUENCE
IN RACIAL MATTERS

Also enclosed with TORMEY's letter were the following:

A petition addressed to RICHARD J. HUGHES, Governor of New Jersey, urging the Governor to use his executive powers to free "three innocent black persons" from punishment unjustly inflicted upon them by the police of Plainfield, New Jersey, and by the judicial authorities of Union County.

A petition addressed to the U. S. Commission on Civil Rights, 26 Federal Plazza, New York City, New York, urging a thorough investigation of the Plainfield City officials, the Plainfield Police Department, and the Union County Prosecutor's office that will serve the interests of justice and reenforce the integrity of the judicial process.

(Both petitions are to be returned to the Plainfield Joint Defense Committee, 218 Watchung Avenue, Plainfield, New Jersey.)

A six-page flyer, issued by the Plainfield Joint Defense Committee, requested "Urge Your Relatives, Friends, and Neighbors to Do These Three Things Now:"

> "1. Bring the facts of these cases to your church, synagogue, trade union, school, youth organization, political club, civic organization. Invite our committee to send a speaker to your group.
> "2. WRITE TO: Governor Richard J. Hughes, State House, Trenton, N. J., asking him to quash the indictment against Bobby Lee Williams and to free Gail Madden and George Merritt, Jr.
> "3. WRITE TO: Jacques E. Wilmore, U. S. Commission on Civil Rights, 26 Federal Plaza, New York, N. Y., asking him to investigate the conditions in Plainfield and the conduct of the governmental authorities that led to the indictment of 12 young black people for the murder of Patrolman Gleason and to the indictment of Bobby Lee Williams.

The flyer also urges that contributions be sent to the Committee.

The letter and all enclosures were directed to the Montana Communist Party District.

(A second source, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised on May 6, 1969, that JAMES TORMEY was elected to the CP, USA, National Committee at the 19th National Convention, New York City, April 30 - May 3, 1969.)

DETAILS: AT ST. LOUIS, MISSOURI

I. COMMUNIST STRATEGY

A. Communist Party (CP)

At a meeting of the Industrial Area of the CP held in St. Louis, Missouri, on May 24, 1969, WILLIAM (RED) DAVIS, Educational Director for the Missouri District CP, led the group in a discussion of an article by CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT, a nationally prominent CP member, on the subject of Black Liberation which had appeared in a recent issue of the "Daily World", an east coast Communist newspaper. As indicated in the discussion which constituted the educational portion of the meeting, the article stressed the areas of agreement between the Black Nationalist Movement and the CP. An example of such agreement is the right of black people to have economic and political control of their communities and also the right to defend oneself, property, and loved ones.

(SL T-1, June 3, 1969)

At a meeting of the Missouri District CP State Committee held in St. Louis on June 8, 1969, HERSHEL WALKER, District Chairman, disclosed that he had received a letter from HENRY WINSTON, CP National Chairman, asking that a Black Liberation Commission be set up in each CP district. WALKER said that this commission would be the same as the old Negro Commission. Members for the commission were selected and WALKER said the commission's first task would be to find some solution for the local rent strike at public housing projects.

(SL T-1, June 12, 1969)
(SL T-2, June 10, 1969)

II. COMMUNIST TACTICS

A. Communist Party (CP)

In furtherance of its efforts to support the local rent strike in public housing projects, the CP delegated one of its members to visit a Reverend BUCK JONES at the Plymouth House, 1522 Carr Street, St. Louis, on May 28, 1969. Reverend JONES is an acknowledged leader in rent strike activities. Reverend JONES pointed out that the rent strike was aimed at bringing the rents down to a level which the tenants could afford to pay rather than to accept the new pricing policy per unit which was uniform throughout the various projects involved without regard to the respective incomes of the tenants. Although the rent strike is basically economic, it has racial overtones because the vast majority of the tenants in the projects are Negroes. Reverend JONES pointed out that little assistance could be expected from the city, state and federal governments and that these governments would not recognize the condition as a crisis unless there was some sort of a disaster such as a riot or burn-out. The purpose of the CP members' visit with Reverend JONES was to ascertain details of the rent strike so that same could be reported to the CP membership.

(SL T-2, June 1, 1969)

On June 3, 1969, at the suggestion of HERSHEL WALKER, Reverend BUCK JONES was informed of a meeting of local ministers which was to take place on the same date. It was felt that Reverend JONES would be able to explain the plight of the rent strikers and thus solicit the support of local ministers who in turn would be able to gain support for the strikers through the various congregations.

(SL T-3, June 9, 1969)

I. COMMUNIST STRATEGY

A. Communist Party (CP), USA

1. Plans, Strategy, Party Line, and the Like Made at National Meetings, Including Expressions by National and Other Functionaries

On April 24, 1969, the Global Book Store, 4415 Second Avenue, Detroit, Michigan, sponsored a forum at its new headquarters. At this meeting there were approximately 40 people in attendance and CLAUDE MACK LIGHTFOOT, former Vice Chairman of the CP, USA, and Executive Secretary of the Illinois CP spoke.

A characterization of "Global Books" is contained in the appendix pages attached hereto.

LIGHTFOOT spoke on "The Black Liberation - A Communist Viewpoint". In this speech LIGHTFOOT spoke of the military, industrial complex and how it reflects upon the black minority in America. He stated that the black people in the United States need allies to overthrow the military, industrial complex which is oppressing. He also stated that the oppression of the blacks in the United States is similar to Hitler's extermination of the Jews in that it is slowly starving the blacks to death. He also stated that black people are becoming the surplus on the labor market. Automation is displacing black people from their jobs and the authorities are knowingly giving blacks narcotics as a plot to eliminate them from being effective workers, and also stated that they are "becoming victims of the facist furnaces that have been set up for them".

LIGHTFOOT stated that the first problem is employment. Capitalism cannot provide enough jobs under the present system. LIGHTFOOT called for a new coalition of whites and blacks and the elimination of the militants from the movement who want segregation. The only way to accomplish the revolution is through an integrated coalition. LIGHTFOOT stated that the CP must lead this new alliance.

During April, 1969

2. Plans, Strategy, Party Line, and the Like Made at District and Lower Level Meetings, Including Expressions by Local Leaders and Rank and File Members

On May 12, 1969, TOMMY DENNIS, State Chairman of the Michigan District Communist Party (MDCP), spoke at an MDCP meeting which was held at 4295 Buena Vista, Detroit, Michigan. DENNIS stated that the Party embraced the elimination of racism in the United States as one of its central tasks. The Party will support the Negro liberation movement and will closely observe this movement to see which direction it will take. He stated that the CP has always been for self-determination of all national groups and especially of the black group.

During May, 1969

On June 2, 1969, an MDCP meeting was held at 19178 Collinson, East Detroit, Michigan. At that meeting TOMMY DENNIS stated that the upcoming Detroit City elections were very important and that the election of Mayor is the most important. DENNIS stated that the two black candidates that were running , RICHARD AUSTIN and WILLIAM PATRICK, will not get the support of the black community or of the CP. DENNIS indicated that the CP should support someone such as State Senator COLEMAN YOUNG of Michigan, who formerly was a member of the MDCP. He indicated that a person such as YOUNG would bring unity to black and white workers.

3. Plans as Revealed in Party Publications

II. INFORMATION ON COMMUNIST DIRECTION AND INFLUENCE IN DEMONSTRATIONS, DISTURBANCES, ETC.

No information developed.

III. COMMUNIST PENETRATION AND INFLUENCE IN RACIAL AND OTHER ORGANIZATIONS

On April 28, 1969, HARRY WINSTON, CP, USA National Chairman, stated to other National CP leaders at 23 West 26th Street, New York that the situation was generally good with respect to Communist infiltration of the racial groups, and that the Party had made some good contacts with black organizations in Detroit, Michigan, WINSTON did not elaborate on the Detroit situation, however.

DE T-4
During May, 1969

On June 20, 1969, CONRAD KOMOROWSKI, a member of the CP in New York City, stated that he was extremely excited about the fact that the Negroes and the Poles in Detroit had formed an alliance. TO: Members - District Commissions on Black Liberation
All Disctricts and National Committee Members

Dear Comrades:

On June 2, 1969 we sent you the minutes of the Interim Commission on Black Liberation. To date we have received very few responses.

We made a request that each district set up District Commissions and asked that you advise us as to the leadership. Please let me now reinstitute this request.

Inasmuch as many of the comrades responsible for the work of the Commission have been out of the country, it has been difficult to follow through on many of our proposals but I do hope that we will hear from you very quickly so that we may be able to more efficiently coordinate the work.

We look forward to your immediate reply, in which hopefully you will include results from your discussions, your proposals, and the issues and developments within the mass movement in your district.

Please let us hear from you soon.

Comradely,

Charlene Mitchell
Acting Secretary

I. COMMUNIST STRATEGY

A. Communist Party, USA (CP, USA)

1. Plans, Strategy, Party-line, and the Like Made at the CP of Illinois Meetings, Including Expressions by CP of Illinois Leaders and Rank and File Members

a. General

The CP of Illinois' influence in the Chicago Freedom Movement can be summed up as follows:

The CP of Illinois continues to exert little or no influence on policy matters of the Chicago Freedom Movement. Civil rights organizations active in the Chicago area in which the CP of Illinois endeavors to exert some influence are the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP), Negro American Labor Council (NALC) and Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC).

Concerning the NAACP the CP of Illinois still maintains LESTER DAVIS, CP of Illinois member, assigned to the Chicago Branch NAACP. This individual, however, at the present time, is doing little or nothing to implement CP policy relative to the NAACP.

With respect to the NALC, the CP of Illinois currently has the following individuals who form a collective from the CP of Illinois within the NALC:

HERBERT WRIGHT, member of the State Committee, CP of Illinois;

NATE SHARPE, member of the State Committee, CP of Illinois;

RALPH TURNER, member of the CP of Illinois;

CORNELIUS COBBS, CP National Committee member;

CG 100-41324

IRENE WRIGHT, CP of Illinois member; and

CHARLES WILSON, CP of Illinois member

HERB WRIGHT is the Vice President and NATE SHARPE is a member of the Executive Board of the Chicago Chapter, NALC.

The main objective of this collective is to involve the NALC in a program to end discrimination against Negroes in the building trades. The NALC's program at the present time can be considered quite ineffective.

Concerning the SCLC, at the present time, there are no CP of Illinois members active in this organization and the CP of Illinois exercises no influence in this organization.

(CG T-1, 9/8/69,
CG T-2, 9/10/69)

b. CP of Illinois State Convention

On April 19, 1969, a CP of Illinois preconvention session was held in Chicago, Illinois. At this session JACK KLING spoke on the draft resolution stating that it places strong emphasis on the struggle against racism and in support of black liberation which are keys to a realization of unity among the working class. The resolution also opposes black separatism in that a unity of black and white workers cannot be effected, if black separatism continues to grow.

(CG T-3, 4/29/69)

As of May, 1969, JACK KLING was a member of the State Board, CP of Illinois.

(CG T-1, 5/69)

The Illinois CP State Convention was held April 18-20, 1969, in Chicago. At this convention and while commenting on black liberation, CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT stated that the people are now witnessing the floundering of two major civil rights organizations, which were deserted by their black leadership after gaining nation-wide prestige. One of these organizations, the Congress on Racial Equality, according to LIGHTFOOT, has gone into debt to the extent of a half a million dollars and the other organization, the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee (SNCC) is dead nationally.

(CG T-2, 4/22/69,
CG T-4, 4/25/69,
CG T-5, 4/21/69,
CG T-6, 4/24/69)

CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT, as of May, 1969, was chairman of the Illinois CP District.

(CG T-1, 5/69)

A characterization of SNCC is attached.

c. CP National Convention

The National Convention of the CP, USA, was held April 30 through May 3, 1969, in New York City. GUS HALL, General Secretary, CP, USA, delivered the main address. HALL emphasized that the class struggle is the number one item on the agenda for the American CP. He stated that trade union unity must be related to the class struggle. The most dynamic upsurge in the trade union movement, according to HALL, is a powerful growth of rank and file black caucuses within the trade union movement. HALL called the black caucus a special form of struggle not related to racism and said the danger to the Party is that the Party has tended to underestimate the growth of these movements. HALL then reminded the convention that white supremacy and racism are obstacles to black and white unity and he called upon the Party to fight chauvinism within its own ranks.

(CG T-7, 5/5/69,
CG T-8, 5/5-6/69)

Illinois

d. CP Staff Meeting

On June 16, 1969, a CP of Illinois staff meeting was held in Chicago. At this meeting a report was given by EARL DURHAM, CP State Committee member. DURHAM spoke on the Black Liberation Commission of the CP, stating that this is a service commission rather than an action commission. He stated that the Black Liberation Commission should be interested in developing work in black caucuses, peace organizations, and in political action. DURHAM also stated that he felt the principal goal of the Black Liberation Commission should be to act as an arm of the CP State Committee and State Board in developing work in the field of black liberation and to do specific work for the Party in the black community.

(CG T-2, 6/23/69,

e. CP State Board Meeting

On June 17, 1969, a meeting of the CP of Illinois, State Board, was held in Chicago. At this meeting JACK KLING stated that the purpose of the meeting was to decide on the composition and function of various Party commissions. HERB WRIGHT was proposed as chairman of the Black Liberation Commission at this meeting.

(CG T-1, 6/18/69)

f. CP Teachers' Meeting

On March 27, 1969, a combined meeting of CP Teachers Clubs was held in the Chicago area. At this meeting LESTER DAVIS indicated that unity between black and white will not be achieved until labor unions are no longer racist in nature. He stated that when individuals and unions adopt positions compatable with the black man's position then there will be unity and the blacks can assist the white man in accomplishing their goals. DAVIS added that until such a position is adopted, blacks will not support issues brought forth by the whites.

(CG T-9, 4/4/69)

g. CP Steel Club Meeting

On June 29, 1969, a meeting of a steel club, CP of Illinois, was held in Chicago. At this meeting, NATE SHARPE gave a report on black liberation. SHARPE's talk dealt with the history of the Negro struggle to attain equal rights in this country. He also spoke of the many organizations that have been formed to help bring about this goal.

(CG T-5, 6/30/69)

II. COMMUNIST TACTICS

A. Black Liberation Commission Meetings

On June 22, 1969, a subcommittee meeting of the CP of Illinois, Black Liberation Commission was held in the Chicago area. This meeting was called mainly for the purpose of determining the leadership of this commission and it was finally agreed that HERB WRIGHT would act as chairman of the commission.

(CG T-2, 6/23/69)

On June 28, 1969, a meeting of the CP of Illinois, Black Liberation Commission, was held in Chicago. HERB WRIGHT indicated at this meeting that the CP of Illinois State Board had discussed the Black Liberation Commission playing a different role than it had in the past. WRIGHT stated that the Black Liberation Commission should concern itself with mobilizing the Party for action on black liberation.

ISH FLORY, CP of Illinois State Committee member, proposed that the commission discuss the problem of the Negro American Labor Council. It was decided to withhold a discussion on this and other organizations until an Executive Committee meeting is held to decide what would be the best approach to the problems of this group.

(CG T-1, 6/30/69,
CG T-2, 7/16/69)

A meeting of the CP of Illinois Black Liberation Commission was held July 9, 1969, in Chicago. One of the main points to be discussed at the meeting was how to build the Party among black industrial workers. In this regard, HERB WRIGHT, made the following proposals:

1. That the CP establish an organizational center to work with young black industrial workers, although white workers will not be excluded. This would be in conjunction with the NALC if possible, and if not, the Party do it itself.

2. That the main objectives of this center be to organize the unorganized, low paid worker in connection with the progressive trade union forces; the second objective being to build a base for recruitment of black industrial workers in the Party.

WRIGHT went on to state that it was his opinion that to successfully launch such a project the following is necessary:

1. Obtain an up-to-date survey of the present situation.

2. The selection of a staff.

3. Determine what labor unions are to be involved.

4. Determine the issues as they relate to the committee.

5. The public role of the Party in this undertaking.

(CG T-2, 7/16/69)

III. COMMUNIST PENETRATION AND INFLUENCE IN RACIAL AND OTHER ORGANIZATIONS

A. National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP)

The CP of Illinois still has LESTER DAVIS, CP of Illinois member, assigned to the Chicago Branch NAACP, however, DAVIS is doing little or nothing to implement CP policy relative to the NAACP.

(CG T-1, 9/8/69,
CG T-2, 9/10/69)

B. Negro American Labor Council (NALC)

Concerning the NALC, the CP of Illinois currently has six individuals, all CP members, who form a collective from the CP of Illinois within the NALC. The main objective of this collective is to involve the NALC in a program to end discrimination against Negroes and to obtain more jobs for Negroes in the building trades. The NALC's program at the present time can be considered to be quite ineffective.

(CG T-1, 9/8/69,
CG T-2, 9/10/69)

C. Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC)

The CP of Illinois, at the present time exercises no influence within the SCLC.

Decentralization of police for Oakland & Elsewhere

SUMMARY OF OAKLAND POLICE CONTROL AMENDMENT

This amendment to the City charter would give control of the police to community elected neighborhood councils so that those whom the police should serve will be able to set police policy and standards of conduct.

The amendment provides for community control of the police by establishing separate police departments for the two major communities of Oakland: the Black community and the predominantly white area. The departments would be seperate and autonomous. They can by mutual agreement use common facilities. Each Department will be administered by full time police commissioners. The Commissioners are selected by a Neighborhood Police Control Council composed of fifteen members from that community elected by those who live there. Each department shall have five Community Council divisions within it.

The Councils shall have the power to discipline officers for breaches of Department policy or violations of law. They may direct their police Commissioner to make changes in department wide police policy by majority vote of the five department commissioners. The Council can recall the Commissioner appointed by it at any time it finds that he is no longer responsive to the community. The community can recall the council members when they are not responsive to it.

All police officers must live in the department they work in.

COMMUNIST INFLUENCE
IN RACIAL MATTERS

A source, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised as follows on September 30, 1969:

Charles Hightower, who is a Negro reporter for the "Daily World," arrived in Cleveland, Ohio, on Friday afternoon, September 26, 1969, for the express purpose of gathering as much information as possible on the Fred (Ahmed) Evans case. Philip Bart, who is Chairman of the Ohio Communist Party (CP), in discussing Hightower's presence in Cleveland, said the CP wants to publicize this case all over the world.

"DAILY WORLD"

The "Daily World" is an East Coast Communist newspaper.

FRED (AHMED) EVANS

"The Plain Dealer," a daily newspaper of general circulation in the Cleveland, Ohio, area, issue of June 7, 1969, carried an article stating that Fred (Ahmed) Evans is a "black nationalist leader convicted of first degree murder of three policemen and one civilian during a gun battle last summer... Evans was convicted on May 12th (1969) of directing a conspiracy which resulted in a shoot-out between police and black nationalists last July 23rd (1968)..."

ENCLOSURE

Re: COMMUNIST INFLUENCE
IN RACIAL MATTERS

Source said that on September 26, 1969, Hightower met with representatives of the "Call and Post," a newspaper of general circulation in the Negro area of Cleveland, and one of the reporters for this paper agreed to take Hightower for a visit of the ghetto area.

Hightower had hoped to meet with the attorneys for Evans but said on September 27, 1969, that he had been unable to meet with them because they claimed to be too busy and too tired.

Source reported arrangements were made for Hightower to meet with Harllel Jones, who was referred to as being Prime Minister of the Afro-Set, and Hightower did meet with Jones for several hours on September 27, 1969.

HARLLEL JONES

A characterization of the Black Nationalist Party for Self-Defense of New Libya, aka., Afro American Set, wherein Harllel Jones is identified, is attached hereto.

Following the interview with Harllel Jones, Hightower went to the Lakeview Bar, where the July 23rd shoot-out occurred, and had several drinks.

Source reported that on September 28, 1969, Hightower attended a meeting of the Afro-Set, being invited to do so by Harllel Jones. The speaker was teaching nothing but the hate that the black people should have for whites, and as he was teaching this hatred he was constantly cheered by the audience which included grown-ups and little tots who appeared too young to know the significance of their actions.

A second source, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised on September 30, 1969, that Hightower reportedly left Cleveland on September 29, 1969, to return to New York.

Re: COMMUNIST INFLUENCE

BLACK NATIONALIST PARTY FOR SELF-DEFENSE OF NEW LIBYA, aka., Afro American Set

A source advised on May 21, 1969, that this organization was founded by HARLLEL JONES in the Summer of 1967, and JONES is presently the leader. The organization consists of 20 - 25 members at this time. Headquarters for the organization is 8127 Superior Avenue, Cleveland, Ohio. The main teachings of this group are hatred of the white race, removal of all white control in Negro ghettos, and takeover of all operations in the Negro community by black people. The ultimate goal is to take over the city and the entire country by black revolution. There is no indication that this organization has ties with black nationalist organizations in other cities. This group has irregular meetings and there is no real formal organization.

DETAILS:

I. COMMUNIST STRATEGY

PG T-1 advised on September 22, 1969, that the Industrial Club of the Communist Party of Western Pennsylvania (CPWP), held a meeting in the Pittsburgh area on September 8, 1969. The informant advised that it was reported at this meeting that two black members of the CPWP have been asked to attempt to contact one of the leaders of the Black Construction Coalition (BCC) to set up a meeting with other leaders of the Coalition to try to get them to inject the Marxist viewpoint into the fight for more craft jobs for Negroes.

It is noted that the BCC, a loosely formed coalition of black organizations, has been conducting negotiations with representatives of the Master Builders Association and various construction unions in the Pittsburgh area in an attempt to obtain additional employment as well as union membership for black people in the construction industry. The BCC has also conducted demonstrations at various construction sites in the Pittsburgh area in furtherance of its objectives.

PG T-2 advised on October 13, 1969, that a CPWP Industrial Club meeting was held in the Pittsburgh area on October 2, 1969. The informant advised that at this meeting, EDWARD BORTZ read a letter he was sending to the "Daily World" regarding the BCC. Informant advised that this letter was also given to the CPWP member who was to contact one of the BCC leaders and the letter was to be used as the basis for talks with the BCC leaders.

PG T-2 advised on September 26, 1969, that as of that date, EDWARD BORTZ was a member of the Executive Committee, CPWP.

The "Daily World" is an east coast communist publication.

PG 100-15125

II. COMMUNIST TACTICS

On August 18, 1969, PG T-2 advised that a meeting of the Executive Committee of the CPWP was held in the Pittsburgh area on August 13, 1969. The informant said that at this meeting, EDWARD BORTZ announced that CPWP members had recently distributed leaflets at construction sites in Pittsburgh. According to BORTZ, these leaflets stated that black workers are not fighting against white workers, but that all workers should get together against the common enemy, the Master Builders Association.

III. COMMUNIST PENETRATION AND INFLUENCE IN RACIAL AND OTHER ORGANIZATIONS

No information developed.

RE: NATIONAL CONFERENCE FOR A UNITED FRONT AGAINST FASCISM, (NCUFAF), SPONSORED BY BLACK PANTHER PARTY, JULY 18-21, 1969 OAKLAND, CALIFORNIA

The San Francisco, California Office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, (FBI), has previously submitted communications concerning the National Conference for a United Front Against Fascism, (NCUFAF), sponsored by the Black Panther Party, (BPP) July 18 through 21, 1969, Oakland, California.

A characterization of the BPP is contained in the Appendix of this memorandum.

On October 30, 1969, a source made available a memorandum dated September 12, 1969 from ISAIAH TERMAN of the American Jewish Committee, Institute of Human Relations, New York City, New York. This memorandum contained an enclosure setting forth a memorandum dated August 29, 1969 captioned "Black Panthers - United Front Against Fascism". Subject: Black Panthers - United Front Against Fascism

In regard to the attached memorandum, which reports a conference sponsored by the Black Panther Party in Oakland last July, Milton Ellerin, director of AJC's Trends Analyses division, notes:

> In yet another switch in emphasis and tactics, the Black Panther Party is now seeking rather than eschewing white allies, and appears to be veering toward the electoral process in lieu of revolution as a vehicle for bringing about change in the United States.

The memorandum reports, among other things, the participation of radical groups of Jewish students in the conference and a projected drive for community control of police departments. It is forwarded to you as a matter of interest and information (and there could be spillover in some communities), but it is not for publication.

BLACK PANTHERS - UNITED FRONT AGAINST FASCISM

MEMORANDUM

A three-day conference, widely heralded in left-wing circles as a process which would give birth to a United Front Against Fascism, was held in Oakland, California July 18,19,20 under the sponsorship and direction of the Black Panther Party.

If nothing else the conference underscored the ephemeral quality of the Panthers' political orientation which has run the gamut from adoration of Mao tse-Tung to a working relationship with the Communist Party USA, from a revolutionary and racist movement to one now apparently advocating a united front with white leftists in order to achieve its objectives through the election process.

Planning for the conference was believed to have begun approximately one year ago in informal sessions between Panther leaders and remnants of the Peace and Freedom Party at a time when each, for its own reason, felt the need for support from other militant groups. Planners of the conference originally hoped and indeed anticipated that the beginnings of an American Liberation Movement - an American Viet Cong - would develop from their joint deliberations. As recently as the May 25, 1969 issue of the Black Panther publication, the conference was advertised as "A Poor Black and Oppressed Peoples' Revolutionary Conference for a United Front Against Fascism."

Precisely who participated with the Panthers in the detailed planning of the conference is unclear, but Chairman Bobby Seale claims that some 50 groups "put the conference together."

Reporters at the conference and other observers note that SDS leaders, representatives of women liberation groups, Hippies, Communist Party functionaries and personalities from a myriad of white left-wing organizations were clearly identifiable as participants.

The objectives of the conference were previously announced as: Laying the basis for development of a political program for all the poor, black workers and people of America; community control of police on a national scale; freedom for all political figures, and self-defense. Actually the convocation, which consisted of two conferences daily - evening sessions being held in the Oakland Auditorium, and daylight conferences in the DeFremery Park (renamed Bobby Hutton Park for the occasion), consisted of panel discussions on the following topics: Women vs Fascism, Workers vs Fascism, Students and Education vs Fascism, People's Health and Fascism, Religion vs Fascism, American Servicemen vs Fascism, Political Prisoners and Political Freedom, and mass workshops to discuss community control of police and the formation of national committees to combat Fascism in the United States.

Estimates of attendance at the conference ranged from 2,000-5,000 according to newspaper reports and on-the-scene observers. There seems to be no doubt that although the Black Panthers were the conveners and the dominating force at the conference, black participants were in the distinct minority. Very few people over 30 were in attendance, and there was no representation at the conference from such groups as CORE or SNCC or for that matter any significant representation from other black groups. Again, estimates vary, but a consensus of reports filed by observers suggest that white participation was approximately 85%.

Greetings and best wishes were received from a number of foreign student groups, including Coordinating Committees of the Mexican Student Movement, and the Tokyo Communist League. Registration fees were $4.00 prepaid, $6.00 at the door.

The proceedings began on a discordant note as each delegate was frisked at the door by black security guards, Progressive Labor Party, representatives having gained admittance, sought to shout down the Panther speakers. (They were subsequently barred from conference meetings but continued to distribute leaflets outside of the conference meeting grounds condemning the proceedings).

The keynote address was delivered by veteran Communist Party theoretician Herbert Aptheker who, according to all observers present, droned on interminably with a historical analysis of fascism. A restless and unappreciative audience began hooting and shouting him down for a variety of reasons, not the least of which was the fact that he continued to speak well after 11 P.M. at the expense of the two hours allocated for a discussion of Women vs Fascism. All-in-all more than 50 speakers addressed the conference during the three-day period.

Repeated throughout the conference was the theme that racial discrimination in any form could not be tolerated any longer. Yet despite repeated disavowals of racism and separatism, Panther functionaries were observed sitting in a closely knit semi-circle at the rear of the auditorium during the proceedings.

The final sessions of the conference were devoted to formulating plans for a massive nationwide campaign to secure black, brown and white community control of the police, and that concerted efforts would be made to create across the country 150 local Committees To Combat Fascism. Delegates were urged to participate in the forming of such committees in their respective communities. It was further agreed to intensify the campaign for the release of political prisoners - this to be carried on in cooperation with the National Lawyers Guild, and that a follow-up conference would be held in October or November in Oakland at which time they would seek to put together an effective organizational structure.

Despite the fact that the Black Panthers, as have other leftist groups, consistently glorified Al Fatah, and have expressed sympathy for the Arab cause, there was no discussion at the conference pertinent to Israel or Jews. A number of radical Jewish student groups attended the conference (those identified were the Jewish Liberation Project of New York City, the Jewish Radical Community from Los Angeles; Union of Jewish Students from San Francisco and Berkeley, California, the Chavarim of the Third World, St.

Louis; The Ashomer; American Students for Israel; Jews for Urban Justice, Jews for Revolutionary Democracy; and a new group identified as "The Jewish Conspiracy." The bulk of these Jewish student groups were described as being pro-Israel but frustrated and disillusioned with the American Jewish community. Insofar as it was able to be determined, the Jewish student radicals known to be in attendance readily identified themselves as Jews deeply concerned with democracy and religious freedom in Israel. Indeed, some 30 Jewish radicals manned a table with an array of pro-Israel material, which gesture provoked no adverse reaction.

There has been considerable speculation about Communist Party influence with the Black Panthers, and the extent of Communist Party involvement in the conference proceedings. There would appear to be little doubt, however, that there was a Communist Party presence during the proceedings, and that some sort of working relationship has crystalized.

Student observers at the conference report that the conference resembled nothing more than a Communist Party Convention what with the hallmarks being the promulgation of a rigid and dogmatic ideology and no tolerance for opposing points of view. As previously noted, Herbert Aptheker was the keynote speaker. Greetings were received from William L. Patterson, a veteran member of the National Committee of the Communist Party USA who, according to the Daily Worker of July 18th, was one of the conference sponsors. Communist Party National Committeeman from Oakland, Roscoe Proctor, was noted as being in attendance at most of the sessions as was Archie Brown, a well known west coast communist. Jack Nabley, a seasoned Chicago newspaperman writing in the publication Chicago Today reported: "There was a feeling in Oakland that the Communist Party was bankrolling the meeting and calling the shots."

Apparently taking cognizance of the widespread rumors, perhaps evasively, Bobby Seale in his closing speech specifically denied Communist "control." Mark Rudd, National Secretary of SDS, who during the proceedings was close to the conference leadership, felt compelled to be more pointed. Writing in New Left Notes for July 24th, he declared: "To the extent that the Black Panther Party has turned to the Communist Party for alliance and material aid it represents more the failure of the revolutionary Left to provide the support necessary for the Panthers to survive than weaknesses within the Panthers."

The Daily World of Friday, August 11th spoke glowingly of the conference as the first small step forward to the creation of an anti-Fascist United Front. Whatever the fact may be concerning the degree of Communist influence in the Black Panther movement, beginning with the October 19, 1963 issue of the Black Panther publication, which featured a front page banner headline proclaiming: "Chairman Mao's Great Statement Points Out The Direction Of Struggle For The Black People In The United States," through the May 11, 1969 issue which pledged "support for the just struggle of Afro-Americans from Chairman Mao," the Black Panther movement glorified Mao tse-Tung and the Chinese Communists. Abruptly from that time on there has been no reference to Chairman Mao or his philosophy in Black Panther publications.

Supporting the thesis that currently there is "some relationship" between Communist Party USA and the Black Panthers is Panther leader David Hilliard's statement in the August 3rd issue of The Black Panther that the Communist Party "actually came out and did some degree of work to put the conference over." In a subsequent interview with Art Goldberg which appeared in the August 16th issue of The Guardian, Hilliard elaborated on the relationship. Said Hilliard: "We are not aligned with the CP. The CP is an autocracy controlled by Gus Hall. We are aligned with factions within the CP who want to move forward to a better society These are the people we worked with on the conference and those are the people we will continue to work with."

CONCLUSION

As with some other facets of the conference, the end result is subject to much speculation. On the one hand there is a consensus that the conference provided the Panthers with an institutional lift at a time when the organization was staggering from repeated raids by law enforcement groups. (Subsequent to the conference Chairman Bobby Seale was arrested on a fugitive warrant, was indicted on August 24, 1969 by a Grand Jury on a charge of first degree murder of a Black Panther functionary in New Haven, Connecticut.)

Indisputably the Black Panthers were successful in bringing together some 3000 radicals from across the country and did in fact lay the basic groundwork for a new national coalition and for the moment they did prove that they have an appeal to other radical groups. As previously noted, there was little talk of black separatism. Indeed Bobby Seale in his concluding address promised that racism would and should not be fought with more racism. The conference frequently echoed the theme that the struggle now was between classes, not races.

As a counterpoint to the sharply focused thrust of the conference and the ability of the Panthers to bring together disparate radicals was the fact that many attendees lost enthusiasm when, after listening to speakers who for three days sought to kindle the fires of revolutionary ardor, were offered, according to Nation reporter Robert A. Jones "A program that was Reformist at best and smelled faintly of liberalism." Undeniably the high enthusiasm of the opening session gradually receded, as conferees found no opportunity to discuss and debate. More importantly as subsequent developments suggest (i.e. a currently raging bitter controversy between SDS and the Black Panthers over the issue of community control of police, the barring of the Progressive Labor Party people - the apparent Panther divorce from the Maoists) the conferees failed in creating what might have been a truly formidable front to wage propaganda, political and perhaps guerrilla warfare in the United States.

The self-proclaimed status of the Panthers as the dominant group in the black community is also seriously open to question in light of the significant absence of other black leaders and the minimal black attendance.

In terms of our own parochial interests, it remains to be seen whether the Panthers' current absorption in creating a United Front Against Fascism will terminate their past involvement with the Organization of Arab Students and diminish their manifest ardor for Arab guerrilla activity in the Middle East.

The records of the New York State Secretary of State, Albany, New York, show that the Certificate of Incorporation of Freedomways Associates, Incorporated, was filed on March 2, 1961.

NY 2010-S* has reported that on 12/8/69, HENRY WINSTON informed JOHN PITTMAN, co-editor of the "Daily World" concerning a memorial meeting for FRED HAMPTON of the Black Panther Party in Chicago. MITCHELL said that they are holed up in the Central Avenue office which is the main office. The top of the building had been shot off and they are threatening to demolish the building. FRANKLIN ALEXANDER was present at one of the offices and was removed by the police and beaten, but he was released. She added that KENDRA ALEXANDER was in the same area but that KENDRA and FRANKLIN ALEXANDER had not gotten together up to that time. (U)

She also said that some from "our group" were taken out but "we" are not sure if they were arrested, although one of them might have been because he called his mother. MITCHELL said she had told the kids to call WILLIAM TAYLOR or LOUIS DISKIN but they said they had informed their club chairman and he was to call immediately. MITCHELL claimed she had told them "to just absolutely cool it", and they were to call her back in a couple of hours. (U)

Further, MITCHELL related that DOROTHY said they were calling to get people moving in the white community right away, and MITCHELL had suggested they have as many peace forces as possible go into the area. (U)

She proposed that WINSTON call TAYLOR and DISKIN, and WINSTON said he would call TAYLOR. (U)

Synopsis: At a meeting of the National Committee, CP, USA, in September, 1969, GUS HALL called for mobilization for defense of the BPP. CHARLENE MITCHELL, a member of the CP Black Liberation Commission (BLC), said that the CP must help to defeat the campaign being mounted against the BPP, and enumerated certain actions the Party should take. The BLC of the CP, USA, now plans to hold its meetings in different sections of the county. The first such meeting was held in Chicago, Illinois in October, 1969. The CP has sent letters to its membership calling for actions to be taken in the defense of the BPP Chairman, BOBBY SEALE and in support of the Plainfield, New Jersey Defense Committee. The BLC also called for support of the October 15 and November 15 peace demonstrations. The "Daily World" has carried articles calling for protests to be made demanding the freedom of BOBBY SEALE. This paper also reported on a speech made by CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT in Leipzig, German Democratic Republic, in which he appealed for world support of the BPP as well as the black liberation movement. The September-October 1969 issue of

"Political Affairs" contains an article by LIGHTFOOT claiming that black liberation is impossible without Communists. The "Daily World" has critized President NIXON for his nomination of Judge CLEMENT HAYNESWORTH to the U.S. Supreme Court. The PLP has ordered more copies of its pamphlet "A Plan For Black Liberation". Information concerning the pamphlet set forth. At the SWP National Convention in NYC, CLIFTON DE BERRY called for the SWP to form a black political party. The "Workers World" has called for defense of the BPP and the YAWF supports the black and brown liberation struggle and demands the freedom of all political prisoners. The YAWF supported a BPP rally in November, 1969. STANLEY LEVISON and JACK O'DELL continue to assist the SCLC. CHARLENE MITCHELL met with FRED HAMPTON, BPP of Illinois in October, 1969, and appeared as speaker with him at an End the War rally. CP members participated in the National Conference for a United Front Against Fascism called by the BPP in Oakland, California in July, 1969.

DETAILS:

I. COMMUNIST STRATEGY

A. Plans, Strategy and Policy of the Communist Party, United States of America (CP, USA) on a National Level

1. Strategy and Policy Issued by the CP National Office or Discussed at National Meetings

The National Committee (N.C.), of the CP, USA, met at the McAlpin Hotel, 34th Street and Broadway, New York City, during the period September 19-21, 1969. Among the National Committee members who attended were CHARLENE MITCHELL, CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT, ROSCOE PROCTOR, HENRY S/WINSTON, and JAMES S/TORMEY.

GUS HALL, General Secretary of the CP, USA, at the opening session of the meeting, September 19, 1969, gave a report on his trip to Hanoi, Democratic Republic of Vietnam, and to Moscow, United Soviet Socialist Republics. He also gave an assessment of the Nixon Administration. At the conclusion of these reports, he mentioned the major issues to be attacked by the CP, USA. One of the actions he called for was a mass mobilization for defense of the constitutional rights of the Black Panther Party (BPP) in order to combat the fascist attack upon that Party.

At the September 21, 1969, session, CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT was approved as the head of the Black Liberation Commission (BLC), of the Party. At this session also, CHARLENE MITCHELL presented a report on the defense of the BPP. She claimed that the issue of "law and order" was raised only to mask the real aims of reaction, while the true aim is repression by racists. She said the fight against this repression has been weak and that even if the Party does not totally agree with the Panthers, it must unite with them and help them to defeat the terror campaign being mounted against them by the right.

MITCHELL called for the following:

1. Coordinate the defense efforts for the Panthers.

2. The Party must explore the possibility of a national defense conference.

3. The CP must associate with specific cases nationally.

4. A national defense organization must be set up.

5. HENRY WINSTON and GUS HALL should issue an appeal for support of the BPP.

6. The political campaigns of the CP must point out this repression.

At this session of the National Committee meeting, a decision was made to publish a subcommittee report on defense of the BPP.

A characterization of the BPP is set forth in the Appendix.

On October 18, 1969, a meeting of the National Black Liberation Commission was held in Chicago, Illinois, with CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT, WILLIAM PATTERSON and CHARLENE MITCHELL of the National Office, CP, USA present. This was the first meeting in a new method of operation for the Commission; that being to hold Commission meetings in various districts to make it accessible to more people.

C. P. MEMBERS

The discussion concerned the situation in Chicago, and EARL DURHAM of the Chicago CP opened the discussion. The problem facing the Party as outlined by DURHAM is the lack of influence in the major developments taking place in the black community. DURHAM emphasized the problem of unity in the black liberation movement. DURHAM indicated that although the Party is growing, it is not reflecting activities within the movements in the ghettos.

At this meeting CHARLENE MITCHELL and EARL DURHAM were in favor of a more analytical discussion of the politics involved in the black liberation movement and a clarification of the differences in the Party on estimating such movements.

The meeting concluded with an agreement to have further discussion on the questions raised by DURHAM in his report.

October 22, 1969

At the meeting of the National CP, BLC, held in Chicago, Illinois, on October 18, 19, 1969, WILLIAM PATTERSON, National Chairman, CP, USA, BLC, opened the meeting of October 18, 1969, by stating that the Resident Committee of the BLC in New York City had decided to hold their meetings in different sections of the country, in order to discuss directly with the comrades the problems which they are facing. He said the agenda for the meeting would include reports from the BLCs of Illinois and Michigan CP Districts, an outlook of the Negro-American Labor Council (NALC), and also the building of the Party.

During his remarks, PATTERSON commented on the BPP. He said that in spite of their weaknesses, they are the only organization in the black movement which openly opposes anti-Communism. He said that the fact that the Party carried on an ideological struggle with them, is evidence that they are giving up the philosophies of MAO Tse-tung. PATTERSON also said that the Party must reconsider its course of action in the NALC, because this organization could move nationally and build a large membership. He said it would be of great help to the Black Liberation Movement if the NALC could do one thing--organize the unorganized.

CHARLENE MITCHELL, during her remarks, stated that DAVID HILLIARD, a National Officer of the BPP in California, wants to dictate to the people, whereas BOBBY SEALE, National Chairman of the BPP, is just the opposite. She said that HILLIARD has made it clear that he will not associate with the GUS HALL Faction in the CP, HALL being the General Secretary of the CP, USA, but has stated that if certain black leaders of the CP want to be part of the Vanguard, the BPP will accept them.

During a session of October 19, 1969, WILLIAM PATTERSON stated that it should now be clear that the leadership of the Freedom Movement is still available to whoever wants it. He said that by working correctly the CP can turn many of the developments taking place in the movement in the Midwest to its advantage. He also stated that it is clear that efforts are being made to cut off the black people's movement in the United States and that this movement is being lead by President NIXON, his administration, and the racist groups which support him. He said that they should discuss with preachers and left groups, plans of action to assist the people in regard to their rights.

The source made available a copy of a mineographed letter dated August 26, 1969, addressed "Dear Comrades", from CHARLENE MITCHELL for the "Interim Secretariat". In this letter she noted that a press release and a letter had been previously furnished which dealt with "Frameup Arrest" of BOBBY SEALE, Chairman of the BPP. She said that joint efforts are being made by federal and local police against the BPP and its leadership in order to smash the organization and that these "fascist-like methods" are all indications of a widening attack upon the black community. She stated that they have talked about local defense organizations, but little activity has been reported in the press protesting the frameup of SEALE. She said that the arrest of SEALE makes it mandatory that they act and that the broadest efforts must be initiated to free BOBBY SEALE.

MITCHELL said that whatever defense mechanisms that are already operating should be mobilized to bring all organizations and individuals together that will protest and demonstrate in every city in support of SEALE. She said that where they do not exist, the Party should make every effort to bring into existence ad hoc committees for SEALE's defense.

She asked that the Party be advised as to what actions were taking place or being planned in the districts.

5/ The source made available a letter from JIM TORMEY dated July 24, 1969, addressed "Dear Comrades", which concerned the "Plainfield, New Jersey frame-ups". He stated that the cases of GAIL MADDEN and GEORGE MERRITT, JR., who are serving life sentences, are on appeal and that the case against BOBBY LEE WILLIAMS would soon come to trial. He added that the Plainfield Joint Defense Committee is continuing its work "in an environment of violence directed against the black community". TORMEY, in this letter, called upon all comrades to support this struggle with every resource they have.

Enclosed with this letter was a memorandum setting forth proposals adopted at a recent meeting of the Party's National Secretariat which concerned the Plainfied, New Jersey case. The memorandum noted that the action being taken in Plainfield, New Jersey, could help to achieve unity in action against racism of all forces. It said it could help to overcome some of the differences between the militants in the black community and the bulk of its population, and has the potential of a broad black and white unity. It said that the Secretariat believes that the concepts of the Plainfield Committee are supportable.

The memorandum noted that the Secretariat proposed, among other things, that where no present defense committees exist, a Plainfield Defense Committee should be set up and that where there are local "frame-ups", joint defense committees be established. It also proposed that communications demanding the freedom of the Plainfield victims be sent to the Governor of New Jersey and that copies of these communications be sent to the Plainfield Committee.

The "Daily World", September 9, 1969, Page 9, contained an account of a rally held in Plainfield, New Jersey, on September 8, 1969, to mobilize support for the defense of BOBBY LEE WILLIAMS and the release from prison of GAIL MADDEN and GEORGE MERRITT, JR. It said that these three persons had been charged with participating in the killing of a white policeman, JOHN V. GLEASON, two years before and noted that MADDEN and MERRITT are serving life sentences. WILLIAMS was to go on trial in Elizabeth, New Jersey, on September 15, 1969, charged with inciting to kill, assault with intent to kill, and assault and battery against a police officer. The rally was organized by the Plainfield Joint Defense Committee.

The "Daily World"is an East Coast Communist newspaper.

The source made available a letter dated October 3, 1969, addressed to all district organizers and all N.C. members from WILLIAM L. PATTERSON, Co-Chairman BLC, CP, USA. This letter cited the emphasis placed on the Party's participation in the peace demonstration set for October 15 and November 15, in Washington, D. C., by the N.C. The letter said that Afro-Americans should participate widely in the demonstrations because the peace struggle offers an opportunity for expression of black-white unity. The letter urged that contacts be made with the black community to guarantee participation by blacks and that a special effort must be made to secure maximum participation of black citizens in the Washington, D. C. demonstration.

2. Strategy Revealed in Party Publication

The "Daily World", August 26, 1969, Page 9, in an article "Communists in World Appeal", reported that leaders of the CP, the prior week, had termed the August 19, 1969, arrest of BOBBY SEALE, "Chairman of the BPP" as denial "of the most elementary rights of the black people". The views of the CP, it related, were set forth in a statement made public by CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT and CHARLENE MITCHELL, "chairman and secretary of the Party's Commission on Black Liberation". The text of this statement is set forth.

The article also sets forth a letter from CHARLENE MITCHELL, which it describes as "an international appeal for protests to organizations throughout the world". In this letter, MITCHELL makes the following observations:

The NIXON Adminstration has declared war on Negroes, especially the young militants. The most recent victim of this policy is BOBBY SEALE, BPP Chairman, who was arrested on August 19, 1969.

The Department of Justice is intent on destroying the BPP and its leadership and will resort to any excuse to do so. The most active organizations and individuals are harassed and intimidated and high bail, such as that set for SEALE, is intended to deplete the funds of the organizations and their contributors.

Progressives in the United States are aware of their responsibility to end the racist attacks against black people but they need help. In the United States, the struggle for black liberation is bound to the struggle against imperialism. Therefore, the request is made that the recipients of the letter contact organizations and persons in their country and ask them to protest the actions of the United States Department of Justice. Representatives in the United Nations should be asked to raise this issue. Cablegrams should be sent to the Department of Justice, protesting the arrest of BOBBY SEALE.

The "Daily World", October 31, 1969, Page 7, contained an editorial "Impeach Seale's shackler" which decries the shackling and gagging of BOBBY SEALE by Federal District Court Judge JULIUS HOFFMAN in Chicago. It notes SEALE is the only black person among the eight defendants on trial on conspiracy charges in Chicago. It claims the treatment accorded to SEALE is due to his being black and states that it "brings into the open the viciousness and utter depravity of racism in the United States".

The article states that since April 1, 1967, the Federal government and local police have become "bounty hunters" against the BPP. It says that this concentration against the Panthers is due to their program of militant defense against police and racist force and violence in black areas and the Panther program of assistance to the poor.

The article called for telegrams and letters to be sent to Attorney General JOHN MITCHELL asking his intervention to remove the shackles and gag from SEALE. It also called for impeachment proceedings against Judge HOFFMAN.

The "Daily World", November 7, 1969, Page 1, carried an editorial calling for a fight to free BOBBY SEALE, Black Panther leader in Federal Court, Chicago. It called for demands that SEALE be freed from the four-year sentence for contempt because he was not given his Constitutional right to choose his own lawyer or, lacking that, to defend himself. It said the "whole miserable frameup" should be dismissed.

The "Daily World", August 20, 1969, Page 10, contained an article datelined August 19, 1969, Leipzig, German Democratic Republic, which comments on a speech made by CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT, "a member of the National Committee of the CP, USA and head of its Commission on Black Liberation", at Karl Marx University in Leipzig the prior week. The article states that LIGHTFOOT appealed for world support of the persecuted Black Panthers in the United States as well as the Black Liberation movement. It relates that LIGHTFOOT called for "a mobilization of the peace and freedom forces everywhere . . . " and said that "the world must understand that if the efforts of the black people of America to free themselves are defeated, then this can mean the end of all democratic processes in America. It can well lead to an open fascist dictatorship". He added that if the battle for Negro freedom is won, it would mean a victory for the most progressive, democratic and pro-peace forces in the United States.

The article continued that LIGHTFOOT described the history of the militant youth movement and the positive changes which have developed in the Black Panther organization and of its prestige in the black community. It said he also commented on the relevance of KARL MARX's ideas to the black liberation movement in the United States.

It said that LIGHTFOOT declared that new currents are emerging among blacks which are merging with the world struggle for peace, freedom and social justice. LIGHTFOOT, it continued, called for an international campaign of solidarity with black youth and the Black Panthers who are "bearing the brunt of the hatred of United States imperialism on the home front."

The September-October issue of "Political Affairs" is devoted to "50 years of the Communist Party, USA, 1919-1969". This issue contains an article by CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT, "Black Liberation Impossible Without Communists" and the footnote to the article states that the article contains excerpts taken from Chapter 15 of the book by LIGHTFOOT, "Ghetto Rebellion to Black Liberation".

The article praises the record of the Communist Party in the struggle for Negro freedom claiming that Communists were pioneers in building the struggle against race and class oppression. It traces the Party's actions on behalf of Negro freedom from the 1930's to the present and extols the Soviet Union as the main force in the world against national oppression.

The article notes, "to obtain full economic, political and social equality for Negro citizens, requires not only Communist participation in freedom struggles but a strong influential Communist Party as well. The Communist and left progressive forces are prepared to do everything required to win freedom for Afro-American people. No other force is prepared to play such a role alongside of and in the Negro movement . . ." LIGHTFOOT further describes the Communist Party as the outstanding force working in the white community in respect to guaranteeing equality for a black minority in a white-majority society. It states that it is the force needed to point the way when the liberation movement reaches points of indicision; "only a movement that has a clear concept of the new and higher social system that will replace Capitalism can give clear answers."

"Political Affairs" is self-described as the "Theoretical Journal of the CP, USA."

The "Daily World" of August 21, 1969, Page 7, contained an editorial "Hard-Core Segregationist" which criticized the nomination of Judge CLEMENT F. HAYNESWORTH to the United States Supreme Court. It said that the nomination is part of President NIXON's "Southern strategy" or "political reliance upon the old Confederate States along with some 'traditionally'Republican Western States". It said this appointment would result in a court whose decisions could be expected to shift to the Right and a "crackdown" on civil rights, individual liberties, social welfare laws, and legislative gains of organized labor. It called for opposition to HAYNESWORTH's confirmation at the Judiciary Committee hearing, and for appeals to Senators.

The "Daily World" of October 2, 1969, Page 7, in an editorial "Racist Exhibitionism", attacked President NIXON for his nomination of Judge CLEMENT F. HAYNSWORTH to the United States Supreme Court, stating he had disregarded the views of black Americans and had "affirmed his bond with the Southern racists". It further stated that the President's "seven-months stalling" on a project for a national memorial to the Revered MARTIN LUTHER KING, JR., was "contemptible" and called for effective challanges to the bloc of NIXON Republicans and "EASTLAND DEMOCRATS."

B. Other Communist Groups

1. Progressive Labor Party (PLP)

A characterization of the PLP is set forth in the Appendix.

The PLP ordered the reprinting of its pamphlet "A Plan for Black Liberation" and subcaptioned "(Articles by the Progressive Labor Party.)"

The source made available a copy of this pamphlet.

NY T-6
October 31, 1969

The pamphlet contains a foreward from the National Committee of the PLP dated April 19, 1969, captioned "PLP and Black Struggle" which stated that the PLP made mistakes in the past in its policy on the black liberation movement "because we did not fully understand that Black Liberation could not be won without the dictatorship of the proletariat (quoted from Black Liberation Program)". It said further that since the Party's second convention in the Spring of 1968, the PLP has begun to better understand this question, to move towards correcting itself, and that the pamphlet is a step in that direction.

Articles appearing in the pamphlet stressed the following:

Black workers are exploited under United States imperialism which exists only to the degree that it can continue its racist exploitation. Black workers must play a key role in the black liberation movement and the development of a worker-led black liberation movement is necessary for black liberation. Armed self-defense and anti-imperialism based on working-class demands are also essential to any black liberation program.

Black students as well as white should ally with the workers. Alliances should be formed between black students and anti-racist white students. A united front should include Communists. There should be a Left-Center coalition which must include Communists who with their allies must defeat Anti-Communism within the black liberation movement or the movement will fail. Anti-Communism is a weapon of imperialism. Anti-Communism must be defeated and those who advocate it are advocating continued exploitation and suppression of both black and white workers.

In the past, PLP has mistakenly supported black nationalism and nationalists. It did not understand that nationalism is reactionary. Nationalism cannot be separated from Anti-Communism. Its basis is capitalism. The PLP has worked too much with the black bourgeoisie and has not worked enough among black workers. The PLP did not fully understand that black liberation will not come about without the dictatorship of the proletariat. In addition, the Party has not fought against white chauvinism among workers and students. The PLP must increase the struggle against nationalism and focus its work among black workers.

The PLP must re-emphasize the struggle to win white workers away from racism because the main concentration for white Communists is among white workers. Success in recruiting black workers to a Marxist-Leninist Party is an indication of how well racism is being fought by the Party.

As regards the black student movement, the concept of a worker-student alliance against racism and imperialism is the best strategy. A black student movement committed to defeating racism and imperialism and capable of allying with and leading white students in the fight, should be built. A pro-working class black student movement should be developed.

The only way for black working people to win their freedom is through revolution armed with the science of Marxism-Leninism. The Marist-Leninist Party in the United States is the PLP. The PLP is struggling to become the party of the working class in general and the party of the black workers in particular.

2. Socialist Workers Party (SWP)

The SWP has been designated pursuant to Executive Order 10450.

At the August 30, 1969 session of the SWP National Convention, New York City, CLIFTON DE BERRY, member of Socialist Workers Party from New York, gave the "Transitional Program for Black Liberation Report." DE BERRY, a Negro, called for SWP formation of a black political party, claiming the ruling class is afraid of black nationalism "because it will crumble this capitalist system." He said the Black Panther Party (BPP) speaks only "ultra-leftist rhetoric" and the SWP is the only group with the correct program for black revolution. "Therefore, we are the ones who should be in the vanguard of this new organization," he said. DE BERRY explained that the black struggle was part of the overall American class struggle, and "we are talking about bringing to the revolutionary movement in this country . . the vanguard of every section of the movement."

The report of DE BERRY passed unanimously by a vote of regular delegates and by a "consultative vote" of Fraternal Delegates. Canadian delegates voted along with Fraternal Delegates.

NY T-7

3. Workers World Party (WWP)

A characterization of the WWP is set forth in the Appendix.

"Workers World", August 1, 1969, Page 1, contains an article about an incident that occurred on July 31, 1969, in Chicago, Illinois, at the BPP office. The article states that the Chicago police conducted a pre-dawn raid at the Chicago BPP office which precipitated a gun battle in which five policemen were wounded and three Panthers injured and arrested. The police are accused of firing at the Panther office and ransacking the office and stealing $500. The Panthers, it is said, fired back in self-defense.

This article, continued on the editorial page, states that the incident is part of a "ruthless campaign of the racist United States ruling class to wipe out militant black leadership..." It says that the BPP have been singled out for attack "in a national campaign of terror that utilizes the local fascist goon squads - the police departments." The article calls for the BPP to be defended.

A characterization of "Workers World" is set forth in the Appendix.

4. Youth Against War and Fascism (YAWF)

A characterization of the YAWF is set forth in the Appendix.

The source furnished a leaflet entitled "Youth Against War and Fascism, A Revolutionary Youth Group." This leaflet contains five paragraphs stating what the YAWF stands for. Paragraph 2, captioned "The Right to Self-Determination" reads as follows:

"Support for the right to self-determination of the black and brown nations presently enslaved within the racist prison house of United States imperialsim. YAWF gives all possible direct aid and assistance to the black and brown liberation struggle and strives at the same time to build sympathy, support and solidarity for the liberation struggle among the working class within the oppressor nation. Big Business is the Common Enemy!"

Paragraph 3 is captioned "Free All Political Prisoners" and states that the YAWF demands the freedom of all political prisoners now in the "jails of United States imperialism," and that those who are responsible "be made to answer for their brutality and crimes before Tribunals of the People, from the black and brown communities and the working class."

NY T-8
October 9, 1969

On November 17, 1969, a Special Agent (SA) of the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) observed a rally in front of the United States Court House, Foley Square, New York City, in support of the "New York 21." Leaflets distributed at the rally noted that the "New York 21" are members of the BPP "indicted on trumped-up charges for conspiracy to blow up department stores, railroad facilities and the Bronx Botanical Gardens."

Banners displayed at the rally indicated that the YAWF was supporting the Panthers in this rally.

II. COMMUNIST PENETRATION AND INFLUENCE IN RACIAL ORGANIZATIONS

A. Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC)

On various dates between July 8, 1969 and September 14, 1969, the source furnished information showing that STANLEY LEVISON is an advisor and consultant to SCLC leaders as well as to CORETTA KING, widow of MARTIN LUTHER KING, JR., deceased President of the SCLC.

NY T-9
July 8, 1969 and September 14, 1969

STANLEY LEVISON was a secret member of the CP, USA in July, 1963. In late 1963 and early 1964, he critized the CP for not being sufficiently militant in the civil rights struggle. LEVISON was described by certain CP leaders as being to the "Left" of the CP in his position on civil rights. His differences with the CP, however, are merely tactical and he continues his ideological adherence to Communism.

J. H. O'Dell — NY T-10
April, 1964 — U. Y.

JACK O'DELL is a special aide to the President of the SCLC, RALPH D. ABERNATHY, and during August, 1969, made suggestions to ABERNATHY concerning the establishment by SCLC of two-day workshops in certain Southern cities for the purpose of discussing problems experienced by hospital workers and to acquaint the selected group of hospital workers, who would be invited to the workshops, with SCLC's experience in the Charleston, South Carolina Hospital workers strike.

ABERNATHY told members of the SCLC Executive Staff, that he believes O'DELL's proposals possessed merit.

NY T- 11
August 19, 1969

PUBLICATION

The fall, 1969 issue of the magazine "Freedomways" listed JACK O'DELL under the name J. H. O'DELL as Associate Managing Editor of the magazine. N.Y.

A characterization of Freedomways Associates, Incorporated, publisher of the Magazine "Freedomways" is set forth in the appendix.

B. Black Panther Party (BPP)

On October 10, 1969, CHARLENE MITCHELL, Field Secretary, National Black Liberation Commission, CP, USA, and two of the leaders of the Illinois CP met with several members of the BPP including FRED HAMPTON, Deputy Chairman, Illinois BPP, at BPP Headquarters, Chicago, Illinois, to exchange ideas on the struggle for black liberation as well as to finalize plans for MITCHELL to be the main speaker at an "End the War Now" rally on October 12, 1969, in Chicago, Illinois, sponsored by the African-American Heritage Association (AAHA).

The general discussion indicated that the BPP and the CP, as regards an anti-riot law trial in progress in Chicago, agreed that neither wanted to become involved in any violence or possible arrest situations. HAMPTON claimed the BPP is the vanguard in the United States but MITCHELL questioned this stating that the vanguard are those who work on the basis of a Marxist-Leninist outlook.

Concerning the establishment of a national defense organization, MITCHELL stated that prospects are good for calling a national conference of such an organization and that possibly branches of the organization could be established in the major cities of the country.

On October 12, 1969, an "End the War Now" rally, sponsored by the AAHA was held in Chicago, Illinois, and CP and non-CP people were in attendance. CHARLENE MITCHELL introduced FRED HAMPTON as one of the speakers. MITCHELL, who was the main speaker, said during her speech that in America there are growing fascist-like attacks on all people struggling for freedom and existence.

NY T-3
October 12, 1969

A characterization of the AAHA is set forth in the Appendix.

The "Guardian", July 26, 1969, Page 3, contained an article "Antifascist Conference in Oakland", which stated that about 3000 persons attended a conference in Oakland, California, July 18-20, 1969, initiated by the BPP to form a United Front Against Fascism. It said the conference began with a keynote address by BPP Chairman, BOBBY SEALE. It reported that the third speaker of the evening was "CP Theoretician Herbert Aptheker" who gave an historical analysis of fascism. The article reported that APTHEKER concluded his speech amid a general uproar because the audience was upset over the length of his talk.

A characterization of the "Guardian" is set forth in the Appendix.

The source made available a copy of a letter of August 12, 1969, which was addressed to all N.C. members and all districts from CHARLENE MITCHELL for "Interim Secretariat" which stated that the Secretariat had a discussion on the recently held National Conference for a United Front Against Fascism, in Oakland, California. She stated that the Secretariat concluded that it has a positive assessment of the conference and that the conference should be followed up in a precise manner. MITCHELL stated that she was enclosing a detailed estimate of the conference which is based upon a discussion held by Northern California Comrades. She said that this estimate is not at substantial variance with the Secretariat's estimate of the conference and therefore attention was being directed to the report of the Northern California Party members. She noted that while in agreement with this report, the discussion at the Secretariat meeting brought up some questions that should be discussed throughout the Party, one of which was the question of defense and how to begin moving toward a level of national defense movements, which link all cases of repression against black communities and militant organizations of black people.

The estimate enclosed by MITCHELL begins with the paragraph: "We supported the efforts of the organizers of the Conference to gain support and participation beyond the Left, but it was our expectation that the conference would appeal in the main to Left Activists and proclaimed 'Revolutionists' of various persuasions. This proved to be the case."

The Northern California report stated that the last session of the Conference was handled almost entirely by the BPP and that plans were presented for local campaigns to decentralize the police and bring them under community control.

In discussing the conference, it noted that in addition to the speech given by HERBERT APTHEKER, Party spokesmen such as ARCHIE BROWN and ROSCOE PROCTER, participated in the Labor Panel. It said that PROCTER's talk was eliminated from the agenda as were greetings from organizations, which eliminated greetings from JAMES JACKSON and WILLIAM PATTERSON in the name of the Party. This was due to the time limitation placed on the conference.

Among the proposals suggested in the Northern California report were the following:

"That our Press--the Daily World and the PW--be utilized to mobilize the Left on implementing the conference decisions and the follow up, including organizing and building up further conferences."

"That each District and State Party assign cadre to work in local organizations."

"That the National center send people to the districts to bring our estimate of the conference and the follow up. This to include our estimate of the Panthers. . ."

"That the estimation of the conference and related problems be on the agenda of the National Committee Meeting."

NY T-4
August 21, 1969

The "Daily World" in its issue of July 11, 1969, Page 3, carried an article datelined at Oakland, California, July 10, 1969, which concerned the forth coming national conference in Oakland, California. This article listed certain members of the conference steering committee and among them was WILLIAM L. PATTERSON.

APPENDIX

AFRICAN - AMERICAN HERITAGE ASSOCIATION

A source advised on May 14, 1969, that the African-American Heritage Association (AAHA) was known as the Afro-American Heritage Association until February, 1961. It was founded by ISHMAEL FLORY around 1958 and incorporated in the State of Illinois as a non-profit organization. It was founded ostensibly for the purpose of teaching African history and culture to American Negroes. AAHA is strongly influenced by the Communist Party (CP) of Illinois. It is represented by both communist and non-communist members and some people with strong Negro nationalistic tendencies. This organization reflects CP policy on some issues and opposes CP policy on others; for example, the CP rejects the concept of Afro-American as a reference term to the American Negro and rejects aspects of nationalism, both of which are reflected in the AAHA program. FLORY is a member of the CP of Illinois and theoretically under the discipline of the CP. He is the guiding force in AAHA and controls policy and decisions in AAHA. CP representatives occasionally are featured at AAHA affairs.

A second source advised on May 14, 1969, that the headquarters of AAHA are presently located at 416 West 63rd Street, Chicago, Illinois.

The above source advised that the Afr'Am Book Store, a branch of the Modern Book Store, is also located at AAHA and that this book store is managed by ISHMAEL FLORY.

A third source advised on May 8, 1969, that ISHMAEL FLORY, a current CP member, continues to be the leader of AAHA and as such makes policies and decisions for AAHA. The South Central Freedom of the Press Committee, CP of Illinois, also participates in formulating the policies of AAHA.

PROGRESSIVE LABOR PARTY (PLP)

The "New York Times" city edition Tuesday, April 20, 1965, Page 27, reported that a new party of "revolutionary socialism" was formally founded on April 18, 1965, under the name of the PLP, which had been known as the Progressive Labor Movement.

According to the article, "The Progressive Labor Movement was founded in 1962, by MILTON ROSEN and MORTIMER SCHEER after they were expelled from the Communist Party of the United States for assertedly following the Chinese Communist line."

A source advised on June 3, 1968, that the PLP held its Second National Convention in New York City, May 31, to June 2, 1968, at which time the PLP reasserted its objective of the establishment of a militant working class movement based on Marxism-Leninism. This is to be accomplished through the Party's overall revolutionary strategy of raising the consciousness of the people and helping to provide ideological leadership in the working class struggle for state power.

The source also advised that at the Second National Convention, MILTON ROSEN was unanimously re-elected National Chairman of the PLP and LEVI LAUB, FRED JEROME, JARED ISRAEL, WILLIAM EPTON, JACOB ROSEN, JEFFREY GORDON and WALTER LINDER were elected as the National Committee to lead the PLP until the next convention.

The PLP publishes "Progressive Labor", a bimonthly magazine; "World Revolution", a quarterly periodical; and "Challenge-Desafio", a monthly newspaper.

The April, 1969, issue of "Challenge-Desafio", sets forth that "Challenge is dedicated to the peoples fight for a new way of life-where the working men and women control their own homes and factories; where they themselves make up the entire government on every level and control the schools, courts, police and all institutions which are now used to control them."

Source advised on May 8, 1969, that the PLP utilizes an address of General Post Office Box 808, Brooklyn, New York, and also utilizes an office in Room 617, 1 Union Square West, New York, New York.

WORKERS WORLD PARTY

On April 17, 1959, a confidential source advised that on February 12, 1959, a Socialist Workers Party (SWP) minority group under the leadership of National Committee member SAM BALLAN, split from the SWP.

The source stated that this minority group, referred to as the Marcyites, after many years of program and policy differences on varied issues concerning tactics and interpretation of political events, split from the SWP on the grounds that the Party was liquidating itself by departing from the Marxist precepts of LEON TROTSKY and retreating from the fight for the world Socialist revolution. The final issue which ultimately forced the split was the minority's opposition to the SWP regroupment policy which involved cooperation with the Communist Party (CP) periphery-individuals characterized by the minority as petty-bourgeois.

The minority program, according to the source, advocated unconditional defense of the Soviet Union and has as its goal the building of a revolutionary party with a complete proletarian orientation for the purpose of overthrowing capitalism in the United States and throughout the world.

On May 12, 1960, source advised that this minority group had chosen the name Workers World Party.

On May 1, 1969, a second source advised that the Workers World Party, which maintains headquarters at 46 West 21st Street, New York, New York, supports the People's Republic of China in its ideological dispute with the Soviet Union.

The SWP has been designated pursuant to Executive Order 10450.

On May 1, 1969, a confidential source advised that the "Workers World" is the official newspaper of the Workers World Party, published twice monthly, with editorial offices located at 46 West 21st Street, New York, New York.

A characterization of the Workers World Party is set out separately.

DEFEND THE VICTIMS OF RACIST OPPRESSION

By Charlene Mitchell

The following is the text of a report adopted by the National Committee of the Communist Party, USA, at its meeting on Setpember 19-21, 1969.

Reports from Washington confirm what is already common knowledge: the summer of 1969 witnessed fewer rebellious explosions in the ghettos than any summer since 1964. An assessment is in order as to why the decrease and what organizational forms have moved the struggle in a different direction, but that assessment is not the intention this report.

During the 1968 Presidential campaign, every bourgeois candidate in one way or another had as part of his platform the preservation of "law and order." Our Party and the Left generally pointed out that this cry for "law and order" was an attempt to place the onus for the plight of the poor and the working class generally, but most especially of the black community, on the victims of oppression. In addition to relieving the ruling class of its responsibility for conditions in the ghettos, the "law and order" call set the stage for acceptance of a police state should that be necessary to maintain the status quo.

This demagogic campaign has been somewhat successful, electing Rightist, racist mayors in Los Angeles and other cities. Every devisive weapon has been used to isolate the black liberation movement from potential allies and prepare for a racist repressive onslaught against the black community. The whole state apparatus is increasingly used to crush the black liberation struggle. The F.B.I. and local police departments maintain a conspiratorial inter-state cooperation; police in one city arrest and hold people without charge to find if any other city or state has reason to request extradition. The judiciary fromtthe local to the federal level, and the executive branch of government, not only condone the repression but give leadership in developing new means of repression.

This offensive by the reactionary state apparatus, from the Nixon Administration down, has affected white communities throughout the country. A reactionary philosophy of "backlash" has brought to the fore racist reaction to the demands of the black people. This overt racism, often more subtle than previously, is rationalized in the name of establishing and preserving law and order. We dare not forget that Hitler's demagogic cry for law and order helped lay the basis for the open terror against, first, the Jewish people, and then all who opposed the brutality.

Reaction to this drive has been uneven and often sporadic; in many respects there has been apathy. This is true not only in liberal circles but in the Left Movement generally and to some extent even in our own Party. Notable exceptions are New Jersey where, in addition to the "Plainfield 12" case, local defense groups have been set up in Camden and Jersey City, and joint activities around defense have had good success; Minnesota, where a local committee against racism has been formed. In Chicago, Los Angeles and the San Francisco Bay area, as well as in Boston and New Haven, some beginnings have been made, especially around the defense of the Panthers and Bobby Seale.

The defeatist response among some groupings says that repression is bound to take place and very little can be done to resist it; maybe, they say, when it reaches high proportions, enough people will be affected and a movement will arise to crush the repression. Of course the argument is not so crudely put and often comes in revolutionary rhetoric, and presents this position as the method by which capitalism will be destroyed.

However, more basic questions are raised which do call for some response. One of these is: does fascism exist in the United States? Dmitroff defines fascism as "open terrorist dictatorship of the most reactionary, most chauvinistic and most imperialist elements of finance capital. It is the organization of terrorist vengeance against the working class and the revolutionary section of the peasantry and intelligentsia..... In foreign policy, fascism is chauvinism in its crudest form, fomenting the bestial hatred of other nations."

Dimitroff continues with a warning, however: "Whoever does not fight the reactionary measures of the bourgeoisie and the growth of fascism at these preparatory stages is not in a position to prevent the victory of fascism, but on the contrary, facilitates that victory.

Now, one can easily say that obviously fascism does not exist in the United States; that were fascism present today the possibility could not exist of even holding the United Front Against Fascism Conference so appropriately called by the Black Panther Party in July; further that the method of fighting an Administration that is moving further to the Right would be totally different.

The struggle would be a defensive battle against an existing fascist state, not a fight to prevent the state from becoming fascist. For Marxists this may seem elementary and maybe the reason so many of the Left correctly rejecting the erroneous concept that fascism is the present form of state rule in the U.S.- do not at the same time see the fascist-like character of the state, expecially in its racist terroristic attacks upon theradical and militant organizations and the black community in general, and particularly upon the Black Panther Party and its leadership.

Pragmatically and subjectively one could define fascism in terms analogous to the saying about economic decline: when my neighbor is unemployed, that is recession; when I am unemployed, that is depression. For the Panthers, subjectively there is the open, brutal, terroristic use of bourgeois state rule. But even this terror against the Panthers has not ruled out the possibility of legal victories, of mass struggle in defense against the brutality and frameups. Mass struggle can still defeat the fascist-like encroachments on the right of the Black Panther Party to exist.

Our Party has a special responsibility: To understand what the meaning and aims of repressive acts and methods are, and clearly to project that understanding to the mass movement. The immediate aim of the Right-wing offensive is to destroy the black liberation movement and the primary tactic of this reactionary strategy is to decapitate the Black Panther Party.

However, this strategy is not geared solely to repressing the struggle for black liberation. It is directed toward minimizing the struggle of all peoples' movements, in order to make it possible for monopoly interests to exercise maximum control over the entire country unfettered by the needs and demands of the working class and all those who struggle or would struggle against monopoly control. The racist repressive attack on the Black Panther Party is representative of a total scheme on the part of these reactionary policies as expressed by the Nixon administration.

The foregoing may all seem to be merely agitation but we felt it necessary to set a clear tone in order immediately to effectuate our National Convention decision to raise the question of defense to a new level involving masses.

At the time of our Convention we singled out for attention the case of the "Plainfield 12". Not only was this case typical of the racist repression of the black community, but it embodied the broad character of defense. The case included every spectrum of the black community in Plainfield and was able to draw many of the progressive and liberal white forces into the defense of these 12 black victims. The possibilities are growing for the further unity of the progressive forces of Plainfield and more importantly, for the winning of victory in the Plainfield case. The united front character of this defense movement can well be used as an example to the whole country.

Although this report marks a different emphasis for national concentration, in no way should it be seen as minimizing the importance of the case of the Plainfield 12. The national focus has been centralized around the attempt to systematically behead the Black Panther Party. This is especially acute because of the nature of the attack, symbolized by the most recent vindictive, conspiratorial kidnap-arrest and rearrest of Panther chairman Bobby Seale.

The racist character of the repression takes on added importance for America. Our own Party has gone through an extended period of fighting for its right to be a legal political entity; we have set precedents in mass defense of constitutional liberties and we have continuously fought for our right to exist. We have fought in the courts, we have garnered mass support. One of the reasons for the attack on the Panthers has been their drawing closer to Marxism-Leninism, which represents the most direct challenge to the status quo. Although our Party has fought through the democratic struggles, Communists remain tops on J. Edgar Hoover's list because of our persistent adherence to Marxism-Leninism.

The oppression of the black people in the United States has always had a brutal character and much of this brutality has been used over a long period of time. Black people know well that they have no rights which police are bound to respect. The police can beat, kidnap, arrest and murder at will any black person, especially young black people. Indeed, most cases of brutality and murder by police are not against the leaders of movements and organizations, but against high school students on such phony charges as suspicion of armed robbery, suspicion of auto theft and any other trumped up reason for committing these illegal and unwarranted arrests, beatings and killing.

The harassment and arrests of leaders in the black liberation movement at this time is of course a prime necessity for reactionary forces. This can be seen in the continued denial of democratic processes to Rap Brown, other SNCC leaders, welfare mothers, the Chicano movement (as in the Los Siete case in California) and the vicious attacks on the militant Indian movement in Washington State.

The genocidal attack on the black community can be stopped, but this necessitates the broadest mass defense of its victims. Unity of all forces, most especially the black community, is absolutely necessary to fight and defeat repression. The ruling class will attempt to isolate radical and militant individuals and organizations from the total community. The success or failure of the struggle to prevent fascism will in large measure be determined by the degree of unity achieved in fighting these encroachments on the rights of some of the most active and outspoken militant leaders of the black liberation movement.

In this connection, it is important to point out the lack of expressed indignation from around the country on the conviction and death sentence of Ahmed Evans in Cleveland, Ohio. The racism displayed by the judge upon sentencing Evans should be shocking to every decent human being. Only acceptance of racist ideology could allow a judge meting out a death sentence on his subjective view that the speeches and attitudes of Evans were responsible for the ghetto and black student rebellions. The execution date has now been postponed. Taking advantage of this postponement, every effort should be made to expose this racist trial and subsequent death sentence, and to demand the release of Ahmed Evans.

The offensive of reaction has been stepped up, the number of victims grows daily. The activity of support and defense must also be stepped up. We have every confidence that resistance to repression and reaction will grow, but that growth will not be spontaneous. To guarantee the necessary broad mass defense, we propose the following:

1. A sub-committee of the National Committee should be set up immediately with the responsibility of working with all districts in initiating and coordinating Party activities in the area of defense. The Political Committee shall name this committee at its next meeting.

2. We view defense in a general sense, i.e. as defense of all those who are victims, but we see the defense of Black Panther Party and its leadership as key because of the national significance of an entire organization being attacked. If reaction succeeds in destroying the Panthers the whole anti-imperialist and pro-democratic movement will be in jeopardy.

5-DEFEND Shalk

3. We immediately explore the possibility of an ad hoc national emergency defense committee based on the broadest public appeal, which will call to the attention of the nation the danger that these repressive attacks represent for the entire country.

4. We shall help to build local defense committees around specific cases, joining with those cases that have national significance.

5. We shall immediately appeal to the Communist Parties of the world to protest against the repression in the United States and uphold the right of the Black Panther Party to exist, including the immediate release of Bobby Seale.

6. All Communist political campaigns shall speak to the dangers of repression and the necessity of mass defense.

On December 22, 1969, an anonymous source furnished a four-page flyer, in the size of a tabloid newspaper, which stated it was issued by the Northern California District Communist Party (NCDCP), 942 Market Street, San Francisco.

The front page contains a drawing of a man's face. Under the drawing are the following words: "FRED HAMPTON, 1949 - 1969, MURDERED BY POLICE".

A pertinent portion of this flyer reads as follows:

"The nationwide plan to destroy the Black Panther Party must be checked. The government of the U.S.A. has again demonstrated its despicable facistic character with the assasination of Illinois Panther leader, Fred Hampton.

"The raids, in the unsuspecting hours of the morning, of Black Panther Party Headquarters and homes have essentially gone on unchallenged by the democratic peace forces in America. Police maddened by the organization of free breakfast programs and free medical clinics, maddened by the sight of revolutionary posters and books about the history of black people and the classics of Karl Marx and V. I. Lenin have laid to waste a dozen Panther offices across the country.

"Every vicious arm of 'law and order' has kicked down the doors of the Black People's Political Party offices, smashed furniture, typewriters, mimeograph and duplicating machines. "These police have assasinated, murdered, shot and wounded black people and members of the Panthers and their leadership. Other Panthers and black people have been beaten, framed and jailed in an unconstitutional manner. These Gestapo tactics must be stopped immediately. There must be an investigation by the United Nations into the spreading of this police terror."

On page four under the words "WHAT CAN YOU DO" the following is set forth:

"Have your club, union, church wire the President, the Attorney General, the Governor protesting the attacks and murders.

"Send a delegation to your City Council and insist that the issue be discussed.

"Raise money to defend the more than 200 political prisoners now in jail.

"Invite a speaker to a gathering at your home.

"Send a delegation to your local police department to protest the role of the police.

"Stand guard at the Black Panther Party office as part of the community patrol."

PROGRAM OF ACTION IN DEFENSE OF POLITICAL PRISONERS--THE FIRST STEP: STOP THE ATTACKS ON THE PANTHERS

A monstrous evil is once again rsing in our country--the evil of lynch terror against the Black people. Previously lynchingswere carried out by wild mobs--now they are carried out by the uniformed guardians of the law. In every city in the country police break into homes at 2 a.m. and now they shoot black men asleep in their beds. The police explain that they were trying to serve a search warrant.

Today the lynchings are directed against the members of the Black Panther Party. Their offices are raided, their equipment destroyed, their funds stolen, their leaders murdered and jailed. In the trial of the Chicago 8 the National Chair man of the BPP was gagged, hadcuffed, and chained to a chair after being denied his right to defend himself and to cross examine his accusers in open court. For demanding rights guaranteed all defendants in this country, he has been sentenced to four years in jail by a racist judge.

David Hilliard has been jailed for "threatening" the President, while 30 members of his organization have been murdered and 200 jailed and not one person brought to task for those crimes.

This monstrous evil must be stopped before it is too late. When any organization can be destroyed by open murder and terror carried on by the law enforcement agencies of all branches of government, and supported by both political parties, then a precedent has been established for destroying all organizations which represent the people--when such an evil can continue without serious challenge, then a precedent is allowed to develop which will become the accepted pattern by which to destroy all dissent in the country.

The ruling class in this country is faced with a crisis of monumental proportions. For the first time in history our country has been defeated in war; the system is endangered by the menace of financial collapse; never in the history of the country has there been such opposition of a war--with growing opposition inside the armed forces themselves; the powerful upsurge of liberation movements is sweeping the Black, Chicano, and now the Indian peoples.

There should be no doubt in the mind of any Communist, that the ruling class, the decisive leaders of both political parties; and the Nixon administration understand full well the meaning of the precedent being established by the urderous destruction of the Black Panther Party. Those who fail to respond today; those who allow the throttling obstacle of racism to silence their voices will be betraying far more than the Black Panter Party: they will be betraying the very future of our country--they will be allowing the method of open terroristic destruction of all dissent--of all peace and labor organizations.

The Communist Party has a long and honorable record in the struggle against Fascist reaction. And we today cannot betray that record by failing to respond in the face of the clear and obvious beginnings of fascism--the rule of open terror-- in our country today. We therefore propose the following plan of action:

1. We will support all actions called by the Black Panther Party such as the demonstration in Sacramento on Dec. 9; the mass meeting called for the Berkeley Community theatre for the 19th of December, etc.

2. We will take extraordinary means to publicize and build the mass meeting of Dec. 19 by seeking to bring ti to the attention of all mass organizations; by urging mailings of defense and peace organizations popularizing the meeting; and seeking to have it publicized in all the press to which we have access.

3. We will urge the circulation of the Community control of police petitions in all mass organizations and at all large gatherings--we will ask our members to carry out such activities.

At the same time that we support all efforts of the BPP, we recognize that the defense of political prisoners and of the Black Panther Party goes far beyond the rights of that organization. We will therefore do everyting possible to stimulate, encourage, ad build a broad mass defense of the right of the Black Panther to exist. We will do everthing possible to arouse all organizations of the people to respond in defense of the rights of the Black Panterh Party as being indivisible from the rights of their own organizations and of their individual riths.

In order to achieve this, we propose the following efforts:

1. Through our party clubs and our party clubs and our individual members to bring the issue to every mass organization possible, through the form of petitions and resolutions to be presented to the membership both through official channels of the organizations as well as by reaching the rank and file membership.

2. We propose the following as the general content of such a petition or resolution:

WE PROTEST THE VIOLATIONS OF THE RIGHTS OF ALL PEOPLE IN THE OBVICUS EFFORTS TO DESTROY THE BLACK PANTHER PARTH PRESENTLY BEING PURSUED BY ALL AGENCIES OF GOVERNMENT, FEDERAL, STATE AND LCCAL.
MORE THAN THIRTY OF THEIR LEADERS HAVE BEEN KILLED BY POLICE AGENCIES; MORE THAN 200 MEMBERS OF THE BLACK PANTHER PARTY ARE IN JAIL; THEIR OFFICES AND HEADQUARTERS RAIDED AND DESTROYED FROM ONE END OF THE COUNTRY TO THE OTHER.
WE DEMAND THAT THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT UPHOLD THE RITHTS OF ALL PEOPLE TO ORGANIZE FOR REDRESS OF GRIEVANCES AND TO PROTECT THEIR SOCIAL, ECONOMIC AND POLITICAL RIGHTS.

3. We ask that the PW carry a petition form in the next frew issues fo the paper, directed toward the President and the Attorney General of the United States.

4. That Suzie and Ronnie write a leaflet on the assasination of Fred Hampton, and the murders of Panthers, in the name of the Party.

5. That Ginny, Al and Vivian write a pamphlet which will deal with the history of the attacks on the Panthers.

6. That the Defense Club will work on community action program, including the use of sound trucks, street meetings, etc.

7. That the defense of political prisoners and the attacks on the Panthers be injected into the coming elections as a demand to be placed before candidates; as a plank in the Party's campaign material; and injected into the campaigns of any left and progressive candidate who may be running for office.

8. That we take upa number of ideas with the National Office regarding the possibility of raising this issue in the United Nations and in the interaational movement.

The discussion dealt with two questions of policy which should be part of our discussion.

The first of these has to do with the speech made by David Hilliard at the Polo grounds. The Black Panther paper of Nov. 22nd carried Hilliards speech in full and a similar speech made by Connie Mathews at the Moratorium meeting in Tuscon on November 14th.

Both speeches attempte d to explain the Pather position that the peace movement must not only fight for peace in Vietnam, but must also fight for peace here in the United States, to halt the war in Vietnam and the war being conducted against the Black, Chicano and Indian people here in the United States.

Both speeches tried to explain that just as the Vietnamese people fight and if need be die to have peace in their country, so too do the Black Panthers fight and if need be die and go to jail in order to have peace in their country.

There was one differnce in the two speeches. Connie Mathews said of Nixon: "Remove this capitalist, racist stool pigeon from power. Destroy this vulturistic system and replace it with one that all the people can benefit from." All together, Connie Mathews speech was much more persuasive and much better designed to influence the kind of audience to which both were speaking.

At the same time, both speeches sharply challenged the key weakness of the present peace movement, which is the slowness to link up the imperialist character of our society and system which breed a racist war of the most brutal kind in history to the racist onslaught against the Black, Chicano an d Indian people here at home.

It is obvious from reading David Hilliard's speech, that he had much to learn in influencing people who are not yet ready to see XXX and understand the inter-relationship between imperialism and racism as practiced here at home.

But the reaction on the part of many at the polo grounds was not due to his delivery or to his use of "bad" language. The negative reaction was due to the racism of a large part of the present peace movement--racism is still the main problem, and it is the main problem which needs to dealt with and not David Hilliard's choice of words.

While recognizing this general weakness of the peace movement--a weakness which still inhibits it from draing on the Black community which is the most advanced in oppoistion to t the war in Vietnam, as well as the most anti-imperialist sector of the poeple's movement--the peace movement is that sector which is most ready to develop a mass understanding of the racist character of this society. It is that sector which will respnd most readily to a campaign for defense of political prisoners.

We understand that the people in motion against the war go through a process of political development. We have seen the former movement motivated by moral, humanitarian and pacifist motives develop into a growing and determined opposition to the war-- moving to the present level of the slogan "GET OUT NOW!"

Which in the movement which now accepts such a slogan, a growing anti-imperialist and anti-racist core is developing. It is in this growing sector that we must look for those which forces will will most readily understand the racism involved in the brutal attacks on the Panterhs. It is among them that we will find those who will most readily understand the dealy danger involved in allowing the attacks on the Panthers to go unchallanged to their own movementand to the labor movement.

The history of capitalism is replete with the examples of how fascist reaction attempts to single out and advanced group on which to unleash unbridled terror. Once this has been successfully achieved, the inevitable logic is for this violent repression to cut a wider and wider swath against all organizations of dissent and or representing the needs of the people. In this regard the entire Black, Chicano and Indian movements will be first endangered.

Every effort should therefore be made to try to reach those who have become activated in the peace movement, to win them XXX for support for the campaign to halt the terroristic attacks against the Black Panther Party.

We see the enrire above appraach as an emergency effort to stimulate opposition to the attacks on the Panthers. This is no way should be seen as a substitute for our continued efforts to try to convince many diverse people of the most pressing need for an overall for the defense of political prisoners.

We are asking the national office for permission for Pat to come to the Bay Area to come to Bay Area to help in this effort. All members, clubs and counties should consider this effort in connections with helping to stimulate immediate activities so that the scope of the defense can be broadened out into the channel of a sustained campaign to win masses of people for the defense of the Black Panther and all political prisoners (particularly around the fight for the freedom for Los Siete).

In the meantime we urge all of our members and clubs to begin immediately a program of activities along the above lines.

COMMUNIST INFLUENCE IN RACIAL MATTERS

On January 7, 1970, a confidential source who has furnished reliable information in the past, orally advised that leaders of the Communist Party of Eastern Pennsylvania and Delaware (CPEPD) met with a representative of the Black Panther Party (BPP) in Philadelphia during the month of December. The purpose of this meeting was to discuss the formation of a defense committee in support of the Black Panthers. During this meeting, the representative of the BPP made it clear the BPP was interested only in obtaining support of their defense. When this individual requested assistance of the CP members in obtaining sand bags to be used around their headquarters, the CP members emphatically refused because they felt this was a provocative act and the CPEPD would not become involved.

A characterization of the BPP is attached.

Subsequently, a committee of three CP members was formed to meet at future dates with leaders of the BPP to further discuss this matter of defense of the BPP.

MORTIMER "DANNY" RUBIN, National Organization Secretary, CPUSA, was in Philadelphia during the latter part of December 1969 and advised the leaders of the CPEPD that efforts are being made to hold a national conference concerning the harassment of the BPP. Petitions are being prepared and prominent individuals are being canvassed to lend their support. RUBIN did not elaborate, nor did he indicate this conference would be sponsored solely by the CPUSA. However, he did mention that if such a conference is held the CPUSA would participate.

"TO FULFILL THESE RIGHTS"
11/17-18/65
WASHINGTON HILTON HOTEL

#34423
ALL INFORMATION CONTAINED HEREIN IS UNCLASSIFIED
DATE 12/2/94 BY 9803 ADD/glt

Berl Bernhard, former Chairman, Federal Civil Rights Commission, called me three times yesterday, 11/11/65. Bernhard is currently a practicing attorney in Washington, D. C. The President "borrowed" him, according to his statement, for a short period of time in order to organize and administrate the above-captioned meeting.

The meeting entitled "To Fulfill These Rights" is an outgrowth of the President's statements made in a speech approximately one year ago at Howard University. The real purpose, according to Bernhard, is to prevent "rioting" in major metropolitan cities. Bernhard also stated that the meetings are to be held to let the participants freely "sound off" and to let off steam. He told me that the participants would be controversial figures from all walks of life. Martin Luther King is to be a participant. The Americans For Democratic Action (ADA) is to be prominently represented in the form of Joe Rauh, who is to be the head of one of the eight panels at these meetings.

Bernhard stated that there undoubtedly would be great controversial and differences of opinion at the meetings. He stated this was being encouraged by the President inasmuch as it would give everyone a chance to give vent to their feelings.

Bernhard next got to the meat of his conversation. He stated that he thought the FBI should attend these meetings in the form of a "Federal observer." He advised that the Department of Justice was sending approximately eight people. He added that the meetings would not be complete unless the FBI had someone in attendance. He stated that my name had been given to him by White House staff officers and that he hoped the Director would allow me to represent the FBI.

ENCLOSURE

I asked Bernhard point-blank if the so-called "observers" would be allowed to challenge individuals if they made critical or unjustifiable statements concerning the FBI. Bernhard paused for a second and then stated this would not be in keeping with the President's wishes. He once again explained that all participants were to have free expression and that if they were to be challenged this undoubtedly would cause them to shut up. I told Bernhard this was the point, that if they didn't know what they were talking about, or falsely accuse the FBI, they should shut up. Bernhard again told me that challenges to free expression would not be in keeping with what the President wanted at these meetings. I then asked Bernhard what possible service I, or any other representative of the FBI, could render by accepting this invitation. He stated that he personally believed that it would be of some value to "nose around" the participants, to talk with them at their recesses, and to attend a White House reception with them, so that some consensus of opinion could be garnered later on regarding the actual feelings of these people. I told him that it appeared the Department of Justice could do this inasmuch as they would certainly have plenty of people in attendance.

Bernhard again encouraged attendance on the part of the FBI. He stated the President was giving a reception for these people on the night of November 16th and that this would be the opening phase of the meeting.

There is attached a telegram received, obviously from Bernhard, which came to my office first thing this morning. The telegram extends an invitation to attend the so-called reception which will be the opening phase of the meetings.

There are both advantages and disadvantages concerning attendance of these meetings on the part of the FBI. The disadvantages far outweigh the advantages in my opinion. If we are not allowed to stand on the floor and challenge critical and unjustifiable statements which undoubtedly will be made, then there obviously is no need for our attendance. The only advantage would be to obtain the thinking of some of the controversial participants, like Rauh and King, and this type of thinking is already known to us.

ACTION:

It is suggested that I call Bernhard back today and tell him that while the Director is appreciative of the invitation for an FBI representative to attend, it is believed that attendance by the Department of Justice will be sufficient insofar as we are concerned.

SUBJECT: WHITE HOUSE CONFERENCE "TO SECURE THESE RIGHTS"

ALL INFORMATION CONTAINED HEREIN IS UNCLASSIFIED DATE 5-2-01 BY 60267 NSEPTM

Former Assistant Director Courtney Evans called and advised that the Justice Panel on the captioned White House Conference which is being held November 17 and 18, at the Washington Hilton Hotel, had resulted in a good deal of criticism of the FBI's role in Civil Rights cases.

This panel, which is under the chairmanship of Judge William Hastie of the Third Circuit Court of Appeals, is to a large extent composed of professional civil rights workers. The panel was supposed to discuss a wide variety of matters dealing with the administration of justice. Yesterday afternoon, however, the panel spent most of its time discussing the physical security of individuals, particularly civil rights workers in the South. The old and discredited charges that the Bureau dragged its feet in handling Civil Rights cases and refused to make arrests on the scene of obvious civil rights violators were voiced in emotional terms by the civil rights leaders present. Evans, who was present, refuted these charges and said that he was greatly aided by the strong position taken in the Bureau's favor by former Assistant Attorney General Burke Marshall. Marshall was, of course, defending his own record since the Department of Justice proper received almost as much criticism as the FBI.

Evans said that he was not attending today's session of the panel but had been told that there might be further discussion of this question of physical security. He was told that Joseph Rauh, the Washington, D. C., attorney who represents civil rights groups, had talked with several newspaper reporters last evening and this morning telling them that it was the consensus of the Justice Panel at the Conference that the number one issue in civil rights today is not education, voting or jury selection, but is physical security, and that if this took a national police force, then that is what the country would have to have.

As a matter of fact, it was not the consensus of the panel but only of the civil rights leaders themselves.

Evans said he thought the Director might be interested in this information as Rauh will get it publicized if he possibly can without, of course, any of the statements made defending the Bureau's position.

Concerning the 11/7/65 meeting of individuals active in the local civil rights movement, [redacted] The information in this instance was paraphrased as set forth and their identities not included in the LHM to protect these sources, noting the limited number of individuals present, and also because Chicago feels that to identify these two Bureau sources by name would add nothing material to the contents of the LHM. Chicago feels it would serve no purpose to have these sources' names set forth as this LHM is subject to possible widespread dissemination and might at some future date be utilized in such a fashion as to compromise or embarrass these sources. COMMUNIST INFILTRATION - SOUTHERN CHRISTIAN LEADERSHIP CONFERENCE (SCLC)
INTERNAL SECURITY - C

~~CLASSIFIED DECISIONS FINALIZED~~ BY DEPARTMENTAL REVIEW COMMITTEE (DRC)
DATE: 6-11-85 1678 RFR/CLL

A confidential source, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised the Chicago office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation in early November, 1965, that he had learned that within the past several days, a meeting of a high level Committee within the Illinois Communist Party (CP) had been held in Chicago. One of the principle topics discussed at this CP meeting was the status of the civil rights movement in Chicago, and in this connection reference was made to efforts being made locally to mobilize both peace and civil rights forces to participate in the anti-Viet Nam demonstrations scheduled for the weekend of November 27, 1965, in Washington, D.C. This source advised that he had learned that at this CP meeting it had been noted that mobilization plans within the civil rights movement locally are hampered by the fact that the SCLC has scheduled a retreat for that weekend, this retreat involving youths, on Chicago's West Side, among whom SCLC staff workers here have been active for several months. It was reportedly agreed at this meeting that efforts should be made to influence Reverend James Bevel, Coordinator of the SCLC staff here, to postpone this retreat or release some of those youths involved for the Washington mobilization. It is known also that efforts in this direction are under way on the part of other civil rights organizations in Chicago. (U)

It was further noted at this meeting that within the Party locally, discussions have taken place recently concerning the possibility of attempting to stimulate the organization of a collective within the local civil rights leadership. Such a collective, or collectives, as is envisioned would be of both CP and non-CP people and in most instances would not be under Party control or leadership. (U)

Subsequent to this CP meeting, the source learned that Eugene Tournour has stated in recent discussions that the leader of the Coordinating Council of Community Organizations (CCCO), (U)

Al Raby, and representatives of the SCLC in Chicago, had agreed that a city-wide body of about fifteen individuals, representing various local civil rights organizations, should be formed. Tournour had indicated his understanding that a group such as this was similar in nature to the type collective which the CP in Chicago has had in mind with the civil rights movement and, further, has noted that this group has agreed to meet on a weekly basis on Chicago's South Side, commencing in the near future. (U)

This source subsequently advised on November 8, 1965, that he had learned that on November 7, 1965, a meeting had been held on Chicago's South Side, the meeting called by Al Raby, with some fifteen - eighteen persons present. This gathering represented an informal meeting of the leadership of various elements of the civil rights movement in Chicago, chiefly, however, individuals connected either with the CCCO or the SCLC. (U)

Raby explained the purpose of this meeting as a discussion of various activities taking place in Chicago within the movement, to exchange information among various organizations and possibly to offer mutual assistance to each other. Raby indicated that this was to be the beginning of a series of such discussions to help correlate the movement here. Among those individuals present, one was a current CP member in Chicago and another was known to be active in the W.E.B. DuBois Club on Chicago's West Side. (U)

A characterization of the W.E.B. DuBois Clubs, locally and nationally, are being attached to this memorandum. The sources utilized in these characterizations have furnished reliable information in the past.

Regarding Tournour, it should be noted that the source utilized above has previously advised, during September, 1965, that Tournour has been considered for some time by the leadership of the Illinois CP as a Party member for all practical purposes and that representatives of the CP had worked closely with him, as they would with any other Party member. (U)

RE: COMMUNIST INFILTRATION - SOUTHERN CHRISTIAN LEADERSHIP CONFERENCE

This source continued that Tournour was the CORE Midwest Regional Secretary in charge of the CORE Task Force in Chicago from the summer of 1964 until he was fired by the CORE National Office in January, 1965. He then arranged for a group of Midwest CORE representatives to finance his employment as a staff CORE member of the Midwest area. As such, Tournour had continued as head of the CORE Task Force in January until June, 1965, when the "Chicago Tribune," a Chicago daily newspaper, ran an article regarding his activities which resulted in a public statement by the CORE National Director that Tournour had been fired. SUBJECT: COMMUNIST INFLUENCE IN RACIAL MATTERS
INTERNAL SECURITY - COMMUNIST

You will recall that my memorandum to you 11/8/65 recommended, and it was approved by the Director, that we furnish to the White House derogatory information from our files concerning individuals connected with the Southern Christian Leadership Conference which that organization intended to represent it at the White House Conference on Civil Rights, 11/17-18/65.

We have learned through our sensitive coverage of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, which is headed by Martin Luther King, Jr., that on 11/16/65 King complained to his Washington representative, Walter Fauntroy, that some of their key people had not been invited to the Conference. Of six individuals named by King, four were individuals concerning whom we had furnished the White House derogatory information. These individuals were Randolph Blackwell and Lawrence Reddick, former Communist Party members; Harry Wachtel, who also has a subversive background; and Dorothy Cotton, a paramour of King.

OBSERVATIONS:

We may be overly optimistic, but perhaps this is a favorable trend. We will continue, as in the past, to furnish the White House derogatory information concerning King's people who indicate possible association with the White House.

RECOMMENDATION:

This is for your information.

SOURCE OF INFORMATION

For the information of Atlanta, captioned individual [redacted] he has furnished both reliable and unreliable information.

On 11/12/65, [redacted] telephonically furnished Bureau Headquarters the following information.

(1) Mr. and Mrs. Davis (not further identified) arrived in New Orleans that date to see the Dombrowskis. (This reference is probably to James Dombrowski of the Southern Conference Educational Fund, Inc., New Orleans origin). A source close to the Dombrowskis heard the Davises referred to as "communists" from Texas and that the Davises' permanent residence was in a foreign country.

(2) At a meeting in Atlanta 11/6/65 (not further identified) Harry C. Boyte made the statement that he was a Communist Party member. Boyte was identified as a white male, middle aged, who had once lived in South Carolina. His people had reportedly rejected him in view of his acceptance of communism and they consider him as dead. His wife is said to be a school teacher and Boyte is reportedly employed by Martin Luther King, Jr. Boyte is alleged to have stated that King is actually more radical than people think and is really a Socialist but cannot speak out openly. (Boyte is apparently identical to the individual by the same name who is employed by King's organization, the Southern Christian Leadership Conference in Atlanta as Director, Operation Dialogue.

(3) [redacted] informed that King is supposed to come to the New Orleans area soon to assist in civil rights matters and will be entertained in the home of Sargeant Caulfield, stated by [redacted] to be a communist. (Apparently the reference is to Sargeant Caulfield, a Security Index subject of the New Orleans Office who is the Communist Party leader in the Baton Rouge, Louisiana, area.)

[redacted]

[redacted] (Bufiles contain information concerning Lon Clay Hill, Jr., [redacted] Louisiana, a white male who was born [redacted] This individual was arrested 8/9/65 on the U.S. Capitol Grounds, Washington, D.C., in a protest demonstration against United States policy in Vietnam. He was found guilty and fined $50 or 30 days. He has FBI Number [redacted] in the Bureau's Identification Division. Hill has been active in affairs of the Committee for Non-Violent Action and a participant in the Quebec-Guantanamo Walk for Peace, the Congress of Racial Equality and numerous other racial activities. More complete information concerning this individual is contained in Cincinnati airtel and letterhead memorandum 7/7/65 captioned "Mississippi Summer Project, Racial Matters, State of Mississippi, Racial Matters," copies of which were furnished to New Orleans).

Because of the demonstrated unreliability, on occasions, on the part of [redacted] it is not desired that any extensive investigation be initiated based upon the foregoing. of item number 3 above and in the event King should visit New Orleans, any association on his part with Canfield should be ascertained and reported. As to item number 2 above, should the Atlanta Office have information which, combined with the foregoing, would merit a security investigation of Doyle, appropriate recommendations should be made to the Bureau.

Workers Action Committee

A source, who is in a position to furnish reliable information, advised on November 18, 1965, that the Workers Action Committee would sponsor a picket demonstration in the vicinity of the Waldorf Astoria Hotel, 50th Street and Park Avenue, New York City, on behalf of "equal opportunities for restaurant and hotel workers."

On the evening of November 18, 1965, Special Agents (SAS) of the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) observed a picket demonstration consisting of 16 people picketing both entrances to the Waldorf Astoria Hotel.

The pickets started their demonstration at 6:00 p.m. and carried placards protesting racial discrimination in the hiring policies of the Waldorf Astoria Hotel claiming that the hotel discriminated against Negroes and Puerto Ricans.

The pickets also asked people entering the hotel to attend an affair of the National Urban League, not to patronize the hotel because of its practice of discrimination.

The pickets also handed out a leaflet captioned, "SHAME! SHAME! SHAME! On the Urban League for holding this affair in the very den of EXPLOITATION AND JOB DISCRIMINATION."

This leaflet claimed that only 4 percent of the hotel's employees are Negro and that 85 percent of the hotel's Negro employees take home less than $60.00 per week.

This leaflet set forth that it was prepared by the Workers Action Committee, Post Office Box 210, Cathedral Station, New York, New York.

Stefan Martinot was observed directing the demonstrators in the picket line.

On March 12, 1965, Phillip Abbott Luce, self-admitted former member of the Progressive Labor Party (PLP), advised that Steve Martinot was known to be a member of the PLP West Side Club in New York City.

A second source advised on September 30, 1965, that he had learned that the Workers Action Committee is made up of members of trade unions in New York City, especially the Welfare Workers Union and District 65, with some members from steel unions. Further, that the Workers Action Committee was a front group of the PLP and its aim is to build clubs and fractions in each of the trade unions.

A characterization of the PLP is attached hereto.

On 9/3/65, a pretext telephone call was made to subject's employer by SA [redacted] Subject answered and advised that he had attended UCLA and Denver University. He also advised he was 43 years of age. The pretext used was that of a newspaperman who was gathering information for a proposed newspaper article. b6 b7C

Records of the University of Denver revealed subject entered that university after World War II by passing a General Education Development Test inasmuch as subject did not possess a high school diploma. Records of the university failed to disclose any other information regarding subject.

The Denver Division is continuing its investigation.

In view of the above, the NYO is ceasing its investigation pending the results of Denver's investigation.

The remaining source that would have background information regarding the subject would be Church Army of Holy Trinity Church, Montague and Clinton Streets, Brooklyn, NY, subject's employer.

The NYO will not undertake such investigation unless requested to do so by the Bureau because of the sensitive nature of this investigation.

COMMUNIST INFLUENCE IN RACIAL MATTERS

On November 29, 1965, a source, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised that Paul Gurewitz, the son of Clarence and Helen Gurewitz, was contacted by an unidentified person who had talked to Ben Perkins at the COFO (Phonetic - probably the Council of Federated Organizations), in Greenville, Mississippi. They are getting up a project for "Northern Kids" over the Christmas Holidays. Paul Gurewitz agreed to go on the project and to get the forty dollars for bus fare. The unidentified male was to tell Lynn Wells who, on November 29, 1965, was in Atlanta, Georgia, for a conference which was not identified during the conversation. Lynn Wells was to call Perkins.

On July 19, 1963, a second source, who has furnished reliable information in the past, identified Clarence Gurewitz as a current Communist Party (CP) member.

On February 20, 1964, a third source, who has furnished reliable information in the past, described Helen Gurewitz as a current CP member.

This document contains neither recommendations nor conclusions of the FBI. It is the property of the FBI and is loaned to your agency; it and its contents are not to be distributed outside your agency.

Lynn Wells, although not otherwise identified, is probably the daughter of Roy Hudson Wells and Ruth Wells who, according to the first source, is a friend of Paul Gurewitz and has been active in the High School Friends of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee with Paul Gurewitz.

On August 26, 1954, a fourth source, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised that Roy Hudson Wells had been a CP member for the past eighteen years.

On June 25, 1954, the fourth source identified Ruth Wells as a current CP member.

Security Matter - C

On December 4, 1965, a confidential source, who has furnished reliable information in the past, furnished information which disclosed that Stanley Levison and Martin Luther King (President of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, SCLC), were in contact on that date concerning a speech King was to make before the Synogogue Council of America on December 5, 1965, at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel, New York City.

Levison, in advising King what he should say, told him to make some remarks about his accomplishments since the movement (King's) started in Montgomery, Alabama, about ten years ago. King, Levison advised, should say that major Federal legislation dealing with civil rights was written because of the actions in Birmingham and Selma, Alabama.

King and Levison also discussed the statement of the National Council of Churches regarding United States efforts in Vietnam. In that regard, King and Levison had nothing but praise for the statement, and Levison advised King to use the part about the use of United States power to kill Asians. Levison said he thought King should associate himself with it. King agreed to get a copy of "The New York Times" and see what he could use from the article.

This document contains neither recommendations nor conclusions of the FBI. It is the property of the FBI and is loaned to your agency; it and its contents are not to be distributed outside your agency.

Security Matter - C

"The New York Times", Saturday, December 4, 1965, on page 1, column 8, carried an article reporting a proposal by the National Council of Churches on December 3, 1965, urging the United States to stop bombing North Vietnam to create a more favorable climate for peace negotiations. The Council statement suggested that the present course generates distrust and hatred of the United States throughout much of the World because the country is seen as a predominantly white nation using overwhelming military strength to kill more and more Asians.

In continuing their discussion, King and Levison made reference to a recent episode in Boston, Massachusetts, whereby the American Legion withdrew an award to a Rabbi named Gittelsohn (phonetic). The award, according to King and Levison, was withdrawn because Gittelsohn was a sponsor of the March on Washington For Peace in Vietnam on November 27, 1965. King was advised by Levison to stress in his speech before the Synagogue Council that the award was withdrawn because of Gittelsohn's outspoken defense of Peace. Additionally, King was told to pose the question "whether free speech has not become one of the casualties of the war".

According to the source, King and Levison ended their discussion on a note by Levison that in regard to Vietnam, Johnson and Kennedy have stated sensible policies but "we" were not implementing them. Levison said the big question was just who is actually running the country.

The "New York Herald Tribune", December 6, 1965, page 16, column 5, contains an article reflecting that Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., spoke at the annual dinner of the Synagogue Council of America at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York City, on the night of December 5, 1965, at which time he received the group's Judaism and World Peace Award.

According to the article, King, in his speech, made the following comments:

Security Matter - C

The prospects for peace in Vietnam are growing dimmer because of a war policy in this country. The danger of the United States going deeper into the Vietnam conflict is on the increase "because those who would question it are being subjected to intensified attack". Such attacks take the form of "an ugly regressive sentiment to silence peace seekers". It is "assuming a shape which depicts advocates of immediate negotiation under terms of the Geneva Agreement as quasi-traitors, fools, or venal enemies of our soldiers and institutions".

Stanley Levison

A confidential source, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised in April, 1964, that Stanley Levison was a secret member of the Communist Party, United States of America (CPUSA), in July, 1963. In late 1963, and early 1964, he criticized the Communist Party (CP) for not being sufficiently militant in the civil rights struggle. Levison was described by certain CP leaders as being to the "left" of the CP in his position on civil rights. Levison's differences with the CP, however, are merely tactical and he continues his ideological adherence to Communism. (S) (U)

SUBJECT: COMMUNIST PARTY, USA
NEGRO QUESTION
COMMUNIST INFLUENCE IN RACIAL MATTERS
INTERNAL SECURITY - COMMUNIST

By memorandum from Mr. Sullivan to Mr. Belmont 4/29/64, the Domestic Intelligence Division submitted a summary-type document depicting the extent of communist influence in the Negro movement. Since then, we have been keeping this document up to date with the latest high lights developed from our continuing investigation by the submission of amended and additional pages. This was done first on a weekly basis and since August, 1964, on a monthly basis. Originally 195 pages in length, the document has been practically doubled in size as 186 new pages have been added.

It should be noted that the additions to the document do not consist of any "virgin" information. That is, pertinent high lights are brought to the attention of the Director and other Bureau officials as the information is received and prior to being included in the document. In addition, almost all the information in the document was disseminated, on a day-to-day basis, to the appropriate outside agencies prior to being included in the document.

REC-105 100-442537-1607X

Because this summary document now serves no apparent useful purpose, it is proposed that we discontinue making monthly additions to it. We will, of course, continue to keep the Director and Bureau officials promptly advised on a current basis of pertinent information obtained in our continuing and intensified investigation of the communist influence in the racial movement and its many corelated investigations such as concerning Martin Luther King, Jr., his organization, the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, and so forth. Similarly, we shall continue our day-to-day dissemination of this material.

61 FEB 19 1975

RECOMMENDATION:

If approved, we shall discontinue monthly additions to the summary document relating to the communist influence in racial matters.

To All District Leaders
From the National Negro Commission

Dec 9, 1965

Re: Negro History Week

Dear Comrades:

Negro History Week is relatively speaking just around the corner. It is imperative that we should give the event the most serious consideration. The interest of tens of thousands of our people will undoubtedly be focussed on all and any action programs proposed.

As you perhaps know, the meeting of the National Coordinating Committee in Washington calls for the observance of Peace and Freedom Week in the middle of February, especially in the South. Nothing could be more significant organizationally or in terms of political action than the unity of these two vital movements--peace and civil rights.

Your district should make the occasion one for intensified action for equality of rights and opportunities. The Negro Commission hopes to receive notice of the activities you contemplate. Despite the shortness of time, a series of events can be undertaken, for the people are ready to move. The district leadership should initiate a discussion to this end and report to the Commission. The Commission at the same time is considering proposals, the conclusion of which will be sent to you in the very near future.

Lyndon B. Johnson will doubtlessly issue a declaration proclaiming the second week of February as Negro History Week. Probably it will be accompanied by a statement deploring the vicious conditions under which millions of Negro citizens are forced to live and pledging enforcement of the Supreme Court Desegregation Decision of 1954, the Civil Rights Act of 1964, and the Voting Rights Act of 1965.

These decisions and measures reflect the power of the people in and through united action to force the Supreme Court to declare unconstitutional existing state laws and customs violating the citizenship and human rights of Negro citizens. They prove that Congress can be pressured into passing legislation protective of the voting and other civil rights of Negroes. They are an inspiration for more determined democratic action.

Rigid enforcement and strict implementation of these laws and decrees demands infinitely broader, sharper and more militant demonstrative democratic actions. Otherwise these steps will be repealed by the failure of the administrative branch of government, its Department of Justice and police enforcement agencies to act for their implementation with vigor and dispatch.

Failure of the three branches of government to coordinate their activities in the realm of Negro rights or to throw their enforcement agencies into action supporting the civil rights legislation is characteristic of the government's attitude toward the political demands of Negro citizens.

117-9-2-52 9-1608

ENCLOSURE

The constancy of the maneuvering of the Administration is proof that an official policy of racism exists and is deeply imbedded in what is called "the American way of life," meaning, of course, imperialism's way. It can and will be changed only by unity in sharp and relentless struggles persistently and systematically pursued by:

1. Negro Americans in unison

2. Labor and the Negro people acting jointly

3. All who are opposed to racism in any form and manifestation acting against these evils on the political, economic and cultural fronts.

This is along the road to an American people's way of life.

Neither racism as an ideology, or the moral blight, economic retardation and cultural backwardness it has brought to the American people as a whole can be ended without this unity in struggle supporting the Negro's demands for equality of rights and opportunities. This is in the interest of national security.

A declaration of Negro History Week by City, State or Federal governments without the bodies invoking all of their powers and agencies to change the existing situation is a hoax. It reflects merely a desire and the determination of government to maintain the status quo or to institute such minor reforms as will deceive the people and further the interests of the monopolies which profit financially and otherwise through racism and its accompanying terror so destructive of national unity.

Negro History Week has not increased the knowledge of white Americans of the monumental contributions black Americans have made to the country's growth and development in every sphere of human relations.

It has been used to isolate those contributions from American history and to conceal the inseparable relations of white and black Americans that are truly characteristic of American life from its beginning. Thus, covertly and slyly, Negro History Week has become a gesture supporting reactionary practices.

It can be turned into its opposite. On this occasion it must and can be utilized as a period in which to --

1. Clarify the present stage of the Negro liberation struggle and its inseparable relation to the peace, anti-poverty, unemployment, education, housing and all other struggles.

Thus, this struggle becomes clearly the property of every progressive and advancing segment of the nation and tactics necessary to reach the strategic aim of the Negro people so vital to the interests of the nation are more readily understood.

Some Activities

A. Strenuous efforts through formation of Citizens Committees and other actions to get mayors and governors to issue Negro History Week proclamations with directives to correct existing conditions should be instituted.

B. The Sunday of Negro History Week could be used by all churches to preach against racism and its evils and for unity of white and black in struggle.

C. The ideological struggle against racism should be lifted up in every way.

D. Large appropriations should be sought to eliminate the ghetto. This in no way conflicts with the anti-poverty campaign so-called. The demand of A. Philip Randolph for 100 billions for ghetto clearance is by no means exorbitant and should be fully supported.

E. Trade Union activities against racism in industry and the unions should be solicited. There are many trade union resolutions against racist practices lying dormant that can be invoked.

F. Mass political demonstrations, court, legal and legislative activities should be viewed as supplementary and not contrasted.

The mayoralty fight waged by Carl B. Stokes in Cleveland, Ohio should be studied and used as a guide wherever possible.

G. Sharpen the fight against police brutality and relentlessly expose it as a policy of government.

H. All mass organizations should be petitioned to raise the question of their relations to and with the Negro liberation struggle.

I. Negro leadership should everywhere be urged to support the demands of labor and other progressive organizations even where these forces have not as yet come out in support of the political and economic demands of the Negro people.

Unity in struggle is a two-way street. This does not imply equal responsibilities. The stronger position of Labor and the white masses imposes greater responsibilities on their shoulders.

But an understanding that victory in the liberation struggles cannot be won alone imposes responsibilities on all progressive forces.

Especially should we think in terms of programs consistent with the Party's National Program.

For the National Negro Commission,

William L. Patterson

SUBJECT: COMMUNIST PARTY, USA
NEGRO QUESTION
COMMUNIST INFLUENCE IN RACIAL MATTERS
INTERNAL SECURITY - COMMUNISM
CIRM

By memorandum from ~~Mr. Sullivan~~ to Mr. Belmont 4/29/64, the Domestic Intelligence Division submitted a summary-type document depicting the extent of communist influence in the Negro movement. Since then, we have been keeping this document up to date with the latest high lights developed from our continuing investigation by the submission of amended and additional pages. This was done first on a weekly basis and since August, 1964, on a monthly basis. Originally 195 pages in length, the document has been practically doubled in size as 186 new pages have been added.

It should be noted that the additions to the document do not consist of any "virgin" information. That is, pertinent high lights are brought to the attention of the Director and other Bureau officials as the information is received and prior to being included in the document. In addition, almost all the information in the document was disseminated, on a day-to-day basis, to the appropriate outside agencies prior to being included in the document.

Because this summary document now serves no apparent useful purpose, it is proposed that we discontinue making monthly additions to it. We will, of course, continue to keep the Director and Bureau officials promptly advised on a current basis of pertinent information obtained in our continuing and intensified investigation of the communist influence in the racial movement and its many corelated investigations such as concerning Martin Luther King, Jr., his organization, the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, and so forth. Similarly, we shall continue our day-to-day dissemination of this material.

ORIGINAL FILED IN 100-3-116-2354

RECOMMENDATION:

If approved, we shall discontinue monthly additions to the summary document relating to the communist influence in racial matters.

Ninth Annual Convention of Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC), Birmingham, Alabama, August 9-13, 1965

1) Preliminaries to Convention

HARRY WACHTEL is the Executive Vice President for the Gandhi Society For Human Rights, 15 East 40th Street, New York City. WACHTEL resides at 29 Split Rock Drive, Kingsport, Long Island, New York.

Birmingham Confidential Informant T-2 furnished information in December, 1949, that HARRY H. WACHTEL, 41 Broad Street, New York, New York, is on a list of individuals carried as active members of the National Lawyers Build.

Birmingham Confidential Informant T-3 furnished information on March 5, 1944, which revealed the name HARRY WACHTEL was on a list of names, significance not known, which was maintained at the headquarters of the Kings County Communist Party, 26 Court Street, Brooklyn, New York. Regarding HARRY WACHTEL's wife, LEONORA, T-3 furnished information on May 5, 1944, which revealed that her name and address were on a list of names of newly elected officers of the Bath Beach Club of the Kings County Communist Party.

A characterization of the National Lawyers Guild is attached hereto.

On August 4, 1965, Birmingham Confidential Informant T-4 advised BAYARD RUSTIN had disclosed he was going to Birmingham, Alabama, on August 9, 1965, to attend the SCLC Convention. RUSTIN also disclosed that he would be with Rev. MARTIN LUTHER KING most of August 9, 1965.

In "The Saturday Evening Post", issue of July 11-18, 1964, page 76, BAYARD RUSTIN is the subject of a feature article captioned: "The Lone Wolf of Civil Rights". In it, RUSTIN is said to have come to New York in 1938, as an organizer for the Young Communist League (YCL), and as such, he had the job of recruiting students for the "Party". Furthermore, the article reports that during his first years in New York, RUSTIN gave most of his earnings to the "Party". He reportedly left the "Party" in 1941, the article states.

The YCL has been designated pursuant to Executive Order 10450.

The "Daily Worker", February 11, 1957, page 1 column 2, reported that BAYARD RUSTIN, Executive Secretary, War Resisters League, was an observer at the 16th National Convention of the Communist Party, United States of America (CP, USA) held in New York City, on February 9-12, 1957.

The "Daily Worker" was an East Coast Communist publication until it ceased publication on January 13, 1958.

Birmingham Confidential Informant T-5 advised on September 25, 1963, that during a meeting of the National Board, CP, USA, on that date, BENJAMIN J. DAVIS remarked that, "RUSTIN calls me constantly -- openly."

Birmingham Confidential Informant T-4 advised on February 19, 20, 1964, that BAYARD RUSTIN contacted BENJAMIN J. DAVIS on those dates and sought his advice as to how he could escape from a speaking engagement to which he was committed. On the latter contact, DAVIS told RUSTIN that he was working on his request and had contacted friends who had contacts with the group to which RUSTIN was to speak.

"The New York Times", August 24, 1964, page 27, column 4, reports that BENJAMIN J. DAVIS, National Secretary, CP, USA, died in New York City on the night of August 22, 1964.

Birmingham Confidential Informant T-4 advised on August 8, 1965, that MARTIN LUTHER KING and some of his advisors, including BAYARD RUSTIN and HARRY WACHTEL, had conferred on that date. This conference, according to the informant, was devoted exclusively to the SCLC Conference in Birmingham, Alabama, August 9 through August 13, 1965.

KING, in opening the conference, said the real purpose in conferring with his advisors, was to decide which resolutions would be presented at the convention and which would be most newsworthy. This prompted all to agree that the one dealing with the Viet Nam conflict would be most newsworthy, especially since KING is being questioned continuously on this issue. In light of that conclusion, a lengthy discussion ensued over what strategy should be utilized in order to get the resolution before the convention at the appropriate time. Several suggestions were made, but it was agreed that RUSTIN should be the individual to handle the questions dealing with Viet Nam. In order to do this, RUSTIN will work on a statement dealing with the question, write a memorandum on the question, and prepare an open letter to the President, to the Premier of the Soviet Union, and to the heads of all countries involved in the Viet Nam conflict. The letter will be written in the name of KING and will state that he writes as a Nobel Peace Prize recipient and as an advocate of non-violence, and as such, urges negotiations to end the conflict.

RUSTIN, in declaring his position, said the civil rights movement was not ready to speak to the world on Viet Nam, but that KING could speak as an individual, thereby getting the impact of the civil rights movement behind him. In that way, RUSTIN said, the other civil rights leaders could not criticize KING for speaking out on the matter.

The letters to the various world leaders should go out on Thursday, RUSTIN said, but in the case of President JOHNSON, he should receive a telegram first, followed by the letter.

Following a decision on Viet Nam, KING and his advisors then discussed strategic questions dealing with the resolution on civil rights. In that regard, it was agreed that the resolution should be presented on Wednesday night (August 11, 1965).

With regard to the resolution on civil rights, KING said he had talked with STANLEY LEVISON and CLARENCE JONES and had asked them to prepare the resolution but to date, he had not received anything other than a general statement dealing with civil rights

Member of CP

CLARENCE JONES is the General Counsel of the Gandhi Society For Human Rights, 15 East 40th Street, New York, New York.

Birmingham Confidential Informant T-9 advised on February 26, 1957, that he identified a photograph of CLARENCE JONES as a person whom he knew during late 1953 or early 1954 to be a member of, and in a position of leadership, in the Labor Youth League (LYL).

The Labor Youth League has been designated pursuant to Executive Order 10450.

Birmingham Confidential Informant T-10 advised in April, 1964, STANLEY LEVISON was a secret member of the CP, USA, in July, 1963. In late 1963 and early 1964, he criticized the CP for not being sufficiently militant in the civil rights struggle. LEVISON was described by certain CP leaders as being to the "left" of the CP in his position on civil rights. His differences with the CP, however, are merely tactical, and he continues his ideological adherence to Communism.

2) Participants on Program of Convention

"The Birmingham Post-Herald", a daily newspaper of general circulation published in Birmingham, Alabama, in the edition of August 11, 1965, page 2, carried an article reporting events at the SCLC Convention, of August 10, 1965.

According to this article, Dr. LAWRENCE D. REDDICK, Professor of History and political science at Coppin State College in Baltimore, Maryland, and Historian of the SCLC, introduced the main speaker at the general session of the convention held at 8:00 p.m., August 10, 1965.

This main speaker was identified in the article as Nigeria's permanent Ambassador to the United Nations, Chief S. O. ADEBO. According to the article, Chief ADEBO stressed that "the Black Revolution", as he termed it, is worldwide.

On September 17, 1943, Birmingham Confidential Informant T-6 advised that he had learned that Dr. REDDICK, who was then Director of the Schomburg Library, 103 W. 135th Street, New York City, New York, was one of the most important unpublicized members of the Communist Party (CP). Birmingham Confidential Informant T-7, on July 5, 1950, advised that LAWRENCE DUNBAR REDDICK was known to him as a CP member.

On January 20, 1964, Birmingham Confidential Informant T-14 advised that LAWRENCE DUNBAR REDDICK attended an affair sponsored by the Maryland Committee for Democratic Rights (MCDR), held at Baltimore, Maryland, January 17, 1964, at which the main speaker was BENJAMIN J. DAVIS, identified by T-14 as National Secretary of the CP, USA.

On January 21, 1964, Birmingham Confidential Informant T-14 advised that [redacted]

b6
b7D

Birmingham Confidential Informant T-8, on July 28, 1965, furnished a copy of the Ninth Annual Convention Program of the SCLC dated as of July 21, 1965.

This program indicated that on August 11, 1965, RANDOLPH BLACKWELL would be the chairman of a panel which was to meet at 2:00 p.m.

According to the program, Rev. C. T. VIVIAN would make the citations at the city-wide mass meeting to be held at 8:00 p.m., on August 11, 1965.

Birmingham Confidential Informant T-12 advised on February 26, 1953, RANDOLPH BLACKWELL had been a member of the Communist Party in the District of Columbia.

Birmingham Confidential Informant T-13 advised in November, 1947, Rev. C. T. VIVIAN was a member of the Community Section of the CP in Peoria, Illinois. On June 24, 1948, T-13 advised C. T. VIVIAN had not been active in CP affairs nor had he been in the Peoria area for some time.

According to the above mentioned program of the SCLC Convention, on August 12, 1965, BAYARD RUSTIN was to be a participant in a panel to be held at 10:00 a.m., on the subject, "Visions of Things to Come".

3) Miscellaneous Activities at SCLC Convention

Birmingham Confidential Informant T-8 advised on August 13, 1965, that he had been informed that a man by the name of STANLEY LEVISON, among others, served on a committee during the SCLC Convention to check the financial records of the SCLC for the past fiscal year.

T-8 also advised that he had observed STANLEY LEVISON at two of the workshops conducted during the SCLC Convention during the period August 9 through August 13, 1965.

On August 12, 1965, Special Agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation observed HARRY WACHTEL in the lobby of the Thomas Jefferson Hotel. A party which included Rev. MARTIN LUTHER KING and Mrs. KING entered the lobby. WACHTEL was observed to greet the KINGS and then engage in conversation with the Rev. KING.

On August 24, 1965, Birmingham Confidential Informant T-11 advised he had been informed MARION METELITS, a member of the District Board, Communist Party, Eastern Pennsylvania and Delaware, attended the convention of the SCLC held in Birmingham, Alabama, during August, 1965. T-11 advised the expenses for METELITS' trip were paid by the National Office of the CP, USA. However, METELITS had returned to Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, one day before the convention ended because she had not been given sufficient funds.

METELITS attended this convention as a delegate, but when she experienced difficulties gaining admission to some of the conferences, she then indicated she was a reporter from the "Independent Citizen", the official publication of the Independent Citizens Committee in Philadelphia. This resulted in her meeting members of the press and enabled her to obtain copies of the speeches before they were delivered. She was also able to meet many of the people who were leaders in the convention.

METELITS claimed she had a discussion with Mrs. MARTIN LUTHER KING and during the discussion asked Mrs. KING some questions pertaining to the women question. Mrs. KING appeared to be very interested and indicated she would call METELITS and answer these questions after she had given them further thought.

According to METELITS, the key to civil rights is the Voting Rights bill which should stimulate much political action in the South, as well as in the North. While demonstrations will continue, they will not be on the same scale, but political action will become the weapon. METELITS claimed she was able to influence this thinking among some of the committees which she met.

METELITS indicated she plans to travel to New York City to meet with some of the leaders in the National Office of the CP, USA, at which time she will discuss certain parts of this convention with them. METELITS, however, did not indicate what these were, saying they should be kept secret.

STANLEY LEVISON

A confidential source advised in April, 1964, that STANLEY LEVISON was a secret member of the Communist Party (CP), USA, in July, 1963. In late 1963, and early 1964, he criticized the CP for not being sufficiently militant in the civil rights struggle. LEVISON was described by certain CP leaders as being to the "left" of the CP in his position in civil rights. LEVISON's differences with the CP, however, are merely tactical and he continues his ideological adherence to Communism. (S) (U)

332 AUBURN AVENUE, N. E.
ATLANTA, GA.

March, 1965

Dear Friend:

A "NIGHTMARE OF STATE POLICE STUPIDITY AND BRUTALITY"... When even a segregationist newspaper, the Montgomery, Alabama Journal, describes the clubbing and shooting of Negroes in Marion, Alabama in these horrified terms, the consciences of all Americans should be equally aroused.

In Selma, Alabama less than 350 Negroes are registered to vote out of 15,000 who are eligible - despite the Civil Rights Act of 1964. Yet, 3500 were swiftly arrested when they attempted to exercise their constitutional rights.

Apart from voting rights, merely to be a person in Alabama is not easy. When reporters asked Sheriff Clark if a woman defendant was married, he replied, "She's a nigger woman and she hasn't got a Miss or a Mrs. in front of her name." When one of our SCLC staff, a minister under arrest, was taken to the hospital with a raging fever he was shackled to the bed with medieval leg irons.

These are some of the unbearable conditions which compel us to continue our demonstrations in Selma and elsewhere. Human rights are not going to be won in the deep South unless we tirelessly fight for them, no matter what the cost to us in money, in toil and in blood.

In the past four years, despite towering obstacles, the Negro vote in the South has been doubled. This achievement, simple to express in words, is an epic of heroic struggle. Tens of thousands of registration workers endured long weary days and nights to make it real. They worked with the knowledge that they might meet a grisly death around an, corner.

Now that this is done we must begin again, because in concert with other organizations, we must double the vote once more. Only then will we have the political strength and representation to curb the injustices afflicting the lives of millions of Negroes.

We need the help of all decent Americans. Our organization, SCLC, is not only working in Selma but in dozens of other closed Southern communities. In this period we have maintained a full time staff of 32 in Alabama alone. In addition to the usual expenses, we have met such costs as hospital bills and emergency aid to people fired from their jobs. At the same time, our self-help projects are operating in South Carolina, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi and other states. Our people are willing to work, to sacrifice, to be jailed when necessary - but their income, normally meager, is cut off in crises. Your help can make the difference. can be a message of unity which the thickest jail walls cannot muffle.

With warmest good wishes,

Martin Luther King, Jr.

Title: COMMUNIST INFLUENCE IN RACIAL MATTERS

Character: INTERNAL SECURITY - C

Synopsis:

In 1/65, at a meeting of leading functionaries of CP, USA, HENRY WINSTON said the Party must root itself among working class Negroes and working class youth; people in Harlem are turning to Muslims because "we" are not giving leadership. In 2/65, information was received indicating CP plans to spend $10,000 in the South in 1965 in the struggle for democratic expansion. An enlarged meeting of CP, USA National Board was held in 2/65 and DANNY RUBIN stated a National Convention should be held in 12/65; in preparation for the convention committees should be formed to deal with, among other things, a plan of work in the civil rights field. CARL WINTER suggested the Party be rebuilt in such a way as to take part in the American mainstream in such fields as civil rights and youth. In 2/65, GUS HALL stated the Party condemned racism as evil but has not related this to capitalism. In 2/65, CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT commented the Party must update its position on civil rights; he said Negro people are trying to achieve freedom within the framework of capitalism and the Party must show them equality is not achievable under capitalism. CP, USA National Negro Commission meeting was held in 3/65; (WINSTON stated after the McCarran Act had been defeated the Party would hold its National Convention and project a program of action and find its way into the mainstream of the Negro People's Movement.) LIGHTFOOT said the CP must develop a program to meet the economic needs of the Negro community; he proposed the CP try to initiate conferences in Negro community dealing with the problems there; he said CP's role in the South must be strengthened. GUS HALL stated the objectives of the CP must be to merge into one unified struggle the struggle of the working class for better living conditions and the struggle of the Negro people for freedom. LIGHTFOOT stated an expanded war in Vietnam would hurt the Negro people and the fight for freedom; he urged efforts be made to end the US war against the Vietnamese people. MIKE DAVIDOW stated the Party was against GALAMISON's school boycott because there was no unity between GALAMISON's group and other civil rights groups, but even though the Party disagreed with the idea, it would support GALAMISON's group. As of 2/65, SWP was very much in support of MALCOLM X and his group, the Organization for Afro-American Unity.

I. COMMUNIST STRATEGY

A. Communist Party, USA (CP, USA)

1. Plans, Strategy Made at National Level of the Party

On January 13, 1965, JACK STACHEL discussed the make-up of "The Worker" issue of February 7, 1965, which he said is to be devoted to Negro History Week.

STACHEL remarked that AL SIMON will write an article on cultural development among Negroes and that GENE WILLIAMS would write on the role of youth and Mississippi.

TED BASSETT remarked that a "State of the Race Conference" would be held on January 30 and 31, 1965, at a place which has not yet been announced. BASSETT said that the conference would assemble top civil rights leaders.

NY T-1
January, 1965

A meeting of leading functionaries of the CP, USA was held on January 24, 1965, at CP Headquarters, New York City. MORTIMER DANIEL RUBIN, at this meeting, commented that there is also the problem of building the Party in Negro communities, especially "when our Party base in so many crucial Negro communities is so small to begin with." He noted that in some Negro communities, they have not yet found the forces with which to begin to build. He mentioned that the central problem which pertains to every area of work is the question of cadre training as well as the general problem of cadre. He said that there are some plans offered to make a "dent" and help solve the relation to Negro Youth. He said as regards growth in the Negro community, they need to do a lot more in terms of analysis of the movement and the issues.

HENRY WINSTON said that the Party must root itself among the working class Negroes and working class youth. He also stated that on the question of the Negro Movement people are turning to the Muslims in Harlem because "we" are not giving leadership. He said that there has been a tremendous rise in the Negro liberation movement but a stagnation or nonexistence of Party influence exists in such areas as Cleveland in the Negro community.

January, 1965

On January 29, 1965, GIL GREEN and HENRY WINSTON had an informal discussion at CP Headquarters, 23 West 26th Street, New York City. WINSTON informed GREEN that he had recently talked with PAUL and ESLANDA ROBESON and raised the question of doing something about Africa. WINSTON said he raised, with them, the proposition that "we" start where the Council on African Affairs left off. He said it would be something on Africa that would reflect the status of the Negro people today in the racial movement; WINSTON stated that the Council on African Affairs was primarily to combat South Africa and now "we" should broaden out. He stated the purposes would be: (1) to bring to America information on Africa and the African countries; and (2) to send to Africa the results of the Negro here in America. WINSTON indicated that the ROBESONS thought it an excellent idea. He said that ESLANDA, who has all kinds of connections in the United Nations (UN), is extremely interested to work on such a thing. She conceived the idea of a news bulletin and has a woman, RUTH GATES COLEMAN, who is willing to manage such a bulletin.

Continuing, WINSTON stated that he asked them to prepare a memo on it and they were happy to do it. He said that she has requested him to help prepare this.

WINSTON asked GREEN to accompany him to help them from going too far afield. WINSTON further commented that he would like to suggest some people be brought in because PAUL is not too strong organizationally but PAUL's name could bring in a lot of money. He said that if they could bring in THELMA DALE, "we" could take our time, work systematically and have something substantial. GREEN agreed to accompany WINSTON to ROBESON's home.

WINSTON also remarked that PAUL suggested a possible name, Afro-American Friendship Society. WINSTON added "we will let them decide the name; we will give them the contents." According to WINSTON, PAUL is prepared to give his full service and "I" have spoken to him about raising money, a budget, an office and the like.

GREEN commented that it was important to start to bring him out to the public and thought California would be a good starting place. WINSTON replied that "Freedomways" has already started to bring him out, in April for his birthday. WINSTON felt that his appearances must be planned because he gets confused, adding, "I got him to agree that we would plan his appearances."

"Southern Solidarity

"We all understand how important the struggle in the South today are for the future of our whole country. Our work in the South makes important contributions in the struggle for democratic expansion

"in every part of the land. It costs money to achieve results in this work. In the year, 1965, we plan to spend $10,000 for wages, travel and literature for the South. This represents a modest increase over 1964.

"Even this minimal spending will not take place unless there is a fight to get 100 per cent payment of the Southern Solidarity Assessment. In the last number of years many Districts have failed to collect it or turn it in, or have treated it as a voluntary matter.

"Southern Solidarity Assessment is an involuntary assessment of one month's dues to be paid in December, at the end of the dues payment year. Most Districts have not yet completed turning in this assessment for 1964.

"We propose that a real effort be made in February, Negro History Month, to turn in this assessment. The assessment alone, even with the fullest turn-in will not enable us to fulfill the $10,000 budget for work in the South. We, therefore, have decided that when collecting the assessment, all comrades should be asked to make a voluntary contribution to the Southern Solidarity Fund, over-and-above the assessment. All such money should be turned in as rapidly as possible, but in no case later than April 1st.

On February 4, 1965, HENRY WINSTON and GIL GREEN had an informal discussion at CP Headquarters, New York City. GREEN stated that he did not believe that "People's World" should be known as a national paper. He said it was a West Coast paper that should branch out but JIM JACKSON was against it. HENRY WINSTON, in defense of JACKSON, said that he was not against it providing "we" allow "The Worker" to branch out.

GREEN stated that "The Worker" would obviously branch out on the West Coast, but the first area for the paper was to try to get into the college field and secondly into the existing civil rights groups.

"People's World" is a west coast Communist publication.

An enlarged meeting of the CP, USA National Board was held on February 13, 14 and 15, 1965, at the Manhattan Hotel, New York City. DANNY RUBIN, during this meeting, said that a National Convention of the CP should be held in December, 1965. It should not now be announced publicly, but committees should be formed to lay the groundwork. These committees should deal with, among other things, a plan of work in the civil rights field. RUBIN stated that the Civil Rights Commission should build a Negro cadre and work with Negro youth.

On the second day of this meeting, MICKEY LIMA spoke of the success in youth work in the CP in San Francisco. He said there has been a great increase of youthful readers of the "People's World". He said that the Sino-Soviet split, the Party's current legal situation and the Negro struggle must be overcome before the CP can go forward and function more efficiently.

BOB THOMPSON stated that the Party should study actual situations such as the Negro situation in Harlem.

CARL WINTER stated that the CP must be rebuilt in such a way as to take part in the American mainstream in such fields as civil rights and youth.

One of the proposals which was carried at this meeting was to instruct the Civil Rights Commission to establish points of concentration.

A meeting of the National Board of the CP, USA was held February 13 - 15, 1965, at the Manhattan Hotel, 45th Street at Eighth Avenue, New York City. During the course of this meeting, GUS HALL commented that the Party does not write enough about class struggle questions and socialism. The Party takes for granted that everybody knows its strategic policy. Strategy and tactics are especially important to the Party and mistakes have been made in this field in the past. For example, in the civil rights struggle, the Party condemned racism as evil, but did not relate it to capitalism. The Party did not sufficiently explain the daily economics of exploitation with regard to taxes, profits and prices.

HALL stated that the concept of unity of strategy and tactics must be explained to the young comrades. The ruling class fear the Communist Party more than any other group because of its strategy and tactics. The Party must project and react to the new power structure in the South, what that means to unions, what it means to the ultra-right and to the role of the working class.

HALL stated the Party must be the leader of mass movements and the opportunity exists to develop grass roots movements. The Party must start with the idea that capitalism is evil and struggle and mass activity are necessary.

MORTIMER DANIEL RUBIN delivered the main report at the conclusion of HALL's remarks. RUBIN reported that the Party must be re-geared with growth as the result. He stated that the Party needs to be rebuilt in membership, financial support and in its literature field. According to RUBIN, important relationships have been made by the Party in the field of civil rights and with labor.

RUBIN continued by stating that the Civil Rights Commission should draw up a program by April 1, 1965, as to left forums and initiatives in the language of the civil rights movement.

RUBIN stated that the Party must break through in Negro communities. Priority must be given to building Negro cadre and working with Negro youth. This summer, the Party must make a gigantic effort in education.

CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT requested permission to speak, and he commented that the Party must update its position on civil rights. He said that the Negro people are trying to achieve freedom within the framework of capitalism. The Party must show them that equality is not achievable under capitalism. LIGHTFOOT also agreed that the Party's long-range goals must be given more prominence.

HELEN WINTER recommended building a Labor-Negro coalition around electoral issues.

ALBERT "MICKEY" LIMA outlined three areas for consideration in terms of how to overcome the lag in Party functioning.

1. The legal status and how to plan a long-range breakthrough.

2. The split in the world Communist movement.

3. The new stage of history, particularly with regard to the Negro struggle, and how to take advantage of this new stage in history.

JAMES TORMEY spoke briefly concerning the Negro American Labor Council, particularly with regard to its efforts in the housing field and in job discrimination. He said they do exert influence in these areas.

ROBERT THOMPSON stated that he felt that the main problem facing the Party today was cadre training. He said a way must be found to get going on a concentration program. The Party must set goals for itself and then find the ways and means to achieve these goals.

THOMPSON recommended that a study be made of the actual situations existing and take from this study what is positive. He said a study should be made of the situation as it exists in Harlem and the different groups that are there and to take from it what is positive and achievable in the civil rights movement. He said the same would be true in all fields of Party work.

CARL WINTER stated that the Party needs to be built in order to take a more active part in the American way of life. He said "we" have to concern ourselves with how to change the Party. He said that the Party needs to concern itself with growth among youth, Negroes, and the working class. There is a need to get different kinds of members into the Party and to use what "we" have to get these members. WINTER suggested that the Party pick one area for its work either in youth, trade union or civil rights activities.

At the conclusion of this session on February 14, 1965, among the proposals and motions was that the Civil Rights Commission plan a program with specific points of concentration for the Party. This motion was approved.

WILL WEINSTONE, at CP Headquarters on February 16, 1965, stated that copies of "The Worker" editorial on the Congo should be placed in every Negro barbershop in Harlem. A meeting of leading functionaries of the CP, USA was held on February 16, 1965, at CP Headquarters, 23 West 26th Street, New York City. During this meeting, a discussion took place in connection with "The Worker" and "People's World". GIL GREEN, in commenting about "People's World", stated that the paper should reach into the civil rights field as well as in the South. He said that people would take "People's World" rather than "The Worker" because "The Worker" has been more and more identified with the CP, USA. He argued, "We can still get our viewpoint across in the 'People's World' paper and gain better access in the trade union movement."

JAMES JACKSON commented that he was not opposed to "People's World" entering areas not reached by "The Worker". He said, however, that it must be carefully considered as to who would promote it, what promotion was needed and whether something beneficial would result from such a venture. JACKSON said that "The Worker" has played an important role in the Negro people's movement and in the civil rights field.

On March 6, 1965, HENRY WINSTON appeared at New Haven, Connecticut, at which time he delivered an address entitled, "What's Ahead for the Negro Freedom Movement -- A Marxist Viewpoint." According to the source, the program was under the auspices of the New Haven "Worker" Committee. SIDNEY TAYLOR was Chairman of the affair and he introduced HENRY WINSTON.

WINSTON said that February, 1965, is a Negro history month, that the Negroes have made tremendous contributions in every field and have constantly fought for human and civil rights which would not only benefit them but would also benefit the entire country as a whole. He said that there are those in this country who would maintain the status quo, such individuals being the monopolists and the capitalists. WINSTON said that suggestions have been made to arm the Negroes, however, such action would only play into the hands of the Southern communities who control their local governments completely. He said that suggestions have also been made to make the Negro economically self-sufficient, however, such suggestions would be an impossibility in a country where 180 million white persons are neighbors of the Negro. He said that the better solution would have the Negro enter politics, thereby giving him a greater say-so in the formation of laws, thereby aiding integration and causing better educational facilities to be offered to him. This he described as a giant step toward socialism.

WINSTON said that trade unionism must lead the way in the South which so far has been sparsely organized. He said that he knows it will be extremely difficult to gain entry into the small towns.

WINSTON said "we" must bring pressure into any organization possible, whether it be fraternal, social or a service organization. This pressure must be brought to bear on political leaders in order to see that "foreign countries" of Alabama and Mississippi adhere to the Constitution of the United States.

The following "Memorandum" was made available by the source:

"December 10, 1964

"Memorandum

"From: National Negro Commission and Org. Dept.

"To: All Districts and comrades responsible for Negro work.

"Re: Negro History Week Activity for February, 1965.

"The recent meeting of the National Negro Commission held in New York City had a three-point agenda:

"1. An analysis of the elections in the Negro community.
"2. We took note of the preparations for a summit meeting called by the Negro American Labor Council some time in January in Washington, D.C.
"3. Negro History Week Activity.

"In this memo, we shall forego a discussion on the first two points. We believe that the election results are now common knowledge and when the reports as well as the Draft Resolution on the election results is available, this will more than suffice to show the role of the Negro vote and the problems thereof.

"In regard to the second point, this matter has been discussed with all districts.

"We shall therefore discuss Negro History Week 1965.

"Our approach to organizing activity around this issue must be of a twofold character. On the one hand, we must assist all broad forces interested in Negro History Week activity to make 1965 a turning point in the character of the observation of Negro History Week. Heretofore, the observation has taken the form mainly of highlighting Negro achievements in various fields of endeavor. Naturally, individual Negro achievements, past and present, are important. But we are of the opinion that the struggle must now be mounted on a higher level. In line with the new developments within the country in which all segments of the American people have come closer to a realization of the importance of the Negro question, it is now possible to broaden the scope of Negro History Week, making it a focal point for the struggle to include the true role of the Negro people and the Negro question, past and present, in the curricula of all schools throughout the nation. This involves pressure on school boards and other governmental levels. Appropriate speakers in schools during and after this period is also a valuable form. We should also assist other forces to prevent Negro History Week from being only an observance of brotherhood. We should encourage trade unions to undertake appropriate programs.

"The other aspect of this year's observance must take the form of highlighting the contributions of the American Communist Party to the struggles of the Negro people, past and present. There is a great urgency for us to raise our Party's participation in this regard to a higher level than ever before in our history. The chief endeavor of the bourgeoisie in these cold war years in the Negro field has been to bury the contributions the CP has made. Tons of literature have been poured out in which either the role of the Party was deleted or grossly distorted. A whole new generation of freedom fighters has risen up without any knowledge of our contribution. Many of these young fighters are searching for answers . . . that the present leadership of the Negro liberation movement does not fully provide. It is therefore imperative that our contributions reach these youth.

"Hence, in the framework of modesty, we must prepare meetings and materials which will serve this purpose. We propose that the central figure highlighting the contributions of American Communists should be around the person of Comrade BEN DAVIS.

"We, therefore, propose that Memorial meetings commemorating his memory and highlighting Communist contributions be organized.

"In New York the plan is to organize in Harlem one of the largest rallies in the last ten years and preparations are under way to achieve this objective. In all the Districts on the Eastern seabord, such as Connecticut, New Jersey, Philadelphia, Massachusetts -- where BEN went to school --, Maryland -- where he first worked, etc., we urge full participation in supporting the meeting being organized in Harlem. It is likewise proposed that all other Districts organize BEN DAVIS Memorials, no matter how small or large, although the emphasis must be to give such meetings attention such as we have not done in recent years. The National Office will make speakers available. Comrades WINSTON, JACKSON, PATTERSON, LIGHTFOOT, HALL and others will be available for such gatherings.

"All such memorials should be of a united front character, as broad as possible given the location situation. But in all instances the breadth of such gatherings must not negate the ability to bring forward in the clearest manner the role of BEN DAVIS, the Communist.

"A pamphlet highlighting the life's work of BEN DAVIS is in preparation. We urge the widest distribution of this pamphlet and especailly must we guarantee that the young cadre within the various civil rights organizations get a copy of this pamphlet.

"In addition to this, we are proposing that a special supplement be prepared for "The Worker" which will highlight all the various achievements of the CP throughout the years. We urge preparations for maximum circulation.

"Thirdly, it would be very good if progressive book stores were encouraged to make available package sales of various literature that Communists and other progressives have written on the Negro question.

"Lastly, the Org-Ed Commission is working on an outline for theoretical discussion on the Negro question in all levels of Party organization, to be ready for Negro History Week."

HENRY WINSTON

EDWARD TEIXIERA
DOROTHY HEALEY

CHARLENE MITCHELL
TOM DENNIS
TED BASSETT
MILDRED MC ADORY
JACK STACHEL

JAMES TORMEY

The meeting on March 20, 1965, got started with CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT requesting nominations for Chairman for the session. TOM DENNIS was subsequently selected as Chairman for the session

DENNIS informed those present that the agenda for the meetings would consist of a report by CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT, CP National Negro Commission Chairman, which would be an analysis of the political situation in view of the Negro struggle. DENNIS said that GEORGE MORRIS would talk about labor and the Negro alliance and lastly, EARL DURHAM would talk on civil rights.

During the morning, LIGHTFOOT and GEORGE MORRIS made their respective reports; and in the afternoon, DURHAM talked about civil rights. All of the reports concerned facts which had already been made known to the world through news media and emphasized the fact that the American Negro was on the move in quest of full equality as an American citizen.

During the second day, March 21, 1965, CHARLENE MITCHELL acted as Chairman.

Just prior to the morning session, HENRY WINSTON pointed out that President LYNDON JOHNSON was sending Federal troops to Selma, Alabama, to assist the civil rights marchers who were walking to Montgomery, Alabama.

During the rest of the day, there was a full discussion on the reports made the previous day and again the facts brought out were the same as those in the various news media.

Following the discussion, HENRY WINSTON told those present that before the United States Government had brought the most recent conspiracy charges against the CP, a CP National Convention had been planned but this had to be abandoned in view of the trial.

WINSTON then stated that "we" feel that the Party has a good opportunity to defeat the Mc Carran Act and that after the CP triumphs in the trial to be held next fall, a CP National Convention will be held. WINSTON said that after the Party won out, it would be legal and would no longer be subjected to harrassment by the Federal Government. WINSTON stated that after the Mc Carran Act had been defeated, the Party could hold its National Convention, project a program of action and find its way into the mainstream of the Negro people's movement.

WINSTON stressed that at the present time, the CP would have to be extremely cautious about involvement in the Negro movement, and he was going to set up a subcommittee of JAMES JACKSON, TOM DENNIS, EARL DURHAM, and ALVA BUXENBAUM to study the Negro struggle and prepare a resolution in various aspects of the Negro struggle.

The meetings were closed with LIGHTFOOT talking about his recent trip to a number of African nations.

NY T-11
March 22, 1965

A meeting of the National Negro Commission of the CP, USA was held at the Woodstock Hotel, New York City, March 20, and 21, 1965, with approximately 26 individuals in attendance from New York, Illinois, Michigan, Maryland, Massachusetts, California and Pennsylvania.

The opening report was given by CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT who is Chairman of the National Negro Commission, CP, USA. LIGHTFOOT mentioned the tremendous significance of developments in Selma, Alabama, which put the country at the brink of a new reconstruction era. He stated that if this movement is successful, it could mean the end of Dixiecrat control of the South. LIGHTFOOT related that the registration features of the bill proposed by President JOHNSON could make possible changes in the entire world situation. The change in political structure in the South could break the back of the reactionary bloc in Congress. LIGHTFOOT stated the President's action proved the correctness of the CP line in the 1964 elections. He stated that the CP must not give up its political criticism of the JOHNSON Administration. LIGHTFOOT stated the literacy tests must be thrown out completely.

LIGHTFOOT further stated for labor, there must now begin an organizational drive in the South. The right to vote is the link that can move the coalition forward. He stated that the CP must develop a program to meet the economic needs of the Negro community. He stated that the CP could not work like it did in the old days since they must work with assisting organizations and develop initiatives that can spur the entire movement.

LIGHTFOOT stated that there is a void in the Negro community since civil rights organizations do not penetrate into the ghetto. He also spoke of Negro youth, stated that there must be a program to combat the fact that Negro youth are systematically excluded from the job market. He stated the CP must develop a program which helps build a socialist cadre.

LIGHTFOOT proposed that the CP try to initiate conferences in the Negro Community dealing with the problems in those communities. LIGHTFOOT further proposed that the CP's role in the South must be strengthened and there be established in each district three-man committees whose sole responsibility will be to develop solidarity actions with the South.

The second report was given by GEORGE MORRIS, a member of the CP, USA Negro Commission, on the Negro-Labor alliance. MORRIS stated that many tensions developed between the labor movement and the civil rights movement in the past; however, there have been some breakthroughs. He stated that the March on Washington helped change the character and the attitude of the trade union movement on civil rights. MORRIS stated the civil rights movement acts as a powerful pressure force on the trade union movement. He stated that there are still negative aspects and certain tensions still exist, but legal basis for progress has been made in the unions. He stated if there is to be solid support, the civil rights movement must move into the economic struggles which will link them directly with labor struggles.

MORRIS stated that the Selma, Alabama, struggle must be supported by labor, and the CP must find ways to strengthen the struggle for peace.

The third report was given by EARL DURHAM, a member of the National Negro Commission, CP, USA. DURHAM related there was not an overall national center in the struggle for civil rights, neither organizationally nor ideologically. He stated that there are many organizations and many forms of struggle. The character of the forces in the leadership of the struggle are middle class Negroes in coalition with white middle class forces and students. He related that the white religious community is more active now, particularly in the Catholic Church. DURHAM stated that none of the civil rights organizations have a mass base in the Negro community and particularly among the working class sections of the Negro population. The trade union movement as such is not involved in the struggle although individual trade unionists speak out.

DURHAM related that one large area of struggle is the militants versus the conservatives. DURHAM spoke of continued red-baiting and gaps that have been created between freedom fighters in the South and the national leadership of civil rights organizations. He stated that the CP has the responsibility to concentrate on strengthening the working class base. There must be an all-out fight for unity of the movement; there must be a unified program on the economic problems of the Negro people; there must be ideological documents answering the many questions in the civil rights movement, and concentration given to establishing for the North a left center in the ghetto.

DURHAM closed by lauding the CP's past role in the struggle for civil rights, and indicated that the slogans the CP advanced in the past are now becoming slogans of the masses and even now President JOHNSON says, "We shall overcome."

After these reports were given, various representatives gave their opinions of the reports as well as their feelings regarding the civil rights struggle. On March 21, 1965, the second session of the National Negro Commission meeting was held with further discussions by representatives from the various districts. During this session, [illegible]

GUS HALL, General Secretary of the CP, took the floor and stated that he wanted to speak on the downgrading of the working class that is taking place in certain left circles. HALL quoted from articles from left-wing publications, other than Communist publications, which articles questioned the role of the working class in the struggle for progress in this country. HALL stated these writers eliminate the Negro workers, the unemployed, the youth that never worked, the wives of workers, the youth of working class families, and others and thereby narrow the trade union movement and working class movement down to the few white officials of the trade unions.

HALL stated that the class composition of the Selma struggle indicates that the backbone of the movement is the workers. He stated there are two processes in America -- first, the struggle of the working class for better living conditions, and the second, the struggle of the Negro people for freedom. HALL stated the objectives of the CP must be to merge these into one unified struggle such as took place during the 1964 election. HALL stated that the CP must guard against the downgrading of the working class.

HENRY WINSTON stated he felt the meeting was a milestone in the work of the CP and all ideological programs now have to be geared for a CP convention at the end of 1965. WINSTON stated that the Mc Carran Act might prevent the CP from having a public convention, but at any rate, there will be a convention. He stated that they must establish a resolutions committee to draft documents on policy for pre-convention discussion. He stated that certain questions must be considered in drafting such a document, and these questions are as follows:

1. Is it possible to restrict the Negro question from the general framework of the problems of the country as a whole?

2. Why is Alabama the focal point of the Negro Struggle today?

3. The document must give the CP position on such questions as are white liberals the main enemy? This question shows a lack of confidence by certain sections of the Negro mevement of the ability to win with white allies.

4. The document must answer the charge that individual terror or terrorism is a legitimate form of struggle. This is a position that supports the worst enemies of the Negro people. The CP must have a forthright position against violence and terror.

5. The question of civil rights as an issue for the minority and not the majority. He explained the ultra-left has the position that since the Negro people are part of the majority of the world, it is up to the Negro people to fight to take over the country and with the help of the other black peoples of the world, this can be done. WINSTON stated this is sheer cowardice because it denies the role of the Negro people in the United States.

6. Another question is on Negro - Labor alliances and how it can be strengthened. He stated the CP must fight to move the trade unions into organizing the unorganized in the South. The war against poverty should be part of the organizing drive in the South.

7. The document must discuss concretely how to build the CP among the Negro people with particular emphasis on Negro youth.

8. Something must be added on the problems of the farm and sharecroppers.

March 23 and 24, 1965

In commenting about the National Negro Commission meeting held in March, 1965, in New York City, the source advised that the CP National Center had paid all the expenses of those attending the meeting since they wanted representatives from all parts of the country. The National Negro Commission meetings, which would be local in character, will be held later in the year with the Mid-West and West Sections meeting as a group and the East Section meeting as another group.

During the morning of March 20, 1965, CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT made a report which was later set forth in full in the March 28, 1965, issue of "The Worker". LIGHTFOOT, in making the report, stated that if President LYNDON JOHNSON's voter registration bill was passed without compromising amendments, a strengthening Democratic political structure would emerge in the United States.

LIGHTFOOT said that the registration of additional millions of Negro voters would change the political complexion of Congress and the country and that a new political force would emerge in the Southern United States.

He emphasized that the demonstrations in Selma, Alabama, signalize a new stage in the struggle for full freedom and indicated a break with gradualism and tokenism.

LIGHTFOOT pointed out that religious groups were now active in the Civil Rights Movement along with Trade Unions and these facts showed that a new and better relationship between the Negro people's movements was developing.

LIGHTFOOT acknowledged that Negro people who live in ghettos were not yet fully involved in the Civil Rights Movement.

He warned that an expanded war in Vietnam and Southeast Asia would make the Negro people and the fight for freedom a prime casualty. He, therefore, urged that efforts be made to end the United States war against the Vietnamese people.

GEORGE MORRIS, in his report of March 20, 1965, reviewed the past history of the labor movement, stressing that the Party had assisted in the formation of the Congress of Industrial Organizations. MORRIS called upon the Negroes in the working class movement to form a closer association with all Trade Unions, and to be more active in bringing forth their grievances. MORRIS stressed that Negro workers in the future should strive for active leadership in their unions. MORRIS stressed the necessity of Negro and white workers in full alliance.

EARL DURHAM, on March 20, 1965, talked at length about the Civil Rights Movement in the United States, pointing out that many and varied organizations had played an important role in the movement. He said that it was essential that these various organizations act in a unified manner in order to insure final success.

CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT, during the course of the meeting on March 20, 1965, made the statement that each person present should go back to his district and work on a program which would assist the Civil Rights Movement. There were no specific directives or programs of action set forth during the day's events.

GUS HALL, CP General Secretary, during the course of the day, gave a 15 - 20 minute talk, in which he stressed that a revolutionary movement, which was involving both Negroes and the working class, was rapidly developing in the United States. He urged those present to continue to have faith in the rank and file working men, both white and Negro, and asked that "The Worker" be supported since it was an organ of these revolutionary movements.

HENRY WINSTON had been concerned about the CP becoming involved in the Negro movement too openly. WINSTON was afraid that if this happened, it would appear that the movement was CP dominated.

JACK STACHEL is to be a member of the subcommittee consisting of JAMES JACKSON, TOM DENNIS, EARL DURHAM, and ALVA BUXENBAUM, who will study the Negro struggle and prepare a resolution on various aspects of the Negro struggle.

The subcommittee set up by WINSTON was to draw up a resolution which would deal with all aspects of the Negro revolution so that after the CP won out in its coming trial in October and had become a legal Party, it would be in a position to set up an immediate program of action in connection with the Negro revolution.

The source stated that no Party policy of a specific nature was formulated during the meeting and MILDRED MC ADORY, on one occasion during the meeting, had remarked that factional groups among the New York CP leaders made it almost impossible to get any program of action established.

The source stated that no Party tactics with respect to the Civil Rights Movement were discussed or set forth as a program nor were there any plans made relative to demonstrations, such as writing campaigns or distribution leaflets.

The source said that there were just general comments during the meeting in connection with the demonstration then going on in Selma, Alabama, and that there was no indication that Party members were participating or planned to participate in the demonstration.

The source said that the only instance of anyone in the Party being actively involved or giving guidance to anyone concerning Civil Rights demonstrations were comments made by EARL DURHAM which indicated that he had first-hand knowledge of things going on in the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP), Urban League, and Muslim organizations in Chicago, Illinois.

2. Plans, Strategy Made at District and Lower Level Meetings of the Party

A CP, USA, New York District Board meeting was held at the Central Plaza Annex, Room BB, on December 21, 1964. MIKE DAVIDOW mentioned that Reverend GALAMISON was planning a school boycott in February which would affect "600 Negro schools". He stated that the schools affected would be in predominantly Negro neighborhoods and very few white pupils would be involved.

DAVIDOW mentioned that the Party was against this boycott since there was no unity between GALAMISON's group and the other civil rights organizations. This was desperately needed, a unity between all organizations, to carry off a successful operation. However, he stated that if GALAMISON did start the boycott, although the Party disagreed with the idea, it would support GALAMISON's group.

DAVIDOW warned that if GALAMISON or other civil rights groups were not careful, there could be a backlash brought on by one of the organizations called PAT. He stated that this organization would counter-attack against the GALAMISON idea and, in his opinion, they had one of the best political action groups in the City.

IDA POSNER made a supplementary report and stated that she believed that the boycott was scheduled for February 3rd. However, those taking part in it were finding it difficult to set up "freedom schools" and it was their plan, at the present time, to take the children out of school for the day and to take them to various business organizations to show them how those business groups worked. She stated that GALAMISON was obtaining support from the nine Du Bois Clubs in New York, a section of CORE (Congress of Racial Equality), JESSE GRAY's organization, and the Harlem Parents Committee.

BETTY GANNETT stated that she was against the boycott and that there was actually a real danger in it because the Negro students taken out of school would be losing part of their education, while the white schools would not be involved and would know nothing about what the Negroes were fighting for. She stated that the trade unions should become involved in this fight for school integration and that the Party should set up a committee to make the trade unions aware of what was going on. However, she agreed that they could not wait for trade union support.

AGNES WILLIS disagreed with the boycott and stated that she felt that this was not the property of one man, but that all civil rights groups and movements should become involved in this fight. The question of tactics would then be up to not one person but to all organizations to carry out their fight in the best way possible. She also stated that, instead of having an all-day boycott at a certain number of schools, they should have a school stoppage of one to two hours at all schools in New York City. BOB THOMPSON and JACK PROVENZANO agreed with WILLIS' ideas on the school boycott issues.

A meeting of the Peace Club, Crown Heights Section, CP, was held at the residence of MILLIE CORBEN on the evening of January 5, 1965. During the meeting, JOE NAHEM stated that the only way to bring about socialism in the United Staes is by convincing working people and minority groups that their living and working conditions would be better under socialism. He mentioned that the CP failed to capitalize on the great opportunity presented by the Negro Revolution. He pointed out that the Negro people did not look to the CP for leadership but instead looked to religious leaders such as Reverend MARTIN LUTHER KING. He commented that the Negro people are a religious group as a whole, while religion in the Soviet Union has broken down.

On February 11, 1965, there was a meeting of the Minor Press Club of the CP at Lexington Avenue and 125th Street, New York City. At this meeting, JACK STACHEL spoke about the situation in Selma, Alabama, and stated that "we" must demand that the Federal Government intervene to put a stop to Nazism there. STACHEL indicated that this was tremendous material and that it was important that they not tire of writing about it.

The New York District CP's position in regard to the school boycott is that the Party is against the boycott since there is no unity between GALAMISON's group and the other civil rights organizations. According to the Party, this is desperately needed, a unity between all organizations to carry off a successful operation. However, since GALAMISON has started the boycott and although the Party disagrees with his idea, they have decided to support him.

The Party is afraid that if GALAMISON or other civil rights groups are not careful, there will be a backlash brought on by one of the organizations called PAT. A meeting of the Minor Press CP Club was held on March 11, 1965, at Estonian Hall, Lexington Avenue and 125th Street, New York City. JACK STACHEL stated at this meeting in regard to Selma that "we" must stress Federal intervention and Federal registrars. He stated that what is happening there is unprecedented in American history, and he said that they hoped this would be the beginning of the Negro - white coalition. He said that they must press this more and more in the labor move-- ment. He added that in their press they have to create a new consciousness.

3. Plans As Revealed In Party Publications

"The Worker" is an east coast Communist newspaper.

In "The Worker" of February 7, 1965, there appears on page 1, an editorial by JAMES E. JACKSON entitled "Negro Labor: Common Destiny." It was pointed out that in this decade the most dynamic force on the American domestic political scene has been the irrepressible upsurge of the Negro people in demanding full equality as citizens and their total rights as men. According to the editorial, the impact of dramatic mass actions of the Negro people upon the consciousness of the n nation has been the basis of such gains which have been won on the way to full freedom status for the Negro Americans.

It was stated that it begins to occur to millions of thoughtful witnesses and participants in the massive battles of Negro Americans for their elementary constitutional rights of citizens that a system of society which has produced such bondage for millions of its Negro citizens is a failure in other particulars as well.

It was also pointed out that the war against segregation and racial discrimination had to be joined in earnest before the war against poverty could begin. It was mentioned that advances on these two fronts are related to the battle for peace.

According to the editorial, the Negro workers and the working class in general will increasingly be assuming the leading role in the further development of the Negro freedom movement, The wiping out of poverty, the changing of the system which makes for the ruthless economic exploitation of the mass of Negro people as poor people is the level of the struggle where the Negro working man must give leadership. This level of struggle will be toward socialism.

"The Worker" of February 16, 1965, contains an editorial which deals with police brutality in Selma, Alabama, against the Negro people. The editorial demanded the immediate arrest of Sheriff JAMES CLARK of Selma, and that Federal Marshals be sent to Selma to take over the Sheriff's Office and operate the police functions pending an election in which the now disfranchised Negro citizens participate. The editorial also called on all men and women of conscience to speak out and demand Federal action by President JOHNSON and the Department of Justice against the continuing racists outrages being perpetrated against Negro Americans seeking to exercise their citizenship in Mississippi, Alabama, South Carolina and elsewhere in the South.

In an editorial appearing in "The Worker" of February 28, 1965, it was stated that the assassination of MALCOLM X was an act of violence against the Negro freedom struggle. It was stated, "Our differences with MALCOLM X on many points does not in any way qualify our condemnation of the brutal act of murder."

The editorial indicated that one of the things which must be guarded against is the effort that will undoubtedly be made by racists and reactionaries to divert and divide the people's forces, both Negro and white. It was stated that the country is faced with the need of implementing the Civil Rights Act of 1964, and pressing the struggle for the right to vote.

According to the editorial, "The Worker" fully and actively supports the mass struggles of the major civil rights organizations which unite the bulk of the Negro people and their white allies. It was stated that this struggle must now be expanded and intensified.

"The Worker" of March 14, 1965, in an editorial stated that the urgency to send troops to Alabama is even greater now than it was during the Little Rock, Birmingham, and Oxford events. Troops should be sent without delay and in sufficient number to enforce the Constitution of the United States and the Civil Rights Law, and to prosecute all responsible for the Selma outrages to the full extent of the law.

"The Worker" of March 21, 1965, contains an editorial in which it was stated that an historic breakthrough was in the making when the President addressed the joint session of Congress on voting rights. Not in a century since LINCOLN's Emancipation Proclamation has there been so far reaching a pronouncement for civil and constitutional rights.

It was mentioned that there should be no letup in demonstrations, because the crucial stage of the struggle as was so well demonstrated in last year's struggle comes after the bill is introduced not before. It was suggested that another March on Washington might hasten the enactment of the Voter Bill.

"Political Affairs" is the self described theoretical organ of the Communist Party - United States of America.

In the "Political Affairs" issue of February, 1965, there appears an article by GUS HALL entitled, "The Negro-Labor Community." It was stated that events of this past year have set in clear perspective the nature and place of the Negro-labor community in the United States political scene. According to the article, this community was the center of the mass base for the crushing electoral defeat of the "ultra-Right GOLDWATER challenge" and was also responsible for the qualitative improvement in the composition of their congressional delegations and state legislatures.

In the 1964 elections, according to this article, thepolitical influences of the Negro-labor community hit a new high. From now on the Negro-labor community is more and more going to be a determining factor in the direction that United States political affairs will take.

In the "Political Affairs" issue of April, 1965, there appears an editorial comment "Selma - And After." According to this ediotrial, the Civil Rights March from Selma to Montgomery was a success and servedias a blow to Southern racists. The Negro people according to the editorial, no longer stand alone. The March on Washington in August, 1963, provided proof that an important section of the white community was committed to reinforce the aspirations of the millions of Negro people; the events in Selma have heightened this commitment. It was also pointed out that the labor movement and the religious movement have aligned themselves with the Negro stand.

According to the editorial, there can be no letdown in the vigilance and activity of the freedom movement. All forces must rally to launch a massive voter registration drive to realize the full strength of the Negro vote. A real assault on poverty, on economic deprivation, on job opportunity will require the further strengtheing to the Negro-labor alliance. It was also stated that it was urgent that labor and the civil rights movement raise their voices for peace, for the unleashing of an all-out war in Vietnam can bring to a dead halt further progress for the Negro people and the labor movement.

In the "Political Affairs" issue of April, 1965, there appears an article by MIKE DAVIDOW entitled "For First-Class Integrated Education." In the article, the "Allen Plan," the plan for achieving school integration in New York, was described as the most advanced program for quality, integrated schools yet proposed by an official body.

In mentioning the New York City school boycott by Reverend MILTON A. GALAMISON, it was stated that it was not "our intention" to make an assessment of that struggle in this article. It was stated, however, that this boycott was a rebellion against the School Board's slow pace for quality integrated schools. According to the article, it has to be admitted that the protracted stayout did succeed in focussing attention on the need to implement the Allen Plan.

It was pointed out that the Allen Plan would be an important step toward quality integrated schools, but it stated that the major responsibility for the present situation in the schools is with the Federal Government. It means a nationwide struggle to reverse the budget for schools and military expenditures and thereby realize a public school system which will provide equal educational facilities and quality education to all children of our nation.

B. OTHER COMMUNIST GROUPS

PROGRESSIVE LABOR PARTY

A characterization of the Progressive Labor Movement, now known as the Progressive Labor Party, appears in the appendix hereto.

A. Street Meetings

A source advised that on the afternoon of February 20, 1965, a street rally sponsored by the Harlem Defense Council (HDC) was held at 146th Street and Seventh Avenue, New York City. Approximately 30 to 35 people attended this rally which was addressed by an unknown Negro male who denounced police brutality in New York City and criticized the President's Poverty Program for Harlem as a farce.

NY T- 70

A characterization of the HDC appears in the appendix hereto.

Source advised that the Harlem Progressive Labor Movement and the HDC sponsored a street meeting on Saturday, March 13, 1965 at Lenox Avenue and 129th Street, New York City.

The meeting was held to protest the "frameup" of six Harlem youths known as The Harlem Six, who are accused of the murder of Mrs. MARGIT SUGAR on April 20, 1964.

The first speaker was a Negro male who stated there is a need for stepped up violence against the Police Department and also the white power structure. He further stated that there will be rallies up and down Lenox Avenue to keep the people aware of the brutalities of the white man against the Negro.

A second speaker, also a Negro male, stated there was a need for violence and demonstrations in Harlem to gain the Negroes place in Harlem and he was willing to die for this.

The third speaker was Mrs. HAMM, mother of DANIEL HAMM, one of The Harlem Six, teenagers who are accused of murdering Mrs. MARGIT SUGAR.

Mrs. HAMM stated that she was ready to get guns and fight the whites who are doing harm to the Negro.

B. Literature Printed and Distributed by the Progressive Labor Movement

Source furnished mimeographed leaflet issued by the Harlem Progressive Labor Movement Club, 336 Lenox Avenue, New York City.

This leaflet, captioned "Why The Killing-- Fact Sheet--", set forth in part that "The Harlem Progressive Labor Movement feels the necessity to put the facts before the people of Harlem.

"Fact #1 While recognizing that the black people of Harlem are leading the revolution of the oppressed people in the USA, we acknowledge membership of white comrades-in-arms.

"Fact #2 These white comrades came to our Harlem headquarters to run off leaflets denouncing the Grand Jury hearings which is intimidating and securing false information....

"Fact #3 In the process of mimeographing these leaflets, a frustrated, disillusioned black brother took it upon himself to snuff out the life of a comrade and injure two female members of the Progreasive Labor Movement.

"Fact #4 We in the Harlem Progressive Labor Movement feel that this infortunate incident is indicative of a society that creates conditions for this to occur. Those responsible for the presence of unemployment, inferior education, poor and inadequate housing, and dope addiction, are the real criminals in this case."

NY T-50
January 29, 1965

Source furnished a mimeographed leaflet captioned "We Must Protect Our Black Women", which sets forth that it was issued by the HDC, 336 Lenox Avenue, New York, New York.

This leaflet claims that on Tuesday, January 26, 1965, about 2 p.m., a Mrs. HOOKS, a quiet, respectable Afro-American sister of 285 West 147th Street, was on her way to work when she was stopped by a patrol car consisting of three plainclothesmen.

The leaflet goes on to state that Mrs. HOOKS' pocketbood was taken from her by force and she was knocked to the ground by the plainclothesmen. She was arrested and forced into a patrol car in which she was questioned about dope and the numbers before being taken to the station house.

The leaflet further states that Mrs. HOOKS was defiled and humiliated by the matron in the jail who was just as brutal as any male cop.

According to the leaflet, Mrs. HOOKS was then released and was told "it was a mistake, and don't tell anyone".

The leaflet then sets forth in bold print, "WE MUST DEFEND OURSELVES", and further, "The Harlem Defense Council which was formed as a non-partisan organization to aid the victims of police brutality, has been persistant in working at the task of organizing the blocks of Harlem. As the militancy of our people grows in their struggle for total and complete liberation, each summer will become more critical than the last. We must be prepared to defend ourselves and the only way this can be accomplished is to have every block in Harlem well organized."

The leaflet calls on all inhabitants of Harlem to protest arrests of the "Harlem Six and the Grand Jury system which has subpoenaed about 50 people in connection with the Harlem riots of July, 1964.

C. Publications

The Progressive Labor Movement weekly newspaper "Challenge", published in New York City, continuously carried articles on alleged police brutality and harrassment of Negroes and Puerto Ricans on the streets, in the jails and in schools of New York City.

The paper often carries photographs of police beating Negroes and Puerto Ricans in the streets and refers to New York City police as "killer cops".

"Challenge" continuously charges that Negroes and Puerto Ricans are being discriminated against in New York City and these articles are carried in both English and Spanish, in the newspaper.

The April 6, 1964 issue of "Challenge" carries an editorial captioned "Armed Self Defense" in which it discusses conditions in the south as "a war to free an entire nation of people from the enslavement of bigotry and the oppression inherent in discrimination."

This editorial sets forth that these conditions show that "the time is overdue for black Americans to defend their own", not just the National Guard, but the "sure protection of an armed peoples defense..."

The editorial goes on to state that "if the black people in the south had been armed for self defense, many of them would not be nursing whipped heads or mourning for loved ones killed in the dark of night by armed white murderers."

Socialist Workers Party (SWP):

SWP has been designated pursuant to Executive Order 10450.

As of February, 1965 the SWP was very much in support of MALCOLM X and his group, the Organization for Afro-American Unity (OAAU). This was in the belief that both organizations were similar with respect to their militancy and revolutionary goals. The SWP described itself as being the only white radical organization supporting black nationalism. The SWP hoped for a merger at some future point in the civil rights struggle with the Black Nationalist movement. The SWP recognized that the views of MALCOLM X and the OAAU were different from those of the SWP in that they were not socialists. The party hoped, however, that the coming Negro revolution would eventually adopt a Marxist-Leninist character. The OAAU, however, did not wish to be identified with any other organization or philosophy, fearing that becoming aligned with the SWP might cause the United States Government to move against them.

NY T-112
February 8, 1965

A characterization of the OAAU is attached in the Appendix Section hereto.

The SWP began giving increasing publicity to MALCOLM X and his statements in early 1965 in the pages of its weekly newspaper, "The Militant."

"The Militant" of January 25, 1965 printed two pages of excerpts from a speech made by MALCOLM X at a Militant Labor Forum held in New York City, January 7, 1965. In this speech, MALCOLM X described "The Militant" as one of the best newspapers in New York.

A characterization of the Militant Labor Forum is contained in the Appendix hereto.

"The Militant" of February 8, 1965 printed a transcript of an interview between HARRY RING and MALCOLM X conducted on January 28, 1965 over station WBAI - FM.

"The Militant" of March 1, 1965 devoted several pages to the assassination of MALCOLM X. on February 22, 1965 as well as excerpts from various speeches he had made under SWP auspices. "The Militant" described the death of MALCOLM X as a great loss to the freedom struggle.

SWP members in New York City were notified early in March, 1965 that the Militant Labor Forum would sponsor a memorial meeting for MALCOLM X on March 5, 1965. This was described as a political act of solidarity with the ideas represented by MALCOLM X. A guest speaker from the Muslim Mosque Incorporated (MMI) was to be invited and it was expected that in the audience there would be other friends and collaborators of "the martyred black leader." A good turnout was requested for this event.

NY T-22
March 9, 1965

A characterization of the MMI is contained in the Appendix hereto.

On March 8, 1965 New York SWP members were notified that there had been an attendance of approximately 225 at the MALCOLM X memorial and a collection of $407.00 had been turned over to his widow.

NY T-112
March 15, 1965

The Militant Labor Forum of March 5, 1965 was reported on in the issue of "The Militant" dated March 15, 1965 and FARRELL DOBBS, National Secretary of the SWP, was quoted as saying, "We of the Socialist Workers Party felt an ever closer kinship with Malcolm X as we do with James Shabazz and the other associates of Malcolm X. We have felt an ever closer sense of brotherhood, of comradeship in the common struggle to make America and the world a place of peace, freedom, equality and security for all."

Early in March, 1965 the SWP leadership was making a concerted effort to speed the publication of a book which was tentatively titled "Malcolm X Speaks." The SWP expected to get full collaboration from the supporters of MALCOLM X. in gathering the material for this project since the followers of MALCOLM X were very interested in getting out such a book.

At a branch conference of the SWP New York Local (NYL) held March 6, 1965, it was announced that the NYL would run a candidate for mayor of New York in the 1965 election campaign. The line of the campaign would be of getting support from the most nationalistic and militant elements of the Negro people.

NY T-22
March 16, 1965

A characterization of the SWP NYL is contained in the Appendix hereto.

At a membership meeting of the SWP NYL held March 11, 1965 it was announced that a new pamphlet was available containing speeches by MALCOLM X. It was further reported that the SWP would participate in a protest meeting, along with other Negro civil rights groups, to take place in Harlem March 14, 1965. It was stated this would give the SWP an opportunity to sell both "The Militant" as well as the new pamphlet containing speeches by MALCOLM X.

NY T-112
March 15, 1965

At a membership meeting of the SWP NYL held March 18, 1965 a report was made on the rally held in Harlem March 14, 1965. It was stated that $350.00 worth of literature had been sold including 1,000 copies of the MALCOLM X pamphlet and 33 subscriptions to "The Militant."

The SWP leadership was very pleased, believing that the strength of an organization could be measured by its output of literature.

II. COMMUNIST TACTICS

A. STATE OF RACE CONFERENCE
NEW YORK CITY, JANUARY 30, 31, 1965

On January 10, 1965, a National Negro American Labor Council (NALC) Board meeting was held in Washington, D.C. In regard to the State of Race Conference, it was decided that it would be held in New York City on January 30 and 31, 1965, at the Riverside Church, New York City. It will be restricted to Negro leaders who will meet to discuss problems and resolutions in the field of civil rights, employment, and economics which involve the Negro race. The NALC will have five delegates, while many other civil rights organizations will be restricted to three delegates, while church and fraternal organizations who attend, will have one delegate each.

The NALC delegates appointed included:

CLEVELAND ROBINSON
A. PHILIP RANDOLPH
JOEY OVERTON
HORACE SHEFFIELD
TIM BLACK

The Communist Party (CP) will not be invited or allowed to attend the conference.

NY T-13
January 11, 1965

There was held a meeting of the Chicago Negro American Labor Council on February 11, 1965 at the residence of TIM BLACK. In speaking of the State of Race Conference, BLACK stated that there were 48 people present at this conference in New York City, representing 29 organizations. BLACK stated that there were only three reports made, one by A. PHILIP RANDOLPH, another by WHITNEY YOUNG of the National Urban League and another by BAYARD RUSTIN.

BLACK further indicated that ROY WILKINS, Executive Secretary of the National Association For The Advancement of Colored People (NAACP), HORACE SHEFFIELD, and KENNETH CLARK were also present at the conference. He indicated that all big civil rights organizations in the country were in attendance.

BLACK further pointed out that there were three very excellent papers presented, the best paper given was by RUSTIN dealing with the political aspects of the state of the race.

BLACK stated that the general feeling at the conference was that action around the possibility of completing the Negro revolution was stymied with lack of cooperation from a greater number of liberals in America and the need of a broader mass participation in the civil rights struggle. BLACK also stated that the conference called for activity around independent candidates on a local level.

BLACK stated that all indications were that the doors were completely closed to all Communists at this conference. BLACK further indicated that he had expected an agreeable program for the civil rights program, but for some reason or another it did not come forth.

BLACK said that ways and means of implementing the 1964 Civil Rights Bill were discussed and how the Fair Employment Practices Commission Section of the 1964 Civil Rights Bill can also be implemented.

BLACK stated that at the conference it was proposed that the civil right organizations work through the central labor bodies in order to win their support in implementing the Fair Employment Practices Commission (FEPC) Section of the Civil Rights Bill.

NY T-52
February 11, 1965

As of March 2, 1965, JACK KLING, a CP of Illinois State Board member, had in his possession a copy of a report of BAYARD RUSTIN, the individual who assisted in organizing the "March on Washington" and who is [illegible] a prominent civil rights leader, which report was delivered by RUSTIN at the "State of Race" Conference sponsored by the Negro American Labor Council (NALC) in New York City on January 30, 31, 1965.

RUSTIN's report is entitled "The Influence of the Right and Left in the Civil Rights Movement" and was characterized by KLING as a report which was of value to the CP in its Negro Civil Liberties Movement. According to the source, KLING had obtained this report for the purpose of circulating it among the Illinois CP leadership, for their understanding and utilization.

NY T-52
March 2, 1965

In commenting on RUSTIN's report, KLING stated that he thought it was an excellent report and that the CP should use it as an outline for a program of action in the civil rights field. Also in his comments concerning this report, KLING stated relative to RUSTIN that RUSTIN was a former member of the CP.

The source made available the report which follows:

"The Influence of the Right and Left in the Civil Rights Movement

"I was asked to discuss the 'influence of the Right and Left in the Civil Rights movement'.

"To anticipate some conclusions, it seems to me that many of the old definitions and distinctions about 'Right' and 'Left' no longer apply. In general, the problems which do exist do not result from infiltration by tightly disciplined agents of an outside organization, or other organizations. Rather, they spring in large part from the honest, confused frustrations of sincere people. Consequently, a program to deal with this situation cannot be based upon organizational measures - expulsions, membership screenings, etc. Instead, it is necessary to get to root causes, like the slow pace of integration in a time of accelerating aspiration - as in the State of Mississippi.

"But even if there are these subtle aspects to the problem, it is important that we discuss it. First of all, the Rightists and reactionaries continue to utilize the charge of Communist domination and have even spread some suspicion in our own ranks. Only candid discussion can deal with such an attack. Secondly, internal confusion has arisen around the issue, and we must be clear on exactly where we are. Thirdly, by approaching the question of 'Left' and 'Right' seriously, we can confront the real, and often new issues under the old labels.

"The American Right

"In the twentieth century, Southern racism was quite distinct from Northern ultra-conservativism with its Rightest economics. Many a Dixiecrat-the virulent race hater Bilbo among them - championed both white supremacy and positive social welfare programs.

"During the post-War years, this traditional pattern broke down. In the 1964 elections, the new trend came to a head with the coalition of racist politics and Rightest economics under the banner of Barry Goldwater. The Goldwaterites now claim that 26 million Americans proved themselves conscious, ideological conservatives on election day. That, as the various polls have demonstrated, is untrue. Yet, the fact remains that the Rightest-Racist coalition succeeded in capturing one of the two major political parties in America.

"Moreover, there is a very real sense in which the racist political appeal is greater than appears at first glance. Nationally, the voter was given a choice between Johnson and Goldwater. If an individual shared Goldwater's hostility to the Civil Rights Act of 1964, or feared a Negro moving into the neighborhood or getting a job, he could vote for Goldwater and express these sentiments, but at a price; i.e., he would be casting his ballot for a man who was also utterly irresponsible on the question of war and peace, whose primitive, contradictory economics threatened economic crisis and depression, and whose mental powers seemed to be those of an amiable incompetent. Thus, many Americans suppressed, but did not give up, their "backlash" feelings and voted for Johnson.

"This can be clearly seen in California where although Johnson scored a notable victory, Proposition 14 was carried and Pierre Salinger lost the election, in part because of his stand on the Referendum. And on local issues during the next four years, when the price of a backlash sentiment is not a vote for Goldwater, we can be sure that the Right will have a powerful appeal.

"This Rightest threat basically comes from outside the movement. As November demonstrated, Negro voters and organizations were overwhelmingly anti-Goldwater. Thus, taking Rightist in this Goldwaterite-Ultra sense, there is no internal threat within the movement but a most serious, and in many ways new Rightest challenge to the nation as a whole.

"Secondly, and this illustrates the imprecision of the old definitions, where on the old Right-Left spectrum does one place the nationalist trends in the movement?

"In one sense, the anti-integrationist ideology of some of the nationalists has led to a programmatic agreement between them and some of the segregationists. There have even been occasional public alliances of black and and white race separatists. On the other hand, many nationalists insist that they are much more radical than the 'middle class' leadership of the established organizations], and they attack from the 'Left". So, once again, it is necessary to see the new reality which the old terms can no longer contain.

"First of all, let me distinguish four different strands in the phenomenon of nationalism.

"There is a healthy nationalist emotion, a race pride, a total psychological rejection of white supremacy. It expresses itself in hair styles, African art and history, and in a new clan. It is positive and it is good. Secondly, there is a kind of nationalism which seeks to build black, middle class enclaves and to solve the issue of race by avoiding it. It amounts to an abstention from the struggle and is a negative, if not too widespread, strategy for withdrawal. Thirdly, there is a literal nationalism, often expressed in neo-Marxist terminology, which has captured a section of the Negro intelligentsia. It is intense, contradictory (some of its best known advocates have inter-racial marriages) and of considerable importance since it involves some of the most talented Negroes whose intellectual abilities are needed by the movement.

"Fourth, and finally, there is the organized nationalist movement in all of its forms. The programs of these groups are often confused yet certain themes persist: Buy Black; a Black state or enclave; an identification with the new African nations; a hatred of the 'white devil.' Underlying all these points is the conviction that there are no present alternatives, within a framework of democracy, non-violence and integration, for the Negro. Out of this despair, there comes an identification with the most violent and extreme tendencies of African nationalism, like the Mau Mau. Sometimes even the African history is distorted, as in the assertion that Jomo Kenyatta was exactly the kind of brutal terrorist that his British persecutors and their perjured witnesses said that he was when they jailed him. But, more importantly, the nationalists advocate the guerilla strategies which may have made sense when a 90% or 95% African majority was seeking national liberation from a colonial minority but have little relevance to the plight of that 10% of America which is black.

"Clearly, this fourth type of organized nationalism poses a problem to the movement. Yet, the source of its strength is not conspiratorial or foreign. The nationalist emotion first really appeared right after World War I when Negro migrants from the South found in northern cities, not a promise Land, but a de facto racist economy and society. Similarly, today, the influence of the various forms of organized Nationalism is greatest among the ghetto poor and workers who experience the contradiction between the talk of a 'Negro Revolution' and the reality of Negro unemployment, housing and schools in their daily lives.

"The Nationalists will not be won to our cause because we maneuver shrewdly. Neither will they be convinced by scholarly analyses of their errors. As long as the intolerable conditions of ghetto life continue and worsen, the Nationalists cannot be written off. And conversely, the minute we begin to really move on the issues of unemployment, slum housing, and slum schools, we have the most powerful anti-Nationalist argument in the world.

"Let us turn now to the 'Left'. I put the term in quotation marks because it has been used to mean so many things. And I think it important that we distinguish between three pehnomena which are often carelessly lumped together under the single label of 'Left'. There is, first of all, the traditional Communist Left; secondly, the 'Ultra Left'; thirdly, the 'Unaffiliated Left.'

"Since the end of World War I, the most successful organization proclaiming itself to be part of the Left was the Communist Party. By 'Left', the Communists meant unquestioning subservience to the Soviet Union. In domestic American political terms, the Communist Party was fairly early transformed from a revolutionary and insurrectionary movement into the American propaganda agent for Moscow's line of the movement. In pursuit of this aim, Communists acted as disciplined, and often secret, members of a Party 'fraction'

'within other organizations. They took the Civil Rights cue; not from the situation of the Negro, but according to the needs of Moscow. So it was that the Communists attacked the March on Washington Movement of 1941 and charged those who sought the 'double V' of victory at home and abroad over racism with being disrupters; so it was that they fought against the struggle for Fair Employment Practice legislation during the War.

"Since this mode of operation posed the problem of an organized, coherent group taking orders from outside, many Civil Rights, liberal and labor organizations were forced to build counter-fractions to deal with the situation. The basic tactic was that of 'in fighting', and usually no holds were barred on either side.

"In 1956, a Communist Party which had already lost three fourths of its peak, 1944, membership, was shattered by the Khrushchev revelations about Stalin and by the Polish October and the Hungarian Revolution. Entire sections of the Party quit in disgust, including almost the entire staff of the Daily Worker. More recently, the orthodox Moscow Communists expelled supporters of the Chinese Communist position and further weakened themselves. As a result, the Communist Party is now at a historic low point within the Civil Rights movement.

"Therefore, the problem of the traditional 'Communist' Left is not that of combatting a disciplined 'fraction' by organizational means. And, as will be seen, such a strategy would not only ignore the real problem, it would exacerbate it.

"II. The 'Ultra Left'

"There are other organizations--'Chinese' Communists, Trotskyists, etc.--which criticize the Communist Party for being too moderate and which retain the Communist mode of factional struggle within other organizations. However, these groups do not have a significant following among Negroes; they are even smaller than the Communist Party; and they do not occupy any positions of organizational power within the Civil Rights mainstream. By far and large, such groups have concentrated on an appeal to the nationalist sentiment among Negroes.

"The foregoing analysis of the traditional 'Communist' and the 'Ultra' Left does not mean that there are no Communists of any kind infiltrating the movement. There are. But it does mean that people like J. Edgar Hoover, who have a vested political interest in minimizing the strength of the Communists, have distorted the problem. I suspect the complex reality can best be put in terms of the Harlem riot last summer.

"As even the FBI admitted, no group, not the Communists nor anyone else, 'organized' that upheaval. It grew out of the intolerable conditions of the ghetto and the hatred of police brutality; it involved many socially desperate youth who, as dropouts, are without a future at the age of sixteen or seventeen. Various elements attempted to sieze on the situation, among them criminals whose main concern was looting and some 'Ultra' Left organizations. The latter organizations could not start the riots, nor control them. They could only seek to try to fan existing emotions. If, once again, there were an adequate program and struggle against the ghetto conditions, such groups would become utterly irrelevant; and if there is not, there is no way of stopping them from trying to capitalize on the situation.

"III. The 'Unaffiliated Left'

"By the 'Unaffiliated Left' I mean groups of people within the movement who are bound together, not by membership in an organization, but by sharing common experiences, emotions and politics. There are two types of thinking on this 'Unaffiliated Left' that are most important.

"a) The Thirties Veterans. One encounters people who went through the Thirties together (or sometimes their children), who were in or around the Communist or fellow-traveling movements but who no longer belong to any organization. These people often act in common, yet they are not under orders from any Central Committee. They usually regard Communist totalitarianism as 'progressive' but proseletyzing this point of view is not their main activity.

"They believe that white liberals, the Negro middle class, the union bureaucrats and many other participants in the movement can, and should be, bluntly criticized; but to talk of 'Communist' or 'Ultra' tendencies within the movement is 'red baiting.' Thus, anyone with Communist or pro-Communist leanings is granted a privileged sancturay where, immune from criticisms, he can criticize everyone else. The distinguishing political characteristic of the Thirties veterans is that they have no concept of coalition and alliance with the major forces in the society. Most of them did not understand, for instance, that Johnson, for all his faults, was infinitely better than Goldwater. In their America, there is nothing to choose between LBJ and Goldwaterism which means that the overwhelming majority of the American people are politically hopeless. From this despairing vantage point, the Thirties Veterans come to think of a Genocide resolution at the UN as more important than the Civil Rights Act and to engage in an elitist politics of maneuver.

"The Thirties Veterans are not a numerically large group in the movement. But they are sophisticated, organizationally skilled, and their significance is in terms of their influence rather than their strength. They obviously cannot be dealt with by any organizational means since they are not themselves formally organized. The problem which they represent can best be confronted by dealing with those to whom they attach themselves; the 'Spontaneous Left'.

"b) The Spontaneous Left. This is perhaps the most important group on this spectrum and the hardest to define. It is not organized and it contains considerable differences within itself. The Spontaneous Left is critical of 'white liberalism', the established Civil Rights leadership, and prides itself on 'militancy', which is defined as intransigence and the refusal of all compromise. While calling for a mass movement, the Spontaneous Left tends to isolate itself because of its rejection of all possible allies: labor, the churches, the liberals, etc. On many issues, the political positions taken by this tendency are the same as those urged by the 'Ultra' Left, by the Thirties Veterans or even by the Nationalists. This has led many people who are familiar with the facts of life in the Thirties and Forties to assume that this must be the result of conspiratorial, Communist-type infiltration. This is not the case.

"The Spontaneous Left appeals to young people who, first of all are convinced that Civil Rights and genuine equality will require significant changes, not simply in Southern prejudice of bigotry generally, but in American society and the American economy. I share this point of view.

"But then these people go on to despair--and they sometimes do not themselves know that this is what they are doing. They reject all allies within and without the movement, black and white. Racism, they say, is not a negotiable issue; it is absolutely wrong and therefore any compromise, and demand short of total and immediate freedom, is a sell-out. Of course, racism is absolutely wrong, but the affective implementation of the moral rights of a 10% minority requires allies and politics. The Spontaneous Left does not see the necessities and complexities of the struggle. It therefore accentuates the negative: 'social dislocation' as the only tactic (social dislocation is, as I have so often pointed out, one of the most important tactics, but not a panacea); the refusal of partial and limited victory. Sometimes a positive program is put forward, but it is usually a fantasy about guerilla strategies, or a revolutionary upsurge of the black and white poor against the whole society, the Civil Rights and labor movements included.

"As critical as I am of this point of view, I insist that we distinguish its extreme, and oversimplified, abstractions from its genuine insights. This is necessary because the spirit and the people of the Spontaneous Left are very important to the movement. Our progress is slow; sometimes our allies drag their feet; and sometimes we ourselves fail in leadership and imagination. What is not true is that democracy and non-violence have irrevocably failed. If they have, so then has the Negro failed for there is no other way to win. And the only way to prove that democracy and non-violence still have meaning is to demonstrate their effectiveness in action by achieving significant change.

"The key to the phenomenon of the 'Spontaneous Left' is not in Moscow, Peking or Havana. It is in Harlem and Mississippi. And the only effective answer to blind-alley approaches is solid progress which makes a tangible difference in the daily lives of Negro citizens.

"That the Civil Rights Act was an historic step forward is undeniable. Indeed, historians will record that the decade between the Supreme Court school decision and the Civil Rights Act witnessed the destruction of the legal foundation of Jim Crow. This achievement, of course, has been registered in response to the massive pressures generated by the Negro and his white allies. I am not in sympathy with those who would decry the Civil Rights Act as an opiate, ignoring the possibilities it opens up for us-possibilities of shifting our focus to new problem areas. The Act has been rightly described as a prologue - it sets the stage.

"But we must be ready for the first act - ready with the program and the actors. Here I want to be brief, but it is pointless to outline the problems posed by the Right and the Left without suggesting solution.

Possible Solutions

"A. The Civil Rights Movement Alone:

"1. Throughout the country, but particularly in the South, massive voter registration campaigns must be mounted. An estimated 3.6 million Negroes of voting age remain to be heard from in Dixie. Their potential political power must be mobilized - through a variety of techniques: demonstrations, litigation, or whatever seems appropriate in given situations. Above all, I am convinced, the civil rights organizations must be unified in this effort - in Mississippi and elsewhere - combining our various specialized skills and techniques. We simply cannot afford disunity and divisiveness in this critical area.

"2. I believe we must begin now to prepare the Negro community for vigorous enforcement of the fair employment section of the Act which will take effect in July. I understand that the Civil Rights Department of the AFL-CIO has already begun to prepare local labor bodies for full compliance. We have an obligation to educate and mobilize our community on this issue, so that they will be ready to demand their rights - again, through a variety of techniques, including boycotts.

"3. Police brutality, North and South, is another area in which the civil rights movement as such can make progress. We must everywhere be part of the cry for civilian review boards - not in the naive belief that they are a panacea but in the conviction that police conduct is not the exclusive responsibility of commissioners and politicians. Police must be answerable to the citizenry they presumably protect, and if they have been educated to any other concept of their role, now is the time to re=educate them.

"B. The Civil Rights Movement and its Allies:

"These, then are some of the major areas in which the Negro community, relying on a diversity of means, can push forward. Let us frankly admit, however, that there are limits to the progress that the civil rights movement can achieve on its own. After all, the fundamental limitation of the Civil Rights Act is precisely that it is a Civil Rights Act, whereas the most serious problems confronting the Negro community today are not, strictly speaking, civil rights problems. They are social and economic problems deeply rooted in our economic life. They are problems of employment, housing and education. The Civil Rights Act does not abolish slums, create jobs or provide decent housing.

"To achieve these goals requires an alliance between Negroes and organized, progressive forces in the white community. This principle governs the second group of programs I would advocate.

"1. - We have to develop employment policies which go beyond the placing of individual Negroes into professional jobs. It is not enough to exhort Negro youth to stay in school. We must insist on a sufficient degree of economic planning to enable us to know what jobs will be available for them upon graduation. We must have answers for the mass of unskilled and semi-skilled Negroes who are imperiled by structural changes in the labor market as a result of the technological revolution.

"2. Full and fair employment and the upgrading of wages are essential if civil rights are to be meaningful. The voice of our movement should be loud in demanding implementation of the proposals of the Senate Sub-committee on Manpower and Employment for an additional $5 billing in social investment per year as a means of creating jobs and beginning the elimination of slums.

"3. We should be joining with labor, liberals and others in a campaign to extend coverage of the Fair Labor Standards Act to all workers:

"4. And to increase the minimum wage to $2.00 per hour.

"5. We should be demanding immediate passage of an accelerated public works program and repeal of Section 14b of the Taft-Hartley Act.

"6. We should be in the front ranks of the fight for Medicare and medical programs for poverty-stricken children as steps toward a national health plan.

"7. We should be mobilizing support for the expansion of the Economic Opportunity Act, insisting on the rights of the poor, black and white, to be involved in the decision-making process.

"8. We must be open to new ideas - to the proposals, for example, that youngsters be paid to go to school.

"9. Finally,we need to be demanding of government -at all levels - a serious timetable for the eliminatin of slums.

"CONCLUSION

"Automation and the like are not exclusively Negro problems. Nor is the educational crisis, or the growth of slums. Of course, we cannot take all of society's burdens on our shoulders. On the other hand, enlightened self-interest dictates that we come up with some far-reaching answers or find ourselves stymied. For in a modern, automating society, there are limits to self-help.

"And in such a society, the economic realities are such that, in seeking answers for the Negro, we will in fact be refashioning national policies for the benefit of the white dispossessed as well. We can help stimulate motion in sections of the white population - in the labor movement, among liberals, religious groups, and so forth. Whoever doubts this need only ask why we have a 'war on poverty' today, if not for the civil rights movement and its reverberation throughout the country.

"We need to stimulate such motion for another reason. We cannot talk about the democratic road to freedom unless we are talking about building a majority movement in America. This means we need white allies. It means we must be united with them in demanding a program for reconstruction American life.

"Such a program in my view, will not only answer the frustrations which breed no-win policies, they will also undercut the danger on the right - or at least its political potency. We must create a situation in which backlashers are politically neutralized by having to pay ... too high a price for the exercise of racist impulses. The program for racial equality must be so intertwined with progressive economic and social policies as to make it impossible to choose one without the other. I know of no better educational technique.

WILLIAM TAYLOR, who is known to the source as a CP member from California, was in Washington, D.C. and Baltimore, Maryland, on January 28, 1965.

TAYLOR's purpose in travelling to Washington and Baltimore was to try to arrange for CP members to obtain admission to a conference of Negro leaders which was to be held on Riverside Drive, New York, New York, January 30 and 31, 1965.

TAYLOR indicated that A. PHILIP RANDOLPH, the head of the Negro American Labor Council, who arranged for the conference, is making determined efforts to keep CP members out of the conference and that only those who have special invitations may attend.

TAYLOR has indicated that if he is unable to arrange for CP members to attend the conference, he will see to it that efforts are made by CP members to contact those attending the conference after it has been held in order that they might learn what went on during the conference.

B. NEW YORK CITY PUBLIC SCHOOL BOYCOTTS, JANUARY, FEBRUARY, MARCH, 1965

The City-Wide Committee for Integrated Schools will be referred to as CWCIS.

Public School 617, located at 251 Stagg Street, Brooklyn, New York, was boycotted January 19, 1965, as part of the school shutdown spearheaded by MILTON A. GALAMISON of the City-Wide Committee for Integrated Schools of which he is chairman. Public School 617 is one of the "600" schools, or special schools for disturbed children. On a total enrollment of 157 students, only 25 students attended classes at this school on January 19, 1965. Normal attendance at the school is 115 students. The boycott was quoted as being 80 percent effective.

A picketing demonstration was also conducted by about 20 individuals both colored and whites in front of the school by the City-Wide Committee for Integrated schools from about 8:45 A.M. to 9:30 A.M. The school was not shut down, since teachers were present and classes were conducted for the students attending. The students who boycotted the school on January 19, 1965, were urged by the CWCIS to attend a "freedom school" at South Third Street Methodist Church located at Union Avenue and South Third Street, Brooklyn, New York. About 18 students showed up at this "freedom school" and GALAMISON was in charge of the program at this school. No incidents or disturbances were reported at this demonstration.

An article appearing in the "New York Herald Tribune", January 20, 1965, on page 23, announced that the Board of Education, Brooklyn, New York, had on January 19, 1965, obtained a court order against MILTON GALAMISON and the CWCIS restraining further boycott activity. JAMES B. DONOVAN, Board President, followed up by revealing that he would seek a warrant in Family Court, on January 19, 1965, to arrest MILTON GALAMISON for violating state attendance laws by "exhorting children to stay away" from school. GALAMISON allegedly stated that the school shut down and picketing would continue. He warned that if the "harrassment" continued, his group would shut down two more "600" schools for maladjusted children on January 2, 1965, and then two junior high schools on Monday, January 25, 1965, in Brooklyn, New York.

The Corporation Counsel's Office, City of New York, on January 20, 1965, obtained a show cause order prohibiting picketing in front of any public schools in the City of New York against the following leaders of organizations alleged to be participating in the City-Wide Committee for Integrated Schools of which MILTON GALAMISON is chairman:

MILTON GALAMISON
Chairman
City-Wide Committee for Integrated Schools
Brooklyn, New York

JESSE GRAY
Director
Community Council on Housing

New York City, New York

LOUIS SMITH
Regional Director
Congress of Racial Equality
New York City, New York

ELLEN LURIE
EQUAL
New York City, New York

THELMA JOHNSON
Harlem Parents Committee
New York City, New York

ISAIAH ROBINSON
Harlem Parents Committee
New York City, New York

MILTON GALAMISON was arrested on January 20, 1965, by Chief Attendance Officer CAVANAUGH, Board of Education, Brooklyn, New York, and charged with violation of Section 3212, Sub-Divisions 5A and 5B of the State Education Law, for inducing minor to absent himself from school and harboring such truant. GALAMISON appeared in Family Court, School Part, Brooklyn, New York, on January 20, 1965. He was released without bail and the case was adjourned until February 3, 1965. Also on January 20, 1965, MILTON GALAMISON was served with the show cause order referred to above. This order was answerable on January 22, 1965.

Detective WILLIAM GORMAN
January 20, 1965

MILTON GALAMISON of the City-Wide Committee for Integrated Schools (CWCIS), on January 22, 1965, attempted to effect a boycott of Public School (PS) 614, located at 138-71 35th Avenue, Flushing, New York. However, this attempted boycott was considered a "complete bust" since out of a total enrollment of 29 students, 20 showed up for classes. This was considered normal attendance.

CWCIS also attempted on January 22, 1965, to effect a boycott of PS 139 located at 140 West 140th Street, New York City. This school reported an absentee rate of 15 percent. Normal absentee rate is 10 percent.

Five pickets from CWCIS demonstrated for one hour at PS 617, Stagg Street, Brooklyn, New York, which was the school boycott on January 19, 1965.

Other school boycott developments included the arrest of THELMA JOHNSON, a leader of the Harlem Parents Committee, New York City, on January 21, 1965. She was arrested by an attendance officer of the Board of Education while she was conducting a "freedom school" for absentee students at the South Third Street Methodist Church, Union Avenue and South Third Street, Brooklyn, New York. She was charged with violation of State Education Law and brought to Family, Brooklyn, New York, where she was freed for hearing on February 3, 1965, the day on which MILTON GALAMISON is to appear in the same court.

With regard to the show cause order obtained by the Corporation Counsel's Office, City of New York, on January 20, 1965, which prohibited picketing in front of public schools in New York City, by leaders of organizations participating in the CWCIS, defense attorneys for the CWCIS filed a petition in United States District Court, Eastern District of New York, on January 22, 1965. The purpose of this petition is to remove the injunction proceedings from the New York State Supreme Court, Kings County, Brooklyn, to Federal Court. The defense thereby hoped to circumvent the effect of the Supreme Court restraining order. No decision had been reached in the case by the United States District Court as of January 22, 1965.

Detective WILLIAM GORMAN
January 22,1965

Handbills circulated on January 25, 1965, by supporters of CWCIS in the vicinity of Public School 258, located at 141 Macon Street, Brooklyn, New York, and at Junior High School 33, Throop and Hopkins Avenues, Brooklyn, New York, called for a shut-down of these schools on January 27 and January 28, 1965, respectively. The handbills also announced plans for a "freedom school" for absentee students at Apollo Theatre, Fulton and Throop Avenues, Brooklyn, New York.

Detective EDWIN COOPER
Detective JOHN MARTINEZ

January 26, 1965

The New York "Herald Tribune", January 27, 1965, Page 10, reported that the legal battle between lawyers for MILTON GALAMISON of the CWCIS and the Corporation Counsel of the City of New York, in the United States District Court, Eastern District of New York, resulted in a "reserved decision". The Corporation Counsel wanted the case on its temporary injunction against the boycott argued in State Court. The CWCIS wanted a Federal trial on the ground that their civil rights had been abridged. Judge RAYFIEL reserved the decision pending submission of additional briefs.

The New York Chapter of CORE, 307 West 125th Street, New York City, and the Harlem Parents Committee, New York City, were continuing their boycott of Public School 139, Harlem, and are operating a "freedom school" for absentee students at Bethel Ame Church, 52 West 132nd Street, New York City, New York. Teachers from New York CORE are operating the school and one of them is VICKI MORRIS from the New York Chapter of CORE.

It was also determined that on Monday, February 1, 1965, the school shut-down will spread to the Bronx, New York, area and will be supported by the Harlem Parents Committee, CWCIS, and the Bronx Chapter of the NAACP. Plans are also being made for a "freedom school" at St. Augustine Presbyterian Church, Bronx, New York.

NY T-50

VICKIE MORRIS was present at a meeting of the Brooklyn Youth Communist Party Club held at her residence on October 23, 1962.

The following schools were picketed on January 27, 1965, from 8:00 A.M. to 9:00 A.M. by individuals associated with CWCIS:

Public School 258 - Brooklyn
15 pickets

Junior High School 617 - Brooklyn
3 pickets

Public School 139 - Manhattan
14 pickets

There were no disturbances at these demonstrations. The purpose of the picketing was to encourage students to absent themselves from classes in furtherance of the school boycott program sponsored by the CWCIS. However, the picketing was not successful in inducing the students to stay away in sizeable numbers from classes.

Lieutenant ANTHONY BOUZA
Bureau of Special Services
New York City Police Department
January 27, 1965

A picketing demonstration was conducted on January 29, 1965, at the headquarters of the Board of Education, 110 Livingston Street, Brooklyn, New York. Approximately 100 pickets led by JANET CARLSON, President of the Parents Joint Council of Junior High School 143, Amsterdam Avenue and 129th Street, New York City, demonstrated at the Board of Education from 9:30 A.M. to 11:30 A.M. The purpose of the demonstration was to support the current school boycott which is spearheaded by CWCIS. Similar picketing demonstrations were conducted from 8:00 A.M. to 9:00 A.M. on January 29, 1965, at the following schools in support of the school boycott.

Public School 99
1410 East 110th Street
New York City, New York
75 pickets

Public School 617
Stagg Street
Brooklyn, New York
2 pickets

Public School 258
Macon Street
Brooklyn, New York
23 pickets

Current plans of the CWCIS do not call for a city-wide boycott of junior high schools and so-called "600" schools on February 3, 1965, but rather a combination of the current strategy of boycotting a school at a time in each of the boroughs comprising New York City.

Detective WILLIAM GORMAN
January 29, 1965

A twenty-four hour vigil was conducted by supporters of the City-Wide Committee for Integrated Schools at the construction site for a proposed public school on Pitkin Avenue between Chester and Bristol Streets, Brooklyn, New York. Fifteen individuals participated in this vigil, which commenced at 4:00 P.M. Saturday, January 30, 1965, and terminated at 4:00 P.M., Sunday, January 31, 1965.

Small picketing demonstrations were conducted by CWCIS at the following schools in New York City and Brooklyn, New York, on February 1, 1965, between the hours of 8:00 A.M. and 9:00 A.M.

Public School 99
Harlem, New York City
30 pickets

Public School 136
New York City
6 pickets

Public School 617
Brooklyn, New York
5 pickets

There were no disburbances at these demonstrations.

The over-all boycott thus far, has not been characterized successful by the Bureau of Special Services.

No schools have been completely shut-down as a result of boycott tactics. The petition filed by CWCIS in Federal Court, Brooklyn, to have the injunction proceedings against the CWCIS removed from State Court was denied by the United States District Court, Eastern District of New York, on January 29, 1965, and remanded to the New York State Supreme Court, Brooklyn, New York.

The latest strategy of CWCIS calls for the attempted shut-down of five schools on February 3, 1965, rather than a city-wide boycott of junior high schools and so-called "600" schools or special schools for disturbed children. These schools are as follows:

Junior High School 35
Brooklyn, New York

Junior High School 49
Brooklyn, New York

Junior High School 57
Brooklyn, New York

Junior High School 263
Brooklyn, New York

Junior High School 271
Brooklyn, New York

Fifteen boycotting students picketed Public School 88, located at 215 West 114th Street, New York City, from 8:00 A.M. to 8:40 A.M. on February 19, 1965, in support of the school boycott which was spearheaded by the City-Wide Committee for Integrated Schools. MILTON GALAMISON, Pastor of the Siloam Presbyterian Church, Brooklyn, New York, is chairman of the CWCIS. This picketing demonstration was orderly and no incidents occurred. Attendance figures at Public School 88 on February 19, 1965, showed a drop of nine percent from normal attendance of 88 percent.

A large group of boycotting students began assembling at Siloam Presbyterian Church, 260 Jefferson Avenue, Brooklyn, New York, commencing at 9:00 A.M. The number of students at the church reached approximately 200 by 10:00 A.M. at which time they departed from the church and proceeded to the Board of Education headquarters, 110 Livingston Street, Brooklyn, New York. About half of the students dropped out while marching to the Board of Education.

A picketing demonstration was then staged by the students at the Board of Education commencing at 10:45 A.M. where approximately 75 students picketed in an orderly fashion, confined to the Boerum Place side of the Board of Education building. The pickets were chanting "Jim Crow Must Go!" A small group of students congregated at a parking lot across Boerum Place from the picket site, but were quickly dispersed from that area by mounted police. At approximately 11:40 A.M., the picketing tapered off with groups of ten to twelve students at a time being escorted away from the Board of Education by foot and mounted patrolmen. The picketing had terminated at noon, February 19, 1965.

Picketing demonstrations were staged by approximately 200 boycotting students at three separate locations in the downtown Brooklyn area on February 18, 1965 between the hours of 10:30 A.M. and 1:30 P.M. These demonstrations were generally in support of the school boycott which has been spearheaded by MILTON GALAMISON's City-Wide Committee for Integrated Schools. The students became disorganized and rampaged at several locations and had to be restrained by the police.

The initial demonstration occurred in front of the Department of Health, 295 Flatbush Avenue, Brooklyn, New York, commencing at approximately 10:30 A.M., February 18, 1965. The picketing was disorganized and developed into an unruly and unsupervised group of youths who surged back and forth across the sidewalk for about forty minutes, and then ran in a body to the Board of Education headquarters, 110 Livingston Street, Brooklyn. At this location, they were placed behind police barriers and once again refused to picket in an orderly fashion. At about 11:30 A.M., five adult demonstrators were taken into custody by the Bureau of Attendance for violation of Section 3212 of the New York State Education Law.

The demonstrators left 110 Livingston Street without any apparent direction, at 12:45 P.M. and proceeded to 72 Schermerhorn Street, Brooklyn, where they paraded on the opposite side of the street in an attempt to lure St. John's University students into a dispute. This was prevented by special police of St. John's University who prevented any ingress or egress from the building.

Having failed to instigate a fight at this location, they proceeded east on Schermerhorn Street, to Smith Street, at which time they broke up into smaller groups and raced into Fulton Street, toward Albee Square. They ran along the sidewalks shouting and shoving and eventually arrived at Albee Square, which is also in the downtown section of Brooklyn.

These groups were contained on the sidewalks by the presence of mounted and foot patrolmen, several squad cars of detectives and members of the Youth Division, New York City Police Department.

At Albee Square, several instances of violence were reported as follows:

A mounted patrolman was struck by a thrown object, believed to have been a soda bottle; the window of a travel agency in that area was broken by a thrown object, several of the demonstrators attempted to storm the dime Savings Bank near Albee Square, but were prevented from doing so by the police in that area.

At approximately 1:00 P.M., the demonstration had lost momentum and several of the demonstrators were overheard to mention that they were returning to "the freedom school". It was believed by the Bureau of Special Services that they were referring to the Siloam Presbyterian Church, Brooklyn, New York. The overall demonstration terminated by 1:30 P.M.

A summary of police action taken as a result of these demonstrations is as follows:

Five arrests for violation of Section 3212, of the State Education Law; an arrest for disorderly conduct; 17 demonstrators were processed at the 84th Precinct, New York City Police Department, Brooklyn.

On February 10, 1965, a meeting of the New York State Communist Party Commission on Schools was held at 552 Riverside Drive, New York City. During the meeting, a discussion of the current school boycott took place. It was stated that the role the Communist Party is playing in the boycott was "minimal" in that very few Communist Party members have been involved and none in any policy-making positions. It was stated that this is undoubtedly due to the fact that MILTON GALAMISON makes his own policy.

It was also stated that boycott was not succeeding and that MILTON GALAMISON was not using the proper tactics. A different focus was proposed for the boycott. The idea was to move the focus from the children and shift it to the adults.

The members of the School Commission, New York District Communist Party, pledged themselves to accomplish this objective.

RAE HENDRIX, as of February, 1965, was serving as city-wide coordinator of the school boycott for

The only known CP members to be active in the current school boycott as pickets or as workers are BUNNIE DEVINE, who is a member of the 6th Assembly

Six males and three females, who, according to Bureau of Special Services, participated in the demonstration, were arrested by Bureau of Attendance Officers under the State Education Law for abetting truancy. Mimeographed circulars distributed at the scene reflected they were issued by the City-Wide Committee for School Integration, 260 Jefferson Avenue, Brooklyn.

The demonstration at the Board of Education terminated at 11:45 A.M. when students dispersed into the downtown shopping area of Brooklyn. Mounted police, as well as foot patrolmen and squad cars, followed the teenagers into the shopping area, causing traffic congestion. Afternoon shoppers looked upon the boycotting students with some trepidations, fearing possible valdalism. However, no violence erupted.

GALAMISON announced a three point program in the current school boycott, as follows:

1. Closing of the "freedom school" at Siloam Presbyterian Church. Boycotting students will be urged to return to their neighborhood schools or invited to remain at home as their conscience dictates.

2. Students are invited to picket at the Board of Education each day after school hours from 3:30 P.M. to 5:30 P.M.

3. One high school at a time will be called upon to stage a three-day boycott. Students who boycott will be asked to picket the Board of Education headquarters during normal school hours.

On March 3, 1965, at 10:55 A.M., four persons were arrested on a charge of violating Section 3212 of the New York State Education Law for inducing truancy by employing teenage school children students in a demonstration outside the New York City Police Department Headquarters, 240 Centre Street, New York City. A Special Agent of the FBI observed the following demonstration at the Board of Education Headquarters, Brooklyn, on March 5, 1965:

Approximately 25 individuals, representing CORE and the City-Wide Committee for Integrated Schools, picketed in an orderly fashion in front of the Board of Education on March 5, 1965, commencing at 10:00 A.M. This demonstration favored racial balancing of neighborhood schools, and the general aims of the current school boycott. Only adults, both Negro and white, participated in the demonstration which terminated at 11:30 A.M.

Reverend MILTON GALAMISON advised the New York City Police Department on March 4, 1965, that he would call for a demonstration by approximately 65 youths at the Board of Education, 110 Livingston Street, Brooklyn, to be held on the morning of March 5, 1965. The teenagers, who would be mostly boycotting students, would be requested to assemble at the Board of Education at about 10:00 A.M.

This demonstration by the youths never materialized for the reason that the Bureau of Attendance Officers rounded up the youngsters between 9:00 A.M. and 10:00 A.M. in the neighborhood of the Siloam Presbyterian Church before they had a chance to assemble. They were returned to their homes or neighborhood schools.

A picketing demonstration was conducted by the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee (SNCC), commencing at 8:15 P. M., on February 3, 1965, at City Hall, New York City, the location of the Mayor's office. At approximately 8:30 P. Both groups demonstrated opposite City Hall and at 11:15 P. M., several of them went into City Hall and notified a patrolman there that they would demonstrate all night to have the Mayor of the City of New York intercede through the President of the United States for Federal intervention in the current voter registration drive in Selma, Alabama. By 1:40 A. M., February 4, 1965, because of the extreme cold weather all demonstrators had dispersed from City Hall. No disturbances were reported at City Hall.

On February 4, 1965, at 3:15 P. M., SNCC again assembled both inside and outside the United States Court House located at Foley Square, New York City, which is a short distance from City Hall. Twenty-nine demonstrators representing SNCC and carrying signs reading "Federal Registrars in Selma" attempted to enter and sit-in within the lobby of the United States Court House; however, they were restrained by United States Marshals.

On February 25, 1965, a street rally in tribute to MALCOLM X, sponsored by the FEDERATION FOR INDEPENDENT POLITICAL ACTION, was held at 125th Street and 7th Avenue, New York City. Approximately 200 people were in attendance.

JESSE GRAY was the main speaker and said that the death of MALCOLM X should be placed on the white power structure and outside forces and not on the Negroes who shot him.

ISAIAH ROBINSON spoke in the same manner as JESSE GRAY and added that all stores on 125th Street should close on February 26, 27, 1965 in respect to MALCOLM X, with the exception of drug stores, which could reopen at noon on February 27. ROBINSON called for a boycott of the stores which did not comply with this request.

JAMES HAUGHTON, Director of the Harlem Unemployment Center, stated that foreign aid is good but that those at home should not be forgotten by the Federal Government. He spoke of building a hall in Harlem as a memorial to MALCOLM X.

A female speaker named MAY, who was not known to the source, also spoke in tribute to MALCOLM X and called for donations to be sent to MALCOLM's widow at FEDERATION FOR INDEPENDENT POLITICAL ACTION Headquarters, 139 West 125th Street, New York City.

According to the article, most of the entertainers had been obtained for this show by HARRY BELAFONTE, the prominent singer. Among those who attended were PETE SEEGER, OSSIE DAVIS, JOHN KILLENS.

In "The New York Times" of March 24, 1965, on page 33, there appears an article captioned, "Top Entertainers in Alabama Tonight". It was indicated in this article that RUBY DEE would be among those entertaining the civil rights marchers on their way to Montgomery, Alabama, from Selma.

Freedom March Sponsored By Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee To Federal Bureau of Investigation Office, New York City, On March 9, 1965

Special Agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) observed the following "Freedom March" and demonstration held March 9, 1965, sponsored by Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee (SNCC). The marchers assembled simultaneously at two assembly points in Manhattan, at 3:30 P. M., on March 9, 1965, and converged on FBI, New York Office headquarters, 69th Street and 3rd Avenue, New York City, where a picketing demonstration was conducted from 5:00 P. M. until 7:15 P. M.

Handbills distributed widely at both assembly points, namely Bryant Park, mid-Manhattan, and 125th Street, Harlem, announced "we march for the black people of Selma to demand direct Federal action now to protect lives of the Negroes of Alabama, and their right to march in peaceful assembly; to demand the immediate arrest of Sheriff Jim Clark of Dallas County, Alabama; to demand the dispatch of Federal registrars to enable the Negroes to register to vote without being intimidated."

The handbills further noted that the march was sponsored by SNCC, 100 5th Avenue, New York City, and supported by Congress of Racial Equality (CORE), 38 Park Row, New York City.

Approximately 80 youths, mostly of college age, formed the contingent which assembled at 125th Street, and 5th Avenue, Harlem. They carried signs showing affiliation with SNCC and CORE. The Harlem group reached the FBI, New York Office, at 5:00 P. M., and commenced to picket in an orderly fashion, behind police barricades on the 3rd Avenue side of the FBI headquarters.

A group estimated at 450 to 500 individuals assembled in Bryant Park, 32nd Street and 5th Avenue, New York City. At that point placards were distributed reading "1865 to 1965, too long, vote now", "a crime to vote in land of the free", "we protest police brutality in Selma".

Other participating organizations in the march besides SNCC and CORE were "Catholic Worker", Rabbinical Assembly and W.E.B. Du Bois Clubs of America (DCA).

The Bryant Park contingent left that area at 4:10 P. M. and marched in double column north on 5th Avenue to 69th Street, and then east to FBI headquarters. This column of approximately 500 marchers reached the New York Office at 5:30 P. M. and there joined the picketing demonstration already underway by the Harlem group. The number of demonstrators at FBI headquarters, New York City, swelled to approximately 600.

At about 6:00 P. M. a delegation of the marchers approached the entrance of the FBI, New York Office, 201 East 69th Street, and made it known that they had a document they wished to present. Assistant Director Malone met these people in the lobby of the New York Office for the purpose of receiving whatever they had to offer. At this time, Rabbi Abraham Heschel indicated a desire to speak with Mr. Malone in his office, and Mr. Malone agreed to speak with him and one representative from SNCC and one from CORE.

In addition to Rabbi Heschel, who is a member of Rabbinical Assembly, 3080 Broadway, New York City, George Wiley of CORE, 38 Park Row, New York City, and Marion Barry of SNCC, 100 5th Avenue, New York City, accompanied Mr. Malone to his office. This delegation explained the purpose of the demonstration which was primarliy to request, through Mr. Malone, to have the Federal Government intervene in anyway possible to assure the civil rights of the Negroes in Alabama.

Mr. Malone explained to them the jurisdiction and responsibility of the FBI. At this point the delegation presented to him two documents. The first document was statement by the Rabbinical Assembly on the occasion of the New York march to the office of the FBI in which it was stated that the brutal and inhuman attack on peaceful Negro marchers in Selma, Alabama, violates every religious and democratic tenet of our civilization and cannot go unanswered. It was also stated that the Rabbinical Assembly was taking part in the demonstration to lend their voices to the demand that the Federal Government take all measures at once to safeguard the constitutionally guaranteed rights of all citizens to assemble peacefully in order to state their grievances. In the statement, the Assembly called upon the FBI to take a direct hand in bringing the perpetrators of the attack on innocent men and women to justice and called upon the Government to protect the rights of all its citizens.

The second document was in the form of a letter on the stationery of SNCC to the FBI, New York, attention Mr. Malone, dated March 9, 1965. In this letter, it was pointed out that SNCC knew that the FBI was "conducting an investigation" of police brutality in Selma in connection with the halting of a march to protest denial of the vote. SNCC, indicating that it has worked in Selma since the fall of 1962, stated that they had repeatedly been outraged by the failure of Federal agents to take action under Section 3052, Title 18, of the United States Administrative Code as amended in 1951, which gives the FBI the same powers as United States Marshals to arrest on the spot those who are depriving others of their civil rights. Continuing, SNCC in its letter urged the FBI to arrest Sheriff James Clark of Dallas County, Alabama, whom they described as the prime instigator of violence in Selma.

At 6:45 P. M. this delegation departed from the New York Office. Along the line of march and during the demonstration in front of the FBI headquarters, the marchers sang freedom songs and chanted slogans "freedom now","let's go", and "out of Saigon, into Selma". The picketing demonstration at New York Office headquarters terminated at 7:15 P. M. Approximately 100 New York City police, with the use of barricades, effectively controlled the marchers during the demonstration.

Detective Barnathan, Bureau of Special Services, New York City Police Department, advised that no arrests were made and no incidents of violence were reported.

Proposed Plans and Activities

The February 26, 1965 issue of the "New York Times", a daily New York City newspaper, page 15, contained an article entitled, "CORE Chief Backs Student Boycott". This article stated that JAMES FARMER, National Director of CORE, yesterday endorsed the waning boycott of Boys High School and 21 allegedly segregated junior high schools. According to the article, FARMER rejected the idea that children should not be used in school shutdowns since "They suffer from segregation and discrimination as much as their elders".

On March 16, 1965, MARVIN RICH, Community Relations Director, CORE, 38 Park Row, New York City, advised Special Agent (SA) JAMES D. BRODY that at a national meeting of CORE, held on February 7, 1965, it was decided that CORE plans for the coming months would concern areas located in Louisiana and South Carolina and would deal mainly with voter registration and community organization.

RICH stated that voter registration would consist of drives to enroll or register Negroes as voters, and community organization means that CORE would give thought to finding out what each community wants individually and then directing CORE activity in that particular area to the fulfillment of the desires of the area's inhabitants. For example, RICH stated that a particular community may desire the installation of a traffic light and CORE will then direct the activities, such as demonstrations, to assist in encouraging the local authorities to make such an installation.

RICH stated that CORE was sending approximately 100 students from the University of Kansas, the University of Syracuse, and the University of Washington on the West Coast to assist in rebuilding two Negro churches which were burned down last year in the town Jonesboro, Louisiana. RICH stated that JAMES FARMER, National Director of CORE, was expected to be in Jonesboro on Monday, March 22, 1965, in advance of the 100 students who would be there at the end of March, 1965, and the beginning of April, 1965.

RICH also advised that beginning March 22, 1965, a special drive would take place to register Negro voters in the Second Congressional District of South Carolina, which encompasses the towns of Columbia, Orangeburg, and Aiken. RICH explained that a special election in this Congressional District was scheduled for June 15, 1965, and CORE wants to make certain that all eligible Negroes vote in this election.

Location

On March 16, 1965, MARVIN RICH, previously mentioned, advised SA BRODY that CORE's national offices are located at 38 Park Row, New York, New York. U

C. HARLEM FREEDOM FORUM

On March 10, 1965, there was a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Harlem Freedom Forum, at Bermuda Hall. LEON LOVE suggested that LILLIAN MARTINEZ contact someone from the Southern Christian Leadership Conference in an effort to get someone who had been involved in Selma, Alabama, as a speaker for April 25, 1965.

It was decided that the following telegram be sent to President JOHNSON in order that the Harlem Freedom Forum would be on record:

> "The gravity of the situation in Alabama demands that the Federal Government take whatever action necessary, including the use of Federal Troops, to guarantee the elementary right of every citizen to the ballot and the right to peaceful assembly to petition for redress of grievances".

It was also decided that IDA TOWNSEND is to get a letter off to ADAM CLAYTON POWELL asking him to tape a speech for the April 25, 1965 forum. POWELL's topic would be "CLERGY and THEIR ROLE IN CIVIL RIGHTS".

The Harlem Freedom Forum held a meeting on March 10, 1965 at Bermuda Hall which is located at 402 West 146th Street, New York City. During the meeting it was suggested that Harlem Freedom Forum members participate in the next protest parade concerning the situation in Alabama. A night letter was composed about the Selma situation and was being sent to President JOHNSON.

LILLIAN MARTINEZ suggested that she does not know why someone has not suggested a work stoppage for a day or two by Negroes and white sympathizers to protest the happenings in Alabama.

LEON LOVE stated that it might have been a good thing if the white ministers attacked in Alabama, had been killed, or the Nuns marching there had been killed since this would get the attention the situation deserved. LOVE also said the few white people killed in the Congo got all the headlines and he was sure, that for every white person killed, a thousand Negroes were killed.

Investigation of the NALC is directed solely towards establishing the extent of Communist influence. The Federal Bureau of Investigation is not investigating the legitimate activities of this organization.

The Negro American Labor Council will be referred to in this report as the NALC. The Greater New York chapter of the NALC will be referred to as the NYNALC and the Communist Party, USA as the CP.

In July, 1959, more than 75 Negro trade union leaders met in New York to explore the possibility of establishing an organization designed to fight discrimination in industry, government and trade unions. After much planning, the NALC was officially founded in Detroit, Michigan, on May 28, 29 and 30, 1960. A. PHILIP RANDOLPH, veteran trade union leader and President of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, was elected President at the Founding Convention. At the second Annual Convention held in Chicago, Illinois, November 10, 11 and 12, 1961, the NALC broadened its membership base to include not only trade unionists, but all Negro workers in response to the developing job crisis suffered by colored workers.

To the knowledge of informants, TURNER is not assigned to a CP club within the Illinois CP District, but due to the fact that she has been attending these meetings and that she is the wife of RALPH TURNER, Chairman of the Railroad Club, Illinois CP, they consider her to be a current member of the Illinois CP.

CP Activity to Infiltrate Policy in the NYNALC

On November 28, 1964, a meeting of the NYNALC CP caucus was held at 248 West 64th Street, New York City. Among those in attendance were the following individuals:

AGNES WILLIS
FLORENCE BRIDGES
ARTHUR KNIGHT
MARIAN KNIGHT
JOHN CUTCH

AGNES WILLIS chaired the meeting. She announced that she had obtained 25 new members for the NALC. ARTHUR KNIGHT told those present what had taken place at a recent NALC Executive Board meeting that he had attended.

WILLIS informed KNIGHT that she, KNIGHT and BEA LAZAR should get together to decide whether LAZAR should be reinstated into the NYNALC CP caucus.

NY T- 13
December 2, 1964

It was ascertained that on December 5, 1964, BEA LAZAR met ARTHUR KNIGHT and AGNES WILLIS to discuss her activities with the NYNALC CP caucus. LAZAR had been charged by the caucus of not obeying orders and had discussed the NALC with individuals with whom the caucus opposed. LAZAR denied doing this intentionally, however, she said she did not have the time to meet with the caucus. LAZAR said that if she learned of anything of value within the NALC office where she worked, she would get in touch with either KNIGHT or WILLIS. WILLIS and KNIGHT agreed that LAZAR should do this.

NY T- 13
December 11, 1964

On January 23, 1965, a meeting of the NYNALC CP caucus was held at 248 West 64th Street, New York City. Among those in attendance were the following individuals:

JOHN CUTCH
FLORENCE BRIDGES
AGNES WILLIS
ARTHUR KNIGHT
MARIAN KNIGHT
LEO RABOUINE

The main topic of discussion was the fund drive of the NYNALC CP caucus to obtain money to send members of the caucus to the annual convention of the NALC. AGNES WILLIS stated that if the caucus could raise one half of the money needed for transportation to the convention, the CP would furnish the other half of the money. WILLIS suggested that each member of the caucus should pay $5 a month to the fund. She collected $5 from those in attendance and said that she would hold a party to raise money for the fund. ARTHUR KNIGHT advised that LEO RABOUINE had been appointed to the Executive Board of the NYNALC, effective January 27, 1965. ARTHUR pointed out that many members of the NYNALC do not attend meetings of the Executive Board; however, RABOUINE does attend and is active in the affairs of the NALC.

AGNES WILLIS spoke briefly on a conference of the National Board NALC that she had recently attended in Washington, D. C.

ARTHUR KNIGHT stated that the purpose of the NYNALC CP caucus is to build and strengthen the NALC. He stated that members of this CP caucus do not meet merely as CP people but as members of the NALC seeking the ways to improve it. ARTHUR KNIGHT also stated that when members of the caucus recruit people into the NALC, they should do this with that aim in mind and not with the intention of recruiting people into the CP.

NY T-14
January 25, 1965

Source also confirmed that the above CP caucus meeting was held on January 23, 1965, and identified the same individuals in attendance.

Source in addition stated the proposed "State of Race Conference" had been changed to a leadership type conference with delegates attending from all the civil rights organizations including the NALC. The conference was now scheduled for January 30, 1965, at the Riverside Church, 122nd Street and Riverside Drive, New York City.

MARIAN KNIGHT
JOHN CUTCH
LEO RABOUINE

The meeting was concerned mainly with the party that was scheduled at the home of AGNES WILLIS on February 20, 1965, to raise funds for transporation of caucus members to the national convention of the NALC.

ARTHUR KNIGHT mentioned that the CP would make up half of the fare of caucus members to attend the convention if the caucus could raise the other half.

LEO RABOUINE had in his possession a copy of the agreement between the five breweries in New York City and the two teamster locals which had been worked out through the NALC, whereby the breweries and the unions agreed not to discriminate against Negroes in their hiring practice. RABOUINE termed this a victory for the NALC.

A party was sponsored by the CP caucus of the NYNALC at the residence of AGNES WILLIS, Madison Street, Brooklyn, New York, on February 20, 1965. The purpose of the party was to raise funds for the transportation of caucus members to the national convention of the NALC.

On March 4, 1965, a meeting of the NYNALC CP caucus was held at 435 East 9th Street, New York City. Among those present were the following individuals:

ARTHUR KNIGHT
MARIAN KNIGHT
AGNES WILLIS
LEO RABOUINE
FLORENCE BRIDGES
JOHN CUTCH

AGNES WILLIS reported that the party given by the NYNALC CP caucus could have been much better. MARIAN KNIGHT reported that a total of $40 was raised at the affair.

ARTHUR KNIGHT reported that at the last NALC meeting, a Nominations Committee was appointed to draw up a slate of officers for the NYNALC. KNIGHT stated that both he and RABOUINE are members of this committee.

AGNES WILLIS stated all members now have a chance and a responsibility to become members of the Executive Board so that we can get on the NALC committees. She urged that they build up the membership in the NALC. She further stated that the annual NALC convention would be held in St. Louis, Missouri, on May 29, 30 and 31, 1965, and all were expected to attend. She advised that it is very important that the NYNALC begin to raise a call to extend the length of office for all elected NALC officials. Elections every year cut down on the work that the organization does because so much time is consumed by the elections and the annual convention. The CP caucus will hold another fund raising party on April 30, 1965.

An article in the New York "Amsterdam News", December 19, 1964, page 53, entitled, "Harlem Rally To Help Mississippi Freedom Party", reported that the above rally would be held at the William's Institutional Church, New York City, and identified WILLIAM STRICKLAND as Chairman of the New York Ad Hoc Committee For Support of the MFDP Challenge.

Source furnished a mimeographed sheet entitled "Organization Objectives For The Freedom Democratic Party Challenge", which set forth the objectives as follows:

1. To disseminate to as wide an audience as possible the real issues and conditions that are at issue in the challenge.

2. To create the kind of home-town interest which will influence congressmen to support the challenge at the various points where this kind of support will be necessary in Congress.

3. To build closer relationships between MFDP and northern community groups particularly the Negro community, trade unions, liberal and civic organizations.

The circular stated that a committee should be formed in the local community to support the "Challenge." The first tasks of the committee will be:

1. To contact the Congressmen from their area and inform them of the challenge and their interest.

2. To organize a delegation to visit the Congressman at home urging that he support the challenge before Congress reconvened on January 4th.

3. To develop a campaign of letter writing, petitions expressing support of the challenge to the Congressman and to the House Committee on elections, of the Administration committee and organizing public meetings and rallies designed to demonstrate community support for the project.

The second stage of the "Challenge" (after January 4, 1965) entails the following program:

A. Statements from prominent local leaders in churches and unions, for example, should be procured as part of the campaign within the community. Most of these people will not participate in direct forms of pressure but may be persuaded to support the challenge in the press, letters to their constituents, or in public meetings.

B. A major fund-raising activity should be planned in support of the challenge.

C. Arrange speaking engagements for members of the MFDP to important local organizations. A speaker will be available for mass meetings, union and civil rights affairs provided that transportation and expenses are available from the sponsors.

D. Contacting the local press and acting as a liaison for placing press statements in local papers concerning the developments of the challenge.

The circular requested the local committee to maintain contact with the MFDP, 1017 Lynch Street, Jackson, Mississippi, or 1353 Fourth Street Northwest, Washington, D. C.

BAYARD RUSTIN stated on February 12, 1965, that he had recently attended a conference in Washington, D.C., with MARTIN LUTHER KING and others. RUSTIN said that he had written all of KING's "material" and had "kept everyone in line". RUSTIN said that he had been influential in getting the civil rights leaders to promulgate five basic principles for KING to enunciate during the conference.

NY T-20
February 12, 1965

MARTIN LUTHER KING and CLARENCE JONES discussed, during February, 1965, two speeches which KING desired JONES to write for him and in which KING desired to cement relations with Jewish leaders. KING said that he would speak at two affairs sponsored by Jewish organizations. JONES informed KING that he would like to have a "get together" at which several plans could be resolved. KING said to JONES that he was concerned about SNCC criticism of his actions and the resulting publicity in Selma, Alabama, wherein SNCC claimed they did all the work while KING raised funds and secured publicity. JONES said that he and HARRY WACHTEL would endeavor to ascertain the true picture and would contact HARRY BELAFONTE. KING suggested a "get together" of SNCC leaders, BELAFONTE and himself to resolve their difficulties.

CLARENCE JONES and STANLEY LEVISON, during late February, 1965, gossiped about MARTIN LUTHER KING and his relationship with HARRY WACHTEL. MARTIN LUTHER KING and CLARENCE JONES discussed SCLC business during late February, 1965. JONES said that he had spoken to BELAFONTE about the rift between the SCLC and SNCC, and BELAFONTE had requested that KING call him about setting up an SCLC - SNCC meeting. JONES expressed concern to KING about animosity to HARRY WACHTEL that was evident within the SCLC. ANDREW YOUNG and CLARENCE JONES conferred, during early March, 1965, concerning SCLC affairs. JONES said that either BAYARD RUSTIN or HARRY WACHTEL had prepared a memorandum, and JONES wished to make sure that it would be presented to MARTIN LUTHER KING for his approval. YOUNG stated that neither RUSTIN nor WACHTEL understood their role in the SCLC, and JONES agreed with him and added that he was upset by the attitude and approach of RUSTIN and WACHTEL to SCLC problems. JONES said that RUSTIN and WACHTEL did many things without consulting or advising other responsible SCLC personnel. YOUNG agreed. IV. MISCELLANEOUS

A demonstration was held in Bronxville on February 6, 1965, in support of the striking employees of Lawrence Hospital. Local 1199, Drug and Hospital Workers Union, has been attempting to organize hospital employees.

The demonstrators, numbering about 320 persons, who were predominantly Negro, gathered in the vicinity of Lawrence Hospital, Palmer Avenue, Bronxville, and walked in a single line from 2:00 p.m. to 3:00 p.m. At 3:00 p.m., the demonstrators formed a double line and walked along Pondfield Road, the main street of Bronxville, to the village hall.

At the village hall a proclamation was read by JOSEPH T. JACKSON, President of the Westchester Chapter of the Negro American Labor Council to the Mayor of the Village.

The proclamation protested the failure of the hospital authorities to negotiate with representatives of the striking employees and requested municipal and county authorities to intercede on behalf of the strikers.

JACKSON appeared to be the marshal for the demonstration. WYATT T. WALKER and OSSIE DAVIS, who were not not observed in the line of march, are listed as co-chairmen of the Citizens Committee to aid the Lawrence Hospital Workers.

After the reading of the proclamation, the demonstrators returned along Pondfield Road to Lawrence Hospital area and disbanded between 3:30 p.m. and 4:30 p.m.

A source advised on September 17, 1964, that at a meeting of the Communist Party, United States of America (CP, USA), in their Headquarters at 23 West 26th Street, New York City, on that date, WILLIAM WEINSTONE said they were forming an individual publishing and distributing center known as "New Currents Publishers and Distributors," (NCPD), to be located in the basement of 100 East 16th Street, New York, New York. WEINSTONE said the NCPD would be a central distributing agency for progressive books and pamphlets, but would at first concentrate on pamphlets and would publish books only in rare cases.

A second source advised on June 27, 1962, that WILLIAM WEINSTONE was a member of the National Committee, CP, USA, as of that time. The source stated that this was based on WEINSTONE's attendance of the meetings of the CP, USA, and in the National Executive Committee meetings as well as other activities.

On September 25, 1964, the first source advised that WILLIAM WEINSTONE was in attendance at a meeting of the CP, USA, in which he stated that he would work full time at the NCPD.

On January 8, 1965, the records of the New York County Clerk's Office, Foley Square, New York, New York, contained a business certificate form, 201B, which reflected that JOAN PAUL, 93 Neptune Avenue, Brooklyn, New York, was conducting and transacting business under the name New Currents Publishers at 23 West 26th Street, County of New York, State of New York.

A third source advised on January 12, 1965, that JEAN SCHERMER, also known as JOAN PAUL and JEAN SMITH, was a member of the CP, USA, as of January, 1965.

On December 9, 1964, a fourth source advised that on November 11, 1964, a monthly bank statement reflected an account was started for New Currents Publishers, 23 West 26th Street, New York, New York, on October 8, 1964. The principal was JOAN PAUL, the only authorized signatory on the account.

FOREWORD

Alabama as one of the five Southern states who carried their revolt against Civil Rights extremism to the polls on Oct. 3, is in the target area for new Negro demonstrations led by such Negro action groups as Congress for Racial Equality, The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, the Student Non-Violent Co-ordinating Committee and the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

During the early days of the Presidential race just finished, these Negro groups showed callous contempt for the intelligence of the American voting public by announcing that street demonstrations and racial violence would be terminated for the duration of the campaign because it was adversely affecting the chances of the national Democratic Party. By this action, the Negro leadership proved what they have previously denied — that they COULD and DID call the shots on street rioting and lawless demonstrations.

The sound of the last ballot hitting the box had hardly died away when Martin Luther King, of the SCLS, James Farmer, of CORE, and officials of SNCC, gave the word in New York for renewed street demonstrations.

King predicted new demonstrations in Alabama and Mississippi "in the very near future."

The press reported a post election meeting of The Northern Student Movement, financing agent for SNCC, at Columbia University, in New York. William Strickland, leader of the Northern Student Movement, announced plans for massive Summer campaigns such as the Mississippi Project. He said they "will attempt to organize people around poverty." This is to take the form of rent strikes and political organizations among poverty groups in Northern urban areas. King is planning to add his weight to this drive.

Before the election, King sent out appeals for money for new demonstrations. He pointed out in these appeal letters that the deep South would become a rallying point for "right-wing extremists," after the election.

On Ocotber 9, 1964, the NAACP filed papers in Alabama to qualify as a foreign corporation. Peter Hall, Birmingham Negro attorney, was designated as their official agent in Alabama. Fred Grey, Montgomery, was the attorney who handled the filing.

So the stage is set for more lawless demonstrations. It is for this reason we offer the following evidence.

COMMUNISTS IN CIVIL RIGHTS
October 20, 1964

Communists have been assuming leadership roles in the civil rights movement, promoting violence, racial hatred and widespread law violations.

This charge was made and documented by the Alabama Legislative Commission to Preserve the Peace as early as February, 1964. Now the accuracy of these charges are being documented from one side of the nation to the other by such outstanding authorities as J. Edgar Hoover, of the F. B. I.; U. S. Senator James Eastland, of the Senate Internal Securities Sub-Committee and Representative James B. Utt, Republican Congressman from California and a man most alert to the threat of Communism in America.

These men have been backed up by such national news columnists as Joseph Alsop and others, including Drew Pearson. After the Harlem riots of July 1964, the deputy mayor of New York charged that known Communist Party members were active in causing strife in New York.

On September 18, 1964 Mr. Hoover released a report on the major riots in the East, and concluded that they had not been organized on a national basis by any individual or groups.

Civil rights leaders such as Roy Wilkins, of the N.A.A.C.P., James Farmer, of C.O.R.E., Martin Luther King, of the S.C.L.C., quickly seized on the report to say the F.B.I. Chief had found there were no communists in the Civil Rights movement.

Mr. Hoover neither said nor implied this. As a matter of fact, he pointed out in his report that such openly violent and subversive groups as the Progressive Labor Movement; Black Muslims; and members of the Communist Party U.S.A., were identified as taking part in the riots.

The Progressive Labor Movement (PLM) was described by Hoover as a Marxist-Leninist group following the more violent Communist Line. One of its organizers is a former Secretary of the New York Communist Party, Hoover pointed out.

On July 16, 1964, according to the F.B.I. report, this Communist and his P.L.M. group, distributed thousands of copies of a handbill containing the photographs of a New York Police lieutenant under the headline; "WANTED FOR MURDER." This policeman had fired in self-defense and killed a negro youth who was advancing on him with a knife and refused to heed a warning shot to stop. The policeman was subsequently cleared of all blame by a New York Grand Jury.

Hoover's report also said:

"Another officer of the P.L.M., also a former member of the Communist Party, U.S.A., resigned from the party because it was not sufficiently revolutionary, and organized a number of groups in the Harlem area in New York City early in the Summer. These groups were to be prepared to exploit incidents and were alerted to that end. Two days after the shooting above referred to this individual arranged a street meeting in New York City announcing there was going to be a demonstration, 'not necessarily peaceful,' and that he and his followers, 'were going to kill cops and judges,' that 'no revolution can be won by peaceful means' and that this state must be smashed 'totally and completely.'

"A negro who formerly was organizer of the Harlem Region of the Communist Party U.S.A. achieved wide-spread publicity early this year through leadership of rent strikes. Three days after the shooting on July 16, this individual issued a public call for 'a hundred skilled black revolutionaries who are ready to die' to correct what he called 'police brutality.'

"The Communist Party U.S.A. does not appear to have officially instigated these riots though its members were observed taking part in some and its former members are leaders of P.L.M., the Labor Vanguard and other such groups.

"For example, two individuals with histories of Communist affiliations were instigators and leaders of the riots in at least two of the cities in New Jersey. Neither of these men appears to be more than a local and comparatively unimportant independent agitator with an organization which can claim only a few members at most. Neither of them started the riots but they capitalized on them and tried to continue them.

"In another city, one agitator with a racial background was found eleven separate times haranguing crowds in a riot area, shouting falsehoods about abuse of the people in the neighborhood and inciting further and more violent riot action."

In the face of this mounting evidence, Negro leaders have hotly protested that no Communists were active in their movement. Rev. Martin Luther King, who has been closely aligned with known Communist Party members for many years, retorted in Greenwood, Miss., that "there are no more Communists in the Mississippi Summer Project than there are Eskimoes in Florida." King, himself, has amassed the staggering total of more than 60 Communist front affiliations since 1955.

King also said again that there are no Communists in his Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

King was wrong on both counts, and he knew he was wrong and untruthful when he made the statement.

With King at the time he made the statement was Bayard Rustin, who served as King's executive secretary for three years and still acts as advisor and right-hand-man on many of King's projects.

Rustin was a young Communist leader and, by his own admission in an interview published in THE SATURDAY EVENING POST in July, was a Communist Party organizer for twelve years.

Rustin has a long criminal record, including a case in which he pleaded guilty to an act of perversion in California, and another where he served a federal sentence as a draft dodger. At the time King declared there were no Communists in his movement or in the Mississippi projects, Rustin was with him and shared the platform with him.

Hunter Pitts O'Dell, who took the fifth amendment before the House Un-American Activities Committee, and who was identified by witnesses as a Communist Party member, worked for more than a year with King's S.C.L.C. Movement. King repeatedly denied that O'Dell was connected with his organization until the facts were proven otherwise, then he admitted that O'Dell had been employed by the S.C.L.C.

King, himself, has been virtually surrounded by Communists or Communist fronters since 1955. While running a "Religious Hootenanny", no man in America has received more praise or more space coverage in such Communist newspapers as THE WORKER and PEOPLE'S WORLD, as has Martin Luther King.

When King promoted the summer riots in Birmingham in 1963, police identified and photographed a number of known Communists and suspected Communists in King's supporting groups.

The invasion of Mississippi by hundreds of beatniks, do-gooders and misfits, gathered mostly from college campuses, was organized and supported by Negro civil rights groups and The National Council of Churches. Among the Negro groups were Congress of Racial Equality, (CORE); The Student Non-Violent Co-ordinating Committee (SNCC); The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) and King's Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC).

The invasion has drawn support from Walter P. Reuther, of the United Auto Workers, and from a host of red-front groups, such as National Lawyers Guild and American Civil Liberties Union.

Now Congressman Utt has revealed that the Communists were also behind the planning and implementation of the invasion. The names he called in Washington on July 29 put the Communists to bed with the National Council of Churches, CORE, ANCC, Reuther and the rest:

"Invasion of Mississippi by expeditionary forces from other states was carefully planned by the Communist conspiracy for civil disturbance beyond the ability of a single state to provide protection . . .

"If this is accomplished in Mississippi, it will spread into other states with destructive effect upon freedom in liberty.

"The cunning Communists have been able to entice fine Americans to do their work, but the guiding hand is still the Communist conspiracy," said Utt.

Utt, whose remarks were put into the Congressional Record, named Frank S. Pastana as a lawyer working with the 'invaders' in Drew, Mississippi. Pastana and his wife were among the Americans to defy the State Department's ban on travel to Cuba in 1962. He was also identified by Utt as having been an instructor in the People's Education Center, identified by the California Committee on Un-American Activities as a Communist School.

Others named by Utt included Maynard Omerberg, working with Pastana, and identified by the Congressman as having a long record in reports of the House Un-American Activities Committee; George Crokett, a Detroit attorney sent to Mississippi by the National Lawyers Guild (idenified in sworn testimony before Senate and House committees as a legal arm of the Communist Party). Crokett, Utt revealed, had represented the chairman of the Michigan Communist Party in the Smith Act Trials in New York.

Martin Popper, a long-time Communist Party attorney, was revealed by Utt to be in Mississippi as attorney for the family of Michael Schwarner, one of the three slain civil rights workers.

Popper, incidentally, is so well recognized as an important legal aide to the Communist Party, that his mere presence in the Mississippi project would be sufficient to mark it as a Communist sponsored activity.

Also identified by Utt was Benjamin Smith, who registered as an agent for Fidel Castro under the foreign agents registration act, and serves as an officer of the identified Communist front, Southern Conference Education Fund.

Both Utt and Sen. Eastland identified other known Communist or Communist Party line followers in Mississippi. The evidence clearly supports the charge that the civil rights movement in Mississippi is Communist dominated.

Earlier in Alabama Joanne Grant, a Communist reporter, was active in Talladega in civil rights demonstrations, along with such other officially identified Communist Party members as Carl and Ann Braden and James A. Dombroski. Joanne Grant was represented in an injunction suit in Talladega by Victor Rabinowitz, a Communist Party attorney, fifth amendment Communist and identified Communist Party member.

Other identified Communist Party leaders known to have been active in civil rights activities in Alabama and the South include James E. Jackson, Joseph North and Mary Southard.

The Communist Party declared its involvement in the civil rights struggle on June 28, 1963, in a letter sent from THE WORKER, and signed by Louis Weinstock and James E. Jackson, to party members.

The Communist, in that letter, pleaded for financial support.

The following is an excerpt quoted from that letter:

"With the enfranchisement of the Negro masses in the South the Democratic Party will acquire an influx of millions of militant working-men and women, steeled in the great struggle of the civil rights revolution. These sworn foes of the Dixiecrats and fighting partisans of social progress all down the line, by their political action in 1964, may well contribute to giving our nation a genuine new birth of democracy.

"Nothing in the affairs of our nation is more important than this great struggle that is rolling over our country like a mighty wave.

"Our paper has spared nothing to bring you the story of, and the inspiration from, this great revolutionary democratic struggle which is making radical changes in our nation in our days. By so doing we have rendered a distinct and unique service to the unfolding struggle which is highly regarded and deeply appreciated by outstanding fighters on the front lines of the numerous battles."

The F.B.I., in a report issued last spring, took note of the Communist infiltration and leadership of civil rights action outside the South. The report covered Chicago, Cleveland, St. Louis, New York, San Francisco and Yellow Springs, Ohio, called names and listed incidents.

The following activity was outlined in that report:

CHICAGO

The Communists made efforts in 1963 to infiltrate the local CORE group. It pointed out that several local Communists were identified in picket line demonstrations at the Board of Education and at construction sites for temporary classrooms. Among those active was Charles McCord, one-time head of the 42nd Ward Communist Club, and associate of Claude Lightfoot, Communist Party vice chairman. Lightfoot, officially second in command of the Communist Party nationally, also took part in the demonstrations during January, 1964.

Another identified Communist active in the demonstrations was Eugene Feldman, one time editor of THE DAILY WORKER.

CLEVELAND

The mayor of Cleveland in April, 1964, sent to the U. S. Department of Justice a list of 31 persons active in civil rights demonstrations, who also were active in subversive organizations. In a story in the CLEVELAND PRESS of April 25, one man on the list was identified as Eric J. Reinthaler. Reinthaler was serving as co-chairman of CORE in Cleveland. He had been released from federal prison at Milan, Michigan on July 19, 1962, after serving a 15 month sentence for violation of the non-communist affidavit section of the Taft-Hartley Act. Reinthaler had previously served as Ohio Valley secretary of the Communist Party.

ST. LOUIS

CORE was active in leading the demonstrations in St. Louis. William S. Massingale, who also took active part in the CORE directed sit-ins was a Communist Party candidate for alderman in 1943, and was once vice-chairman of the Communist Party in Missouri.

NEW YORK

Jesse Gray, of Harlem, has been active in civil disorders in New York and led a rent strike in Harlem this year. He took the fifth amendment before the House Un-American Activities Committee on February 3, 1960, to questions of whether he had been a Communist Party member up until the morning of his testimony; whether he had been or was then an executive officer or representative of the Communist Party in Harlem. Gray was arrested in Chicago June 30, 1964, during a demonstration directed by ACT, a new and violent civil rights group.

(Gray, incidentally, has been featured on a recent national TV show on the Harlem riots, and advocated continued direct action by Negroes in violation of laws, court orders or police directives.

The same network has provided a forum for numerous incendiaries, including Malcolm X, of the Black Muslims, and Mrs. Victor Rabinowitz, who appeared on the show along with the parents of two of the slain civil rights workers in a documentary called "Search in Mississippi."

The major TV networks have shown bias and total irresponsibility in presentations of civil rights affairs, by allowing known communists and seditionists to speak unidentified before the American people, attacking our American institutions, our police and other constituted authorities, and further stirring up hatred, strife and lawlessness.)

SAN FRANCISCO

The report outlined civil rights activities in this West Coast City, in which more than 400 persons were arrested during sit-ins and demonstrations at hotels and automobile showrooms during March and April, 1964. It pointed out the demonstrators were neither peaceful nor law-abiding.

This predominately young group in San Francisco included such Communist or Communist associates as Tracy Sims, 18 year old militant Negro girl, who shares an apartment with Rosanne Forest, daughter of Jim Forest, one-time Communist Party leader in St. Louis, and with Linda Carlson, daughter of Frank Carlson, a long-time active Communist party functionary in Los Angeles. Rosanne Forest was among these arrested along with Tracy Sims. A number of others identified either as Communists or relatives of known Communist Party members, were active in San Francisco. These included Mark Comfort, son-in-law of Robert Black, identified in 1953 as a Communist Party member; Carl Granich, son of "WORKER" columnist Mike Gold; Nora Lapin, daughter of the late Adam Lapin, one-time correspondent for "THE DAILY WORKER"; Bettina Aptheker, daughter of Herbert Aptheker, identified communist and editor of the communist publication POLITICAL AFFAIRS. Also arrested were Terrence Conn and Mathew Hallinan, sons of Vincent Hallinan, San Francisco attorney and 1952 presidential candidate of THE PROGRESSIVE PARTY ticket. (The Progressive Party has been identified as the Communist Party's bid for political power under another name.)

OPEN INVOLVEMENT

The Communist Party in San Francisco did nothing to hide its activity in the civil rights field. It formed a new Communist youth group there, after transferring its organizational meeting from Chicago. Keynote speaker at the organization of the Communist group was Rev. Milton Galaminson, Brooklyn militant leader of school desegregation and advocate of "Mixing" by transporting Negro and white children by bus to all parts of the city to bring about this mixing. Galaminson has advocated unlawful acts of all kinds and was one of those given nation-wide exposure on July 29, on a national TV documentary along with Gray, James Farmer, of CORE, and others.

Among those who issued the call to form the Communist youth group were Tracy Sims and Michael Myerson, of the "Ad Hoc Committee to End Discrimination". The latter group organized the San Francisco demonstrations.

The close amalgamation of this Communist youth group with CORE, one of the most militant of the left-wing groups, was shown by the fact that the following members of CORE were identified in the Communist youth group in official press releases:

Robert Baum, CORE in Minneapolis

Edward Campbell, vice chairman of CORE in Bridgeport, Conn.

Edward Reftwich, CORE in Bridgeport, Conn.

Michael Sheidrick, CORE in Paterson, N. J.

The group took the name of "Du Bois Clubs of America". The name was in honor of W. E. B. DuBois, one of the NAACP founders and later an open and admitted member of the Communist Party of America.

YELLOW SPRINGS, OHIO

This is the home of Antioch College, almamater of many reds and noted Communist fronters. On March 14, 1964, following violent demonstrations by several hundred students, police had to use clubs and tear gas to break up the mob.

One of the prime ring-leaders arrested and placed under bond was Joni Rabinowitz, daughter of Victor Rabinowitz, identified earlier. Her father came from New York to offer his services in defense of the students, just as he had done when Joni was tried for perjury in Albany, Georgia, in November, 1963. Joni, at that time, had avowed she would defy the State Department ban on travel to Cuba.

We could go back further to identify such known red-fronters as Dr. Walter Bergman, of Illinois, and James Peck, an employee of CORE who led the Freedom Riders in a violence-punctuated bus trip into Alabama and the South in 1961.

We could point to the host of home-grown Communist or Communist-line followers, who have been active in the civil rights movement. Among those we would list Aubrey Williams, of Montgomery and now of Washington, who has been identified as a Communist and who has served on half a hundred red fronts, including the notorious Southern Conference Education Fund, and was recently honored by Communists in New York for his work in trying to abolish the House Un-American Activities Committee.

We could point to Clifford Durr, Montgomery attorney, and his wife, Virgina, both of whom have been active in many red front organizations. Clifford Durr and Williams were two of the signees of a petition to the 87th Congress in 1961, calling for the abolition of the House Committee on Un-American Activities. They were joined in this petition by a host of identified Communist and veteran fellow travelers, including Harry Bridges, Louis Untenmeyer, John M. Coe, Donald S. Frey, Dr. Linus Pauling ([redacted]), and Dr. Martin Luther King.

The facts beyond dispute prove that you can hardly speak of the so-called civil rights movement without mentioning the ever present, ever active Communist fronts which support it. One would have to disregard either the facts or truth to disassociate one from the other.

In other studies we have documented in depth the fact that the 1964 civil rights bill was copied from the Communist Party platform of 1928, and that two of its authors and sponsors, Rep. Emanuel Celler, of New York, and Sen. Paul H. Douglas, of Illinois, have records of long service to and association with the Communist conspiracy in America.

On January 29, 1964, F.B.I. Director Hoover appeared before the House Subcommittee on appropriations, in justification of the F.B.I.'s appropriation request for 1964. He dealt in much detail on the Communist program in America and the tactics employed to use the racial struggle to its own advantage.

On page 37 of that report, Hoover said:

"Currently, the Communist Party, U.S.A. is stressing such domestic issues as the racial struggle; the abolition of all internal security programs and of congressional committees investigating communism . . ."

On page 38:

"The party is always alert for domestic developments which it can exploit to add to its operating capital. A typical example occurred in May 1963, when a party official told the members of the party's national board that the racial unrest in this country presented an excellent opportunity to start a fund drive to raise up to $10,000 in order to finance Communist Party activities among Negroes . . ."

On page 40:

"Turning to the subject of Communist interest in Negro activities, the approximately 20 million Negroes in the United States today constitute the largest and most important racial target of the Communist Party, U.S.A. The infiltration, exploitation, and control of the Negro population has long been a party goal and is one of its principal goals today.

"In this drive, Negroes have, over the years, been subjected to intensive and extensive Communist agitation and propaganda. The Communist Party has always depicted itself to Negroes as the champion of social protest and the leader in the struggle for racial equality . . . Controversial or potentially controversial racial issues are deliberately and avidly seized upon by Communists for the fullest possible exploitation. Racial incidents are magnified and dramatized by Communists in an effort to generate racial tensions. As a result, such campaigns are actually utilized as a stepping-stone to extend Communist influence among the Negroes . . . The Communist Party is attempting to use the Negro movement, as it does everything else, to promote its own interest rather than the welfare of those to whom it directs its agitation and propaganda.

"The party is continually searching for new avenues in order to expand its influence among the negroes. In particular, it has sought ways and means to exploit the militant forces of the Negro civil rights movement. (emphasis supplied.)

"The number of Communist Party recruits which may be attracted from the large Negro racial group in this Nation is not the important thing. The old Communist principle still holds: 'Communism must be built with non-Communist hands'.

"We do know that Communist influence does exist in the Negro movement and it is this influence which is vitally important. It can be the means through which large masses are caused to lose perspective on the issues involved and, without realizing it, succumb to the party's propaganda lures." (emphasis supplied.)

These statements were made by Mr. Hoover several months before the riots brought his predictions to fullfillment.

In September, 1964, Gus Hall, head of the Communist Party, U.S.A., published a pamphlet called "THE ELEVENTH HOUR—DEFEAT THE NEW FASCIST THREAT." In this 22-page booklet, Hall makes much of the Communist Party's concern in civil rights, its part in pushing the Negro "FREEDOM NOW" movement. Hall expresses fear that conservative forces, "reactionaries" he called them, may prevail unless the militant left is more active. He blasts Goldwater, Gov. George Wallace, the F.B.I., the C.I.A., the Birch Society, and all others to the right of center.

"The racism of white supremacy is now mixed with the anti-democratic currents of fascism," Hall complains.

Further proof of the interest and involvement of the Communist in the Misissippi Project is furnished by the following excerpts from THE WORKER, official organ of the Communist Party, U.S.A.:

On September 22, 1964, page 3, of THE WORKER, was a story by Daniel Rubin, Communist youth leader, who was then in attendance at a Communist World Youth Forum, in Moscow. Rubin listed another American in attendance as Reginal Robinson, whom he identified as "among the leaders of SNCC in Mississippi". Carl Beloice, Publications Director of the DuBois Clubs of America, was also at the conference.

The August 4, 1964, edition of the Communist news organ carried a story on page 3, pointing out that newspapers, including the JACKSON CLARION AND LEDGER, had carried stories charging that Communists were active in Mississippi. The story pointed out that the newspaper article had charged that James Dann and Dale Gronemeier, both from Los Angeles, were pro-Communist and had Communist front records.

On the same page of THE WORKER, were separate stories and pictures on Mrs. Victoria Gray, leader of the Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party, and of Mrs. Fannie Lou Hamer, the party's candidate for election to Congress from the Second District. The article said Mrs. Hamer's candidacy was sponsored by SNCC.

On page one of the same paper on August 4, was a story date-lined Greenville, Mississippi, and written by one of the freedom workers. This shows the close contact between SNCC, the National Council of Churches, and the Freedom Democratic Party, all deeply involved in the registration drive:

". . . There is a minister and his wife (both about 60 years of age) from The National Council of Churches, and a librarian who came down to put our books in shape . . . I slept in the home of Mrs. Victoria Gray, candidate for the Senate of the Freedom Democratic Party which we are organizing and for which we are trying to get registered voters."

On August 30, 1964, page 10, THE WORKER carried a story about the death and funeral of Mrs. Gil Green (Lillian). Green and his wife were both noted Communists and Gil Green has held many of the highest offices in the Communist Party of America during the past 30 years. The story noted that it was requested no flowers be sent but that contributions be made to the Mississippi freedom fighters."

The SUNDAY WORKER, September 6, 1964, page 6, carried in its letters to the editor column, a letter from a student in Muncie, Indiana. The student sent a small contribution to THE WORKER, and apologized that he could not do more financially. Then he noted:

". . . I did manage to raise from a rally on July 8, enough contributions to send $25.00 and a donated typewriter (brand new) to COFO in Jackson, Mississippi . . ." (COFO is Council of Federated Organizations, an association of civil rights groups working in the Mississippi Project.)

Throughout the Summer and Fall, THE WORKER reported the work of the Mississippi Project volunteers in glowing accounts, clearly indicating the Communist Party's approval and support of this project. This, and the presence of so many identified Communist Party members and pro-Communist groups, proves beyond a doubt that the project has high priority on the Communist action agenda.

THE WORKER recently made an appeal for funds in which it said: "Many of you, too, support our right to publish because of our unwavering position on civil rights. For you know the role this newspaper has played since the time of freeing of the Scottsboro boys which marked the beginning of a new stage in the long crusade for full equality. This paper was the first to be fully integrated, has had Negro editors and staff members throughout the years, and today has as its editor-in-chief, James E. Jackson, a leader of the Negro people."

During the red-inspired "Mississippi Summer Project" Joseph L. Rauh, Jr., an attorney for Walter P. Reuther's United Auto Workers, was sent into that state by Reuther to furnish legal assistance to those arrested for violation of Mississippi's laws. Rauh, one of the founders, along with Hubert H. Humphrey, of the far-left Americans for Democratic Action (ADA), was further noted for his defense of convicted Communist perjurer, William Remington. Rauh will also be remembered as the man who worked so hard to throw Alabama and Mississippi delegates out of the Democratic National Convention in Atlantic City last August, and to seat the Negro Freedom Democratic Party.

It is interesting to note the frequent use of two expressions in almost all recent Communist publications and writing. These phrases are "FREEDOM NOW" and "ONE MAN, ONE VOTE". This latter slogan originated in Africa where both Chinese and Russian Communists were stirring up illiterate mobs to take over existing, non-Communist governments.

It is significant that this phrase, and the phrase "FREEDOM NOW" have become the rallying cry for the most militant civil rights groups in the United States. It is frightening that the U. S. Supreme Court adopted the "ONE MAN, ONE VOTE" policy in overthrowing long existing state legislative bodies, patterned after the two-house legislative body of the United States itself. The court has made it clear in recent opinions that it is using the Communist-created slogan as a legal yardstick in its decisions.

The pattern of the Comunist racial program clearly emerges in the present Civil Rights struggle and its violent by-products.

As a host of federal police push forward to enforce all the freedom-killing provisions of the Civil Rights Bill, and while militant Negroes and Communists push violent demonstrations and riots for ever more and more advantage over the white majority, we must at least know our enemy.

The facts establish beyond any peradventure of a doubt that the major role of the Communist in America in 1964, is being played out within the framework of civil rights.

THE PATH TO NEGRO FREEDOM IN THE UNITED STATES

BY

CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT

The Negro people in the United States in the last ten years have waged a relentless and unceasing struggle to batter down the walls of Jim Crow and segregation. Their efforts have been variously described as the "Civil Rights Revolution," and the "Negro Revolt," etc. It is no over-statement to say that this struggle in its entirety constitutes a growing and vibrant revolution.

Today, many important forces in the United States regard the solution of the Negro question as the central domestic issue of our time. This does not mean that problems such as peace, economic matters, civil liberties, etc, are regarded as secondary issues. On the contrary, these issues affect all Americans without regard to race, color or creed. What is seen in the Negro question is that none of the other questions can basically be solved, or for that matter, partially solved without a solution of the Negro question. The centrality of the Negro question is also international in scope. There has, perhaps, never been a minority group struggling for its rights that has engaged the attention of the world to the extent that the Negro question in the U.S. has. This is so for two very good reasons.

I. It has mirrored the intentions of American imperialism — its foreign policy, as no other question. It has enabled peoples struggling to end colonialism and imperialism to penetrate beyond its noble pretentions, and to see American imperialism as it really is.

2. On the basis of how American handles this problem, one can ascertain the relationship of forces within the United States and get a clearer idea of what the perspective is for America's participation in the world of today and tomorrow. It is therefore imperative that forces who are interested in progress within and without the United States keep constantly abreast of currents and trends in the struggle to end Jim Crow. The purpose of this article is to help throw some light in this connection. Its central purpose is to help define the present stage of the movement against racial segregation, to outline some of the difficulties, to point out some of the limitations at this stage of the struggle and indicate what will have to be done eventually to solve the problem.

The struggle to end Jim Crow in America has entered into a new stage of development. On the basis of the development of the past few years, objective conditions have matured to such a point that it is now possible to visualize a basic change in the situation in the next several years. This does not mean that this will be an automatic process. There will still be zigs and zags — advances and retreats. Nor can we overlook the fact that new elements can enter the picture and create a trend in reverse. Nonetheless, the objective framework in which the movement to end Jim Crow is being waged is favorable for achieving basic and fundamental gains. In order to discern what is new in the present situation, it will be useful to review some of the major developments of the last ten years.

In 1954, the United States Supreme Court ruled that segregation of Negro students is illegal and unconstitutional. The basis upon which the decision rested had an ominous meaning for the whole system of Jim Crow and segregation, for if segregation was illegal in the schools, then the legal and moral basis for segregation in any form is defensible. The Court's decision was widely heralded as historic, and there were many who felt that all that was needed was this decision. Those who held such views underestimated or did not comprehend what was going to be required to realize in life the full potential of the Court's decision. And while many sat back and were prepared to wait for the spontaneous execution of the Court's decision, this was not true of a substantial section of the Negro movement, especially in the South. It was in the context of the struggle to implement the decision of the U.S. Supreme Court that the Negro peoples' movement began to wage some of the most militant struggles that has been witnessed in our country for some time. This began with the murder in 1955 of Emmett Till in Mississippi, and evoked a world-wide response.

The struggle around the murder of Emmett Till was followed by the Montgomery bus boycott which will also go into the history as a great turning point in the age long struggle to abolish Jim Crow. From these two great events down through the past eight or nine years, the Negro people took the path of struggle under conditions that were very unfavorable. And yet, the struggle towards Negro freedom during these years went forward at an unprecedented pace.

The Negro movement abandoned concepts which previously had played an important part in its guidance. Among these concepts was the idea of gradualism. This was the point of view mainly of white liberals or others who were prepared to go so far and no further. This was the point of view which would compromise every situation in which the Negro question became involved. The Negro masses rejected this point of view, and as a consequence, often had to wage struggles not only against racist elements, but also against many white liberals and labor leaders.

Historically, the Negro movement had never been too militant in periods when it stood in isolation. The Negro people, constituting as they do a minority, has ever been conscious of the necessity of allies; but in this present situation, they were prepared and did wage struggles often with the knowledge that they would not get help from forces which heretofore were regarded as their staunchest friends. However, it would be a mistake to conclude that the Negro waged these struggles without allies. For something basic and fundamental had changed in world affairs which made it possible to do things that could not have been dreamed of twenty years ago.

What was new in this regard was the existence of the world's Socialist camp — foremost of which was the great Soviet people, and the over one billion and a half people who wrested freedom from the colonial and imperialist powers. Both combined their efforts against racialism in the United States. And so, while it was not possible initially to bring along allies on a local level, it was not possible to get allies in the world arena. And these forces who responded to the Negro's dramatic struggle, reacted on the internal situation in the United States and compelled many of them to support the struggles of the Negro peoples.

Typical of reactions from world forces was the statement made on September 19, 1957 in the United Nations by Mr. Ako Adjei, Minister of Justice of Ghana when he said:

> "...Ghana has the special responsibility and obligation towards all African peoples or peoples of African descent throughout the world who are struggling to free themselves from foreign rule, or even who, by the mere reason of their color, are denied the enjoyment of the every elementary civil and political rights which the Constitution of their own states guarantees to all their citizens. I should like to request all members of > the United Nations to take note that the new State of Ghana is concerned with freedom of all African peoples and also with the treatment that is meted out to all peoples of African descent, wherever they may be in any part of the world. We appeal to the conscience of the nations, great and small, to join in the crusade for the observance of fundamental human rights and freedoms which are enshrined in the Charter of the United Nations."

The world's pro-democratic movement was helped to understand its responsibilities by the heroic efforts of the Negro peoples themselves. Foremost among the conscious forces who pioneered this path of development and who won the underlying hatred of the American racists and many of their liberal apologists was Paul Robeson and William L. Patterson. The latter has spent a lifetime in mobilizing support for the embattled Negro in the United States. His efforts beganwith the fight to free the Scottsborough Boys and Angelo Herndon in the early 1930's. Comrade Patterson's last outstanding effort was a petition he drafted and presented to the United Nations in the form of a genocide petition. In it, he called for the intervention of the United Nations under the Chartef of Human Rights.

Paul Robeson also dramatized the Negro question in a speech which he made in Paris over twelve or thirteen years ago. In fact, the impact of Robeson's expose of the real situation of the American Negro to the peoples of Western Europe, the Socialist Camp, and the ex-colonial world was so great that the State Department sent many of its "Uncle Toms" to all parts of the world to exaggerate the progress being made by the U.S. Negroes.

Robeson's contribution to the ideological basis upon which the Negro movement presently operates prophetic and outstanding. He was among the first to call for a break with gradualism and to emphasize the power of Negro action. He accomplished this in his book, HERE I STAND. This book was written in 1958—long before the slogan "Freedom Now" was coined. In the chapter "The Time is Now", Paul wrote; "...Others, who proclaim to be our friends insist that the immediate enforcement of our lawful rights is not possible. We must wait, we are told, until the hearts of those who persecute us have softened—until Jim Crow dies of old age. This idea is called 'gradualism.' It is said to be a practical and constructive way to achieve the blessings of democracy for colored Americans. But the idea itself is but another form of race discrimination: in no other area of our society are lawbreakers granted an indefinite time to comply with the Amendments, the legal guarantee of our full citizenship rights, which says that the Constitution is to be enforced 'gradually' where Negroes are concerned.

"Gradualism" is a mighty long road. It stretches back 100 long and weary years, and looking forward, it has no end. Long before emancipation was won, our people had learned that the promises of freedom in the future could not be trusted, and the folk-knowledge was put down in the bitter humor of this song from slavery days:

> "My old master promised me
> When he died he'd set me free
> He lived so long that his head got bald
> And he gave up the notion of dying at all."

Further, in regards to the power of Negro action, Paul wrote:

> "How long? The answer is: As long as we permit it. I say that the Negro action can be decisive. I say that we, ourselves, have the power to end the terror and to win for ourselves peace and security throughout the land. The recognition of this fact will bring new vigor, boldness and determination in planning our program of action and new militancy in winning its goals."

The Negro masses armed with concepts such as these stormed the very gates of Jim Crow and segregation in America. And while many important victories were won, in an overall sense, the movement was unable to secure a major breakthrough. A few years ago, it became obvious that some new elements had to enter into the picture in order to effect more far reaching changes At that time, in summing up the situation, and on behalf of American Communists, I wrote a pamphlet entitled TURNING POINT IN FREEDOM ROAD.

"The quota system, commonly called 'tokenism' is the stage our country is in today. There is a general broad acceptance of the necessity to give a face-lift to racial and minority problems; but there is little disposition to make fundamental changes. Outside the Negro movement and some Left-wing forces, gradualism or 'tokenism' is still the order of the day."

On the basis of progress being made, we further wrote: "At the present rate of progress it would require another hundred years to end Jim Crowism in American life. This is the reality of the present situation as we prepare to celebrate the One Hundredth Anniversary of the issuance of the Emancipation Proclamation. This is the situation nine years after the historic Supreme Court ruling."

We also declared: "The power of Negro action has been a chief factor in wresting whatever civil rights concession the Negro people have won in this period. But it is now demonstratively clear that no basic and fundamental change in the Negro's condition can be effected without unity of the Negro and labor movements and all other democratic forces, or in an atmosphere of rabid, hysterical, irrational, unchecked anti-Communism."

From the foregoing, it should be clear that the question of allies or the insufficient response from allies was the brake jamming the flow of progress. However, in addition to this factor, or because of the absence of the former, the three branches of government did not work in harmony in promoting an end to Jim Crow practices.

At the outset of this article, we made the observation that the movement to end Jim Crow and segregation is in a new and higher stage of development. If this is true, then it would follow that a new situation has arisen in respect to the problem of allies and in the response of the various branches of government.

Let us see what is new in this regard. First and foremost, there has been a greater shift and a broadened base of support to the movement for civil rights in the United States. Secondly, there has been a marked improvement in the role of the Legislative and Executive branches of government. The material base under which both of these questions are influenced has changed considerably. Several years ago, our government as well as many liberal and labor forces opinions on the Negro questionwere shaped out of the international situation. And many of them operated from the premise of making minor changes in order to impress the rest of the world that America was more democratic than she actually was. Even the Supreme Court in providing the rationale for its historic decision in 1954 did so on the basis of the international situation. These people did not take a position against Jim Crow and segregation because itwas wrong or because they understood the inter-relationship of this question to other problems which were paramount in the minds of most Americans. Consequently, efforts flowing from this line of reasoning could only produce half-hearted gestures but new domestic problems have arisen in America, which have served to show the necessity to effect change in the status of the American Negro in the national interest.

First, let us take the moral question. American society is undergoing a moral crisis infinitely worse than anything we have witnessed since the axis powers were defeated.

We are living in a period which our whole national life has been touched by corruption. We are living in a period in which American youth finds it difficult to reconcile the world they live in with the preachments and practices of many of our elders. Small wonder that the first crack or breakthrough in terms of a mass response of white Americans came from youth who in their endeavor to live a useful life, a creative life, and a purposeful life found this expression by supporting the objectives of the civil rights movement. Students on the campuses throughout America responded to the call of Negro students in the South who staged the historic sit-in movements of 1960. The response of white youth to that struggle marked the beginning of a new situation in which the Negro got more substantial support from white Americans.

The breakdown in moral authority, and the revolt of youth, was largely conditioned by the hypocritical pretenses of our foreign policy and the condition of the Negro in the United States. A situation that long ago was recognized by the world community now spilled over and affected many forces inside the United States. The growing revolt of youth has had a profound effect on our educators and church leaders. So that what started out in 1960 as a student movement in support of civil rights objectives have now been enlarged to include prominent educators, and most of the clergy. The latter has come into the struggle because the very foundation of the church is being undermined. At a conference called "A conference on Race and Conscious" a couple of years ago, the church gave recognition to this important fact. In addition to the youth and church forces, significant changes are taking place in the labor movement. Several years ago, George Meany, President of AFL-CIO, rose on the floors of the American Federation of Labor and insulted one of the most revered leaders of labor and the Negro people,

A Phillip Randolph. Today, George Meany can no longer take such a position, and is compelled by circumstances to at least give lip service to the objectives over which Randolph was insulted. Some of the more advanced unions of AFL-CIO, who yesterday quietly sat back and did not challenge racist elements within the unions, now find it expedient to do so. Changes within the labor movement also arised out of a recognition of the fact that some of the concessions made by big business during the cold war years are nearing an end; and America is now beginning to face a host of economic problems which will challenge every ounce of strength that the labor movement can muster. Automation proceeding rapidly from one industry to another has not only increased unemployment, but is also resulting in job insecurity. Labor has begun to understand that the period ahead of us will require unity of the American working class—a large segment of which are black workers as never before.

Changes that are taking place in these various strata of the American white population reflect a growing understanding of their own self-interest in combatting the disease of Jim Crow and segregation. And this, too, is a prerequisite to bring about basic and lasting change in the status of American Negroes.

Another threat which has fed the understanding of self-interest of white Americans has been the growth of an ultra-right force which threatens to wipe out all that is decent and progressive. This challenge from the ultra-right in addition to other factors already discussed, brought to the polls in the 1964 elections the greatest array of power ever exerted upon the political power structure of our country. And in this broad peoples coalition, the Negro movement was one of the most potent forces.

It is this coalition which is new, it is this coalition which inspires confidence that in the period ahead some basic changes in the Negroes position in our society can be made.

The power of the new peoples democratic coalition has been exerted with telling effect since the elections. Take for example post election activity at Selma, Alabama. Selma, Alabama will undoubtedly go down in history as a historic turning point in the Three Hundred year struggle for Negro freedom. The Negro peoples movement headed by the Southern Christian Leadership Conference and the Southern Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee did not wait upon President Johnson to deliver on the mandate which he had received in the 1964 elections. They proceeded to organize action and activities to compel a change in the situation. At Selma, they organized a number of demonstrations, which were met by local officials of government with an unprecedented reign of terror. The terror became so great that this nation was aroused into motion to such an extent that the President of the United States, as well as Congress, was forced to respond as our government has not done since the almost forgotten days of the Civil War and Reconstruction. Thousands of clergymen, students and labor leaders joined with the Negro movement and conducted a historic march from Selma to Montgomery, Alabama. Thousands of nuns were participants in parades and demonstrations throughout the nation. Over 5,000 ministers went to Washington to prevail upon the president to speak out against the outrages at Selma.

All the foregoing indicates that the coalition that had gone to the polls and given a clear-cut mandate in the struggle for civil rights was alive and was not ready to wait upon Johnson or any other politician, but was prepared to take matters into their own hands. It is this growing independence of this advanced and progressive force that also inspires confidence in the future. The net effect of this movement was to force a vacillating Johnson to take a more clear-cut position on the right-to-vote movement in the South. The Civil Rights Bill which was enacted in 1964 evaded the matter of federal registrars who could go into the South and register voters when local authorities had refused to do so. But now under the impact of the growing movement, President Johnson was forced to place before the Congress a new bill designed to protect voter rights in the South. This time the registrar feature was included in the proposal. As of this date, the bill has not been passed although there is every good reason to believe that it will. And when it does, it will create the possibility to take a long step forward in creating the conditions for some very basic changes in regards to the civil rights of Negro citizens. It will help lay the foundation of completing the bourgeois democratic revolution in America. And as such, it will usher in a new stage in the Negro Liberation Movement.

What will be the content of this new stage? The key to it is the enfranchisement of the Negro voter in the South. This coupled with a more effective usage of the Negro vote in the North will create the conditions for widely expanding Negro representation into every area of American political life.

In the South, this will result in the election of Negroes as mayors, sheriffs, councilmen, state legislators, congressmen and in some instances, state wide officials, etc. This process will also likewise take place in the North where in many of the large industrial cities of the North, the Negro vote is already the balance of power. And no doubt in the next decade or so, the Negro vote will be decisive in such major centers as New York City, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Chicago, Detroit, St. Louis and on to the West Coast and to places like Los Angeles and San Francisco. To secure the Negro vote in the South and to use the vote more effectively in the North will not only result in a broadened base of Negro representation, but will also lead to an acceleration of the process of a fundamental political realignment in the country. In the first place, it would result in the elimination of the Dixiecrats of the South from the main arteries of American political life. This force has for manyyears represented one of the mainstays of American reaction. To eliminate them from the political structure would deliver a telling blow against reaction generally and strengthen immeasurably progressive forces. Another result of this new situation would be the emergence of new political forces from the South... forces that would be more in tune with progressive policies generally. And just as this effect would be secured in the South, conversely, the same could be said for the North. A widely expanded Negro power lined up with labor and other progressive forces would result in changes in the composition of the present politicians who hold public office throughout the North.

Thus, the main content at this stage of the struggle would result in building a more representative form of government. This is a development which could lead to the formation of an anti-monopoly government and eventually to a socialist America.

While we are now presently engaged in the struggle to realize a more democratic and representative government, to eliminate the main vestiges of Jim Crow and segregation, this stage of development is by no means guaranteed. There are many roadblocks on the road to progress, two very important things stand out that can and will retard the full realization of the potential we have been discussing.

In this connection, the question of war and peace is decisive. There is a growing understanding in the country of the interrelationship of the issues of peace and civil rights. Heretofore, the peace forces concerned themselves almost exclusively with matters of foreign policy, and rarely took a stand on the struggle for civil rights. Conversely, the civil rights movement did not understand the relationship of these two great issues and rarely took a stand on matters of foreign policy. In fact, there are many Negro leaders who have sought to exploit the cold war for purposes of self-advancement. In the name of integration, many Negroes have been given positions of prominence inorder to help the American imperialists carry out their predatory aims to enslave other peoples. However, since the elections, and since the events at Selma, there has been a general coagulation of peace and civil rights forces.

Peace forces spoke out emphatically around the events at Selma; and there has been a growing challenge to the conduct of American foreign policy by civil rights leaders. This was expressed by the statement of the big six in respect to our governments policy in the Congo. This has been expressed by outstanding civil rights leaders, like A. Phillip Randolph, Martin Luther King, John Lewis and countless others around our present policy in the South Vietnam and the Dominican Republic. Martin Luther King's comment "What would it benefit Negroes to win the right to be served a glass of milk at a desegregated lunch counter only to learn that it has strontium 90 in it," or the comment of his wife addressing an audience of some 18,000 people in New York City, where she declared, "What good will it do us to have equal rights for all if there is no world left to enjoy them in," are typical of what is happening.

Statements such as these reveal the growing maturity of the civil rights movement in respect to the necessity for peace. There can be no doubt that the escalation of the war in South Vietnam, the occupation of the Dominican Republic has already slowed down the pace of the civil rights struggle. Prior to the escalation of the war in South Vietnam, several months ago, President Johnson called for the speedy enactment of a right-to-vote law. Meanwhile government preoccupation with these unpopular and unjust wars and the necessity for utilizing southern Dixiecrat support forthem has slowed down even this law, which was generally conceded to already be in the bag. Thus, one of the main obstacles to the speedy realization of the first stage on the road to Negro freedom is to overcome the aggressive imperialist policy pursued by our government.

The second obstacle standing in the way of pregress is the existence of an ultra-right wing force which if allowed to come to power, or to influence other forces to a large extent, will not only prevent further gains, but can set back the movement for generations to come — Let no one make any mistake about that. Further, let no one make a mistake of under estimating the possibility of this force coming into power.

These forces were given a decisive defeat at the polls in the Presidential elections; but it would be wrong to conclude that the danger is over. In the past election period, the beast badly wounded is striking back with greater ferociousness than ever.

Some of the ultra-right policies in foreign affairs have been embraced in part by the Johnson administration. It is evident that they have people in high places of industry, government and the military. The film "Seven Days In May" which depicted the military establishment plotting to kill the president, and to establish a military dictatorship in the United States was no idle dream. No doubt, there are forces in the United States who have this objective in mind; and as their position become more andmore desperate, this danger will increase. Our government operating through the C.I.A. has helped to overthrow many popularly based governments by military forces and means. It could happen here.

The virus of anti-Communism also constitutes a major weapon in the hands of the reactionaries against civil rights. Notwithstanding substantial progress by Democratic forces in recognizing how anti-Communism is used to destroy and weaken all progressive movements and advances. This is still a very potent counterrevolutionary force. At the present moment, there is a renewed onslaught against the civil rights organizations. It takes the form of red baiting and claims of Communist infiltration. This weapon is being used not only by the worst reactionaries, but also by so-called liberal elements. The latter in many instances pushed by more militant Negro forces into greater activity seek to stop the pressure by yelling Communist infiltration.

A good example of this is observable in the reaction of many northern liberal church forces who recently entered the civil rights struggles, but whose forces are also fearful of the struggle going faster and with less compromises than they should like to see. So they together with right-wing forces join hand in hand to brand this or that organization as being Communist led or Communist infiltrated.

Unfortunately some of the civil rights leaders, especially the more conservative and weak-kneed ones succomb to this propaganda. Some even collaborate with the F.B.I. in helping to determine who among their cadre is a Communist and who is not. As long as this state of affairs exist, the civil rights movement will not be able to make substantial headway. For witch hunts inside civil rights organizations can have only one effect, namely, to weaken them. It leads to removal of some of the most dedicated and talented civil rights fighters from participation. It creates greater passivity in others who see what happens to those who are more outspoken and less compromising. It fosters disunity of civil rights organizations individually and collectively. Such a situation can only aid those who want Jim Crow to continue.

Another obstacle of great importance is the terror in the South, conducted by the Ku Klux Klan. A good right-to-vote law can be passed by Congress and still the full potential of the Negro vote could not be brought to the polls because in many instances in order to do so, the voter would almost have to take his own life in his or her hands. So until a condition has been created where the federal government will give maximum protection to the Negro who cherishes his rights, we cannot expect the fullest utilization of the right-to-vote. Thus, the struggle for peace, merged with the struggle against terror in the South are prime prerequisites in order to realize a more representative form of government. To combat terror in the South represents one of the weakest points in the Federal government's position. There has been little or no disposition by it to afford such protection. Troops have been called out in extreme emergency situations; but meanwhile vacuums have been left where terrors against individual citizens have proceeded without federal intervention in any form whatsoever. Known muderers of civil rights workers in the South have been released by Ku Klux Klan packed juries, while the Federal government stood by and did nothing to guarantee that these muderers pay the full penalty of the law for their crimes.

There are those who argue that the Federal government is limited and lacked power to bring these culprits to the bar of justice. For those who betray such ignorance or who for other reasons seek to evade responsibility, let us quote from a law, which was enacted by the federal government in 1871, and which has never been repealed, reads thus:

> "Whenever insurrection, domestic violence, unlawful combinations or conspiracies in any state so obstructs or hinders the execution of the laws thereof, the United States, as to deprive any portion or class of the people of such state of any of the rights, privileges, or immunities or protection named in the Constitution and secured by the laws for the protection of such rights, privileges and immunities and the Constitutional authorities of such state are unable to protect, or for any cause fail in or refuse protection of people in such rights, such facts shall be deemed a denial by such state of the equal protection of the laws to which they are entitled under the Constitution of the United States; or whenever any such insurrection, violence, unlawful combination or conspiracy, opposes or obstructs the laws of the United States or the due course of justice under the same, it shall be lawful for the President, and it shall be his duty to take such measures by the employment of the militia or the land and naval forces of the United States, or of either, or by any other means as he may deem necessary for the suppression of such insurrection, domestic violence or combination."

From the foregoing, it should be clear to all people of good will that the legal basis exists for federal intervention against terror in the South. But, if there is no intervention or a limitation on whatever intervention does take place, this is due to a lack of will to do what is required to end Jim Crow and segregation in America; and in this regard, only an aroused American people on a sustained basis can compel the Johnson administration or any other administration to do what the situation requires to be done.

To sum up the main hurdles to overcome tokenism and to advance the struggle for civil rights to a higher level are:

End the imperialist policies of our government and to promote world peace.

Defeat the policies and forces of the ultra-right, and prevent America from taking the path to fascism

Overcome the virus of anti-Communism and promote the unity of all civil rights forces

Force the Federal government to protect the lives of freedom fighters in the South and to protect the Constitutional rights of all citizens.

While the stage of the struggle to secure bourgeois rights has not been guaranteed, it is imperative that advanced forces should begin to make assessments of the present status of things and to define what will require a Socialist reorganization of society. It is insufficient for Communists and other left forces to merely state what is achievable under Capitalism. However, we should warn against so much preoccupation with only what is possible under Socialism, especially if it leads to neglecting to do what is necessary under capitalism. So, we should combine at all times the struggles for what is realizable today and to outline a clear perspective for what will be required tomorrow. This is an urgent necessity. For the Negro movement has proceeded too long along pragmatic lines. Outside of the Communist and other left-wing forces or extreme nationalist elements no one has advanced a fundamental comprehensive approach to the solution of the problems. The civil rights organizations have been contented to throw out general slogans such as "Freedom Now" or "Free by 66" without any presentation or even discussion of what will be required to implement these general slogans. Most of these organizations operate on the premise that Negro equality can be achieved within the framework of the Capitalist system, and that is one of the reasons why none of them have come up with a comprehensive, scientific plan. This discourse is therefore intended to help open up a discussion along these lines.

This now brings us to the question of what is most likely to be achieved at this stage of the struggle.

Is it possible to win freedom and equality in the general framework of the capitalist system? We Communists answer categorically, "No."

However, we do not underestimate the nature of the gains that are possible without a socialist reorganization of American society. The gains can be substantiated and can set the stage for eventually solving the whole problem of racial inequality.

During the period in which we eliminate the Dixiecrats as a potent political force in which a general political alignment of forces take place, and which will consolidate the power of the more advanced, liberal and progressive forces, it is conceivable that the entire legal structure of Jim Crow and segregation can be smashed. It is conceivable that equal opportunities can be established on a very broad basis and affect every area of American life.

It will be possible to broaden the base of Negro representation. And in this respect, the Negro people can share considerable power with labor and other forces in the political arena. As a consequence of this development, they will help legislate laws to eliminate Jim Crow and will participate in the enforcement sector of the government to such an extent that compliance with the law can and will be widely enhanced. It will be possible to end tokenism in almost all fields of human endeavor. Substantial gains can be registered politically, socially and economically. Bourgeois democratic rights which has existed for almost all other components which make up the American nation can be won for Negroes and other minorities.

But even with these far-reaching changes, still the Negro will not be equal or necessarily free. To achieve this goal as socialist reorganization of society will be required.

There are many compelling reasons why a socialist canbest advance the pursuit of Negro freedom. However, in this discussion we will confine ourselves to a few basic propositions.

First of all lot us define the concept of equality and freedom. There are those who reduce this struggle merely to the concept of establishing equal rights or equal opportunity. To achieve these goals will require some far-reaching changes in our society; and of course, to achieve them will be of no small importance. However, to establish equal rights or equal opportunity after 3 hundred years of exploitation and super-exploitation will not equate freedom or equality. From this it follows that a whole number of special approaches are required to achieve full freedom and equality. First of all let us discuss the concept of freedom. Engels once defined it as "Freedom is the Recognition of Necessity." But for our purposes, we will add: Freedom means the power to effect decisions. Freedom means the power to defend decisions freely arrived at. Freedom is not something that can be given. You either have it or you don't. And if there is some force or power giving concessions, such a force can always cancel out what has been given. The old folks among my people use to say "The Lord giveth, and the Lord taketh; and so it is in present day America. To paraphrase this, one can say that the power that established Negro inequality, unless eliminated from the power structure can always be in position to cancel out whatever gains have been obtained. A good example of this point was the reconstruction period in the south. During this period, northern industrial capitalist interest, in order to consolidate their power over the defeated slave holders entered into an alliance with the ex-slaves. As a result of this alliance, Negroes achieved a large measure of participation in the political arena. In fact, the struggle being waged presently is to restore a condition which existed almost one hundred years ago. Some call the coming period a second reconstruction. But as we prepare for a second reconstruction, we must bear in mind that at a certain point of that period, the Negro was betrayed. The power passed by Negroes in the Reconstruction era was due to the sufferance of northern capitalism. And, when it suited the purposes of the financial oligarchs to restore so-called peace in the south, to take over the dominant positions of the economy in the South, the Negro was consigned to the tender mercies of the Ku Klux Klans.

The main lessons of the Reconstruction period show that a shift in class power will be required for lasting and permanent gains for the Negro Revolution. It shows that securing political powers are not enough, and that without economic power, political power is always in danger of being rendered meaningless.

The African nations are finding that it is not enough to have sovereign independent governments. They are also learning that unless they have control of their economies, and the power of decision thereof, that they are not really free and independent. In many cases, such governments reduced to mere puppets doing the bidding of outside forces in other countries. An example of this is xthe situation in the Congo. There the Belgian imperialist gave the Congo its independence. But simutaneously retained control of most of the economic enterprises. And from these bases, they were able to continue to rule through its puppet, Tshombe in the Kantanga Province. Later, they together with other imperialist powers, including the United States, were able to bring the whole of the Congo back into a subservient position.

Another lesson from the Reconstruction period was the failure in that period to establish an economic base from which to promote Negro freedom and equality. The central economic demand of "Forty acres and a mule" for every ex-slave was not carried out. Instead, the Negro Freedman was left without means to advance his status.

Today as we approach a second reconstruction period, we must ponder over these lessons well and not repeat what was done before. It is within the grasp of the Negro movement in this period to break the power of the forces that have held us in bondage. We have already shown that to secure a more representative government will require the elimination of the Dixiecrats from the power structure; but it will not be enough to eliminate the Dixiecrats, for behind them stand a much greater power, namely, the big monopolists. They own and direct most of the economy of the country and today's South. When we break the power of monopoly capitalism, and eventually the entire capitalist class, the conditions will have been created for a permanent solution to the problems of the Negro.

Socialism, therefore, is a basic requirement to make permanent those gains which have already been made under capitilism. Socialism will make it possible for the Negro to share in the entire power structure, including ownership of the means of production. Complete equality can be achieved only when the Negro share in the nations resources commensurate with his numbers and contributions. For it is in this area that three hundred years of inequality has taken its heaviest toll.

This is understandable when we realize that the very object of Negro slavery and oppression has been to create super profits for the ruling capitalist class. During these 3 centuries, the Negro, first in a system of slavery and later in conditions of semi-slavery, created untold billions of dollars which went to build up the superstructure of American capitalism.

The American working class, too, was robbed of a large share of its labor. But in the case of the Negro, a whole people was superexploited.

As a consequence of slavery and racial discrimination, the Negro is the only large and significant minority that does not have one single voice in the economic councils of the nation. He does not own or control a single industry in the country. Whatever small capitalist class exist is mainly in some areas of distribution, and some insignificant production. These capitalists can and do exist only by the suffrance of the white ruling class.

Almost all the various groups that built America have a share of ownership in one or another major industry in our economy. True, the workers of these groups are exploited. But their exploitation is nothing compared to the super exploitation of the Negro.

It has been this lily white economic wall in America that has lead many Negroes to conclude that the only way to achieve equality is for the Negro to separate and build his own country and government. Obviously, this is no answer. The problem is difficult, but can be solved, in this country and with other forces. It can be overcome in the framework of a socialist society. It is too late in the day for Negro capitalist to become an integral part of the capitalist economy. For we are living in the twilight of capitalism and facing the rising sun of socialism over the horizon. The age of free competition under capitalism has long since passed. Capitalism today is monopoly capital, where control and ownership of the economy has been centralized into the hands of the few. This group of economic royalist are not about to take any measures to pay back the countless billions of dollars which they have robbed from Negroes for over three centuries.

Sometimes under the pressure of the masses, some of these financial tycoons may make some concessions in their hiring practices, in promotions, etc.

They may even appoint one or two Negroes to the board of directors to this or that firm, but they will never give equal voice and authority or a significant share of ownership, or a leading role in the management of the economic machinery. This is the built-in verdict of capitalism.

This situation can be changed only when this class of private owners have been removed from the controls. It is only when a new class, the working class, take over the march of history, can this situation be changed. For the working class /when come to power, it will nationalize all the major industries and make them the property of the American people.

It is in this context that the American Negro can gain a measure of ownership in the economy of the country. It is in this context that he will become a powerful force within the entire power structure, and will no longer have to rely on concessions or the good will of any force. It is in the context of a socialist America that the Negro will finally be free. It is in this context that the slogan "Freedom Now" can become a reality.

REPORT OF SELECT COMMITTEE

Report of Highlander Folk School Investigating Committee

Mr. Dement moved that the Highlander Folk School Investigating Committee report be approved and spread on the Journal, which motion prevailed, and is as follows:

Your Joint Committee appointed pursuant to House Joint Resolution Number 30 composed of Senator Barton Dement, Senator Lawrence T. Hughes, Representative Harry Lee Senter, Representative J. Allen Hanover and Representative Cartter Patten beg leave to make the following report in accordance with instructions contained in said heretofore mentioned House Joint Resolution.

Your committee would respectfully show that, immediately after its appointment, meetings were held at which time Senator Barton Dement was elected Chairman, Representative Harry Lee Senter was elected Vice-Chairman, and Representative Cartter Patten was elected Secretary. Your committee secured the services of J. H. McCartt, District Attorney General of the 19th Judicial Circuit, as Special Counsel pursuant to the authority contained in said House Joint Resolution. Your committee would further respectfully show to the members of the 81st General Assembly that rules were adopted and an outline for the investigation was promulgated. Pursuant to said rules and outline, your committee, sided by the excellent services of the Tennessee Bureau of Identification and the Tennessee Highway Patrol, met at Tracy City, Grundy County, Tennessee, on February 21, 1959, and in closed session heard the testimony of Malcolm Fults, County Judge of Grundy County; the Reverend C. H. Kilby; Professor E. J. Cunningham, Superintendent of County Schools for Grundy County; Harrington M. Scruggs; and Herbert Baggenstoss, Editor of the local newspaper. Your committee would also show to the members of the General Assembly that they, along with the General Counsel and investigators visited the Highlander Folk School grounds and buildings and examined the library.

Thereafter, your committee adjourned for a further hearing in Tracy City, Tennessee, on February 26, 1959, at which time your committee heard the testimony in open hearing of Emmett Thomas, Carl T. Geary, L. C. Goodman, Robert A. Duncan, Mrs. Violet Burnett Crutchfield, Albert Nunley, Clarence E. Kilgore, Roy Layne, Elston Clay, Sheriff of Grundy County; Rudolph Brown, Henry Dyer, Ford Cox, W. P. Barnes, Miss May Justus, Professor David E. Underdown, Wilford Earl Cross and received a written statement from one Robert A. Degen. Thereafter your committee adjourned until the 4th day of March, 1959, at which time your committee, in a public hearing held in the War Memorial Auditorium in Nashville, Tennessee, took the testimony of Myles Horton, the Executive Director of the Highlander Folk School; Ed Prince; Bruce Bennett, Attorney General for the State of Arkansas; Major Thomas R. Thompson; W. H. Hamm; and Clarence Kilgore. In addition, your committee viewed a motion picture made at the "School." Thereafter, your committee adjourned until March 5, at which time the public hearing was continued by taking additional testimony from the said Myles Horton and receiving a number of affidavits, all of which testimony, pictures, exhibits, affidavites, etc., are made a part of the record and are either filed or will be filed in the State Library and Archives for public inspection of same under the normal rules and regulations governing the filing of material in said Library. All told, your committee spent a total of approximately twenty-two hours in the taking of testimony and, in addition, would respectfully show that they have examined a great deal of other written and documentary evidence obtained from interested parties by their Chairman.

In summary, the testimony taken by your committee in the limited time allowed is as follows:

The Highlander Folk School was attempted to be organized by Myles Horton, Elizabeth Hawes, Rupert Hampton, James Dombrowski and Malcolm Chisolm when they applied for a Charter of Incorporation under the General Welfare Corporation Laws of the State of Tennessee in the year 1934. Of the five mentioned, the testimony indicates that James Dombrowski, who was connected with the "School" as late as 1945, and Malcolm Chisolm were, or had been members, of various organizations which have been cited as subversive by the Attorney General of the United States, or by various committees of the United States Congress investigating un-American activities. There were also admissions on the part of Myles Horton that he, himself, had been a member of some organizations listed as subversive. The particular purposes for which this Charter was obtained are "the support of the Highlander Folk School, adult workers education, the training of rural and industrial leaders and general academic education."

The Charter obtained by the Secretary of State was recorded in Fentress County, Tennessee, prior to its recordation in the office of the Secretary of State. As far as your Committee was able to determine, no actual "School" business was ever conducted in Fentress County. There was testimony to the effect that a school building was started, but never completed, and the work was abandoned soon after the foundation was poured in Fentress County. Shortly thereafter, headquarters were set up in Grundy County, Tennessee, near a community known as Summerfield. The "School" consists of a large home occupied by Myles Horton, a small and rather inadequate library, another large residence having been originally owned by Dr. Lillian Johnson, and several other small out-buildings. Your committee learned that the majority of the land including that upon which the Director's home is built was donated by Dr. Lillian Johnson by Warranty Deeds recorded in the Registrar's office of Grundy County. It should further be pointed out that this land was donated to the Highlander Folk School, Inc.

Your committee learned that this "School" was not and is not a "School" in the normal sense of the word. No regular classes are held. They maintain no regular full-time faculty, no regular standard curriculum and do not carry on the usual activities as one would normally associate with school activities. No diplomas, certificates or degrees of any kind are awarded.

Your Committee would respectfully show that, from the beginning of its inception until the early 1940's, Myles Horton and a few regularly associated "patrons" of the "School" concentrated their efforts upon local union activities. It appears from the testimony that most residents of Grundy County had been told that the "School" was founded for the purpose of preserving their local culture and customs. As far as your committee was able to determine, little or nothing along this line of endeavor was ever attempted or accomplished. It became apparent to your committee that very few people of Grundy County have ever so much as set foot on the grounds of the Highlander Folk School, but, on the contrary, avoided any connection therewith due to the general feeling against the "School's" activities in the community, and its reputation. As was stated, the early years of the "School" were concerned with union activities, and Myles Horton and several other of the so-called "faculty" members spent a great deal of their time in organizing "sit-down strikes" and activities of a similar nature in Tracy City and surrounding communities. Most of the union activities were primarily concerned with organizing persons working for the W. P. A. and related Federal Relief Agencies during the depression. It was further learned that other members of the "School" had attempted to interfere with the local office of the Welfare Department in the State of Tennessee, and that, though these efforts on the part of Myles Horton and his whole faculty met with little or no success in Grundy County, they were continued for a number of years.

The attention of the "School" was shifted from this field of social unrest to another sometime in the 1940's, that being the problems concerned with segregation and integration and has continued along this line until the present day. The "School" seems to be more interested in the questions that bring about community unrest and chaos rather than in the advancement of the science and arts of education. It is a significant fact that there are no negroes in Grundy County and consequently no problem of segregation or integration. The "School," through its directors, appears to seize upon events of national importance that they have no connection with and invite persons involved to the school for informal talks; thereafter, pamphlets and other advertising media are prepared and mailed to the "School's" long list of contributors, the vast majority of whom, the Committee feels, are well meaning citizens. The natural result of such activities appears to be large contributions which, as of the fiscal year ending September 30, 1959, exceeded $114,000, according to the records of the "School" as submitted by its director, Myles Horton.

With reference to the financial condition of the "School" and its property, it should be noted that, though the director, Myles Horton, prior to the investigation, appeared to be willing and ready to give the Committee all information, it was very difficult to obtain a complete financial statement of the "School", and your Committee found that there are a number of funds and bank accounts of undetermined amount and purpose, such as a pension fund of $9,000 (or in excess of $9,000) which has no known beneficiary. Furthermore, many expense items are of questionable nature. The Director was unable to name or produce the name of all the banks used by the "School." While the Director stated that he used two depositories in California because of a higher interest rate, was unable to tell the Committee the amount of said interest rate. He stated that he had forgotten the names of the banks outside of one in Sewanee, Tennessee and one in Van Nuys, California. The Committee feels that this is a rather strange attitude for the Director of a tax-exempt institution to maintain, and the Committee further felt that the Legislature would sanction the investigation of the Financial condition of the "School" from a viewpoint of taxation, since the Highlander Folk School is enjoying the privileges of a tax-exempt educational institution organized under the General Welfare Corporation Law. Certain information has now been furnished the Committee with reference to the assets of the "School", but no detailed statement of expenditures has ever been furnished.

Your Committee would also show that a deed signed by Myles Horton and May Justus as Directors was executed in August, 1957, transferring a large portion of the property of Highlander Folk School to Myles Horton, individually, upon which is situated a large home occupied by Myles Horton and his family which land was given to the "School" in 1935 by Dr. Lillian Johnson. The corporate resolution as is outlined in the deed states that this property was transferred and sold to Myles Horton for a valuable consideration, though the sum is left blank. Miss May Justus, one of the signers of the deed, stated in substance that she could not remember how much money, if any, passed, but she understood that it was being made because Dr. Lillian Johnson desired Horton to have the property personally, but she was unable to explain why Dr. Johnson made the conveyance in 1935 to the "School" if she wanted Myles Horton to have it. Myles Horton, on the other hand, stated to the Committee that he received the property for "back salary," but when asked to produce minute entries showing his salary over the years and account records showing what he was paid so that the Committee could determine the amount of back salary, he finally admitted that he had received all of the salary and maintenance to which he had been entitled and that this gift was really in the form of a personal bonus. He stated, however, that the "School" was protected because he had leased the property back to the "School." Mr. Horton's personal income tax return for the year 1957 bears this out in that it indicates that this property was "accepted in lieu of salary" for the year 1957.

When asked to produce the "lease," he showed the Committee a two or three line document which, in legal effect, was a one year lease with the right of either party thereafter to withdraw. It was concluded by the Committee that since the one year has elapsed, Mr. Horton may withdraw at any time and sell his property. It should also be pointed out that all upkeep, taxes and insurance on his home are paid by the "School." It should also be noted that all bank accounts and funds of the "School" are under the direct control of Myles Horton and May Justus, the same two signers mentioned above. Your Committee was informed by Myles Horton and May Justus that there was another Board of Directors or Trustees who authorized this transfer and, though their names are in the record, neither Myles Horton nor Miss Justus were able to produce formal minutes showing the presence of these people at any meeting nor their vote on this particular subject. In connection with Miss Justus' activities, it should be stated that she appeared before the Committee voluntarily for the purpose of taking issue upon the question of the "School's" benefit to Grundy County. Your Committee permitted her to make a full statement, and she very proudly stated that in the twenty-six years of the "School's" existence, they had organized a canning society, a quilting club, and had taught several children music in Grundy County. Your Committee could find no evidence that these activities are in existence today or since 1934.

With reference to "School" activities, there have been none whatsoever at Highlander Folk School from January 1, 1959, to the date of this report and during the year 1958, not more than 50 days were consumed for various types of meetings and get-togethers which were attended chiefly by persons living beyond the confines of the State of Tennessee. The Committee was told that the "School" was engaged at the present time in some sort of voting registration activity on an island in the State of South Carolina.

In the limited time in which your committee had to conduct this investigation as much attention as could be given was devoted to the alleged subversive activities of the "School". A great deal of circumstantial evidence, which is competent, was unfolded before the Committee in this direction to the effect that the "School" is a meeting place for known communists or fellow-travelers. Within the last several years there have been people directly connected with the "School," either as members of its Board of Directors or Trustees, or as visitors, or as guest "lecturers or entertainers," who have in their past history, a long association with so-called Communist front organizations which have been branded as subversive by either the United States Attorney General or by various Committees and subcommittees of the United States Congress investigating un-American activities. Some of these people are James Dombrowski, Abner W. Berry, Martin Luther King, Donald L. West, John B. Thompson, Aubrey Williams, Pete Seiger, and others. It is significant that no witness other than Myles Horton had ever seen the American flag fly over this "School" in the twenty-six years of its existence, and he, only on a few occasions. It should also be noted here that there has been testimony in previous investigations before various Committees of the United States Congress and independent organizations wherein Myles Horton and the "School" have been accused of subversive or Communistic activities, but Mr. Horton vehemently denies such accusations stating, in substance, that either the witnesses against him were not telling the truth, were mistaken, or that he had no knowledge that the people or organizations with whom he was associated were subversive. Your Committee feels that it is not within its province under House Joint Resolution Number 30 to make a finding of fact. It is felt that our duty was to make an investigation in aid of the proper authorities and law enforcement agencies of the State who may deem, on the basis of the evidence heretofore presented, that a further investigation or other action is necessary.

Before submitting our recommendation, the Committee wishes to express its appreciation and thanks to J. H. McCartt, our Chief Counsel, whose untiring efforts on the short notice given him and the meager amount of time with which to prepare his case, did a most magnificent job. The Committee also wishes to thank Dr. William T. Alderson whose aid to the Committee is most appreciated. The Committee also wishes to thank Mr. W. E. Hopton of the Tennessee Bureau of Identification, and the Tennessee Highway Patrol who were most accommodating and helpful in their assistance to this Committee in the conducting of this investigation.

Your Committee respectfully shows to members of the General Assembly in accordance with House Joint Resolution Number 30 the above detailed statement of facts and evidence obtained by your Committee and reiterates that the entire record of these proceedings with exhibits have been or will be filed with the Library and Archives Division of the State.

In accordance with Section IV of House Joint Resolution Number 30, your committee respectfully shows that to-date in our investigation, we have found in existence a very questionable activity on the part of the Administration of the Highlander Folk School and its members. Your Committee specifically points out that the Highlander Folk School has attempted to be organized as an eleemosynary, non-profit, general welfare corporation under the laws of the State of Tennessee and is presently enjoying a tax-exempt status as a result. Your Committee finds that one of the chief purposes of this existence as heretofore stated is the raising of funds, the use of which and the whereabouts of a large portion thereof being unexplained to the Committee. Furthermore, your committee has uncovered uncontradicted evidence of highly questionable practices, such as the transfer of the valuable property belonging to the "School", to its Executive Director, dealing with himself, and with no evidence of a valuable consideration. Under these circumstances, your committees feels that it is imperative that we recommend to the members of the 81st General Assembly that action be taken under the Statutes of the State of Tennessee, specifically Section 23-2801 through 23-2831 of the Tennessee Code Annotated, dealing with usurpation of office franchise and of a vacation of corporate charters. In this connection, we wish to quote Section 23-2809 which is as follows: "Officers entitled to bring suit—Suit is brought by the Attorney General for the District or County when directed so to do by the General Assembly, or by the Governor and Attorney General of the State concurring."

By reason of such statutes, your committee specifically recommends to the General Assembly that they pass a resolution directing the Honorable Albert F. Sloan, District Attorney General for the 18th Judicial Circuit of Tennessee, that he institute suit for the revocation of the charter of the Highlander Folk School by reason of its violation of the statutes of the State of Tennessee hereinafter mentioned and such others as he thinks may have been violated.

1. Section 48-1104 of the Tennessee Code Annotated provides that "all non-profit corporations shall acknowledge and record their charters or amendments thereto in manner and form prescribed for private corporations for profit." Section 48-109 of the Tennessee Code Annotated provides that corporations for profit shall file their certificates of incorporation by recording in the office of Registrar of that county wherein the principal office of the corporation is to be located, the fact of recording to be by the Registrar endorsed on, or attached to, such certificate. Your committee can find no evidence that this provision of the law has ever been carried out or attempted to be carried out.

2. Section 48-1106 of the Tennessee Code Annotated provides that General Welfare Corporations can sell their property and apply the proceeds only "toward the promotion of the objects for which it is created, or hold such property and apply the incoming profits toward such objects." Your committee, as before stated, has found that transfers of property have been made to individuals with no adequate provision for the protection of the "school" or its interests. Furthermore, your committee would specifically mention that the alleged charter and amendment thereto of the alleged corporation itself forbids transfers except to licensed corporations with the same purpose. Your committee would show that such action as is recommended is necessary to protect the many persons, foundations and firms which have given large sums of money and property comprising almost the entire income of the "school" and whom the committee reasonably assumes will continue to give money without adequate safeguard for its use as they intended it.

In conclusion, your committee would state that the only other item required in this report by House Joint Resolution Number 30 is a detailed expense account, but due to the short space of time within which the committee had to conduct the investigation and report, we have as yet been unable to secure a complete recapitulation of all expenses; however, your committee wishes to state that the only expenses incurred have been for court reporters' and stenographers' fees, living expenses and traveling expenses of the special counsel, and other minor expenses of the committee members while they were conducting the investigation. The committee wishes to state that the expenses are well within the limit of the appropriation specified in House Joint Resolution Number 30 which will be contained in the miscellaneous appropriation bill to be submitted at a later date. We respectfully request that when such expenses are detailed and placed before the members of the General Assembly for inclusion in the said miscellaneous appropriation bill that they be approved.

ON PETITION TO REHEAR

The State through the District Attorney General as relator below has filed a petition to rehear, complaining that this Court failed to order the properties of the defendant below escheated to the State.

This Court ordered this cause be remanded to the Circuit Court of Grundy County for the appointment of a receiver for the liquidation of the defendant, corporation, consistent with the opinion.

Highlander Folk School, etc., has also filed its petition to rehear, but upon examination of this petition it appears that the case is just being reargued as to the facts and the law heretofore set out in our opinion under date of April 5,1961. We discussed the material facts in our opinion and the petition presents no new facts, or arguments to change our view in our said opinion.

It results that both petitions to rehear are denied.

O P I N I O N

This suit was commenced by the State through General Sloan, District Attorney General, seeking to have the charter of defendant revoked and the corporation dissolved. At a hearing as to the proposition that the school was operated for the personal and private gain of the operator, Horton, the issue was submitted to a jury and that body answered the issue in the affirmative.

There were two hearings on this matter, one in September, 1959, relative to the nuisance aspect of the petition and another one on November 3, 1959, and it was there that the Constitutional question of operating an integrated school was considered and passed upon by the trial judge.

It might be said here that the trial judge was of the opinion that the cases of Brown v. Board of Education, 347 U.S. 483 (1954) and Roy v. Brittain, 201 Tenn. 140, (1956) had no application here because the school in question in this record is a private and not a public school.

At this hearing the Court agreed with the findings of the jury that this school was operated for the personal and private gain of Myles Horton, and that large quantities of beer were possessed and sold promiscuously to the students as well as the teachers, many of the students being minors, and these many sales of beer were all made without a license.

It is also in evidence that large stacks of beer cans, whiskey jugs and bottles were found about the school. Many exhibits appearing in the record show revolting and inexcusable conduct carried on at this school.

At many of their entertainments beer was sold without a license, and in many cases to minors. It must be borne in mind that the selling of beer without a license in Tennessee is against our criminal law and it is especially exacting as to the sale of beer to minors.

The above were the holdings of the trial judge on this quo warranto proceedings as to the nuisance feature of the case.

On the 20th day of October, 1934, Highlander Folk School was granted a general welfare charter of incorporation by the State of Tennessee, under the provisions of T.C.A. 48-1101 et seq. The particular purposes for which it was incorporated were declared in its charter, Technical Record Vol. I, page 13, to be:

> "The particular purposes for which this charter is sought are the support of the Highlander Folk School, adult workers education, the training of rural industrial leaders, and general academic education."
> And
> "The general welfare of society, not individual profit, is the object for which this charter is granted, and hence the members are not stockholders in the legal sense of the term, and no dividends, or profits shall be divided among the members. The members may at any time voluntarily dissolve the corporation by a conveyance of its assets and profits to any other corporation holding a charter from the State for the purposes not of individual profit. T.C.A. 48-1110"
>
> "The means, assets, income or other property of the corporation shall not be employed, directly or indirectly, for any other purpose whatever than to accomplish the legitimate object of its creation, and by no implication shall it possess the power to issue notes, or currency, deal in currency, notes, or coin, or sell products, or engage in any kind of trading operation, or hold any more real estate than is necessary for legitimate purposes." T.C.A. 48-1109.

The Charter also provides:

"A violation of any of the provisions shall subject the corporation to dissolution at the instance of the State."

T.C.A. 48-1109 also provides the following limitations and restrictions:

"The means, assets, income or other property of the corporation shall not be employed, directly, or indirectly, for any other purpose whatever than to accomplish the legitimate objects of its creation, and by no implication shall it engage in any kind of trading operation, or hold any more real estate than is necessary for its legitimate purposes."

In State ex rel v. Junior College, 166 Tenn. 535, only an injunction was there sought, yet the Court went at length to construe the quo warranto statute with reference to its proper application and said:

"We think a suit like the one before us may be brought either to enjoin a corporation from the doing of a particular thing, or to procure the forfeiture of the corporation's charter, as the circumstances of the case requires."

See State v. Kansas City College of Medicine (Mo.S.Ct.) 46 A.L.R. 1472.

Summarizing the evidence in the Missouri case the Court finally stated its conclusions as follows:

"The evidence summarized above justifies the conclusion that Dr. Alexander conducted the school solely for his own private gain."

The proof here shows, as found by the trial jury and the trial court, that the school was operated for the private gain of Myles Horton.

The trial court as to the first questions involved that is, did Myles Horton operate the school for his own personal gain, had this to say:

> "As to the first question this court is satisfied with the verdict of the jury. The preponderance of the proof is to the effect that Myles Horton was conveyed some 70 acres of land with valuable improvements upon it by the defendant, Highlander Folk School. That he handled all the money in the school, that although Miss May Justus was the secretary and treasurer of the school, she did not write checks, or handle the money, or any of the finances of the school. The President, Myles Horton handled the finances of the defendant. He wrote all the checks; or designated some one when he was away to write the checks. He reared a family on defendant's property and all the expenses of taking care of himself and family and household servants, throughout some 25 years were paid out of defendant's funds."

Horton testified that during the first years of the school he put everything into the building of the school with the idea of getting it out of the school at some later date.

Horton testified that for the past few years he had been drawing a salary of some $9,000.00 annually. However, he was unable to produce any record of the directors or executive committee having fixed his salary. The inf erence is that he fixes his own salary.

There isn't any proof that the governing officers of defendant, school, have ever protested any of the acts of Horton in this illegal operation of the school.

The charter of defendant provides:

> "The general welfare of society, not individual profit, is the object for which the charter is granted, and the members are not stockholders, in the legal sense of the term and no dividends, or profits, shall be divided among them....."

This statute does not authorize a corporation to convey its property to one of its officers on the pretense it is conveying it to him for a back salary. Defendant had no right to let Horton live upon this property for 25 years without paying taxes, then give it to him.

The charter of the defendant further provides:

> "A violation of any of the provisions of this charter shall subject the corporation to dissolution at the insistence of the State."

See State ex rel v. Family Loan Co., 167 Tenn. 654; 13 Am.Jur.Sec. 1318, p. 1176.

The operation of this school for the personal gain of Horton was a misuse and abuse of its powers, and perversive of the objects for which it was created and injurious to the public. It is needless to say that under the scheme of operation as used by Horton, he evaded the payment of taxes.

It should be borne in mind that this issue was submitted to the jury, that is, whether Horton operated this school for his personal gain, and this finding was in all respects approved by the trial court.

In these two findings by the jury and the court, we fully concur.

This brings us to a consideration of the second proposition and that is the sale of beer by the defendant on its premises without a permit and license, was a wilful and intentional act and in direct violation of the express provisions of its charter in that it could not engage in any trading operations, and it was a violation of the criminal laws of the State as well as the nuisance statute.

We refer to the testimony of Mrs. Hazel May Thomas, R. Vol. 2, page 523 as follows:

"Q. Now, I will ask you, Mrs. Thomas while on these occasions and on the premises whether or not, you have seen intoxicating beverages?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where did you see them?

A. In a place where they sold beer and candy and stuff - cold drinks, P.X. like.

Q. Did they have what they call a P.X.?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What building was that in?

A. It was in the old school building.

Q. You say they sold beer there?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know how much they sold it for?

A. No, sir.

"Q. Did you or anybody buy any?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know how much it cost?

A. No sir, I don't.

Q. Did you see any whiskey?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where did you see it?

A. At the Highlander Folk School and Myles Horton's house.

Q. How much did you see at the school building?

A. It would be in gallon jugs and quart bottle-,

Q. Gallon jugs and quart bottles?

A. Yes, Sir."

On this point we now call attention to the testimony of Mrs. Dosie Church, R. Vol. II, page 546, who testified that she was employed at this School for a number of years.

"Q. Did you see any alcoholic beverages stored there in the building property?

A. Yes, sir, I have.

Q. Have you seen much?

A. Well, what do you call much?

Q. Well, you describe what you saw, Mrs. Church?

A. Well, I have saw it in bottles on the shelf. I don't know whether you call it storing it or not, but just on a shelf, and I have saw the bottles when they would be empty in the garbage cans. I have carried them out a number of times.

"Q. Have you seen any jugs there?

A. I went in one morning and the table was full of gallon jugs of whiskey.

Q. Now, Mrs. Church, if you know, what else have you seen them sell there besides beer and whiskey?

A. Well, I have saw them sell chewing gum and candy razor blades they would have there in the P.X."

The record is replete with testimony of the unlawful sale of beer and whiskey at this school.

It might be well to state here the fact that many well meaning people had made contributions to this school accounts at least in part for its continued operation, but the record fails to show that the school had any plan, or standard for teaching and studies and it seems that it was operated more as a vocation work shop than as an ordinary school. The work was carried out according to the day by day, or week by week ideas of Mr. Horton.

We have considered all the assignments of error, find them without merit and they are accordingly overruled. The cause will be remanded to the Circuit Court of Grundy County for the appointment of a Receiver.

It might be observed here that we base our decision on the two propositions before the Court, that is the operation of this School for the personal benefit of Myles Horton, and that in such operation he repeatedly violated the criminal laws of this State in the sale of whiskey and beer in and about this School, and that this being so, it is unnecessary for us to pass upon the constitutional question as to the mixing of white and colored, male and female, in the same school.

BLACK COMMUNIST

Claude M. LightFoot

I am deeply indebted to my Grandmother Ufres Francis Henderson.

Even though born a slave and unable to read or write she stimulated in me ambition and will to overcome adversity. Her teachings helped to make this book possible.

Author's foreword

Ever since I joined the Communist party in 1931, I have been the object of much curiosity. How did it come about? What makes a Communist tick? These are questions that are asked about all Communists. But in my particular case people were astounded when they learned that I had joined the Party. At that time I was considered one of the most promising young Negro politicians emerging in the ~~South~~ Politics of the south side of Chicago. As a founder of the first young Liberals Democratic Club in Chicago and a member of the speakers bureau of

of Chicago

the Democrat party. I attracted the eye of almost all Democratic leaders in the State of Illinois, ~~[illegible]~~ "I had it made"

Yet suddenly I shifted parties.

This book will tell you why.

~~After [illegible]~~

that what I did didn't make sense. So

There are those who claimed that I ~~like~~ like all other Communists ~~are~~ mental are people with mental problems,

~~Protestors~~. It is a sad commentary on

Our society that when people become fed up with graft corruption of Prostitution racial persecution and decide to devote a life time to changing those conditions that one is considered as an abnormal or insane person.

Of course the Ubrits to
System of Capitalism & sick and Insane system does rub off on some who seek to change it. ~~Hence system~~ breeds great frustrations among the people
But it has been my experience that the most sane people in present day society are the people who dedicate their lives on behalf of the oppressed. In any case I am presenting hereon my own story of what made me tick. I tried to portray it as objectively and honestly as possible. I am hopeful that it will be of some service to you who seek ~~to~~ a way out of our present Crisis,

This book is presented in three parts. Part one deals with a series of interviews which explain My views on a number of problems. The second Part represents My views as expressed on the public platform, in articles and books and booklets. The facts and excerpts contained therein do not represent all I have Written or said, They were culled from My Writings and speeches of the last ten years as they ~~related~~ relate to the subject of black liberation. I have spoken and Written on many subjects but for the last ten years My main preoccupation has been With the problems black people face in their everyday lives.

The third is appended material which helped to shape my development as a Communist,

Taken in their totality you will see that a Communist is never a total Men or Women. Like all other phenomena people are born, grow and die, Communist ~~are~~ ~~they~~ emerge out of social process. And in the course of their development become better Communist or Communist being one, One cannot stand still and be a Communist. Or at least can not be one. This is the main lesson I wish to convey to those who seek a Marxist solution to problems.

~~OUTLINE FOR INTERVIEW~~

Several interviews between members of the W.E. DuBois Clubs, ~~a Socialist oriented youth organization~~ and Claude Lightfoot, a veteran leader of the Communist Party and ~~the head~~ Co Chairman of its Commission on Black Liberation, was held at the Party headquarters, 23 West 26th Street, New York City, on September 8-9, 1969. The text of the interviews follows:

The discussion was opened by Jarvis Tyner, a leader of the DuBois Clubs of New York, ~~He~~ Intro outlined the purpose of the visit. ~~His remarks follow:~~

"Comrade Lightfoot, we in the DuBois Clubs have come to the conclusion that the problems ailing our society in general and black people in particular, require a fundamental re-organization of all the institutions we live under. In other words, we see that Capitalism is obsolete and Socialism is on the order of the day. But we recognize that having come to these conclusions is insufficient. We know that this society cannot be changed by just operating under slogans or becoming intoxicated by revolutionary rhetoric. The limited experience we have had makes us know that we must seek an education in the science of Marxism and Leninism.

"~~And so~~ In the pursuit of this goal among other things, we would like for you to trace some of your life experiences so that we and others who are seeking a way out of this system may learn from them. We understand that you have been a Marxist for a long time and in reading some of your writings, we realize that behind them must be a mountain of labor, of successes and failures, of joy and tears and above all the capacity of making the long run and not being deterred by momentary reverses. In other words, the man has not been able through persecution, bribery or other devious means to make you cop out. You have demonstrated in practice 'staying power'."

We are interested in knowing what you derived that power from.

CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT:

"At the outset of this discussion, let me state ~~without exaggeration~~ that this is one of the happiest moments of my life. In 1971, two years from now I will celebrate 40 years as a member of the Communist Party. I am proud of that record ~~for as you say~~, it is not given to all to withstand all the storms and stresses that ~~go with~~ Party membership, ~~surely not for 40 years.~~

"And now as I approach the twilight of life I have no greater ambition than to continue participating ~~in whatever way possible~~ - in the struggles of my people and my class. However, above all else I'm interested in putting at the service of you who are much younger whatever experiences, mistakes and achievements I have had. ~~Your coming~~ here makes this possible. That is why I am so happy. In putting questions to me bear in mind that because of greater experience, I do not hold the mistaken view that I have all the answers. And so I shall refer you to sources which influenced and shaped my life, the works of people who are far greater Marxists than I.

"Incidentally, whatever time I have spent working at becoming a better Marxist ~~we must realize that~~ Marxism is a class and school, which ~~lasts for a lifetime so~~ one can never achieve perfection and let it rest there. The very heart of the science of Marxism and Leninism requires the ability to meet change no matter what form it takes. ~~And so with this axiom in mind,~~

~~no one can be a good Marxist and become dizzy with success for when you do,~~ you who are young people and are on the front line of struggle bring fresh ~~you stop growing and cease being a good Marxist. Finally, these interviews~~ experiences that we who are older can learn from. Also there are ~~will help fill out a book which is now in preparation.~~ additional reasons why I welcome you coming here,

JARVIS TYNER:

"Comrade Lightfoot, we are interested in the general rationale for socialism and how to acquire an education in Marxism and Leninism, but we who are black are particularly anxious to know what the position of the Soviet Union was and is on the National question. There are some who quote Mao on various questions but seldom do we hear a quote from Lenin.

Did he do any work that is pertinent to black liberation? Or for that matter did Marx and Engels ever say anything that is quotable?

CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT:

"I'm glad you raised this question. Lately, I have been going through the writings of Comrade Lenin on the National question, and although I was familiar with much of his writing on these questions I was amazed at the voluminous amount of material he wrote. It is not possible to include in this ~~study all he wrote~~ discussion all of it, so I'll give to you to read some ~~extract~~ quotes which I have extracted ~~can be used as reference material~~. I also gave a lecture on the contributions of Karl Marx to black liberation and I will include both ~~in these discussions.~~ before we conclude the interviews.

Q Comrade Tightfoot, is there anything in your chldhood background that would Could be useful as guidelines for problems of today?

A Yes, several things stand out: Among them I should like to single out for these interviews this discussion two major experiences, the first is my early childhood experiences in the school system of Chicago and the other is the impressions I got from the race riot of 1919 in Chicago. Both of these have profound lessons for some of the major problems we are confronting in the struggle for black liberation today. Let us discuss first the school experience. My parents migrated to Chicago in 1917 as part of the general wave of migrations of blacks from the South to the North during the period of World War I. My father worked in the steel mills and so we got a residence as close to the mills as possible. We therefore did not live in the neart of the black ghetto but rather on the outskirts of it. The school which I went to was about 99% white and the period I spent there left a negative effect upon my personality, an effect which was not overcome until I became a member of the Communist Party. In the school, I was subjected to all kinds of racist abuses. In some instances, I was brutally assaulted by some of the white students.

There were some white students who tried to be friendly, but they were so few that their efforts could not change any of the patterns. In addition to being the victim of racist ideology I was unable to cope with white students in class room work. Obviously - they had a better pre-school background than I had. The whole experience left me with a deep-seated fear and an inferiority complex. Because of this background I can understand or at least I think I can understand what motivates many of the black students on college campuses throughout America today, who have set themselves aside from the general school programs and operate as small groups.

Many of these students see the solution in separate dormitories and setting themselves aside from the general student body and while I do not agree that this is the solution to the problem, nonetheless because of my own personal experience, I think I can understand why they do so. Their actions are defensive in nature, a defense against the ideology of racism, white superiority and an unequal status in every respect.

In my time the solution to the problem came or at least a more comfortable environment was found when my parents moved into the heart of the ghetto and I went to a predominantly black school. In these circumstances, I felt much more secure than I had previously and yet the feeling of inferiority continued. The lack of identification with black students previously left me so to speak, in a "No Man's Land". I did not feel fully a part of this environment, too.

Q What do you feel is the solution to this problem? Do you think that the solution is the advocacy of self-segregation?

On the surface it would appear that what you are showing is that you did not find a solution until you went back to ghetto life. We ask you, sir, is that an answer to the second class citizenship status of black America?

A No, I do not believe that segregation regardless of whether it is enforced or on a voluntary basis, is the solution to the unequal status of black America. I believe that black communities should be maintained as power bases. I believe that blacks standing together against the effects of racism is a vital necessity. But that is only one part of the answer. The other aspect is to destroy all institutions within American life that do not provide for complete equality for a black minority in a majority white society. The facts which I have been describing from my own personal experiences as well as the psychological reaction of small groups of black students within a university system is a byproduction of tokenism. As long as we have a situation in which there will be only a handful of black students on the campus, they will have to stand together--yes, in some instances live together in order to maintain their dignity and identity. I view the solution to this problem in terms of massive participation in all institutions in American life and not on a token basis. The situation at present on most college campuses is that we have about 40 or 50 black students out of a total campus population running sometimes into the thousands. I believe that an entirely different situation would prevail if there was several hundreds of black students to every thousand. Several months ago the black students at City College of New York negotiated with some of the faculty members a program which, in my judgement, went to the heart of the whole problem. They demanded that tokenism be ended and that a large quota of black and Puerto Rican students would be admitted in the next semester. In order to achieve this, they demanded that the standards for admission into the school be lowered to correspond to the level of ~~many~~ of the black students who had been given inferior training in High School. They did not win these demands but in my judgment that still must be the approach to a solution not only at City College but throughout the country.

Q Comrade Tightfoot, there are those who say that to lower standards along these lines would be to reduce not only the black students but whites as well to a system of education which breeds mediocrity. How do you explain this?

A It is my opinion that this could be the end result if the problem was left on that level. The situation ~~therefore~~ requires several special measures: you see, it was the result of a special situation in the first place which put black students in this disadvantageous position and special measures will be required to overcome it. The first ~~special measure~~ is to bring them into the schools en masse and the second one is to find all the necessary means to eliminate what was previously a handicap. This of course would require additional appropriations by Government and Schools for ~~to afford~~ scholarships as well as personalized attention; that is to set up a system whereby the students can get assistance from teachers outside of the classroom to make up for lost time.

Q How do you view the attacks being made upon the students by some of our most noted educators who claim that the ~~students~~' preoccupation with social, political and black studies should not be their major concern but the obtainment of technical training for the various professions.

A In the first place I have nothing but contempt for these so-called educated lackeys of the white master class who have been miseducated. They may have acquired degrees in this or that field, but the barometer covering the success of black people in overcoming the effects of a racist society has not been a The success story of this or that individual in the professions or otherwise. Paul Robeson many years ago, gave a good example of this. In substance he said: when he was in school he became a Phi Beta Kappa key man. He excelled on the gridiron and became an All American. He became the world's most outstanding baritone and the first black actor who went beyond portraying stereotyped roles. Paul said that he did all of these things with the image in mind of bettering the conditions of his people. But it seemed to him years afterward that while he was successful, his people were less successful and so he no longer equated personal success with the success of his people. The illusions he held in this regard was what all black students were taught and what most ~~were led to~~ believed would be the solution. However, there were some who broke through these barriers and emerged as champions of the rights of black people, the most outstanding of whom was the late Dr. W. B. DuBois, Unlike most of their predecessors the young generation of students today have placed as the highest item on their agenda the securing of an education that will enhance their dignity, their identity and to be of servce to their people.

To obtain those goals

Yes, they have putting personal careers on the line, ~~they have stood up to the~~ ~~if I'm not backing away from the struggle~~ ~~to free their people~~, For this they should be applauded not condemned.

possibility of being expelled from the universities for their militant stands and if they maintain their dedication to freedom for their people, and then acquire all the technical skills, then they will become fully equipped to be effective freedom fighters. But just to accent technical training will lead exactly nowhere.

And if they maintain their dedication to those ends and in this context acquire technical skills become In the struggle

The other events which influenced my attitudes and development and have some relevancy to some of the problems of today was the race riot in Chicago in 1919. First of all let me describe what the situation was like. At the end of World War I a number of race riots developed all over the country. There were riots in Washington, the Nation's capital, Elaine, Ark., E. St. Louis, Illinois, Chicago and several other places. These riots represented some of the worst pages in American history. Upon returning from a war allegedly fought "to save the world for Democracy", black soldiers in many instances were shot down in their uniforms. A historian has yet to set these riots in their proper perspective, to show the class forces at work engendering them. Let us take the riot in Chicago which I lived through. The spark which set it off was the refusal of a white lifeguard at one of the Chicago beaches to save a drowning black youth . But the riot was really caused by a development of tensions between the black and white communities around the Chicago stock yards, a place of employment of both communities. During World War I there was a labor shortage in the packing plants . The packinghouse barons therefore aided and facilitated a migration of black workers to come into these plants to ease the labor shortage but also to use them as a weapon to prevent white workers from organizing into unions.

The outstanding leader of the CPUSA, William Z. Foster, made serious inroads into building a Union within the industry and that ~~we did not succeed at that~~ The union was eventually broken time ~~was~~ due to the ~~efforts~~ ability of the bosses to plant their seeds of division among the workers, ~~both~~ black and white. Among the ~~processes~~ methods through which this was achieved was this kind of a dialogue:

A foreman or someone from management would approach a black worker and in substance say: "Look Joe, you are a damn good worker and we need more workers like you in this plant. Haven't you got some brothers of yours still in the south who would like to better their condition? Well, if you have, ask them to come to Chicago. We will give them jobs...you see those lazy foreigners over there? Poles, Lithuanians, Irish, etc? We will let some of them off to make room for your brothers." Or, conversely: a foreign-born worker would be approached and told: "Look Joe, those niggers are very lazy and we are going to get rid of some of them. Don't you have a brother, uncle or someone from the old country who is in need of a job? Well if you do, send him around to see me."

As a consequence of this approach a black worker would be pitted against the foreign-born worker and a foreign-born worker - against a black worker. Thus, trade union organization was thwarted and hatred between the workers was developed, ~~and~~ this was the backdrop of the race riot of 1919 in Chicago.

At the time I was too young to comprehend the factors underlying the riot. Like all others, I was swept into an all anti-white hysteria. Now there are several lessons to be learned from this riot. First, it is the fact that division among the people along color lines or national backgrounds is one of the most potent weapons that the white ruling class has to perpetuate its exploitative system and rule. Another lesson of profound importance is the fact that a black ghetto standing isolated by itself cannot overcome the power of capitalism. There are times when the black community, as a community, must act regardless of whether or not they have allies in other communities but because this may be true ~~in some instances~~ it does not follow that this must be the strategic method through which we hope to overcome for ~~in the final analysis~~, whatever gains we make, largely through our own efforts, will be token in nature--small concessions granted for the purpose of taking off some of the steam. To affect basic and fundamental changes--the power of all the dispossessed, both black and white, will be required.

Experience in The last Fifteen years have already shown that

There are those who advocate a program of guerilla warfare between the ghettos and the white power structure. They contend that guerillas operating out of the ghetto could take over the cities or burn down ~~the cities~~ and destroy ~~the basic fabric of~~ this society. This is pure, unadulterated nonsense and when such thoughts are expressed, this suicidal course must be rejected. It has not been too difficult for me to understand this truth, largely through my experience in the race riot of 1919. The riot did not last more than a week but if that riot had lasted three or four more weeks, the black community could have been starved out of existence. My father was a steel worker and he had to go through an all-white community to get to work but during the period of the riot he could not go to work. If the riot had lasted a few more weeks I wonder where we would have gotten money for food. Or for that matter how we could have gotten food in to the community at all. Unfortunately the ghettos are organized in such a way that they are completely dependent for all vital services to sustain life from the outside. The controls over water, gas, light, food production, food distribution, production of clothes, distribution of clothes are all determined outside of the black ghettos. And because of this physical condition and if we had no outside support, it would be relatively easy to shut off these vital services and create a situation that would resemble the Jewish ghettos in Europe during World War II, where six million Jews were slaughtered. Hence, a strategy of survival and advancement dictates the need for black people to find common cause with people of other communities who have common problems. Throughout all the history of man with the exception of the Haitian Revolution no group was ever able to throw off an oppressor without allies. Conversely no oppressing group has ever been able to rule only through its own resources. "Divide and Conquer" has been and is the technique of all ruling classes. Black people in the ghettoes are no exception to this rule which can be considered a law of social development, a law of history which is as patent and accurate as are the laws of nature. These are some ~~of the~~ conclusions I have drawn from the race riots of 1919; riots in which my father was a participant and I was a young observer.

Q In what way did those youthful experiences, that is the school and the race riots influence your development as a teenager?

A Well, first of all they led me on to the path of black nationalism. They created within me a cynical attitude toward all whites and above all, left me with a feeling of impotence in terms of solving the problems within this country. They put me in a mood that made it easy for me to embrace the doctrines of the Garvey movement of the 20's and 30's, which centered around a back to Africa movement. I, too, was caught up in the spirit of what Ted Ward was saying in his play "Big White Fog" when he portrayed America as a land covered by a great big white fog which was so thick that it was impossible for a black man to penetrate through it.

Thus the rationale was created for a mass exodus back to Africa as the only solution to this problem. These views gripped my imagination until about 1929 and then I began to develop another approach to the solution of the problems concerning black Americans.

Q Whad did you now visualize as a solution?

A I must confess that at this point the solution to the racial problem was not the dominant thought in my mind. I put it forward as if it were, I still thought of it as if it were, but deep down I must recognize the fact that my primary motivation, like most others, was how I as an individual was going to get ahead in this society. Like Charles Wilson and General Motors I operated on the theory that what was good for Claude Lightfoot was good for black people.

Q What did you see then as a solution?

A Well I came to the idea that black-owned businesses was the answer to our problems. At that time there was somewhat of a growth of black-owned businesses in Chicago; there were three banks, a number of cosmetic firms, and some in the food processing business but little or none in production of the vital services needed to sustain life. I came to the conclusion that black people would have to get into production and learn how to manufacture goods and build up their own economy. I foresaw in this development the possibility of hiring black people in all white collar capacities as bookkeepers, accountants, production managers, personnel managers and all the administrative apparatus of business from which black people in ~~all the occupations~~ those in white-owned enterprises were excluded.

We must bear in mind that today there have been some ~~token~~ small gains in these categories of employment in white-owned businesses and in the governmental apparatus, but in the period I am discussing very few blacks were employed in these capacities even in white-owned businesses which operated within the ghetto. With these thoughts in mind, I conceived of going to Tuskegee Institute ~~and learning~~ to learn how to make shoes. I visualized myself becoming a big shoe manufacturer. Of course I would grow rich and powerful but at the same time I would do something to help my little black brothers and sisters secure jobs in my business since they could not obtain them in white businesses.

Q Well what happened to that theory?

A It was short-lived because as I made a study of the shoe industry, I found out that in order to be competitive I not only would have to own a shoe factory but would have to own tne cows on the ranch from which the leather came, and then the tanning leather processing factories before I could get the material needed for my factory.

In other words I came up against the fact of monopoly capital. ~~And so~~ without ~~even~~ studying Marxist literature the existence of the monopoly stage of capitalism as against the period of free competition confronted me with the hard, cold realities of ~~our time~~. These facts carry a built-in verdict as to what forms of business Big Business will allow blacks to enter. Another factor which helped to disillusion me was the outbreak of the crisis in 1930-31. In the initial period of this crisis a large number of monopoly-owned businesses and banks went out of business but the effect in the black community of driving small black-owned businesses out was almost complete. As a consequence I became painfully aware that in addition to living in a period of monopoly capital, we also lived in an unstable economy in which the seeds of economic crisis and depression is inherent and as a result of these crises, the bigger corporations get bigger and the small ones are eaten up. ~~Manufacturers had a monopoly not only on shoes but also the material needed for shoe production.~~

Later on, after becoming a member of the Communist Party, I ~~understood~~ this matter from a more scientific point of view. And I want to recommend that the material appended to this discussion be seriously studied.

The first is Lenin's work on Imperialism--the Highest Stage of Capitalism" and the second, of more recent vintage, is Gus Hall's report to the recently-held World Conference of Communist parties. These materials among others, provide a useful guideline in showing how powerful the corporate interests have become on a global basis.

There was another aspect of thing in outlook which I saw as a means of effectuating accentuating a solution to the problems and that was the proper usage of the black vote. The problem we saw then is very much relevent to those ~~the problem~~ we confront today. As a legacy of the Civil War and the reconstruction period, coming on down through the 1920's and early 30's, the Republican Party had a complete monopoly of the black vote. To find a black Democrat in those days was like finding the proverbial needle in a haystack!

Within this context, one of the most powerful political machines ever built existed in the black community of Chicago. About the time I came on the scene there was very little opportunity for young blacks to make their way in the political arena via the Republican Party. Old timers like the late Oscar De Priest, etc., dominated the scene. And so, together with a co-worker of mine who later on emerged as one of the top leaders of the Democratic Party of Illinois, we conceived the idea of working to split the Negro vote between the two major parties and thereby make both parties compete for this vote. In a certain sense this was a call for a greater independence of the black electorate within the two major parties. Actually tnis was a gimmick we used in order to justify our participation in the Democratic Party rather than the Republican Party because what followed was the substitution of a huge black Republican-controlled machine into a black Democratic Party controlled machine. But in any case I saw both of these developments, black capitalism and the political arena as the principle instruments through which my own self-advancement would take place; and related to that the advancement of my people.

Q What were the circumstances which led you in to the Democratic Party?

A Well that is sort of a long story. But I shall try and tell it as briefly as possible.

I left school in the summer of 1930, at tne time when the great depression was upon us. Thousands of unemployed black workers would gather daily in Washington Park. There all schools of thought were debated. Coming fresh from school and possessing somewhat of a gift of gab, I soon emerged as one of main speakers one of the chief spokesmen around the Park. There was another fellow, an unemployed Methodist preacher with whom I teamed up and we were quite a factor in establishing control over the minds of the people. In the midst of our racial problems and their solution our discussions and debates, an extension of the street car lines from 51st and South Park (now Dr. King drive) to Cottage Grove Avenue, an area comprising almost a mile, took place. This was in the heart of the black community but there was not one single worker employed on this project in any capacity, not even a water boy. Day after day observing this rank form of discrimination evoked from us the deepest resentment.

So And one day we decided that if blacks couldn't work then we would stop the job. We did. And it is my opinion that this was the first such action in the country. As a result of ~~the action~~ it all Chicago was stirred up and the traction company immediately hired over 300 black workers. After that The crowds in the park increased to tens of thousands.

About this time the Democratic Party decided to make a bid for the black vote. The Party sent some of its chief henchmen to the Park to try and corral this explosive force in to the Democratic Party. My buddy, the Methodist preacher, and I were the most influential speakers in the Park and naturally they sought our help in this objective. This was, ~~therefore,~~ the process through which I came to the Democratic Party.

Q Will you tell us what were the major factors in your joining the Communist Party?

A If you had asked me this question 10 or 15 years ago I do not know whether or not I could have given you an honest answer. No doubt the tendency would have been to downgrade the personal aspects and to upgrade the idealism within the motivation. But I want to tell it to you like it was. I did not join the Communist Party because of an all-dominating consideration for what would happen with the masses. This factor was in the picture but it was not the dominant one. I had to first shed my illusions about what was possible to do within the system - both from a personal standpoint as well as a mass ~~stand-point.~~ These illusions were broken as I have shown in respect to first - the Garvey movement and the solutions it posed. Secondly, black capitalism and thirdly, my disillusionment with bourgois politics. This was the broad basis upon which it was possible to take another look, another view of the situation. My disillusionment with bourgois politics had to do with promises which had been made of a personal nature by the Democratic Party which were not realized.

I also became fed up with the kind of unprincipled manouvering which one had to go through in order to be successful in bourgois politics.

the dominant one. I had to first shed my illusions about what was possible to do within the system both from a personal standpoint as well as a mass standpoint. These illusions were broken as I have shown in respect to, first, the Garvey Movement and the solutions it posed; secondly, Black Capitalism and thirdly, my disillusionment with bourgois politics. This was the broad basis upon which it was possible to take another look, another view of the situation. My disillusionment with bourgois politics had to do with promises which had been made of a personal nature by the Democratic Party which were not realized.

I also became fed up with the kind of unprincipled manouvering that one had to go through in order to be successful in bourgois politics.

Q In this connection what was your experience?

A Well after we campaigned in the winter of 1930 for Democratic Party candidates, the promises that had been made - it seemed to my buddy and I were forgotten. We had been promised a number of white collar jobs and some more menial ones in the sanitary districts to distribute among the people we had influenced. Our people became restless and began to question our intentions. And then one day the "head Negro" of the Democrat party called me in for a discussion. In the discussion he urged me to be patient.

"Don't do anything that will hurt you" he said. I didn't know what he was talking about. He then informed me that my buddy had told him that I had joined the "reds" and was getting ready to hold a demonstration in front of the house of the white boss of the Democratic Party where we would make the accusation that the Party had defaulted in its promises to the unemployed people who supported the Party.

I was flabbergasted. My buddy had used this gimmick to force action and used me as the fall guy. This example of double bookkeeping fed me up with a system that required such treachery between friends.

~~This, too, was a major contributing factor~~. As a result of personal frustrations, increasingly I came to identify myself with the underdog or the lowly masses. And so in 1931 at the height of the Great Depression I found that the Communist Party had a program that brought into sharp focus and offered solutions to the problems of the people, the unemployed ~~and~~ the workers and black people. In Chicago the struggle took the form of fighting evictions and for relief. In respect to both, one must understand that during this period there was very little assistance given the unemployed, there was no organized relief setup, there was no unemployment insurance and when people lost jobs, couldn't pay rent, they were immediately thrown out in the streets. On the south side of Chicago thousands of people, whole families, were forced to sleep in parks, they had no place to stay.

The Communist Party came on the scene and organized these black workers as well as whites to resist eviction by putting furniture back in the houses, turning gas ~~back on~~ and ~~the~~ lights back on. ~~as well~~. I can say without fear of contradiction that were it not for the Communist Party and the struggle it waged on a day to day basis, a large segment of the black community would have suffered almost complete ~~annihilation~~ starvation. The Party organized Unemployed Councils and ~~it~~ they ~~had~~ had roving bands of thousands and thousands of people ~~who were~~ going through the streets putting furniture back into homes, marching around the City Hall, demanding cash relief, organizing Hunger Marches to the State and to the Nation's capital. These actions over the U.S. involved millions of people and in the Chicago area, hundreds of thousands. They were some of the most massive actions this country has ever seen. In Chicago on August 3,1931 in response to police terror where 3 unemployed workers were killed, the Communist Party organized what is estimated by the metropolitan press, a funeral procession involving 110,000 people. It was estimated that over 30 to 40,000 whites came from all parts of the city to demonstrate solidarity with the black community. I got caught up in ~~this mass~~ these struggles and became an active participant. ~~I now found the means through which black and white unity could be expressed on a broader basis than tokenism. In these circumstances I was no longer fearful of a black minority being~~ defeated by a white majority.

I ~~also~~ found by my identification with this movement the ending of the contradiction between self-advancement and the welfare of my people. But another important factor which caused me to identify with the Communist Party was that it provided me with the means for the first time to really feel that I was a man. As I indicated at the outset of this dicussion I had grown up with a deep-seated inferiority complex and fear that almost dominated my every move. I lost that fear when one day the circumstances of my participation in the unemployed movement propelled me forward to the speakers' stand where I was surrounded by masses of unemployed workers but also by a huge police detail. I can recall it as if it were yesterday--I stood upon that platform and cried out:

"I fear no Gods in the skies, no devils on earth; therefore, I do not fear these flatfooted cops of Mayor Cermak." (Cermak was then Mayor of Chicago.) A year before when I was only 20 years old, I campaigned for him and spoke on several platforms with him).

The police did not attempt to stop me because the masses were so stirred up they would have devoured them, and when I got down from that platform and walked away for the first time in my life I felt that I was a man, I had in large part lost myfear and so in joining the Communist Party I found themeans to manhood.

Also, During the period of the outbreak of the crises and unemployed struggles my formal education had been disrupted but I soon found that through the Communist Party despite the lack of a more extensive formal training, it was possible to get the kind of education that would be meaningful in living a purposeful and creative life.

Q Were you not influenced at all by the charges of being a Russian or foreign agent by joining the Party?

A Not in the least for several reasons. First, I felt no allegiance to this society in anything that it stood for. Second, I had become fed up with Negroes having to prove how patriotic they had been. I had read through history where black people had given their all in the defense of this country and had received nothing in return except humiliation, degradation and a second class status.

I was not impressed with a Christus Attackus who was the first to shed blood in 1776 dying in order that whites would be free while black people remained slaves. I was not impressed with the story of how Peter Salem distinguished himself at Bunker Hill. I was not impressed ~~all the way down through the centuries~~ by those things which place down to modern times to a Doris Miller dying at Pearl Harbor, so I felt no sense of loyalty to a country that had made a slave out of me. And so while not being impressed by superficial acts of patriotism, I was impressed by what Spartacus had said to the slaves, the gladiators in the Roman Empire almost two thousand years ~~ago~~ before, "Oh Comrades! Warriers, if we must fight, let us fight for ourselves, if we must slaughter, let us slaughter our oppressors."

Later on I was impressed by the fact that all revolutions of modern times carried within them the germs of the future, not only for their particular country but for the whole world. I noted that in 1776 democratically inspired people left the comfort of their homes all over Europe and came here to join the side of the revolutionaries, ~~and they came because of Thomas Jefferson pointing out, "The American revolutionaries acted on behalf of all mankind."~~

~~And so~~ I was also impressed during this period with the success of the Russian revolution which provided a guiding light as to how the oppressed people of the world would eventually come to freedom. Later on ~~whatever~~ my feelings ~~I had~~ on this matter were enhanced as I read a letter Lenin wrote to the American workers and I am appending it herewith as a source material for further study. See appendix No. 3.

Q Comrade Lightfoot, we noticed in your background material that relatively you had very little formal education. We understand that you were a highschool dropout. Yet at the same time your writings are of a very high quality and especially your grasp of living history. How do you account for this contradiction?

A There are really no contradictions. But there are several reasons why one is able to surmount the inadequacies that flow from the lack of formal training. In the first place the Communist Party does not equate formal education with intelligence. You can give a good formal training to a fool and the end result would be that you would have an educated fool. Nor does the Party believe that the Capitalists and their hangerson have a monopoly on the education. They may monopolize the earth and its resources but they have never and never will be able to monopolize intelligence. The Party as a result of its scientific approach to the evolvement of society and historical changes bases itself upon the working class as the main force that willdestroy the capitalist system and establish Socialism. This means that the class must be prepared for this task. However, this does not mean that the Party idealizes the working class, giving to it tasks that it cannot perform. A good example of this was the analysis of Engels and of Lenin that the working class left to itself could not find its way to ~~class consciousness.~~ socialist consciousness. Hence, the need for an outside force at least initially to bring the science of Marxism into the ranks of the workers. Inasmuch as Marxism is a science which represents a critique of all the inner processes of social systems throughout history including Capitalism, this therefore involves the necessity to master practically all the areas of human knowledge and to acquire the method of scientific analysis.

Obviously, for one to achieve these goals requires leisure time that the average worker does not possess. Therefore, it was people who came out of the bourgeois intelligensia who created the science of Marxism-Leninism, but once having set up the methodology for the study of social problems and the movement of history, it is possible that working men and women can master this science. It is true that with formal training it can be done better but it can be done with or without such training. The Party has complete confidence in the creative powers of the working class. This is a very important point. Not all intellectuals or trained professinals can surmount the snobbish contempt for the people which is generated by capitalist ideology, the ability to see through the superficiality of the elitest ideology of capitalism was one of the greatest qualities of the great Lenin. And when we turn to the subjective side of the prerequisites for the success of the Russian revolution, this quality of Lenin's was a major factor.

Shortly before the Bolshevik Party came to power in the October Revoltion there were those in the ranks of the Socialist movement especially those with a bourgois education who raised serious doubts about whether or not the Bolsheviks could retain power even if they took it. People who thought along these lines concluded that the complexities in the administration of government and industry were so great that the Bolshevik Party which did not have on its side most of the technicians, administrators and professionals could not therefore administer the Government successfully. Lenin provided the framework to show how workers could administer the Government and create an intelligensia of its own. If you are interested, I would suggest that you study further the appended material dealing with these kind of questions. (See append. 4,5,6).

Marxism-Leninism is also a science which makes it easier to grasp any phenomena especially social, economic and political. It is to scientific study what a compass would be to a ship being tossed to and fro upon a rougher turbulent sea. Another factor which enables working class cadre to acquire a Marxist education is the fusion that exists within the Party between trained intellectuals, semi-illiterate and illiterate people. The constant association between people in all these categories brings beneficial results to all concerned. The Party trains its intellectual workers to place at the disposal of its working class cadre all the techniques and methods of learning which were acquired from the old school. Working class cadre also contributes to those of the intellegensia who because of having lived in the environment of bourgeois ideology and trained to think along bourgois lines, often finds it difficult to get their feet solidly on the ground. And so as a result of this association both categories can and do grow into better Marxists and both become working class ideologists.

The Party also has a body of Marxist literature covering almost all fields of human experience and the average member, worker or intellectual through constant discussion at all Party meetings, and at all levels, to try to master this material.

As a result of this confidence in the creative powers of working people, there has emerged from the ranks of the workers some of the great men and women of history. The Soviet Union is full of examples of people with peasant backgrounds, workers who lacked formal education but who mastered the most complex problems in almost all fields including military science.

In our own American Party most of the outstanding leaders over the last fifty years came out of the ranks and became economic theoreticians social and political scientists as well as historians. Just to name a few, William Z. Foster, Jack Johnstone, Jack Stachel, James W. Ford, Eugene Dennis, PettesPerry and presently the outstanding leaders of the party, Henry Winston and Gus Hall. There were others who were great Party leaders who had more formal education but none surpassed the names I have mentioned. Perhaps the two best examples of what can be done is seen in the careers of William Z. Foster and Pettes Perry.

Comrade Foster came from a working class background and didn't finish Elementary School but during his time he wrote 11 books and when his pamphlets articles etc. are published he will have authored at least 30 or more volumes. His books deal with a variety of problems; they are:

1. Pages from the Life of a Worker
2. The Twilight of Capitalism
3. An outline history of the Americas
4. History of the Negro people
5. History of the World Trade Union Movement
6. History of the CPUSA
7. From Bryan to Stalin
8. Trade Unions
9. The New Europe
10. Toward Soviet America and 11. The Great Steel Strike

Pettes Perry, a Negro migratory worker came to the Communist Party as an illiterate person and this was long after adulthood. He became one of our outstanding leaders and when his writings are compiled they will comprise several volumes.

These two comrades and their achievements are ample proof of what the Party can do to train working class ~~theoreticians out of the ranks of the workers.~~ people who become theoreticians.

Lastly, the Party has its own school system to aid this process. When I joined the Party my approach to most problems was emotional. And if I had not gone to a Party training school there is no doubt in my mind I would have dropped out in a matter of a few years.

Q What do you mean by emotional?

A Well I guess it can be said that I had many of the same hangups that characterize many of the young revolutionaries of today. I too was driven by a petty bourgois impatience. Now that I had discovered the revolutionary path I was impatient in getting on with the job. Of course there was a difference in the period of the early 30's and now. And while some of us had some of the same blind spots so characteristic of today's movement, we at least had a situation in which it was possible to come to the conclusion that a revolutionary situation existed in the country. Unlike today's movement which is mainly based on spontaneity, we had organizations in action which involved the millions.

~~Looking back in retrospect~~ With the seemingly total collapse of the economy reaching at one point over 18 million people the vast army of unemployed and ~~actual~~ widespread starvation, one could very easily come to the conclusion that a revolutionary situation existed. Especially was this true during the year 1931. ~~And so~~ some ~~of us~~ including myself concluded that capitalism was through, that it could no longer regroup its forces and that the masses were ready to ~~storm all the fortresses of this~~ destroy the system. But then after 1931 and '32 the revolution did not come and the New Deal reforms of Franklyn Delano Roosevelt came into existence, some of us then realized that capitalism still had some life left in it. I guess it was at this point I would have dropped out if I had not attended a Party training school where I got a better grasp of what is involved in the revolutionary process.

Q What was the nature of the school you attended and in what way did the curriculum equip you to do practical work?

A First let me outline the curriculum and then I will deal with some of the lessons I learned from the school which helped me to weather ~~all~~ the storms of adversity that go with ~~accompany~~ Party membership. The curriculum consisted of subjects in: philosophy, history, political economics, the science of politics, the history of the labor movement, the history of the Negro people, revolutionary strategy and tactics, the national and colonial question.

Above all the school was geared to make all of us recognize that the class struggle had to be waged not only on the economic and political front but also on the ideological. We became groomed in an elementary way with:

a) The class nature of history

b) The role of the modern working class

c) How colonial liberation movements merge with the class struggle.

d) The basic principles of Marxist philosophical outlook

e) The main contradictions within the Capitalist system

f) The need for a vanguard Party and especially the struggle it must wage on ideological fronts within and outside the working class movement. We were imbued with the necessity to wage an irreconcilable struggle against all forms of opportunism, against the left and the right,

In regard to the struggle against opportunism which is defined as: those views and actions which seek immediate gains at the expense of the ultimate goal, Or those programs and actions which are based on ultimate goals without regard to how the masses are prepared to understand the ultimate aims, On the surface ~~of this formulation~~ it would appear that the expression of opportunism is of a right wing nature. That is, it is a tendency which accepts minor concessions from the ruling class concessions which nullify the advancement of the movement to a higher revolutionary level. But this is not the case. Opportunism can be of both a right and left variety. Sometimes a rightist approach is concealed and camouflaged by all kinds of high-sounding revolutionary phrases which in the words of Shakespeare represent: "Sound and fury signifying nothing." May I add, except surrender to the class enemy, in the Name of revolution.

When I came into the CPUSA I was very familiar with the right danger inasmuch as the Russian Revolution and the ~~emergence of~~ the World Communist movement came into existence in a struggle against right opportunism ~~as it had existed~~ in the old Socialist parties, but I was not too familiar with the Left danger and I suppose one of the reasons was that I was a sort of Leftist. In anycase when I went to school I became grounded in the necessity for the ideological struggle ~~both within and without the movement, to be waged on 2 fronts~~ against both the right and the left. I learned that there are times when one or the other may become the main danger but in fighting whatever is the main danger at a given moment, it is also necessary to fight against that tendency which can become the main danger. This position has no relationship to ~~censorship~~ or an eclectic approach which borrows evenhandedly from both the right and the left. It is mainly a struggle to be able to do what is required at a given moment. But even this must be approached dialectically, namely from the standpoint that what is today may not be tomorrow. Thus this problem cannot be reduced to a formula. To be a good Marxist requires the ability to correlate everything that is required from both an immediate and long range standpoint in a given set of circumstances. This is one of the most difficult tasks always confronting Communists no matter how experienced. We live in a capitalist environment. The bourgoisie is actively engaged in the battle for the minds of men. It spends billions of dollars in this area. It not only bribes and corrupts but it plants the seeds of ideas which permeate our society. The purpose of many ~~of these ideas~~ is to divert the revolutionary movement from its proper course. And so it is not easy to be able at all times to decide what is right and what is wrong. I found out that one of the surest guarantees to master the ideological struggle is to be able at all times to appraise events and people and yourself from the standpoint of criticism and self-criticism. To the extent that one can master these one can minimize the possibility of becoming engulfed in ideological currents that are designed to perpetuate the rule of capital.

For a further discussion of deviations within the work of Communists from the right and the left, I recommend reading App.8-9-10 and 11 espcially would I recommend for young revolutionaries with tendencies to the left to read "The Question of Compromises" app. 9.

Q There are those who claim that the present day Communist movement is infested with right opportunism, ~~that it has lost its revolutionary values and that it negates the possibility of the movement evolving on a higher stage of revolutionary activity~~ concentrating on reforms not revolution

A Well there are problems of conservatism and right opportunism in our ranks which ~~we have to be on guard~~ struggle against but to make this ~~an overall question~~ general characterization is not only erroneous but also harmful. ~~It could be that these voices are expressing the views of the man without the bearers of them knowing the source from which they came.~~ It plays the game of the enemy. These views are peddled often by people on the far left. Most of whom indulge in no struggle

Q ~~But then there are those who~~ say that if a situation requires violence, the Party shrinks from the use of violence and some of them point to passages in your book "Ghetto Rebellion to Black Liberation" where you come out against the strategy based on violence. How do you explain this?

A The CPUSA and myself have never renounced violence per se. Or for that matter guerilla warfare per se. Here again it all depends upon time, place and circumstances. The question is Does the revolutionary situation exist in which the only recourse that can be taken is of a violent nature or not? This is the main criteria of judgment and to say that this is revisionism only reflects a profound ignorance of the revolutionary process.

Take for example the Russian revolution of 1917 between February 1919 and April the Bolshevik Party followed a policy which conceived of the possibility of a peaceful changeover of the Government. But after the April days, after the Government resorted to all kinds of repressive measures, measures which required Lenin to go into hiding, the Bolshevik Party came to the conclusions that the approach must now be for the seizure of power. But even after this evaluation took place, Lenin made the most painstaking examination of the nature of the growing crisis in order to discern what would be the proper moment to strike. "Insurrection" he said, was an art that had to be mastered and not actions that would be taken off the top of one's head, with no regard for objective reality.

If there be those who doubt my word on these matters, then let us take it from the pen of the man who conducted the greatest revolution of all time, the one which marked the beginning of the end of capitalism, colonialism and imperialism. Lenin wrote:

"People who judge superficially the numerous enemies of our revolution and those who still vacillate between the revolution and its opponents are most of all struck by that feature of our revolution which expressed itself in the determined relentlessly firm way it has dealt with the exploiters and enemies of the working people. There is no doubt that without that feature, without revolutionary violence the proletariat could not have triumphed. But there cannot be any doubt either that revolutionary violence was a necessary and legitimate method of the revolution only at definite stages of its development; only when definite and special conditions prevailed...and a permanent feature of this revolution and the conditions of its victory was and remains --the organization of the working people. And it is in this organization of millions of working people that are contained the best conditions for the revolution, its deepest source of victory." emphasis mine C,L,

Further I would recommend reading the appended material dealing with "Maxxism and the art of Insurrection." ~~And also the program of the African National Congress which is waging guerilla warfare all over the Southern part of Africa, actions which we American Communists endorse.~~ Now these rumors are related to Violence as an offensive Weapon. In regards to defence we stand for the right of the people to defend themselves by all means necessary.

Q Comrade Lightfoot, what happened after you left school?

A Well after 1932 the coming of the New Deal of FDR, the nature of the struggle began to shift from the unemployed to the shops. On the surface of things it appeared as if the movement was in decline because for a period of time we were unable to rally the broad masses of the unemployed as we had formerly done. Between 1932 and 1937 there seemed to be a lull as contrasted with the previous period. And here again we see a good example of what can be misleading by just observing events only on the surface. Outwardly, it would appear that the movement was in decline but actually the stage was being set for the renewal of the movement on a higher level. Those of us who had concluded a revolutionary situation had existed in 1931 did not realize that in order to destroy the power of Big Business, it would be necessary for the workers to be organized in the mass production industries...for it is within these industries the workers possess the power to paralyze the entire society. In making an assessment of revolutionary possibilities at a given moment, if that assessment does not take into account the organizational and political readiness of the working class in these industries to make a revolution ~~that~~ then all such talk is nothing more than idle phrase mongering and childish dreams.

In 1931 the working class was not organized in the mass production industries. This development came about later in 1937 ~~when~~ until the emergence of the CIO ~~developed in 1937.~~ On the one hand, while it can be said that the reforms of the administration of Franklin D. Roosevelt tended to prop up the system, on the other hand, many of these reforms set the stage for some gigantic achievements during that period and put the working class in a strategic position where at some later date when a revolutionary situation does exist- it will be in a position to bring the power from this class and from these industries to bear on the situation. There is an old saying by the old folks that "The Lord works in mysterious ways". I guess you can say that when you appraise something like this you can paraphrase this and say "History works often in a mysterious way".

Q What were some of the achievements of this New Deal period?

A Well as I stated before, first and foremost, was the organization of the working class in the mass production industries.

2. Tbe building of a Negro, labor and farmer alliance.

3. The emergence of a braodly based intellegensia devoted to progressive causes.

4 ~~Also~~ the building of a tremendous young movement both on and off College campuses. 5 ~~Among~~ the many demands that were won which had been slogans in the earlier period ~~was~~ Unemployment Insurance, Old Age pensions and many other measures designed to protect the working people against sudden shifts within the economy. 6 Above all, a Democratic coalition was created which barred the path to power of the potential American Fascist elements and in so doing laid the basis for America's participation in the great alliance which prevented the world from having to goosestep alongside the murderous and brutal Hitler. In the course of these developments the Communist Party of the U.S. emerged as a very powerful factor within the Democratic mass movements of the workers and the people.

Q We understand that you are one of the two living Americans who was a delegate to the 7th World Congress of the Communist Internationale and heard the Dimetroff report.

A Yes that is true.

Q Are there any lessons from that period that can be used as guidelines for today?

A Yes, there are many.

First, when I came into the movement in 1931 we expected that the Communist Party of Germany would be able to assume power within a few years time. At that time it was the largest Communist Party outside of the Soviet Union. The German Party had several hundred thousand members, it had over one hundred deputies in the Reichtag (the Government body similar to Congress). It had built around itself powerful left wing organizations and the circulation of its paper "The Rote Faime" was a few hundred thousand copies per day. But the fact that this Party was unable to take power brings to the surface the fact that the internal strength of the Party organization in itself is insufficient to take power. There are times when parties that are much smaller but who possess stronger ties with the masses - can take power whereas the larger ones may not be able to. The defeats and setbacks that we suffered in Germany brought about a self-critical appraisal for the entire world Communist movement. That was why the seventh congress was called. The main reports of that Congress were divided between Comrade WMlhelm Preck who made a critical evaluation of the work of the Communist Parties between the 6th and 7th World Congresses. The Sixth Congress had been held in 1928 (seven years previously). As I sat there and listened to that report I gained much more inspiration. I saw Communist criticism and self criticism in practice on a world scale. The chief problem before the 7the Congress was how to create the kind of a movement that could prevent the kind of catastrophes that happened with the ascendency of Hitler to power in Germany. In assessing the work of the various Communist Parties as well as the work within the National Executive Committee, Comrade Preck pinpointed all of the narrow sectarian practices which had been some of the factors which had prevented the unfolding of the kind of movement which would have been capable of barring the path to Fascism. His assessment of the reasons why Hitler came to power in Germany was the position of the leaders of the Socialist Party ~~but~~ which often united with reactionaries and relied on liberals and but refused to unite with Communists. However, despite this fact the Communist Party of Germany which made condition for unity most difficult for them to accept, examined its own weakness which contributed to this result. After ~~exa~~ the Pieck Report the Congress heard a Report by Comrade Georgi Dimitroff. Basing himself upon the analysis made in the Pieck report, Dimitroff outlined a course of action to prevent a Fascist takeover in other countries. This report was also largely influenced by the successes scored by the Communists of France who had been able to achieve a united front with the Socialist Party and other class forces, and had prevented a Fascist takeover in France. The main theme of this Congress was the building of a popular Democratic front. It called for unity of left-wing forces but not as a thing in itself for unity of the Left does not necessarily mean that you will have the necessary power to prevent a Fascist takeover. Therefore unity of the Left was presented as an enabling force to generate a broader united front, which could and would unite all pro-Democratic elements regardless of their political moorings. And so the Dimitroff report and the decisions of the 7th World Congress can still be used by us in the U.S. today as a guide on how to prevent the most pro-Fascist, pro-war racist elements from taking control of our country. During the 7th World Congress when a survey of mistakes made by various parties were listed, the Communist Party in the U.S. notwithstanding some breakthroughs, achieved in work among the unemployed masses and among farmers, came in for ctiticism. for its narrow and sectarian approaches.

Q We would like more in detail the nature of mistakes during the period of Franklin Delano Roosevelt and afterwards?

A They were mistakes bof of a left and right character. In the period between 1930 and 1937 the main mistakes were of a left character of a sectarian nature. We called for a united front ~~of~~ the masses under the leadership ~~of~~ with the Socialist Party but did so in the context of labelling ~~that~~ its leadership as Social Fascist. ~~Hence,~~ We were critical of the epic movement in California which erupted as a tremendous mass movement and characterized Upton Sinclair who headed the movement as a Social Fascist. Now there can be no doubt that the Social Democratic movement in Europe in general and Germany in particular, had been mainly responsible for paving the way for a Fascist takeover. So our appraisal of this matter from a strategic standpoint was a correct one. But from a tactical standpoint it was terrible. It is like beating a person on top of the head and then expecting that person to rush in and love you. After the New Deal period when we began to apply a broader policy namely the united front tactic as developed at the 7th World Congress, the CPUSA increasingly became a major political factor in the country. Its influence was felt in almost all categories of American life but whatever was achieved, the results could have been much greater had we not then begun to deviate toward the right. One of the principle weaknesses was that we gave too many concessions to our temporary allies, i.e; everybody admits that it was the self-sacrificing, dedicated and know-how of Communist organizers which helped to build up trade union organization in the major industries such as steel, auto, packing, etc. In this respect, a biographer of the late John L. Lewis asked him if he had not been afraid to utilize the services of so many Communists as organizers. John L's reply in substance was: "When a hunter goes hunting, he takes a bird dog with him." The dog catches the bird but the hunter eats the bird. The situation portrayed by John L. Lewis characterized in large part what followed. a powerful rank-and-file base We failed to build ~~the Party in sufficient strength~~ and often made concessions to allies ~~of times~~ when we did not have to. And so my young friends and comrades, from these experiences you can see that it is not easy to steer clear of deviations whether they come from the right or the left, and in summary, let me once again say that the main way to nullify the effects of such deviations and catch them before they get out of hand is a constant evaluation and re-evaluation of all ~~the~~ things the objective conditions of people and movements with whom we participate.

Q We also understand that you were a participant of the 6th World Congress of the Young Communist Internationale and was elected as an alternate of the executive body of that organization.

A Yes it was quite an honor to have been elected to the executive body of an organization which existed in over 80 countries of the world but this I did not take as a personal tribute. It was symbolic of the approach and concern for black people in the U.S. by the World Communist Movement.

Q What impressed you most about that Congress?

A Well first of all the fact that the Congress developed a program in accord with the main thesis of the 7th World Congress which was to build up a broad Democratic anti-Fascist movement. Secondly, I was impressed by the fact that the Young Communist League of the U.S. had made a monumental contribution to the work of the Congress by what it had already done in building a broadly based youth organization in the U.S.

In fact the building of the American Youth Congress, an organization which united most of the bourgois led youth organizations in the country together with left wing forces, was used as an example for the work of the youth leagues all over the world. Thirdly, at this congress I learned about a speech which Lenin had made to the youth of the Soviet Union in 1921. That speech had provided meaning not only for Soviet youth, not only for the youth of the 30's and 40's but has even greater meaning for the youth of today. I was chosen to deliver a speech before the Congress commemorating the memory of Comrade Lenin and his famous speech. Lenin's message to the Youth League shaped my thinking as to how to acquire a Communist education. He above all else polymized against youth embracing slogans and doctrines without understanding the substance underneath them. In my judgment if there is anything that characterizes much of the confusion and unclarity among black youth of today is that they have been taken in by too much revolutionary rhetoric and slogans and do not show enough concern about the substance of things.

Q Comrade Lightfoot, speaking of slogans and rhetoric, how do you view the concept of "history comes from the barrel of a gun?"

A Well this slogan taken as a thing in itself can be misleading, harmful and in some instances lead to disaster. The historic process involves the relationship and inter-relationship of many things of which guns are only a apart. I would substitute for this one-sided evaluation of the role of guns, the proposition advanced by Karl Marx himself that "the history of all hitherto existing society is the history of class struggles. Freeman and slave, patrician and plebian, land and serf, guiddmaster and journeyman; in a word, oppressor and oppressed, stood in constant opposition to one another, carried on an uninterrupted now hidden, now open fight that each time ended either in a revolutionary reconstitution of society at large or in the common rule of the contending classes." Pg.9, 1st pp. Inter-National Publishers, N.Y. '49.

Now even in situations where guns become the principle means of changing a society or advancing history it is not done with guns and guns alone. Military theoreticians tell us that in the process of determining which forces will triumph over others, that the measuring rod for this determination is found.in what is called the five M's. They are: 1. Money 2. Material 3. Mobilization 4. Manpower 5. Morale.

History shows that in order to wage war successfully all of these elements must be present although not on an even basis. If guns were the only factor or the main factor, Hitler would have won World War II. It was the morale factor of the Soviet people who buried their bodies in the ground and let tanks roll over them and after they passed, destroyed them with little bottles of gasoline, Molotov cocktails that enabled them to triumph.

In our time the defeat inflicted upon U.S. forces against uneven military odds in Vietnam arises mainly out of three factors, the support of the people, the ability to mobilize that support and a high degree of morale.

The Vietnamese people have guns but nothing compared to what U.S. forces possess and yet we are losing the war.

So in summary it can be said that history comes primarily from the unwillingness of people to live with exploitation, tyranny and injustice. When this state of mind exists in the broad masses with or without guns the principle means of victory is present.

Given the total mobilization of the people, the possibility of widespread violence is minimized. Take for the example the Russian revolution. Because of the support from the people including the armed forces, the takeover from the Korensky government was accomplished with only a few dozen casualties. And so, my young friends, rather than all this emphasis on guns ~~as~~ per se my advice and the advice of the CPUSA at this stage of the game is to concentrate on finding the keys with which to unlock the doors between a handful of revolutionaries and the people. In so doing we will unlock the hearts of the people and guarantee that the doors to victory over our tormentors and oppressors will be opened.

Q What is your attitude toward individuals acts of terror as a solution to problems?

A History is replete with many examples where so-called revolutionaries have ~~xxxxxxxx~~ resorted to terroristic forms to overthrow tyrannical regimes. However, one of the best examples of why this form of activity should be combatted among serious minded revolutionaries, was the ~~xxxx~~ Narodnik Movement in Czarist Russia at the end of the last century. The Narodniks were ~~peopel~~ people who came primarily from the intellegensia students etc. They considered themselves as the vanguard force to overthrow the Czars regime. With this aim in mind they went in to the countryside to organize the peasants. But their tactics and lack of understanding of what would move the peasants as well as the processes they would have to go through only alienated the peasants who in turn called in the Czar's police.

Based on this experience the Narodnik lost faith in the people and began to seek another answer, this time through assassinations of Czarist officials. The Czars government reacted with extreme forms of repression and the people did not support the Narodniks against these attacks. As a consequence some of the Narodniks were hanged. Lenin's older brother was among them. Young Lenin observed these developments and concluded that there must be a better way. He pointed out that the tragic mistake his brother and his coworkers had made was that they went out to teach the peasants but not to learn from them. These profound observations shaped the thinking of the man who later emerged as one of three or four greatest revolutionaries of all time. His greatest asset was that while teaching the people he also learned from them ~~down~~ to the most ordinary worker.

Thus programs which are not based on the masses and correspond to their understanding of things are doomed to failure.

They also reflect a Petty Bourgois mentality of contempt for the intelligence of the people, of the theory that great individuals and not the masses are the makers of history. I would therefore urge all serious revolutionaries who because out of frustrations etc. lose faith in the people to beware of trick bags which seem revolutionary like individual acts of terror and to carry on an eternal struggle to connect with the masses. For as Karl Marx once wisely observed that those who want to change the world must first take the world as it is, and when this is done the process of how this can be done becomes clearer.

Q Speaking of Karl Marx, there are those who say he had no program for black people; what is your answer to this charge?

A I'm glad you raised this question. It is not a new one. Stokely Carmichael speaking in Havana at the Conference of Latin American revolutionaries made the charge of the irrelevance of the class struggle to black liberation and xx in so doing did a disservice to the theory of how total freedom for all black people is to be achieved. I attempted to answer those charges in a doctrine I made last summer in Leipsig Germany at Karl Marx University. Presented herein with are some excerpts from that lecture:

Q Comrade Lightfoot you said you had some material about comrade Lenin and Karl Marx on the National Question,

A: yes, I'll first submit some quotes from the Writings of Lenin.;

Q. Comrade Lightfoot, you have given us a splendid example of how Marx and Lenin approached the problems of oppressed peoples, but has the Communist Party made any theoretical contributions to the solution of black people's problems in the United States?

A. Yes, our Party has made outstanding contributions, which I'm certain some day historians will record as the best on the American scene.

Q. Does this evalution include estimates made by black people themselves?

A. Yes, it includes the participation mainly of black people, of black Communists, but not alone by blacks, but with people from all walks of life, including whites

Q. But how can whites who have not suffered the same indignities as blacks contribute to the theoretical solutions to these problems?

A. It is one thing to say that whites cannot and should not lead the black people's struggles. It is another to say that they cannot make meaningful contributions to formulating policies to promote black liberation.

Perhaps, this hang-up (?) by some black people of the inability of white people to contribute to the formulation of Policies for Black liberation arises out of the fact that in this bourgeois and racist-led society, whites who have approached the problem have been mainly those who work for minor concessions and not the full solution. They represent in large part the liberal community who have no deep convictions about anything, not to speak of black liberation. ~~And the racist influence of white chauvinism also penetrates the radical left.~~ influence their thinking. Obviously

But in an interracial organization such as the Communist Party which wages a constant struggle against the ideology of white superiority, and which embraces ~~many other sectors of the people,~~ Within its own ranks people who have no stake in the perpetuation of racism and who see the self interest of oppressed whites connected with black liberation. It is possible under such conditions for whites to make outstanding contributions. Excellent examples of this fact can be found by studying the works of William Z. Foster, Eugene Dennis, Gus Hall, and such Marxist writers and historians as Dr. Herbert Aptheker, James Allen and others.

And so, these men joined with black Communist leaders like James W. Ford, Ben Davis, William L. Patterson, Henry Winston, James Jackson, Pettis Perry and others to define the character of black oppression in the United States. Finally, when you deal with science, only on a subjective basis, science requires a combination of subjective and objective factors. Thus a combination of black and white, which proceed from the premise of goodwill can often come to a more rounded out exposition of a problem.

For the problems of black liberation do not depend alone on what blacks think and do but also on what the state of affairs are in the country and in the world. If it is possible for blacks to best understand blacks, then conversely, it can be said that whites can best understand whites.

And since both can best understand their own environment then it would stand to reason that when they join together the whole picture can best be seen. Black slavery could have not have been ended in the United States without the outstanding participation of the Abolitionist movement of men like Wendell Phillips and Frederick Douglas, one black and the other white.

It is my view that American Communists today represent the best traditions of the abolitionists and the Marxists of the Civil War period.

Q. In what way do you feel the definition given the problem of black oppression by the Communist Party is the best possible approach?

A. In several ways. But when the Party defined black oppression containing the elements of a class, national and racial character, this is the most rounded out exposition yet made.

There are those on the Left, starting from the old right-wing Socialist Party which defined the problem as purely class.

In so doing, this approach tended to keep black people in an unequal status, for if the problem is only class, then how explain a system of double exploitation for almost four centuries. Black people have been put in a special situation ~~that contains more than just that of the working class.~~ The solution, ~~too~~, requires a special approach.

On the other hand, we have extreme nationalist groups who see only the national and racial aspect. Such an approach, too, will not solve the problems. For if the racial and national aspects would be removed tomorrow and the class problem remained, then the majority of blacks who are workers would still remain a submerged group. A program that encompasses all the problems of black people, of all the people, therefore require viewing it from a class, national and racial standpoint. Exclusive preoccupation with only one or another aspect will not result in black liberation. History has already proven this to be the case.

Q. We notice that the Party has expressed itself on the slogan of self-determination and the problem of nationhood of blacks.

A. Yes, even though our Party has defined with great precision the nature of this problem - that is class, national and racial. Nonetheless, we have made a number of mistakes of assessment at a given moment which was the dominant feature.

But it is my judgment that our present position which does not seek to place this problem in a rigid mold but one which allows for events to be the determining factor is the best approach.

This does not mean that we take a passive approach. We know that in the final analysis that the removal of class oppression is basic to black liberation. But on the road to this goal, one cannot overlook national and racial features, the forms through which these features will be expressed are not at the present time foreseeable.

The resolution we adopted at the 19th National Convention stated:

"1. ON THE SLOGAN OF SELF-DETERMINATION

"The struggles waged by black people in the United States in recent years have increasingly taken on the character of a struggle for power.

Concepts such as black power, people's power, representative government, self-government and community control and determining their own destiny, although varying in terms of popular support, nonetheless add up to a new stage of the struggle where power has become the common objective.

In dealing with Afro-Americans we are dealing with a people who have evolved along patterns that are unique, and distinctly different from any other people in history. Thus, the starting point for developing a position on the character of the struggle must be rooted in black American experience. Not even black experience on a global scale, although manifesting many common features, suffices to explain the situation of the Afro-American people. Their uniqueness lies in the following:

1. They wage their struggle within the heartland of U.S. imperialism.

2. Unlike some oppressed peoples, they live side by side with their oppressors.

3. The fact that the majority of black people living in the U.S. are faced with questions which are in the main those of an industrialized society, though the problem of land still remains an important aspect of struggle, means they have a major stake in working-class struggles and the fight for socialism.

4. No people in history, including blacks elsewhere, was cut off as much from their historic roots as were the Afro-Americans, or for that matter have had their history so much distorted.

5. Living in segregated communities or on plantations, black people have evolved an American experience such as no other component of the U.S. has evolved.

6. Most oppressed people are exploited and super-exploited as a result of class and national features. Black people's oppression has three features: class, national and racial.

7. The Afro-Americans represent a people who for over four centuries have never had an opportunity to decide their destiny. Moreover, they have never had a voice in the affairs of the nation. Capitalism has always presented roadblocks to prevent blacks from deciding their own fate.

"Because of these and other factors, black people in the U.S., without all the national characteristics of many other oppressed peoples, nonetheless manifest many of the aspirations common to oppressed nations throughout the world.

"Especially is this true in regard to the right of having the decisive voice in the decisions affecting their own lives, as well as an equal voice in the affairs of the nation.

"The CPUSA fully associates itself with these aspirations. Even though black people do not now constitute a nation, as we adhere to the principle of proletarian internationalism, we do not place any limitations upon the further development of national struggle of black people to satisfy their aspirations up to and including their right to develop self-government and to exercise the right of self-determination. Moreover, we work to create conditions whereby those rights can be expressed free from all manner of social, economic, political, cultural and legal restrictions.

"We believe that it is only under a socialist system that these things can be fully accomplished. However, the struggle for them must be waged within the present system, for their purposes are just and because such struggle in the immediate makes possible the achievement of the ultimate.

"At present it is not possible to foresee all the various forms and institutions as well as territorial changes that will be needed to secure for black people equality and liberation within the North American continent. Whatever is done must accord with freely arrived-at decisions by the black people themselves."

For further discussion, we recommend reading the appended material.

Jarvis Tyner: Comrade Lightfoot, we want to thank you for taking out time to discuss with us some of the vital elements of your development as a Marxist, as a Communist.

We are going to read the material you've suggested. But what would you suggest we give priority to?

A. Well, I consider as a basic primer THE COMMUNIST MANIFESTO and Lenin's MESSAGE TO THE YOUTH, appendix no. ____. These provide the broad framework upon which to build a Marxist-Leninist education.

Let me once again thank you for coming. I've done all the talking. Nonetheless the kind of questions you placed have made me review things and I myself have gotten a fresher perspective. I hope I have been of service to you.

Excerpts from speech at the Black Youth of Today

(Quotes from Washington Park Forum, July 16, 1967 by Claude Lightfoot - "Black Youth Today")

BLACK YOUTH TODAY

excerpts and quotes from speech, Washington Park forum July 16 1967

"Black youth regard themselves as Americans, but before them is a long history of Negroes dying to advance the welfare of segments of the white led world while they, and theirs remained enslaved. They are not impressed by a Chrispus Attucks unbossoming himself to the bullets of British minute men dying in order that America be free while black men remained slaves. They are not impressed with those Negro slaves who died carrying the Confederate flage in the conflict of 1861-1865. Nor are they too impressed with the exploits of Dorie Miller in World War II, a war in which Negroes had much more at stake.

Today's Youth are prepared to die for freedom in the Ghettos and not in the rice paddies in Viet Nam

The black ghetto of today has given birth to a new breed of young people. The young generation of my time, albeit a rebellious one, did not reflect much of what is present in today's generation. This younger generation is better educated than the ones of the past. They have a better comprehension of the world in which they live. They also observe that militant struggles for the last 40 or 50 years which characterized the emergence of the Negro ghettoes in the North have not brought the desired results. To them America remains "a great big white fog through which a black man finds it almost impossible to penetrate."' They are much more sophisticated and cynical. They cannot be appeased by minor concessions as was the case of much of my generation. They reflect a world wide revolution which is bringing fundamental changes and not merely measures which are only palliatives. They want to '"eat high on the hog."' They want pork chops and tenderloin alongside pig feet and chitterlings. They demand recognition as Men and Women and not as boys and girls"

Black youth reflects much of the violence that Chief Justice Warren called the nation's attention to at the time of the Kennedy assasination. They are the victims of the violence of this society. Police brutality and a thousand and one different oppressive measures are used to hold them in line. But unlike previous generations, they will not live as peacefully with the visitation of violence in their communites as was the case in the past. They are not about to '"turn the other cheek."' ~~Many of them are prepared to die in defense of their rights on the streets of Harlem, Watts, West Side Chicago, Roxbury and a host of other ghettoes which have erupted in the recent period."~~

.....

"We are living in a period in which our whole national life has been touched by corruption. It is a period in which American youth find it difficult to reconcile the world they live in with the preaching and practices of many of their elders. Small wonder that the first breakthrough in terms of a mass response of white Americans came from youth who, in their endeavor to live a useful, creative and purposeful life, found its expression in supporting the objectives of the civil rights movement. Students throughout America responded to the call of Negro students in the South who staged the historic sit-in movements of 1960. The response of white youth to that struggle marked the beginning of a new situation in the support which the Negro got from white Americans."

World Marxist review Oct. 1965

[illegible]

Many black youth are finding their way toward socialism. But ~~in most cases they~~ some are picking and choosing among various socialist forces on the basis of color.

Socialism, notwithstancing many variations due to specific national development, has certain features in common and are universal. Among these are:

First, to build socialism political power must be in the hands of the working people, the workers, peasants and intelligentsia, and this democratic power must be guided by the working class, since this is the class which is directly connected with industry, the material base on which socialism rests.

Seondly, to achieve socialism, the working class has to rally around itself all the progressive forces in society.

Third, to ensure that political power is in the hands of the people guided by the working class, it is not enough to enjoy universal franchise and other democratic freedoms, it is necessary to wield state power, to direct the whole apparatus of state, including the armed forces and the police, which is left in the hands of pro-imperialist or capitalist forces, can be turned against the workers and peasants and their organizations.

Fourth, the political power of the working people must be used to transform all the means of production and exchange -- factories, mines, land, banks, transport, etc. -- into collective property, the property of the whole people, so that no man can exploit the labor of another for his own profit. This collective property can take differing forms: Ownership by local councils, or ownership by groups of people or co-operatives.

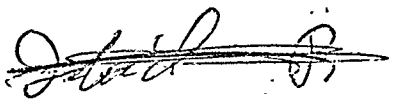
There is no place in such a society for the private landlord or private employer. Individual farmers or traders, shopkeepers, craftsmen may continue, if they wish -- but only if they work on their own account, not if they exploit the labor of others. This would apply also to those who are not themselves private employers but who hold shares in private firms. With the taking over of such enterprises by the people, the capitalist shareholders would have to surrender their ownership.

Fifth, with the means of production in the hands of the people, and with the decisive sections of the economy in the hands of the state, production can be planned instead of being left to the anarchy of private profit interests; and further, the aim of production will become that of satisfying the material and spiritual needs of the people and no longer that of filling the pockets of private capitalists and landowners, whether foreign or indigenous.

~~by Claude M. Lighttoot~~

Our youth have a rendezvous with history and their dateline reads, Now! They are in tune with the most revolutionary period in history. Their unwillingness to live peacefully with the status quo impels them into the struggle for radical change. But the movement is hampered by insufficient knowledge of where it is going, what is required to arrive there, and the pitfalls to be avoided along the way.



Emotional responses alone are inadequate. If he is to be effective, the young freedom fighter of today must be not only an activist but also a soqal and political scientist.

Ghetto Rebellion to Black Liberation

* * * *

Those civil rights forces who are becoming frustrated and do not see the possibilities for achieving Negro and white unity lack a clear conception of what is required to put an end to Jim Crow. It is, therefore, incumbent upon more conscious forces to present a clear, comprehensive strategic and tactical outline of things that will be required. For the movement today proceeds in a pragmatic fashion from one issue or struggle to another around specific issues and general slogans."

* * * * * *

"Let us take, for example, the slogan 'Freedom now!' Negro youth have embraced this slogan with a zeal and determination to see it through no matter what the cost. In this respect, they have advanced the whole movement forward from a gradualist to a revolutionary position. But to embrace such a slogan is not enough. Above all, one must know at least in broad outline what one must do, and what the objective situation is regarding the possibility of achieving the goal. Unless this understanding is also present, those who fight so hard today may become frustrated and lose confidence tomorrow." Negro Liberation Sept 1964

"Usually when people find out that the system must be changed, they become impatient and proceed to deny others the same methods of attaining this understanding. They thus set up unnecessary barriers between themselves and less conscious forces. Such barriers not only operate against the ability to win partial demands but also postpone achieving the prerequisites for changing the system itself." (Ibid. Ch. 8, p. 89)

Ghetto rebellion

Revolutionary strategy ~~like~~ in a certain sense must be based on sound military ~~principles~~. A good general never draws his troops in the face of the enemy without at the same time having some idea of what to do how to retreat in case something goes wrong.

Our young revolutionaries constantly violate this principle and when they suffer defeats, they are routed, ~~disorganized~~ ~~in good order~~ and have no clear lines of retreat. Unless they begin to grasp this fact their disaster will ~~have~~ all of them

(1) "There are among us some 'loud mouth revolutionaries' who think the road to revolution is through the usage of four letter words and by directing their main fire against potential allies and even against people within our own ranks, they concentrate on 'ten easy ways to make enemies,' But the 'good Lord' knows we have enough enemies, what we need is a program to win more friends on our own terms. (2) "These people, ~~Those loud-mouth-revolutionaries~~ who specialize in divisive methods may sound radical, or even ultra revolutionary, but the theme is not new. We've heard it before. It is: 'divide and be conquered -- divide and be ruled. Hate and fight among ourselves," and hate And so we fall an easy prey to the man and his establishment. In fact, it is obvious that some of them have been bought and paid for by the man for this purpose."

Black Power and related matters.

(Political Affairs, April 1966)

"During the last two decades, the emergence of legislative and judicial actions and executive decrees has been historic. In the decade of the forties the Supreme Court rendered a number of decisions outlawing restrictive covenants. During the fifties it rendered decisions on school desegregation and a host of related test cases. In 1964 and 1965, Congress enacted two major bills. The executive branch of government has issued numerous orders on matters pertaining to civil rights. On the state and municipal levels, there are laws affecting the civil rights of Negroes in many areas, including employment.

One would suppose that with all these ~~court~~ rulings, laws and executive orders ~~we should be able to show~~ would show that jim crow in the United States has been substantially reduced. ~~Nevertheless~~ On the contrary, we are still in the stage of "token" results. ~~These facts~~ This should suffice to show that there will be no significant enforcement of government decrees without a realignment of political forces within the country. And that The civil rights forces, or for that matter other progressive forces, cannot lay their hands on the political machinery as it now exists and expect significant results."

"In view of the many militant struggles of the past decades, one would think the status of civil rights would be much further advanced than it is, What are some of the obstructions which have jammed the machinery and flow of progress?

Of no small significance is the fact that the monopolies, the ruling circles of our country, find themselves in a dilemma. On the one hand, they see our prestige abroid being undermined by the second-class citizenship status of Negroes. On the other hand, they fear that any change in that status may mean they stand to lose billions of dollars, dollars which represent the extra surplus extracted from the super-exploitation of Negroes. The ruling monopoly circles and their main political representatives are therefore oriented on a policy which calls for minor concessions whenever the pressure is strong, and at the same time the most stubborn resistance to any major changes."

"The structure of our form of government is a tremendous obstacle to any ~~rapid~~ advance. Our ~~government~~ is divided into three power structures. They are 1) The legislative branch which enacts the law; 2) The Judicial branch which interprets the law, but is also in a certain sense an enforcement agent; and 3) The Executive branch which is charged with the function of enforcing the law. All three branches have certain powers which enable a cancelling out process.

This so-called equal distribution of power is nothing more than a built-in safeguard for reactionary policies. There have been many instances in American history where reactionaries have used one branch of government to bludgeon another branch into line, that is, to cancel out gains made by the people through a different channel of government. But there has been nothing that compares with what we have witnessed in the last nine years."

CYNICISM OF GOVERNMENT

"The failure of the Executive and Legislative branches of government to adopt policies for implementing the Court decisions has not only hurt our country, abroad, but has undermined the moral fibre of our whole society.

Youth especially are growing cynical about the sacredness of law and order as they witness local state government cancel out ruling from a higher body of government. The lawlessness which has reigned in the South in the last nine years has a direct bearing on juvenile delinquency which in itself is a major problem for the whole country.

One cannot tell youth to be solid law-abiding citizens, and expect their respect when they witness a whole section of our country defy the law of our land.

During this period of lawlessness, the Executive branch of government

"To drive the Dixiecrats from seats of power in the South and the Federal government, and from the policy councils of the Democratic Party, is the number one political task which must be accomplished before this nation can once again ride on the broad highway to social progress."

* * * * *

"The Kennedy Administration, which many regard as the most advanced administration on civil rights, never really committed the full power of the executive branch of the government to the protection of these fighters. A few years ago, several civil rights organizations combined their forces to carry out a massive registration drive in the South. But their efforts fell short of the mark. This was due mainly to the failure of the Federal government to use all weapons at its disposal to protect those in the South who were organizing the drive and those who wished to register. Conditions must therefore be created to make it possible to carry out this task after the 1964 campaign.

But in regard to this issue and all others, we cannot base ourselves on any of the presidential hopefuls. Only an aroused and united people's movement is capable of forcing through advances such as we have been discussing. ~~The civil rights organizations and movements face a gigantic task in this regard."~~

"In some circles there is a growing disenchantment with demonstrations as a form of action, but there are demonstrations and demonstrations. The main object of a demonstration is the involvement of masses, and forms of demonstration which do not produce this result should be discarded. But demonstrations based on the effort to enlist the broadest mass participation are precisely what is needed to break through the political barriers in the 1964 elections. Actions of the masses in the streets combined with wise political action at the polls can register real results in the forseeable future."

"The Negro movement, largely influenced by the world-wide revolution, especially the gaining of freedom by former colonies in Asia and Africa, as well as joining the struggle to make real and meaningful the Supreme Court decisions, leaped from a stage of gradualism to revolutionary heights. It placed on its banner the objective of total freedom. The Negro people's movement was no longer satisfied with this or that minor concession. It placed revolutionary demands and goals and now measured everything including former allies, from this premise. Even within the movement itself new leaders emerged and old ones had to recast their molds to fit the image of the present period. Thus has the Negro movement

"Yes, despite this great advance, negative voices are being heard calling for a boycott of the polls in November. The failure to defeat Dawson and the arrogant role of the local white Democratic leaders have inspired this mood. These young people feel hemmed in. On the one hand they see the Republicans following racist patterns, and in the local situation the Democratic city, county and state officials stand as the main obstacles in securing their just demands. Admittedly, this is a complex problem. But that is all the more reason why it cannot be answered by 'simple' solutions such as boycottism."

" Boycottism is a subjective ~~reactuib~~ reaction, But politics is a science. Those who would be free must study and act like scientists. For by now it should be crystal clear that the Negro's desire for freedom and Negro militancy, while ~~they are~~ important aspects of the fight for freedom, are alone insufficient to obtain it. Black Power pamphlet and letters

Quotes from lecture at 3/[illegible]

(Lecture delivered by Claude Lightfoot, Washington Park Forum, Chicago, Ill., June 16, 1967)

1. The black power slogan articulated by Stokely Carmichael has unleashed a new era in the struggle for black liberation. The center of gravity shifted from a mere civil rights struggle to a social revolution. This emphasizing the necessity for economic and political power as the hard core of future struggles.

2. Carmichael achieved a place in history when he began chanting Black Power on the Meridith March in Mississippi. The response of the whole nation to the slogan emphasized anew that "there is nothing more powerful than an idea whose time has come."

3. It is one of the great tragedies of our time that Carmichael and the forces he represented did not follow through with a clear and realistic appraisal of what would be required to achieve black power

4. Several black power conferences have been held but they did not come to grips with defining the line of march required to obtain black power. The main preoccupation was with the subjective factor , namely, what we desire. If black people could or would be free only on the basis of desire, the slaves would never have come here. The institution of slavery and semi-slavery could never have been established.

5. An important ingredient for the furtherance of black power is staying power for those who claim to lead.

6. It is a sad commentary that so many black militant leaders who have taken some of the loudest revolutionary positions, should cop-out so easily and quickly. The present almost non-existence of CORE and SNCC is largely a result of a desertion of the struggle by some of their most beloved leaders. If desires for freedom are to be realized then they ~~Desires for freedom, if they are to be realized~~, must be accompanied with an appraisal of life outside themselves -- as a people. We must know everything about the Man and his establishment. Otherwise we will only be whistling in the dar.

Black power means more than mere representation. It means equal power of a black minority in a majority white society. It means that black people must have a decisive voice in determining their destiny. It means that black people must have adequate power to defend gains made along freedom road.

Black capitalism has nothing in common with black power. It is too late in the day for black capitalists to become competitive with white capitalists. ~~In the final analysis for the impoverished black masses it is a dead-end street.~~ Moreover, since black capitalism will be controlled by white capitalists, white domination of ghetto economy will become stronger. Thus black capitalism is a facade behind which white capitalists can hide their superexploitation of black people.

Black power can become meaninful only to the extent that rank and file black people establish controls over their elected representatives. ~~Black power advocates ways to seek alliances with the impoverished white masses who have cause to fight the Man and his establishment.~~

People's Power, the power of the common people, both blacks and whites, is the road that can lead to ~~black liberation~~. real Black Power

.....Pamphlet Black Power and Liberation 1967

The spontaneous outbursts of violence and the relatively more peaceful demonstrations and sit-ins of the past have one thing in common. Both serve to dramatize the situation black people confront. Both plow up the ground for social change. But by themselves they will not bring about changes of a basic character. Just as the farmer who plows the ground must also plant seeds and then cultivate the plants to get results, so, too, conscious freedom fighters must look to complementary forms of struggle to accompany the violent struggle.

The situation could be compared to a military operation. Military science teaches that warfare waged only from the air by bombing planes, or by the use of heavy artillery on the ground, does not in itself win victories. The constant air attacks on North Vietnam are ample proof of this fact. After all the thunder of what has been called "the Gods of war" has subsided, the decisive instrument for gaining control and securing the victory is the relatively less bombastic force -- the infantry, the foot soldiers.

Therefore, all these things must be viewed in their totality. for black liberation The ultimate decisions will have to be made in the political arena. A political act is not just an exercise in ballot battles. A political decision under some circumstances can be realized only by armed insurrection. But we reiterate that there is nothing in the present state of affairs which justifies the call to arms as an offensive weapon.

In pursuance of the goal of reducing the area of superexploitation and of enhancing political power, a multiplicity of forms and techniques of struggle will be needed.

Some of these struggles will be non-violent; others may occasion the defensive use of violence. But in any case, the main weapons that black folks can use include, first, their labor power, their ability to halt production and reduce the profits of the big corporations. Second, they include their consumer power, their ability to disturb the profits of those firms which practice discrimination. And finally, they include their political power which, if wisely used, can compel some meaningful changes even in the framework of the capitalist system. Socialism is the final solution, but the struggle for limited goals today will pave the way to a full solution tomorrow. "

" To build a coalition of black and white requires full utilization of all forms of power that the people possess. It also requires avoiding escapist illusions, of which the enemy can and will make good use. Our nation can surmount its crises only if all the people find appropriate forms of struggle and act in concert. "

"... the use of racism against needed radical change is escalated when black people place demands which dip deeper and deeper into the roots of our society. It is accelerated by many 'liberals' joining the ultra-Right attack on the movement. Racism is also fed by the failure to evolve a comprehensive program to meet the new problems arising from deteriorating economic conditions on the job and housing fronts. The result is greater friction between black and white." (Ibid. Ch. 3, p. 42)

Ghetto rebellion

"Racism provokes moods of black nationalism in the "souls of black folk' today." (Ibid. Ch. 3, p. 42)

"The crux of the matter is that the deprived masses in America cannot successfully resolve these problems in the context of the two-party system as it presently exists. They can do so neither through the Democratic Party nor the Republican Party. Both are vehicles of the very forces that have brought our country to this critical state." (Ibid. Ch. 8, p. 108-109)

The Two rebellion

"Black power means many things to different people. It has many positive values ranging from the psychological to the political. As a slogan, it encompasses practically every phase of the black man's struggle in the United States. But the central reason why the slogan has been embraced by most people is the recognition of the necessity for black people to have a greater share of economic and political power." (Ibid. p.17)

Ghetto rebellion

"... In this respect their path was illuminated by Frederick Douglass who once pointed out, 'He who would be free must himself strike the first blow.'

Today, as when Douglass wrote, the role Negroes themselves must play is highlighted by the black power concept. This proposition does not deny the necessity for allies. Nor is it necessarily divisive. There are those, white and black, who seek to make it so, but 'it ain't necessarily so.'" (Ibid. p.19)

The slogan of black power, hated by some, deplored by others, and distorted by many, can have a positive effect in accelerating the rise of political independence by all segments of our people, both within and outside of the two-party system.

"In this age of monopoly capital, the Negro will never be able to amass enough capital to have a major voice in economic affairs. The banks, insurance companies and industries are run by private individuals whose stock holdings determine policy. Trade unions exercise some influence, but not basically. The only way black people can achieve voice and vote on economic policies is for the working class to take power and nationalize all the major industries. Under such conditions, the political weight of black people can be exerted in all the factories, mills, mines and workshops of the nation."

The rationale for changing the status of black Americans ~~under slaveek-ism~~ is observable under capitalism in the public and private sectors of the economy. Their position and status in industries operated by government far exceeds that in those operated by private enterprises. His vote at the ballot box can influence the public sector but has little effect in the private. Under socialism, where the government controls the whole economy, Black Power at the polls will influence the Negro's position in all aspects of our national life." (Political Affairs, Special Issue, February, 1968, "Path to Black Liberation Under Capitalism.")

"Black nationalism, like all forms of nationalism, have a class basis. Its class content lies in the aspirations of some blacks to substitute black exploiters for whites. But the main source of black nationalism is racism. And while those forms of black nationalism which shield the main source of black oppression and divide the people must be combatted, such the struggles must be waged mainly against racism." (Ibid)

"Currently there is a mass trend toward support of nationalist forms of development, though it is an uneven one. There are those who call for control over their communities while remaining within the general commonwealth. At present they do seek physical separation beyond making their communities power bases from which to operate in the general community. There is also a growing trend toward a program of separation and the building of a black nation in the South. ~~In fact, many of the counties which formerly represented the area we called the Black Belt have been singled out by some as the future homeland of black America.~~" (Political Affairs, November 1968, "The Right of Black America to Create a Nation.")

And in so doing the same time has acted as a barrier to its further growth and development. The economic needs of capitalism which dispersed black people all over the United States represent a case in point." (Ibid)

"We stand for full economic, political and social equality for black America. Toward that end we call for changes in all American institutions and the creation of guarantees that will make the black minority equals in a majority white society.

This should be the central thrust of our Party. In addition, we should call for a plebiscite of all black Americans on whether they want to remain in the general commonwealth or to establish another nation within the continental United States. If this plebiscite should reveal to us a significant number, even though a minority, who desire such a path, we Communists must say that we will have no hesitation in helping to establish such a nation, and that we will work to place at its disposal such resources and assistance as would make of it a prosperous community." (Ibid)

"In putting this position forward, we should make it clear that we Communists are internationalists and that our conception of the world of tomorrow envisions, not the breaking up of mankind into small units, but a world in which national distinctions will pass into the abyss of time. We see a new world in which all people, be they black, white, red, brown or yellow, can walk this earth as brothers and sisters and as equals.

However, since we have lived for several centuries under an exploitative system in which people of some nations and races have been subjugated by others, it is necessary to create a condition in which confidence among the peoples can be established. This is the rationale behind our use of the slogan of self-determination." (Ibid)

"Whether or not self-determination is appropriate will be determined by black America itself. Regardless of the form in which the black people express this right, we Communists must be prepared to assist them in every possible way." (Ibid)

"Of equal importance to black America manifesting the desire for nationhood is clarity on what it will take to reach the goal. Unfortunately, mass forces and organization standard bearers of the nationalist cause do very little to illuminate the path ahead. Moreover, some pursue lines of direction and tactical approaches which undermine the very goals they claim to seek.

"We live in an advanced age of science, both natural and social. And this problem of black nationhood, like all other social phenomena, must be approached scientifically. An approach which is based only on subjective desires, on mere condemnation and protest, will lead exactly nowhere."

What, then, are some fundamental prerequisites for the possibility of black America to establish a black nation with continental United States?

First and foremost is the social system which prevails in the country. As we have already pointed out, modern nations came into existence as a consequence of the rise of capitalist society. But it does not follow that in our day capitalism can and will generate conditions for new, free and independent nations to emerge. On the contrary, capitalism is the main force in today's world holding back independence for peoples and nations. ~~The nations which were born several centuries ago and are now the leading capitalist powers, in the course of their development subjected other peoples.~~" (Ibid)

"...Today, almost two hundred years later, the American nation, based on capitalism, is the chief policeman roaming all over the world to prevent colonial peoples from exercising the right of self-determination. //

If American capitalism in the pursuit of its narrow class interests cannot permit the peoples of Guatemala, of Cuba, of the Congo, of Indonesia, of the Dominican Republic, Ghana, and especially of Vietnam, to exercise their right of self determination, then how can anyone seriously talk about establishing a black nation in the United States, in the context of a capitq list society? //

In our time, socialism, and the strength it exerts in the world, is the fundamental condition for oppressed nations as well as evolving nations to gain the conditions for the exercise of the right of self-determination. Its record in this regard stands up under any objective evaluation. Indeed, the billion-and-a-half peoples of Asia, Africa and Latin America owe their political independence in large part to the role of the socialist sector of the world. //

~~There are those who seek to refute this proposition on the basis of the Warsaw Pact nations' occupation of Czechoslovakia. But this~~ the occupation of Czechoslovakia was not only in the interest of preserving socialism but also in defense of the oppressed nations and peoples ~~of this earth~~. The Warsaw Pact nations moved in time to prevent another Guatemala, another Congo, another Ghana. A socialist Czechoslovakia gave guns to liberate Algeria from French imperialism. It gives guns to the people of Vietnam. If the West German imperialists had succeeded in undermining socialism in Czechoslovakia, instead of Czechoslovakian guns going to Algeria and Vietnam, they would be used to keep those people or put them back under the heels of world imperialism." (Ibid)

"... the advocates of a black nation must identify themselves with all that is required to set up a socialist America. This means understanding the class nature of capitalist society. Above all else, it means recognizing that black people alone could never destroy capitalism and usher in a new system which would permit a reorganization of our entire society, a condition basic to carving out a black nation in continental United States. ~~This fact surfaces the necessity for allies. The advocates of a separate black nation for tomorrow must act in concert with other forces today.~~ Most nationalist organizations do not comprehend this basic truth, and yet, unless it is grasped, ~~the long range~~ their goal will remain empty -- ~~a sound and fury signifying nothing.~~" (Ibid)

"In addition to our failure to understand and anticipate the present wave of nationalism, we have historically underestimated the role of color, of race, of oppression as driving forces for Negro nationalism. We have tried to explain this trend from the definition Stalin gave of a nation as an historically evolved community having in common language, geography, economic life and psychological make-up. This definition is generally sound, but in dealing with the American Negro, we are dealing with a people that has a history different from any other people on earth. And fully to understand this make-up, we must take into consideration that here color, race and oppression operate independently of Stalin's definition."

reduce this merely to establishing equal rights for equal opportunity. To achieve even these goals will require some far-reaching changes in our society; and of course, to achieve them will be of no small importance. However, to establish equal rights or equal opportunities after three hundred years of exploitation and super-exploitation will not mean freedom or equality. From this it follows that a whole number of special approaches are required which will take in to account 300 years a backlog of 300 years. ~~For our purposes we can say:~~

" Freedom means the power to defend decisions freely arrived at, Freedom is not something that can be given. You either have it or you don't. If there is some power giving concessions, such a power can always cancel out what has been given. As the olf folks ~~among my people~~ say: '"The Lord giveth, and the Lord taketh."' To paraphrase this, one can say that the power that established Negro inequality, unless eliminated from the power structure, can always be in a position to cancel out whatever gains have been obtained. A good example of this was the Reconstruction period in the South. During this period, norther industrial capitalist interests, in order to consolidate their power over the defeated slaveholders, entered into an alliance with the ex-slaves. This alliance resulted in Negroes achieving a large measure of participation in the political arena... we should bear in mind that at a certain point of that period, the Negro was betrayed. The power gained by Negroes in theReconstruction era was due to the sufferance of norther capitalism. And when it suited the purposes of the financial oligarchs to restore 'peace' in the South, to take over the dominant positions of the economy in the South, the Negro was consigned to the tender mercies of the Ku Klux Klan."

Alliances between blacks and other people

(Quotes from report by Claude Lightfoot to a National Conference of the Communist Party on black liberation, October 14, 1967)

"It has been historical, as well as current, experience that a coalescence of struggle of black and white at the grass roots level is the main prerequisite for social advance in our country. Yet, at a time when the nation faces unprecedented problems such as war and peace, the growth of a fascist danger and new economic difficulties, to many people black and white unity has become a dirty word. Germs of disunity, germs of a cancerous nature, are circulating in the body of the American people, and unless radical surgery is performed, many of the vital organs will be lost, if not the entire body. Patent medicines no longer suffice to meet this growing crisis."

"The present moment can be characterized as one charged with great economic, political and social turbulence. Unlike the decade of the fifties, the mid-point of the 1960s is marked by ever-increasing waves of struggle by almost all strata of the American people. Yesterday it was mainly the Negro movement that protested injustice. Today the youth, the church, labor and the intelligentsia, in varying degrees, have taken the path of struggle. These forces are converging on the war policies of the Johnson Administration and are creating a deep-going crisis in foreign affairs. The peace movement in our country is perhaps the greatest in history. Seldom has a people challenged its government's pursuance of war with the vigor and determination now manifested by the American people."

.....

"In every aspect of American life there is an unprecedented degree of dissatisfaction. The people are striking back. Sometimes they strike according to plan. Sometimes they erupt spontaneously. And sometimes they hit out blindly. But whatever the form they take, these are all struggles by the people against a system that hurts so many of them."

In order to keep alive lines of coalition with their white brothers, they have had to concede most often; they have had to remain silent about discrimination in the interest of trade union unity. Today this situation has changed." For forty years or more the ruling class has not been able to play black and white against each other in strike struggles. But this reservoir of good will for the trade unions is drying up and unless some radical changes take place, the bosses may succeed in doing what they did during and after World War I, when they brought Negroes in from the plantations to break strikes. The large number of Negroes who are unemployed and underemployed, as well as the thousands of displaced agricultural workers in the South provide fertile ground for such developments today."

"Objective circumstances increasingly are compelling all pro-democratic masses into the arena of struggle. But consciousness of the interrelation of these struggles, of how they impinge on each other, and of what must be done to effect greater correlation, lags dangerously behind.

The forms that this offensive takes are many, but the decisive weapon is still racist ideology

6. Black people must learn from history. There has never been a class nation or peple, white, black, brown or yellow, who could carry out their purposes without seeking allies against a common foe. Sometimes these alliances were of a temporary nature and others more lasting. But whatever ~~was~~ is the case, a coalition policy is a fundamental prerequisite for success.

7. It is ironic that the two greatest national powers on earth today -- the U.S. and the Soviet Union -- the possessors of the means of destroying all mankind, still face the necessity to seek allies to strengthen their purposes and yet there are those blacks among us who reject alliances with anyone. ~~My reaction is,~~ ~~I'm prepared on some occasions~~ Black People must be prepared to 'unite with the devil to do the good Lord's work.'

8. There are those who argue that when blacks unite with whites, the purposes, aims and views and the level of understanding of whites are what will prevail.

In the past this has been largely true. But if black people rid themselves of an inferiority complex which is what is happening in the psychological revolution, then blacks should enter coalitions or alliances fully prepared to win whites for the purpose of supporting measures for black equality and not to reduce our objectives and goals to what whites understand.

9. Black people today talk from black experience and some reject other experience. Such an approach is tantamount to remaining exactly where we are, isolated and alone and still oppressed and ruled over by the man.

10. The evolvement of civilization represents a cross fertilization of knowledge in which no one people has a monopoly. All people have contributed to civilization, both positively and negatively.

11. Nations have risen and fallen due to their willingness or unwillingness to learn from others. Such was the fate of ancient China, which closed herself off from the rest of the world. And as a consequence she went backward, while other parts of the world went forward by utilizing her experience.

Black people must be prepared to learn from the devil if even we have to say 'the good Lord sent him.'"

"Conscious of its own role in world affairs, inspired by the world-wide sweep of freedom in Asia, Africa and other colonial areas of the world, the Negro movement placed on its banner the concept of 'Freedom Now.' "Another feature of historic importance to emerge in this period was the power of Negro action. The capacity of Negroes, independently of their actual and potential allies, to wage successful struggles, was demonstrated for the first time in the history of the Negro people in the United States. ~~For~~, while the Negro movement broke with gradualism and increased the tempo of the struggle all along the line, its closest friends and allies, labor and liberals, have not yet grasped the revolutionary nature of the Negro people's struggles, and ~~many~~ most still cling to approaches of gradualism. This often results in friction between these powerful forces. Notwithstanding ~~the lack of adequate support~~, ~~progress has been made~~. Yet

There are many factors which have contributed to this progress. Of prime importance is the present world situation, a situation in which the treatment of the Negro in America has been used as a measuring-rod by forces all over the world to determine what the true intentions of American foreign policy are. These struggles were mounted at a time when the power structure of the world had been greatly changed, and when forces struggling for freedom can win support all over the world. In this respect, the growing power of the Socialist sector of the world is of enormous advantage not only to colonial peoples struggling against imperialism, but to American Negroes as well."

"... Alliances for progress, not to be confudes with the 'OAS,' have been the cornerstone upon which people have achieved freedom throughout human history. This has been done by all races, all classes and all nations. A coalition policy is the essence of world politics. The African nations, or the blacks within these nations, have built powerful nationalist movements. In most cases these movements have not been divisive. They have united their forces internally and sought aid from other forces, regardless of color. This was their method to win freedom. This is their method today in world politics. They do not 'walk alone' and so they wield tremendous influence on world events.

Thus, many Negroes conclude fro- the experience of the last two decades that integration remains abstract because it does not automatically solve the problem of being black. Even in integrated houses, schools and other institutions the Negro can, and does, remain a second class citizen, with little or no voice over decisions which have great meaning for his life.

In these circumstances, many Negroes have come to conclude that the exercise of freedom requires dealing with the other side from positions of strength, rather than depending on "good will" or "moral persuasion." This is one of the driving forces behind the black power slogan and concept.

Ibid.

Black people are distrustful and have little confidence in the good-will of whites. Therefore, one of the main problems before the country is the building of popular white forces who will unite with their black brothers as equals. In this way confidence among the people, black and white, will be restored. If we fail quickly to bring into existence such a force, darkness and disaster face the nation.

Ghetto Rebellion to Black Liberation

Quotes from

(World Marxist Review, Oct. 1965, "The Path to Negro Freedom")

"The Negro people in the United States in the last ten years have waged a relentless and unceasing struggle to batter down the walls of Jim Crow and segregation. Their efforts have been variously described as the "Civil Rights Revolution," the "Negro Revolt," etc. It is no overstatement to say that this struggle in its entirety constitutes a growing and vibrant revolution."

" Today, many important forces in the United States regard the solution of the Negro question as the central domestic issue of our time. This does not mean that problems such as peace, economic welfare or civil liberties are regarded as secondary issues. On the contrary, these issues affect all Americans without regard to race, color or creed. What is seen in the Negro question is that none of the other questions can basically or even partially be solved without its solution. The centrality of the Negro question is also international in scope. There has, perhaps, never been a minority group struggling for its rights that has engaged the attention of the world to the extent that the Negro question in the U.S. has done."

" .....

"Historically, the Negro movement had never been too militant in periods when it stood in isolation. The Negro people, constituting as they do a minority, has ever been conscious of the necessity of allies; but in this tituation they were prepared to and did wage struggles, often with the knowledge that they would not get help from forces they had heretofore regarded as their staunchest friends. However, it would be a mistake to conclude that the Negro waged these struggles without allies. For something had changed basically in world affairs which made it possible to do things that could not have been been dreamed of twenty years ago.

What was new was the rise of the socialist world, foremost within it the great Soviet people, and the more than one and a half billion people who had wrested freedom from the colonial and imperialist powers. Both combined their weight against racialism in the United States. And so, while it was not possible initially to bring along allies on a local level, it was possible to do so in the world arena. And the response of these forces to the Negro's struggle reacted on the internal situation in the United States, compelling numerous internal forces to support the Negro struggle."

.....

"The world democratic movement was helped to awareness of its responsibilities by the efforts of the Negro people themselves. Foremost among those who pioneered this development, and who aroused the insensate hatred of the American racists and many of their liberal apoligists, were Paul Robeson and William L. Patterson. The latter has spent a lifetime in mobilizing support for the embattled Negro in the United States. His efforts began with the fight to free the Scottsboro Boys and Angelo Herndon, intended victims of southern racism, in the early 1930's. His most outstanding effort in later years was the petition he drafted and presented to the United Nations in 1951, entitled 'We Charge Genocide.' In it, he called for the intervention of the United Nations under the Charter of Human Rights.

Paul Robeson also dramatized the Negro question in a speech delivered in Paris twelve or thirteen years ago. The impact of Robeson's expose of the real situation of the American Negro to the peoples of Western Europe, to the socialist camp and to the ex-colonial world was so great that the State Department sent many of its 'Uncle Toms' to all parts of the world to paint exaggerated pictures of the progress being made by the U.S. Negroes.

Robeson's contribution to the ideological basis upon which the Negro movement presently operates was both prophetic and outstanding. He was among the first to call for a break with gradualism and to emphasize the power of Negro action."

"Negro-white unity, especially Negro-labor unity, reached high points of development in the thirties and forties. As a consequence, nationalist movements of a separatist nature, which had been quite powerful, faded into insignificance. The most harmonious relationship existed between the leadership of the CIO and the Negro community. The labor movement and certain outstanding liberal personalities often took initiatives for Negro rights and did not wait for the Negro community to lead. In 1954, when the United States Supreme Court issued its historic decision on school desegregation, a process of change in relationships was under way. Qualitative changes took place within the Negro and labor movements. The Negro movement became more militant while the labor movement was becoming more conservative."

vement, by its militancy and determination, has been one of the main sparks igniting changes in labor and other social strata. This movement must continue to press its demands and press its natural allies, such as labor which has much in common with the Negro people, into ever greater activity. Thus, in the fight to build Negro and white unity, the Negro masses must not hold back until the white allies are ready. They must press on, on, and on, but always with the understanding that while partial gains can be won by the power of Negro action alone, a fundamental solution is not possible without the broadest development of Negro-white unity in general, and unity with labor in particular. ~~A Negro-white alliance for progress is the keystone in the arch of the struggle to end Jim Crow."~~

"Today forces in the United States other than the Negro movement are being forced into the general arena of struggle. And as these struggles reach a broader level, they will create favorable objective conditions for ending Jim Crow and will lay the basis for changing the situations which has prevailed in the labor movement for the last ten years. With these changes the possibility of building a Negro-labor alliance which will represent the hard core of a general people's coalition will grow. Such an alliance is a precondition to putting America back on the highway of social progress. It is a precondition to ending the Jim Crow system."

New trends and developments do not spring up overnight but grow over a period of time. The present level of the Negro liberation movement did not spring up suddenly. This movement, which was initiated by the Montgomery bus boycott, has been ten years in the making. It is my contentio- that we face problems far greater than that period. The very existence of civilization is at stake. Once again social systems are clashing. Yesterday a growing capitalism could not exist side by side with a system based on slavery; today, a capitalism which is obsolete, outworn and useless, cannot be replaced by a system based on the needs of all oppressed humanity without destroying the system of national oppression which binds black America to an inhuman existence.

Ghetto Rebellion to Black Liberation
by Claude M. Lightfoot

The central aspect of American experience is the fact that the big business-military oligarchy uses racism to divide and rule a society based on the institutions both of race oppression and class exploitation. The racist-class system in the United States is neither stable nor static. It cannot forever withstand the power of an idea whose time has come: The majority of 180 million whites cannot escape for long the system of class exploitation and war while more than 20 million black people live under the twin institutions of class and racial oppression.

Ibid.

If the slaveholders failed to sustain monolithic unity to perpetuate their system in the last century, it is inconceivable that present day ruling classes can do so in the face of internal and worldwide resistance, embracing the majority of all the races and peoples of the earth.

Ibid.

Vastly different conditions prevail in the United States, where black Americans--a minority within a majority nation--are locked i into the urban ghettos and shanty towns, North and South. In African countries, where the majority is black, if the liberation movements get some white allies, so much the better. Butkxy they have n o pressing necessity for white allies within these countries. Their white allies are ona world scale, especially among the socialist countries. Moreower, in most cases, their struggles have to be waged against the white minority. In the United States, to make fundamental changes, the black minority requires white allies within, along with the mounting solidarity it is receiving from peoples of all colors around the world.

The first stage in the African revolution--securing political independence--was achieved within a world still largely controlled by imperialism. To be sure, as Fanon pointed out, its success was conditioned largely by the decline of the world capitalism and the emergence of a socialist world sector. But African experience also demonstrates, as we have shown, that economic independence can be carried forward only within the framework of an expanding socialist world and the growth of socialism in Africa. Otherwise, the system of neo-colonialism would keep the African nations as economic appendages of the old colonialism.

Ibid.

"... black people should not passively rely on assistance from any source. However, it would be most unwise and self-defeating to allow estimates of past coalition experiences to rigidly fix our coalition outlook for today. Today's realities demand that we recognize not only the striving of black people for an independent power base but also the mounting trends among white masses for an independent alternative." (Ibid. Ch. 12, p. 130)

"All people of good will must note with alarm the growth of racist ideology within the nation. All face the threat of a fascist America, with concentration camps for all who dare to dissent. And it is just so much nonesense for inexperienced people to go around shouting, 'If America wants to play Nazi, Negroes will not play Jews.' This 'sound and fury' signifies nothing." (Ibid. "... At the close of World War II, the main thrust of the Negro movement in northern areas was to break out of the ghetto. Almost all major cities were the scene of great struggles. The main trend in the Negro community was for full integration into every institution of American life. But the Negro didn't break out of the ghetto; whites fled when Negroes temporarily succeeded, thus enlarging ghetto life rather than eliminating it. This experience has left the Negro bitter and ever more distrustful of whites." (Ibid, Ch. 4, p. 42-43)

"The central thrust of this movement has not been against the white community indiscriminately. Its major emphasis has been against the power of the state -- police apparatus, ruling circles -- and against white business elements within the ghetto. There are few instances where Negroes have ganged up and beaten whites promiscuously in their communities, as was the case in race riots in the early 1920's. And the Negro generally is not seeking a confrontation along that line. The principal trend of black nationalism does not deny the necessity of unity of black and white." (Ibid. Ch. 4, p. 45)

Compositional changes in labor robbed it of much of its militant character. An examination of what took place in the ranks of labor regarding the Communist issue and its subsequent effects on the civil rights struggle should be made by all those who are sincerely dedicated to that struggle. It is a well known fact that those labor forces which were purged from the CIO, namely, the Left-led unions, had the best records in advancing labor's participation in civil rights struggles and were the best mobilizers of the white masses. At one time these unions embraced over two million members of the CIO and many of their civil rights actions tended to spark the whole of the CIO which, in turn, acted as a prodding agent upon the AFL and therefore on the whole labor movement. The purge of Communists and the raiding and destruction of some Left-led unions left the most conservative forces within labor with a free hand to withdraw more and more from the struggle. This the anti-Communist virus reduced white participation in the struggle for civil rights."

Labor's ability to shutddown production is the most potent weapon working people possess. Whether this power is always exerted on behalf of the best interests of the worker is beside the point. The important thing is that the power is there, and if it is not being used adequately, a struggle must be waged to make it available to protect the interests of the workers and of all the people.

Ghetto Rebellion to Black Liberation
By Claude M. Lightfoot

Black power, ~~therefore~~, should also be seen as black workers acting as a positive force for better unions. Organized forms, such as the NALC, black caucuses and others, should be established in every union local where Negro workers hold membership. These organizations and caucuses should be built in depth to express fully the wishes and hopes of the rank and file. They should be open to Negro union leaders both of an elective and appointive character, but controlled by the rank and file. Only in this way can the white-dominated power structure in the unions be prevented from rendering the organizations and caucuses ineffective.

Ibid. Ghetto Rebellion to Black Liberation

To effectively increase the income and reduce the super-exploitation of the ghetto requires constant struggle and organization on many fronts. Wherever there are disparities in the prices of commodities, there must be organization to eliminate them; wherever there are exorbitant interest rates, there must be laws to reduce them. These types of action, as well as the struggles of a trade union movement in which Negroes play a greater role, involvement of the underemployed Negro, and utilization of consumer power, are part of the march forward.

Ibid.

Ibid.

Millions of black workers are employed in service industries where the wage level is often lower than the income of people on welfare. These workers must be organized, and anyone who does not address himself to this problem and still talks about black power misses the essence of what is required to achieve that power.

Now with the economic and political aspects of the struggle, as well as the fight for peace, becoming the dominant themes, new organizations and new leaders will come to the fore who will reflect the realities of this period. The present is like a twilight zone. The new has not yet arrived fully and the old has not yet made the needed adjustments; however, there are hopeful signs in both directions.

Ibid.

The main problem now is not enabling legislation, but law enforcement. Everyone with an ounce of common sense or honesty realizes that despite all the court rulings, executive orders and laws, the Negro in many areas of our national life is almost as much a second-class citizen as he was a hundred years ago.

Ibid.

Since the close of the Reconstruction period, he has been forced to live in the blighted areas of the cities and on the plantations of the ru rural South. Based upon this enforced segregation, the Negro is preyed upon by every exploitative element in our society. He is exploited as a worker, but in addition his color has made it easier to set him aside from the rest of the people for super-exploitation. As a consequence, he constitutes not only a class but also a people withott money. And since money in our society is a major source of power, Negroes are a people without power.

Ibid.

If the labor movement is not measuring up to its responsibilties, then it is incumbent upontheconscious freedom forces to bring the necessary pressures to bear--and to find forms of organization-- to get on with the job of making labor serve the needs of the Negro people and, thereby, all the people.

Ibid.

Black workers in many plants and shops have the power to [illegible] down production. The community should seek ways and means to organize that power. Ghetto explosions in the past resulted in the loss of hundreds of millions of dollars, but in the final analysis it was the ghetto which suffered mainly from "burn, baby, burn." The big industrial complexes, where the real power lies, were virtually untouched. Most big plants are in suburbia or on the outskirts of town and not in the ghetto. The best method to affect the captains of industry is for all workers to put down their tools--stopping profits. If white workers are not prepared to do this initially, then black workers can set the pace, as they h have done on so many other occasions.

In this white Racist led capitalist society, blacks who are the most accomodating to whites, the least offensive, who say what whites like to hear are the ones that are advanced and promoted to be the leaders of black people. Others who are more militant, outspoken and tell whites "like it is" more than often are ostracized and all kinds of efforts are made to destroy their leadership.

The Communist Party, a working class party, armed with the theoretical experience of all previous revolutionary changes, is best equipped to understand the nature of the forces that are required to travel down freedom's road. The Party, in its forty-three year history, has made mistakes in its estimates from time to time. But such mistakes have been of a tactical nature. An objective evaluation will show that this Party has a unique role to play in bringing to a successful climax a struggle that has been raging for over three centures. A strong Communist party will help to prevent Negro Americans from having to wait another century before freedom can be realized. of a clear perspective for what will be required tomorrow. This is an urgent necessity. For the Negro movement has proceeded too long along pragmitic lines. Outside of the Communist and other Left forces or extreme nationalist elements no one has advanced a fundamenta. comprehensive approach to the solution of the problems. The civil rights organizations have been content to throw out general slogans such as "Freedom Now" or "Free by '66' without any presentation or even discussion of what will be required to implement these general slogans."

"Freedom means the power to defend decisions freely arrived at. Freedom is not something that can be given. You either have it or you don't. If there is some power giving concessions, such a power can always cancel out what has been given. As the old folks among my people used to say: 'The Lord giveth, and the Lord taketh.' To paraphrase this, one can say that the power that established Negro inequalitym unless eliminated from the power structure, can always be in a position to cancel out whatever gains have been obtained."

"It is too late in the day for Negro capitalists to become an integral part of the capitalist economy. For we are living in the twilight of capitalism and facing the rising sun of socialism. The age of free competition under capitalism has long since passed. Capitalism today is monopoly capital, with control and ownership concentrated in the hands of the few. This group of economic royalists is not about to take any measures to pay back the countless billions which they and their predecessors have plundered from Negroes for over three centuries.

"... the government will have to establish direct controls over the whole system of so-called free (corporate) enterprise to promote the interest of the working people. Such a government will be called upon to nationalize many industries. There are a number of reasons why this will be necessary, but foremost among them is the problem of automation. Unless the government supervises profits, wages and hours with a vew to reducing the working hours and at the same time guaranteeing no reduction in real wages, automation will result in a substantial section of the labor force becoming permanently unemployed."

(~~Ibid.~~ Ch. 8, p.98)

Quotes rebellion to black liberation

"It would be foolish to expect that monopoly capital will willingly give up its controls over the government and the economy. Yet, unless these things are done, all talk of meeting the pressing problems of the disposses, black and white, will be idle chatter." ~~Hence~~, progress today dictates the need of building a powerful coalition against monopoly capital as a whole/ The foregoing does not preclude the possibility of forcing concessions even before monopoly has been ousted from positions of power. But they will not suffice to meet the problems in a substantial way." (Ibid. Ch. 8, p. 98)

Sometimes under mass pressure, some of these tycoons may make some concessions in their hiring practices, in promotions, etc. They may even appoint one or two Negroes to the board of directors to this or that firm, but they will never give equal voice and authority or a significant share of ownership, or a leading role in the management of the economic machinery. This is the built-in verdict of capitalism.

the Path to Negro Freedom

The coming period will witness an ever-stronger drive to achieve greater Negro representation. We must be concerned with the quaity as well as the quantity of representation. On the quantitative level, many Negroes elected may be more responsive to the white political power structure than to the Negro masses. On the qualitative level, we can expect more and more elected Negroes to be responsive to the desires and needs of the masses, and they will therefore come into conflict with the power structure. Freedom forces should endeavor to aid and facilitate both developments, because in the final analysis, even those selected by the white power structure will increasingly find it politically advantageous to identify with their people and not with the machine politicians. The outcome of such developments will bring the Negro into positions of strength and power in the political life of the country.

Ghetto Rebellion to Black Liberation
by Claude M. Lightfoot

The Negro can move into every arena of government In addition to increased political power, other radical changes are also possible as a result of struggle. Inroads can be made in the syste- of super-exploitation, ghettos can be transformed and the Negro can get some land in the South.

Ibid.

However, even these changes would still leave the Negro with unequal status in this society. The 300-year differential between black and white will not yet be wiped out. The Negro will still have no means of basically influencing the economy; and where there is no economic equality, there is no real political equality.

Ibid.

To meet these problems a socialist reorganization of American life is required. A socialist system based on public ownership is the only means to destroy completely exploitation of black and white in any form. 11

Ibid.

Ghetto Rebellion to Black Liberation

The revolution in Africa, like most contemporary revolutions, generally pass through two states of development--the democratic and the socialist. In the first stage, the fight for independence, diverse forces are joined together in a struggle to free themselves from outside domination. But after having secured independence, a sharp struggle then takes place among the victorious forces over the character of the next stage. In Africa, as elsewhere, the main points of contention arise with respect to the need to defeat neo-colonialist policies and over the choice between a capitalist or a non-capitalist path of development.

Ibid.

In a capitalist society, too, gains made are never secure and can be easily cancelled out. This is one of the main lessons of the Reconstruction period, when the Northern capitalists having defeated the Southern slaveholders, used the Negro as a mass base from which to consolidate their power over the former slaveholders. As a consequence, Negroes secured a large measure of political power--with their own struggles as well. But when it suited the purposes of the Northern capitalists to come to terms with the former slavocracy, the Negro was deserted and left to the tender mercies of the Ku Klux Klan.

Ghetto Rebellion to Black Liberation
by Claude M. Lightfoot

Because of the background of whites using Negroes to "pull their chestnuts out of the fire," many Negroes view white people with scepticism. They ask what guarantee is there that the white workers will not betray the Negroes in a socialist society just as the bourgeoisie betrayed them in a capitalist society. Skepticism and doubt regarding white workers are also rooted in many disappointments in the Negroes' relationships with them.

Ibid.

A prime factor in the fear of Negroes that they might be betraye under socialism is the deep-seated nature of racism in the United States. Many Negroes have concluded that the virus of racism has penetrated so deeply that it will be impossible for white to ever rid themselves of it. This is one of the main motivations behind the nationalist theories of separation.

Ibid.

Racism is not inherent in man. As an ideology it made its appearance only after the birth of capitalism. In all preceding systems, including the slave states of Egypt, Greece and Rome, there was no evidence of it. The ancient slaves included people of all races. In Rome and Greece, more often the slaves were white, blue-eyed and Anglo Saxon. All slaves were considered barbarians and no distinction was made among them on color lines.

Ibid.

Thus racism was specifically a product of capitalist society, serving as a cloak behind which to mask the drive for profits. Profits and superprofits--this is the rationale behind the oppression of the black people. Therefore, the removal of the economic incentives which give birth to this ideology is the main way to destroy it. Socialism, which is based on the elimination of exploitation in all forms will necessarily come into conflict with the old order in all its aspects, including racis. Indeed, a socialist reorganizatinn of American life will not be possible without a much greater degree of cohesion between black and white workers. Creating the kind of unity necessary will entail the destruction of a great deal of racist ideology on the road to socialism. 6

Another factor of great importance guarding against betrayal is the role Negroes will play in the new society. It is in this respect that black power, the power of the Negro people, will help prevent a betrayal.

A Socialist reorganization of our society will have to rely, in the first place, on the working class. Ninety-five per cent of all Negroes are workers or are among the poorer strata of thefarmers. Today this is a disadvantage: tomorrow it may be an advantage, because the working class will have to take the command posts in every aspect of life in our country. Because of this, the Negro's role in positions of power and influence will be far greater than his numerical weight. Every Socialist revolution which remained successful has had to place in positions of power and influence will be far greater than his numerical weight. Every Socialist revolution which remained successful has had to place in positions of power people who were not necessarily the technically trained --but the most devoted, those who had-the most to lose with the return of the old order. The Negro in the United States is in that category. 11

The Cuban revolution surfaced a number of fundamental facts which black people in the United Statest must grasp if they too are to be free.

The first is the fact that racism can be overcome. Some will sy that white people in Cuba are different due to the circumstances of history, and it could never happen in the United States. To overcome racism in Cuba was relatively easier than it will be in the United States. That more will be required than a few speeches is evident. Great structural changes will be necessary. However, the Cuban experience shows that racism is not inherent in color, and given the proper economic, political and social setting, man's habits change. One social system can bring out the worst in man. Another can bring out the best. The essential difference is between capitalism and socialism. A socialist Cuba also proves that black people will have safeguards to protect their freedom--that they will not have to depend on the goodwill of other ethnic groups. 11

"During the '30s, with the birth of the CIO, white Communists played an outstanding role in mobilizing the working class to understand the special problems that the jim crow system has produced. Unions in the CIO, in which Communist leaders were prominent, had the best records in the fight for Negro rights. They integrated Negroes in the top levels of union leadership and even today the remnants of what was formerly called Left-led unions, have more Negroes at the top policy levels than all of the AFL and CIP put together."

The anti-Communist views which resulted in Communists being purged from the trade unions did not aid Negro freedom, but on the contrary weakened that fight. If Communists had been as prominent in the 50's in the American labor movement as they were in the '30x and '40s, the picture in the fight for civil rights would have been much different. Historians will one day make a full assessment of this fact." During the period, when Communists were being purged from the trade unions, many Negro leaders joined the chorus under the slonga, 'We cannot add to the burdens of being black, the burden of being red." This slogan was coined to buy immunity from reaction. But anti-communism did not buy immunity. It made little or no difference to the Bourbon South that the NAACP Red-baited, purged

Morning Post 1962

Communists from its ranks, and aided the isolation of the Left-led unions. As long as the NAACP even mildly fought for Negro rights, it was suspect and was considered a peddler of a dangerous foreign ideology, namely Negro freedom."

100-442529-3005

"Through the 1930's and 1940's the Communists were pioneers in building the foundations of struggle against race and class oppression in ever-widening areas. They carried the fight against Jim Crow into every aspect of American life. They blazed the trail that revealed the real nature of Negro oppression and its real perpetrators. They introduced a new militancy into the freedom fight, reminiscent of the Abolitionists and Frederick Douglass. They brought the nature of Negro oppression to the attention of the entire world and thereby made the fight against it worldwide." (Ibid. Ch. 16, p. 184)

"Anti-Communism (and with it the purging of Communists) is harmful to the nation as such. It is a product of a sick society, mirroring the insanity which has gripped a large segment of our ruling class. It has harmed the interests of the American people more than it has hurt Communists themselves. We have spent hundreds of billions of dollars and have fought several wars, yet socialism continues to spread to all points of the earth. No more than King Canute can we command the tide of history to recede. It is the American people who bear the growing costs of the vain efforts to do so." (Ibid. Ch. 16, p. 187-188)

"The broader white forces are prepared to work for a partial solution, for adjustments in the system that bore and nourished Jim Crow and segregation. They are not yet ready to work to uproot that system, to change the economic and political power structure of the country as a whole, as are the Communists and other Left forces. Yet, without changing the system, we cannot conceive of the black man's securing his full equality and his freedom." (Ibid. Ch. 16, p. 190)

Ghetto rebellion

"Another factor necessitating the participation of Communists is that most social movements are largely spontaneous. They are not set in motion by definite long-range goals, but are ignited by immediate acts of injustice or by grievances. Even in the most militant actions the masses are not always clear as to who the real enemy is. Very often the fire is directed against that which is closest at hand. A capitalist society has a philosophy, theories, and professional apologists for the sole purpose of hiding the enemy from the people. Also, the enemy infiltrates people's organizations with the specific purpose of misleading the movements into blind alleys." (Ibid. Ch. 16, p. 191)

"When struggles reach a point of indecision, when they stray onto paths of secondary importance, the result is a feeling of frustration, hopelessness and a sense of going around in circles. For these reasons an organized force is needed, advanced in throught, revolutionary in practice and outlook, a force that is on top of the total picture. It is necessary to have an organized force that at each moment of indecision can break the pattern of going around in circles, that can answer the question: 'Where do we go from here?' ...

"The Communist Party is such a force. This explains why it is a veteran in this battle. It has a proven record in the struggle for equality. It can make an even greater contribution." The path to black liberation involves not only a program for the immediate period but also a long range program for socialism. Both are unattainable without the participation of Communists." (Ibid. Ch. 16, p. 192)

"Throudh the turbulent and repressive decade of the 1950's these leaders dragged their feet as Civil Liberties came under incessant attack. The Communists bore the brunt of the attack as hundreds went to jail and others were harassed in a thousand and one different ways. They said nothing when Ben Davis, City Councilman from New York, who had a militant and brilliant record in that body, went to jail. They were silent when Paul Robeson was almost lynched at Peekskill, New York, by racist right wingers. They shamefully deserted Dr. W.E.DuBois when he came under attack because he dared to challenge the power structure and above all the war policies of U.S. imperialism. The efforts of conservative civil rights to appease the McCartites did not buy immunity. The attacks against Communists spilled over and the NAACP itself eventually was branded as Communist and was outlawed in a number of southern States. This policy of purge and indefference to infringements on the rights of Communists had a devastating effect on the freedom struggle, and if our gains have been 'token' and no more, this has been a major factor. Such a policy deprived, among other things, the freedom movement of the active and open participation of some of the most dedicated and self-sacrificing people the movement has ever had."

"... The white ruling circles tremble when they learn that a Communist is playing an important role in this or that organization, in this or that struggle.

On the occasion of this great and historic convention, we say to them, in the words of Spartacus to the Roman Gods over two thousand years ago. "Gentlemen, tremble because you have cause to fear." We intend to increase our participation -- not diminish it. Whenever and wherever Negro Americans confront their white tormentors, Communists will endeavor to be there to help put struggle on the basis of class struggle. We stand for the abolition of the system which breeds, nurses and stimulates the exploitation of man by man, of race by race, of nation by nation, and therefore believe with all our minds and hearts that Negro equality in the United States is ~~impossible without a strong and influential Communist Party~~ the number one problem in the nation."

CIVIL RIGHTS STRUGGLES

By Claude Lightfoot

"Among the great tragedies of our time is the spectacle of white forces, in many instances racist elements, dictating to Negro organizations and telling them which Negroes can participate in freedom's fight and which ones cannot. Among the colossal evils is the aquiescence by some so-called respectable, responsible or safe Negroes to such a policy. This policy has led to side-lining great freedom fighters such as: the late Dr. W.E.B. DuBois, Paul Robeson, the late Benjamin J. Davis, the late James W. Ford, William L. Patterson, Henry Winston, the late Edward E. Strong, the late Louis Burnham, James E. Jackson, the late Claudia Jones, the late Pettis Perry, and countless others living and dead. . . .

"Today's freedom fight rests on the solid foundation that these men did so much to help build in the thirties, forties and early fifties."

"Regardless of how one views the social system in the Soviet Union, no matter how one understands Soviet motives, the hard fact is that the Soviet Union initially and later the socialist bloc of nations has provided an alternative for the newly emerging nations to resist and defeat imperialism. The most dramatic example of this role was underscored when Britain invaded the Suez Canal severl years ago. But it did so in a new world- a world in which world imperialism no longer had full sway. Walter Lippman amplifies this point in his article in Newsweek dated June 20th, 1966, he wrote:

> "We are faced with another radically new phenomenon which as yet we do not understand. Once upon a time the European great powers, Britain foremost among them could use their military supremacy to make their will prevail in the backward regions of the world. This is no longer the case."

"The growth of a world economy, capitalism, brought people together in the only way that a system of exploitation can -- on the basis of exploitation of nation by nation and the destruction of national sovereignty. This bred among the peoples of the oppressed countries the desire and the struggle for national liberation. It was Lenin's thesis that in order to lay the basis for peoples eventually to be united as equals in voluntary association, the working class had to fight for the full right of oppressed peoples to self-determination, including the right to secede from the 'moder' country. Moreover, he called upon the working class to render all possible aid to overcome the effects of the many years of exploitation by world imperialism. It is in the context of these internationalist concepts that the Soviet Union has aided the underdeveloped countries at a time when it really needed all its resources for home use." (~~Ibid. Ch. Ie, p. 131~~) Glutto rebellion to Mother

"The function of the Soviet of the Union is to express the common interests of all citizens, irrespective of nationality, and it is therefore elected on thesame basis of representation in all of the Union Republics: one member per 300,000 inhabitants.

The function of the Soviet of Nationalities is to express the specific interests of the different nationalities on a bssis of equality. In this body, all

Union Republics have equal representation, regardless of the size of the territory or population. For example, the Russian Soviet Federalist Socialist Republic which has a population of over 113,000,000 elects to the Soviet of Nationalities the same number of deputies as the Armenian Soviet Socialist Republic, which has a population of about 1,500,000. Each Union republic sends 25 members to the Soviet of Nationalities; each Autonomous Republic, 11; each Autonomous Region, 5; and each National Area, one." (Ibid. Ch. 13, p. 145)

"In Bashkira and Uzbekistan, as in all the republics comprising the Soviet Union, there are firm industrial bases that make the republics equal. When we consider the fact that the industrial growth of Western capitalist powers required the acquisition of colonies as sources of raw material and as markets for manufactured goods, these Soviet achievements are an eloquest testament to socialism" (Ibid. Ch. 13, p. 149)

"Soviet society is not perfect. Old habits are not easily changed; and, even after many years of Soviet power, many ideological problems remain. But only an utopian dreamer or a peddler of dishonest ideas would attempt to blow up minor defects out of all proportion to their place in the totality."

"Whatever ideological problems in regard to racial or national chauvinism the Communist Party and the Soviet government have yet to overcome, the central fact is that the Soviet people have shown the world that racism is not inherent in man. They have shown that once the exploiting classes are removed from power, once exploitation is abolished, the various races of mankind can live in peace." (Ibid. Ch. 13, p. 151)

"There are people in the United States -- some unwittingly, others consciously -- who seek to drive a wedge between the Soviet Union and the so-called third world. They try to pick their brand of socialism from one or another of the various forces. Some do it on a color basis. But after all is said and done, the country that has contributed the most and sacrificed the most to change the complexion of the modern world has been Soviet Union. Their people are human and make mistakes. But one must understand that the destiny of mankind depends on the success of the Soviet people in achieving the power with which they can nullify the strength of world imperialism." (Ibid. Ch. 15, p. 180)

"The Cuban Revolution must be defended by all Americans who cherish justice and fair play, and who cherish their own freedom. It is especially incumbent upon black Americans not to allow this magnificent example of interracial living to be wiped off the earth."

"The Soviet Union and Cuba have provided in practice the rationale and institutions to guarantee that black people or any other people of color will not be betrayed in a socialist world. Black people can therefore proceed to build a socialist path without inhibitions and doubts." (Ibid. Ch. 15, p.182)

Ghetto rebellion

"...This is the most revolutionary period in history. What people were forced to accept for centuries is no longer acceptable in any corner of this globe. The black ghetto is no exception. Its protest movements have been influenced greatly by world-wide trends, especially the African revolution. Like others, the Negro senses objective possibilities of challenging the present situation and winning victories that would have been unthinkable a few decades ago. An assessment of today's ghetto must take into account this new mood, ~~which is not satisfied with minor concessions but demands fundamental changes.~~"

Article by Claude Lightfoot
African Communist second quarter 1966
"Negro oppression and U.S. Foreign Policy"

"In recent years there have been many significant phases of civil rights struggles. Each time they have brought to the surface new problems and new challenges and successfully coping with them has advanced the movement to higher levels of development. Taken in their totality, they have represented a historic leap in revolutionizing everything on the American scene."

"What is prevalent in the conditions in Watts reflects every Negro ghetto in America. There is a time bomb ticking away in every one of them and unless measures are forthcoming to relieve the problems, violence is going to erupt all over America. It is to be hoped that a situation like Watts, which has happened twice, will not be required again to warn those in control of the power structure that the prevalence of such conditions is not in the national interest."

"Herefofore many of the civil rights demands could be met without disturbing many elements of foreign policy. In fact, concessions granted in this direction could be and were used as a cover for expansionist policies abroad. But when problems are put which will require the outlay of tens of billions of dollars, such appropriations can come only at the expense of the huge cost of the war establishment. "

"Historians may yet record that the civil rights forces were a major factor which saved America from extermination through a series of bloody wars and its demise as a nation of greatness."

"Many black students are preparing for careers that will lead to the emancipation of their people. They are increasingly becoming conscious of the role workers must play; but while the students can teach the workers, they can do so only to the extent that they also have the capacity to learn from the workers."

.....

The year 1963 has passed ~~by~~ our into the abyss of time. We are nearing the end of the decade of the Sixties and freedom is nowhere in sight. This observation should not obscure the fact that we live in a dynamic and fast changing world, and sometimes in a single moment, institutions, concepts, societies and forces which have withstood the storms of centuries are dashed into atoms.

Such things are possible now as never before, for we live in the most revolutionary age in all the history of mankind.

Notwithstanding the possibility of sudden changes that may occur, science teaches us that before change in any form is possible, certain elements must combine to produce a new state of affairs. The necessary conditions did not exist when the slogan of 'Free by '63' was raised. The slogan was ~~these~~ based on illusions as to what it would take to end Jim Crow and establish full equality.

It is as the South African, Nelson Mandella, pointed out there is, 'No easy walk to freedom anywhere and many of us will have to pass through the Valley of the shadow of death again and again before we reach the mountain top of our desires.'

The NAACP leaders foresaw the possibility of winning civil rights without too much disturbance of the status quo in other areas of our national life -- the cold and hot wars, new political alignments, the system itself, relations of allies, etc. In fact they saw the acceleration of hot and cold wars as an opportunity to trade for the support of Negroes to the war effort for token recognition to some (so-called respectable) Negro leaders. They have done this even though such a policy has resulted in Negroes being used to re-enslave many of our African brothers. As a consequence of this policy, Negro boys have been used as cannon fodder against colored people wherever they have taken the path of struggle. The vast number of Negroes now being used in South Vietnam is illustrative of this brutal fact."

BLACK LIBERATION IN THE UNITED STATES TODAY

By Claude Lightfoot, a National Secretary of the C.P., U.S.A. and author of the first full length Marxist review of the black movement today, "Ghetto Rebellion to Black Liberation."

Printed in ~~Political Affairs~~ Pravda official organ of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union, 24 Dec. 1969

For more than a decade the world has watched with amazement the heroic struggles waged by black people in the United States for freedom.

There were nine years unprecedented massive demonstrations of a peaceful character conducted under the banner of "Freedom Now."

In recent years these demonstrations have been supplemented by violent upheavals in most black ghettos. True, these were spontaneous actions and in most cases a reaction to the violence of the police. Nonetheless, they lifted the whole movement to a new level of development. Those rebellions coincided with the emergence of the slogan "Black Power," and came to simbolize a new and higher stage of the struggle.

This year, while there were a large number of explosions after the brutal murder of Dr. King, ghetto violence was not the main characteristic of the struggle.

Revolutions do not always proceed along a straight line. There are zigzags and sometimes detours. There are advances and there are retreats. The diminuition of violent actions could cause some to think that the movement has gone into decline, but nothing would be further from truth. One the contrary, the movement scaled new heights and augurs well for the future.

In 1968 it was characterized by an acceleration of struggles in every aspect of black persecution. It was marked by:

1. The involvement of the total community in struggle.

2. A regrouping of forces.

160-442529-3005

3. Class nature of oppression comes to the forefront.

4. Political representation approaching the reconstruction period.

5. Fascist counter-attack against the liberation forces.

The involvement of the total black community in struggle is not a new phenomena. What is new is that in different places; in different situations, almost all strata of black people have been the initiating forces. At one time the initiative and sparks which ignited the struggle came mainly from the youth. Today this is no longer the case. The young and the old, the workers and the intellectuals especially, have been in the forefront of initiating and leading the struggles.

In a certain sense, a regrouping is taking place among liberation forces. Ever since the southern students in the South staged the sit-in strikes, the main initiatives for changes in conduct of the struggle have been from the youth. Out of these struggles the Southern Student Non-Violent Coordinating was born and it posed a whole number of developments, including the Black Power concept.

This year, due in large part to almost a total preocupation with the defensive aspect of the struggle with guns as the only answer, this organization went into decline and other forces it once stimulated emerged at the center of the struggles. The most outstanding development in 1968 was the emergence of working class forces as one of the key forces of struggle. Coupled with this development was the recognition by almost all class strata of the black people, of the workers and their conditions as one of the main levers in the chain of progress. The outstanding symbol of these new trends was the strike of the sanitation workers in Memphis and the leadership exerted on their behalf by the late Dr. Martin Luther King. After this historical significant struggle and the tragic end of Dr. King, a whole number of developments in which young militants to the most conservative elements are finding an identification with the workers.

Since Memphis, black workers have organized caucuses in a number of international unions. Some of them represent a majority of the workers in given industries. They are in struggle with the trade union bureaucracy to better their conditions and for equality in the decision making bodies of the unions.

The most recent event highlighting the new situation was the decision of the Black Power Convention, a coalescence of black militants from all over the country, to organize a black labor congress and make this one of the principal vehicles of struggle.

These actions have vindicated the C.P., U.S.A. for it alone, for the past several years has been making this point.

The 18th National Convention resolution on the Negro question in July 1966, among other things, put this matter of the role of black workers in proper focus when it wrote:

> "In recent years the struggle in the South has produced a new crop of leaders coming primarily from the Negro ministry. What is required today to enhance the strength of this new leadership is a more prominent role from Negro workers generally, but especially Negro trade unionists."

At that time this statement was not generally accepted. And Henry Winston, Chairman of the C.P., U.S.A. wrote:

> "It would also be fatal to conclude that new and militant developments in the struggle for Negro rights are possible only outside the labor movement." Negro and White United, published by New Outlook, February 1967.

This, the struggle for black power and against black oppression is finally focussing on the centrality of black labor and its power, to stop production as the principal method of struggle.

Perhaps these forms are less dramatic than other forms such as burning communities and engagements with guns in hand, but in the long run, they will prove to be more decisive in forcing the power structure to make substantial changes in the status of black people.

In addition to advances on the economic front, meaningful gains have been made in the political arena; that is, the struggle for black representation in the councils of government. In this respect a number of trends emerged, of which thefirst and foremost was the situation in the deep South.

The gains already registered are bringing about a close parallel with the Reconstruction period, when black people enjoyed a measure of political representation.

In the last few years over 378 blacks have been elected to political office. 107 of these were elected this year. There are over three million black registered voters in the deep South, representing about 16% of the total. This marks an increase of almost a million new voters in the last few years. A continuation of this trend can, in the forseeable future, transcend the Reconstruction era and lay the foundation for substantial changes in the whole pattern of the South.

Another vital development of vital importance was the relationship of black Americans within the two parties in general, and the Democratic Party in particular. Heretofore, with few exceptions, Negro elected officials have operated only in the framework of the big, powerful while led machines. As such, they were no more than pawns on the ruling class chessboard. This year, in preparation for and during the Democrat National Convention, black people and most of their elected representatives, while still operating within the confines of the Party struck out on an independent course.

This was highlighted by the nomination of black candidates for the first time in history, for President and Vice President. A large number of black delegates who came to the convention already committed by their machine broke discipline and supported the black nominees.

An organization was set up to continue this trend of independence, and if other forced emerge in a similar posture, especially labor, then the day is not too far distant when a substantial breakaway from the Democratic Party can be achieved and the formation of a new party.

Coincidental with developments within the Democratic Party is a growing trend of black awareness of the limitations of black liberation operating within the confines of the old parties. This year marked by an unprecedented number of black candidates outside of the two major parties. It resulted in three black candidates for President from the Left end of the political spectrum. The campaign and response to Charlene Mitchell, the candidate of the Communist Party, and the first black woman to ever run for this high office, was an important backdrop of things to come.

Finally, all over the United States black people are moving into motion to control their communities, economically and politically.

All of these developments are important way-stations to a socialist reorganization in the United States. And as science has had to create the means to land on the moon, so it is with black liberation in the United States.

In response to these changes in the on-going black revolt, the ruling circles are acting as what Lenin once described - acts of desperation, as symptoms of weakness not strength. Actions that are in accord with how all classes doomed by history have acted.

#6 - Black Liberation in the U.S. Today

Police terror is mounting with ever increasing intensity. Black Panthers are being made the main target. Its members are shot down in cold blood. Its leaders are jailed, such as Huey Newton and Cleaver. These are symptoms of a growth of the fascism in the United States.

In these hours when lights are going out in the United States, pro-democratic masses in the world in general and the world Communist movement, must come to the aid of black America.

(Quotes from a speech delivered by Claude Lightfoot to a forum of The African-American Heritage Association, October 1966)

"The African Revolution is in need of the skills that Afro-Americans possess. But many black Americans seek to utilize these skills for exploitative purposes. Our African brothers did not free themselves from world imperialism for the purpose of substituting a set of black exploiters for white ones."

~~"But the Afro-American occupies an important part of this world-wide process.~~ Inasmuch as the imperialist elements within our country are ~~emerging~~ as the central force in America, carrying out neo-colonialist policies, what we as people of African descent do in the United States can prove decisive."

The struggle of the African people to unify the various small, petty states into a federal union is deeply rooted in the experience of history. All of the present large industrial nations had to go through periods of national unification. It was on this basis that ~~they erected~~ were erected the industrial empires of the modern world. It was Garibaldi who united the Italian cities into the nation. It was Bismarck who united the petty kingdoms into the German nation; ~~and the African struggle brings to mind the problems and experiences in the evolvement of an American nation.~~"

"The United States took many years to evolve as a nation. It included the necessity for ~~waging~~ the Revolutionary War of 1776, and the American Civil War of 1861-65. The path that was opened to the United States for national unification is not available to the young African nations. They must unify themselves and build up an industrial organization wuickly or they will never walk this earth as free men. The forces against which they must struggle are far more powerful and have much more at stake in preventing them from achieving this goal. The obstacles in the path of the African Revolution are many and the forces that must be fought are powerful, but more powerful are the world forces that will join with it to deal a final crushing blow to both colonialism and neo-colonialism. ... These are the issues that are at stake -- they are global in scope..." But the Afro-American has a special responsibility.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

The discussion of a recent national conference of the Communist Party calling for a "mass black liberation drive" was summarized in a comprehensive statement by Henry Winston, national chairman of the Party, and released to the press today. The special conference, held in New York City, was attended by 80 leading Communists from all parts of the country at the call of the Party's Negro Affairs Commission of which Claude Lightfoot is chairman.

The statement serves to identify the Communist Party position on points which today are being debated in many areas, including the issue of "violence" in today's struggles and in the field of social change.

Winston's statement deals with additional questions arising from the Negro liberation struggle and the revolt of black Americans in over 100 cities. He calls for a massive program to "make life bearable for the black Americans," and urges "unity and militancy."

Winston calls for immediate steps to guarantee election of "Negro mayors, U.S. Senators, Congressmen" and other public officials in 1968 while also demanding an urgent massive, multi-billion dollar crash program to meet all the needs of Black America. He relates this issue to the need for an end of the war in Vietnam.

The statement follows in full, as well as biographical notes on Mr. Winston.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

A Statement by Henry Winston, National Chairman of the Communist Party, U.S.A.

The Communist Party, USA has a proud record of more than 40 years of fighting for Negro freedom under all conditions. For years, almost alone, it led the struggle in the Deep South under conditions comparable to those faced in Hitler Germany, for full freedom, for the right of black people to vote, to organize, to have equal access to all public places, for the repeal of the poll tax and against lynching. Many of its members, Negro and white, gave their lives in those early bitter battles.

Benjamin J. Davis, Henry Winston, William L. Patterson, Claude Lightfoot, James W. Ford, Louis Burnham, Claudia Jones, Edward Strong, James E. Jackson, Hosea Hudson, Mildred McAdory, Pettis Perry, Ray Hansborough and Cyril Briggs--these are but some of the black Communists whose pioneering efforts in the '30s and '40s helped prepare the ground for the great freedom struggles of the '60s.

Scottsboro, Angelo Herndon, the Martinsville Seven, Willie Magee are but a few of the great rallying cries that were later transformed into the battle cries of Selma and Mississippi.

And in their great traditions Communists joined in these Scottsboros of the Sixties.

We do not claim any special rights for our pioneering efforts, only the right to continue the struggle we have never and will never cease. We frankly admit we have much to learn from the new courageous leaders who widened and deepened the freedom path from the ground broken in earlier days. But in all modesty we also offer the rich experiences we have accumulated to serve in illuminating the difficult road ahead we must all travel together.

It is in this spirit that we offer our thoughts on some of the crucial problems facing black Americans as they do all Americans.

We, 22 million black Americans, have arrived at a point of grave crisis in our history. Clear thinking as well as courage are the need of the moment. The question posed for us and indeed for white America as well is: How shall black people achieve full equality NOW -- in these days, not in the dim future of more unborn black generations? Time has run out for leisurely discussion and debate and for "studies" and "reports" by an endless parade of government commissions. The question is now on the action agenda!

-- more

It is a question that must be decided by our sober assessment and not by government provocation. And indeed we are being provoked! Rebellions against deep depression in the ghettos in more than 120 cities are now being "studied" while President Johnson's $74 billion-a-year military budget including $30 billion for the war in Vietnam this year was rushed through Congress. More riot training for more police and more National Guardsmen, more repressive laws, more racist hysteria whipped up by the press, more police brutality in the black communities, and more than equality for black soldiers in the casualty lists in Vietnam -- what are these but the most provocative incitements to violence?

They point to the real instigators of violence in our cities who sit in the White House and in the halls of Congress.

No one, least of all those who enslaved us for 350 years, those who cage us in ghettos, inflict depression and disease upon us, invade and destroy our homes with all the cruel instruments of modern warfare, taunt us by spending billions for bombs and pennies for poverty, and goad us with terror, official violence and legal lynchings--has the right to caution us to refrain from violence. Twenty-two million black Americans are faced with a struggle for survival. We need ask no one how to defend our inalienable right to live as human beings.

For countless years, countless black people have been lynched and outraged and their basic human rights trampled upon by forces of law and order as well as by white racist bands often working as close partners in crime. Today racist violence has spread to all parts of the United States -- to Detroit, Watts and Cicero as well as Selma, Milwaukee and Newark, and Montgomery and Mississipp. The right, indee the responsibility, to defend oneself, one's dear ones, one's home, one's people from violent attack by racists in or out of uniform by all means including armed defense if necessary, is inviolable. We support that right.

The continued and increased spread of police brutality against the black community, the growth of the influence of the John Birch Society, the Ku Klux Klan and

The stubborn refusal of the ruling class of our country and the Johnson Administration in particular to permit anything but token changes in the unbearable conditions faced by black Americans especially in the ghettos, despite the massive peaceful demonstrations of recent years, has led to a growing lack of confidence in the ability to achieve meaningful change through the democratic process.

The meaning of the mass rebellions of 1967 in the black ghettos should be clear: millions of black Americans will no longer live under the conditions of the depression '30s while the U.S. boasts of the "affluence" of the '60s.

The failure of most white Americans including large sections of working-class and liberal and progressive forces to understand the desperate nature of the crisis in the ghettos and to ally themselves with the black people in their struggle for the necessary radical changes to resolve the crisis, has resulted in an increasing lack of confidence in the ability of white masses to overcome racism and their readiness to join with black people in the fight for meaningful solutions.

Repeated failure by the Federal government and all branches of government to take decisive action against racists in and out of uniform who murder and maim black people has resulted in the recognition of the need for greater reliance on determined self-defense, including armed defense.

racism in the police departments all over the nation has led to the demand for the right of Negro people to police their communities. We fully support that right.

The Communist Party of the United States, as Communists everywhere, has always affirmed the right of oppressed people to forcibly overthrow an oppressive regime whenever the channels for democratic change are closed to them. That right is also affirmed in the Declaration of Independence.

Therefore, there can be no question of the right of the Negro people in the United States to use violence to free themselves from oppression and to win full freedom.

Whether that right to violence should be exercised should be determined by time, place and circumstances and a sober estimate of the concrete situation and the conditions which prevail at that moment. Surely everyone would prefer to win basic change without the use of force.

What is the situation?

The stubborn refusal of the ruling class of our country and the Johnson Administration in particular to permit anything but token changes in the unbearable conditions faced by black Americans especially in the ghettos, despite the massive peaceful demonstrations of recent years, has led to a growing lack of confidence in the ability to achieve meaningful change through the democratic process.

The meaning of the mass rebellions of 1967 in the black ghettos should be clear: millions of black Americans will no longer live under the conditions of the depression '30s while the U.S. boasts of the "affluence" of the '60s.

The failure of most white Americans including large sections of working-class and liberal and progressive forces to understand the desperate nature of the crisis in the ghettos and to ally themselves with the black people in their struggle for the necessary radical changes to resolve the crisis, has resulted in an increasing lack

The Minutemen, the National Riflemen's Association, Birchites, Ku Klux Klan, American Nazi groups, White Citizens Council are openly inciting and organizing for racial violence with impunity. Alabama's former Governor Wallace is not only given free rein to spread the plague of racist violence, but is rallying the racist and fascist-like forces all over the U.S.

Black people, with good cause, smell the flesh-burning stench of the gas chamber in these menacing developments. They have rightly served notice that they have no intention to play the role of passive victims of genocide.

Moreover, an alternative program to violence, radical enough to solve the problems of the ghettos and possible of achievement has not been convincingly put forward.

To this must be added the lack of class consciousness and an understanding of revolutionary tactics which are geared to specific U.S. conditions among the leadership of the Negro Freedom movement. The world liberation struggle of recent years, particularly in Africa, Asia and Latin America, has inspired increased determination to fight for full freedom in the U.S.

All these factors have given rise to a new emphasis on the need for armed struggle on the part of some, particularly in the black ghettos.

Courage is the banner of the fight for black freedom.

Communists join all militant black freedom fighters in bearing this banner high.

The ghetto uprisings and countless heroic battles have made it amply clear that black people are prepared to fight to win full freedom NOW. The task, especially of Negro leaders is to jointly seek the ways to skillfully make the best use of our heroic people's militancy.

The task is to prevent the power structure, through its provocations, from misusing this militancy and turning it against us.

The task ahead is: how to make the most effective use of every position gained, how to exert the utmost skill in rallying allies to our struggle and in isolating our enemies. It is for this reason we stress courage and clarity of purpose. It is in this spirit that the question of armed struggle should be soberly considered.

Communists believe in the use of violence to achieve political objectives only when reaction has closed off the channels whereby a majority of the people can real-

[illegible] by peaceful means.

-- more

As we see it today, the overwhelming majority of the American people, including black people, are not yet convinced that the system must be changed; much less that it is necessary to do so by armed force.

Armed uprisings for these objectives cannot successfully be undertaken by the black communities alone, no matter how courageously they struggle. They require powerful allies, above all in the ranks of the working class, white and black.

We therefore reject today the organizing of armed uprisings in the black communities. It is necessary to warn that there are extremely dangerous pressures to close the channels of democratic process and in many areas they have already virtually been closed. Should this continue it would leave the black people no alternative to violent struggle.

We believe that conspiratorial, terroristic actions which are not based upon a program aimed at improving the conditions of life for the masses and which do not receive the support of the masses of the people, are reckless and adventurous, provocative and politically irresponsible toward the people, inviting reprisals upon the black community. They should, therefore, be rejected. We also believe that terrorism within the Negro community directed against so-called Uncle Toms or others who refuse to go along with the tactics proposed by some is entirely out of place, harmful and divisive to the struggle for full freedom. It, too, should be rejected.

Although we do not advocate a policy of looting and arson, we [illegible] while ghetto uprisings were unable to end the unbearable conditions against which the spontaneous revolts were directed, they did achieve certain positive results. These militant actions forcefully expoed to the nation and the entire world the urgent nature of the crisis of the ghettos. They made it painfully clear to many white Americans that life in our great cities will be unbearable for all unless it is made bearable for the people of the black communities. Moreover, they sharpened and deepened mass resistance to the unjust war in Vietnam and inspired to greater militancy the struggle to end it. They greatly stimulated the struggle for Negro representation, inspired the Negro communities to achieve the highest levels of political unity, contributed to advancing the readiness of larger sections of the white communities to work for and accept black municipal leaders and compelled the Administration to concede to the pressure for new levels of black representation. Every advance of Negro representation in public office owes much to the message to America that exploded in the black ghettos in 1967.

However, those who conclude that the task now is to give an organized character to the spontaneous uprisings in the black ghettos gravely misjudge both the mood of the black communities and the relationship of forces such an organized armed uprising would have to contend with. The strength of the 1967 uprisings lay in its spontaneity. It was this quality of the rebellion which rallied the sympathy and support of black communities and jolted large numbers of white Americans into a greater understanding of the crisis in the ghettos.

It would be quite a different matter under present conditions to rally such support in the black communities, let alone in the white neighborhoods, for an organized armed uprising. Nor can there be any comparison between the repressive measures employed in the suppression of the spontaneous uprisings, harsh as they were, and the unlimited force that would be used by the ruling class and its government against an organized uprising.

Black communities, of course, have the right to take all measures to defend themselves from invasion and assault by armed forces. But the real task at hand is to rally nationwide support, particularly the support of all truly democratic white Americans, especially white workers, to stop the annual "summer slaughter" and to aid the struggle for survival of the black Americans.

The Open Letter by the Communist Party, USA, addressed to the President before the "hot summer" of 1967 exploded, called for "united action of all forces on the Left regardless of differences" and for the "most sacrificing all-out efforts of every Communist to work tirelessly to unite all Americans of conscience, black and white, to act at once."

The need for such united struggle cannot wait for another "hot summer." It must be directed NOW toward fighting for the elimination of the unbearable conditions that will breed not only more hot summers but even colder winters.

There is an urgent need for organized militant and united struggle in every black community in the U.S. Its arsenal of tactical weapons should include any and all forms of struggle that will most effectively and most speedily advance the fight for full freedom: mass marches, demonstrations, massive militant civil disobedience, boycotts and strikes. It should include sit-ins, sit-downs and sit-outs and armed defense when necessary. It should include black community mass marches to the polls to elect Negro mayors, U.S. Senators, Congressmen and Negro public officials on every level.

The door should be wide open to any new and effective forms of struggle forged in the fires of the freedom fight. The only test for tactical weapons of the freedom struggle should be: will it advance or set back the struggle? will it unite or divide the mass of the black people? will it aid us in winning allies or isolate us?

Militancy, the indispensable ingredient for all effective struggles, has its test to meet. The courage of brave individuals has played, and can play, a significant role in today's freedom struggle. But its strength lies in its ability to inspre mass militancy. It can never be a subsitute for it. Individual courage, therefore, must be synchronized with those forms of struggle to which the mass of black people are ready to respond at any given stage of the struggle.

There is an urgent need for consideration of forms of organization which will unite the people in the black communities and coordinate the communities themselves on a city, state and national level. The aim should be to bring effectively to bear on the power structure the collective will of the black people, to organize and direct mass actions on every front and at every level.

The objective should be to unite the black communities politically, and make full use of their strategic position in our great cities. From such positions of strength they can, in alliance with other oppressed minorities and progressive white sections of the population, struggle effectively for unprecedented levels of Negro representation and drastically alter political relationships throughout the country.

Through united action, an effective fight can be waged for black control of black communities and for federal, state and city reponsibility to provide billions for reconstruction and rehabilitation of the black communities to place them on a par with the rest of the nation. The jobs in such reconstruction should go to the people of the black communities, especially the youth, at all skills and at union wages.

To inspire the struggles of today, black communities should be united in commemorating our black heroes, among them Dr. W.E.B. Du Bois and former New York City Councilman Benjamin J. Davis.

Unity of the black communities can truly spell black power.

It is wrong to conclude, as some do, from the stubborn refusal of the power structure and the Johnson Administration to deal adquately with the crisis in the black ghettos, that the channels for democratic change are closed to the black people. It is true they are being blocked by racist and reactionary forces who are moving to close them. But they are not closed. On the contrary, in the past decade the Negro people have achieved their strongest political position ever attained in our country.

This is the meaning of the tremendous increase in electoral registration in the South, particularly in Mississippi.

This is the meaning of the Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party, the symbol of New Politics in the country.

This is the significance of the new level of black-white unity achieved at the national convention of the National Conference of New Politics that has given birth to the "spirit of Chicago."

Thus, the fateful question: will the channels of democracy be closed to the black people?-- and it would mean inevitably closed to all Americans -- has not only not been answered in the affirmative, but the conditions exist for opening wider the doors of democracy. The task is to fight militantly to open them and to combat resolutely every fascist-like attempt to close them. This is the path not only to winning greater partial gains but to preparing the best grounds for the fight for revolutionary change--for socialism.

The costly experience of Hitler fascism should serve to remind revolutionaries and democrats alike of the terrible price paid for failure to defend each precious democratic right to the bitter end.

Many white people, frustrated by the dangerous drift to disaster of our cities, have responded with fear to the uprisings in the black ghettos. The racists have been quick to seize on these fears to inflame their deeply imbedded prejudices. Thus, a dangerous situation is developing which can turn our streets into bloody battle-grounds of racial strife. But there are also developing among increasing numbers of white people significant new levels of understanding of the meaning of full equality for black people. This is reflected in the readiness of larger numbers of whites to accept and work for greater black representation. Thus, the basis for achieving higher levels of black-white unity in struggle exist.

This is especially so because the crisis in the black ghettos has served to put the spotlight on the crisis of our cities. There is no way of resolving one crisis without resolving the other and particularly the latter without the former. Thus, life itself has joined the fate of the black communities and of our cities, including the white communities. And the answer to both lies in Washington, above all in radically changing federal responsibilities to the cities - to provide adequate funds for decent homes, schools, hospitals and transit.

--mor

The answer lies in drastically changing our nation's priorities from waging war to providing for the long-neglected needs of peace-time living. Above all, the answer lies in ending speedily the unjust war in Vietnam. More and more Americans, white as well as Negro, have come to recognize the interrelation of three crises: the ghetto, our cities and the war in Vietnam. An irresistible force can be brought into being by uniting the mass of Americans to fight for the resolution of all three unbearable crises.

This struggle, by uniting white and black around their common interests, can weaken the dangerous inroads made by racists in the white communities in the recent period. Thus, it is toward the development of such joint efforts that black and white progressives and especially revolutionaries should bend their efforts.

To achieve this unity in struggle requires a consistent and courageous fight by white progressives and revolutionaries against racism especially in their own communities, shops, offices and schools.

The struggle for black freedom faces not only great trials but great opportunities. Both aspects of the situation have to be grasped. More, they have to be acted upon, and acted upon unitedly, in time to make the 1968 elections the arena for great and victorious struggles.

A biographical note on Henry Winston

Henry Winston, National Chairman, Communist Party, USA, symbolizes the spirit and courage of the fighters for black freedom and for socialism in our country. A Negro American born in Mississippi, blinded in prison where he served 6 years as Smith Act victim of McCarthyism, as a result of cruel treatment by his captors, Winston resumed his life's courageous struggle with these memorable words: "I have lost my sight but not my vision."

As chairman of his party, as an eloquent voice, as an able organizer, as a profound writer and analyst of social problems, as a skilled teacher of Marxism, and as a mass fighter, Winston makes his contributions to the struggle for black freedom and for a socialist U.S.A. These contributions rest on the solid foundation of more than four decades of uninterrupted struggle and self-sacrifice. No crucial period in our country's history has passed by without Winston's contributions. During the Great Depression he was a leader in the bitter unemployed struggles for survival of those days. He played an outstanding role in making the slogan of "black and white, unite and fight" the potent weapon that won Unemployed and Social Insurance and most of today's welfare legislation. He was for years the National Organizational Secretary of the Young Communist League and worked with the Southern Negro Youth Congress, the SNICK of the '30s and 40's. He was National Organizational Secretary of the Communist Party, U.S.A. when it faced the full fury of McCarthyism and the leadership was imprisoned under a Smith Act frame-up. He was sentenced to 8 years.

He was released from prison by Presidential order as a result of a mass demand from people in all parts of the world, after he became blind due to the negligence of prison authorities who refused to give proper attention to the growth of a massive brain tumor.

After seeking every possible aid in an effort to regain his eyesight, he resumed his political activity in the Communist Party and was elected its National Chairman at the 18th Convention in June 1966.

REPORT TO NATIONAL CONFERENCE C.P.U.S.A. - Oct 14-15, 1967

By Claude Lightfoot,
Secretary of the National Committee for Negro Affairs

Subject: TO SAVE AMERICA, THESE THINGS ARE REQUIRED:

It has been historical, as well as current experience that a coalescence of struggle of black and white at the grass roots level is the main prerequisite for social advances in our country. Yet, at a time when the nation faces unprecedented problems such as war and peace, the growth of a fascist danger and new economic difficulties, to many people, black and white unity has become a dirty word. Germs of disunity, germs of a cancerous nature, are circulating in the body of the American people, and unless radical surgery is performed, many of the vital organs will be lost, if not the entire body. Patent medicines no longer suffice to meet this growing crisis.

To help unravel the reasons for this situation, we shall discuss the character of the present period, look into what is new in racism, define the nature of the present wave of black nationalism, discuss methods of struggle required for today, estimate the Party's position on the Negro question in the last nine years. And finally, we shall determine what the vanguard role of the Party is in the circumstances of today.

The Negro question cannot be abstracted from the general political situation within the country. The Proctor article estimates what the general situation in the black community will be for the next 10 or 15 years, but in my judgment it does so in isolation from the perspective for the country as a whole for the next 10 to 15 years. Proctor writes:

> In the next decade all indications are that black national consciousness, black nationalism will undergo an explosive growth within the United States. Negro migration to the cities, the cities' growing deterioration, the failure of society, including the trade unions, to fully integrate Negroes, the worsening economic conditions of the Negroes and their growing relation with colored people on a world scale will help to feed black nationalist tendencies and growth.

Now, Proctor does not say whether this black nationalism that he speaks of will be a form of nationalism directed against imperialism, that is, of a positive nature, or whether it will be of a divisive separatist nature such as is embodied in the policies and program of Elijah Muhammud. While he does not indicate what direction it will take, he presents a catalog of the conditions which will promote this national consciousness over the next decade. I conclude, therefore, that he anticipates that over the next 10 or 15 years the problems of worsening conditions of Negroes, including the refusal of the trade unions to integrate, deterioration in the cities, migration to the big cities, etc., will continue to mount. In other words, things will get worse. And if they do, the trend of black nationalism will be toward a more reactionary character.

The development of black nationalism in one direction or another is not a thing in itself; it is a reaction to the general political situation in the country at large. Hence, in order not to err in our judgments about the Negro question, it is necessary to have a clear picture of the general trends in the country.

We are at one of those great crossroads in history where mankind will either advance toward a high plateau of social progress, eliminating all that is vile, reprehensible, dehumanizing and exploitative, or toward the destruction of man's existence on this planet. Which way is yet to be determined.

We Communists are not passive observers on the social scene. We are, or aspire to be, social and political scientists. And in this connection we always seek ways and means of channelizing events in a progressive direction. We examine things as they are at a given moment. We seek out the obstacles which interrupt the smooth flow of progress. We work to uncover the contradictions whose resolution will permit a flow of developments in a given direction.

The existence of many contradictions in the nature of things at present accelerates a growth of frustrations, a groping for new directional signals and, in some instances, hopelessness and despair. We shall proceed to examine some of these contradictions.

The present moment can be characterized as one charged with great economic, political and social turbulence. Unlike the decade of the fifties, the mid-point of the 1960s is marked by ever-increasing waves of struggle by almost all strata of the American people. Yesterday it was mainly the Negro movement that protested injustice. Today the youth, the church, labor and the intelligentsia, in varying degrees, have taken the path of struggle. These forces are converging on the war policies of the Johnson Administration and are creating a deep-going crisis in foreign affairs. The peace movement in our country is perhaps the greatest in history. Seldom has a people challenged its government's pursuance of war with the vigor and determination now manifested by the American people.

The growth of automation and cybernation places the economy in a precarious position and leads workers to the path of struggle to a degree not witnessed in recent years. Strikes are breaking out in all directions. They involve all categories of workers, the more affluent and the less affluent.

As we near the year's end, there have been at least 150 outbreaks of violence in more than 120 cities. Over $270 million in property has been destroyed. It is estimated that 118 people have been killed and nearly 4,000 injured. Roughly 4,000 have been arrested, and National Guardsmen have been called out 23 times.

This is the balance sheet, and the end is nowhere in sight. Indeed, there are those who now see "the long hot summers" extended into "the long cold winters." Especially is this shown by the crime rates. These, a barometer of the sick society and its social turbulence, have reached fantastic proportions.

The FBI announced on September 15 that crime in the United States had risen 17 per cent during the past year and predicted that by the year's end the increase in all types of crime would total 62 per cent over the last six years. Vandalism is on the increase. In 1966 the cost of vandalism in New York schools totaled $5 million. In Washington, D.C., window breakage and theft in schools last year cost more than $214,000.

In every aspect of American life there is an unprecedented degree of dissatisfaction. The people are striking back. Sometimes they strike according to plan. Sometimes they erupt spontaneously. And sometimes they hit out blindly. But whatever the form they take, these are all struggles by the people against a system that hurts so many of them.

Basically, this growing strife arises from a capitalist system in decay. But in particular it is an outgrowth of a war policy. Our government, committed for the last twenty years to a program designed to save the collapsing system of colonialism and imperialism in general, and to promote the domination of U.S. capitalism and imperialism in particular, has brought us to this situation on the home front. A lopsided war budget with its huge expenditures for military hardware, with its dollars for the CIA to bribe and corrupt, leaves little to combat growing problems of poverty, technological displacement of workers and deterioration within the ghettos and cities, to replace obsolete housing, and to create a higher quality of education. These problems, moreover, are greatly aggravated by the new technological and scientific advance in production.

As a consequence of this development, new relations between workers and business, new measures by the state for the welfare of the workers must be evolved. The slowness of such changes is producing great hardships and insecurity for all strata of the American working people.

With the growth of struggle by various sectors of the American people, with the continuing expansion of objective circumstances that induce an enlargement of struggles, one would expect that the pro-democratic masses would be assuming commanding heights; one would think that the future would appear hopeful and that few would become engulfed in despair.

Professor Seymour Melman performed a historic task when, in his work, Our Depleted Society (Holt, New York, 1965), he laid bare all the contradictions within a war economy and hopefully looked to the future. He wrote:

> I expect that diverse groups in American life will discover common ground as they each seek ways to improve their own lot. Americans who suffer directly from the depletion process, or whose prospects for a really better life are held up by the depleted society - all these will be acting in parallel, even in concert, to accelerate the reconstruction of American life.

The various components of the pro-democratic forces in the country are in large part already in the arena of struggle. In some instances they act in a parallel manner; in others, they tend to merge (as witness the merging of efforts by the peace and civil rights forces). And yet, at this moment, there are growing clashes and cleavages between forces who have so much in common. The growing strife between the forces who should and must unite if "we are to overcome" is the most challenging problem facing the people's movements. It is the most important problem before this conference.

What are the factors engendering disunity?

Objective circumstances increasingly are compelling all pro-democratic masses into the arena of struggle. But consciousness of the interrelation of these struggles, of how they impinge on each other, and of what must be done to effect greater correlation, lags dangerously behind.

Thus, the main weaknesses lie in the realm of ideas, concepts and ideology. And it is in this area that a widespread counteroffensive by reactionary elements has come into prominence.

The forms that this offensive takes are many, but the decisive weapon is still racist ideology. But just to repeat "racism" would be meaningless. We must examine the new circumstances in which this poison is being spread. We must uncover the new objective and subjective bases that are the springboard for its renewed growth.

Historically, racism has been the main ideological weapon which our ruling class has used to divide the ranks of the working people. About its harmful effects, Gus Hall wrote:

> Bigotry is like a poison gas deliberately designed to incapacitate all opposition. Like such a gas it distorts reality and brings on a state of confusion. A friend appears as an enemy, an enemy as a friend.

As Hall indicated, in those circumstances confusion reigns supreme, and, as Gil Green once wrote, the real enemy - big business - becomes "the enemy forgotten."

The seeds of current trends of disunity have been assiduously planted in the past several years. That the enemy is working overtime is very evident.

We witnessed two parallel developments in 1964 which helped to heighten tensions among the people. One was the forays of George C. Wallace from Alabama into the Northern communities. Now, it is clear that Wallace could not win any election, could not win the nomination, could not make any significant campaign. The main reason Wallace came into the North in the 1964 elections was to make an appeal to prejudice among white workers, and wherever he went, whether it was Gary, Baltimore or other cities, this was the main pitch. And in some respects it paid off. The large number of white workers who supported this avowed racist was cause for great concern.

The over-all strategy called for the organization of a so-called "white backlash." This idea made its appearance in the 1964 elections on the eve of the greatest coalescence of pro-democratic forces in the history of our country, aimed at the defeat of Goldwater, with labor, the liberal community, the middle strata, the farmers and the Negro people uniting politically as never before. This was one prong of the effort to use the weapon of white supremacy, of prejudice, of fear and insecurity, to mobilize white workers to throw the ranks of black and white into further disarray.

The second development in 1964 was the refusal to seat the delegation of the Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party at the Democratic National Convention. The insistence of President Johnson, and of outstanding labor and liberal spokesmen, on forcing the Freedom Democratic Party to accept a compromise with the Dixiecrat South, proved to be one of the most harmful actions in recent years. This laid the basis for the serious division in the labor-liberal-Negro coalition that followed 1964.

James Forman of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee was correct in calling it a "profile in treachery." For a new factor had now emerged, though it was not too easily discernible at that moment. That is, the ideological assault now came not only from ultra-Right forces such as Wallace and his supporters, but also, simultaneously, from leaders of the liberal and labor coalition who moved in for the purpose of checkmating the further acceleration of the Negro people's movement. The joining together of these two currents laid the seeds of accelerated tendencies of disunity among the people.

What is the background of these developments? Why did Walter Reuther, Humphrey and others who had distinguished themselves as great liberals, as friends of the Negro people, as staunch civil rights fighters, act as they did at Atlantic City? Comrade Henry Winston points out that their previous position was rooted in the 1954 Supreme Court decision. That decision, he says, was a class decision. U.S. imperialism was prepared at that moment to make some concessions to the Negro movement for two purposes: (1) to try to overcome the racist image the U.S. had won for itself as a result of oppression of the Negro people; and (2) to mobilize the Negro people's movement for the war effort.

Beginning at Atlantic City and afterward, however, the gears shifted and the demands of the Negro people's movement went into motion for more fundamental chang not mere palliatives and superficial reforms. Power was placed on the agenda. The economic aspect of the question was brought to the forefront, and demands were place that go to the heart of reversing the war policies of U.S. imperialism, and with this, of removing many of the domestic camouflages. This was the hard political reality underlying a situation which now began to work in reverse.

Consequently, if we make an assessment of racist ideology in the U.S. today, we have to take into account the fact that there is at the present time no section of the ruling class that is working for the limited goals and limited purposes of some years ago. Today, most of the so-called liberal community joins with the ultra-Right for the purpose of defeating the efforts of the Black People's Movement for radical and deep-going changes in their status.

A good example of this change is the way in which the police power of the State is employed. Several years ago the police power of the federal government was used to back civil rights efforts in the South. Presidents Eisenhower and Kennedy wer compelled by an outraged nation to send troops to the South. Today, however, the police forces in many cities allegedly ruled by liberals not only are used against the Negro people but are in fact the main forces provoking violence and disorder. And in every instance, beginning with the situation in New York City under the liberal Mayor Wagner, the police force has been absolved. Furthermore, the police power of the federal government backs up the racist attacks against Negroes and blames the victim And President Johnson makes appeals which can only lead white people, on the citizen level, to take up arms against black people.

The main problem is not that the ruling circles are using racist ideology. Ther is nothing new in this. What is important is that there is an insufficient response amo whites, a failure to act at the grass roots level. Hence it is not enough for progressives and radicals to explain the source of racism. Most people of good will understand that. What is most important is to discover how and why this poison can operat so easily among the masses. And when this is understood, maybe we can "overcome." For no matter in how racist a fashion the ruling class behaves, if there is no acceptance of racism among the masses, this behavior will be of little consequence.

In addition to the betrayal by certain labor and liberal forces in the country, there is a material basis for the growth of chauvinist attitudes among workers. Racist ideology finds a fertile ground in two significant areas of daily life, first in the job problems flowing not only from a war economy but also from scientific and technological changes, and second in the area of housing.

The growth of job displacement and unemployment by automation in industry has created new problems for the American workers. With no clear solution in view, the working class lives in constant fear of what tomorrow will bring. Thus, the problem of job insecurity tend by itself to become a driving force for tensions among workers, rather than to lead them to approach it as a class problem, as a problem of all workers -- the more affluent, the less affluent, black and white. There are strong tendencies among white workers to seek solutions at the expense of their black brothers. This adds to the problems of the black brother, who is already bearing the brunt of the problem. It takes the form of greater unemployment, underemployment and other dehumanizing conditions. These are ongoing problems which daily get worse, not better.

Indicative of this trend are the findings of a recent Labor Department survey covering over twenty black ghettos. It notes the following:

> 16.9 per cent of those employed were working only part time, though trying to find a full-time job. The comparable national figure is 2.3 per cent. 21 per cent of the full-time workers earn less than $60.00 a week, the equivalent of the $3,000 annual poverty line. The national figure is 15.4 per cent. 37 per cent of the slum families reported annual incomes under $3,000 compared with 25 per cent nationally. The average family income was about $3,800 compared with the national average of $6,300. ... 47 per cent of the families reported income from unemployment insurance, welfare and other non-employment sources.

This survey shows why Black America is increasingly becoming alienated from White America.

One of the problems automation poses is the necessity for workers to improve their skills. But in this connection certain unions stand out as the main obstacles to Negroes acquiring skill. Historically, the building trades unions have been one of the main barriers. Today, no less than yesterday, these unions emerge as the greatest scabs in the labor movement, the main source of friction between black and white workers. Big business and the government utilize this situation to throw workers into competition with each other, feed anti-union sentiments among black workers and make the business community and the government appear as the real friends of the black workers.

For example, look at this newspaper report of a dialogue between Senator Robert Kennedy and a building trades leader, headed: "Kennedy Declares Building Unions Fail to Admit Negroes." Haggerty, one of the building trades leaders, responded: "We can't take aboard a boy that can't read or a boy that's a school dropout." Peter T. Shulman, president of the Plumbers' Union, said: "We have certain minimum requirements." Kennedy replied: "I would think that there are more than 21 boys in all of Cincinnati who can read."

What is the image here? That the government is on the side of the Negroes and the trade unions are against them.

Other headlines read: "Trade Union Bias Found Unchecked." "Apprenticeship Plan Excludes Minority Workers." "California Panel Finds Union Bias." "U.S. Warns Union on Training Bias. Sets Compliance Deadline for 500-Apprentice Plan." "Union Accused at State Hearing." One of the most scandalous of all is the following: "Negroes Upheld in Sheetmetal Apprentice Test." This was a test in which, of a total of 147 applicans, 24 were Negroes. Of these, 17 passed with the highest grades. But the union contested the examination as not being reflective of the aptitudes of these Negroes, and the court had to hand down a decision that the test was all right and that these youngsters do have some intelligence. Again, the court against the union. And again, it is the electrical workers' union, the plumbers' union and other building trades unions that are cited as the chief culprits. And these are only a small fraction of the newspaper headlines and articles on this problem.

Thus, a comprehensive program of jobs for all workers with consideration to the special problems of the black worker is the road to reducing the effect of the pro-fascist, racist offensive. This will be dealt with in greater detail below.

There are also some new developments in the area of housing which require a fresh look. The problem of housing as a generator of conflict between black and white workers dates back to the end of World War II. Prior to the war's end, a great deal of interracial activity had been built up on the job level in industry.. But at that time the ghettos had not enlarged too much and there was not too much pressure to break out, and inasmuch as the black and white workers found so much in common on the job fighting the boss for better working conditions, friction was at a minimum.

In the postwar years, both the black and white workers accumulated some small savings with which to purchase a home. Large and continuous migrations of Negroes from the South resulted in the already overcrowded ghettos becoming altogether unlivable, and the Negro began a struggle to break out. Those with enough capital sought home ownership in white neighborhoods. The Supreme Court in 1949 ruled out restrictive covenants and gave legal sanction to the breaking up of the overcrowded ghetto.

But the Negro found a "not welcome" sign as he sought refuge from slum life in other neighborhoods. More often than not such signs took the form of mobs, or other forms of violence. The black worker now found his white working-class brother a part of the mobs, and this increased his distrust of all whites. Thought he, "Yesterday I believed that this man was my friend; today I find him in the camp of my enemies."

After a number of skirmishes in most cities, white Americans fled to suburbia. The ghettos were enlarged, and in most instances Negroes occupied the entire center of the city.

Today the problem has been compounded. The migrations from the South did not cease. They continued to the point where, in a number of cities, Negroes are in the process of becoming the majority of the population. And now the overcrowded conditions are forcing some Negroes to seek a solution in suburbia. The marches led by Dr. King in Chicago last year unleashed a fury on the part of whites not witnessed in recent years. Whites who fled from the city center several years ago now find themselves again hemmed in. Not even the suburbs give them peace from this ongoing black invasion.

This is the process taking place on the housing front which engenders racist onslaughts against black people anew. Behind it is an economic problem coupled with racist ideology of long standing.

Thus, racism is propelled forward today by black people making demands which dig deeper and deeper into the war policy of the government, demands which are not only anti-imperialist but are increasingly becoming anti-capitalist. It is acclerated by many liberals joining the ultra-Right attack on the movement. Racism is also fed by deteriorating economic conditions on the job and housing fronts and a failure to evolve a comprehensive program to meet these new problems. Resulting therefrom is greater friction between black and white.

Therefore, a radical change in the status of black people, a change toward greater security and a higher standard of living for all workers, requires a radical shift from racist ideology among white workers. This is a fundamental prerequisite for building a powerful coalition of black and white in the conditions of today. And it is only through such a coalition that America is going to be saved from the catastrophies threatening it.

Racism is also a major contributor to moods of black nationalism. The recent period has also witnessed a tremendous growth in this direction.

What is the source of this trend? What is the main content? In what way does it differ from black nationalist trends of other times? What should be the attitude of Communists to this development?

Black nationalism today arises in part from a feeling of being rejected by the white community. Historically, there have always existed two Americas, one black and one white. At the close of World War II, as we have indicated, the main thrust of the Negro movement in Northern areas was to break out of the ghetto. The main trend in the Negro community was for full integration into every institution of American life. But the Negro didn't break out of the ghetto; when they temporarily succeeded, whites fled, thus enlarging the area of ghetto life rather than eliminating it. This experience has left the Negro bitter and ever more distrustful of whites. Forced to live in the ghetto under conditions which are almost indescribable, the economic conditions of the mass of the Negro people continually worsened as those of other sections of the population, including some Negroes, got better. The contrast between affluence for a few Negroes and poverty for the mass of black people has been a driving force engendering even greater resentment of whites.

Thus many Negroes when they sum up the experiences of the last two decades, conclude that integration in the abstract will not automatically solve the problem of being black, that even in integrated houses, schools and other institutions, the Negro can and does remain a second-class citizen, with little or no say on decisions which have great meaning for his life.

In these circumstances, most Negroes have come to conclude that the exercise of freedom requires dealing with the other side from positions of strength, rather than depending on "good will" or "moral persuasion."

Another factor of no small importance is the discovery by many Negroes that they had been brain-washed by a white-led society. They had been led to believe that their ancestral background came from levels of social organization not much higher than animal life. Today, as they witness Africans playing a major role in all the affairs of mankind, this evokes from them a feeling of great pride in their own race, in the color of Black, and brings out a deep desire for greater identity with their past. Previous tendencies to try to escape the "sin" of being black are now replaced with an emphasis on being black.

These moods are also in the background of the slogan of "black power" and the emphasis of control over ghetto life. Most whites do not comprehend these psychological factors and feel rejected when Negroes place their emphasis in this direction.

A third factor producing a black nationalist path of development is the rise of three major categories of people in the ghetto. One category consists of the more recent waves of migrants from the South who are forced to go on relief or who find employment of the most menial nature in the service industries, where the pay is often less than what people receive on relief. People who fall in this category are called the underemployed. In most cases they are people who came from the rural South with little or no industrial experience; and in the North they work mostly in unorganized shops where their contacts with unions or with whites are minimal. And even when they are in unions, these are mostly unions headed by racketeers who work with the bosses to keep them in their unenviable position. People in this category make up a large segment of most black communities.

An NALC found that hundreds of thousands in the Chicago area earn less than $3,000 a year. They are employed in industries wuch as apparel, merchandising, laundry and dry cleaning, hospitals, repair services, etc. The survey concludes: "In the greater Chicago area, at least 515,000 are working poor; of these, at least 400,000 live in the city of Chicago, the overwhelming part in the slums and ghettos."

The Negro population in Chicago is estimated at anywhere between 800,000 to 1,000,000. The underemployed represent at least one-third of this population. This group feels totally alienated from white society and isn't interested in building interracial life. It is therefore a major source of present-day nationalism.

Another category which engenders a drive toward nationalism is Negro youth, both the students and the unemployed.

In his book Slums and Suburbs, written in 1961 (before the ghetto uprisings), James B. Conant said of these strata:

> In a slum area of 125,000 people, mostly Negro, a sampling of the youth population showed that roughly 70 per cent of the boys and girls aged 16 to 21 were out of school and unemployed.

> The magnitude of the problem is appalling and the challenge to our society is clear. ... We are allowing social dynamite to accumulate in our large cities.

Since this survey was made, the figures have no doubt increased. This means that another large sector of the black community has grown up with little or no work experience.

The third grouping is Negro business. Classically, the rise of a native capitalist class within the nation has been the main springboard of nationalism. J. V. Stalin once observed: "The bourgeoisie learns its nationalism in the struggle for the market."

The Negro question in the U.S. cannot be treated in a mechanical fashion. There are, we we have noted, other transmission belts of nationalism. Nonetheless, the struggle of the black bourgeoisie to share in the market among its own people is one of the significant drives of present-day nationalism. The black ghetto bourgeoisie, mainly petty bourgeoisie, has grown in a number of communities in the last twenty years. Some black-owned enterprises are already in competition with white-owned companies.

Whereas formerly Negro capital was mainly invested in non-production enterprises, today there has been a marked increase in the field of production. The new capital formation has been mainly in the field of cosmetics and food-processing. Here and there one finds investments in other areas of production, but they are the exception.

The growth of the black bourgeoisie in recent times has taken two paths. There has been a considerable enlargement of one section employed as professional workers, in government agencies on the one hand, and of another section engaged in direct commercial enterprises on the other. The former tends toward individual integration as the solution; the latter sees an expanding ghetto and a growing market as a source of their greater development as capitalists. It therefore calls upon progressives to help them gain a greater share of the volume of business done in the ghetto. Whatever divisions exist in this category, most black businesses encourage the black power concept and help to feed nationalist sentiments.

These categories -- the unemployed, the underemployed, the youth and business -- represent a very large section of the total black population in most major cities. Their very existence and life experience mitigate against a working-class outlook. This situation, therefore, provides the main social base, the main springboard for black nationalism today.

In what way does present-day nationalism differ from that of the past? Regarding this trend, Harry Schwartz of the New York Times writes the following:

> Black nationalism is not an entirely new phenomenon. In the 1920s Marcus Garvey's project for moving American Negroes to Africa won the support of hundreds of thousands of black men and women. ... Since World War II the Black Muslims have shown that a mass Negro movement of some proportions could be built on a form of black separatism and hatred of whites.

But what then is the content of the present wave?

First: It certainly is not a repetition of the escapist utopian schemes conceived by a Garvey in the 1920s.

Second: It is certainly not our former conception of what would happen in the Black Belt of the South, notwithstanding some similarities that flowed from that situation and which are very much present in today's movement.

Third: At the present time it is not the Elijah Muhammud approach, although that factor is there, and could under some circumstances be greatly enlarged.

The central thrust of this movement has not been directed against the white community indiscriminately, even though most use the term "whitey." Its major pitch has been against the power of the state -- the police apparatus, the ruling circles -- and against business elements within the ghetto. There are few instances where Negroes have ganged up and beaten whites promiscuously in their communities, as was the case in race riots in the early 1920s. The Negro is not seeking a confrontation along such lines today.

The following description of nationalism presented by Barbara Ward, an internationally known political analyst, portrays the main content of this movement:

> We know that the passionate desire of men to see themselves as equal with other human beings without distinction of class, or sex, or race, or nationhood is one of the driving forces of our day and I believe it is the taproot of modern nationalism. For this reason nationalism today comes to us in great measure in the form of equality, the equality of nations one with each other, the equality of esteem and prestige that comes from not being run by other nations. This is one of the great drives of our world and when we discuss nationalism, I think it is legitimate to unite it with the idea of equality.

Thus, at present the main content of black nationalism is of a progressive character. It does not exclude Negro-white unity, but it demands that such unity be meaningful and between equal partners. Roscoe Proctor was correct when he wrote:

> Total integration is a recognized valid concept and is the ultimate goal of most black power advocates. Their desire to build black power is a practical recognition of a necessary process through which a genuine integration can be achieved. ("Notes on 'Black Power' Concept," Political Affairs, March 1967.)

This is also what is underlined by SNCC. They do not reject the necessity of coalition. And so, I would say that the predominant content of today's nationalism is not anti-white. It is distrustful of whites and has little confidence in their goodwill. True, whatever goodwill toward whites still exists in the black communities is evaporating very quickly, and what was the case yesterday may not be so tomorrow. But this analysis is being made on the basis of what is presently the case.

What should be the attitude of the CPUSA to these new nationalist currents? First of all, we must draw a line between nationalism and nationalism. The old folks have a saying, "Everybody talking about heaven ain't going there." To paraphrase this, we may say, "Everybody talking black, everybody promoting nationalism, don't really reflect the needs of black people."

> Nationalism, historically appearing in many different climes, in many different forms, in many different forms, in many different tongues, through many different colors, assumes either a progressive path of development, or a reactionary one. There is no third way.
> In present-day circumstances, we must draw a line between what is progressive and what is reactionary. The brand of nationalism expressed by the Black Muslim movement is basically a reactionary path. We can understand and sympathize with the conditions which are at the root of this movement. We can hail the many positive strengths which it generates, such as race pride and the dignity it conveys to its members. We feel that its members can make important contributions to the general welfare such as the courageous opposition to the war in Vietnam by Muhammud Ali.
> But when the movement encourages non-participation in day-to-day struggles for partial demands, when it calls for complete separation of the races on all levels, when it demeans everybody with a white face, when it glorifies everybody with a black face--then, clearly, it is out of touch with reality and leads up a blind alley. Furthermore, wittingly or not, it helps to lay the basis for genocidal treatment of the American Negro. For the divisions among black and white at that level can only pave the way for an American brand of fascism.

We entertain hopes that these trends can be overcome and that the organization can take its place as a positive force for black freedom. At the same time, this analysis does not call for total rejection of everything the Muslims stand for. Even their ultimate goal, a black-led republic within continental United States, if manifested by a large segment of the black community in a socialist America, would be honored if American Communists had anything to do about it. Moreover, under such conditions, a separate state would receive the fullest economic, political and social cooperation, to make of it truly a free and prosperous community.

But the basic content of the main waves of nationalism, as we have shown, is progressive and goes in the direction of a struggle against capitalism and imperialism. As such, we support it and will do all within our power to help achieve the goals the black freedom fighters place.

We especially identify with our people in finding beauty in being black, pride in being black, and in seeking to reclaim much of a lost culture and heritage. This usage of the term "black" as applied to our people is a rejection of a former notion of black as being synonymous with evil, the devil, disaster or other undesirable things. We identify with this urge, notwithstanding that many of us will still use the words "black," "Afro-American" or "Negro" interchangeably.

But while we generally associate ourselves with the progressive content of nationalism, we do not uncritically embrace every tatic or method used by people who can be regarded as generally progressive. There are many situations in which, as a matter of principle, we are compelled to disagree. We reject those concepts in our ranks which fail to identify with the new nationalist urges among the people, but we likewise reject those opportunist trends which embrace uncritically everything that is advanced under a nationalist cover. This latter point is important because, while a trend may be progressive today, it may also contain seeds which would make it reactionary tomorrow. Failure to fight a minor disease today can open the door to a major disease tomorrow. Thus, it is necessary to fight colds as insurance against more serious developments.

In summary, we reject reactionary versions of black nationalism. We seek a progressive direction. We also fight reactionary tendencies within a generally progressive trend. Finally, we seek to infuse a greater class content into the movement generally, for only in this way can there be a sustained progressive development to a higher form of social organization, to a form of society that will eradicate all manifestations of racism, chauvinism, reactionary nationalism and provide for the full flowering of the Brotherhood of Man.

The struggle against nationalism of a reactionary character is a requirement for the building of a coalition of black and white, which is required to save America from impending catastrophe.

The new stage of the freedom struggle is marked by a growing crisis in techniques and methods. Those which sufficed yesterday are inadequate to meet the demands posed by the black people's movements today; consequently, much confusion exists as to what to do to compel substantial changes.

Floyd McKissick, executive directior of the Committee on Racial Equality, calls for discarding the demonstration form of struggle. He says: "The nation does not respond to non-violent demonstrations." McKissick says he knows because he has taken part in "at least fifty of them."

Martin Luther King, after the outbreak of violence on the West Side of Chicago last year, said that the power structure responds with concessions only to acts of violence. And he now calls for a massive civil disobedience campaign.

Julian Bond, youthful black legislator from Georgia, has been quoted as saying that nothing is left to the Negro but to resort to violence, although he also noted that nothing would be achieved by violence. Some of the younger radicals around the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee, like Stokely Carmichael and Rap Brown, appeal for guerrilla warfare within the ghettos and cities in the United States. These young people take notice of the growing conspiracy on the part of the government, as well as ultra-Right organizations, to carry out a program of mass annihilation of black people. In this regard, their call to arms is still of a defensive nature.

The Carmichaels and Browns have been greatly inspired by the guerrilla methods in Vietnam. Here they see a poor, backward, undeveloped nation, using some of the most primitive methods of warfare, holding at bay the most powerful military force in human experience. They are likewise propelled in the direction of looking toward armed struggle by the Cuban Revolution, which started with a small band of guerrillas. From these facts they deduce that a black minority, led by militant, armed groups in the United States, can do no less than the former colonial peoples have done.

However, they overlook one important factor, namely, the support given the guerrillas by the overwhelming majority of the people. The guerrilla movement in Cuba was successful because it was supported in the countryside and in the cities by the majority of the Cuban people. What was true in Cuba is a thousand times more true in Vietnam.

Can it be successfully argued that an armed struggle in present conditions in the U.S. would enjoy the active or passive support by anything like a majority of the American people? Clearly not. Under such circumstances, the resort to arms of an offensive nature could only lead to suicide. Our people have fought too hard and too long to reach this point, to throw everything away in a suicidal action. The goal of the struggle must be victory, not defeat.

Black people are free today in Cuba through armed struggle, but it was struggle by an army composed of all kinds of Cubans and not just black Cubans. Indeed, there was only one Negro with Castro in the mountains initially. Hence, black people did not free themselves in Cuba by just their willingness to die. The political climate was right and there was support for the armed struggle in depth. Those from afar who counsel black people in the United States to take up arms as the road to freedom, regardless of the political circumstances, do the Negro people, as well as themselves, a great disservice.

Dr, King was not entirely correct when he said that the power structure responds with concessions only to violence. The stubborn facts are that the powers that be have not responded to any form of struggle with anything more than very minor concessions.

Struggles of great turbulence have raged in the nation's ghettos for the last three years; hundreds of millions of dollars in property have been destroyed. There has been an unprecedented loss of life, an unprecedented number of people injured, arrested and jailed. But the balance sheet in terms of results is no different than that of the period which was characterized by non-violent demonstrative forms of action. Thus, it is not a matter of choice between violent or non-violent struggles; the problem is much more difficult and complex than that.

The Communist Party of the United States has had considerable experience in dealing with the question of force and violence. Beginning in 1948, and throughout the decade of the 1950s, we were hounded, persecuted and prosecuted as being in league with a foreign power to overthrow this government by force and violence. Over a hundred and thirty Party leaders were convicted under the Smith Act. Many of them served several years in jail. Some of the young radicals may not remember this period, known to history as the era of McCarthyism. Perhaps some of them were too young to know what went on. But in any case, they should ponder over the experiences of those years, which can be useful as a guide to action today.

Throughtout the Smith Act trials we Communists never renounced force and violence per se. We said that at certain historical moments the necessity for armed struggle may be present. But we held that we were not guilty of a conspiracy to employ force and violence, nor were we guilty of teaching and advocating the necessity of the overthrow of the government by force and violence. Furthermore, we stated, we seek a socialist change through peaceful means. But if it should become impossible to solve the problems by peaceful means, if the ruling class should block the channels of democratic expression, we would unhesitatingly call for the overthrow of such a government by all possible means, including armed struggle. To this approach American Communists still hold.

The present wave of violent actions in the black ghettos by black people is of a defensive nature, and the right of the black people to defend themselves even by force of arms should be supported by all in the country who stand against injustice. However, it is one thing to defend oneself from attack by all necessary means, and it is another to choose this way as the main method of battle. As Communists pointed out in various Smith Act trials, there may well come a time when other forms of struggle must be supplemented by armed struggle. But this should not be dealt with as if it were a universal necessity. It is a matter of time, place and circumstances.

Before anyone begins talking about the necessity for armed guerrilla warfare in the cities of the United States, an assessment should be made as to whether all other forms have become obsolete and incapable of meeting the problems. If this is found to be the case, then revolutionary forces should prepare for such struggles. But if not, proposals for armed action can have fatal consequences. History records many examples of successful uprisings; but it also records that premature and uncalled for actions along this line have led minority groups to slaughter and caused movements to be set back for many years. Such an important question, therefore, should not be dealt with off the top of one's head.

A superficial examination of the present moment could lead to conclusions that we have reached the point where all other methods have failed. For twelve long years the black community, especially in the South, has been engaged in massive non-violent methods of struggle. The demonstrations of this period have no parallel in American history. The demonstrators have also shown a patience that has few parallels. Unarmed men, women and children have flung themselves before the power structure almost as sacrificial offerings; they have been murdered, beaten, jailed and set upon with ferocious dogs and cow prods; they have been the victims of the most savage and inhuman terror. And now, twelve years later, the balance sheet shows only token gains. Jim Crow and segregation are still a basic part of American life.

Our youth have seen their cries for relief go unheeded by the white-led power structure. This has impelled some of them to call for more violent methods.

Another factor which weighs heavily in the negative attitude of some freedom fighters toward demonstrations and other milder forms of struggle is their discovery that to win their full goals the social system of capitalism will have to be changed. Some of them conclude that since capitalism is the source of the problem, then why engage in actions that at best bring only temporary relief.

If capitalism is the source of the inferior status of black people, it would indeed follow that only with the elimination of the system can Negroes gain equality. In a general sense, this is true. But from this truth, some wrong and harmful conclusions are drawn.

There are some on the Left who advance the idea that no substantial change in the Negro's status is possible in the capitalist framework, that only token gains can be made. For example, Paul A. Baran and Paul M. Sweezy, in their book, Monopoly Capital (Monthly Review Press, New York 1966), say the following: "Today Negroes are on the bottom, and there is neither room above nor anyone ready to take their place. Thus, only individuals can move up, not the group as such. Reforms help the few, not the many." (p. 279.)

If the Negro people's movement accepted this viewpoint, the struggle would be set back for generations to come. To tell the Negro masses that only a few individuals can move upward so long as capitalism exists, is to tell them to sit around and wait until socialism comes on the agenda, or until then just to propagandize for socialism in the abstract.

To bring about socialism requires a process of struggle varying according to the given conditions. Those who advocate a policy which sees no progress for the masses under capitalism are like a farmer who expects a bumper crop although he tilled no soil, planted no seeds and cultivated no plants.

The road to a socialist reorganization of society is no longer a matter of hypothesis or guess-work. One-third of the world has taken the socialist path and another sector among the newly-liberated countries is heading in that direction. Thus, we have before us a wealth of experience. And as the struggle for socialism goes forward in the rest of the world, new experiences will be added.

Within that framework, however, there are some universal truths that have stood the test of time.

Among these is the fact that the struggle for socialism develops in the framework of democratic struggles within the capitalist system. In all instances where the socialist struggle was successful, it was preceded by a stage of struggle for radical shifts or changes within the old society. The classical form this has taken is the struggle for bourgeois democracy.

Today in the United States, the Negroes' struggle for equality is essentially a democratic struggle. And in this struggle, it is possible to change his status substantially, short of socialism. Indeed, the balance sheet of struggle for the last fifteen years has in some areas already passed beyond tokenism.

The desegregation of public places, both in the North and the South, represents a substantial change. With regard to the role of Negroes in sports, too, the change has been substantial. Negro employment in government services has taken a qualitative leap forward and is more than token.

It is true that in an over-all sense the Negroes' gain in the last period has been minimal. But substantial changes have nevertheless been made. And given increased struggle by all segments of the American people, substantial progress in the economic and political fields can also be made that will go beyond tokenism.

Some argue that placing the question in this way can only feed illusions in the capitalist system. Now, it is true that the winning of reforms under capitalism can temporarily create such illusions. But it is also true that the ongoing struggle for reforms can increasingly expose the limitations of the system and lead to greater consciousness of the need to change it.

However much one may understand the background which drives our youth to guns, sober judgment calls for presentation of an approach which can win results. This means bringing the struggle down to its common denominator.

The main problems of the people in the ghettos revolve around income and power. The Negro is the victim of a hierarchy of superexploitation which involves wages, prices, rents, interest rates and other means of extracting profits. His problem on the economic front calls for the kind of actions which can consistently narrow down the area of superexploitation. It means building up many different forms of organization on the economic front.

In the political arena, the main problem is not how to get a response from the power structure as it presently exists. The problem is how basically to change this structure. This is more difficult. It is less dramatic than a gun battle in the street; it requires much more painstaking work. But it has been wisely said: "The race is not always won by those who run the fastest, but by those who can endure to the end."

It is one of the ironies of our time that those same forces who have done so much to shake up our society, who correctly placed the question of power on the agenda, now wander afield. They proceed on another journey at a time when what they urged yesterday is coming on the agenda. All over this country black people are expressing their independence of the old-line political parties and are preparing actions which can propel Negroes much deeper into the political section of the power structure.

Today, a Hatcher, a Stokes, a Willis make the race for mayor in three large cities. They are the harbingers of future black mayors in a large number of American cities. The Freedom Democratic Party, a creature of the young radicals, stands on the threshold of great electoral victories. We are about to reap the harvest from the voter registration drive which represented so many years of effort. And now some are losing faith in this path of development and call for the more dramatic action--the resort to arms.

Now, the election of Negroes to mayoralties and other high offices will not automatically lead to an improvement of the conditions of the masses. At present a struggle is being waged to determine who will control these officals. The ruling circles are reading the handwriting on the wall and are taking steps to guarantee full control, regardless of who gets elected. This is the meaning of the support given Stokes in Cleveland by some of the business community, as well as the support from the top command of the Democratic Party. This is also in the background of the support being given Hatcher in Gary by top circles of the party, notwithstanding the fact that local Democrats are giving support to the Republican candidate. Dedicated freedom fighters must not refrain from these struggles because of these ruling class maneuvers, however. On the contrary, the situation dictates the need for maximum effort to get representatives who will be responsive to the people, not to the white power structure.

Therefore, the effort at the ballot box to alter the present relationship of forces in the government apparatus is the main direction the struggle must take. In pursuance of the goal of reducing the area of superexploitation and of enhancing political power, a multiplicity of forms and techniques of struggle will be needed.

Some of these struggles will be non-violent; others may occasion the defensive use of violence. But in any case, the main weapons that black folks can use include, first, their labor power, their ability to halt production and reduce the profits of the big corporations. Second, they include their consumer power, their ability to disturb the profits of those firms which practice discrimination. And finally, they include their political power which, if wisely used, can compel some meaningful changes even in the framework of the capitalist system. Socialism is the final solution, but the struggle for limited goals today will pave the way to a full solution tomorrow.

To build a coalition of black and white requires full utilization of all forms of power that the people possess. It also requires avoiding escapist illusions, of which the enemy can and will make good use. Our nation can surmount its crises only if all the people find appropriate forms of struggle and act in concert.

Illumination of our task requires a review of our work in the last ten years. Of course, such a review must of necessity be limited, especially when we have before us so many pressing current problems.

There are some among us who say that we have had a wrong line for the last ten years. I wish to challenge this appraisal as not being in accord with the facts. That there were certain inadequacies in our line is very evident; there are many things that we did not foresee. But any appraisal must be made against a backdrop of what is and is not readily observable. Otherwise, the Party line becomes a line that is all-seeing. Such an idea is non-Marxist. I would only say that when we are dealing with such questions we should say that in the present circumstances the following is the case; tomorrow, in a different set of circumstances, something else may be the case. But as of now we operate on the basis of what we can see.

Those who speak of a wrong line say in essence that we should have retained the slogan of self-determination for the Black Belt. My answer to that is categorically "no." We were 100 per cent correct in dropping the slogan of self-determination. Having done so, we proceeded to state further that the Negro question is still a national question. The resolution of the 17th National Convention says:

> To conclude that the Negro people in the United States are not a nation is not to say that the Negro question in our country is not a national question. It is indeed a national question. The question is, however, a national question of what type, with what distinguishing characteristics, calling for what strategic concept for its solution.

But though we retained the concept of the national character of the question, we failed to probe deeper and to outline in depth the nature of the national question as it is manifested today and as it may possibly be manifested tomorrow.

Some of us were involved in formulating the above paragraph and inserting it into the text of the resolution. But we didn't define the distinguishing characteristics, although we knew it wasn't the same as the national question in relation to any other minority group, also that it wasn't the same as it was when we talked about a nation in the Black Belt.

One source of weakness in our Party is that when we adopt a so-called general line, it answers everything. Lines must be constantly fed and implemented. Notwithstanding the formulation in the resolution characterizing the problem as national in character, we underestimated the possibilities of a continued growth in this direction. We underestimated the effects of the accumulated years of material developments toward nationhood in the South, as well as the significance of some of the concepts that we had put forward. We interpreted too mechanically the undermining of the nation in the Black Belt by migration into the cities and into the North. We expected changes more in the direction of the class character of the struggle and less in the direction of the national character.

But things did not go that way. When we say that the majority of the Negroes are now in the industrial proletariat, that the main center of the problem now lies not in the peasantry but in the proletariat, we must remember that ideological changes usually lag behind material changes. But we overlooked the fact that certain national attributes that the Negro was evolving in his Black Belt experience could spill over when he came North.

We were also slow in understanding that the motive factor promoting nationalism in the black community with these migrations was the same as that which operated after World War I, when the rise of Garveyism took place. Then, too, the Negro fled from the South to the North and instead of finding the "promised land," he found Jim Crow, segregation, and conditions in the North as miserable as in the South. His disillusionment laid the foundation for Garvey to preach "Go back to Africa." As he saw things, in the words of the poet Ted Ward, "America is one big white fog so thick and impenetrable that a black man can never get through it."

What took place after World War I has been repeated under new conditions in the forties, fifties and sixties. The wave of migration of Negroes from the South to the North has become a continuous process, especially with the growing displacement of Negroes in agriculture.

It is interesting to see what happens to the migrants. On the South Side of Chicago there have been no eruptions of a major character. It is on the West Side that these have taken place. There the population consists mainly of Negroes recently from the South who are mainly employed not in steel, auto, farm equipment or other mass production industries, but at the lowest rung of the economic ladder in the service industries. They are mainly unorganized and have had no union experience. They have had little or no association with whites except to see them on the job, and then go back to the ghetto. They constitute most of the people on the relief rolls, most of the ADC cases, etc. On the other hand, a large segment of the South Side inhabitants are older residents who have been in the city 30 or 40 years, who have seniority in some industries, and who have accumulated some savings and live relatively well.

There seems to be an attitude that the Negroes are polarized by the existence of extreme poverty at one end and the rise of a middle class at the other. But there is also a category of workers in between who are mainly in unions and have evolved a certain degree of trade union and class consciousness.

Thus, it is clear that changes in the occupational status, especially in the area of the underemployed, do not automatically lead to trade union or working-class consciousness. This, too, is part of the raw material out of which an explosive growth of nationalism has already evolved.

There was nothing in our line that would have prohibited us from understanding in greater depth the possibilities of a new and broader wave of black nationalism. The problem, I repeat, is that general line and policy must be constantly checked to see what is new, what is aborning, and on this basis to make the necessary adjustments to correspond to the new realities.

In addition to our failure to understand and anticipate the present wave of nationalism, we have historically underestimated the role of color, of race, of oppression as driving forces for Negro nationalism. We have tried to explain this trend from the definition Stalin gave of a nation as an historically evolved community having in common language, geography, economic life and psychological make-up. This definition is generally sound, but in dealing with the American Negro, we are dealing with a people that has a history different from any other people on earth. And fully to understand his make-up, we must take into consideration that here color, race and oppression operate independently of Stalin's definition.

I have dwelt on our weaknesses in this connection in order to draw lessons for the present and the future. The Proctor article, which foresees another decade of the continued growth of black nationalism, could lead us to repeat today the same error as yesterday. It is conceivable that tomorrow, under new and different stimuli, the present trend toward nationalism could evaporate and give way to greater cohesion between black and white. Our Party at all times should be prepared for all eventualities.

While we did not foresee some of these developments, our line was sufficient to have given us a better grasp of events. We were groping along the way when the Muslim movement appeared on the scene as a serious force. And we evolved an approach which, if we had followed through, would have led us to a much different situation. At that time we wrote:

> The growth of nationalism in a distorted form is also a reaction to the distortions of the theory of integration. There is an old Chinese proverb which says: "Two men sleep in the same bed but dream different dreams." This can also be said about integration. To some, integration means assimilation. It means the abolition of the Negro communities as such. It means liquidation of the so-called Negro entirely into an Anglo-Saxon melting pot. To some it means tokenism - the advancement of a few Negroes into positions of influence, while the Negro masses remain essentially in the same position. There is no contradiction between integrating Negroes into every phase of American life and the removal of the whole structure of jim crow and segregation and the continued existence of large concentrations of Negro people.
> In the present American political power structure the maintenance of large Negro communities will be a necessity. This will be necessary not only for cultural purposes but also for protecting gains made in the struggle for integration. This should in no way be interpreted as a continuation of the ghetto with all its dehumanizing features. The ghetto must be destroyed and interracial communities must be built, but at the same time Negro communities will and should remain as outposts of political power from which the Negro can sit in councils of political affairs with equal voice.
> How long this condition will remain will be determined by what happens in the whole body politic or on the completeness with which people are judged on their merits and not their color. For example, the political structure in every major Northern city is composed of combinations of national groups. The Irish in Chicago is the only group which now wields power not based on its numerical or voting strength. When the Negro can do the same there will be no need for emphasis of this point.

This was written in 1961, several years before the "black power" slogan came on the scene. Based on this thinking, in 1964 the Negro Affairs Commission issued the first comprehensive program designed by any group to alleviate conditions in the black ghettos. Later on, the Organization Department selected several ghettos as places of concentration. Among them were Watts and the West Side of Chicago.

Here again, the problem was not our line. It can be said that we anticipate some of the explosions. But even so, we didn't realize the imminence and depth o those that followed a year or two later; for if we had, I'm certain we would have gi more serious attention to the concentration areas we had set down on paper.

There have been many other weaknesses in our work that time does not perm us to examine in detail. We shall touch on only a few of them. Among them is a growth of conservatism in our ranks which has slowed down our ability to assess what is really new in a given situation. We become subjective and believe that be cause we have behind us a great deal of experience, we can only teach and not lea from others.

The independent role of our Party during these last years also requires some analysis. We came through the Smith Act trials and the McCarran Act persecutions with some battle scars which require removal.

We lost the art of taking timely initiatives. We blurred over the possibility for our Party to continue to play a pioneering role, an independent role. Elements of tailism set in as we sat on the sidelines and waited for others to act. During this period we also failed to find ways and means of developing constructive critical approaches in both the house of labor and the civil rights movement.

In regard to the latter, it was late in the day before we saw the necessity for a really critical approach to the leadership of the NAACP. It was only after the Association's 1965 convention in Denver that we began to become sharply critical of this leadership. We opposed A. Philip Randolph only on the issue of red-baiting; but his actions to keep the NALC a small apparatus that he could control went on without a murmur from us. His tendencies to give in to George Meany without some solid commitments was also a weakness that we failed to take note of.

Even in the case of Dr. Martin Luther King, who embraces a philosophy which differs from Marxism, our policy failed to combine endorsement of his tactical line with criticism of his non-violent concepts. Thus, we left the field to Malcolm X who now, in martyrdom, has become a man of great stature.

Even now there are those in our ranks who seek to imitate the young radicals without any thought of their inadequacies, or of anything that we as Communists can add.

In the coming period our Party must find ways and means of identifying itself with all advanced progressive forces, but at the same time we must, as a matter of principle, express our differences whenever we have them. Our criticism must be friendly and precise, and we must avoid name-calling and pinning labels on people. Nor should our criticism be put forward as if it were the last word on the matter--as if we had just walked out of a conference with God and emerged with the final answer.

All this points up the necessity for us to understand clearly what the main needs of the people's movements are, and to determine in what way our Party can be useful, what it can add to the work that others are not geared or ideologically equipped to contribute. It is in this way that we shall perform our vanguard role in the conditions of today's struggles.

The central question on which we must focus is how to establish a lasting and durable coalition of black and white on various levels, but particularly in the working class.

In the 1930s we pioneered the path that led to a new birth of Negro and white unity at the grass-roots level. This unity was the main force which compelled a number of concessions to the broad masses. And it was undoubtedly the main force which at that time prevented America from goose-stepping alongside of Hitler and the Axis powers.

Sinclair Drake and Horace Cayton document this contribution in their celebrated work Black Metropolis. They write:

> During the early thirties marchers in left wing demonstrations... carried placards ...black and white unite.... Close interracial cooperation became associated in the popular mind with the Reds... Negroes and whites...have always cooperated...but usually in white employer-Negro employee relations or as Negro leader-white patron. These Communist slogans signified something that was new...a small band of white men proclaiming as a goal complete [illegible] and white workers in a joint struggle to build a new society. Not even the abolitionists had stood for that.

These actions became the property of vast masses with the birth of the CIO and other developments. The Communist Party made many contributions during this [illegible] but one of them was to galvanize unity between black and white workers [illegible] white bosses.

Today, almost forty years later, we must once again pioneer new fields. The struggle for Negro and white unity must go forward today in new forms. Yesterday's approach is too mild to meet the problems of this stormy period. The question is no longer one of just talking about black and white unity; the problem now is how to forge such unity on the basis of complete equality for black people. The problem now is to help guarantee equality of a black minority in a white-majority society. This is the general goal to be fought for.

But to reach that goal a fundamental prerequisite is the demonstration in action by white Americans of good faith toward their black brothers when they converge together in a common struggle. This means that in interracial organizations in general and in the trade union movement in particular, Communists must not and cannot remain at peace with forces who fail to grasp this fundamental truth. This means that our Party must gear itself to be an effective force in leveling all barriers to an equal say by black people on all matters pertaining to the general welfare. And on those problems facing the people of the ghetto, black people and they alone must decide what is to happen. Advice and counsel, yes. But the decisions must be theirs.

This objective is very easy to put on paper, but is extremely difficult to realize in everyday life. There are no easy answers. All our clubs, district boards, commissions and other Party bodies including the national committee must keep this problem before them as a permanent feature on every agenda. If we concentrate our attention on this we will come up with answers as to how to do the job. We will make mistakes along the way, but they will be the kind of mistakes which arise out of an aggressive drive to find solutions. In a general way we know what must be done; we know that the approach cannot rest on moral persuasion, but must be based mainly on self-interest. We also know that some people cannot understand self-interest until they are confronted with a crisis. If this is what has to be, then we should have no hesitation in creating a crisis.

Let us take the building trades unions and some other craft unions. They are the main barriers to the upgrading of Negro workers. Here it is not just a problem of bad union leadership. Many of the rank and file also believe that Negroes in apprenticeship training and as journeymen will constitute a threat to their jobs. In some circumstances, they must be shown that when they fail to fight for their black brothers, this is the most dangerous threat to their jobs and wage standards.

The Negro masses are restless. In order to keep alive lines of coalition with their white brothers, they have had to concede most often; they have had to remain silent about discrimination in the interest of trade union unity. For forty years or more the ruling class has not been able to play black and white against each other in strike struggles. But this reservoir of good will for the trade unions is drying up and unless some radical changes take place, the bosses may succeed in doing what they did during and after World War I, when they brought Negroes in from the plantations to break strikes. The large number of Negroes who are unemployed and underemployed, as well as the thousands of displaced agricultural workers in the South, provide fertile ground for such developments today. We are not arguing for this line of approach, but we must face realities even though they are sometimes distasteful.

Thus, one of the chief ideological weapons for bringing white skilled workers to understand where their real interests lie, is to make them aware of the danger that the bosses may use differences between black and white workers to destroy unions altogether. White Americans in general and white workers in particular must also come to understand that the growing attack against the Negro in the ghettos should be a warning signal to them, too. The bell also tolls for them. If the government and ultra-Right forces succeed in creating a race war in the country the aftermath could well be a police state in which no one would have any rights, and the AFL-CIO could be replaced by a fascist labor front.

We should discuss at this conference what we can do to reverse the present trends in the building trades unions. We should also discuss the question of how to develop a drive to organize the unorganized workers in the service industries, both in the South and in the North. It is my firm opinion that we can reverse some of the current trends toward disunity if such drives are organized among the poorest strata of the workers, both black and white.

When we built unity between black and white workers in the 1930's, we didn't start with the highly-paid skilled workers in the craft unions. In most cases we had to fight them with other unions, including some all-Negro unions. Our starting point was the unemployed, later the independent unions and still later the birth of the CIO. Perhaps some of the experience of that period could be useful in helping to chart a course today.

In regard to the freedom movement, the chief task and vanguard role of the Party, as expressed primarily by black Communists, must be to introduce a class content into the present wave of black nationalism. We must fight against all separatist tendencies as self-defeating. We must do so while respecting the fears black people have of being assimilated by whites. We must fight for full power in the ghettos while struggling against tendencies to go overboard in some situations.

Lately, some discussion has developed about what strata of the Negro people we base ourselves on. Inasmuch as ours is a working-class Party, our main orientation must be to work among black workers. However, concentration on the working class does not negate working closely with other strata of the Negro people. Our object should be to show these other strata why it is so vital for the whole movement to have black workers involved substantially in all struggles.

There are those in our ranks who pull in different directions with regard to the various trends within the movement. What should be our position? First, we still regard the Negro movement as an all-class movement. Hence we are interested at all times in finding common denominators which can throw the weight of the whole movement in a given direction. Occasionally an issue comes along that makes it possible to do just that. But more often the movement is beset with sharp cleavages and is split into "conservatives," "moderates" and "young militants," and must seek to reduce the influence of the conservative element.

We see positive strength in both the moderates and the young black militants. Some among us downgrade the young militants and gravitate more toward the middle or moderate forces. There should be no such gravitational pulls. Each group has its role to play. Of these young people, no matter how much we may disagree with this or that tactic, we can say no less than Robert Weaver, now a part of the establishment and certainly no radical, said at the Urban League convention last year:

> Negro youth can be and has been constructive and effective in its protest. ... The Negro protest might well have never gotten off the ground had it not been for them. ... Thus, I do not ignore the angry words of the new militants, for their tone, their demands, their challenge...their repudiation of middle class behavior are real and basic.

Both of these currents, expressing themselves around the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee and the Congress of Racial Equality, represent the hard core of the protest movement. Unity among these groups on most questions is possible and necessary. Any one of them, taken by itself, does not have the necessary striking power to isolate the conservatives and their influence.

Of course, there are times when the action of one group inspires or prods another into motion. And most of the time the initiative comes from the youth. This is only natural. However, in the long run, combined efforts of all these forces are needed to make a meaningful contribution. And if in the near future the black workers come into sharper focus, the contributions of all will be enlarged.

There are times when we as Communists will have to take issue with one or another action by this or that leader, this or that organization. But when we do, we must not underestimate the positive qualities of both the Left and center forces. Indeed, we need a criterion to distinguish who is Left and who is center. In all of these organizations there are people who see the necessity for a change in the system, and the trend is growing.

The growth of this anti-capitalist sentiment is laying the foundation for a radical shift to the Left by all of these forces. In such circumstances, I foresee the possibility of building our Party once again as an influential force.

This conference should also discuss the question of why so few young militant Negroes are joining our ranks. We should also discuss the kind of house-cleaning we need to do to attract and hold them.

In closing, let me say that notwithstanding the great difficulties, we have a rendezvous with destiny. I am confident that we and the American people will find the common path pointed out by Professor Melman. We will unite the pro-democratic forces of our country. Whites will overcome their prejudices, not because they love the Negro, but basically, I believe, because they love themselves.

Wherever there is a white bandit who attacks Negroes, white Communists will jump at his throat; wherever black people, out of frustration or other reasons, follow a no-win policy, black Communists will help them find their way.

Together, black and white Communists are going to make significant contributions toward radical changes in our society. Eventually we will build a country of freedom for all--a socialist America.

CONFERENCE ON STRATEGY & TACTICS IN THE NEW STAGE OF STRUGGLE FOR NEGRO LIBERATION
(October 14-15, 1967)

Report of Panel on Work in the White Community (Approved by the Conference)

Summary of Proposals:

Introduction:

We are living in a period of great opportunities, but one fraught with great dangers. On the one hand, large sections of every major white community today are puzzled and concerned about what is happening now in America and what the future will bring. This concern arises not from a sudden ideological elevation of class conscious understanding, but rather for the most part has developed out of a new awareness of self-interest. Indicative of this development is the significant support for Negro candidates in some white communities.

On the other hand, however, the current period is pregnant with serious dangers of racial conflict and further disintegration of relations between white and black workers. The forces of reaction and racism have acclerated their campaign to promote fear and hysteria in already tense and confused white communities.

Broad areas of common concern exist between Negroes and whites. Any serious progress in any of these areas depends upon mutual struggle and unified actions. For instance, the trade union movement must be made to see that in many cases its very existence and its entire future depends upon a forthright and unambiguous fight in behalf of the Negro people; urban dwellers must be made aware that the future of our cities, arresting and reversing the decay of our urban centers, depends upon a reordering of national priorities, and that the interests of whites are one with Negroes in this struggle.

For our Party the present period offers a most serious challenge, one which can and must be met. To fulfill our responsibilities, however, we will have to make significant changes, and in this respect the role of white Communists in their communities becomes central.

I. To fulfill our role in leading this struggle the Party must undertake an intense and thorough ideological campaign in our own ranks.

We must seek to equip our members to act as initiators of struggle in every aspect of their lives--on the job, in their unions, in their neighborhoods, and social organizations. We must struggle to overcome all weaknesses which exist in our ranks on the question of white chauvinism and subtler forms of paternalism. Our goal must be to re-establish the basis for courageous action on the part of every member, not just in word, but in deed. We must become the initiators of mass struggles wherever we are.

2. An indispensable part of our work must be full and effective use of all available literature. But in addition to existing and regular publication of pamphlets and other materials, the Party should produce a new popular mass pamphlet or brochure dealing with the major issues facing the white community. This educational piece should be written in popular language for free mass distribution by every Party club, and should deal substantively with commonly held misconceptions and backward attitudes found among many white people. It should put forward avenues for building truly honest Negro-white unity on the basis of the self-interest of white working people.

3. On the national level a form must be utilized for coordination of national programs and through which black and white people can function together on the basis of true equality and mutual respect. Organizations such as ADA, CORE, etc. which at one time reflected a lower stage of development, no longer fully and adequately fulfill this role. There are today thousands of white people who at one time actively contributed to progressive activity, and who today are without such a form for their participation. NCNP and other organizations should be considered as potential avenues for such participation.

A national defense organization such as the Civil Rights Congress of an earlier period, appears to be lacking today. We ought to give serious attention to building such an organization based on contemporary relations.

4. A crucial element of our work must be to open a second front in the anti-war movement. We must show predominantly white peace groups that the only basis of healthy black-white unity must be grounded in their making the struggle for Black Liberation as much a part of peace work as the issues of peace are today for the Black Liberation movement. This requires that we show arenas of common concern, like the issue of police brutality, and rally the anti-war movement to activity in defense of Negro rights.

5. The MFDP challenge to the Democratic Convention should be made a central national issue of struggle. Support for the challenge should be built in every community, both within and outside the Democratic party structure. Resolutions of support should be developed at each state Democratic convention. In addition, this activity should be utilized as a part of our campaign to urge Negro candidates to run wherever possible for Congressional and other positions.

6. A central arena for building black-white unity must be in our trade union work. The Party must take steps now in every district to select a plant, shop, or industry in which we take the lead in organizing the unorganized. There is no area of the country in which unorganized shops do not exist where Negroes, whites and other minority group peoples work side by side under the worst conditions.

Such a campaign on our part will also serve to revitalize the trade union movement while placing the question of a massive organizing drive in the South before every union for immediate action.

7. We must single out the building trades as a special area for a battle to open union ranks to all minority groups, breaking the tokenist policies of most unions in the crafts. Compensatory job-training and apprenticeship programs should be included as essential to any meaningful steps to be taken by such unions. We refer these proposals to the Trade Union Commission for detailed development and suggest that one union, such as the Plumbers, be selected for initial concentration.

8. The Party should place itself in the forefront of the battle to defend Rap Brown, the Fort Hood Three, Ron Lockman, the RAM group, and others who have been subject to frame-up prosecutions. We call for an immediate campaign in our press and the setting of control tasks for every club with a plan of check-up. This campaign must not be limited to fund-raising within the Party itself, but rather should be taken by the Party into every mass organization and the general community for attention.

9. An integral part of our Party activity on these issues must be the proper use and role of our press. The Worker and progressive nationality papers must make these issues much more fully a fundamental part of their coverage; they should serve as organs of education and agitation, and must be used by our Party as indispensable tools in our mass work. From a partisan working-class standpoint we must not fear to be publicly critical of liberals, trade unions and others when necessary in combatting racism and subtler forms of chauvinism, including in the progressive movements.

10. Special attention should be given to our work among nationality groups, and notably in our work among youth in this field. Our effort in Jewish community work must be reshaped for a major campaign against racism at all levels. All too often our Party has narrowly seen this work as properly only for our older comrades. Such an emphasis is one-sided and narrow; our youth must be mobilized to enter this field as well.

11. In white community work a campaign should be initiated around the theme of "to save our cities." This campaign offers a common ground for self-interest organization which can serve as a broad base for developing Negro-white unity. The question of re-ordering national priorities to deal with urban development, taxes, housing, community control, education, and transportation is central to this battle.

To make such a program meaningful, the Party must take this campaign into every neighborhood, mass organization, church and social group, etc. We must expose and combat the attempt of the ultra-Right to make demagogic use of these issues.

12. An integral part of the campaign for Negro-white unity and central to the struggle against racism in white communities is a fight to guarantee the defeat of Wallace in the '68 elections. We must take every step necessary to guarantee that Wallace and his supporters are isolated in every community and expose the racist, anti-union, anti-Communist nature of his appeal.

13. Students and the academic and intellectual community must play no small role in this struggle. A major battlefield against racism are the campuses and elementary and secondary schools of our country. A fight must be initiated in every school system and on every campus to guarantee open admissions policies, compensatory schooling, special scholarships, integrated teaching staffs, curriculum dealing with Negro and Labor history, and the elevation of minority group educators to positions of policy-making and authority at every level.

14. Our policy of industrial concentration has special significance for the struggle in the white community. If a breakthrough can be made in auto, steel, transportation, etc. among white workers on the special needs of Negro workers on the job and in their fullest voice in union policy-making, then these workers and unions can become a powerful lever to move the whole trade union movement and white working masses generally. Since these industries now have such a large proportion of black workers, such a breakthrough is both more necessary and possible.

In this respect we must make a special study with respect to the "industrial suburb," as a means by which Negroes are deprived of opportunities to enter the fields in which meaningful jobs are available.

Conclusion:

This report outlines only our initial tasks. It should serve as a basis in every district for immediate attention to the responsibility of our Party to make the fight against racism a fundamental and central part of our work in every field.

It is the feeling of this workshop that the Party should consider special conferences to further develop our work in this field.

MATERIAL ON THE 50th ANNIVERSARY of the RUSSIAN REVOLUTION

(Prepared by the Education Department of the Communist Party of New York State, based on a talk by William Weinstone.)

NOTE TO REPORTER OR DISCUSSION LEADER: This material can be used in various ways - as a guide for a report to the club, the selection of certain questions for discussion, or it can be read directly to the club and then discussed.

I. Introduction

A. The 50th anniversary of the October Revolution is being celebrated on a world scale by the Soviet Union and the socialist countries, by the peoples of the nationally liberated countries and by the workers and farmers and oppressed peoples of the capitalist countries.

B. The capitalists too are compelled to take note of this titanic event. The N.Y. Times, Look and other newspapers, magazines and institutions are issuing many articles and other material aimed at falsifying and distorting the significance of this great occasion. They do not dare to attack the Soviet Union directly as in the past, as bare of accomplishment, as a failure, but instead misrepresent and distort its achievements claiming ridiculously that socialism is turning to capitalism.

C. Also, while acknowledging the material improvements, they falsely state that it is at the expense of the freedom of the people, and they try to give the impression that while "Moscow's status has risen mightily...her revolutionary spirit is DIM." (Salisbury, in the N.Y. Times), thus seeking to create the impression that it has deteriorated as a revolutionary power.

D. It is essential therefore, to expose the distortions and falsifications of the developments in the Soviet Union and bring the truth of this colossal event to the widest masses of the American people - especially workers, black and white - through The Worker, through leaflets, pamphlets, books, meetings. All clubs should discuss the 50th anniversary and take measures to popularize its significance.

II. What Is the Great Significance of the Russian Revolution and of 50 Years of Soviet Power?

A. The victory of the working class of Russia in 1917 was a world-shaking event. It shook, and in time undermined the very foundations of capitalism. It opened up a new epoch in the history of mankind - the epoch of the transition of capitalism to socialism - the freeing of the world from the system of exploitation and oppression - the realization of the dream of the oppressed for thousands of years for the end of man's enslavement by man.

B. The advance of the Soviet Union inspired and aided the rise of a World of Socialism which now embraces 14 states with a population of more than one billion people. By its example and political aid, especially by its defeat of fascism and imperialism in World War II, it powerfully stimulated the rise and development of the liberation movement in Asia, Africa and Latin America - helping to destroy the cursed system of colonialism. The Soviet Union almost single-handedly saved civilization from the scourge of fascism and has been resolutely fighting to maintain peace. It has compelled the capitalists in Western Europe and the U.S.A. out of fear of the growth of socialism to make economic and social concessions to the working people.

C. There is no doubt that the Soviet Union and the socialist world plays the principal, decisive role in the life and death struggle against imperialist aggression and war and for national liberation. The socialist countries which form the Communist vanguard of the international working class is the most consistent, leading force in the revolutionary transformation of the world on a new socialist basis.

D. The American working class greeted the Bolshevik Revolution with enthusiasm. It brought joy to the working people who SAW the victory of the revolution as the harbinger of a new era in the history of human society. Eugene V. Debs expressed the feelings of millions of rank and file American workers when he said: "From the crown of my head to the soles of my feet I am a Bolshevik and I am proud of it. The day of the people has come." (Liberator, May 1919.) Leading people from all walks of life, including top labor leaders greeted the revolution, as did Negro leaders including A. Philip Randolph who was a socialist. When he was attacked for his stand, he was defended by W.E.B. DuBois.

When American troops invaded Soviet Russia in 1918, great masses throughout the U.S. protested militantly in meetings, demonstrations and strikes of which the most notable was that of the Seattle longshoremen.

III. What Had Soviet Socialism Accomplished For Its People?

A. In the 50 years, socialism has raised the USSR from a backward country to a nation with a most advanced science, industry and culture. It must be remembered that these achievements were made despite terrible losses in civil war and in the war against fascism. In the latter war 20 million people were killed and the material losses were colossal. The Nazis reduced more than 70,000 towns, workers' settlements and villages to ashes. The country lost 30% of its national wealth.

B. Industrial gains

1. Socialist industry is 66 times larger than the gross industrial output in 1913. The U.S. has grown only 7.5 times, France 5.3, Britain 2.4. In 1917 Russia produced only 3% of world output, in 1937 - 10% and in 1966 - 20%.

2. The output of the Soviet Union is today 2/3 of that of the U.S. and is fast catching up. Its annual industrial output increase in the post-war period has been 11.2%; in the U.S. it has been 3.9%. The economy of the socialist countries is developing faster than that of the capitalist countries.

C. Agricultural gains.

While for a time agriculture lagged behind industry, recent reforms have brought the production of agriculture to new and higher levels. Collectivization of agriculture and state farms have been transforming the countryside along socialist lines.

D. The question of profit - do the economic reforms mean a return to capitalism?

The economic reforms in the USSR which call for profits to be heightened in industry and agriculture have nothing to do with the capitalist profit system. Profits in industry means raising output, reducing waste, better use of machinery, better production methods which increase the new values added by production, the benefits of which do not go into the pockets of individual capitalists, but go to the State, factory and individual workers in the form of larger sums for social benefits and for increased incomes of the workers of the factories, state farms and collectives.

E. Social Gains.

1. The Soviet Union is foremost in education. It has 124,000 libraries or almost 9 times as many as before the revolution. It has 1/4 of all scientists of the world. It has the shortest work week. Its standard of living mounts steadily and consumer goods grows annually. It has the lowest retirement age - 55 for women and 60 for men (with a lower age for heavy or special industries). Its medicine and hospitalization are free.

2. It has no slums, no ghettos, no unemployment, no insecurity of a livelihood.

3. Housing is being solved. Eleven million people have acquired new apartments and in another ten years all people will have apartments.

4. All nationalities enjoy full equality. There is no national strife between the many nationalities, races, colors in the USSR. There is complete harmony and cooperation. This applies to Jews and all others. The propaganda that anti-Semitism victimizes the Jews is a lie. Individual incidents of anti-Semitism in backward regions or among backward elements may occur, but these are vigorously attacked and those guilty are punished in accordance with Soviet law which penalizes anti-Semitism as a crime.

IV. Advance of Socialist Democracy

A. The Soviet Union has greater freedom than any capitalist country could possibly have. While there was a bad period of repression during the latter Stalin years, there is a vigorous and expanding democracy. As William J. Pomeroy writes in his splendid "Half a Century of Socialism":

"....The Stalinist phenomenon, for all its harsh abuses, had been a temporary aberration, that it had been corrected by healthy processes inherent in the Party and in the socialist system."

B. Pomeroy cites specific examples of the great participation and leadership of the people - Party and non-Party - in the conduct of the state and public affairs. The great interest and participation in elections, the election of deputies (local and national) from the ranks of the people; the vital power of the trade unions and people's organizations over many aspects of people's affairs - over wage questions and working conditions, in the maintenance of law and order, in the combatting of social evils, etc.

C. There is freedom of speech, freedom of criticism, freedom of press, assembly, etc. But these are limited by the recognition that the world struggle between capitalism and socialism still continues and that imperialism has not given up its hope to destroy world socialism. For these reasons there are still certain restrictions on personal freedom, but as the Soviet Union becomes ever stronger, personal freedom constantly expands. This is a process and explains the differences on this question within the Soviet Union itself. Socialism does not allow any form of racism or national chauvinism, or that which may induce anti-social acts, just as it forbids anti-Semitic statements, or speeches in favor of war.

D. There is wide latitude in the Soviet Union as to form and creativeness of art and culture. But as is natural; there are also sharp differences over questions of art and culture. It is an aft and culture which is aimed at enabling man, raising man's dignity, strength and power and his humanity.

"Soviet culture rejects all forms of reactionary ideology that spiritually enslaves and disarms people. Soviet culture is holding aloft the banner of revolutionary humanism."
--from Thesis on the 50th Anniversary of the October Socialist Revolution - Novosti Press, Moscow - page 43.

E. Of course there are weaknesses and inadequacies and many difficulties. These are being fought against, especially against bureaucratic hang-overs from the past. This is done by criticism from below, by press criticism and in other ways. Democracy expands and becomes increasingly more vigorous at a time when the capitalist world turns increasingly to reaction.

V. On Peace and Peaceful Co-existence

The Soviet Union has been a resolute and tireless fighter for peace. The first act of the worker's republic after it won power was to appeal to the belligerent powers to end the war on the basis of no annexation and no indemnities. In the years preceding World War II the Soviet Union worked tirelessly to build a coalition of all peace forces to prevent the outbreak of the war, and especially to curb Hitler fascism. In the period following World War II it has been foremost in aiming to achieve peaceful co-existence between socialist and capitalist states in the interests of preventing a world nuclear catastrophe. It has recognized that this can be won only by powerful mass struggle. It has called for a reduction of armaments and for dumping nuclear weapons and for other measures against militarism and war. At the same time it has given full aid to the struggle against imperialist aggression, especially that of the U.S., and for a world united front for peace to curb the war makers. This rounded-out struggle for peace and peaceful co-existence has helped the advance of the forces of socialism, peace and progress throughout the world.

VI. The Soviet Union and the National Liberation Struggle, the New Liberated Colonial States and the Third World.

A. Advance of oppressed nationalities in the Soviet Union

As has been stated, in the Soviet Union the relations of equality, friendship and cooperation exist between the different nationalities. Socialism has enabled backward people to make tremendous gains. More than 40 nationalities have evolved a written language only after the October revolution.

(Formerly oppressed areas such as Georgia, Armenia, Kazakistan, Mongolia, etc. have developed into fully modern states with advanced industry and agriculture, high culture, medical centers, colleges, academies, etc.)

B. The Third World and the Soviet Union - How has the Soviet Union given aid to oppressed peoples?

1. The Soviet Union has aided the liberation and development of China, Egypt, Algeria and other African countries, as well as the movement for liberation in Asia and Latin America.

2. There is talk that the Third World is a force independent of the socialist countries. This is an idle and harmful concept.

3. Lenin wrote: "...The relations between peoples, the entire world system of states, are determined by the struggle of a small group of imperialist nations against the Soviet movement and the socialist states headed by Soviet Russia. If we lose sight of that we shall be unable to correctly formulate a single national or colonial question, even if it concerned the most remote corner of the world." --Collected Works, Vol. 31

4. The Soviet Union has aided the revolution and the development of the Third World. Their victories would have been impossible without the Soviet Union.

Fidel Castro said: "Without the existence of the Soviet Union the socialist revolution could not have been possible."
--(Speech in the Red Square, April 28, 1963.)

President Sékou Touré of Guinea said: "The progress of the African peoples is unthinkable without the fraternal and sincere assistance of the Soviet Union."
--(Speech quoted in Izvestia, Oct. 2, 1965.)

President Henri Boumedienne of Algeria wrote: "The Soviet people and the government helped us morally and materially in the years of our struggle for independence and they continue to help us in in every way with credits, industrial plants and specialists."
--(New Times, June 9, 1965.)

Mao Tse Tung, The Dictatorship of People's Democracy, July 1949 stated: "Had there been no Soviet Union, had there been no victory in the anti-fascist Second World War, had Japanese imperialism not been defeated, had there been no People's democracies in Europe, had there been no struggle of the masses in the U.S., Britain, France, Germany, Italy, Japan and other capitalist countries against the ruling reactionary cliques... had none of these factors existed, then the pressure of the international reactionaries would of course have been much stronger than it is today. Would we have been able to achieve victory in these circumstances? Of course not."

(Many more facts can be cited about the number of factories built by the Soviet Union in the undeveloped countries, the aid given to Mali, Guinea, Burma and other lands to bypass capitalism and advance to socialism, the education of cadres from all oppressed lands in the Soviet Union, etc., all of which testify to the great internationalism of the Soviet Union in the advance of progress and socialism.)

VII. The Soviet Union, Cuba, Egypt and Vietnam

In this connection we must emphasize particularly special aid to a number of countries invaded by imperialism.

A. Cuba

The material, political and military aid to Cuba has been stated and is well known. It is still in danger but aside from its own great militancy and the resolute support of the Latin American people, there can be no doubt that Cuba has been able to avoid a serious intervention because of the firm and undeviating aid of the Soviet Union.

B. Egypt and the Near East

1. It has been the Soviet Union which twice saved Egypt (and recently Syria) from imperialist intervention.

2. In June of this year it was the firm stand of the Soviet Union (20 battleships in the Mediterranian and political aid through the United Nations, as well as the meeting of the Warsaw Pact Nations) which compelled a cease fire. The Soviet Union prevented the plan of overthrowing the progressive anti-imperialist forces of Egypt and Syria from succeeding. Israel was built up and was supported by U.S. and British imperialism to perform that task.

3. At the same time the Soviet Union took a principled position in favor of the existence of Israel as an independent state. What it opposed was its reactionary foreign polich which serves imperialism. For progressives or Communists not to see that is to be blinded by bourgeois nationalism.

C. The struggle for defense of Vietnam

The Soviet Union has given full and unrestricted support to North Vietnam and the National Liberation Front against U.S. imperialism - with food, industrial goods, guns, artillery, planes and missiles and political aid. It has fought for the withdrawal of American forces and for the full independence of Vietnam. It is absolutely essential for all peace forces to give greater aid to defeat imperialism in Vietnam, especially to stop the bombing and for the withdrawal of U.S. forces.

VIII. What are the lessons of the Russian Revolution for class conscious workers the world over?

A. The Socialist Revolution was victorious in the Soviet Union because of the leadership of a vanguard party.

1. Without such a party victory would be impossible. The party enabled the working class to play its full role as leader of the revolution. Only a Communist Party by raising the consciousness of the working class provides it with the outlook and resoluteness essential for the workers to act as a class. Otherwide they succumb to bourgeois influences in one form or another.

2. There are ideas afloat that it is possible to have a revolution without a vanguard party. But there is not a single example of of a successful revolution for socialism which has not been led by a Marxist-Leninist party. This applies not only to the Soviet Union and the socialist countries of Eastern Europe and China, but to Cuba also. It may be possible in the future that various parties will join together to carry out the socialist fevolution, but these will have to be real Marxist-Leninist parties or they will fail. The lack of such parties can only lead to great setbacks as experience in Europe in the past and in Asia in the recent period emphatically testified.

B. It was a Marxist-Leninist party which applied theory creatively, not dogmatically. Accordingly in building socialism, it followed the laws of Marxism-Leninism.

C. The Party was built on the working class as its main base, but including the best elements of the intellectuals, peasantry, etc.

The Bolshevik Party based itself on the working class as the decisive force for socialist revolution. Only the working class is strong enough, disciplined enough to fight and defeat monopoly and reaction.

D. At the same time the Bolshevik Party followed the Leninist policy of an alliance of the working class and the poor peasantry under the leadership of the former. This gave it the forces for neutralizing the middle peasantry and isolating the Kulaks.

E. The Bolshevik revolution was not a conspiracy and did not carry out a coup. The Party had the support of the overwhelming majority of the working class and the peasantry and other progressive strata. Only by such great mass support could it be victorious in winning political power and in defeating the counter-revolution.

F. The Bolshevik Party was an internationalist party which fought against all national oppression, thereby winning the support of all oppressed in Russia, winning their enthusiasm and self-sacrifice. It also granted freedom to Poland and Finland and thereby prevented imperialism from using these countries against the revolution.

G. The Bolshevik Party itself was not like other socialist parties. It was a party of a new type, a vanguard party which stands in the forefront of the struggle. It developed its revolutionary theory and practice in a struggle against opportunism both right and left.

1. against Menshevism and right wing social democracy in the period up to the revolution which said that the revolution should not have been made and that it should have been a bourgeois, not a socialist revolution.

2. Lenin fought against reformism, against pure and simple trade unionism, and advocated struggle for reforms but as a part of the fight for socialism which cannot come about spontaneously but requires the vanguard role of the party.

3. against right opportunism within the Communist Party which also opposed Lenin's view in April 1917 that the bourgeois democratic revolution had been accomplished and that the task was to prepare the means for the socialist revolution. These opportunists like Kamenev thought the task was to make the bourgeois democratic revolution.

4. Lenin and the Party before the revolution and after fought against anarchism and the adventurous social revolutionaries with their policies of individual terror which demobilizes the masses and helps reaction.

5. It also fought against left sectarianism which failed to realize that revolution is possible only through the education, organization and mobilization of the masses, particularly by means of political struggle, including propaganda, but not by agitation alone.

6. Further, Lenin opposed the revolutionary phrasemongers who opposed the Brest-Litovsk peace because it was peace with an imperialist country. They doubted the possibility of building socialism. These phrasemongers like Bukharin and Trotsky called for "world revolution" by which they meant trying artificially to impose revolution on other countries.

7. Lenin also opposed the leftism which did not see the necessity for slow, gradual day to day work - to participate in parliamentary struggle in the trade unions and people's organizations at a time when such work was absolutely essential to organize, educate and strengthen the workers' organizations and class consciousness.

8. Lenin and the Party strongly opposed Trotskyism which in Lenin's time and later became a main obstacle to the building of socialism whose success it said was impossible.

9. Lenin also opposed all forms of bourgeois nationalism in the ranks of the Party as undermining its unity and its ability to mobilize all workers, all the oppressed in the common fight for democracy (against national oppression) and against imperialism and war.

At all times Lenin related the struggle for immediate demands to socialism and found mass resolutionary methods of struggle which varies with the times. For that reason he called for a party of democratic centralism able to involve the largest number of people in united struggle.

IX. What are the main lessons of the 50th Anniversary for the Communist Party, U.S.A.?

A. To build the Party, to spread its press, its literature, to recruit and educate new members. This is especially important at the present time when the mass movement grows and requires a leadership with a clear program and vigorous action.

B. The lesson also is that the Party can be built only by establishing the closest ties with the working class and its organizations in factory and neighborhood. Especially is it essential to work among the most oppressed workers tirelessly and consistently for their rights and needs.

1. by fighting as a vanguard for the most acute needs of the people in their very midst, especially for economic demands - jobs, prices, taxes, etc. - and for Negro freedom; seeking to develop grass roots independent political action and propagating energetically the ideas of socialism.

50th ANNIVERSARY

The 50th Anniversary also underscores the great need for unity of the communists of the world - for united internationalist solidarity, especially in the fight for Vietnam, against the growing danger of war, against imperialist aggression, particularly that of U.S. imperialism.

As is to be expected, in a period where the U.S. has become the dominant imperialist power and when international conflicts with the socialist and third world were particularly acute, over the past 25 years there has been a substantial expansion of the labor aristocracy in this country. There are some signs that increasingly acute internal conflicts and a general growth in consciousness are reversing this trend at present.

There is an obvious reluctance in the Party to accept the concept of the labor aristocracy. This is particularly true in practical work, but it has extended into areas of policy and theory as well. There are a number of reasons for this reluctance. Implementation of a policy which took the labor aristocracy fully into account would entail a number of major changes in traditional comfortable methods of work. It would entail what Lenin described as "going deeper among the masses," and often that is rather painful. But more important, I think that the rejection of the labor aristocracy concept grows from a theoretical weakness in the Party -- from an outlook that amounts to economic determinism and to a grossly oversimplified picture of the role of consciousness in social development.

The usual pattern of argument of those who believe the concept to be no longer relevant is simple. They demand to know if any particular group of workers is a part of the labor aristocracy, and then they point to some militant struggles that this group is involved in or to the fact that this group is objectively forced to confront the power of monopoly capital.

Thus they progressively narrow the application of the concept until there is no content to it beyond the Meanys and Dubinskys and people who are virtually agents inside the trade union movement. So what is wrong with this argument?

First it should be noted that it is exactly the same argument that many new left people use to dismiss the working class completely. They just turn it upside down. They begin with the statement that most of the workers are not struggling -- that they are happy with their TVs and cars. Then they will look at each place where there is struggle and will point out that the demands are not revolutionary, that they usually relate to quantity of goods available. Thus they conclude that imperialism is able to buy off the entire working class (in their usual narrow sense of the scope of the class) with material concessions. Therefore, the entire class is put within the labor aristocracy.

It is possible to fit within the labor aristocracy and still be militant. The question is in what perspective the militancy is expressed. A registered ILWU man is likely to be much more militant about his wages and hours than about those of the permit man; an over-the-road teamster is not likely to be very militant about the situation of the Teamster cannery workers. Those in the favored strata have difficulty in being militant about general democratic or class demands and grievances -- they are more likely to be concerned with narrow and selfish goals, not to be fully aware of the importance of class unity, unable to see the "emancipation of all mankind in the emancipation of the worker." More generally they are likely to see the possibility of resolving all of their grievances through an extended gradual process of piling small concessions and small victories on top of each other; they may see class antagonisms, but they have trouble seeing that they are irreconcilable.

But all of this must be used very carefully for one simple reason. A member of the favored strata of the class may be a class-conscious worker, may be a Communist. And these people may be able to convince fellow workers in the course of struggle that they should act in the interests of the class as a whole. It is just nonsense to hold that this is the general case already, but it certainly is true in some instances. However, even the class-conscious worker will find, if he is in the labor aristocracy, that he is subject to the pressures and processes that affect his fellow workers and he will have to be continually on guard against letting the difficulties of being a consistent revolutionary push him into concessions of principle to reformism.

There seems to be a tendency to believe that if one accepts the concept of the labor aristocracy that he must be prepared to explain everything about the working class in terms of this single concept - why people who should be reformist are revolutionary; and vice versa. But the aristocracy of labor is not the only factor affecting the class. The particular history, the form of organization, the ideology of the ruling class, the changes in the relations of production and in technology -- all are independent but related factors.

To conclude: If the labor aristocracy is understood as a means to a fuller understanding of the working class and not as a means for its condemnation, it is an invaluable aid.

When it comes to getting to the composition of this "bribed" section of the workers, there is considerable divergence. Some limit it to "labor leaders;" some to skilled craft workers, particularly those in the building trades; others include such better organized and better paid workers as those in Auto and Steel. Sometimes all trade unionists are included. An extreme interpretation puts all white workers in the "labor aristocracy" category on the theory that they benefit from the discrimination in jobs, wages, etc. perpetrated against Negro workers, Puerto Rican, Mexican-American and other U.S. minorities, as well as from the colored peoples of Asia, Africa and South America. Workers in war industries are sometimes characterized as somehow free of exploitation, or at least unwilling to struggle.

What are some of the reasons given to prove the existence of a "labor aristocracy?"

Higher wages paid to some workers.

Deep-seated white chauvinism among white workers.

Nationalistic support of the war in Vietnam and other U.S. imperialist policies.

Corruption of trade union leaders and their adherence to class-collaborationist policies.

Low level of Socialist consciousness among American workers.

Abroad, even some politically advanced thinkers not only accept the idea that there is a sizable "aristocracy of labor" in the United States, but that the whole American working class, with few exceptions, is living high on the hog, and corruption is a general problem. Not a few accept U.S. capitalism's brags about our country having the "highest standard of living in the world," gloss over the many sharp struggles of the workers to improve their standards, and seem totally unaware that 35 million Americans live in dire poverty and another 35 million below acceptable standards.

I would like to address myself to some aspects of the "aristocracy of labor" question, in participating in the opening discussions of our Commission.

To begin with, let's take high wages. Certainly there is a section of higher-paid workers in America. But are these wages and working conditions a gift of the corporations? It might be all right to theorize along these lines but concrete examination will prove they were torn out of the hides of the monopolies in generations of sharp and frequently bloody struggles. More than that, there is a never-ending struggle on the part of the workers to hold what gains they are able to make against corporation assaults from every conceivable angle -- speed-up, price and tax increases, runaway shops, mechanization, rationalization, strike-breaking.

When workers do win even temporary gains, the ruling class is quick to try and offer this as proof of the fruits of capitalism. But this is done in every field of struggle, whether it be for civil rights, better schools, medicare, or whatever.

Certainly, acquired skills are a factor used by workers to force higher wages But I think the deciding factor is strong labor organization. Let's look at the history of the coal miners in this country - and take it from me, coal-mining is not only a dangerous job, but requires high skill.

Going back to the beginning of unionism in coal. When the miners had a strong union, they won better wages and working conditions, they were skilled. "These men are worth every penny they earn." But each time the union was broken or weakened, they quickly became "unskilled." When the UMW suffered a series of defeats after World War I, miners were forced to work for as little as $1.00 per day under horrible conditions. When the UMW consolidated its strength with the growth of the CIO and industrial unionism, wages and working conditions improved, and mine work was again considered "skilled." Then the charge was made far and wide, including among "new left" elements of that period, that the UMW and the coal operators were collaborating on high wages and profits at the expense of "the public."

Actually, the coal operators were forced to bide their time because of the strength of the union. But when they conned John Lewis into signing the 1952 contract that gave them unrestricted license to install new equipment they again went to town. The substantial gains made by the UMW in that contract were quickly eroded. The hospitals proudly built by the UMW were lost, and wherever possible, the union was weakened or smashed. In a few years the number of miners were reduced from 650,000 to under 100,000. The union was smashed in a number of areas, and formerly higher-paid union miners were forced to dig coal for as little as $3.00 a day in the deadly "dog holes" of Appalachia.

And for the record. The mines have been historically owned and controlled by the Rockefellers, Mellons and others most notoriously linked with the exploitation of colonial peoples in all parts of the world.

On the question of wages, here is a quote from Fundamentals of Political Economy by P. Nikitin (Foreign Languages Publishing House, Moscow. pp 80-81):

> "The level of wages is not the same in the different capitalist countries. There are many reasons for this. It would, of course, be wrong to suppose that in some countries, capitalists are more favorably inclined towards workers than in other countries. Everywhere they strive to lower wages. But in comparing the wages in different countries account must be taken of the historical conditions in which the working class was formed, the level of its traditional requirements, the expenses incurred in acquiring a skilled trade, the productivity of labour, the class struggle and other conditions characteristic of the country concerned. In the U.S.A., for instance, capitalism developed at a time when labour was in short supply, and this fact led to wages being higher."

Most surely the evil of race prejudice, of white supremacy, exists among far too many white workers, sometimes reaching dangerously high levels where it is not challenged. But if this were a yardstick to measure the "aristocracy," the lowest-paid white workers, those in the South, would be among the top Aristocrats. Certainly this in no way excuses the building trades unions, or any others, when they accommodate themselves to the discriminatory hiring and promotion policies of the corporations, or when they themselves practice discrimination or exclusion policies.

Certainly some white workers fall for the company propaganda that somehow they gain from discrimination against Negro workers. But does this make it true? Not a bit of it! It has been proven over and over again that low wages paid to Negroes (or Puerto Rican, Mexican Americans, women) are used to hold down the wages of all workers. In the South, where this tactic is most effective, the general pattern of low wages is used as a threat to the wages and work standards of workers in all parts of the country.

White workers do not profit from, and have absolutely no stake in discrimination against their Negro brothers and sisters. More and more they learn this, often through hard experiences. But there is a demonstrable growth of Negro-white working class unity both North and South. It has been the historic role of the Klan not only to terrorize Negroes, but to try and smash all manifestations of Negro-white unity. Now the ruling class is forced to use the ultra-Right in the working class communities all over the country in their efforts to counter growing unity by trying to spread anti-Negro hatred and create the myth of a "white backlash." Its basic effort is to try and split the American working class - Negro and white.

There is no question that the barrage of red-baiting has left its mark on U.S. workers and on the trade union movement. That is a big reason for the size of our Party membership among workers, although acceptance of red-baiting cuts across all sections of the population.

But workers engaged in struggle are themselves red-baited. In the process they learn (and sometimes have to re-learn) the falseness of this issue. In this period of rising strikes, there has been a noticeable drop in anti-Communist attitudes on the part of many trade unionists, in spite of the Meany-Lovestone-Dubinsky leadership's rabid redbaiting. There is a noticeable shift taking place in the attitude of trade unionists to the Soviet Union and other socialist countries.

But every instrument possible is used by the monopolies to make anti-Communism a live issue. Take the question of religion. When I was a boy, Catholics were constantly filled with "facts" about "Bolsheviks" killing priests and raping nuns. This was effective stuff among the Irish, with whom the fight for religious freedom was part of the fight against British imperialism, as well as among Polish, Italian, Hungarian, and many other nationalities of Catholic background. (To tell the truth, if we knew the alleged victims were "orthodox," I wonder if we would have been so concerned.) The same instrument is being used today to inflame many Jewish people against the Soviet Union by the constant repetition of the flase charges of "Soviet anti-Semitism."

As for support of the war in Vietnam. I think the strike wave that is hitting all parts of the country is a most effective example of the refusal of American workers to support the war in the way it counts...with their money, blood and sweat. Just compare the situation now to World War II, which the working class supported.

When it comes to efforts to corrupt trade union leaders, from shop and department level to the very top, the ruling class has this down to a fine science. (Of course they try to reach the leaders of all other mass movements as well.) Sometimes, they even slip one of their own rats into union office and work like hell to keep him there. But if every single trade union leader in the country had somehow been corrupted - and I am one of those firmly convinced that the overwhelming majority are honest - what sort of yardstick could possibly be used to characterize them as "labor aristocrats?" I have seen more than one low-paid shop committeeman trade his militancy for some very slight concession from the company, and we have the Meany-Lovestone instruments of the CIA at labor's very pinnacle. But trade union leadership at all levels is subject to change, and I don't see how it is possible to characterize "labor leaders" as any sort of stable "aristocracy" with any meaning. Some sell-out artists - absolutely, but bribing or corrupting individual trade union leaders, no matter how many, can hardly be described as a base for an "aristocracy."

It is unfortunately true that corporations have been able to play off one section of the workers against another. This is even true within given plants and industries. When the CIO was in the process of organization, some skilled workers were used to try and stop the organization of the "scum." On the other hand, skilled workers in unorganized plants were very often in the leadership of organizing drives.

Actually in the '30s, it was the white collar workers who were frequently used against striking blue collar workers in many plants. These workers wereconvinced they were "part of management" because, in spite of low wages, they usually received a week's vacation with pay, where the blue collar workers did not. Today the situation is rapidly changing. The periphery of the working class is expanding. White collar workers, teachers, technicians and many others who traditionally rejected trade unionism, are now identifying themselves with the working class, and trade unions led by blue collar workers are setting up departments to take them in as union brothers and sisters.

Engels and Lenin are sometimes quoted by advocates of the "aristocracy of labor" theory in order to bolster support. Both these giants of Marxism, as well as Marx himself, were sometimes critical, and sharply critical, of trends among the working class and the trade unions in various countries, particularly because of their slowness in grasping the need of Socialism as the fundamental solution to the problems weighted on them by capitalism.

I am well aware of Lenin's attacks on the "labour aristocracy" in his classic Imperialism: the Highest Stage of Capitalism, particularly in his preface to the French and German editions. (By the way, I use quotes around "labour aristocracy" because I question the validity of the term. Lenin also used quotes, but I am not sure of his reasons.)

But let us go further into what Lenin wrote in this same classic. In dealing with the question, he quotes Engels, who wrote to Marx in 1858 that "the English proletariat is becoming more and more bourgeois, so that this most bourgeois of all nations is apparently aiming ultimately (G.A.M. emphasis) at the possession of a bourgeois aristocracy and a bourgeois proletariat as well as a bourgeoisie. For a nation which exploits the whole world, that is of course to a certain effect justifiable." Lenin quotes Engels further to the effect that English workers and the English bourgeois agreed on Britain's colonial policy in general.

Lenin then gives three reasons for these developments in England.

1. "Expolitation of the whole world by this country. (England.)

2. "Its monopolistic position in the world market."

3. "Its colonial monopoly."

But then Lenin goes on to differentiate between that period of world history, and the time in which he was writing "Imperialism." "The distinctive feature of the present (1916) situation is the prevalence of economic and political conditions which could not but increase the irreconcilability between opportunism and the general and vital interests of the working class movement. (My emphasis, G.A.M.)

"Embryonic imperialism has grown into a dominant system; capitalist monopolies occupy first place in economics and politics; the division of the world has been completed. On the one hand, instead of an undisputed monopoly by Great Britain, we see a few imperialist powers disputing among themselves for the right to share in this monopoly, and this struggle is characteristic of the whole period of the beginning of the Twentieth Century. Opportunism, therefore, cannot now triumph in the working-class movement of any country for decades as it did in England in the second half of the nineteenth century."

It seems to me that what Lenin is doing in this section is polemicizing against the idea that in 1916, any capitalist country had the ability to buy off its working-class with profits from super-exploitation of the colonial peoples, as Engels described the situation in Britain in the middle 1800's, because of the crisis of world capitalism that was already in the making. (1916).

Since 1916, the crisis so brilliantly described by Lenin has been greatly magnified. Now there is a Socialist sector in the world. Led by the Soviet Union, it grows in strength daily. The colonial liberation movement has made the easy profits of the 1800's a thing of the past, although many evils of imperialist super-exploitation are very evident today. In the capitalist countries, the working class continues to strengthen its economic and political organizations in spite of many hesitations and errors. There is a marked growth of the Communist parties in many capitalist countries. This is very definitely the age of the decline of capitalism and the growing domination of socialism.

Instead of U.S. imperialism having the ability to "buy off" any meaningful section of the American working class with profits from its imperialist adventures, it is actually trying to force the workers to pay for these adventures. And the working class is resisting mightily. That is the meaning of the strike wave that has hit the country, of the rebellions in the ghettos.

The U.S. monopolies are using profits from the labor of U.S. workers to modern/ize plants and facilities in other capitalist countries in their efforts to capture the markets in those countries. In the process, they are trying to pit the workers in various capitalist countries against each other, including - and particularly - American workers. In industry after industry, threats of "foreign competition" are used at time of negotiations to inhibit the unions in their demands, though frequently the foreign competition comes from international monopolies owned or controlled by U.S. capitalists. This is true in auto, steel, chemicals, electronics, electrical appliances, and many other industries. Instead of benefitting from imperialist exploitation of workers in other countries, more and more U.S. workers, through their trade unions, are being forced to seek meaningful alliances with workers in other countries, including the Socialist countries, to protect themselves against the international monopolies.

The misuse of the term "aristocracy of labor" has done considerable harm, both within and outside our Party, to efforts to win the American working class, in my opinion. It has put a brake on many opportunities to reach out to the workers, or important sections of the workers, not only on the question of Socialism, but on such questions as peace, civil rights and other vital questions. I think we have to put an end to this situation.

* * *

This is not to be considered as a rounded-out presentation but as an approach for discussion--a direction in which I think we should be headed.

By Gil Green

It is a mistake to believe that the working class is an undifferentiated mass without its own inner contradictions. It is also a mistake to view the labor movement as identical with the class, for a majority of wage earners are still unorganized.

Our approach to the labor movement must include three basic considerations: 1) Engels' strictures to American Marxists not to permit themselves to become separated from the main class organizations, but to find the ways of working with and within the labor movement at each stage of its development; 2) Lenin's teachings on the two-fold effect of imperialism upon the working class movement; and 3) an application of both of the above to the situation as it exists today.

Lenin showed how imperialism had used high monopoly profits from colonial exploitation and dominance in the world market to objectively bribe sections of the working class and particularly the top labor leadership. He also analyzed the imperialist practice of importing workers from underdeveloped countries and using migrants from the land as sources of cheap labor power, thereby creating within the imperialist country itself a growing section of the working class that is doubly exploited. In this way the working class becomes split within itself - one section enjoying relative prosperity, the other living in abject poverty.

There is ample evidence of the split within the working class of this country. This is to be seen in average wage rates, which in 1965 ranged from $152 a week in the tire industry, $148 in metal cans, $159 in auto, to $67 in apparel, $71 in leather, $56 in laundry, cleaning and dyeing, $49 in hotels and motels, and $41 in discount department stores.

It is to be remembered that these were averages, which means that many workers made above these amounts but that many, many more made below them. Obviously the Negroes, Puerto Ricans, Mexicans, Indians, youth and women, and particularly those in these categories who are unskilled and unorganized and live in the South, are amongst the lowest-paid of all.

Furthermore there are sections of employed workers, especially those in monopoly industries, who have relative job security by virtue of long years of seniority or built-in contractual agreements that protect their jobs regardless of technological change. In these cases it is the next generation of workers that suffers the consequences of job elimination. Also, the better organized and better paid workers have been able to win supplementary unemployment and social security benefits plus hospitalization and medical care. Such so-called "fringe benefits" place these workers in an entirely different economic position from those who have to depend exclusively upon government unemployment and social security payments. In fact, these workers frequently receive more money while unemployed or retired than the low-paid worker receives while working a full week plus overtime. Yet the worker with the lowest wages and least "fringe benefits" suffers the most layoffs and family illness.

These are facts. They cannot be disputed. The only question is how to interpret them. It is true that the situation is not the same as in Lenin's day. Much has changed. On the one hand the U.S. is now the dominant imperialist power in the world, drawing immense tribute from every region of the capitalist world, especially from the underdeveloped areas. U.S. imperialism has therefore had more reserves than any other imperialist power to make concessions and, from its point of view at least, to bribe considerable masses. Obviously no concessions were granted where not demanded, and where the demand could not be effectively enforced. And just as obviously, it is the large monopoly corporations that have been in the best position to make concessions, often passing these on to the consumers through price-fixing practices. It is also self-evident that the workers whose labor power is especially essential for monopoly production, particularly those with higher technical skills, are in a better position to enforce their demands.

Since World War II, economic trends arising from government tampering with the economic cycle, massive armaments production, and the new technology, have further sharpened the split within the working class between the relatively privileged and underprivileged sections. Ghetto-ization is its main expression, for the people in poverty are made up in large part of Negro, Puerto Rican and Mexican workers.

The other side of the picture consists of objective developments that lead to an undermining of U.S. imperialism's ability to split the working class and to the possibility of attaining increasing militant unity within the class. U.S. capitalism does not hold the position of world monopoly once occupied by Great Britain. It confronts a world in which it is by no means the master and in which socialism is a great and growing force. The capitalist world is shrinking and will continue to shrink. U.S. imperialism's attempt to hold on to its world positions and to achieve world hegemony are placing it at loggerheads with the peoples of the world and with an ever larger section of the American people. All sections of the working class are being made to pay for the Vietnam war and for swollen armaments, although not all to the same degree. Furthermore, this is the age of cybernation and automation, which only sharpens the basic contradiction of the system between social production and private accumulation.

But in noting and even stressing objective changes which will affect every section of the working class, it would be a major blunder to believe that these can produce a basic change in the labor movement in and by themselves. Opportunism based on class collaboration is deeply engrained in sections of the labor movement. In many unions a basic change will require the sharpest kind of struggle against an intrenched burocracy which consciously serves the ruling class. What Lenin said about Gompers, that he "and similar persons are not the representatives of the working class" is just as true, and even more true, of George Meany and most top leaders today.

When Lenin made his statement about Gompers he was not proposing it as a slogan to be painted on factory walls or to be pasted on automobile bumpers. He used this sharp language to make clear to class conscious workers that a struggle had to be waged against opportunism and opportunist leaders, for without such a struggle opportunism cannot be defeated.

The Afro-American in the Arts Today

By Douglass Archer

The characteristic perception of the Afro-American in the arts today is his realization that he is on the eve of a great fertile and revolutionary period. This awareness permeates every section of the arts where Blacks are creating. It is the subject of numerous conversations, debates, meetings and conferences. At least, in the case of Black writers, the most articulate body in the arts, a conscious character and direction is being developed for a new and powerful Afro-American renaissance. It is the content of that imminent renaissance and how some of us in this room may help influence it that I will talk about today.

Just to refresh our memories, there have been two great periods in the development of the Black artist in the U.S. One was during the Negro literary Renaissance period of the 1920's when white patrons helped bring forth giants like Countee Cullen, Claude McKay, Jean Toomer, Alain Locke, Langston Hughes, Arna Bontemps, to name a few.

This Renaissance was centered in Harlem and concentrated on the thrust of the "New Negro," on historical themes, on an interest in Africa, on some symbolism and racial pride. Black But Beautiful was a main theme. In their poetry and novels the writers of this period broke with the polite mannerisms of past pioneers like Charles Chestnutt and expressed themselves in earthy and realistic terms.

The second surge forward came, after a short fallow period, during the days of the depression when the government acted as an art patron through the WPA. It was from this period, leading into the forties, that writers like Richard Wright, and again Langston Hughes, Willard Motley, Chester Himes, Roi Ottley, the young Lofton Mitchell, Alice Childress and others came forth. Though it centered in New York and Chicago this development was on a national scale. And the content of many of the works then changed from an emphasis on Africa or "Black But Beautiful" to a new interest in the history of the Negro people and a portrayal of their social and economic problems.

During the witchhunts of the Communists in the fifties, every level of society was affected and the arts-for-arts sake fad which pushed forward during that time, with few exceptions, affected black writers and artists. Ralph Ellison and his thinly veiled anti-communist novel, "The Invisible Man" was the Negro literary lion of the hour and many formerly outspoken black writers and artists kept silent or busied themselves with teaching or compiling anthologies.

The Negro Liberation struggle in the South soon burst forth upon the consciousness of the nation. It swept up many of the writers and artists who first spoke out during the beginning of the fifties like John O. Killens, Lofton Mitchell, William Branch, John A. Williams, Ossie Davis, and others who came later like Lerone Bennet Jr., William Denby, Lorraine Hansberry and James Baldwin. A whole new school of young writers emerged during this time of struggle in the North and South - a time which ushered in simultaneously, the freedom demands of the peoples of Africa, Asia, and Latin America. In literature artists like Douglass Turner Ward emerged. Willia, Melvin Kelly, Le Roi Jones, Ron Milner, Rosa Guy, Calvin Hernton, Lennox Raphael, Tom Dent and John O'Neal of the Free Southern Theater, only to name a few.

And the main characteristic of the thinking of all of these writers, like the mainstream of Afro-American art today, is that its main impulse is anti-war and coincides with the world revolutionary impulse. To paraphrase John O. Killens, there is the general recognition among them that the Afro-American revolt is part and parcel of the world-wide freedom struggle. Both Killens and this speaker have reached this same conclusion based upon the findings and conclusions from National Conferences of Afro-American writers and artists held in the past three years in New York, Chicago, Atlanta, Cleveland, at California and at Fiske University. The majority of writers who attend these conferences or who can be reached at local gatherings are concerned with depicting life as non-whites know it, none other than a continuous battle against exploitation, misery, hunger and color prejudice. They are conscious of race, that "It's Beautiful to be Black," and are seeking a new esthetic by delving into their past. They embrace their African roots in an attempt to understand the present and build for the future. They are fired with creating a full-fledged black hero who can break thru the white myths and chauvinisms that hides the black man from himself. Like the folktale tellers of the past, they aim to create a John Henry type hero who will tackle U.S. automation like John Henry did in the day of the steam drill. They are concemed with the forces that make the Afro-American different culturally and otherwise - but yet still an American. Their perspective of society is critical. They are turned off by the vast senseless social order which degrades blacks and dehumanizes whites. They see the present American society as producing the conditions which distort and destroy human relationships. They deplore anti-communism. They are concerned with changing the concepts of language and ask why are there 60 negative connotations to the word "black" in Rogets Thesaurus and about four for "white."

Here is an example of the thinking of a group of Afro-American artists from Chicago who formed themselves in the Chicago Organization for Black American Culture. Dozens of similarly oriented organizations have mushroomed throughout the nation.

"Our aim," they said "is to invest our works with the essence of our unique experience, calling upon our past history, from the shores of Africa to the West Indies, and in this hostile land. We are dedicated to arousing the energies of black people to an appreciation of themselves and their human possibilities. We will work toward the ultimate goal of bringing the black community indigenous art forms which reflect and clarify the black experience in America. To reflect the richness, depth and variety of Black History, its achievements and its possibilities for creativity we must find a new esthetic that which corresponds to our lives. It must have elements based on the man in the gutter and it must speak to him."

But there is a need, Langston Hughes once said, to do this in a balanced way, "to discover the human condition," said Saunders Redding, "without the preoccupation of repossessing a heritage that can distort reality. Nor make heroes out of heels." John Clarke of Freedomways says, "We must draw upon the universal values in the Negroes' experience just as Sean O'Casey and Sholem Aleichem drew upon the universal values in the experiences of the Irish and Jews. The next stage of Negro writing must not be a celebration of oppression but a celebration of survival in spite of it."

"Africa I have kept your memory Africa
You are inside me
Like the splinter in the wound
Like a guardian fetish in the center of the village

"Make me the stone in your sling
Make my mouth the lips of your wound
Make my knees the broken pillars of your abasement

And yet
I want to be of your race alone workers peasants of all lands uncountable nation in capitalist slavery destiny ranges us shoulder to shoulder repudiating the ancient maledictions of blood taboos

As the contradiction among features
Creates the harmony of the face
We proclaim the oneness of the suffering and the revolt of all peoples on all the face of the earth
And we mix the mortar of the age of brotherhood
Out of the dust of idols."

This was said by Jacques Roumain, a French-speaking black. And the words of Richard Wright are still true for today when he says: "This dramatic Marxist vision when consciously grasped endows the writer with a sense of dignity which no other vision can give. Ultimately, it restores to the writer his lost heritage, that is, his role as a creator of the world in which he lives, and as a creator of himself." I'm indicating that the new trend, among Afro-American artists, to lock black arms hurts neither a black or a white. Joseph Papp has been a pioneer in welcoming Afro-Americans in his New York Shakespeare Festival, casting them in all sorts of roles. But Broadway hasn't followed suit.

Seeking to get around these difficulties, Harry Belafonte is expanding his production company. He plans to produce plays on and off Broadway, based on Afro-American life. He is also setting up a foundation to give grants to Afro-American writers. Sidney Poitier is also planning to start a company. Bill Cosby of "I Spy" has started a motion picture production company. Tom Dent's Free Southern Theater has performed throughout the South. But the most interesting development for Afro-American actors and playwrights was the Ford Foundation grant, rumored at 1.8 million dollars that was awarded Dough Turner's and Bobby Hook's Negro Ensemble Theater. The theater will train and provide a home for Afro-American theatrical talents on all levels. Another development was Roger Furman's Harlem-based New Heritage Theater and Ron Milner, last week opened a play in Harlem's New Lafayette Theater. While the Greenwich Theater, which has always been hospitable to black playwrights will present two plays by the Nigerian dramatist Wole Soyinka. Needless to say, again, the problem facing many Afro-American playwrights is the problem of content, how best to reflect the spirit of these times, whether to concentrate on Negro themes, or venture like Lorraine Hansberry, in "The Sign in Sidney Brustein's Window," to help illuminate the human condition. Some of the more advanced thinking playwrights believe that both should be done.

A main point cropping up at discussions of black artists is whether or not to accept government funding of projected theater ensembles, writers' groups or jazz workshops. Alice Childress and others say, definitely, yes. William Melvin Kelly warns that a man will then not be able to tell it like it is. Nevertheless, there is a growing trend to accept such funds and determination to keep the relationship between government and artist similar to that between the British government and British writers. There is virtually no censorship of government-funded creative works by Britons. American artists will have to fight for a similar relationship.

In the dance world Afro-Americans are making a fantastic mark. True, just a few, like Arthur Mitchell are dancing in major classical ballet. But others like Alvin Ailey, Donald McQuale, Carmen De Lavallade and more have created a completely new dance, based on African, jazz and modern themes. Some good things are happening in opera. In the cinema, Afro-Americans are receiving better roles and receiving Oscars, although the screen is dominated by Sidney Poitier. And no black woman has yet to overcome Hollywood's siren roles.

Perhaps the Afro-American's most vital and oppressed art form today is jazz. In many international circles jazz is known as North America's only original contribution to world culture. Yet, New York City, the reputed cultural capital of the West, is glutted with unemployed black jazz musicians. Part of the reason is that in these searing sixties, the general mood has caused a revolution in the concept of jazz playing. Many of the younger jazzmen are political in their thinking and assert that their new sound is an expression which approximates the experience of blacks in the city ghettos. Their music is marked by an emphasis on improvisations, contrasts of rhythms and sound rather than on melodic invention. And it reflects, they say, the full emotional range of blacks fighting for their freedom today. It also reflects an interest in the rhythms of Africa - the roots from which this music springs. A few of these musicians are conservatory-trained, like Cecil Taylor, Archie Shepp and Charlie Mingus. Their music reflects not only the souls of black folk but the influence of internationalist classicists like Sergei Prokofiev, Bela Bartok and Igor Stravinsky. Several musicians have banded into guilds, like the now defunct Jazz Composers' Guild, which attempted to break through the walls built by the critics, the nighclub and recording establishments, to keep this new sound out.

Black photographers face a similar situation. Mostly social conscious, they find scant markets for their works and have formed several photography guilds to force breakthroughs. Or they work in the anti-poverty program. Black painters and graphic artists are faring better these days due to the power of the guilds they have formed.

The overall character of the trend in art by Afro-Americans today is social conscious and conscious of blackness. As I have mentioned the debates indicate that concurrent with this new awareness, there is a tendency toward an exclusiveness or nationalism, if you will. But it is a tendency in flux that could in swift time be directed back of the nationwide fight for freedom and peace. One of the ways to get this ball rolling, in my opinion, is to convince leading black artists like Ossie Davis, John O. Killens, Ruby Dee, etc. to call for a National Conference of Afro-American Artists. This conference could concern itself with the financial and social problems black artists face in the nation. It could attempt to indicate an approach in the black arts to the social and economic problems that Afro-American as well as whites in the nation face in general. It could call for greater ties with African artists, exchange of shows, writings, etc. It could call for a WPA type program to bring the arts into ghetto communities. It could call for cultural centers and complexes in the Harlems of the nation, which would serve as a training ground for Afro-Americans, to emerge in the mainstream of American culture. It could serve as an employment, dramatic and teaching center for unemployed Afro-American artists. It should become the first step in a call for a massive beautification building project in the nation's ghettos. Literary collections, like the Schomburg in Harlem, which is in danger of being shut down, should be absorbed by such a project and its library expanded to contain a complete music library of Negro and African music.

I am sorry that the cultural panel did not meet yesterday since there are other areas in American culture that blacks as well as whites feel needs to be improved. Panel discussion would have amplified my report.

Though there has been some improvement in the classical symphonic field and there are blacks in some of the major orchestras of the nation, it is still token. And it's not just because blacks can't get into the conservatories easily. The amount of black conductors can be counted on one hand. Dean Dixon, a veteran in the same rank as George Szell, Leonard Bernstein and Eric Leinsdorf, is still an expatriate, who leads the major orchestras of Europe. Happily, there is one young Negro conductor from California. He is actually employed as an Assistant. But from time to time, if you can afford the ticket, you may see him leading an actual orchestra.

A similar situation exists in the case of performers. One would think that Andre Watts is the only leading black instrumentalist in the nation. But this is not at all so. I know personally that discrimination forces many black musicians out of this field. One such is the pianist Cecil Taylor who returned to the bosom of jazz and has produced such original works that he has been called a genius and can only find work in Europe.

A deplorable situation exists in advertising and also TV, despite the presence of Bill Cosby, Bobby Hooks and the three black newscasters who appear on the screen. In the height of the civil rights agitation more black faces could be seen peering from beneath the pages of the N.Y. Times' Advertising sections. But pick up that paper now and learn the truth.

I do think that a National Conference of Afro-American Artists can begin to set the wheels in motion that will start some of the changes that many black artists agree is necessary NOW.

Statements on the Concept of the "Aristocracy of Labor"

James West -- Notes on the term "Aristocracy of Labor."

1. Historic Cause and Basis of 'Labor Aristocracy."

V.I. Lenin, writing in 1912 (see p. 154, "On the International Working Class and Communist Movement), said the principal cause for the existence of a bourgeois labor policy, and of its representatives, the "labor aristocracy," was:

> "...the long-standing political liberty and the exceptionally advantageous conditions, as compared with other countries, for the deep-going and widespread development of capitalism. By virtue of these conditions, there has emerged in the working class an aristocracy that has trailed after the bourgeoisie and betrayed its own class." (original emphasis.

2. The validity of this term for the present, irrespective of what one may think of the merit of its past usage, has come under serious question. Note, for example, what "Mirovaya Ekonimika i Mezhudunarodnye Otnoshenia," No. 4, 1967 writes in an article "V.I. Lenin's Teaching of Imperialism and Modernity":

> "The trend toward standardization of working conditions in various industries, greater economic gains by the working class and the involvement of ever new detachments into an acute economic and political struggle are doing away with the "labor aristocracy" as a social group opposing the rest of the working class." (My emphasis)

3. A stratum - a social group; and the question of reactionary leaders.

In "Left-Wing Communism" Lenin describes the trade union "labor aristocracy" comparing it to the social phenomenon of Menshevism in Russia. He says:

> "There (in the West) the trade union 'labor aristocracy' constitutes a much thicker stratum (than the Mensheviks, JW) of narrow-minded, selfish, hard-hearted, covetous, petty-bourgeois elements - imperialistically-minded, bribed and corrupted by imperialism. (emphasis in original)

Lenin then immediately goes on to write of the need to wage a ruthless struggle against all the incorrigible leaders of opportunism and social chauvinism until they have been completely discredited and expelled from the trade unions.

A few points must be noted: The above politically-incisive description of the "labor aristocracy" (it is interesting, incidentally, that Lenin often used the term in quotation marks) came in the midst of a strong polemic with the German "Left" Communists in which he fought for persistence in working in the reactionary-led unions, that is, in the unions dominated and led by the 'labor aristocracy."

Secondly, while denouncing the "aristocracy of labor," its ideology, social chauvinism, Lenin called for a relentless struggle against the incorrigible leaders, naming them, such as Gompers, until they are "discredited and expelled."

He did not call for a fight against the social stratum, the social group, per se. He called for a fight against its incorrigible leaders, against its ideology, its social chauvinism.

It is clear, from his analysis of the causes that gave rise to such a social stratum, that Lenin was describing a particular phenomenon which arose in particular circumstances in certain countries; and not a generalized condition for all countries, and valid for as long as capitalism exists. It follows that if the conditions which gave rise to such a social grouping within the class were to change, that it would have consequences affecting the stratum itself.

This is what the quote from "Mirovaya Ekonomika, etc" (#2, above) is saying.

4. What has happened to the "Labor Aristocracy"?

There was a time (in the early part of this century) when the railroad workers, rightly or wrongly, were considered the "aristocracy of labor." Everyone knows what has happened to the conditions of the railroad workers, they are from from being the highest-paid today.

It can be objected, with validity, that "aristocracy of labor" is not determined by its rate of wages or income, either alone or primarily. In fact, in Lenin's description cited above, this factor hardly figures at all. What mattered for Lenin was the ideology, the petty-bourgeois social chauvinism which this stratum brought into the working class, its betrayal of class interests, selling-out to imperialism. He didn't oppose it for its higher income! He fought it for its anti-working class ideas. His was not a purely economic determinist outlook! Moreover, while fighting the ideas which arose from this stratum, he centered fire on the incorrigible leaders, by name, who betrayed the working class.

5. Distortions in the use of the term "aristocracy of labor."

While changed conditions are increasingly narrowing and eliminating the causes which gave rise to this social stratum, distortions of the meaning of the term threaten to give it a prlonged lease on life beyond its burial date. Where it should be allowed to die and rest in peace, it is being kept alive with artificial stimulants.

Among these is the concept that the higher wages and better conditions won by workers in trustified industry (auto, steel, etc) have somehow or another converted them into the new labor aristocracy. Since Lenin, in describing the ideology and morality of this social grouping as "petty-bourgeois," some today are reading the organized workers in steel, auto, etc., out of the working class and into the "middle class." Accordi ng to these people, the "new"working class is primarily all those who earn below or around the government-prescribed poverty level, most of whom are unorganized.

Implicit in these incomplete, one-sided and distorted concepts are such ideas as: the worse the better; abandonment of work in trade unions since they make things better and "thereby strengthen capitalism;" abandonment of work among the decisive, basic industry sections of the organized workers, no policy of concentration," since these workers have "become middle class," etc.

Further implicit in this whole concept is an inability or a failure to face up to what is new with regard to the working class and trade union struggle as a result of the new world situation, the new world market relationships, the new technology -- the whole new world context of the working class struggle.

It is an attempt to approach present-day problems on the basis of a past understanding of questions valid for their time, but no longer valid -- an anachronism.

The task is not to hold on to an old phrase and try to fit new realities into it; rather it is to recognize that new realities have rendered the old phrase obsolete and it no longer serves to throw light on problems or elucidate answers to them.

6. No more problems of "betrayal," "misleadership," etc?

Does the fact that the "labor aristocracy" as a social stratum arising out of a given historic situation is ceasing to exist mean that we have no more problems of reactionary imperialistically-minded, bribed, corrupted labor leaders, and no more need to fight relentlessly against incorrigible leaders of opportunism and social-chauvinism? I doubt if there are really many who are so naive and foolish as to believe that.

The fact is that such problems will remain with us for as long as the system of exploitation remains and even beyond for a time.

What is new, however, is that the social stratum from which such elements arise and derive their strength is continually narrowing down; what is new is that the nature of state-monopoly capitalism is calling forth ever new and broader sectors of a growing working class into struggle against monopoly (teachers, technicians, etc. in addition to workers in basic industry and the unorganized.) And persistence in the use of such a term as "labor aristocracy" serves to obscure these new developments, to distort their meaning, to judge them in old terms rather than new ones.

The victims of state-monopoly capitalism are legion and increasingly include those who were formerly regarded as "labor aristocrats." The fact that these sectors enter the struggle under the banner of "Workers, Unite! You have Everything to Lose!" (their homes, cars, TV sets, motor boats, etc) instead of "Workers, Unite" You Have Nothing to Lose But Your Chains!" makes them no less militant. Most important of all, their fight is directed against monopoly, not for monopoly!

A word should be added about the relationship between ideology and income. While we recognize a tendency for a higher income to give more fertile ground for reactionary and chauvinist ideology, it would be wrong to transform this tendency into an iron and immutable law. There are too many instances of backward, reactionary and chauvinist ideas coming out of very-low income sectors to permit of such an economic-determinist, narrow construction being placed on the matter.

7. A special word on the matter of the building trades unions today.

Recent settlements in the building trades in the Mid-West show some phenomenal gains, far above the average and requiring a special look-into.

In most major Midwest cities, the settlements run around a 40 % increase. To what is this due?

1. Major concessions by the unions to the contractors:

   a. The plumbers, which settled first, gave up much ground on pre-fabricated materials, allowing thereby a vast cut into their jobs.

   b. Electricians did likewise yielding on the use of Romex wire, which also affects their jobs.

   c. The carpenters, making no concessions this time, long ago lost all control over the use of power tools, etc.

2. Many building trades unions now concentrate on new, major construction projects for a limited number of workers. Very few will do any work on old buildings (left largely to the unorganized). Many of the craftunions are now dependent on federal and state construction, and on contractors who operate on cost-plus contracts, in which the labor costs are passed on to the government or other employers.

3. The Johnson Administration raised no holler against the unusually high increases. There is reason to believe it is the price Meany "extracted" for continued support to Johnson and the Democratic Party, which Johnson wants and needs to assure himself a "labor base" for '68.

4. Some believe it is also intended to strengthen Meany and the craft unions against Reuther and the industrial unions, pointing to the use of outside contractors in steel and auto, causing serious problems for the industrial unions there.

5. At the same time, sections of big monopoly were bitter about the settlement. In Pittsburgh, for example, the head of US Steel denounced the proposed settlement and called on the big contractors to oppose it; there a strike occurred.

The problems posed by this development point up the uselessness of the phrase "aristocracy of labor" which in no way contributes to analyzing or indicating a solution to this particular problem.

It is, at best, an obsolete phrase. It cannot contribute to an understanding of, nor a solution of present-day problems. It is no substitute for concrete analysis of new realities. It was applicable to a social stratum now disappearing because the conditions which gave rise to it have disappeared.

Don Hamerquist

A major function and purpose of Lenin's Imperialism and a number of related works was to provide an objective explanation for the susceptibility of the American and European labor and socialist movements to reformism and revisionism. The essence of this explanation, I think, is contained in the concept of the labor aristocracy and in the analysis of its characteristics.

The international conflicts, between imperial countries and to forcibly suppress colonial peoples, that became more serious and more numerous with the development of imperialism gave the ruling monopoly bourgeoisie an interest in moderating domestic conflicts that would tend away from the national concensus needed to strengthen their relative imperial position. On the other hand, the super profits gained from the national oppression of the colonial peoples provided the objective potential to make selective concessions to the working class in the imperialist country. Both the motivation and the capability existed to allow a section of the working class to gain a materially favored position, thus buttressing divisive forces in the working class. This process should not be understood as being conscious and deliberate, it takes place through the interaction of forces and pressures that are not understood by the vast majority of the human actors involved.

What is the mechanism through which this occurs? It is a truism that the bourgeoisie rules by two methods: the method of concession and the method of repression. Superprofits provide more flexibility to meet demands with concessions, both in direct trade union struggles and in political struggles. The existence of a profit cushion is of course not the only element determining whether the method of selective concession is used - it just provides a greater objective potential to use this road. Who gets the benefits of the concessions? The bourgeoisie does not make concessions out of largesse. They are made in response to real pressures and demands, and they are generally made to the sections of the working class best able to make demands, to the most powerfully organized groupings. They are always made in the way that will minimize the fact that they are results of struggle, but the paradoxical fact remains that it is precisely the best organized sections of the working class that are most susceptible (objectively) to reformism.

It is important to note that the bourgeoisie gains the potential to make concessions relative to the amount of material goods available -- to the standard of consumption, and is probably more reluctant to make concessions in the area of power.

Related to the question of selective concessions is the potential, which again comes from the super profits, to bribe a section of the working class with money, acceptance and prestige. The top-heavy and bureaucratic trade union structure is fertile ground for this approach.

Thus a material basis is created for the acceptance by a section of the working class -- often a key section -- of an evolutionary reformist approach to social change, of the myths of American individualism, and of the tenetsof economism and pure and simple trade unionism. The false consciousness rooted in this objective process extends far beyond those who are its material beneficiaries. It substantiates certain illusions and expectations carefully engendered in the entire class. If a longshoreman can make enough money to buy a tavern on the coast, so can a logger or a farmworker -- if they work hard and keep their nose clean.

With people who don't understand the concept of the aristocracy of labor the question of who belongs and who doesn't belong in the category takes on unreal importance. The problem is put in moralistic and metaphysical terms as if one were either a worker or a "bought off" aristocrat, an agent of the boss. The point is to use the concept to help understand the class, not to either condemn or exalt it. Particularly because of the role of class political consciousness, it is difficult to make any hard and fast division of a labor aristocracy from the working class. However, it is possible to make some observations about the extent of the category. It includes most journeymen in the crafts; the higher job categories in many of the industrial unions, e.g., the fully registered men in the ILWU; some of the unorganized elements of the white collar workers; e.g., coaches and tenured professors; and almost the entirety of the trade union official structure.

Here are some quotes on the "arisocracy of labor:"

> "The causes are: first, exploitation of the whole world by this country; second, its monopolist position in the world market; third, its colonial monopoly. The effects are: a section of the British proletariat becomes bourgeois; second, a section of the proletariat allows itself to be led by men bought by, or at least paid by, the bourgeoisie." (Lenin, Collected Works, Vol. 22, p. 284.

> "The receipt of high monopoly profits by the capitalists in one of the numerous countries, etc. makes it economically possible for them to bribe certain sections of the workers and for a time a fairly considerable minority of them, and win them to the side of the bourgeoisie of a given industry or a given nation against all others." (Ibid, p. 301.)

> "Economically the difference is that sections of the working class in oppressing nations receive crumbs of the super-profits which the bourgeoisie of these nations through intensive exploitation of the workers of oppressed nations...in oppressing nations a larger percentage of workers become 'skilled workers' than in oppressed nations, a larger percentage rise to the aristocracy of the working class. To a certain extent the workers of oppressing nations share with their bourgeoisie in the business of robbing the workers...in oppressed nations.

> "Politically, the difference is that in many spheres of political life the workers of oppressing nations occupy a privileged position in comparison with the workers of the oppressed nations.

> "Intellectually or spiritually the difference is that the workers of oppressing nations are invariably trained in school and in everyday life to despise or ignore the workers of oppressed nations." (Lenin, "A Caricature of Marxism and Imperialist Economism" Collected Works (1942), Vol. 19, p. 214.)

> "The more a ruling class is able to assimilate the most prominent men of a ruled class, the more solid and dangerous is its role." (Marx, Capital, Vol. 3, Chapter 36.)

> (See also E. J. Hobsbawm's Laboring Men.

I think the analysis in these quotations is even more true of the U.S.than of Britain - and that Lenin is still correct!

We drift into a position of philosophical idealism (a la Mao) when we neglect the material base as the starting point for either analysis or program. This is dramatized in the Draft Program when we mention neither the fact of long-term relative prosperity for a sector of the working class nor its ideological impact. But one would have to search hard to find it in any document.

Most advocates of the theory that there is an "aristocracy of labor" in the United States that provides a meaningful base for the monopolies in their attacks against the working class, seem to base their arguments on an evaluation which sees U.S. imperialism buying off American workers with super-profits gained by exploiting workers in less advanced capitalist countries, particularly those newly emerging from colonialism. (To these are often added Negro workers and other minorities here at home.) In theory, these bribed workers are in turn used to stifle the struggles of the whole working class. It is often said or inferred that this "aristocracy" is permanent in character--that once bought, it stays bought.

Aristocracy of Labor -- A

As is to be expected, in a period where the U.S. has become the dominant imperialist power and when international conflicts with the socialist and third world were particularly acute, over the past 25 years there has been a substantial expansion of the labor aristocracy in this country. There are some signs that increasingly acute internal conflicts and a general growth in consciousness are reversing this trend at present.

There is an obvious reluctance in the Party to accept the concept of the labor aristocracy. This is particularly true in practical work, but it has extended into areas of policy and theory as well. There are a number of reasons for this reluctance. Implementation of a policy which took the labor aristocracy fully into account would entail a number of major changes in traditional comfortable methods of work. It would entail what Lenin described as "going deeper among the masses," and often that is rather painful. But more important, I think that the rejection of the labor aristocracy concept grows from a theoretical weakness in the Party -- from a outlook that amounts to economic determinism and to a grossly oversimplified picture of the role of consciousness in social development.

The usual pattern of argument of those who believe the concept to be no longer relevant is simple. They demand to know if any particular group of workers is a part of the labor aristocracy, and then they point to some militant struggles that this group is involved in or to the fact that this group is objectively forced to confront the power of monopoly capital.

Thus they progressively narrow the application of the concept until there is no content to it beyond the Meanys and Dubinskys and people who are virtually agents inside the trade union movement. So what is wrong with this argument?

First it should be noted that it is exactly the same argument that many new left people use to dismiss the working class completely. They just turn it upside down. They begin with the statement that most of the workers are not struggling -- that they are happy with their TVs and cars. Then they will look at each place where there is struggle and will point out that the demands are not revolutionary, that they usually relate to quantity of goods available. Thus they conclude that imperialism is able to buy off the entire working class (in their usual narrow sense of the scope of the class) with material concessions. Therefore, the entire class is put within the labor aristocracy.

It is possible to fit within the labor aristocracy and still be militant. The question is in what perspective the militancy is expressed. A registered ILWU man is likely to be much more militant about his wages and hours than about those of the permit man; an over-the-road teamster is not likely to be very militant about the situation of the Teamster cannery workers. Those in the favored strata have difficulty in being militant about general democratic or class demands and grievances - they are more likely to be concerned with narrow and selfish goals, not to be fully aware of the importance of class unity, unable to see the "emancipation of all mankind in the emancipation of the worker." More generally they are likely to see the possibility of resolving all of their grievances through an extended gradual process of piling small concessions and small victories on top of each other; they may see class antagonisms, but they have trouble seeing that they are irreconcilable.

But all of this must be used very carefully for one simple reason. A member of the favored strata of the class may be a class-conscious worker, may be a Communist. And these people may be able to convince fellow workers in the course of struggle that they should act in the interests of the class as a whole. It is just nonsense to hold that this is the general case already, but it certainly is true in some instances. However, even the class-conscious worker will find, if he is in the labor aristocracy, that he is subject to the pressures and processes that affect his fellow workers and he will have to be continually on guard against letting the difficulties of being a consistent revolutionary push him into concessions of principle to reformism.

There seems to be a tendency to believe that if one accepts the concept of the labor aristocracy that he must be prepared to explain everything about the working class in terms of this single concept - why people who should be reformist are revolutionary; and vice versa. But the aristocracy of labor is not the only factor affecting the class. The particular history, the form of organization, the ideology of the ruling class, the changes in the relations of production and in technology -- all are independent but related factors.

To conclude: If the labor aristocracy is understood as a means to a fuller understanding of the working class and not as a means for its condemnation, it is an invaluable aid.
